CITIZENS HOLD A MASS MEETING

Take a Decided Stand for Morality and Civic Righteousness

ACTION OF THE OFFICERS ENDORSED

Strong Speeches Made by Several Prominent Citizens—Resolutions Expressing Sentiment of People Adopted by Rising Vote—Prohibition Given Renewed Strength.

There was truly a representative gathering of citizens at the mass meeting in the town hall, Friday night, and it did credit to the town and the cause for which the meeting was held. All professions, trades and callings among our citizens were represented, and the assembly filled the hall. It showed that Greenville had become aroused on the question of civic righteousness, and that the law abiding people of the community had determined to put an end to the flagrant lawlessness that has prevailed here. The purpose of the meeting was to give moral support to and express approval of the steps taken by the officers of the town to stop the illegal sale of liquor, and this was done in no uncertain or unmistakable tones.

Mr. J. G. Moyer called the meeting to order, briefly stating its object, and moved that ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis be made chairman. Upon taking the chair Governor Jarvis made one of his characteristic strong speeches. Always having stood for morality and righteousness and devoting his life to help others, he declared that he wanted in the remaining short time he had to live to do all he could to save our boys and girls. A town is just what its citizens want it to be and he was glad to see the determination of those present in this meeting that Greenville shall take a higher stand in civic righteousness. The people of Pitt county voted by a thousand majority for prohibition and for several months after prohibition went into effect, it was rare to see a drunken person on the streets of Greenville. As time went on, through the advent of near-beer saloons and blind tigers this changed until drunken people were as numerous as in the days of bar-rooms. We are to blame for getting still and allowing this to go on, and he was glad the people had moved to change this condition.

Rev. J. H. Shore was the next speaker. He was glad to see that there are men in Greenville and not mere angle worms who go around calling themselves men. The danger in reformatory movements was in allowing sentiment to lag after it has been started, and he wanted to see this meeting develop a sentiment for righteousness that will be abiding. We must stand together solidly and see that evils are driven out. The offenders against prohibition laws are mainly negroes and a few white men who are using them for gain. We must get these white men and put them in stripes on the roads if they continue these violations. Close every near-beer saloon and you take a forward step in stopping the sale of liquor.

Mr. F. C. Harding spoke next and said he was glad to see every class of our citizens represented in this meeting, and glad that they were standing together. When a moral issue is at stake it is the duty of every man to stand by it. When it was known that the warrants had been issued for these blind tiger cases, he heard a man remark that "there was not a lawyer in Greenville but who, for a $5 fee, would take up their defense." He was proud to say that there are lawyers in Greenville who would not for any consideration defend such offenders. (Great applause) At the conclusion of his speech Mr. Harding introduced the resolutions which are published herewith.

Mr. E. A. Moyer, sr., seconded the resolution. He said he had always been on the side of temperance and morality, and wanted to see every man put his shoulder to the wheel and help to carry on the good work of driving lawlessness out of Greenville.

Mr. Albion Dunn said he wanted to add further testimony that there were lawyers in Greenville who would not defend a blind tiger. He never had and never would. He told a joke about a man who with a stick began beating a huge boa constrictor snake in a menagerie, when the owner interfered with the information that the snake cost $500, to which the man replied "I don't care if it cost $1,000, I kills a snake wherever I finds him." The application was to kill a blind tiger wherever you find it.

Mr. R. H. Wright said one of the most difficult things to him was to get up and talk to people. His position was one of great responsibility, a work to uplift society and better mankind. He was comparatively a new resident of Greenville yet he wanted the people to know they could count on him when they wanted men to take a stand on the side of right. He could tell of some conditions resulting from blind tigers that his hearers did not know. Only yesterday he learned that the young ladies of the Training school were afraid to go into the park. He walked through the park to see if any cause for their fear could be discovered, and found six empty whiskey bottles that had recently been left there. The young ladies are not afraid of blind tigers, but are afraid of the men who patronize them. Blind tigers could not exist unless they were patronized. The people should assert themselves and not let this work stop with the adoption of the resolutions. A great deal depends on what we want done and how much backbone we have to see it done. Evil radiates from a centre. White men are the centre of this blind tiger evil, and negroes are the radiators. Let us cut out the centre.

Mr. H. E. Austin said he also was a new comer to Greenville, but he wanted to show on which side he stood on questions of morality. One of the dearest recollections of his father was the positive stand the latter always took on civic righteousness, and his aim was to set the same high example before his own children.

In putting the resolutions in rising vote Governor Jarvis said he hoped any man present who did not favor it, would show it by keeping his seat, as a vote for it should mean an endorsement of both the letter and the spirit of the resolutions. When the large audience came to its feet as one man on the question, Mr. F. G. James arose and said that while it is known that he is counsel for several of the blind tiger defendants, he wanted to vote for the resolutions except where it related to their prosecution.

The Resolutions.

We, the citizens of Greenville, and sections of Pitt county, contiguous thereto, in public meeting assembled October 28, 1910, do resolve:

1. That a faithful execution of the law is the surest protection to life, liberty and property and the pursuit of happiness and so believing, we demand of those in authority a strict, faithful and impartial execution of all laws without evasion or distinction.

2. That we hail with pleasure every evidence of an acknowledged public conscience and we solemnly pledge ourselves to each other to do all in our power to build up and foster a healthy public sentiment which will make it easy for public officials to execute the law and which shall make it impossible for the blind tiger or any other emissary of evil to pursue their nefarious business in our midst.

3. That we heartily endorse and commend the mayor and other town officials for the work they are doing in ferriating out and bringing to trial the violators of law, and pledge them our active support and urge them to continue this good work, till the last violator of the law has been arrested and punished.

4. That we do especially endorse the action of the mayor and aldermen in employing detectives to hunt down these blind tigers. This method has proven effective and we fully endorse it and assure the detectives employed that they shall have our co-operation and protection while doing this work to rid this community of the terrible curse of the blind tiger.

5. That while it is true that every man charged with crime is entitled to a fair trial and to be defended by counsel, yet we demand that the guilty shall not be allowed to escape through technicalities of the law and the unseemly zeal of counsel when it goes beyond reason and proper limits.

6. That we respectfully suggest to the board of aldermen that they request the mayor to follow up the cases sent on by him, to the Superior court and give to the solicitor such information and render such assistance as he may have, and that he be authorized to employ special counsel if he shall deem it necessary.

7. That we further respectfully suggest to the board of aldermen to close up all the near-beer places as soon as they can legally do so. The close up all the near-beer places as a cover for the sale of real intoxicating beer.

8. And finally we pledge ourselves to keep up this fight till we have made Greenville clean and a dangerous place for the blind tiger.

Buenos Ayres, Argentine, Oct. 29.—A battle has been fought between government troops and revolutionists in Uruguay near the frontier, according to a report received in this city today. The revolution has assumed such alarming proportions that there is a likelihood that Brazil or Argentine may interfere. The government of Uruguay has taken vigorous steps to suppress the outbreak, but the revolutionists retreated into wild districts and the soldiers found it difficult to pursue. The revolution is said to have been started for political purposes, mainly to prevent the election of Batelli, candidate for presidency.

WHERE LAWYERS ARE WRONG.

It is significant that the resolutions adopted by the mass meeting Friday night, expressed a condemnation of the legal fraternity in overstepping the bounds of propriety in the defense of their clients. Of course every person indicted on any charge has a right to defense and a fair trial, but the trickery and underhand methods, taking advantage of technicalities to thwart the ends of justice, the abuse of witnesses and attempt to break down their character is reprehensible. The resolutions as will be seen from a careful reading, condemn such acts on the part of the legal fraternity, and we believe all right thinking people everywhere are in accord with this sentiment. Much of the miscarriage of justice in courts is due to such practice on the part of lawyers and we are glad that Greenville people have found the manhood to express their sentiment against it.

"Vice President Sherman urges election of Republican congress to aid Taft" is the heading the Charlotte Observer gives his speech in that city. Of course that is what the vice president wants to see, but the people do not feel that way about it.

The New Bern Sun says Col. Harry Skinner, of Greenville, made the most decent Republican speech of any delivered in that city. He confined himself to a discussion of issues, left out abuse, and took no stock in Marion Butler.

Greenville has sounded the keynote for civic righteousness. Now let the people stand by the resolutions adopted in the mass meeting Friday night, and lawlessness will have no place here.

The Democratic speakers in Pitt county between now and the election will give you some sound doctrine to think about. Turn out and hear them.

You can always count on the people of Greenville doing the right thing when they become aroused but the do not get aroused quite often enough.

The News and Observer, not to be outdone, has got up an aviation meeting for Raleigh. The "Old Reliable" must be careful not to soar too high.

Old man Jod Cannon is heard of but little now, but he may wake up and give trouble to his folks after the election.

By the time the election returns are in, Marion Butler will be wishing he had never heard of bonds.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

At the rate of progress made in the past week, it will not take long to rid Greenville of blind tigers.

Butler is still replying wherever he can get an audience but he cannot hide that New York advertisement.

Did you register? If not, the election is not for you.

To Kiss The Rod or Not.

In the opinion of The Asheville Gazette-News, "self-respecting Republicans are this year all but estopped from voting the Republican ticket." Further: "We do not believe there has ever been experienced in the South, a worse year for Republicans. In other years there was little to fight for, weighed down, as Republicans were by the certainty of defeat; but thousands of them were strong in their party faith, and were supported by a conscientious devotion to principle. This year in sections where Republicans may reasonably hope for success, they are borne down with the fear that success may only increase their present embarrassments and humiliations. The Republican president of the United States has never lost an opportunity to give them a kick down hill, and he is responsible for Northern animadversions upon the Southern wing of the party, calumnies of which the last Collier's Weekly may be cited as a case in point. President Taft's words have cast his party in this section under a cloud under which they must rest for years to come, while his actions have been worse. Republicans cannot vote the ticket without seeming to turn the other cheek to the man who has already slapped them in the fact." And our sorrowing contemporary concludes with the mournful truth: "In so far as Mr. Taft has been permitted to know North Carolina Republicans concur in this view respecting their disreputable character."

In their hearts, a large number of North Carolina Republicans undoubtedly sympathize with The Gazette-News' position. It is a pitiful exhibit that, doing so, hardly and have had enough courage to take issue with the patronage powers that be. We will become no judge of this matter, which every one concerned must decide for himself. But it may be helpful and conducive to a clearer understanding all around if the question is made nakedly plain. North Carolina Republicans who think that North Carolina Republicanism deserves what has been said, the three congressmen not denying (Chairman Morehead expressly and officially approving), must choose one of two courses on election day. If they approve, or else lack the will to resent what is deemed gross insult, they will vote accordingly. If otherwise, they will either vote mainly for Democratic candidates or refrain from voting. It is for them to decide.—Charlotte Observer.

ROAR OF BIG GUNS.

The Effect Upon the Nerves and the Sense of Hearing.
One of the penalties attendant on firing off big guns is deafness. So sure is this penalty to be exacted that, it is asserted, no man can go through a long series of gunnery practice without having his hearing affected. A stranger on deck who hears a big gun speak for the first time will not soon forget the stunning report.

One gun is enough to startle a stranger, but the shattering effect of the whole armament when in action together can hardly be conceived. The strain upon nerves and senses when the rending concussion takes place is terrible.

There is not a great difference between the effect of the big guns and that of the smaller pieces, strange as it may seem. If the visitor places himself beside one of the smaller guns and then listens to the roar of the big one, the sound will not appear much louder than that of the gun by his side. The extra distance to the muzzle of the big piece discounts the sound. The only apparent difference between the two will be that the smaller piece has a sharper, higher pitched tone, and that the big guns speak with a more hollowing roar.

If one watches the firing of the gun the crash has not such a startling effect as when it comes unexpectedly. Loud as it is, nature has prepared the watcher to resist the shock which he knows is impending.—Exchange.

ROMAN ARENAS.

They Were Not Mere Rings as Those of the Modern Circus.

The arenas of ancient Rome were not, as some people suppose, mere rings or ovals, such as may be seen in the modern circus. They were broken up and varied in character according to the nature of the fighting to be done or to the caprices of those in authority.

On one occasion an arena might resemble the Numidian desert, on another the garden of Hesperides, thick set with groves of trees and rising mounds, while again it pictured the great rocks and caves of Thrace.

With these surroundings the combatants advanced, retreated, encircled their adversaries or kept wild beasts at bay as occasion offered or as their courage or fear suggested. Men combated not only with the more common brutes, but with such monsters as elephants, rhinoceroses, hippopotamuses and crocodiles.

On other occasions flocks of game, such as deer and war ostriches, were abandoned to the multitude, and in some cases the arenas could be turned into lakes, filled with monsters of the deep, and upon the surface of which naval engagements took place.—London Saturday Review.

Deserted Their Towns.

So late as the end of the seventeenth century the inhabitants of Ceylon were in the habit of deserting their towns. Their customs are described in the narrative of Captain Robert Knox, who for nineteen years, from 1680 to 1679, was a captive among them. He speaks of several towns as lying desolate owing to the fact that their inhabitants had forsaken them. This they did if many of them fell sick, and two or three died soon after one another, thinking that it was a visitation of the evil one. Some of them came back when they thought the evil spirits had departed.

A MAGIC CLUB.

Curious Decoy Used by the Native Fishermen of Hawaii.

"Lau melomelo" is the name of a decoy used by the native fishermen of Hawaii. It is made of the hardest wood to be found on the islands and is carved and rubbed till it assumes the shape of a club with a little knob at the smaller end, to which the line is tied.

The club is from one to three feet long. A village sorcerer performs certain rites over it over a sacred fire. After this is done the club is magic, and the fisherman must be extremely careful of it. If a woman should step over it or enter a canoe in which it lies the club would lose all its power and would be useless ever afterward.

After the club has been charmed the fisherman mixes candlenut and coconut meat, bakes it and ties the mixture in a wrapper of cocoanut fiber.

At the fishing grounds the club is covered with the oily juice of the stuff and is then lowered carefully to the bottom. The scent of the baked nut meat attracts certain kinds of fish, which soon gather and begin to nibble at the club. As soon as enough fish are around the decoy a small bag shaped net is lowered very gently until its mouth is just over the club. The latter is then pulled up carefully and cunningly till it is within the bag. The fish are so eager for the stuff with which the club is covered that they follow it into the net without fear.

As soon as all the fish are in it a fisherman dives and closes the mouth of the net, whereupon the rest haul it up quickly.

THE MIDDLE AGED MAN.

Finding Happiness in a Life That to Youth is Irksome.

"Younger people," said the middle aged man, "want variety. They want to be always on the go. Routine galls them. They hate to have to do the same thing over and over and over again day after day.

"They want to go somewhere or do something different all the time. Older people are happiest in a life of routine, most disturbed when variety is thrust upon them.

"For myself I welcome my daily task, endlessly repeated and always the same. I should be lost without it; disturbed if it were changed. A life of habit suits me best. I like the old scenes—familiar friendly surroundings. I don't want to change.

"Nor do I want much outside pleasure. In fact, I think I should be best suited with none. I like my groove. It fits me, and I fit it. I don't want change. I just want to be left alone to work in my accustomed ways. It is in my groove that I am most comfortable. I like a life of labor and routine.

"And could there come to one a greater blessing? Nature and the customs of men enforce routine upon us whether we like it or not. In youth this irks us, but in our maturer years in a life of routine, in the undisturbed enjoyment of familiar labor, we may find our greatest happiness."—New York Sun.

Gratitude.

The One to Pay.

When she was Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. George Cornwallis-West consented to electioneer for Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett in his first parliamentary campaign. Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett was married to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts, a very rich woman, who was nearly forty years his senior. Lady Randolph, with her beauty and charms, did splendid work for the candidate.

To a group of farmers she said one day:

"Won't you promise me to vote for Mr. Ashmead-Bartlett?"

"My lady," said a red faced farmer, with a chuckle, "we'll all vote for him if every vote 'll be paid for with a kiss."

"Thank you very much," said Lady Randolph. "Your offer is accepted. I'll send for the Baroness Burdett-Coutts at once."

Not All For Love.

Little Florrie—Oh, aunty, dear, don't you get please. Aunt—But I must, darling. I should like to stay longer, and it is sweet of you to love your aunty so. Florrie—Oh, please, aunty, don't go yet. Mamma said she'd whip me as soon as you went.

More Than Political Principle.

But they are counting on what they term the "disgruntled element" of Democracy to "bridge the gap" between the two parties. And we naturally wonder if a man who claims to be a Democrat will aid in bringing that about.

We believe that Democracy is something more than political belief.
It is the soul of the people; it was born of a spirit which emanated from patriotic sons, and today, as it has always done, stands for "government by the people" in the fullest sense of the word. It is a living principle, not subsisting on dead theories, but even proclaiming the people's cause. To be a Democrat one must feel imbued with the true principles of Democracy, must forget self and be actuated by motives which look toward the advancement of the country's interests and those of its people.

It is, therefore, the duty of every son of Democratic ancestors to feel within himself that Democracy is as much a part of himself as his religious belief. He should by the course of his daily life and by his adherence to those truths which his forefathers laid down, show that he is indeed what he professes to be—a Democrat in every sense of the word. As previously intimated, Democracy is of the people. It has no frills or furbelows, it is not clothed in silk or satin. It is the inheritance of the great common people who are the pulse and life of the nation. It has flourished in spite of slander and vituperation; it has survived the onslaughts of combined capitalists who turned loose the streams of gold that the waters of Democracy might be polluted.
Democracy has survived and rises superior to international strife, dissensions, and today the party stands before the country in the word and deed
"the party of the people."—Asheville

THE WHITE WASH.

Its Presence on the Hudson Bay Company's Boat Explained.

It is or was a rule of the Hudson Bay company that no woman be allowed passage on its boats. One day some years ago as a steamer of the company neared one of the northernmost ports a string of white garments was seen stretched across the deck.
The watchers were amazed, for to them the wash line suggested only the presence of a woman aboard the boat.

Comment was freely made of the scandal that would ensue and the shakeup that would follow. When the boat docked the line of washing had disappeared—still another proof of the scandal.

Later one of the landmen said to the captain:

"Why, how did it happen that you carried a woman passenger this trip?"

"There was never a woman along the whole voyage," was the indignant answer. "What do you mean?"

"If there was no woman aboard where did all that white wash come from?" was the triumphant reply.

The captain looked puzzled for a moment, and then he laughed.

"Oh," he said, "and didn't we have Lord Strathcona, the governor himself, along with us on this trip? And every day doesn't he insist on having his clean white shirt, no matter how far north we are? That's the white wash you saw strung along deck. And, what's more, doesn't his lordship insist upon having his London paper laid beside his plate every morning, no matter if it is a year old?"—Pearson's.

A MASTER OF METAPHOR.

It Must Have Relieved Him to Get This Out of His System.

A water consumer in a certain city, whose supply had been turned off because he wouldn't pay, wrote to the department as follows:

"In the matter of shutting off the water on unpaid bills your company is fast becoming a regular crystallized Russian bureaucracy, running in a groove and deaf to the appeals of reform. There is no use of your trying to impugn the verity of this indictment by shaking your official heads in the teeth of your own deeds.

"If you will persist in this kind of thing a widespread conflagration of the populace will be so imminent that it will require only a spark to let loose the dogs of war in our midst. Will you persist in hurling the cornerstone of our personal liberty to your wolfish hounds of collectors thirsting for its blood? If you persist the first thing you know you will have the chariot of a justly indignant revolution rolling along in our midst and gnashing its teeth as it rolls.

"If your rascally collectors are permitted to continue coming to our doors with unblushing footsteps, with cloaks of hypocritical compunction in their mouths, and compel payment from your patrons this policy will result in cutting the wool off the sheep that lays the golden egg until you have pumped it dry, and then farewell, a long farewell, to our vaunted prosperity."—Everybody's.

at the end of the chief meal. Bananas are an exception and may be eaten with any meal. They are very acceptable cut in thin slices and eaten with bread and butter. Stewed fruits often have their virtues wasted through being eaten at the wrong time.
Six or eight stewed prunes half an hour before breakfast are beneficial; so are stewed figs or stewed apples eaten before breakfast. Peeled oranges cut into thin slices so that the juice is set free, with sugar strewn over the slices, are not unlike pineapple and form a highly efficacious aid to digestion. Grapes should never be eaten except after the chief meal of the day. Taken when the stomach is comparatively empty, they are a specially harmful fruit.—Family Doctor.

Ruler of Russia's Title.

The general allusion to the ruler of Russia as the czar is, strictly speaking, incorrect. His official title is "emperor and autocrat." Czar is the old Russian word for lord or prince and was abandoned by Peter the Great on his triumphal return from Poltava, his crowning victory over Charles XII. of Sweden. Since then the Russian monarch has been officially entitled emperor, and at the congress of Vienna in 1815 his right to the imperial term was admitted by the powers, with the proviso that, though he was emperor, he had no precedence over the kings of western Europe.—St. James' Gazette.

The Modern Idea.

Roman Guide (impressively) — The ruins of the Coliseum! Seattle Man (astonished)—Well, what do you think of that? Why, I saw photographs of that heap twenty years ago. Roman Guide (jottily)—Quite likely, sir. Seattle Man—But why in thunder aren't those ruins cleared away and a modern Coliseum erected?—New Orleans Picayune.

Unless.

Townsend—Can a man live on $1 a day? Beers—Certainly, unless he's so profligate as to lay something aside for a rainy day, keep up his insurance, eat when he's hungry, buy clothes and pay his bills.—Chicago News.

Flight.

"Would you take $10,000 to fly from Albany to New York?"
"Why not? Our cashier took only $1,000 to fly to Europe."

THE NEW TRAVELING APRON.

For Use on Sleeping Cars and has Pockets for Toilet Articles.

A votive offering that will appeal very strongly to the woman who goes South in the winter and abroad in the spring, is the new traveling apron has recently been invented to fill a long-felt want.

It is a perfectly plain apron almost covered with pockets for toilet articles of all kinds. It is really a very sane, sensible idea, for it rolls up neatly, and you can carry it with you to the dressing room. Instead of taking a clumsy hand bag or dressing case. It has the additional advantage that when you put it on it protects the front of your skirt from water and soap-suds, and gives you a safe place for all your toilet articles, so that you don't have to lay them down promiscuously on the common dressing table.

The apron can be made out of flowered cretonne or linen or a rubberized material. In using the linen or cretonne the pockets for the soap, sponge, etc., ought to be lined with some sort of rubber sheeting so that the damp will not strike through and injure other things in one's traveling bag.—The Delinicator.

When Shall We Live at Home.

Since Col. Henry Clay Dockery quit politics and went into the newspaper business he has become an optimist and a prophet. A few weeks ago he had a vision concerning his native county of Richmond, which the Charlotte Observer declares is no dream, but is likely to be looked back upon in the years to come as a most conservative piece of prophecy. "To begin with," says the record of this vision, "we are going to have a county plum full of good farms and farmers." Crops will be varied and we will largely live at home. Richmond county corn, hay and meat, will supply the local demand at least. Country life will be in every sense attractive. Roads—sure enough good roads—the kind you read about—the kind you need—the kind that makes life and living "a long sweet dream," will be scattered throughout the county permeating every section and the farmer can reach his market in a few jerks of a sheep's tail and very few.
A telephone will be in every home.
All modern comforts will prevail.
The country church and schoolhouse will take on new life, for education and religion must go hand in hand with business, otherwise disaster is sure to come. The county will have two great highways running through it—one the Capitol-to-Capitol highway, the other the Wilmington-to-Charlotte highway. It will be full of people all the time, and Rockingham hotels will find it hard to hold the folks a-coming and a-going." Col. Dockery's vision of the future of Richmond county is not an impossible dream. The idea, which he pictures for the people of his own county should be the ideal of the people of Lee county and if every other community. We have a good way to go along the road of progress before we shall have reached such a condition, but if we follow the vision cited there will come about a practical transformation in this section of North Carolina that will make of our farms veritable garden spots and multiply our industries and prosperity a thousand fold.—Sanford Express.

Party of the Old—Party of the Young

Those who have grown gray in the battlement of Democracy, ex-Governor Jarvis, the Hon. Cyrus B. Watson and others, are calling upon the young men of North Carolina to stand by the Democratic party. These older heads have years of experience behind them upon which to base their advice. Their minds are rich with knowledge and their judgment eye keen. They have been through trials and tribulations, and have faced different conditions.
They know, and when they go forth to advise the young man, their advice should count for much. The young men, too, are heeding this advice, judging by reports from different parts of the State. Up in some of the western towns of North Carolina the young men are most active for Democracy. They have organized clubs and have taken up the flag and are carrying it to the front. The other night in Salisbury, State Senator Whitehead Klutz, himself a young man, addressed a big meeting and told his companions "great truths, but nothing that was more logical and vivid, perhaps, and that must have gone deeper into the mind than this:
"Every chapter of North Carolina history, written with a pen dipped in darkness, shame and dishonor, was written by Republican hands. Turn the bright pages of your history and find there the names of Vance, Jarvis Fowle, Aycock, Glenn and Kitchin.—

Invitation to Ladies.

The Philathea class at the Memorial Baptist church is interesting every Sunday morning, but the exercises were unusually attractive last Sunday. A former pastor of the church Rev. J. E. Ayscue, was with us and conducted the opening exercises, following these with an exceedingly encouraging talk to the large number present. The class numbers about seventy ladies. Miss Lizzinia Moore is president, she possesses special talent for such work and in her work she is largely supported by her committee and the entire class. The ladies of the church and congregation who do not attend are missing much that would be helpful in building up their Christian character and life. Come out tomorrow and help us in the work that this class is undertaking to do.

Higher Ambition.

There is a leftier ambition than merely to stand high in the world. It is to stoop down and lift mankind a little higher. There is a nobler character than that which is merely incorruptible. It is the character which acts as antidote and preventive of "corruption." Fearlessly to speak the words which bear witness to righteousness and truth and purity; patiently to do the deeds which strong-then virtue and kindle hope in your fellow men; generously to lend a hand to those who are trying to climb upward; faithfully to give your support and your personal help to the efforts which are making to elevate and purify the social life of the world —and that is what it means to have salf in your character.—Henry D.
Van Dyke.
