MORE THAN 100 BARRELS CORN

RAISED ONE ON ACRE BY MR. C. T. WATSON

HE EXPLAINS HOW IT WAS DONE

His Method of Cultivation and Quantity of Fertilizer Used—Raised Corn at Actual Cost of 15 Cents Per Bushel and Net Profit Was $87.50 on One Acre.

Pitt county has some corn growers, and Mr. C. T. Watson is one of them. He lives 4 miles from here on Falkland road and entered the demonstration movement this year setting apart one acre of corn for this purpose. He says he started out with the idea of making 30 barrels on that acre, and believes he would have done so but for it getting badly drowned in the rainy season. As it was he made a record to be proud of, and one that is worth noting. He gathered the acre of corn last week, measured it carefully and found that he had nearly 21 barrels—to be exact there were 102 13-14 bushels. Mr. Watson came in Saturday and told The Reflector about his demonstration acre; when asked for the methods of cultivation that we might print it and thus give other farmers the benefit of his experience, he told us the following:

The ground was first broken to a depth of 7 inches with a one-horse plow and 100 bushels of stable manure was broadcast on the broken land. This was cut in with a harrow just before planting. When ready to plant the rows were run 5 feet apart and 6 inches deep with a turn plow. The corn was planted 12 inches apart one to the hill.

At the first plowing the corn was barred off 5 inches deep and one sack of kainit and two sacks of acid phosphate sowed in the furrows by the corn. The middles were split with a turn plow, six furrows to the middle. The second plowing was with a 5-tooth cultivator, three furrows to the row. The third plowing it was sided with a cotton plow to a depth of 1 1-2 inches. Then two sacks of cotton seed meal and one sack of 8-3-3 guano were used. At the last plowing, which was also with a cotton plow, five furrows to the row and 1 1-2 inches deep, four sacks of cotton seed meal and 200 pounds of nitrate of soda were used.

Mr. Watson said fertilizers and cultivation of this acre cost $25, but as he got $10 worth of fodder from it the actual cost for the acre was reduced to $15. This was a little less than 15 cents a bushel, and at the market price of corn, $1 per bushel, his acre netted $87.50.

Mr. Watson also said that his entire corn crop this year was good, and while not done harvesting yet he expects it to average 10 barrels per acre. This is a good example of what can be done at corn growing in Pitt county. It ought to inspire every farmer who reads this to put forth his best efforts and not be satisfied with less than 10 barrels per acre. With proper cultivation and favorable seasons this average can be reached.

Mice for Whooping-Cough.

A fairly relic of medieval nostrums came to my notice recently. A mother was discussing with her housekeeper the probability of her children taking whooping-cough, which was then prevalent in the community. The housekeeper, a most dependable, valuable helper, of more than average good sense and judgement, said "Mrs. Rlack, if you'll let me, I can keep your children from having whooping-cough I've kept lots of children from having it, but I wouldn't do it without telling you first."

"Well, Martha, what is it?"

"You catch a live mouse and kill and dress it and stuff and bake it and feed it to the children. It isn't bad to take, and of course, they don't know what it is—that would spoil the charm."

To my friend's exclamation of horror she replied with conviction, "I've given it to lots of children, and never one of them had whooping-cough."

OUR TWICE-A-WEEK WINTERVILLE LETTER.

Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor—What Its People are Doing.

Winterville, N. C., Nov. 12.—Miss May Smith, of Ayden came over Wednesday to visit friends.

We hope you won't need it, but should you have to get a coffin, the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company keep a good supply.

There have been large crowds coming and going to the conference at Reedy Branch for the last several days.

The Union Mercantile Company will pay you best prices for eggs.

Misses Lille and Nannie Owens, of Saratoga, came in Wednesday to spend several days at Mr. E. E. Dail's.

Salt, lime, cement and horse blankets at A. W. Ange & Company's. Mr. H. A. White of Greenville, president of the Pitt County Oil Company here, came down Thursday.

Go to Harrington, Barber & Co's. for heavy fleeced underwear. They have plenty of it cheap.

Mrs. Cora Hardy, of Snow Hill, spent several days at Mrs. M. L. Barker's this week.

If you wish a pair of Tar Heel cart wheels made of the best material to be had, see A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company.

Misses Lela Roach and Carrie Chapman, of Coxville were in town yesterday.

Your chickens may stop laying as the weather gets cooler if you don't feed Hess's poultry panacea. A. W. Ange & Company sells panacea and stock food.

Messrs. J. B. Kittrell, P. T. Anthony, and A. D. McLawhorn, of Greenville, were in town Saturday.

Harrington, Barber & Company have a nice line of solid oak color and figured outing, prices low.

Misses Hattie C. Kittrell left this Saturday for Clayton, where she begins teaching Monday near there.

If its seed that you have to offer, or meal and hulls that you wish to buy, don't neglect to call on the Pitt County Oil Company. Their prices are always right.

Mrs. Addie C. Hooks wishes to say she has a black and white spotted guilt, weight about sixty pounds, strayed off and she offers a reward for its whereabouts.

The Pitt County Oil Company will gin your cotton any day you come next week. After next week gin days.

The meeting that is going on in the Baptist church has been well attended. The pastor, Rev. M. A. Adams, has been doing all the preaching and his sermons have been of the best type.

Eighteen have joined the church and many others have professed faith.

Mr. J. L. Jackson, of Greenville, spent Friday night in town.

MISS HARRIS ENTERTAINS A NUMBER OF HER FRIENDS.

A Shakespearian Contest and Cards The Amusements.

(Reported for The Reflector.)

Miss Fleming with Mr. Forbes, Miss Dupree with Mr. Percy Forbes, Miss Cobb with Mr. Barnhill, Miss Tunstall with Mr. Gorman, Miss Pittman with Mr. Hooker, Miss Woodward with Mr. Smith, Miss Little with Mr. Moore, Miss Jenkins with Mr. L. J. Smith, Miss Otterbridge with Mr. Hearne, Miss Critcher with Mr. Sman, Miss Scott with Mr. Bagwell, Miss Rives with Mr. Smith, Miss Forbes with Mr. Hutchings, Miss Higgs with Mr. Tom Hutchings, Miss Deans with Mr. Greene and Miss Cullins with Mr. Kittrell were delightfully entertained by Miss Nina Harris at her hospitable home on Cotach street on Friday night. From ten to ten-thirty. Miss Cobb and Mr. Barnhill received at the door. The guests were then led to the punch bowl where Miss Dupree and Mr. Forbes presided. They were next conducted to the parlor where they were heartily welcomed by the hostess, Miss Harris, ably assisted by Mr. Hearne.

Cards and a Shakespeare contest were the amusements of the evening followed by the brilliant recitations of Miss Harris, instrumental music by Miss Pittman, and several vocal selections charmingly rendered by Miss Cullins. A prize was given at the close of the contest to Mr. William Smith who found himself the lucky possessor of a handsome leather bound volume of Shakespeare.

An elegant luncheon was served during the evening consisting of club sandwiches, crackers, pickles, dentasse and after-dinner mints.

At twelve o'clock the guests reluctantly began leaving, declaring Miss Harris a most charming hostess, and royal entertainer.

Day Current Off.

While putting in some new machinery at the electric light plant the current was cut off for something over two hours this morning. Of course this could not be avoided, but it gave The Reflector a set back, the typesetting machine and every press having to be idle while the current was off.

Mrs. Little's Mother Dead.

A telegram was received here today announcing the death of Mrs. M. E. Thomas, of Nashville, Tenn., which occurred Sunday afternoon. She was the mother of Mrs. J. L. Little the latter being with her when the end came. Mrs. Little's host of friends sympathize with her in her sorrow.

EVANGELIST BLACK HOLDING MEETING

UNION REVIVAL IN JARVIS MEMORIAL METHODIST CHURCH

TWO SERVICES TO BE HELD EACH DAY

Meeting Begins Sunday Morning With Large Congregation—The Singing is Delightful—The Hours for Service Are 10.45 a. m. and 7.30 p. m. Business Houses Asked to Close During Service.

Sunday was as beautiful a day as could be wished for the beginning of the meeting by Dr. William Black, Presbyterian evangelist of the State, which is being held here in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. It was a large congregation that greeted him at the first service, both the main auditorium and annex of the church being nearly filled. In the opening announcement made by Rev. J. H. Shore, pastor of the church, he expressed gratification at the spirit of unity existing in Greenville as had been shown in the union services in preparation for this meeting, and he felt sure that it meant much later and a great blessing to the community.

While the chorus was not so large at the first service as it will be, because of some of the other churches being open at the morning-hour, the singing was delightful and the congregation joined it in good spirit. Besides the general songs there was a beautiful quartet by Dr. Black, Mr. Burr, Mr. McKay and Miss Forbes, and a duet by Dr. Black and Mr. Burr. The doctor is almost as good a singer as he is a preacher.

Before beginning his sermon Dr. Black spoke of his love for the people of Greenville and the joy it gave him to accept the invitation to come here and hold this meeting, for he believed that the people loved him, or surely they would not have invited him to come back for the third time, he having already held two meetings here in past years. He referred especially to the last meeting he held here in the spring of 1905 when nearly all places of business in the town closed during the hours of service, and expressed the hope that the business men were ready to treat him as well this time. God will take nothing from them by making this sacrifice for Him. He said that in many other places where he had since held meetings, he had spoken of Greenville and how the people here closed their places of business in behalf of the Lord's work. He announced the hours for service during this meeting at 10.45 a. m., closing promptly at 12, and at 7.30 p. m.

Dr. Black read for a Scripture lesson the parable of the sower, and took as his text Luke 8:18: "Take heed therefore how ye hear." Many times during the sermon, which was upon the parable read, he emphasized the text by repeating it. There is a great deal of poor preaching in the world, and a great deal of poor listening, but people often judge the preaching to be poor because they are not listening at what is said. The mind is the greatest tramp on the face of the earth, and instead of being concentrated on what is being said from the pulpit, is wandering everywhere, on business on pleasures, on sin. He discussed clearly and logically the different classes representing the four kinds of soil mentioned in the parable, and that it was only those represented by the good ground, those who take heed how they hear, that bring forth good results.

The congregation Sunday night was even larger than the one at the morning service, and there was more of the soul-inspiring singing. The Scripture lesson was the 12th chapter of Romans and the text the 1st verse of that chapter: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service" God beseeching sinners to come to Him through His services, which are greater than can be enumerated, and desiring our bodies and our all to be given to Him, was the theme of the powerful sermon. Dr. Black uses many forceful illustrations to carry the truth to the hearts of his hearers, and it could be seen from the intent listening that there was deep interest among them. He speaks rapidly following one truth with another, yet all so clear and plain as to be readily understood by every hearer.

CLOSE OF CRIMINAL COURT.

Cases Disposed of Saturday Afternoon and Report of Grand Jury

Amos Edwards, selling liquor, guilty; sentenced six months on roads.
Freeman Vines, Tom Vines, Cleveland Vines, Charlie Vines, D. C. Blount, affray; Blount not guilty, others all guilty; judgment suspended on payment of costs.
The report of the grand jury, for the term was as follows:

We have inquired into the conduct of the people, and all that we know of have been presented, and have acted upon all bills that have come before our body that we could get witnesses.

We have visited the convict camp and find the prisoners well cared for and everything in good condition.
We have visited the county home and find everything in good condition, except one building needs repairing on the roof, and a new stove pipe is needed in the cook room.

Now in regard to the superintendent of the home, we find all inmates well satisfied with the exception of the Campbells, who seem to be hard to satisfy.

Now in regard to the superintendent of health, we find all the inmates well satisfied except the blind man and Miss Polly May.

We have visited the offices of the register of deeds and clerk of the court and find the records well kept.

We have visited the sheriff's office and find the office well kept.

We have visited the jail and find it in as good condition as circumstances will allow and the prisoners well cared for.

We find Johnnie Jenkins and Charlie Jenkins are minors with an estate and with no guardian and nobody who will act. We recommend the appointment of a receiver.

How Guns Are Named.
Many people are puzzled as to the difference between a 12 inch and a 13.5 inch gun. Guns are measured by the bore or caliber, just as motorcar engine cylinders are. A 12 inch gun, therefore, is a gun that fires a shot which is twelve inches in diameter.

The length of a gun is reckoned in calibers. For instance, a 50 caliber 12 inch gun is one fifty times the length of its bore—that is to say, fifty feet long. A 50 caliber six inch gun would be twenty-five feet long, and so on—London Standard.

HAVE A COUNTY EXHIBIT.

We heard a farmer say a few days ago that he was glad to see in The Reflector recently the suggestion for an exhibit of the county's resources. He said this should be done, that he would be glad to take part in it, and that he hoped the matter would be agitated until it is brought about. We do not know a better man in the county to refer this matter to than Mr. J. F. Evans, and he is commanded right here and now to get busy on it. Let us awaken the interest of the farmers in this and bring them together with specimens of the best of their products. They have the products, in all kinds of crops, stock and poultry, and could make an exhibit that would do credit to themselves and to the county. Let a suitable day be named for this, or two days if one would not be time enough, and bring all together in Greenville. We feel that one of the tobacco warehouses can be secured for arranging the crop exhibits, with plenty of adjacent yard and stable room for poultry and stock. It would be a big event and a proud event for the whole of Pitt county. What say others of the farmers? We would like to hear from them on this subject.

It is good news that the cost of living will likely come down a little. With most of us it takes about all the income.

How to Almost Defy Typhoid.

In his annual report for the fiscal year 1909, Surgeon General Torney recommends that compulsory anti-typhoid vaccination be introduced into the army. Statistics cited by him show that one-sixth of the army has thus far been inoculated with the preventive vaccine, without serious results in any case. Among those inoculated, only one in four thousand had the disease and no deaths occurred. Among those not inoculated one in 250 had the disease and deaths were numerous.

The presence of typhoid fever, an absolutely preventable disease, is a reproach to any community. It is there so because only by the community principally through safeguarding of the water and milk supplies, can any but the most fantastically cautious individual be protected. Characteristically careless, we in this country permit our typhoid rate to range several times higher than Europe's. In the South, even on the farms, where the victim has usually his own or his family's gross neglect of common sanitation to blame, it makes a brave show. If American towns are to have the infection almost always more or less present with them—and this is one of the most virulent infections known—their inhabitants might well use the anti-typhoid vaccine. Even where recovery is complete, and unattended by any of those distressing after-effects which often wait upon typhoid the disease brings complete disability during the six weeks of its average course and a considerable period of convalescence after that. For any one who has a work to do in the world the mere loss of time is an important consideration. Without lessening efforts through public agencies to prevent infection, the doctors can now offer an insurance which insures not merely against expenses resulting from the disease but against the disease itself. We hope that the doctors of this city and section will at once make the anti-typhoid vaccine available to their intelligent patrons.—Charlotte Observer.

The Central American Game.

War in Central America has become almost as regular and frequent as sleigh-riding in Greenland or baseball in the United States. It is the great national game.

Dispatches from Honduras tell of a revolution that is on the verge of outbreak in that banana Eden. As usual, too United States citizens are concerned and incidentally the United States as a nation is involved. One Jose Valladores is leading a revolt against the existing Davilla government, and, according to reports, the entire western portion of the country is topsy-turvy with excitement. It appears that in the mixup an American consular agent has been injured by the revolutionists, whereupon the United States gunboat, the Princeton, has turned its guns on the harbor—the rebel leader with a threat to open fire if the rights of American citizens are further violated.

This situation is typical of what happens off and on every year. These petty outbreaks are not within themselves of great moment but they come so frequently as to keep commerce and business on pins. For the most part they seem to arise not directly from the people themselves, but from political and military adventurers, picarons of the Castro and Zelaya stamp.

While the United States has studiously avoided entanglements and any thing like a spirit of bravado in its relationships with these Central governments, these relationships themselves are so close and are each year growing so much more intimate that our policy toward them must, it would seem, become firmer and more definite. The completion of the Panama canal will throw upon the United States a large measure of responsibility for the peace and order of the Caribbean country. Commerce itself will require that either this nation or some European power shall stand guard there for civilization and trade.—Atlanta Journal.

Five Great Governors.

The Democrats have elected five governors in Northern States who rank as men of the highest type. They all bring to the public service records of solid outside politics.

That five men like John A. Dix, of New York; Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey; Judge Baldwin, of Connecticut; Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts; and Judson Harmon, of Ohio, by popular vote should be placed in the front rank of their party augurs well for the future. It signifies a strong and united Democracy, a strong opposition represented by a party guided by character and principle, with clear aims and definite duties to perform.

If Woodrow Wilson alone had been taken from private life and within a few weeks lifted to a pre-eminent position in the affairs of the country it would have been a national event. The campaign Dr. Wilson made in New Jersey was a revelation of powers so striking as to attract universal attention. It proves again how great are the latent resources of this country in men.

Not only to the States which they have been chosen to govern is the election of such men a distinct gain but to the nation at large it means general raising of the tone both in politics and public service. The influence that these Democratic governors will exercise as local leaders of their party will affect national standards through the example that they set within their separate fields.—New York World.

Coughs and Sneezes.

"My congregation coughed this morning," a clergyman said. "I could hardly make myself heard. It was most annoying."
"Well," said a physician, "the next time they cough tell them to press the upper lip just beneath the nose. Pressing the nerves in that quarter will stop the most obstinate cough, and by the same token it will stop a sneeze too."

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Greenville Household Finds Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Greenville readers: David R. Willis, East Main Street, Washington, N. C., says: "I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills as they have given me entire satisfaction. I suffered from disordered kidneys, the secretions from these organs being too frequent in passage, especially at night. I also had dull pains through my back, accompanied by sharp twinges in my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills were highly recommended, and I at last secured a box. They relieved the backache, disposed of the pains in my loins and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. Whenever I feel that my kidneys are disordered, I at once use Doan's Kidney Pills and they give me immediate relief." For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., N. York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

"Yes, just as too many appetizers spoil the appetite," agreed the simple mug.—Philadelphia Record.

TOMBS OF THE PHAROHS.

The Precautions Taken to Guard Against Grave Robbers.

The ingenuity displayed by the ancient Egyptians to prevent robbers from breaking into the pharaonic graves merits admiration from present day engineers, writes Dr. Holscher, chief architect in the Prussian government, in a work on the sarcophagus of Khafra, the builder of the second Gizeh pyramid, who reigned in Egypt some 5,000 years ago.

The lid of the red granite sarcophagus was dovetailed with minute precision into the receptacle. To prevent the cover from being drawn back the Egyptian builders bored two holes in the lid at the edge, not showing above. These corresponded exactly with two similar holes, less deep than the other two, sunk in the front of the receptacle. Two copper bolts were then placed in the lid holes, and at the moment the sarcophagus was fully closed the holes met and the bolts dropped in position from the upper holes partly into the lower, thus making it impossible to move the lid.

It must have struck the Egyptian engineers that grave robbers might get at the body by turning the sarcophagus upside down, in which case the bolts would slide back into their original position and permit the lid being drawn out. To prevent this they filled the lower holes with wax and made the bolts hot. Upon the lids being placed in position the bolts melted their way into the wax and upon cooling became so firmly fixed that nothing short of complete destruction could open the royal tomb.

It must have been a herculean labor to hew the whole edge away, but that is what grave desecrators did, and the wax can still be seen in the bore holes.

The "House Fly."

The reminiscent man suddenly found a gap in the conversation.
"I was in Kansas once," he began, "when one of those old time cyclones struck the town. I happened to be in my brother's house at the moment and heard the roar of the coming wind. I knew enough to run out in the street and lie down in the gutter with my arms clasped around a hitching post. The next moment the cyclone hit the town. Say, you ought to have seen the house fly."
"Did you swear it?" inquired the man on the soap box.
"And the story promptly ended.—Denver News.

An Ancient Steam Man.

There are a host of authorities on hydraulics and mechanics that could be quoted to support the assertion that the steam engine is not a modern invention. Carpini in the account of his travels, A. D. 1236, describes a species of neopne, or steam, engine made in the form of a man. This contrivance was filled with "inflammable liquid" (probably petroleum) and made to do terrible work in the battles between the Mongols and the troops of Prester John.

Remarkable.

"He takes a cold bath every morning—a very remarkable man!"
"Plenty of men do that."
"But I knew him for five years before he ever mentioned the fact."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Easier Way.

"Do foreigners buy many of our stocks?"
"Some. Usually, though, they prefer to acquire them by marriage."—Pittsburg Post.

A HINDU WIZARD.

His Trick That Puzzled an Occidental Master of Magic.

Some of the tricks of the Hindu wizards are past understanding, according to an occidental master of magic who was speaking of his oriental rivals. This is what he says he saw a Hindu wizard do in a club in Lucknow:

"He took a board and placed it on four glass goblets, thus elevating it from the floor. A youngster sitting on the board was requested to place his hands together, palms up. Then the juggler took a glass of water and poured it into the outstretched hands of the boy. In the meantime the boy had been mesmerized, and his attention was fixed on a point indicated by the magician. Gradually the water turned green in color and then developed into a jelly which increased in density until it became as solid as a stone. Out of the center of this appeared the head of a snake, which gradually developed until in the place of the water there appeared a hissing reptile. I was amazed. I can assure you, but the trick was not yet completed. Hitting the reptile upon the head with his wand, the juggler took it up carefully and placed it back in the glass. As we looked it became transformed into a jelly, which in turn melted into a greenish colored water. Clearer and clearer became the fluid until it was of its original color, and then the juggler placed it to his lips and drank the entire contents. This was the most wonderful trick I ever saw performed, and it is as mysterious to me today as it was then."

Home Traits.

"Isn't your husband dyspeptic?"
"I rather think he is. I know he always disagrees with his meals."

NOTICE.

In the Superior Court—Pitt County
Notice of Summons and Warrant of Attachment.
C. T. Munford against

Benthall Manufacturing Co.,
and the Bank of Greenville.
The defendant Benthall Manufacturing Company will take notice that a summons in the above entitled action was issued against it by the clerk of the Superior court of Pitt county, on the 8th day of November, 1910, returnable to the December term, 1910, of the Superior court of Pitt county, commencing on the 12th day of December, 1910, which summons was returned by the sheriff of Pitt county on the 9th day of November, 1910, with the endorsement "Defendant Benthall Manufacturing Company not to be found in my county." And it appearing by the affidavit of the plaintiff that the said Benthall Manufacturing Company is a foreign corporation with its place of business outside of the State of North Carolina, that the purpose of said action, as alleged by the plaintiff, is to recover of the defendant Benthall Manufacturing Company the sum of $350 due to him for breach of contract in the sale of a peanut picker.

The said Benthall Manufacturing Company will also take notice that a warrant of attachment was issued by said clerk, on the said 8th day of November, 1910, against the property of said company, which warrant is returnable to the said December term 1910, of the Superior court of Pitt county, it being the time and place
when and where the summons is returnable.

And the defendant Benthall Manufacturing Company will also take notice that it is required to appear at said term and answer or demur
to the complaint of the plaintiff, or the relief therein demanded will be granted.
This the 9th day of Nov. 1910.

His Conundrum.

It was during the prune course at the boarding house breakfast table.
The thin man spoke:
"I've got a new one this morning.
Why is a one cent stamp like a sloop?"
"Because," began the stenographer,
with her eyes on the ceiling.
"No; that's not the reason," said the thin man.
"My guess is because a sale makes it go," suggested the fat boarder at the end of the table.
"Very good," said the thin man, "but not the correct answer."
"Well, we give it up," came in chorus.
"Because it's a single sticker," said
the thin man as he began to dodge things.—Yonkers Statesmen.

Animals and Flesh Eating.

Arguing against the eating of meat,
an English writer remarks: "Almost any animal can be made to eat flesh.
The kangaroo has canine teeth. Horses,
oxen and sheep may be taught to eat flesh. Norwegian cows have been known to eat flesh. Goldsmith saw a sheep eat flesh. Spallanzani has shown that a pigeon may be made to live on flesh and an eagle on bread."

A GASTRONOMIC JOY.

Old English Recipe For the Famous
Soupe a la Crecy.

In the "Illustrated London Cookery Book," by Frederick Bishop, late culi-niner to St. James' palace, Earl Grey,
the Marquis of Stafford, Baron Rothschild, Earl Norbury, Captain Duncombe and many of the first families of Great Britain (1852), we find this recipe for soupe a la Crecy:

"Cut half a pound of lean ham in dice, three onions, four turnips, twelve carrots (the outer side red only), a head of celery, a fagot of sweet herbs, two blades of mace, six cloves, a bay leaf and half a pound of salt butter. Fry all down in a stewpan until they get a little brown; then add some second stock and stew until all the roots are quite tender; then rub it through a tammy sieve or tammy cloth with two long spoons. If very thick add more stock. Season with cayenne and black pepper and salt and a good bit of sugar. Send up on a napkin some nice fried bread cut in small dice and not greasy."

This is far less elaborate than it sounds and is, indeed, in the main the recognized recipe for the royal soup.
The spice is, if anything, a trifle over-
done, and the carrots want to be well chosen, as the slightest stringiness destroys the homogeneity of the compound. The bread dice are important and should be fried in the very best butter or superlatively good olive oil.—
Pall Mall Gazette.

CORDITE.

Made of Two Powerful Explosives
Kneaded Into Paste.

Cordite is the outcome of the strange paradox that if you mix together two powerful explosives the result is a smokeless slow burning powder. Ni-troglycerin and gun cotton mixed together with a little petroleum jelly make cordite. It is curious to see the two deadly explosives being kneaded together into a paste by women with the same unconcern as dough is kneaded for bread. Indeed, machines similar to those used in bakeries take up the work and knead the buff colored cordite paste for seven hours. Then it is forced through molds and issues in long cords—hence the name cordite—
the thickness of which is varied according to the weapon in which it is to be used.

For big guns cordite is half an inch thick and cut into lengths of thirty-seven inches. Rather more than a thousand of these cordite sticks packed in two bundles make up the cartridge for a twelve inch gun. For the rifle cordite is pressed into a very thin string, like the finest macaroni, and sixty of these strands one inch and a half long make the neat little bundle
which lies inside the cartridge case.
For some European armies cordite is made in flat thin strips like whalebone. Kept away from fire, cordite can be handled with impunity.—London Graphic.

Mountains of Moab.

Most travelers who visit the Holy Land content themselves with a visit to that restricted part west of Jordan.
The mountainous regions of Moab as seen by them from Jerusalem are lost
in a purple haze that constantly hangs over them, and the great stretches beyond are covered in mystery. This is true partly because of the fewer historical incidents connected with the eastern regions, but mainly on account of the great abyss of the Jordan valley that has always acted as a barrier.
Few who descend into the valley 1,300
feet below sea level undertake to climb
the hills beyond, which rise to a height of 3,000 feet. Though its glory is far outshone, by that of western Palestine, still, both in the old and the new dispensations, it has a history of its own and from an economic standpoint will always enter very largely into the life of Palestine.—Christian Herald.

Victor Hugo's Double.

Victor Hugo had a real double in flesh and blood, who exploited his physical resemblance to the man of genius. He cut his beard like Hugo's, copied the master's dress in its smallest details and so for eighteen years divided with the master the admiration of the public. His especial delight was to pose in a poetical attitude
in front of a Punch and Judy show.
He did this at a particular spot every Thursday afternoon for years, thoroughly enjoying the murmurs of curiosity and applause proceeding from the gaping crowd which he deceived.
We do not hear that he repented any
of that reward but his pleasure.

The Carrot Cure.

Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, referring to the true efficacy of carrots as a cure for wounds (a tradition which was certainly not handed down from Crecy), writes to Dr. Hunt in 1863, telling him how a man's heel, which was severely wounded at the battle of Fredericksburg, was treated by Dr.
Bigelow, who did nothing but keep the wound open and made the patient use
for this purpose a little plug of carrot, which seemed to agree with him very well.

Another more modern medical authority says that for delicate persons
an excellent supper vegetable is a fair sized carrot, boiled whole so as to retain its aromatic properties, then split into quarters and warmed afresh before being served hot. It acts as a nervine sedative while being cordial and restorative. A sense of mental invigoration will follow, and the digestion of this estimable root will be readily performed without preventing sleep.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Peacock Plumage.

However much milliners may admire the plumage of the peacock and however much they may desire the money it brings, superstition prevents many of them from using it.
"Rather than give peacock feathers
house room I would lose my best customer," one milliner declared. "I have done it more than once. Women who want their own materials made up have brought peacock trimming, and when I positively refused to handle it they went away angry and looked for somebody else to work up their peac-cock feathers. But no doubt they had a long chase, because two-thirds of the milliners feel just as I do about peacocks' feathers."

"But why?" asked a woman who carried a peacock feather in her hand bag.

"It's bad luck. That is why," said the
milliner.—New York Sun.

Ship Money.

Charles I. was badly in need of money, and his attorney general in the course of his antiquarian researches discovered that in the dim ages of the past the crown had issued writs to the cities and towns on the coast requiring them to provide vessels for the royal needs, and he suggested that this ancient right might be brought into use again. Instead of the actual vessels a money contribution might be exacted instead. Thus the king would be able to tax a larger part of the realm while theoretically observing the laws. Writs for ship money were accordingly issued, but the patriot John Hampden declared that they were illegal and raised such a protest against them
that they were practically nullified.

Serious Business.

Policeman—Hi! What are you doing up that ladder? Husband (returning late)—Hush! I'm only seeing if my wife is already asleep.—Piercing Blat-
