CHRYSANTHEMUM WEDDING

THE BEST-FORBES MARRIAGE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

TWO HAPPY HEARTS ARE UNITED

Ceremony Performed Amid a Scene of Beauty—Reception Follows at the Home of Mrs. C. J. Forbes, Mother of the Bride—Couple Depart for a Wedding Tour of Northern Cities.

Wednesday evening Jarvis Memorial Methodist church was the scene of a marriage to which Greenville has pleasantly looked forward for several weeks, when that popular young couple, Mr. William L. Best and Miss Mabel Glenn Forbes, took upon themselves the vows that made them one for life. The ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Shore.

The appropriate green and white decorations in the church made a beautiful sitting for such a scene. As the family and out of town guests were being escorted to their seats, Miss Olive Gaston played an organ prelude which was followed with "Because" charmingly sung by Mrs. W. L. Hall.

At 9.15, as Miss Gaston rendered the wedding march, the bridal party filed in to their respective positions about the altar.

First came the ushers, Messrs. A. J. Moore, J. Y. Monk, F. J. Forbes, S. T. White, Walter Wilson and Carey Warren.

Following these were the bride's maids, Misses Nancy Coward, Sophia Sadler, Lillian Burch and Job Whitfield. These were each attired in white satin with crystal trimmings and carried large bouquets of pink chrysanthemums.

Then came the dames of honor, Mesdames M. H. Quinerly and F. J. Forbes, each carrying a bouquet of pink chrysanthemums. Mrs. Quinerly wore white chiffon trimmed with applique and ermine, and Mrs. Forbes white chiffon over silk.

The maid of honor, Miss Helen Forbes, sister of the bride, came next. Her dress was pink crepe media with gold and pink Persian trimming.

The two little flower girls were Misses Clara Louise Moyer and Rosa Hadley, dressed in lace over pink.

Then came up the opposite aisles the couple whose hearts were to be united, the bride with her brother, Mr. C. S. Forbes, and the groom with his best man, Mr. W. E. Hooker. The bride's costume was of ivory satin trimmed with Duchess lace and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley.

Reception at Mrs. Forbes'

Immediately after the ceremony a public reception was held at the home of Mrs. C. J. Forbes, mother of the bride.

The guests were met at the front door by Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Moyer and Mr. and Mrs. George Hadley.

In the receiving line with the bride and groom in the parlor were the entire bridal party and Mrs. C. J. Forbes, and Mrs. Dan Quinerly and Mrs. Kiebler Denmark of Kinston. Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Forbes received at the library door. Here were seen the wedding presents, which were very numerous and beautiful.

At the dining room they were received by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd and laces were served by Misses Mattie Moyer King, Alice Blow, Vernessa and Mary Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Moyer served punch in the rear hall.

The out of town guests here at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George Hadley and Miss Job Whitfield, of LaGrange, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Chapman and Mr. Hinton Best, of Grifton; Mrs. Dan Quinerly and Mrs. Kiebler Denmark of Kinston; Miss Sophia Sadler, of Baltimore; Mr. J. Y. Monk, of Farmville; Mr. D. S. Chapman, of Washington; and Mr. Paul Webb, of Ayden.

The bride is a most popular young lady and a favorite with a great circle of friends. Mr. Best is a prominent jeweler and held in high esteem. They left on the midnight Norfolk Southern train for New York and other northern cities.

OUR TWICE-A-WEEK WINTERVILLE LETTER.

Notes From Our Hustling Neighbor—What Its People are Doing.

Rev. M. A. Adams and Prof. F. C. Nye left Monday evening to attend the Baptist association at Maysville and returned Wednesday.

Harrington, Barber & Company have a full line of ladies' and gentlemen's underwear for winter and prices low.

Mr. M. B. Bryan went to Grindool Sunday.

If you are wanting a cart or wagon, just ask your neighbor how he likes the "Tar Heel" manufactured by the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company. This famous wagon or cart always speaks through its users and they will recommend it.

Mr. C. T. Cox is attending court in Greenville this week as a juror and "Pistol" is catching.

Mr. C. T. Cox is attending court in Greenville this week as a juror and "Pistol" is catching.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cox left Wednesday evening for Morehead City and the association. While in Morehead they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wyatt.

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company can furnish you a coffin or a nice casket and also hearse service.

Mr. J. S. Ross and wife, of Ayden, spent Sunday in town visiting relatives.

Now as for shoes, Harrington, Barber & Company has 'em for babies, boys and girls and papa and mama. Come and see.

Mr. Ernest Cox went to Greenville today.

Mr. W. A. Shivers is a juror this week.

Mr. J. F. Stokes of Greenville, was in town talking insurance Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. B. F. Manning, our clever cotton buyer, went to Ormondsville Wednesday hunting cotton.

Mr. A. M. Barker came in Sunday night from Charleston to resume his work with the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company.

Call Meeting.

There will be a call meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. D. M. Jones, on Dickinson avenue. Every member is urged to be present, business of importance to be transacted.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 17.—Bradstreet's Saturday will say for Richmond and vicinity: Taken in general, trade conditions are normal for this season, however, a lack of buoyancy is noted in some lines. Dealers in toys and holiday goods report satisfactory orders. Shoes, rubber goods and kindred lines continue active. Dry goods are rather quiet. Produce and fruits are in good demand, the same may be said of fancy groceries. Drugs and chemicals continue active. The demand for lumber is quiet and building shows less activity. Retail trade is fair and collections show improvements over a comparative period of last month.

The Moon Eclipse.

The total eclipse of the moon came on Wednesday evening according to the schedule, and was an interesting spectacle. The full moon rose glorious, and about 6 o'clock the shadow of the earth began going over it. This continued until about 7 o'clock when the eclipse was total, only the pale red disc of the moon could be seen. The shadow all passed off in another hour and the moon shone out again as glorious as ever.

Another Hint.

The dollars that are in your pockets which ought to be in The Reflector pocket for subscription due, would help the cause very much if the transfer was made. Why not attend to this at once? The paper needs and ought to have every dollar due it.

Two Steamers Collide.

New York, Nov. 17.—The French liner La Loraine and Prinz Frederick Wilhelm, of the German Line were in a collision in North river this morning. Both boats had started out but had to return to their piers to repair damages. None was hurt.

Boy Choked to Death Eating Raw Potato at Durham—Bank Organized at Hobgood—Fire in Kinston Two Negroes Smothered Under Cotton Seed in Raleigh—Terrible Automobile Accident in Raleigh.

Durham, Nov. 16.—Eugene Belvin, the three-year-old and only son of Deputy Sheriff E. G. Belvin, was cooked to death this afternoon while eating a raw potato. The little fellow had swallowed the hard substance while his father was in the country hunting, but the mother and servant were present. It was but a few minutes when the doctor arrived, but he could not locate the potato.

Governor Kitchin has issued a commission to Col. R. L. Leinster as adjutant general of the North Carolina national guard, to succeed the late Gen. J. F. Armfield. Colonel Leinster was for 15 years closely associated with General Armfield in military service and was in charge of guard headquarters here since the death of his lifelong friend and superior officer, whom he now succeeds.

Fire this morning between two and three o'clock destroyed Mr. Cary Stroud's stables at the corner of King and Hertigage streets, and with them two horses, a mule, about $75 worth of feed stuff, five sets of harness and some other things in the building in the stables. The fire was probably accidental, but no one seems to have any theory about the manner in which it was started.—Kinston Free Press.

Mr. J. L. Lockhart of the Merchants Bank has returned from Hobgood, Halifax county, where he organized the Bank of Hobgood. Some of the principal stockholders are Messrs. L. J. Baker, Justus Everett, R. J. Shields and R. O. Everett. The officers of this new banking institution are J. L. Baker, president; R. J. Shields, vice-president; E. P. Hyman, cashier. The bank will open for business about the middle of December.—Durham Sun

Raleigh, Nov. 16.—North Carolina seems to be almost sweeping stakes in the matter of taking prizes at the national horticulture exhibit at Council Bluffs, Ia., where there is a special exhibit under the direction of W. N. Hutt, state horticulturist. In addition to the splendid prizes announced some days ago, a telegram today to the state department of agriculture announces the following: "Three hundred dollar grand sweepstakes prize for best general fruit display; first and best barrel of apples to Bolling Hall, Waynesville; best ten plates of apples won by Sparger Orchard Company, Mt. Airy; a total of 34 blue ribbons, ten reds and six white ribbons, and more to follow." All these are in addition to the $150 grand prize for best fruit from the Gulf and eastern states, silver cup for best vegetables from same territory and four gold medals, besides merchandise prizes.

Raleigh, Nov. 16.—Mrs. A. H. Mooneyhan, wife of a member of the mercantile corporation of Dobbin-Ferrall company here, and two negro women from Durham, were probably fatally injured during the flying machine and automobile meet this afternoon. H. D. Woolcott and Mrs. Woolcott were speeding a Jackson car around the racetrack, Mrs. Woolcott at the wheel, when the car skidded and plunged through the fence into a crowd of spectators. Mrs. Woolcott fainted, but her husband seized the wheel and shut down the power. Neither of the Woolcotts or the machine were seriously injured. The car ran over Mrs. Mooneyhan, breaking her leg and inflicting internal injuries. Alice Castlebury, a negro, of Durham, had her skull fractured, and Ada Bryant, also colored, of Durham, terribly mangled there being no hope of recovery of either of them, and only a fighting chance for Mrs. Mooneyhan. Miss Sallie Linbury, of Raleigh, and Miss Eula Baucom, of Apex, were also injured, making five in all run over by the automobile.

Garment Workers Strike

Trouble and Rioting Going on in Chicago.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Chicago, Nov. 17.—Rioting was resumed throughout the garment factory districts this morning, following the rejection by starving strikers of the terms offered by the big clothing firms. The strikers boarded street cars and dragged off non-union workmen and in many instances attacked workers as they would enter factories. The police used clubs on the crowds.

If a man's conversation is heavy, it's a safe bet that his words carry but little weight.

"THE VALUE OF A SOUL"

DR. BLACK DELIVERS ANOTHER POWERFUL SERMON

PREACHES IN THE BAPTIST CHURCH

"For What Shall It Profit a Man, if He Shall Gain the Whole World and Lose His Own Soul? Or What Shall a Man Give in Exchange for His Soul?" Service Tonight in Methodist Church.

Owing to the Methodist church being used Wednesday night for a marriage, the Black meeting was held in Memorial Baptist church, and the large congregation that filled the church heard another strong and convincing sermon.

Dr. Black read as the Scripture lesson a portion of the 4th chapter of 1st Corinthians, coupled with portion of the sermon on the mount, and used as a text Mark 8:36-37, "For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

We hear much in the commercial world of profit and loss. Take the cost of any article and what is received for it, subtract one from the other, and the result shows either the profit or loss. What is a soul worth? Consider what God paid for it, that He gave His only son, and value it by what it cost. We can never know on earth the true worth of a soul, for only eternity can reveal just what it cost. You have but one soul, and if that is lost all is lost. If you lose a horse, health or property, possibly these can be replaced, but when your soul is lost there is no opportunity to regain it. The body only lives a little while, but the soul lives on forever, either in eternal happiness, or in eternal punishment. Can you afford to barter your soul away, even if you could gain the whole world for it? You can lose your soul by neglecting salvation, by remaining under condemnation, by being ashamed of Christ. Don't lose your soul, take no risk by trying to save your life outside of Christ. So many are willing to barter their souls for a mere trifle—for pleasure, for worldlyness, for money, for lust. Satan blinds you with the gaudy things of this world and cheats you out of your soul. The only safe life here on earth is that which is consecrated to the service of Christ.

The service tonight will be held in the Methodist church, beginning at 7.30 o'clock. More of the singers of the community are asked to join the chorus choir.

workmen were smothered to death under cotton seed at the plant of the Buckeye Cotton Oil Company, north of the city this afternoon, a shirt while before three o'clock. The negroes were working in the seed house at the time, moving cotton seed from a large pile. As they worked close to the huge pile of seed a mass of the seed tumbled over from the top of the pile, completely engulfing the unfortunate workmen.

The frequent references of the state papers and members of the Democratic party to the candidacy of General Julian S. Carr for the speakership of the next house, have moved him to make announcement through the Herald that he will under no circumstances enter the race and authorizes this statement.—Durham Herald.

An Omnipresent God

"A Father to Forty" is the title of an article by Mabel Potter Daggett in the forthcoming Delineator. In it she tells how Dr. John H. Kellogg of Battle Creek, Mich., has adopted forty and more children and how he cared for and educated them.

Some time ago, she writes, the doctor gathered his children together on a Sabbath in spring. He points out the buds on the trees. "See," he said "they will be leaves tomorrow. Who is it makes the leaves?"

"Why, God does," answered the children promptly.

"But where? Does he make them from the inside and stick them on?"

"Oh, no," said the children. "He makes them through the sap inside the tree."

"Ah," said the doctor, "then God must be inside the tree."

"Why, yes," agreed the children.

Then their father laid his hand on Jack's bright head. "What makes hair grow?"

"Why, God," said the children.

"But how? Does he stick it on from the outside?"

"Oh, no, he makes it grow from the inside of Jack's head."

"Then God is within Jack. Is it not so?"

The children looked in wonderment as they never looked at Jack before. "Yes," they assented—"God must be within Jack."

"And God is within all of us, and God is everywhere," concluded the doctor.

ONE VICTIM DEAD.

Four Others Injured in Auto Accident.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Raleigh, Nov. 17.—Ada Bryant, the negro woman of Durham, who was injured in an automobile accident at the aviation and auto meet here yesterday, died at St. Agnes hospital today. Mrs. Mooneyhan, wife of a prominent business man of this city, is in a critical condition from injuries received at the same time. Three others who were injured are in no danger. The accident occurred after the automobile race, when W. H. Woolcott and his wife were driving a car around the tracks, Mrs. Woolcott was steering and the car skidded at a turn and rolled through the fence into the crowd.

The Better Way.

Young farmers, if you want to get out of slow and unsatisfactory, as well as unprofitable farm methods, you must forever cast behind you the idea that successful farming can be accomplished with small teams. I have had my try with the monegral type, the small and the ill-bred farm horse. I know that inferior stock and poor crops go hand-in-hand, and from what I have seen, in different sections of the South, I am convinced that small "mixed stock" teams belong to the shabby farm and to scrub farming.—W. W. Finley, in Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New Ark, N. J., Nov. 17.—An armed man was seized in Judge Tenocyc's court today when he interrupted the hearing that is to determine the sanity of Mrs. Caroline B. Martin, and whether she shall be tried for the murder of her daughter, Mrs. Ocey Snead, the East avenue bath tub victim. The man leaped to his feet saying "delay in this case is a shame." Court attendants seized him and found a 44-calibre revolver on him. He said his name was Oliver B. Matthews, aged 70, from the South. It was subsequently learned that he had been confined in an asylum for the insane. Mrs. Martin was called to the stand. Reporters were barred from the court room during the investigation.

ALL TOWNS HAVE EASY MARKS.

And here comes The Charlotte Chronicle telling of the folks of the "Queen City" being duped by a faker and a woman at that. The woman in question set up a fortune telling apartment and found victims easy. She got diamond rings and other articles on "approval," and all of a sudden disappeared with $400 worth that were not paid for. The Reflector has been disposed to twit the folks of the larger towns like Charlotte and Greensboro for being such "easy marks," but the thing has come so close home that we have got to quit guying them. Why? Because even staid old Greenville has been caught napping. It has leaked out that several business men here were taken in by a slick duck who walked off with some of their good money. The fellow was soliciting advertisements to go on a big school calendar. He got the orders, and was also sharp enough to collect the money in advance. It was not until the time passed for the promised calendars to come and they failed to show up, that the victims found out they had been fleeced. Best to let alone people you know nothing about.

A Cheerful Prospect.

The recent decline in the price of meat has started quite a discussion on the cost of living and why it should come down. The Baltimore Sun thinks we may be soon able to get our flour and meal for a little less money. It quotes the statement of Charles W. Armour that the cost of living had reached its apex and from now on would decline. "General food prices are working toward a lower basis," Mr. Armour is quoted is saying: "the cereals are getting down. People are going to take advantage of lower prices, and that will have a tendency to relieve the stringency in meat prices, especially pork. Further, The Sun quotes Secretary of Agriculture Wilson as saying: "We have had bumper crops and meat prices should come down—that is, if no combine is formed among the dealers. My views apply to all kinds of meat." He points to the questions on grain. December wheat a year ago was $1.15, it is now $7 1/4 cents; corn was nearly 10 cents, now it is hovering about 46 cents. The trust can no longer plead the high cost of feeding as an excuse for keeping up the price of meats. Pork, beef, lamb—all kinds of meat are still at an abnormal, high price. Unless they soon decline, the consumer will know that some "combination of dealers" is keeping up the prices by standing between the farmer and the householder and demanding unjustifiable profits from both.

The Sun says that "for forty years the Republicans have claimed credit for prosperity and fair conditions of living that were largely due to bountiful harvests, industry and natural wealth. It would be a crowning blow to them if the cost of living should come down very soon after the Democrats were put in power. They have been fond of saying that 'prosperity was a Republican asset,' it would be amusing if prosperity should now become an asset of 'his the opposing party.' But the point is this: 'Whatever will or does bring it about, the householder will be satisfied if the prices of food are brought down once more to something like the former prices. The very hope of such an outcome is enough to make the 24th of November a joyous Thanksgiving Day.'—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Drainage Prevents Washing.

With perfect drainage, very little of our average rainfall should be allowed to go off the surface of the land, but should be made to filter down through the soil and, of course, the greater depth of porous soil we make, the greater amount of this water will never get away in any manner except as it is pumped out by the plants or allowed to escape from the surface after returning by capillary attraction, and this last loss may be avoided very largely by the farmer who is awake and will break the soil crust often. I am running the risk of becoming tiresome while dwelling upon this point at some length because of its very great importance to the man who would secure the greatest return of which his soil is capable of producing, if handled rightly. Washing is one of the greatest curses with which handlers of Southern soils have to contend, and lack of proper drainage, or in other words, proper depth and porosity of soil, is probably the greatest factor that makes washing of lands possible. Tilling of clay lands not only tends to conserve the moisture, but prevents washing of the soil surface and the waste of humus that attends the rushing of surface water off the land. The tilled soil acting as a filter, nothing but clear water ever gets into the drains, so the humus—that product which we sometimes mention as the greatest need of Southern soils—is left in the land.—A. L. French, in Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape
When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd, of this city, "and have a heap to do."

"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors.

"You don't know half how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

In the Way.
"In our house we follow William Morris' teaching," she said. "We have nothing that is of no use."

"But that always makes a house look so bare."

"I know it; but, then, we have four children."

Styles in Teeth.

Pearly teeth are not the fashion everywhere. One firm of artificial teeth manufacturers have to keep in stock molars of every shade of color from white to black. There is a steady demand for black teeth for Siam, Java, Batavia and Burma, where the natives chew the betel nut, which blackens the teeth. For Persia the teeth must be absolutely milk white. Recently an order was received from Bhavnagar, in India, for some bright red and blue artificial teeth. Smokers' teeth are regularly supplied to dentists in shades to match those which have been discolored by nicotine.—Argonaut.

A Fish Out of Water.

Many people think that fish when taken out of the water die because air has a fatal effect on them. The real reason, however, is that their delicate gill filaments or membranes become dry and stick together, so that no air can pass between them. Thus they lose the power to imbibe necessary oxygen, and the circulation of their blood stops. The painful gasping of a fish out of water is nature's effort to free the passage through the filaments.

Hop Pillows For Insomnia.

George III. derived great benefit from the hop pillow prescribed for him by Dr. Willis after other sedatives and drugs had failed, and a similar remedy was eminently successful in 1871 with his late majesty King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales, who was suffering from typhoid fever.—London Telegraph.

Hiccoughs.

An instantaneous cure for hiccough. This cure is to take one teaspoonful of common vinegar.

The Ancient Use of a Kiss.

A Roman woman in the ancient time was not allowed to drink wine except it were simple raisin wine, and however she might relish strong drinks she could not indulge even by stealth—first, because she was never entrusted with the key of the wine cellar and, second, because she was obliged daily to greet with a kiss all her own as well as her husband's male representatives, down even to second cousins, and as she knew not when or where she might meet them she was forced to be wary and abstain altogether, for had she tasted but a drop the smell would have betrayed her. So strict were the old Romans in this respect that a certain Ignatius Mercurius is said to have slain his wife because he caught her at the wine cask—a punishment which was not deemed excessive by Romulus, who absolved the husband of the crime of murder. Another Roman lady who under the pretense of taking a little wine for her stomach's sake and frequent infirmities indulged somewhat too freely was mulcted to the full amount of her dowry.

A Lazy Man.

A worthy old citizen of Newport who had the reputation of being the laziest man alive among "them hilllocks," so lazy, indeed, that he used to weed his garden in a rocking chair by rocking forward to take hold of the weed and backward to uproot it, had a way of fishing peculiarly his own. He used to drive his old white faced mare to the spot where the tautog (blackfish) might be depended on for any weight, from two to twelve pounds, backed his gig down to the water side, put out his line and when the tautog was safely hooked started the old mare and pulled him out.

A Humble Hero.

Every student of history remembers Captain Perry's dispatch after the battle of Lake Erie, a sentence terse and yet glowing, "We have met the enemy, and they are ours."

Every one remembers the great and significant result of the fight, but few perhaps have heard of one humble worker who served his country just as truly there as if he had been on deck amid shot and shell, earning glory as well as the reward of a good conscience.

Just as the ships were going into action the mate of the Lawrence said to Wilson Mays, who was ill and unfit for service:

"Go below, Mays; you are too weak to be here."

"I can do something, sir," was the stout reply.

"What can you do?"

"I can sound the pump, sir, and let a strong man go to the guns."

Then he sat down by the pump and thus released for active service a man who had more muscle, and when the fight was over there he was found with a bullet through his heart.

Detected.

It was at a Fourth of July meeting in a little city. The mayor, William Smith, rose and at dignified length read the Declaration of Independence.

There was a pause; then from one of the mayor's old schoolmates came the loud whisper: "Bill never writ that. He ain't smart enough."—New York Times.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 17.—Pronounced weakness prevailed throughout the general list during early trading in the stock market with practically every issue quitting losses. The losses ran from a fraction to a point and over and in one instance to two points. Great Northern preferred was a feature of the downward movement, dropping two points. Union Pacific also dropped nearly two points. Steel common opened strong crossing 80, but later fell back 3-8
of a point.

New York, Nov. 17.—Absence of domestic news and strong cables caused cotton to open steady with prices 5 to 10 points higher. The was some room covering, but this later gave way to pressure and prices eased off. Opening: December 14.50; January 14.41; March 14.55; May 14.68.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Wheat opened higher, 5-8 to 3-4, offerings light;
corn opened steady to a shade easier
oats were dull with corn; provisions steady. Opening: December wheat 90 7-8; corn 45 7-8; oats 31 3-8;
pork Jan. 17.30.

AN ALL AROUND ORDEAL.

When Papa Was Getting Ready to Attend a Banquet.

Papa was going to a banquet. It was unusual for him to attend banquets—so unusual, in fact, that the children had boasted of it for a week
to all who would hear.

Now it was the night of the banquet, and papa was getting ready, and the once quiet and orderly house was much upset.

"Run on out," said mamma, "and don't bother your father while he's dressing." Papa was shaving and at the same time committing a speech to memory in case he should be called upon for something impromptu.

The tiny trickles of blood down his chin showed where the speech was getting the better part of his attention. On the bed lay a clean white shirt, and across a chair hung papa's dress clothes. He hadn't worn the dress clothes for two years and was considerably stouter now.

After awhile the children, crouching interestedly at the door, heard entertaining things.

"Confound the shirt!" howled papa.
"I know I washed my hands, but the neckband's all dirty." Mamma's voice scotched him.

Through the keyhole the children saw papa struggle into his coat. The stiff shirt rose almost to his ears, and a high collar nearly saved them off.
"Doggone it!" wailed papa. "The sleeves of this coat are a mile too short."

Then his shoes hurt him; he couldn't get his tie fixed right; his handkerchief was hopelessly missing, and finally he stood miserably in the middle of the floor.

His face was red, the perspiration poured down his nose, his thin hair stood up, and he was about the most uncomfortable looking person the children had ever seen.

"Now, then," said mamma, with a sigh, "you're fixed. You have no idea, dear, how nice you look."

"Oh, yes," papa s'arled, "I look nice,
I don't think." Then he found his hat and a light coat and stalked stiffly and uncomfortably out. The children, hidding behind the stair railing, saw him depart.

"Gee," said the little boy, "when I get big I won't go to any dinners.
They can bring mine."

"You'll have to," said his sister wisely. "Men always have to go to dinners. But they dress up funny, don't they?"—Galveston News.

An Eye Test.

Most people believe that they see the same with both eyes. That this is not the case one can easily convince himself by the following simple experiment: Cover one of the eyes with a hand or a bandage and let the experimenter attempt to snuff out a candle suddenly placed within a few feet of him. He will almost invariably miss the flame, either overreaching, under-reaching or putting the fingers too far to the right or left of the flame. With both eyes normal and open the accommodation for distance and direction is instantaneous.

GROTESQUE NAMES.

Burdens That Innocent English Children Had to Bear.

In England, as in other countries,
thousands of people go through life
cherishing a grudge against their parents for giving them absurd or incongruous names. It was most natural that a demure and pretty girl in a north suburb should feel resentful
when she had to answer to the name of Busybody, given in honor of the winner of a race fifteen years before.
Among the names registered at Somerset House are Alms and Graces and Nun Nicer, which were innocently borne by two little girls who found them most embarrassing in after years.
The appalling name of Wellington Woiseley Roberts was borne by a young man who, in disposition and appearance, was anything but militant, and as little likely to win fame on the battlefield as his predecessors Arthur Wellesley Wellington Waterloo
Cox and Napoleon the Great Eagar.

However, even these names, inappropriate as they may be, are to be preferred to Roger the Ass, Anna (sic) Domini Davies and Boadicea Basher.

To parents of large families the advent of another child is not always welcome, but it is scarcely kind to make the unexpected child bear a token of disapproval. It must be rather terrible to go through life, for example, as Not Wanted James, What Another, Only Fancy William Brown, or even as Last of 'Em Harper, or Still Another Hewitt. And yet these are all names which the foolish caprice of British parents has imposed on innocent children.—Chicago Record-Herald.

OLD TIME GIRDLES.

They Were Indispensable Articles of Wear in the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages at the girde were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in everyday affairs. The scrivener had his inkhorn and pen attached to it, the scholar his book or books, the monk his crucifix
and rosary, the innkeeper his tallies and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girde a pouch, a spectacle case, a "punnard," a pen and inkhorn and a "handkercher," with many other trinkets besides, of which a merry companion said, "It was like a haberdasher's shop of small wares." In another early play a lady says to her maid: "Give me my girde and see that all the furniture be at it. Look that pinchers, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bodkin, the ear picker and the scale be in the case." Girdles were in some respects like the chateaines of more modern times, but they differed therefrom in being more useful, more comprehensive in regard both to sex and to articles worn, and when completely finished more costly. It is partly for this reason that we find girdles bequeathed as precious heirlooms and as valuable presents to keep the giver's memory green after death. They were not infrequently of great intrinsic value.

The Price of a Life.

According to Anglo-Saxon law, every man's life, including that of the king, was valued at a fixed price, and any one who took it could commute the offense by a money payment upon a fixed scale. The life of a peasant was reckoned to be worth 200 shillings, that of a man of noble birth 1,200 shillings, and the killing of a king involved
the regicide in a payment of 7,200 shillings. It has been pointed out that the heir to the throne could thus get rid of the existing occupant by murdering him and thereafter handing over the fine, according to the scale, to the exchequer, when his offense would be purged and his money would come back to himself, for in those days the sovereign received all fines as personal perquisites. There is very little doubt that these rough means were practically applied in the case of some rulers
of England in the pre-conquest period.

Shaking Hands.

Few people know how to shake hands well. The general run of folk either give a limp paw and allow it to be shaken or else grasp yours in theirs
and nearly dislocate it with their violence.—London World.

Stevenson Obligated.

Robert Louis Stevenson once sent the following quaint letter to an autograph hunter:

You have sent me a slip to write on.
You have sent me an addressed envelope.
You have sent me a stamp. Many have done as much before. You have spelled my name aright, and some have done that. In one point you stand alone; you have sent me the stamps for my postoffice, not the stamps for yours. What is asked with so much consideration I take a pleasure to grant. Here, since you value it and have been at the pains to earn it by such unusual attentions—here is the signature.
ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON.

Fresh Oysters.

At the wharf I am selling nice, fresh oysters in any quantity. Boys come up every week keeping me supplied. Orders can be filled promptly
