

WHOLESALE ARREST OF BLIND TIGERS.

MAYOR ISSUES WARRANTS IN 46 CASES.

Police Get Busy and Fill the Guard House—Mayor Holds Preliminary Trial.

There was something doing in Greenville last night and today, and "blind tigers" were given a jolt. Their lairs were raided, their dens searched and the array of bottles in the mayor's court made it look like a young dispensary. There were 60 bottles of different kinds on display.

For several days the officers of the town have been quietly pursuing a line to bring numerous alleged violators of the prohibition laws to account. As a result of their investigations and the evidence Mayor Wooten issued 46 warrants. These warrants were placed in the hands of the police officers Wednesday night and about 2 o'clock the visits to the tiger dens began, and there was not much more slumber for them the remainder of the night, except what they got while huddled together in the guard house where some 25 of them were rounded up.

At 10 o'clock this morning Mayor Wooten began the hearing of the cases, and his court was quite a busy place. The roll of defendants was as follows: White—R. W. Beaman, J. A. Hardee, John Griffin and E. M. McGowan. Colored—Noah Hardee, Jim Tucker, Robert Hodges, Sam Oby, Babe Brown, Ed Wooten, Alex. Bailey, Leon Patrick, Peter Johnson, Andrew Moe, Sam Joyner, Reid Johnson, Will Humphrey, Hattie Blow, Green Parker, Fred Moore, Oscar Hardee, Lillie Williams, Jack Daniel, Jim Cox, Stephen Whitley, Henry Lewis, Henry Sheppard, Mary Lewis.

Against some of the defendants there were as many as three warrants. Some of the defendants had counsel to appear for them. Of course the hearing before the mayor was only preliminary, he not having final jurisdiction on such offenses, and the defendants were bound over to Superior court in the sum of $100 in each case.

These cases were worked up mainly by the Raleigh Detective Agency, of which W. J. Roark is general manager. This agency has had three detectives here for several days, and through the assistance of the town officers they have done their work well.

The sentiment of the law-abiding people of the town is expressed in the call for a mass meeting to be held in the town hall Friday night. "It is the duty of every citizen who wants to see the law upheld to attend this meeting."

UNIVERSITY DESTROYED.

Loss Runs Up in Millions—Was Founded in 18th Century.

By Cable to The Reflector.
Toulouse, France, Oct. 27.—The famous University of Toulouse, founded in the 13th century, was swept by fire today. Two thousand students helped to fight the fire. The famous library of the university was the biggest and most comprehensive in the world. It was completely destroyed. Several other buildings were consumed with their contents. The actual loss in buildings is said to be $1,000,000 and the loss is said to be arts, books of medicine, etc., several times as great.

FIRE IN VICTORIA

British Columbia Capital Suffers Loss of $1,500,000.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Victoria, B. C. Oct. 27.—The whole business district of Victoria was threatened by fire early today, but after several hours of fighting the firemen succeeded in getting the flames under control. Some of the city's finest buildings are in ruins. The loss is $1,500,000.

GEORGE A. BELL—BIGAMIST.

His First Wife a Pitt County Lady of Bethel.

George A. Bell, who was locked in jail last evening about the time we went to press, thus preventing a full account in yesterday's paper, left his first wife, nee Miss Hester Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, of Bethel, Pitt county, while they were living in Smithfield, Va. He went from there to Suffolk, Va., where he got into some trouble and left for South Mills, N. C., where after a residence of some nine months he married Miss Mamie Keeter, changing his name to Walter Brown. This was in 1907 and finding that he was about to be discovered, since he continued to receive letters from his first wife, who, after Bell left her removed to Wilson, he deserted his second wife and returned to his first. He has a child by his second wife and also one by his first, to whom he has been married some 21 years, and with whom he resided at the time of his arrest.

Sheriff Lee of Camden county, is expected tomorrow to take Bell back home with him for trial.

For five years past Mr. W. M. Haynes, manager of the Haynes Detective Agency, of Tarboro has been on the track of Bell. He was accompanied here by Attorney W. I. Halstead of South Mills, Camden county, N. C., who had in his possession a picture of Bell himself and his second wife with their child in the group. When Mr. Halstead identified Bell the proper papers were prepared and he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff George Mumford, and locked up awaiting the coming of an officer from Camden county to take the prisoner back where the felony was committed.

Bell says he was never married but one time, and then to Miss Hester Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gardner, of Bethel in Pitt county.

Mr. Halstead swears that he knows Bell (who when he was married to Miss Mamie Keeter, near South Mills in 1907, gave as his name Walter R. Brown). Mr. Halstead said, when some one said that possibly it was a case of mistaken identity—"Gentlemen, I will put one hundred dollars in the hands of any one you may name; will pay all expenses of defendant and an officer if he is taken to South Mills and is not identified as the man who married and deserted the young lady in my county.—Wilson Times.

By Cable to The Reflector.
London, Oct. 27.—Another newspaper was fined today for publications about the Crippen case, which were offensive to the public officials. A fine of $1,000 was imposed on the Evening News for publishing the statement during the course of the trial that the quartermaster of the Steamer Montrose was in London consulting with Crown Prosecutor, Richard Muir, with a view of testifying. All editors of the paper were held in court until the fine was paid.

A Call for a Mass Meeting of the Citizens of Greenville

The time is at hand, in our opinion, when the people of Greenville should speak out in favor of the enforcement of law, and cleaner government. We hail with delight, the efforts the mayor and aldermen and policemen are making to stamp out all lawlessness and establish civic righteousness in our town. To this end we call a public meeting of citizens of Greenville to be held in the town hall, Friday, October 28, 1910, at 7:30 o'clock, p. m., and we earnestly appeal to all law-abiding citizens to meet with us to discuss the situation and take such action as may seem adequate and proper.

The only reason this list is not larger, was because of lack of time to see more of the citizens. This issue of The Reflector had to be held back awhile for several who kept coming in to insist on having their names to the call

TO FARMERS WIVES.

President Chas. Barrett, Sends In- teresting Communication.

One of the most interesting communications that has come recently from the office of President Charles S. Barrett, of the National Farmers' Union, is that just issued to the officers and members of the union, in which Mr. Barrett pays a beautiful tribute to the heroism of the wives of the farmers of the land. This communication, which Mr. Barrett has just issued to the union is as follows:

"To the Officers and Members of the Farmers Union:

"Now about that wife of yours. I wonder if you ever think what an indispensable influence she has been for your own welfare in this world, and for the general advancement of the country?"

I doubt it. A good wife we are too apt to take like the sunshine and the fertility of the fields—as a matter of course. Only when all three are missing, do we discover the genuine blessing.

The wife of the farmer it is who keeps hope and ambition kindled on the hearthstone, who never tires the bodies to the work of supporting the nation, who rears up the men and the women into whose hands the destinies of the nation are to be handed.

I sometimes think that it is only within recent years we have come to appreciate the monumental and historic sacrifice of these farm women. If you will indulge a slight personality, I cheerfully bear witness to the fact that whatever I have accomplished for the good of the brethren in this world is due to the selflessness, the industry and the courage of the woman who is my wife and the mother of my children.

I know that if ever my sons shall work well in the battle for the common good, and live as I would have them live—an example to all men—it is because of the untiring watchfulness and the almost incredible self-sacrifice of their mother.

I talk thus that you may look about you in your own homes and see what you can do to lighten the task of your own wife the mother of your children.

If all goes well with the farm, find out how much is due to her persistent toil and forgetfulness of her own comfort. If your children get ahead in life—consider her part in their success. If you have experienced the common lot of having passed through poverty and sickness and misfortune—consider how hopeless would have been the outlook had it not been for her sustaining courage and energy.

They call the farmer the hope and the support of America.

It is his wife that is the inspiration of the hope and the bedrock of the support.

Bear these facts in mind when you are inclined to be a little mean, a little stingy with the pocket money or a little vainglorious about your own accomplishments.

Not all the Carnegie medals coined between now and doomsday will reward the silent heroism of the farm woman who are humbly uplifting the agricultural life of the country today.

Don't Keep Waiting.

We hope those who received statements of what they owe The Reflector on subscription, and have not responded, are not waiting for a second statement to be sent them. They should be willing to save us the unnecessary trouble and expense of mailing statements a second time, as one was sufficient to let them know how much they owe and that the money is needed. Send it in promptly, friends, and do your part toward helping the paper to serve you well. It is a time of year now when all can pay smothering.

Wanted: More Men Like Him.

Until recently Robert C. Winters enjoyed a salary of $4,000 a year as assistant superintendent of the public buildings of Bronx borough. He found that there was very little work to do and he resigned, assigning as the reason that he could not conscientiously draw the salary when the service he rendered was too much for the small duty required. Here is his statement:

"A man who receives money in a public office and then does not return the full equivalent in work is a grafter, a parasite in the heart of the nation's government. He is obtaining money under false pretense as much as the man who forges his neighbor's name to a check. He is deliberately robbing his government and in doing so is taking money from the pockets of the tax payers who furnish funds for the government's maintenance."

Money is taken every day out of the pockets of tax payers to give salaries to many unnecessary officials, retained because they have a "pull," or for political activity. Mayor Gaynor dropped many from the pay-roll, and that was the cause of the attempt to take his life. Mr. Winters is the sort of man who so rare as to make his example worthy of being widely known and commended.—Raleigh News and Observer.

OFFICERS SHOULD HAVE SUPPORT OF THE PEOPLE.

The issuing of warrants for a large number of people who are charged with having violated the prohibition laws of the State by selling liquor, shows that the officers of Greenville are active in trying to stop these violations. It has for sometime been apparent to observing citizens that liquor was being sold here, and there has been some criticism of the officers for supposed dereliction of duty, but the issuing of these warrants brings out the fact that the officers were not negligent nor winking at the violations, but were proceeding to locate the violators and get evidence to convict them. Of course they had to proceed cautiously in doing this, for there was not only great difficulty in such an undertaking, but also a great danger of frustrating their movements if the public should know what they were doing.

A "blind tiger" is a sneak and hard to catch, for the man who engages in such violations would resort to perjury or almost any other crime to keep from being caught. The citizens of a community are less active than they should be in helping to bring such offenders to justice. They fear that it would mean less popularity or injury to business for any one man, or even a small number of men, to prominently lead in trying to rid a community of such evils. The same is true as to officers when they have to pursue such matters without the moral support of the people of the community, and their efforts to convict thwarted by indifferent citizens and jurors.

There is no question that the law abiding element of Greenville, those who want to see the laws obeyed, are largely in the majority, and it is not creditable that the few who are lawless should be allowed a free hand in setting our laws at naught. Now that the officers are moving to stop this lawlessness, the duty of every law abiding citizen is plain. Without exception they should give the officers their moral support and aid in every way possible to enforce the law. There is plenty of law if the law is enforced, but this cannot be done unless those who execute the laws have the support of the best people of the community. It matters not whose friend may be in the list of persons for whom warrants have been issued by the mayor, the enforcement of the law should be so strongly backed by the sentiment of the community that every offender, be he whom he may, should be punished in accordance with his offense.

their publishers during the entire week and many readers express this view. They are filled with a lot of so-called special news, which is junk pure and simple and which not two people out of a hundred read. It would be a blow at the paper trust if the publisher would reduce these Sunday specials from about 56 to half a dozen pages and besides the suffering public would be revealed. The space-killing features of these editions are not only lacking in public interest but have no proper place in a newspaper. All of which is the truth. There are sheet after sheet of stuff that will not even interest the servants, as anyone will find who will try it on them.—Charlotte Observer.

It seems to be the idea of some publishers to stress the size rather than the quality of their paper. The temptation to make a paper as large as somebody else is making is great, and in all such cases quality is sacrificed. The stuff mentioned above, as well as most of the pictures of various sizes that are used to pad out are not worth the paper they are printed on. The small paper that gives the news is far better than the large one with all these useless features.

Do not overlook the fact that Saturday, 29th, is the last day upon which voters can register for the November election.

In a recent appropriation of funds by the General Educational Board, Trinity College at Durham, received $150,000, and Meredith College at Raleigh $50,000.

Drones in a Community.

The building of a town is like conducting any other business—unless there is enthusiasm among the workers there is very little accomplished. And again it is important that this enthusiasm and interest extend through the entire force. One or two men who take the lead can do a great work if this interest is taken on by others. This is the secret of the growth of some towns. Everyone is interested and contributes his or her part, no matter how large or how small. There is no place in a live town for a drone. No matter what his financial condition, if a man is unwilling to give some of his time for the advancement of his community he is in the way rather than being a help. We have seen some men who laid claims to doing much for their towns from the fact that they gave employment to other people. Sometimes this is true, but there are men who work large numbers of people who are really a drawback to the community. Their interest is only a selfish one, and they do as much for the community possibly as the employee who receives from him his daily wages. He receives everything and lets out nothing. In other words he is living in a prosperous community, whose prosperity is no fault of his, simply to get out of it everything he can. It is amusing sometimes to observe the prosperity and self-importance of such men, when in reality there is no merit in them for the general good and when the final wind-up comes they could with truth be termed grafters. If there is any character in a community that deserves less respect and recognition than any other, it is that species of dead-beat, rich or poor, who wraps himself up in his selfishness and poses as a benefactor of his community, while others are allowed to exercise the public spirit necessary for the development of the town.—High Point Enterprise.

THE ANGLE OF REPOSE.

Depends Wholly on the Friction of the Materials in Contact.

The angle of repose is a well known term in the science of mechanics, but, besides being used in purely theoretical problems, it is taken into account by railroad and other engineers. Suppose that we take a brick and lay it on a board and then gradually raise one end of the board. There will be a certain angle reached in time where the brick will not remain at rest on the board, but will start to slide down.

This is termed the angle of repose of the brick on the board. It is at that point where the component of force due to gravity overcomes the resistance due to friction between the two surfaces. Therefore the angle depends entirely on the friction. Friction varies with the materials in contact. So the angle of repose of a brick on a pine board would be different than its angle of repose on an iron board, say.

Now for the application of this in ordinary life. When a railroad cut has to be made the sides have to be sufficiently slanting to keep the earth or clay from caving in. The same applies when a ditch is dug or when fortifications are built in time of war. The angle necessary for this is of course the angle of repose of the particular kind of material through which the cut is made as measured by itself on itself, as it contains millions of individual particles in contact. The angle in this instance is determined with utmost ease and simplicity. A pile of the material is put into an open cylinder, packed down slightly, and the cylinder is then removed. Of course the pile immediately slumps down into a mound with slanting sides, the angle of which is the one wanted. This angle is somewhat smaller than the one that would be taken by compact earth and therefore allows a good margin of safety.

There are tables got out for the engineer to refer to, but it is always wiser to make a trial for every particular condition of the soil, for there are hardly two cuts made through exactly the same kinds of material in exactly the same condition.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Bretons Coax the Tiny Fish With Salted Eggs of the Cod.

Sardine fishing forms the chief industry of Brittany. In an average season the Breton sardine fishermen catch 100,000,000 to 150,000,000 pounds of sardines, for which they receive anything from £300,000 to £600,000, while the shore industries dependent upon this fishery give employment to 20,000 other persons, mostly women and girls. So important is the sardine that in many communities in Brittany every person is directly or indirectly supported by it, and the failure of the fish to come means ruin, starvation and death to many people in the more isolated places.

Sardines are found on the coast of Brittany throughout the year, but flourish in greater abundance in summer and autumn. As many as 100,000 have been taken at one time in one net from one school. One remarkable feature of sardine fishing in Brittany is the enormous amount of bait which is used. The bait in general use is the salted eggs of the codfish, and it is estimated that the Breton fishermen pay £70,000 every year to Norway for cod roe for use as bait.

The casting of the bait, on the proper use of which a great deal of the success of the fishing depends, is always done by the captain of the boat, who stands on a little platform in the stern and while directing the movements of the boat and the manipulation of the net throws the bait to attract the fish to the surface and around the boat. When the fish are on one side of the net or on the other his next move is to cast the bait in such a way as to cause them to rush against the net and thus become gilled.—London Tit-Bits.

Deaf as an Adder.

The expression "deaf as an adder" is from the Psalms of David, where it appears in the following form: "Their poison is like the poison of serpents. They are like the deaf adder that stoppeth her ear, which will not hearken to the voice of charmers, charming ever so wisely." East Indian travelers tell us that there is a widely prevailing superstition in the east to the effect that both the viper and the asp stop their ears when the charmer is uttering his incantations or "playing his music by turning one ear to the ground and twisting the point of the tail into the other.

His Favorite.

"Which is your favorite Wagnerian opera?" asked the musician. "Lemme see," said Mr. Cumrox, appealing to his wife. "There are several that I never heard yet, aren't there?" "Yes." "Well, I reckon it's one of them."—Washington Star.

Poor Little Goose!

"Seems as if I can never find a decent quill in the house," growled the eighteenth century author. "I think it would pay you to keep a goose," sharply retorted his wife. "You mean one that would be of some help to me, don't you?" chortled the brute.—Detroit Free Press.

Vulgar Ostentation.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is vulgar ostentation? Pa—Vulgar ostentation, my son, is the display made by people who have more money to make it with than we have.—Chicago News.

ANCIENT LUXURIES.

Silver Lined Cooking Utensils Used Twenty Centuries Ago.

While the housewife of today may reasonably pride herself on the conveniences which her kitchen affords, she need not smile too superciliously at the thought of the makeshifts of days long gone by. She would certainly not do so were she to spend a little time inspecting the kitchen and other household utensils that were in use 2,000 years ago, as exhibited in the national museum at Naples. Successors lined with silver, pails richly inlaid with arabesques in silver and shovels handsomely carved figure among the household goods of those times.

An egg frame that would cook twenty eggs at once and pastry molds shaped like shells suggest luxuries of the kitchen of 2,000 years ago. Gridirons and frying pans, tart dishes and cheese graters were in use then as now.

The Roman lady's toilet table was well supplied. Ivory combs, bottles of perfume, pots of cosmetics, buttons, hairpins and even a hair net of gold wire figure in the museum.

Bronze thimbles and spindles are to be seen among the relics. The Roman lady even had her safety pin, for there is a specimen of this little convenience which, before the one in the Naples museum was found, was believed to be a strictly modern invention.

The Roman lady, however, apparently lacked one essential. She had no hairbrush. Neither had she a glass mirror. All the mirrors in the museum, with one exception, are of silver or some other white metal. The exception is a dark purple piece of glass let into the wall of a bedroom at the house Speechio in Pompeii.

In surgical instruments the ancient world was rich. Those found at Pompeii deprive modern science of the credit of more than one invention. Needles, probes and forceps resemble closely those in use at the present day.—Harper's Weekly.

THE CZAR'S LEAVINGS.

A Doubtful Honor That Was Rejected by a Polish Girl.

In Russia royalty is so revered that to the loyal subject it seems a great honor to follow the czar. The government is eminently patriarchal—in theory, at least—and the emperor must supervise as well as patronize the schools. At the Easter festival the pupils are treated with especial favor. Young girls of the upper classes of the Imperial Girls' school are driven in a long procession through the streets in the imperial carriages. The pleasure for them is only that of being allowed to take a drive in a stylish court carriage, with coachman and footman in the imperial livery. There is nothing special to be seen.

The theory of this is that the czar stands in a sort of higher parental relation to all these children. When he once a year visits one of these schools—to which only the children of the nobility are admitted—it is a custom that as a sign of his favor he drops his pocket handkerchief, and the girls all scramble for it, tearing it in pieces so that each one can get a fragment.

He takes the most brilliant girl to the table and tastes of the food of the institution. It is valued as the highest distinction when he gives one of the girls his plate with what is left upon it. It is the custom and usage for her to eat it with delight shown in all her features. Great was the astonishment of Alexander II. when a young girl, a Pole, whom the czar had taken to the table as being the most distinguished scholar of the institute and to whom he had passed what was left of his meat and potatoes, nodded to a servant and calmly gave him the czar's plate to take away.

An Unfair Attack.

Pietro was working with a gang at railroad construction. He had been told to beware of rattlesnakes, but assured that they would always give the warning rattle before striking.

One hot day he was eating his noon luncheon on a pine log when he saw a big rattler coiled a few feet in front of him. He eyed the serpent and began to lift his legs over the log. He had barely got them out of the way when the snake's fangs hit the bark beneath him.

"Son of a guna!" yelled Pietro. "Why you no ringa da bell?"—Everybody's.

Forgot Once in Awhile.

The health of the body as well as of the mind depends upon forgetting. To let the memory of a wrong of angry words, of petty meanness, linger and rankle in your memory will not only dissipate your mental energy, but it will react upon the body. The secretions will be diminished, digestion impaired, sleep disturbed and the general health suffer in consequence. Forgetting is a splendid mental calisthenic and a good medicine for the body.

First and Foremost.

"My wife has a great deal to say to me about her first husband." "Nonsense! Your wife was never married before." "I know it. That's what makes her reflections so painful."—Puck.

His Class.

"I say, my man, is that dog of yours a mongrel?" "No, sah; ain't no class to 'im. Jes' common dog, sah."—Baltimore American.

The great mass of people have eyes and ears, but not much more, especially little power of judgment, and even memory.—Schopenhauer.

Two Cheerful Liars. Two Americans were disputing as to which had experienced the greatest cold in winter. Said one: "In the part of Iceland where I was last summer the ground is frozen so hard all the year round that when they want to bury a man they just sharpen his feet and drive him in with a pile hammer." The other replied: "Yes, I know that place. Didn't stay there long—found it not quite bracing enough for me. Went on to a small town farther north. The hotel where I was staying caught fire. My room was on the top story. No fire escapes or ladders in that primitive settlement. Staircases burnt away. Luckily, kept my presence of mind. Emptied my bath out of the window and slid down the icicle."—Truth.

Funny Stories. "Ha, ha!" said the jovial man as he slapped an acquaintance on the back. "I'm glad to see you. I have one of the funniest stories on record, and you are just in time." "I don't care for it," was the caudal reply. "You see, there is often a pathetic side even to humor. I have just been out with my architect, and he showed me three of the funniest stories I ever saw. If I hadn't been paying for them I'd have laughed myself silly."

His Little Comeback. Miss Neverstop, seating herself between two much engrossed senators, exclaims, "A rose between two thorns." "Nay, madam," retorts one of the old gentlemen; "say, rather, a tongue sandwich."—Life.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Oct. 27.—Strength and activity prevailed in the stock market today. Many of the railroads and standard industrials quoted gains at the opening, running from fractions to points and in some instances more. The railroad group was exceptionally strong under the leadership of St. Paul, Reading, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. Steel was strong and active. American Smelting and Refining was the leading feature of the entire market.

New York, Oct. 27.—As a result of heavy buying by leading bull interests, with exception of October, the market opened from five to fifteen points higher on cotton this morning.
The market had advanced 22 points over yesterday's close in 20 minutes.
Opening: October 14.50; December
14.25; January 14.24; March 14.36.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Wheat opened steady, but declined 1-2c under general selling by commission houses.
Corn and oats were easier, provisions higher. Opening: Wheat, December, 93 3-8; corn 46 5-8; oats 31 1-8; pork
January, 17.00.

MALLEABLE RANGE EXHIBIT.

Store of Carr & Atkins an Interesting Place.

This week there is going on at the hardware store of Carr & Atkins an exhibit of the Malleable range, and many people are visiting the store to see the merits of this useful household article. Mr. C. C. Petef's, of South Bend, Ind., is here conducting the exhibition and giving interesting talks on the construction and merits of the Malleable range. Visitors are also served with a very delightful luncheon, the menu being as follows:
Tarbell Cheese Straws
Kingan's Morning Glory Breakfast
Strips
Mixed Spiced Pickles
Dunlop Beaten Biscuits
Strawberry Creamery Butter
Assorted Cake. Consumers Drip Coffee.
English Cup Tea.

At This Demonstration.

The breakfast bacon served is Kingan's "Morning Glory."
The lard used is Kingan's "Indiana"
Pure Lard.

The butter served is Kingan's
"Queen City," packed in one pound prints.

The cheese is Tarbells.

The flour is "Dunlop," of course.
Kingan's products cost the merchants more, but many merchants, since meat, butter, and provisions have been so high, try to substitute cheaper and inferior goods, charging you the same price they ask for Kingan's. If you want the best ask for Kingan's Pure Government inspected Meats, and see that you get them.

KINGAN & CO. pack Morgan & Gray Shoulders" and "F. F. V." Hams.
Kingan's main packing plant is located at Belfast, Ireland. So you see you get the Genuine English Cured Shoulders only when you buy Kin-an's "Morgan & Gray" English cured Shoulders. There are many imitations, but none other genuine. "F.
F. V." Country Hams are smoked in Richmond, Va., by Virginia people.
This ham cannot even be imitated by other meat packers. But some grocers try to sell inferior hams to you, claiming them to be as good as "F. F. V." Country Hams, knowing they are not. Do not let your grocer send you inferior meats because they cost him less, and charge you Kingan prices. If your grocer is honest he will tell you no meats sold on this market are as good as Kingan's.
ASK HIM.
