Mother and Child Meet Death Together in Fire Near Salisbury—Norfolk Southern Loses New Bern Freight Station—Engineer Caught Under Engine at Spencer—Two Children Near Winston-Salem.

Salisbury, October 29th.—A horrible, piteous and heart-rending scene met the eyes of Mr. Henry Morris, a well-to-do young farmer of the Harris Chapel neighborhood five miles south of Salisbury, at 10 o'clock this morning, when he was hurriedly summoned from the field a quarter of a mile away, where he had been drilling wheat, by a negro boy whom he had sent to the house on an errand. When the boy went into Mrs. Morris's room he found her ten-months-old baby lying in the fire burning and its mother lying across the bed with her clothing burning from her body. The boy hurried to the field to notify Mr. Morris and when they reached the scene Mrs. Morris had managed to get up and draw her child from the flames and pull it out on the floor, and had again fallen across the bed, presumably in an effort to smother the flames which enveloped her. Every piece of clothing had been burned from her body and she was unconscious, in which condition she remained until her death at 4 o'clock this morning. The child was dead when found, its head being badly burned, one arm burned off at the shoulder and the other at the elbow, and the body badly burned. Had not the affair been discovered so soon as it was, the house would have been burned also. Mrs. Morris had been subject to fainting spells from childhood, and it is thought she had one of these attacks while sitting in front of the fireplace with her only child in her arms.

New Bern, Oct. 29.—One of the most disastrous fires of the present year occurred in this city tonight, when the Norfolk Southern freight depot, which was located in the southern part of the city, was destroyed by a conflagration of an unknown origin. Shortly after 6 o'clock this evening fire was discovered in the upper story of the large building and the alarm was at once sent in, but before the fire company had arrived the whole top of the building was in a light blaze and it was seen that it would be impossible to save it. The building was built entirely of wood, and filled as it was, with various kinds of inflammable freight, such as cotton, oil, benzine, powder, etc., it was only a few minutes before the flames had spread to the first floor. Several box cars that were standing on a siding near the structure became ignited and before an engine could be secured several of these were partly consumed. The eastbound passenger train attempted to cross over Trent river bridge, but it was thought best not to attempt this and the train was delayed more than an hour. The loss to the building, including the freight and other articles destroyed, will aggregate $125,000.

Spencer, N. C., October 29.—Engineer A. R. Harrison, of Spencer, was badly injured this afternoon at Linwood, ten miles north of Spencer, when a north bound freight train was wrecked. The locomotive in charge of Mr. Harrison turned turtle and he was caught before he could jump. He was taken on a special train to a hospital in Salisbury for treatment and it is thought will soon recover. The other members of the train crew escaped. The cause of the derailment has not been determined tonight.

Winston-Salem, Oct. 29.—As a result of peculiar accidents, two children were killed in the county yesterday. Viola, the four-year-old daughter of Mr. J. H. Averhart, a farmer living near New-Vernon, had her skull crushed by getting her head caught between a wagon hub and her father's barn. Mr. Averhart did not see his child when he drove up to the barn.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON IN WASHINGTON, N. C.

Greenville Colored People Will Take Part in Meeting.

On Wednesday night, November 2nd, at 8 o'clock, at Washington, N. C., all classes of citizens will greet the foremost negro of the world, Dr. Booker T. Washington, the originator of "Industrialism" in American schools.

The conservative negroes have always followed this man and rejoice to know that the Washington idea is in the ascendancy.

It is the desire of the touring party to meet both races. South Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee vied with each other in paying respect to this noted educator.

North Carolina has always been classed as the most conservative state in the south, as to race relations, and will not fall behind any southern state in giving encouragement to its negro citizens.

The thoughtful and industrious colored citizens are encouraged to learn that the mayor of Greenville and the foremost citizen of North Carolina, ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis—will send greetings to Washington. A delegation of colored citizens will join the Washington party, on Wednesday night, as well as the faculty of the industrial graded school, of which C. M. Eppes is principal.

Dr. Washington has proven his worth, as well as his ability to help this Southern country that he loves.

He will be welcomed by the mayor of Washington and introduced by Rev. Nathaniel Harding, rector of the Episcopal church.

His address will be delivered in Brown's opera house. Special arrangements for white friends of negro uplift.

Two Men Drowned.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Chicago, Oct. 31.—Two men were drowned and a third narrowly escaped death early today, following a fight on the river docks. The men, locked in each others arms and fighting fiercely, rolled off the docks into the river. One was rescued and the other two drowned.

THREE VISITING MINISTERS OCCUPY GREENVILLE PULPITS

All the Churches Had Interesting Services Sunday.

On Sunday the pulpits of all the churches in Greenville were occupied by visiting ministers or new pastors, and the interest of the people of the town was shown by the large attendance at all the churches. And it can be truly said that in all there were excellent sermons, and the worshippers at each church were more than repaid for attendance.

At the Baptist church Rev. J. R. Edwards, of Sanford, was the preacher. Mr. Edwards has relatives here and remains over a few days, being the guest of Mr. W. M. Moore.

At the Christian church the new pastor, Rev. Charles Ware, preached, this being the second Sunday he has served this congregation.

At the Methodist church Rev. J. S. Hutton, of Richmond, preached.

The Presbyterian church had Rev. J. Mann, of Wadesboro. He had been attending the Presbytery at Rocky Mount and came by here to preach for this congregation.

gathering his crop of Irish potatoes, threw one about twenty steps, intending for it to go in a basket, but it struck his four-year-old boy over the heart. The lad began crying, dropped to the ground and died before a physician could be summoned.

Mr. R. J. Wentz, of Vance township gathered 1,700 pounds of seed cotton from an acre, the first picking and he says that he thinks just about one-third of the cotton was open. Mr. Wentz is making efforts to make four bales of cotton on an acre and one of these years, if he lives and seasons are good, he will succeed. He is experimenting this year with Cook's Prolific, Simpkins and Wentz Big Boll varieties and will later give to the public the amount of cotton grown per acre from seed of the different varieties.—Monroe Enquirer.

ANOTHER STRIKE IN NEW YORK CITY

EXPRESSMEN AND TEAMSTERS' UNION ON WAR PATH

LOSSES ESTIMATED AT $500,000 NOW

Express Business Completely Tied Up in New York, Jersey City and Hoboken—Several Companies Involved—Labor Leaders Trying to Make Strike National in Scope—150,000 Men Will Be Out of Work.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Oct. 31.—With the express business completely tied up in New York, Jersey City and Hoboken, the loss to the various companies involved is estimated at $500,000 already, and increasing by thousands of dollars daily. The action was begun by labor leaders to make the conflict national in scope and call out more than 150,000 men. The Teamster's union will co-operate with express company drivers. Police reserves were stationed about express company offices to prevent renewal of violence. All Brooklyn drivers were ordered out today. Vice President Hoffman, of the Teamster's union, said 150,000 men would be out by the end of the week if demands are not granted.

New York, Oct. 31.—Wild rioting throughout the city followed desperate efforts of express companies, which have been crippled by the strike of drivers and helpers, to deliver goods. Seven thousand police are on strike duty and they were kept checking frequent outbreaks. Many persons were injured and shots were fired in sharp conflicts. Mobs attacked express wagons in all parts of the city.

SEVENTEEN SEAMEN RESCUED.

Taken Off a Sinking Boat at Sea in Hurricane.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Baltimore, Oct. 31.—Seventeen seamen of a shipwrecked crew were brought to Baltimore this morning on a fruit steamer from Jamaica. The seamen were rescued during the hurricane last Sunday week, from the Norwegian bark, Mastona, which was abandoned in a sinking condition. The sinking ship had lost its life boats and had about abandoned hope when rescued.

AUTOIST CHARGED MURDER.

Placed on Trial for His Life in New York Court.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Oct. 31.—Edward Roseheimer, a millionaire, was placed on trial today on indictment for murder in the first degree, charging that he was responsible for the automobile accident in which Grace Hugh, 21 years old, was run down and killed last summer.

Low and High Tariff.

High prices limit the ability of people to buy what they need. Lack of means to pay the price makes few customers. Few customers make trade dull. Dull trade makes business drag. High protective tariffs enable trusts to increase prices and the result is fictitious values. Increased prices with no increase in wages make poor people poorer. When a man buys less with his earnings than he could a few years ago the purchasing power of his dollar has been decreased. A reduction of the purchasing power of men's wages or salaries is equivalent to reducing the real value of the amount paid him for his services. The man who votes for a high tariff and high prices votes to cut down the purchasing power of his earnings. He does that for the benefit of favored classes rolling in wealth, while himself and his own family must suffer from the consequence of not being able to get very much for the money they spend. The man who gets the real benefit of protection would be a fool or overly conscientious not to vote for the tariff that enriches him, but the mere consumer who votes for a tariff that impoverishes himself ought to be locked up by his wife and kept home on election day for the good of the family.—Wilmington Star.

EIGHT CHRISTIANS KILLED IN SOUTH BOLTON BY NATIVES

1 American, 2 Chinese Slaughtered in Outbreak Against Foreigners.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Oct. 31.—Eight Christians, one an American, and two Chinese were killed in a native outbreak against foreigners on the west coast of Gulf Danvoo, South Bolton, according to cable dispatches received today at the war department from Maj. Gen'l Duval, commanding the military forces in the Philippines. General Pershing is operating against the rebels. Duval does not believe the situation is serious.

Christmas Present Means Something.

There is one especially good thing about a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion. It shows that the giver thought enough of you to give you something worth while.

It is easy to choose something costing a great deal more which is absolutely useless, but to choose a present costing only $1.75 that will provide a long year's entertainment, and the uplifting companionship of the wise and great, is another matter. There is only one present, however, which does just that—The Youth's Companion.

If you want to know whether it is appropriate or welcome, just visit the home of some Companion subscriber on Companion day.

Do not choose any Christmas present until you have examined The Companion. We will send you free sample copies and the beautiful prospectus for 1911, telling something of how The Companion has recently been enlarged and improved.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free all the numbers of 1910 issued after the money is received; also The Companion's art calendar for 1911, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. These will be sent to reach the subscriber Christmas morning, if desired.

You, too, as giver of the subscription will receive a copy of the calendar.

UP TO DATE COLORS FOR EVENING GOWNS

Vivid Shades of Blue, Red, Yellow and Greens Are in Favor.

This season the evening gowns will be richer, deeper, more brilliant than they have been. The pale, washed-out pastel shades will be pushed aside by the stronger colors—glorious shades of red from vivid carmine to the deepest crimson of the Jacquemot rose, the wonderful new violet called eveque, because it is like the purple of a bishop's vestments, the vivid parrot shades of blue and green and yellow. And against the depth and intensity of the new colors, like the raised figures on a bit of damask, the gold brocades, silver tissues and metal gauzes will stand out in splendid relief.

The fashion is still in its infancy, and it is too early to say which color or colors will hold the place of preeminent importance, but it is evident already the combination of black and white will be immensely popular, and that the new shade of roses will have many flowers of its own. Blue promises well as an evening color, not in its lighter shades, but in the deeper ones that begin with the peculiar greenish blue of the turquoise matrix, run through the medium shades of Orleans, drake's neck and canard, and end in the dark in blues that are blend with black in the changeable velvets, satins and chiffons.

Pekinese stripes will be heard from before the winter is over, for they will be used quite extensively, and they can not appear without creating comment. Yellows are excellent especially in the bright shades of citron and canary, but only for the women who can wear them—a rather malicious proviso for the number is small.—Delineator.

The Democrats had a big day at Bethel Saturday with a large attendance from all the surrounding section. The county candidates were there and made brief speeches. Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis spoke for about half an hour in his usual forceful and logical style and closed by introducing Hon. Locke Craig, of Asheville. Mr. Craig spoke for about two hours and captivated his hearers into frequent bursts of applause. His presentation of national and state issues were so strong and clear as to be simply unanswerable. After his fine speech Bethel is going to send up a larger Democratic majority at the election than ever before.

Arrangements are well under way for the reception to be given by Carolina Club in the club rooms next Friday night, November 4th, and it is going to be an occasion of much interest. In addition to the reception, there will be a program of excellent music, both vocal and instrumental. When it is stated that this music is to be rendered by Mrs. Cherry, Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Parham, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Harvey and Misses Gaston, Muffy, Bishop, Forbes, Smith, there is every assurance of a musical feast for all whose good fortune it is to be present at the reception.

Not Afraid of the Locusts.

"The scientists are predicting," says The Charlotte Chronicle, "that two great armies of the 17-year locusts will visit this country next spring and the Audubon Society is taking advantage of this prediction to get in a word for the protection of the insect-eating birds. According to the scientists, the locusts are now preparing to burst forth in countless multitudes over the fields of both North and South. Apple, peach and pear orchards and vineyards, will feel their destructive power, the government authorities admit, unless an abundant force of the wild birds is preserved to lead the fight." The scientists are useful folks and know a lot, but it is just as well not to get excited about the coming of the 17-year locusts. They may appear in spots and may do some damage, but that they will cover the country as with a blanket and destroy everything in their path, as might be inferred from the statement, is not to be expected. The coming of swarms of 17-year locusts has been predicted more than once in the past 25 years and but one swarm of consequence has visited this part of the country. In 30 years and they did no harm. It is a good idea, however, to protect the birds for their usefulness in destroying insects generally.—Statesville Landmark.

BE CAREFUL WITH CRITICISM.

Some people are very ready to criticise lawlessness, and can be heard to say this man or that man sells liquor, yet if these same people are asked to make complaint against those they charge with violating the law or to go in court and testify against them, profess to know nothing about it. People who make such charges either do so without knowledge of what they are talking about, or they perjure themselves when asked to testify and decline to do so. For this reason they should be careful how they talk and make criticism. The synopsis of the State law which Mayor Wooten recently asked The Reflector to copy for information, reaches just this class of people, and gives the mayor or any justice of the peace or judge authority to summons them before court where they must either tell what they know or commit perjury. No man should be making statements against another unless he knows what he is talking about and is willing to back up his statements in court or elsewhere. If a man has positive knowledge that the law is being violated it is his duty as a law-abiding citizen to say so, but he should not be making charges at random without any foundation for what he is saying.

The Wilmington Dispatch deposes and says:

"For being the prince of polliers, for being the gallant gent, who can bring blushes in profusion to the cheeks, that fellow Whichard, of the Greenville Reflector, is it. Behold ye this citation and comment from his 'cooling' pen, while we hide our physiognomy."

And then he copies something that our readers have already seen.

There is not a county in North Carolina where Republican candidates have less to make a campaign on than in Pitt. Here the Democratic administration has been so clean, and the candidates are men of such high character, that not a word can be said against either, hence the Republicans have nothing to talk about.

This is the last week of the campaign and Democrats should put their best work between now and the election next Tuesday. The ticket in Pitt county is all going to be elected, but the effort should be to make the majority as large as possible.

Registration is all over. Now it is up to every Democrat whose name is on the book to do his full duty next Tuesday.

State Against Butler.

In Senator Simmons' speech at Asheville, reported in The Observer yesterday, he discussed a New York Evening Post advertisement of five years ago which contained ex-Senator Marion Butler's name as one of a committee offering to collect carpet-bag bonds. His comment was scorching. It behooved to be, for anything short of coarse abuse could hardly exceed the requirements. This is supposing ex-Senator Butler responsible for the appearance of his name in this connection—and, so far as we know, he has never seen his way clear to deny it at all.

This campaign incident, whose basis had been strangely overlooked until a few days ago will have an explosive effect. It will make the danger of again placing ex-Senator Butler in a position of power so obvious that even the blind may see. Its author—The Statesville Landmark first recalled and set forth the facts, we believe—has rendered a service of no small value to the State.

We have not been abusing Mr. Marion Butler, and we have no intention of doing so now. But at times it is needful to speak with plainness about public men, and we shall add over and above things already said certain judgments which we believe to be absolutely true. He is the very type of the adventure, schemer, wire-puller, intriguer. He has a mind and a character perfectly accordant with the type. He has a justly odious record. He has practically no stake in the State except as a field for the operations which this accomplished lobbyist and what not carries on from Washington. It would be thoroughly discreditable to place him in the saddle again even if it were not thoroughly dangerous.

Mr. Butler, while a United States senator from North Carolina, took money to use his political influence and position to the detriment of the State. This action affected bonds concerning which there had been a dispute with some few bondholders who made special demands; they were not carpet bag bonds, but the means of attempted collection were the same for each class and one step was regarded merely as preparatory to the other. Mr. Butler's course would have been disgraceful even if such a connection had not existed. But it did exist, and obviously. Upon no other man do the speculative syndicates holding carpet-bag bonds pin, today, one-half so much hope.

A Morehead-Butler victory would be a Butler victory and a Butler opportunity. Politically the Republican State chairman is the merest tyro in comparison. Does any one want Mr. Marion Butler given the chance to compromise fatally the State's position by formal admissions and concessions, so that the State will have no choice left between payment and disgrace? Does any one think it would be wise or safe from any standpoint, even if no carpet-bag bonds existed, to make Mr. Marion Butler the most powerful person in the State? If he does, let him vote the Morehead-Butler ticket from Supreme court candidates down.—Charlotte Observer.

To Mark Jackson's Birthplace.

Mrs. Lily W. Long, of Charlotte, writes Mr. J. L. Rodman that the Daughters of the American Revolution expect to have a nice monument erected and unveiled at the Andrew Jackson birthplace, six miles southwest of Waxhaw, at a very early date. The contract for the monument was placed some time ago, and it will be ready early in next month, probably about the seventh. The date of the unveiling has not yet been fixed, but it will be announced right soon. This will be gratifying news to the people of this entire community and we should all get together at once and arrange to make the unveiling a worthy and memorable occasion. Watch for the announcement of the date of the unveiling, probably within the next week or two, and let everybody in the community turn out with baskets full of good things to eat and make it a great picnic occasion. Quite a large party from Charlotte will be present at the unveiling ceremonies.—Waxhaw Enterprise.

Drake's Death.

Some colored drawings of the coast of various West Indian islands are in the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris. The fact that makes the drawings of special value is that they were done from the deck of Sir Francis Drake's ship under his supervision during his last voyage. There is a mournful note on the margin of a drawing of Puerto Bello, off which Drake's flagship Defiance was lying:

"This morning, when the description noted or taken of this land, being the 23 of January, 1595, being Wednesday in the morninge Sr Francis Drake died of the bludie six eighte of the hande of Buena Ventura som six leagues at see."

Peculiar Occupations.

The trade of tooth stainer, followed in eastern Asia, is as odd a calling as any. The natives prefer black teeth to the whiter kind, and the tooth stainer, with a little box of brushes and coloring matter, calls on his customers and stains their teeth. The process is not unlike that of blacking a boot, for a fine polish is given to the teeth. The pigment used is quite harmless. In Arabia the trade of "gossiper" has many followers. The "gossiper" collects all the news, tit-bit, jokes and stories he can get hold of and then goes from house to house retelling them. If he has a good manner and can adapt his recitals to his audience he makes a very fair income.

PLATINIZED GLASS.

It Produces an Odd and a Tricky Kind of Mirror.

Platinized glass consists of a piece of glass coated with an exceedingly thin layer of a liquid charged with platinum and then raised to a red heat. The platinum becomes united to the glass in such a way as to form an odd kind of mirror.

The glass has not really lost its transparency, and yet if one places it against a wall and looks at it he sees his image as in an ordinary looking glass. But when light is allowed to come through the glass from the other side, as when it is placed in a window, it appears perfectly transparent, like ordinary glass.

By constructing a window of platinized glass one could stand close behind the panes in an unilluminated room and behold clearly everything going on outside, while passersby looking at the window would behold only a fine mirror or set of mirrors in which their own figures would be reflected while the person inside remained invisible.

In France various tricks have been contrived with the aid of this glass. In one a person seeing what appears to be an ordinary mirror approaches it to gaze upon himself. A sudden change in the mechanism sends light through the glass from the back, whereupon it instantly becomes transparent, and the startled spectator finds himself confronted by some grotesque figure that had been hidden behind the glass.—Harper's Weekly.

ORIGIN OF LLOYD'S.

Humble Beginning of Europe's Great Maritime Agency.

Two centuries ago a man who had a cargo to send to the Mediterranean contrived to get rid of some of the risk by inducing a friend to take an interest with him. It was necessary to write out a statement of contract to which the guarantors subscribed. This was the first underwriting. These two men happened to be frequenters of Lloyd's coffee house in London, which was a favorite place for the merchants of the town to gather to discuss business or to gossip.

Others immediately saw the advantage of the scheme which their colleagues had devised, and on the next voyage the risk was parceled out among a larger number of the patrons of the coffee house.

Out of this small beginning has grown the great European maritime agency, still bearing the name of the humble coffee house proprietor, and which not only writes risks on vessels, but rates them and publishes their arrivals at every port the world over, no matter how small or how remotely situated.—Annals of the American Academy.

Where Abraham Fished.

Mrs. Victoria de Bunsen in "The Soul of a Turk" relates a legend concerning Abraham which will be new to many readers. She learned of it while at Edessa, the traditional Ur of the Chaldees. She was shown there a large oblong tank of water so filled with fishes resting just below the surface of the water that their fins and backs seemed almost wedged together so as to form "an almost solid layer of silvery life."

"The guardian of the mosque throws some meal into the water, and the fish jump high to catch it, a great living pyramid, of which those which jump the highest form the pinnacle. The tradition is that Abraham as a child fished in the tank; hence the fish were considered sacred. No single one has been caught or killed to this day. Indeed, death would overtake the man who transgressed this law."

Protection From Lightning.

Sir Oliver Lodge stated that the problem of securing protection from lightning consisted in finding the best method of dissipating the enormous energy of the flash, but that it was not wise to get rid of the energy too quickly. A thin iron wire is considered the best lightning conductor from the electrical point of view, but it is almost impossible to protect a building from lightning unless it is completely enveloped in a metal cage. It is by no means true, that a building is safe when provided with a conductor reaching up to the highest part of the building.

The Origin of Grocer.

Grocer appears in Holinshed's Chronicle, 1580, as "grosser," and in other medieval records it is sometimes written "engrosser" and was applied to the spicers and peppers who were wholesale dealers in various spices—that is, who dealt en gros—in large quantities, as distinguished from "retailers," who were retail dealers. The Grocers' company first adopted the word grocer in 1573, when the spicers and peppers allied themselves into a single corporation.—London Express.

Agreed With Her.

Tramp (at the door)—If you please, lady—Mrs. Muggs (sternly)—There, that will do. I am tired of this everlasting whine of "Lady, lady." I am just a plain woman, and—Tramp—You are, madam, one of the plainest women I've ever seen and one of the honestest to own up to it.

Cruel.

Mrs. Benham—Every time I sing to the baby he cries. Benham—He gets his ability as a musical critic from my side of the house.—New York Press.

Prosperity demands of us more prudence and moderation than adversity.

Too Talkative.

The following story is told of the famous painter Makart: The artist was a very passionate chess player, but he did not like his adversary to utter a single word during the progress of a game. A stranger who was very anxious to get on intimate terms with the famous artist thought to be able to achieve his object by means of the royal game. After many tries he succeeded at last in getting an introduction to Makart, and one day the latter consented to play a game with him. Being well aware of the fact that his adversary was very much averse to any talk during the game, not a word was spoken, and even the word "check" was never spoken. All the stranger dared to do was to touch his adversary's king when he put that piece in check. The game ended in Makart being mated, when the stranger quietly said "checkmate." Makart rose very excitedly, threw the pieces off the board, and giving his opponent a fierce look, got off his chair, turned his back to the stranger and exclaimed "Prattler!"

Curious Way of Cooling Water.

The average native woman in the interior of Nicaragua may appear enervated and listless, but her method of cooling water is strenuous indeed. She fills a half gallon earthenware jar about two-thirds full. The jar is made of baked clay and, not being glazed, is partially porous, so that it soon becomes moist on the outside. By means of two leathern straps firmly attached to the neck of the jar the woman causes the same to rotate swiftly in the air. The mouth is wide open, but the centrifugal motion keeps the water from flying out. The endurance shown by the Nicaraguan women of the poorer class in this form of calisthenics is said to be marvelous. When, in the opinion of the operator, the water is sufficiently cooled she stops the movement by a dexterous twist of her wrist and hands the jar to the person that has been waiting to quench his thirst. By this process tepid water can be reduced to the temperature of a very cool mountain spring.—New York Press.

An Unmanned Lightship.

There is stationed off the island of Islay, on the west coast of Scotland, at the Otter rock an interesting lightship. It is unmanned, yet it can be relied on to display the warning light to guide the mariner on this dangerous coast. It is a very ingeniously constructed vessel and the only one of its kind. In its two steel tanks sufficient gas can be stored to supply the vessel for several months. Experiments have shown that the light may be depended upon to burn continuously for months at a time. The approximate duration of the light can always be predetermined, and there is no danger whatever of the light being extinguished by wind or spray. The light is visible at a distance of from eight to twelve miles. The lightship also has a bell, which is made to ring automatically by means of an ingenious device that utilizes the gas as it passes from the tanks to the lantern to work the bell clapper.—Harper's Weekly.

Always a Harvest Somewhere.

There is a harvest every month during the year, as follows: January—Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, Chile; February—India; March—India, upper Egypt; April—Mexico, Cuba, lower Egypt, Syria, Persia, Asia Minor; May—North Africa, China, Japan and the southern United States of America; June—Mediterranean and southern France, central and east United States of America south of 40 degrees; July—France, Austria, Hungary, southern Russia, northern United States of America, Ontario and Quebec; August—England, Belgium, Netherlands, Germany, east Canada; September—Scotland, Sweden, Norway, Russia; October—Finland and northern Russia; November—Peru, South Africa; December—Burma, South Australia. It is a complete table and shows how the wheat supply pours into England during every month of the year.—English Agricultural Journal.

A Brazilian Household Pet.

Brazilians train a snake called the gboia as a rat catcher. It is fifteen feet long, is harmless to the human being, becomes quite a household pet, is lazy in the daytime, but at night roams about the house in quest of its prey—rats. These animals it promptly kills by twisting their necks. When Brazilians have to pass from room to room in the dark they first put on their slippers. It would not be pleasant to plant one's bare feet on a cold, slimy snake of that size.

Made the Most of It.

A well known French actor became involved in a discussion with an American, grew heated, drew his card from his pocket, threw it on the table with a tragic air and stalked out. The American regarded the card for some moments, then took out his fountain pen and wrote "Admit defeat" above the engraved line and went to the theater.—Argonaut.

A Reproof.

"Oh, children, you are so noisy today. Can't you be a little quieter?" "Now, grandma, you must be more considerate and not scold us. You see, if it wasn't for us you wouldn't be a grandma at all."

Inconsistent.

Guest—So your daughter belongs to the Universal Peace and Amiability society? Host—Yes, and she's rapidly fighting her way to the front of that society.

A trick in at the best but a mean thing.—La Saz.

Life Saving on Conditions.

A treatise on "how to be kind, but cautious," might be written by a woman who played the part of good Samaritan in the One Hundred and Third street subway station. Another woman had fainted. What she needed to bring her to in a hurry was smelling salts, but nobody had smelling salts.

"I think she has a vinaigrette of her own in that bag," said the Samaritan, "but in the absence of a policeman I am afraid to open it to find out."

Something that looked like a small bottle could be discerned through the meshes of the chain bag, and the crowd, valiantly shifting responsibility, said, "Go ahead and open it."

"On one condition I will," said the Samaritan. "I want three bystanders to watch me and sign a written statement that I have taken nothing from the bag but the vinaigrette. I know this town too well to take any chances on being accused of theft."

The oath was drawn up in a jiffy, three signatures were appended, the Samaritan opened the bag, found the vinaigrette and proceeded with restorative measures.—New York Times.

The Real "Sherlock Holmes."

It was a well known Edinburgh professor of medicine who, all unconsciously, gave Sir Arthur Conan Doyle the idea of "Sherlock Holmes," the most famous detective known in fiction. Sir Arthur studied under him as a medical student.

"Gentlemen," this professor would say to the students, "I am not quite sure whether this man is a cork cutter or a slater. I observe a slight hardening on one side of his forefinger and a little thickening on one side of his thumb, and that is a sure sign that he is one or the other." Or to a patient he would say, "You are a soldier, and you have served in Bermuda as a non-commissioned officer," and then, turning to the students, he would point out that the man came into the room without taking off his hat, as he would enter an orderly room; that his manner showed that he was a non-commissioned officer and that a rash he had on his forehead was known only in Bermuda.

A Fellow Feeling.

A burglar, entering softly by way of the window and looking around him, was rather disconcerted to find a large piece of paper on the table with the words "The Burglar" written on it in large letters. "Meant for me evidently," he said to himself and picked it up. This is what he read: "I know you are coming tonight—never mind how. If you will take away this parcel and lose it effectually you are welcome to what else you can find in this room." Wonderingly he opened the parcel, but at once his face cleared and he understood. "Pore chap, pore chap!" he murmured feelingly. "I'll take 'em for 'im right enough and let 'im off easy too. I'm a father meself!" For the contents of the parcel were as follows: One toy trumpet, one drum (large), one toy concertina, one tambourine, one musical box, one mouth organ, three tin whistles, one air gun.

First Jewelry Store.

It may interest women to know that the first jewelry store was started in the city of Chang On about 3,000 years ago. The Celestial millionaires of that period knew nothing of the fascination of diamonds, because diamonds were not in vogue at that B. C. period. Pearls and jade and coral and other unpolished mineral substances had to content them, and, as if to make good the glitter of revieres and tiaras, the princes of Chang On employed artisans to fashion them the most wonderful gold and silver ornaments, which in themselves were far more costly than diamonds.

Well Answered.

"Do you see much difference between Americans and Englishmen?" a handsome, spoiled English guardsman is said to have asked a sparkling American girl newly arrived in London society.

"Oh, yes," was her quick reply. "Over there the men admire us; here we are expected to admire you."

They say the astonished soldier almost fell off his chair at the unexpectedness of it.

The Utilitarian.

"Hello, Johnny!" said the village blacksmith. "I hear your paw has gone into politics."

"Sure."

"How'd that happen?"

"Well, my uncle left him a silk hat and a Prince Albert coat in his will, and paw had to do something with them."—Washington Star.

The Remains.

After many unsuccessful attempts a little girl managed to spell "that" correctly. "Now," said her mother, "what remains after 't' is taken away?"

"The dirty cups and saucers!" was the reply.

Another Shock.

Bore—I've had an awful shock. I went for a long walk on Sunday morning with another man, and he committed suicide on Sunday evening. Bored (surprised)—Not until evening?

She Had Reason.

"Johnny, what is the meaning sought to be conveyed in the assertion, 'Freedom shrieked when Kosciusko fell?'"

"Freedom was probably what he fell on, ma'am."—Houston Post.

Bacon and the Fishers.
In "Aubrey's Lives" this quaint story is told of Lord Bacon: "His lordship, being in the garden looking on fishers as they were throwing their nets, asked them what they would take for their catch. They answered so much. His lordship would offer them not so much.
They dived up their net, and in it were only two or three little fishes. He then told them it had been better for them to have taken his offer. They replied they hoped for a better draft, but, said his lordship, "Hope is a good breakfast, but an ill supper."

"I would like to ask you one more of himself," answered the home grown

Hundreds of Greenville Readers Know What It Means.

The kidneys are overtaxed;
Have too much to do.
They tell about it in many aches and pains—
Backache, headache, sideache,
Early symptoms of kidney ills.
Urinary troubles, diabetes, Bright's disease follow.

A Greenville citizen tells here the way to keep the kidneys well.
Mrs. J. S. Stokes, Twelfth and Evans Sts., Greenville, N. C., says:
"For some time I suffered severely from kidney and bladder complaint. I had, bearing-down pains through my abdomen, and sharp, shooting twinges across my loins. There was a tender spot over my kidneys and at times my limbs pained intensely. I finally read of Doan's Kidney Pills and was so much impressed that I procured a supply at Wooten's drug store and began their use. They soon relieved the pains in my sides and limbs, and restored my kidneys to a normal condition. At present I am feeling better in every way, and I give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit for this great improvement."

Bismarck's Comment on Schopenhauer and His Theory.

In an entertaining account of a dinner party at Prince Bismarck's Berlin residence which is given in the recollections of the Livonian journalist Eckhardt the following, which was a part of the table talk, shows the host in a new light; The conversation had turned on Bismarck's early days at Frankfort, and Eckhardt asked whether at the table d'hote of the Hotel d'Angleterre his host had ever met Schopen-hauer. "No," said Bismarck; "he had no use for me nor I for him. Moreover, I have never had time or desire to occupy myself with philosophy.
While I was a student Schopenhauer was still unknown. I know absolutely nothing about his system."

Another guest, an admirer of Schopenhauer, then joined enthusiastically in the conversation and explained that the philosopher's great merit consisted in the discovery of the fact that will power was the indestructible essence of the mind of man and that intelligence was only of secondary importance. "That may very well be true," said Prince Bismarck, "at least as far as I am concerned, for I have often noticed that my will had already come to a decision while my mind had not yet finished thinking about the same subject."

VENETIAN WOMEN.

The Whims of Fashion Hold No Terrors For Them.

The women of Venice are absolutely free from the rule which Dame Fashion exercises over their sisters elsewhere. They care nothing for modes.
With them the length of the skirt remains always the same, neither short nor long, and they always wear plainly made dark dresses, black stockings and the heeless slippers of the east. Hats are unknown.

The universal outdoor wrap for all ages and all sizes is the black shawl, with a deep silken fringe. It is folded with a short point above and a long one below, and sometimes it envelops the figure from head to foot. It is never fastened at the throat, and when it slips off it is gathered up with one outstretched arm, which makes the spectator think of a big bird stretching its wing.

In their attire the women of Venice are independent, only wearing local clothing, but with feminine inconsistency they are thoroughly up to date in the matter of hairdressing, the style of their coiffures changing from time to time, according to the vogue of the moment in London and Paris.

Identified.

William M. Chase, the artist, was a picturesque figure, dressing in clothes that had a certain originality, though they conformed more or less to the prevailing fashions. On one occasion Chase on his way home stepped into a little wine shop and ordered a jug of claret of a special brand sent to his house. The lad who brought it came to the front door an hour afterward, when the artist had already arrived.
"Some wine," he said curtly. The maid, knowing there was yet plenty in the cellar and believing the lad had made a mistake, said she was sure it was not for that house and did the boy remember the name of the man who ordered it. The boy didn't.
"Then," said the servant, "you've come to the wrong place; we never ordered wine!" At this moment the boy spied Chase's famous hat on the hall table. "Say," he asked, "does that hat live here?" "Yes," said the amused maid. "Then," said the boy triumphantly, "here's where the wine belongs!"—Argonaut.

Not For Fashion's Sake.

The criminal law of England was formerly marked by indiscriminating severity. Theft of an article valued above 10 shillings was punished with death. In writing about "Sweet Hampstead and Its Associations" Mrs.
White records a pleasant thing of Lord Mansfield, who, as a rule, leaned to the side of mercy. It was Lord Mansfield who directed a jury to find a stolen trinket less in value than 10 shillings in order that the thief might escape capital punishment. To this the jeweler who prosecuted demurred, asserting that the fashion of the thing had cost him twice that money.
"Gentlemen," replied the judge, with grave solemnity, "we ourselves stand in need of mercy. Let us not hang a man for the fashion's sake!"

MacMahon's Epigram.

When Marshal MacMahon in the Crimean campaign took the Malakoff by storm and wrote his celebrated dispatch, "J'y suis; j'y reste" ("Here I am; here I stay"), these words made him famous all over the world. Yet his friends said that the worthy soldier had written them in the most matter of fact manner, with no thought of phrase making. The most surprised person over the success of this epigram was MacMahon himself.

Helping Her Out.

"Have you a young chicken? I am rather green at cooking."
"Such being the case, madam, don't you think you'd better have an old, experienced fowl?"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Mirth.

Harmless mirth is the best cordial against the consumption of the spirit.
Wherefore jesting is not unlawful, if it trespasseth not in quantity, quality or season.—Fuller.

Ignorance when it is voluntary is criminal.—Johnson.

Three Strong Men of Latin Race.

During recent years we have been reading a great deal about the decadence of the Latin peoples. France, Italy, Spain and Portugal have been help up to us as examples of dying nations which have had their day and are not able to survive in these times of economic and commercial stress.
when there is no institution or tradition too ancient or dignified to be challenged by a self-conscious, triumphphant democracy. Yet in three of these four countries during the past few weeks the world has seen statesmanship and vigorous political leadership which has hardly been matched for many a year in German, British or American politics. The French Premier, M. Briand, has shown, in his suppression of the "general strike," what can be done by a strong, far-sighted statesman in power when he acts as an agent of law and order against any outburst of lawlessness and disorder no matter what explanation or excuse may be offered by the would-be law breakers. Senhor Costa, Minister of Justice in the new Republican government at Lisbon, who has been perhaps more than any other one man the actual leader in the revolution in Portugal, has shown an understanding of the forces that influence the life of modern peoples, as well as a breadth of view and a degree of courage in action that mark him as one of the world's real statesmen. When the fugitives from the revolution in Lisbon, political and clerical alike, began to stream over the border into Spain in those exciting days early last month, Premier Canalejas found himself confronted by an occasion calling for all his wisdom, diplomacy and courage. The Cortes was in session and the fate of the Premier's policies for the modernization of Spain hung in the balance. Militant Republican sentiment is always a factor in Spanish politics.
More than once during the reign of King Alfonso have these enemies of the dynasty shown that they are in actual possession of sufficient power to put all government in Spain in peril. The same enmity to what is known in Latin Europe as clericalism, exists in Spain as in Portugal. Finally, the revolution at Lisbon occurred within a few days of the anniversary of the execution of Professor Francisco Ferrer founder of the "Modern School," of Barcelona, who was convicted and shot on October 3 of last year on a charge of anarchy, treason and conspiracy against the Spanish government. The monster demonstration at San Sebastian which had been planned by the reactionaries last summer was suppressed. In like manner, the violence threatened by the Radicals for "Ferrer Day" was averted.
Spain, under analetas, has proved herself possessed of a vitality quite unexpected by the rest of the world.—

Asleep Up to Date.

This was at a fire. The building occupied by a comic weekly was being destroyed by the fell demon. It was a hopeless case. In the crowd was a well known humorist. He had more than an ordinary interest in the disaster. He had just sent in a batch of comicallities and hadn't received his pay for them.

"Can't you get some of your men to save my jokes?" he appealed to the fire chief.

"None," replied the chief. "You don't expect us to pull your chestnuts out of the fire, do you?"—Troy Standard.

Work Should be Pushed.

The close of the present year will mark a crisis in the farm demonstration work in this State, and upon the various boards of county commissioners will largely rest the responsibility of whether this crisis shall be the beginning of a new expansion for the work or a decided curtailment. The United States government in inaugurating the movement acted upon the principle of rewarding those who showed a disposition to help themselves. At the beginning, eight counties in this State were assigned about $750 apiece and later quite a number were added to the list. In the case of these newer fields, however, each county was required to assume half the cost. The Federal authorities have decided to discontinue the work in all cases where the commissioners prove unwilling to go to this expense.

Rowan county was one of the original eight and The Salisbury Post now learns that it will require a $300 appropriation from the county to insure the continuance of such work.
"It has been clearly demonstrated," declares our contemporary summing up the argument for continuance,
"that the service during the three-years it has been in operation has done a vast amount of good and it would be little less than a calamity to let it go by default. The State Agricultural Department, seeing the good which is being accomplished, has entered the field and has this year established experiment stations in a number of counties. Some fine records, of corn raising have been made by the national demonstration service in Rowan county. With the addition of the State at work in the same endeavor it was expected that a long advance would be made in agricultural development. Should the national service be discontinued, the farm demonstration work would be badly crippled."

We believe that The Post's argument might be pondered with benefit in every county and particularly in every court house where there is an likelihood that his particular feature of material progress is to be discontinued.—Charlotte Observer.
