A RESUME OF THE TOBACCO SITUATION

SELLING HIGHER ON EASTERN MARKETS THAN EVER BEFORE

WHAT CAUSES THESE HIGH PRICES?

Intelligent Control of Acreage—Farmers Urged Not to Take Either Extreme of Planting Too Much or Too Little—Use Business Judgment and Individual Ideas.

Tobacco is selling higher on the markets of Eastern North Carolina now than it has ever sold since my connection with the tobacco trade. The average on our floors is from fourteen to seventeen cents daily, while the quality of the tobacco is no better than a very large per cent of the tobacco that has been raised during the last several years in this section. What then is the cause of the high prices? There is hardly a farmer in Eastern North Carolina who does not recall that during the last few years I have repeatedly urged farmers to curtail their crop as the most effective means of advancing the price of tobacco.

The present high price of tobacco is the direct result of a reduction of acreage on the part of the tobacco growers and the subsequent reduction of production on account of excessive rain during the growing season. Last fall I went all over Eastern North Carolina urging the farmers to reduce the acreage from twenty to twenty-five per cent. I believed the condition of the tobacco trade at that time was such that a reduction of this much was necessary for profitable prices to the farmers.

I believed if the crop were reduced twenty-five per cent, it would bring more money than if the same acreage were planted of the year before. I don't suppose there are many farmers who will take a different view at this time.

I now want to call the attention of tobacco farmers to the necessity of moving wisely and cautiously in the planting of the next tobacco crop. I know of no influence that will keep tobacco high when a surplus is made, and I have never seen any influence press down the price of tobacco when the supply was less than the demand. But from my point of view, it would be equally as disastrous to farmers for the time being to make too small a crop as too large a crop—one extreme is likely to follow another, and with a very small production, the price would no doubt be such an inducement that in a short while the production would far exceed the demand. The proper thing to do, is to study conditions from their individual point of view and plant the tobacco crop in proportion to the evidence of demand appears to them from the sale of their own tobacco. If farmers would act on this, and this alone, the matter of production would be so uniformly settled by the individual acting in common with his fellow farmers that the result of the whole would almost invariably prove profitable and satisfactory. In other words, if every farmer would plant his crop, not according to the impression of what some other farmer will do, but in accordance with his own convictions as to what is right and what is proper for them all to do, it would be a rare case when prices would not be satisfactory. With tobacco selling at an average of eight cents and the farmers continuing to plant large crops the conclusion is natural that farmers are satisfied at this price, but with tobacco at twelve cents average, and only a normal crop following, would be taken as an expression of fair prices, while a great decrease or increase in acreage following twelve cents average would prove the strongest expression that farmers could employ to show their satisfaction or dissatisfaction.

The bright tobacco industry is in good, healthy condition. There is nothing for farmers to become alarmed about, nor is there anything especially in the prices that are prevailing to justify any great increase in acreage, even though farmers were disposed to do this.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Community Social News Items and Business Notes.

Ayden, N. C., Nov. 16.—Miss Nancy Coward spent Sunday with her sister Mrs. Jos. Dixon.

Misses Olivia, Beuy and Lee Nichols attended the dedication at Farmville Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Whitley, of New Born, who have been visiting at Hotel Blount, returned to their home Monday.

Miss May Dickerson has taken a position with J. R. Smith Company. Arthur McLawhorn and Miss Dora Roberson, of Conctoe, were married here last Thursday, Mayor Barwick officiating.

Mr. L. K. Witherington, the aged father of our townsman, Mr. L. H. Witherington and Mrs. J. M. Dixon, died at his home near Johnsons Mill Monday. He had been suffering from several attacks of paralysis until death came and took him away. He was an excellent man, a Christian gentleman, stood well in his community and church. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. Howard.

Mr. R. W. Smith is confined to his home with rheumatism.

Cotton is coming in freely. Nearly 2500 bales have been marketed at date at satisfactory prices.

We are paying $1.50 per bushel for field peas.—J. R. Smith Company.

The ladies of the town are making preparation to present "The Old Maids' Convention" Thanksgiving night in the graded school building. This will be something rich in store for all who go. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the new Methodist church.

Woodland Items.

Woodland, N. C., Nov. 16.—It has been very dry, but we are having some rain at this time.

There was a large attendance at the conference last week.

Mrs. Martha Baker, of Greenville, came to attend the conference. She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Barber.

Miss Mabel Craft and Mr. Edwards from near Falkland, came through last Friday to attend the conference. Miss Mills of Cox's Mill, spent last Friday night with Miss Martha Hardee.

Woodland school opened yesterday with small attendance and Miss Johnson, of Winterville, teacher.

The Woodland boys went to play the Glendale boys last Saturday and lost their nerve when they saw them coming. The game ended 9 to 0 in favor of Woodland. That shows what Woodland is, don't it?

Rev. Philip Woodard came out Saturday evening to fill his appointment at Piney Grove Saturday night and Sunday.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

Do you realize that it is less than six weeks to Christmas?

This was one of the cold mornings.

The marriage of Mr. W. L. Best and Miss Glenn Forbes will take place in the Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock.

Ice was plentiful this morning. Some twenty-five or thirty people went from here to Raleigh today to the aviation meet.

The service in the Baptist church tonight will close promptly at 8.45 to give all desiring to do so ample time to attend the marriage in the Methodist church.

It is desired that more of the singers of the town join the chorus choir as the number of voices in the choir is not as large as it should be.

Eclipse This Evening.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon this evening between 6 and 7 o'clock that will be worth observing. Under the "Astronomical Events" in another article on this page will be found some interesting information about this eclipse. There may not be another opportunity in a life time to witness such a scene as the moon will present this evening. Being a full moon and at a time when it is so near the earth the eclipse will be easily visible.

There is nothing for which the heart yearns more than sympathy.

Statesville Man Dies of Bright's Disease—Big Fire at Wilmington Burns Seven Mules, Etc.—Buncombe Led in the Voting This Year—Enormous Flash of Lightning at Roanoke Rapids.

Wilmington, Nov. 15.—Seven mules and one horse belonging to the city were incinerated, another horse badly burned that he had to be killed; seven carriages, one casket wagon and two wagonettes belonging to the Orrell Livery Co. were consumed in a fire which broke out in a building used by the livery company as an annex on North Third street at an early hour yesterday morning. There were 10 head of animals in the building, two of which were gotten out, but one was in such condition it was thought best to shoot him.

Morganton, Nov. 15.—Mr. Charles A. Armfield, of Statesville, secretary of the board of directors of the state hospital at Morganton, who had been seriously ill of Bright's disease in the department of the superintendent for several weeks, died here at 1.05 tonight.

Any precinct in North Carolina which is anxious to be considered as the banner one on the roll of the victorious Democracy had best take notice of the record of Providence No. 2, in this county, where 61 Democratic votes were cast out of a registration of 82, the other man simply forgetting to vote.—Charlotte Observer.

Buncombe county led the voting this year. In that county for the state ticket, 6,768 votes were cast in Wake, the next highest, the total vote didn't quite reach 6,000. Guilford's vote was about the same. Wake, while Mecklenburg's was only 4,428 and New Hanover's dropped down to 2,255. The showing is a good one for Buncombe.—Raleigh Times.

Roanoke Rapids, Nov. 15.—Roanoke Rapids experienced last night one of the most destructive electrical storms in its history, in the form of a violent thunderbolt, about 6 p. m. About twelve residences and buildings were struck by this flash, including the Baptist church, the front of which was almost completely demolished and the roof set on fire. A boy of 10 years of age, Walter Parker, the son of the sexton, was in the church at the time of the flash and was instantly killed.

The residence of Mr. W. C. Edwards was also set on fire by the flash, the flames in both instances being quickly extinguished by the prompt and efficient action of the fire department. The residence of Mr. Reuben Lassiter was also struck and one corner same torn up. Several other residences had holes knocked in them, through plaster and weatherboarding, the lightning entering through telephone and light wires. A dozen or more people who were walking on the streets at the time were thrown to the ground and stunned by the flash. The power station of the Roanoke Rapids Power Company was struck and one of their 100-horse-power generators demolished. A curious feature of the phenomenon was that it occurred in the form of one violent flash, unaccompanied by the usual minor flashes that form part of the ordinary electrical storm, and came without warning from a sky only partially clouded. The telephone and light systems of both this place and Weldon were seriously crippled in several instances the copper being completely burnt out of the wires for many feet. The Weldon power plant was also thrown out of commission.

The Shelby Aurora, Republican, complains that "it's bad, mighty bad, for a negro or a one-gallus white man to sell a pint or a quart of liquor, but it is all right (?) for a politician to deal it out on election day to make democratic votes. This is straining at a goat and swallowing a camel." It seems to us that the Aurora is not very complimentary to its own party associates when it makes such a charge.—Raleigh Times.

TWO PRE-NUPTIAL RECEPTIONS GIVEN

IN HONOR OF MISS GLENN FORBES, BRIDE-ELECT

BOTH VERY PLEASANT OCCASIONS

Mrs. J. H. Boyd Gives the Bride-Elect a Linen Shower, and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Forbes Entertain the Bridal Party at a Reception.

On Tuesday afternoon from 3.30 to 5.30 Mrs. J. H. Boyd entertained with a linen shower in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Glenn Forbes.

At the appointed hour a large number of handsomely gowned guests began streaming in, each bringing with her some beautiful piece of linen. The hostess, attractive in a white satin gown, received at the door with the honoree who was harnessed in lavender brocaded satin with jewel trimmings. They were assisted in receiving by Miss Sadler, of Baltimore, who was pretty in a blue satin coat suit, and Miss Whitfield, of LaGrange, who was charming in a gown of white satin veiled with black.

As the guests were received they were led to the punch bowl where delightful fruit trappé was served in a gracious way by Mrs. Moyer and Mrs. Quinley.

The entire house was artistically decorated with pot plants and chrysantheums. The color scheme of pink and white was carried out as far as possible. The parlor was resplendent with soft lights and streamers of pink and white hearts, cupid and wedding bells. After a short time the guests were ushered to the library where tables had been placed for a game of hearts. The prize, a beautiful hand-painted bowl, was won by Mrs. Roy Flaunagan. The hostess also presented the honoree with a pretty mayonaisse dish.

After the fifth hand, the guests retired to the linen room, which was charming in pink and white. After the bride-to-be was seated, Miss Annie Leonard and Christine Tyson, dressed as laundresses, brought in a very large basket which contained all sorts of pretty linen articles and showered them upon her.

Proceeding to the dining room, decorated in green and white, Misses Mattie Moyer King, Lillian Burch, Willie Ragsdale and Beulah Whichard served delightfully cream and cake. The former being in pink heart shape, in the center stood a table spread with chrysantheums, marked with silver fern fish containing smilax and orange blossoms. Above the table was suspended a large green shade from which dangled white cupids, hearts and bells. Numerous candelabras with green shades and burning white candles were placed here and there, lending a pretty effect to the final scene of so well appointed and thoroughly enjoyed occasion.

Every one departed reluctantly, after giving expressions of appreciation to the hostess, and wishing everything that is lovely and happy for the bride-elect.

With Mr. and Mrs. Forbes. One of the most pleasant receptions of the season was that given Tuesday evening from 10.30 to 12 by Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Forbes at their home on Evans street, in honor of the Best-Forbes bridal party.

The members of the party, consisting of Mrs. C. J. Forbes, mother of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. George Hixley, of LaGrange, Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Moyer, Mrs. M. H. Quinley, Mrs. J. R. Quinley of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Forbes, Miss Glenn Forbes the bride-to-be, Misses Helen Forbes, Sophia Sadler, of Baltimore, Job Whitfield, of LaGrange, Nan Coward, Olive Gaston and Lillian Burch, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hall, Mr. W. L. Bes, the groom-to-be, Messrs. S. T. White, Walter Wilson, Carey Warren, J. Y. Monk, of Farmville and W. E. Hooker, were met at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Forbes and escorted to the parlor which was beautifully decorated with ferns, white chrysantheums, where delightful music mingled with the happiness of the evening.

At 11 o'clock the guests were ushered into the tastefully decorated dining room pot plants and chrysantheums being used, and served by the ladies, Mrs. F. J. Forbes, E. A. Moyer and C. S. Forbes with chicken salad

SPLIT IN FEDERATION.

Socialists Claim to be Gaining in Strength.

By Wire to The Reflector.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Caucuses are being held secretly by Socialists leaders attending the Federation of Labor with the two fold object of getting control of the federation and of defeating Samuel Gompers' re-election as president. The split has become so pronounced that Socialists have moved away from the headquarters hotel and established headquarters of their own. The Socialists say they are making great gains in the Federation and point to the fact that they now have 85 men when they had only two or three ten years ago.

UNCLE SAM'S FLEET.

Britishers Give The Ships a Cordial Welcome.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Gravesend England, Nov. 16.—Booming cannons, flying flags and British oratory welcomed the third division of the United States fleet in port here today. As the flagship Minnesota, followed by the others, came to anchorage, Mayor Davies boarded her and welcomed them in the name of the town. The water front was massed with people who cheered as they watched the approach of the ships. Some of the spectators carried American flags.

Count Tolstol Nears End.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.

(From noon today to noon tomorrow.) Sun sets 4.38, rises 6.46; moon sets 7.34 a. m.; 7.17 p. m., eastern time, full moon in constellation Aries, also moon at ascending node, crossing sun's path, hence total eclipse of moon in earth's shadow, ending visible generally in United States; eastern time, moon enters penumbra 4.45 p. m., enters shadow 5.44 p. m., hence rises partially eclipsed; totality begins 6.55 p. m., middle 7.21, total ends 7.47, leaves shadow 8.58, leaves penumbra 9.56; subtract one, two and three hours for central, mountain and Pacific time; magnitude of eclipse 1.131, the moon's diameter being 1.0; 9.42 p. m., eastern time, moon at perigee, distant only 221,700 miles, nearest earth, hence appears large during eclipse, especially when rising.

Pickles, sandwiches, biscuits and coffee.

After the delicious refreshments were enjoyed, the guests returned to the parlor and gathered around the handsome library table upon which had been placed a large beautiful wedding cake, mounted with very unique miniature bride and groom. Here the most interesting part of the evening took place, for the destiny of all lay in the way they ate of the cake, whether to eat the corn and be fraught with riches, or the bird to die and become the next lucky party. The thimble and be-to-never took to the state of those whom the sociologists and modern essayists nominate "superfluous men and women," or in the more common parlance of every day speech, "old bachelors and old maids. The bride-elect cut the first slice, but not fortune having been determined she cut neither the coin, thimble nor ring. They followed the bride party, Miss Gaston cutting the coin, Miss Sadler the ring and Mr. White the thimble. The bride-to-be having been blissfully toasted, after much merriment and expressions of congratulation the party gave their attention to the most and hostess.

"THOU ART THE MAN"---SERMON

DAVID'S SIN AND CONFESSION AND GOD'S FORGIVENESS

CONTRASTED WITH SINS OF TODAY

Congregation Felt The Force of the Sermon and Many Stood in Confession—Cottage Prayer Meetings Now Being Held—Meeting Grows in Interest.

This was the theme of Dr. Black's excellent sermon in the Methodist church Tuesday night, and there was not a person in the large congregation who did not feel that the sermon, or part of it, did not apply. It was a discourse that reached men's hearts and lives, and it was listened to with undivided attention, for every one felt more or less that "Thou art he man."

Dr. Black read as a Scripture lesson that portion of the 11th chapter of 2nd Samuel relating to David's sin, and his text was the 7th verse of that chapter. He referred to the disposition of people when any sin is spoken against to try to snuff the application from themselves to others, and said he wanted every hearer to be honest with his own heart and life and see if "Thou art the man" for rest assured that even if we can hide our sins from others, and be obliged to them ourselves, we cannot hide them from God. In referring to David's sins of covetousness, deception, adultery, double life, even murder, and the punishment that came upon him for this, he made the application in discussing numerous sins that mar the lives of people today and the folly of trying to hide and not confess them. David confessed his sin and God forgave him. So he will do for all who make honest confession, but there is no forgiveness without confession. At the conclusion of the sermon a large part of the congregation stood as a confession that their lives were not what they should be and a prayer was offered for God's forgiveness.

At this service two beautiful duets were sung, one by Mrs. Skinner and Mr. James, "Crossing the Bar," and one by Dr. Black and Mr. Burr, "Yes, There's One." At Tuesday morning's service a duet was sung by Misses Gaston and Smith.

Several cottage prayer meetings were announced to be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Owing to the preparation and use of the Methodist church for a marriage tonight, the 10.45 service this morning was held in the Presbyterian church. The 7.30 service tonight will be held in the Baptist church and the morning service tomorrow in the Presbyterian church again, then all other services in the Methodist church.

The first division of American battleship fleet headed by flagship Connecticut, flying Rear Admiral Shroeder's flag, sailed into the harbor here this morning and was greeted with a thunder salute from the British guns. Vice Admiral May of the English battleship Dreadnaught, visited Admiral Shroeder and later the American officer returned the visit. The harbor here is so small that the English battleships here sailed away to make room for the American fleet.

The Weather.

The Wilmington Star wants to know what is a Democrat? He is almost anybody you can put your finger on now, especially in North Carolina.

About the two biggest things for Eastern North Carolina to consider is good roads and drainage. These would make this the garden spot of the world.

The Cotton Crop.

What will be the size of it? The guesses range from 10,000,000 to 13,000,000 bales. The always well posted New Orleans Picayune says that about the only reliable guide that can be found is the census reports on the amount of cotton ginned to given periods. While these reports show the amount actually ginned, they still leave in doubt the amount to be ginned for the balance of the season. Yesterday the census reported that up to November 1, 7,339,983 bales of cotton had been ginned, as compared with 7,017,849 bales last year and 8,191,557 bales year before last. If the amount of cotton ginned to November 1 represented any fixed percentage of the crop on that date, the problem as ascertaining the total yield would be easy, but it does nothing of the sort. Take, for instance the crop of 1907, which was good yield, although the ginnings to November 1 were only 6,128,562 bales, or more than a million bales less than this year.

That the fact the amount ginned to November 1 this year exceeds last year by over 300,000 bales notwithstanding the admitted lateness of the crop makes it reasonably certain that the crop will be larger than last year. As a matter of fact, Texas and Oklahoma have already ginned as much cotton as during the whole of last year. But even if this year's crop should prove a million bales larger than last year, it still would be a very short crop, considering the great exhaustion of all surplus stocks and the reasonably expected consumption it will take at least one month to fully develop the size of the crop, but it can readily be predicted with reasonable certainty that the consumption of cotton will readily absorb any supply likely to be offered. It is true that current prices for cotton are high, the highest, in fact, for this time of the year in many years, but considering the facts of supply and demand as so far developed they would seem to be fully justified. Whether values will go higher, remain stationary or decline, the developments of the next month will probably indicate, but what seems reasonably certain is that there will be no low prices this year, or even comparatively low prices.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Protect The Horses.

We lay no special claim to veterinary knowledge, but one does not need to have special professional knowledge to know that more chink-jag in the walls means less fuel will be needed on the hearth, and exactly the same rule applies with regard to our four-footed friends in the stable. True, there is no fire in the stable and no hearth, for that matter, either, but a large part of the corn and oats and rough food that we daily apportion to the horse or mule during the cold weather is nothing more nor less than fuel to protect the animal from the cold. A certain amount of food is necessary whatever may be the weather, but by no means the same amount is necessary to keep a horse in good condition in a close, warm stable as is required when the door is one of the smallest cracks.

All this is common knowledge. Scarcely a horse owner anywhere would receive it as information not already within his knowledge. And yet in spite of this, the average stable is an open, hap-hazard sort of affair that does well if it protects its inmates against the rain, to say nothing of the wind and the cold.

As a matter of fact, we should have enough kindly feeling for the animals that serve us so faithfully to give them all reasonably convenient protection. But, putting the matter on a lower plane and regarding it simply as a selfish proposition of dollars and cents, a few pounds of nails and a lot of scraps of lumber that can probably be picked up on the place, will cut down feed bills many dollars during the course of the winter, to say nothing of giving us better, stonger and healthier horses when the spring work comes around.

This is not a preaching, but it is a gentle reminder of what we can do either for ourselves or by way of suggestion to our well-intentioned but more or less stiftless neighbors.

Should Change Policy.

The two great parties at Washington have hitherto waged a bitter war against each other. Party lines have been closely drawn and measures without regard to their merit or relation to the welfare of the country have received the full party vote. As a result very little has been done. The tariff wall stands, the trusts remain in business and the cost of living continually scars upward. Now, then, congress ought to change its policy. The Democrats have a big majority in the house and the Republicans a small majority in the senate. It is clearly the desire of the masses that the Democrats should rule the government. Let this small Republican majority in the senate stand aside and give the Democrats a chance, and let Mr. Taft join in with the great mass of the people. Then, if the Democrats fail, charge it to them. It is up to the Republican party whether or not it desires to give a square deal.—Salisbury Post.

God will go where the humblest child is not welcome.

A Thoughtful Conclusion.
"Pa," said Willie thoughtfully, "I think I know what the minister meant when he said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.'"
"Yes," replied his pa. "Well, what did he mean?"
"He meant," said Willie, "that it is more blessed to give than to receive."

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Greenville Household Finds Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Greenville readers:

David R. Willis, East Main Street, Washington, N. C., says: "I have no hesitation in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills as they have given me entire satisfaction. I suffered from disordered kidneys the secretions from these organs being too frequent in passage, especially at night. I also had dull pains through my back, accompanied by sharp twinges in my loins. Doan's Kidney Pills were highly recommended, and I at last secured a box. They relieved the backache, disposed of the pains in my loins and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. Whenever I feel that my kidneys are disordered, I at once use Doan's Kidney Pills and they give me immediate relief."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Wilbur Co., N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—make no other.

Gloves With Fingers.

It was in the twelfth century that gloves with separate fingers were first worn.

Religion of India.

The religious beliefs of India are numerous and range from Buddhists in the east, pagans in the north and Mohammedans in the northwest, through the great bulk of Hindus in the center, to Buddhists and Christians in the extreme south.

Marriage.

Marriage is a close corporation with only two stockholders, one of whom is preferred and the other common. Occasionally there are minority stockholders. The preferred and the common stockholders are always engaged in a fight for control.—Life.

Fellow Worms.

Before Longfellow bought the house in Cambridge so associated with his memory it was owned and occupied by old Mrs. Craigie. Mrs. Craigie was a woman of many eccentricities. Some one once tried to persuade her to have her trees bared to protect them from caterpillars, which also invaded her neighbors' trees. She refused to be so cruel to the caterpillars. "They are our fellow worms," she said.

Some what Surprised.

"Why didn't your boy enter college?" "He couldn't pass the examination." "Do they have to pass an examination?" "I thought all a college boy would wear some funny clothes."—Hiburg Post.

His Motive.

Pillows—I never realized till three years ago why Dobson was always preaching patience. Bolsters—What made you realize it then? Pillows—I lent him $10.—New York Globe.

Encouragement after censure is as the rub after a shower.—Hiburg Post.

Not a Disease.

"I can't understand my husband, doctor. I am afraid there is something terrible the matter with him."

"What are his symptoms?"

"Well, I often talk to him for half an hour at a time, and when I get through he hasn't the least idea what I've been saying."

"Don't worry any more about your husband. I wish I had his gift."

All Depends.

"I don't like to listen to hard luck stories. Do you?"

"That depends on whether they are reminiscences or the preliminaries to a touch."—Washington Herald.

Didn't Like the Suit.

"Str." said the young man as he entered the library for the purpose of interviewing the father of the only girl. "I am in love with your daughter. Have you any objection to my suit?"

The old man looked the y. m. over from head to foot.

"I sure have," he replied. "Why, I wouldn't wear a night suit like that to a dog fight. Why don't you try some other tailor?"—Chicago News.

From His Pa's Side.

"She doesn't know where the baby gets his bad temper."

"That's strange. Most young mothers can place that sort of responsibility in a jiffy."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Another Definition.

Little Willie—Say, pa, what is a coquette? Pa—A coquette, my son, is a girl who gets more admiration than proposals.—Exchange.

Anger begins in folly and ends in repentance.—Pythagoras.

A Chinese Hero.

At Loping Hsien is a statue draped in full dress of a mandarin (the puting or police master) named Chin, who gave his life for the people. An exile who was in the camp at Jaochow and who owed the Hsien (district magistrate) a grudge, rode a black horse to Loping and, having killed the Hsien, got back for the Jaochow toll call next morning. As the murderer could not be found orders came from the capital that a large number of the people should be killed. To prevent this slaughter of innocent folk the putting, a good old man, said he stabbed the Hsien after a few words over the wine cups, and he was consequently beheaded. No resident of the district would deal the fatal blow, but an itinerant cobbler or bamboo worker did it for a reward of 40 taels. Tradition adds that he was struck dead by lightning after leaving the execution ground.—Chinese Mercury.

Sameness of Opinion.

"I suppose," said the young man with the soiled collar and baggy trousers as he sat down beside a stranger on one of the park benches, "you would not take me for a member of a millionaire's family, would you?"

"No," answered the stranger after sizing him up; "frankly speaking, I wouldn't."

"Neither would the millionaire," rejoined the young man sadly. "I asked him last night."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

Which He Did.

"I'll make somebody smart for this!" exclaimed the man who had thoughtlessly kicked an innocent looking hat that lay on the sidewalk.

And he lipped-homeward and scolded his wife for not having dinner ready.—Exchange.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 16.—Irregularity in trading with most stocks quoting fractional gains marked early trading, which later began to lag and the market in general suffered a depression. Hill stocks were prominent factors in the early upward movement with Great Northern starting 2-8 above the closing prices. Railroad stocks in general were strong.
Steel crossed 80, a fraction higher than the closing quotation.

New York, Nov. 16.—Cotton opened higher with steady cash today.
There was considerable room trading and prices continued to harden ary 14.28; March 14.42 (b'd).

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Wheat was 1-3 to 5-8c higher at the opening; corn started higher, but trading was light and uninteresting. Oats opened slow with prices a trifle higher, while provisions were lower. Opening December wheat 99; corn 46 3-8;

Getting Back to Cleveland.

It is interesting to read again in
The Sun this morning that simple, direct, convincing message which Grover Cleveland sent to Congress 23 years ago. Democrats may differ about free silver and an income tax and the popular election of senators but all Democrats should think almost about tariff reform. When a man abandons that doctrine he ceases to be a Democrat. And the issue is one that is not only fundamentally sound but popular also. With it the party can render a great patriotic service to the country; with it it can win.

Let the Democratic party get back to Cleveland. Let it take his one big issue of tariff reform and saving the country, boldly say: "On this rock we stand." The prize for such a performance is victory.—Baltimore Sun.

Notice.

Notice is given that on Thursday,
November 17, 1910, at 12 o'clock, a. m.,
I will resell the two tracts of land of Elizabeth Johnston, said lands situate about 3 miles from Greenville, on north side Tar river, and adjoining the lands of W. H. Harrington, Pebble Buck and others; one tract containing 12 3-4 acres and the other 24 3-7 acres.

The said lands were offered for sale on November 7, 1910, but the bid received at said sale having been raised, in pursuance of the announcement made on that occasion, the sale will be made.
