UNIVERSITIES ON GRIDIRON

NORTH CAROLINA VS VIRGINIA ON THANKSGIVING DAY

GAME TO BE PLAYED IN RICHMOND

Rallying Call to Tar Heels—Team Has Not Won an Important Game This Season, but Goes to Richmond for Victory—Greenville Boy Plays Center for Carolina.

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 22.—The University football team held its last practice in Chapel Hill for the 1910 season on Friday afternoon. The scrimmage was perhaps the largest ever seen on the athletic field. After the game with South Carolina the remaining preparation for the Virginia game will be only light signal practice and short runs.

Never perhaps in the history of athletics at the University was there greater need for a victory over Virginia on Thanksgiving day. The team, which is made of what in the estimation of many sporting writers was the best bunch of material in the South Atlantic States, has not won a single game of any importance. The men must vindicate themselves. The last time Virginia played Carolina, in 1908, they overwhelmed us 31 to 0. It is high time that North Carolina team demonstrated the fact that in athletics at the University of Virginia there is no inherent superiority over athletics at the University of North Carolina.

The time has come when the alumni and students must rally around the team as one man in order that the team shall go to Richmond with lust for victory that shall be calmed only by the victory it requires.

The men who will probably line up against Virginia are, Venable and Applewhite, ends; Tillett, quarter; Ruffin and Calmes or Belk, halves; Porter, fullback; McLean and Thompson, guards; Garritt and Abernethy, tackles; Brown, centre.

His friends will be glad to know that Mr. L. Ames Brown, a Greenville boy, will play center on the Carolina team in the Richmond game. Mr. Brown is a steady consistent player, and will doubtless give good account of himself when the Tar Heels face the Virginia eleven.

Dr. Edwin Mimms delivered the Founders' Day address at Sweet Brier College in Virginia, on Friday. He addressed the Danville literary association on Saturday night.

Dr. Louis R. Wilson, librarian of the Carnegie library of the University, will attend the meeting of the State library association to be held in Winston, December 7th and 8th. Dr. Wilson is president of the association. J. C. LANIER.

Gave Life for His Money.

While attempting to secure a sum of money which he had in a trunk at the second story of his home which was destroyed by fire at an early hour yesterday morning, Will Brock, colored, was overcome by smoke and as no one knew he was in the building his body was fearfully burned before the blaze was extinguished. From the few particulars that could be learned in regard to the tragedy it seems that Brock was the first person to discover the fire and at once gave the alarm. After he had done this he secured a bucket and began to throw water on the roof. Upon the arrival of the firemen he evidently remembered that he had forgotten to get his money and it is supposed rushed back into the building to secure it. This was the last seen of him until his charred body was found after the blaze had been extinguished. The trunk which contained the money was found standing on one end and was but slightly damaged. —New Bern Journal.

Jealous Sutor Kills Her Just After She Was Informed.

New York, Nov. 22.—Just after she had been informed that she had become an heiress to $20,000, Lucy Chebonet was shot and killed today. Police declare she was shot by a jealous sutor.

NORTH CAROLINA ITEMS

Of News Happenings Far and Near Within Its Borders.

Rocky Mount, Nov. 21.—A daring burglary the like of which has not occurred in Rocky Mount in many years was that on Sunday night, when the store of the Blount Company on Main street was entered and over five hundred dollars worth of dry goods, a majority of which were gents' furnishings, were stolen. The store was entered sometime between twelve and three o'clock, entrance having been gained at the back door by breaking the glass with a brick and putting the hand through and opening the door. When it is considered the way in which the entry was made and the quantity of goods taken and the location of the store in the heart of the business district, it is marvelous how the burglars got away with it. The burglars took the very best of everything in the gents' furnishing line, selecting the nice overcoats, and suits, the best underwear and shoes and men's apparel. Over five hundred dollars worth of the stock has already been missed, and the condition of the entire stock is not known.

Farmville, Nov. 21.—There was a grand musical recital at the Baptist church Friday night, given by Prof. A. Cullom and his class here. There were short addresses by Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, of Greenville; Dr. L. E. V. Freeman, of Meredith College, and Rev. G. W. Beck, of Wilson. The musical selections rendered by the class consisting in the main of chorus work were all presented with splendid effect. It was noted that the old songs and hymns of fervent depth were rightly emphasized.

Durham, Nov. 21.—Announcement is made today that Benjamin N. Duke gave last night to the Brazilian missionary school $10,000 of a necessary $250,000. The gift followed an address of Miss Daisy Davies, who lectured in the local church upon the scope of the $250,000 enterprise. Mr. Duke authorized his gift and added $1,000 to the cause of home missions. The large gift, with Mr. Duke's $90,000 to Memorial church, make $100,000 that he has given to the cause of religion in a short period. The Southern Methodist church is backing the movement and has nearly all of the money raised.

The Western North Carolina Conference being held at Winston-Salem closed Monday. It will meet next year in Statesville.

THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION.

Growing Greater—Government Resorts to Conscription.

By Cable to The Reflector.

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 22.—Three towns are in the hands of revolutionists. The Mexican government, it is reported here, has resorted to conscription to increase its army. Over 1,000 men and women have been killed. The Mexican government is taking charge of telegraph lines and censoring all messages sent out. Some where in the mountains Mexico is gathering an army. It is believed he has about 2,000 now, but is constantly gaining recruits. Bands of revolutionists are cutting telegraph wires and tearing up railroads and reports of clashes have come in from several places.

COUNT TOLSTOVS FUNERAL

Immense Throng Pay Last Tribute of Respect.

Zaseika, Russia, Nov. 22.—Thronged ranks of weeping peasantry the body of count Tolstoi in plain black oak coffin was borne today from the little railroad station here over some road Tolstoi himself had traveled less than two weeks ago. The casket was carried three miles to the peasants. The last rites took place on the estate and the body will be buried there. Literary men and scientists mixed with field laborers in paying tribute to the count. There was an immense crowd here, men chanting and women weeping.

Will Observe Thanksgiving.

As no statement has been made to the contrary, we take it that all business houses of Greenville will follow their usual custom of closing on Thursday in observance of Thanksgiving. The Daily Reflector will not be published that day.

ORDER OF MACCABEES.

A Lodge Organized Here Monday Night.

An order of the Maccabees of the World was organized at Greenville Monday night, November 21, by M. A. K. Miller, deputy state commander, and the following officers were elected and installed: Past Commander—Dr. Chas. O'H. Laughinghouse.

Commander—Phos. O'H. Dupree. Lieut. Commander—B. S. Warren. Keeper of Records—N. O. Warren. Finance Keeper—N. O. Warren. Chaplain—G. F. M. Dail. Sergeant—A. D. Dupree. Physician—Dr. L. C. Skinner. Master at Arms—Joseph Williams. First Master of Guards—Walter Barnhill. Second Master of Guards—H. H. Moore.

After the institution of the new tent and the installation of new officers, a social session was held and several good talks were made for the good of the order. Every member invites you to watch the Maccabees grow.

Where Under-Drainage is Needed

Practically all level lands would be improved by under-drainage, and much of the rolling lands would be benefited almost as much by under-drainage that would help to carry off water, thereby reducing the quality which now goes off over the surface. Moderate rainfalls may be absorbed by a soil well filled with humus, and if it be tiled or under-drained, it will take in, and properly dispose of a much greater quantity, but both things are needed, as also is probably every additional aid obtainable, to take care of the torrential and continuous rains which we sometimes have. The handling of the water which falls on our soils is a much more important problem than Southern farmers have yet realized. Too much of these heavy rainfalls now goes off over the surface, carrying with it the finest and best soil particles; while still further destruction to soil fertility results from too great quantities remaining in the surface soil for long periods.

The foregoing observations point unmistakably to one conclusion and that is, that the under-drainage of the larger part of our soils is a necessity to the highest soil fertility. Surface drainage is merely a makeshift, and is in any case an evil, which must under ideal conditions be reduced to a minimum. In most cases it is better than none, and being cheaper, is sometimes the only sort of drainage possible and, therefore, a necessary, but the best results will never be obtained on practically all our lands until they are tiled drained. Our excessive rainfall at certain seasons makes this under-draining doubly important with us, and causes it to be needed on a much larger proportion of our lands than where the rainfall does not exceed 35 inches, annually. There is another reason why tile draining must increase, and that is the necessity of doing away with short rows and the obstructions offered to the use of larger implements by open and hillside ditches. —Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Death of Lillian Lynn McLawhorn.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McLawhorn Saturday morning, November 19th, at 7:40 o'clock, and took with him their fourteen-year-old daughter, Lillian Lynn. She had been very delicate for some time and three weeks ago was taken with typhoid fever from which time she suffered intensely, until the end came. She was a loving, obedient and happy natured girl; the life of the family and a joy among her school mates and friends.

Besides mother and father, she leaves six brothers and four sisters to mourn their loss. The burial services were conducted at the cemetery at Winterville Sunday afternoon, by Rev. C. C. Ware of the Christian church at Greenville. The pall bearers were six of her class mates—Messrs. J. H. Stallings, J. W. Gilbert, Lawrence Howard, Floyd Kirby, W. C. Grady and Leo R. Sutton.

Entertainment at Bruce.

The school at Bruce, taught by Misses Vaughan and Burch, will give a Thanksgiving entertainment on Thursday night. All friends are cordially invited to attend.

POWERFUL SERMON MONDAY NIGHT

"COME, FOR ALL THINGS ARE NOW READY"

THE MEETING WILL CLOSE TONIGHT

Attendance Not So Large Monday Night, But Dr. Black's Sermon Was One of the Strongest During the Meeting—Modern Excuses for Not Accepting Christ—Several Others Make Confession.

The attendance at the meeting in the Methodist church Monday night was smaller than at the Sunday services, yet the main auditorium was filled. Dr. Black's sermon was on excuses, and those who stayed away missed one of the best he has delivered during the meeting. He read portions of the 22nd chapter of Matthew and 14th chapter of Luke, both bearing on the parable of the marriage supper, and used as a text Luke 14:15, "Come for all things are now ready."

An invitation is worth nothing unless it is accepted. This was an invitation from the king to the marriage supper of his son. Some treated the invitation with contempt, some ridiculed it some beat the messengers, some killed them, and all as one made excuse. None of those bidden were worthy, and the king sent other messengers out into the highways and hedges to compel men to come in that his house might be filled.

Christ said the kingdom of heaven is like this parable. Dr. Black then pointed out many excuses that people give today for not accepting Christ's invitation to come to Him, and in forceful argument and apt illustrations showed the utter groundlessness of these excuses. It is easy not to be a Christian—you simply have to make excuse or fail to accept Christ's invitation to come to Him. At the conclusion of the sermon several accepted the invitation and made profession.

The service this morning was very interesting and several cottage prayer meetings were held this afternoon. It was announced last night that the meeting will close tonight, and it is hoped this closing service will be the best of the meeting.

The coming of Dr. Black to hold this meeting, and his faithful co-workers in the singing, Messrs. Burr and McCoy, has been a blessing to Greenville and community. Not only has the gospel been preached faithfully, but it has been sung inspiring. All the churches of the town that united in the meeting have been truly revived, and scores of people have made profession of conversion.

Remember that the service beginning at 7:30 tonight will close the meeting. Attend this service expecting to receive a Divine blessing.

Good Times.

Good times are coming for travelers who have the money. Sleeping car berths are most comfortable. When a man gets even a lower section he is put to it to get in or out. Between Boston and New York, apartment cars have been put on. They contain no berths, but have instead, chairs, drop tables and toilet annexes, with washstand, mirror and dresses. The night traveler can sleep in a bed-room. It is believed that this plan will be followed as rapidly as practicable on all large lines throughout the country. If it shall be done, night travel will be tremendously increased, much friction and complaint avoided, and much comfort secured for the traveling public. —Greensboro News.

Owner Wanted for Hat.

One night last week, possibly the night it rained a lady's black hat was left in the ladies' parlor of the Methodist church and has not been called for. The owner of the hat can get it by asking one of the ushers at the service tonight.

A Song For Two.

This time it is to be a duet—the words and music complete—that will go with each and every copy of next Sunday's New York World—by all odds the greatest Magazine-News-paper published in the United States.

This song, well known, and highly lauded as the "Pastoral Duet" from "Madame Troubadour" now playing at the Lyric theatre, New York City, will prove well worthy of a place in your music collection.

But, as good as it is, this song should be one of many reasons why you should order next Sunday's New York World from your newsdealer in advance.

County Corn Shows.

South Carolina is giving us something new in the way of "county corn shows," and they are not only intensely interesting at home, but are giving the State world-wide publicity. That is all on account of the fact that the boys of South Carolina, "Boys' Corn Clubs" have beaten the world on the number of bushels of corn raised per acre. At Manning, S. C., Thursday the biggest and most successful corn show so far this fall in any county, occupied the attention of a large crowd. The exhibit was so marvelous and the exercises were so interesting it was late in the evening before the affair came to a close.

About 80 of the 140 corn club boys in Clarendon county made exhibits and all of them evinced deep interest in the progress of the great work in which they are engaged. The greatest yield of corn on one acre in Clarendon was 163 bushels, while there were five boys whose yield were more than 100 bushels per acre. There were 96 exhibits, including one by Miss Hannah Plowden, a 15-year-old girl, who won the third prize in the contest for having raised 120 bushels on one acre. Furman Broadway, a boy, got first prize for 163 bushels. The second greatest yield was by Jake Williams, whose crop amounted to 139 bushels. The first prize was $25, the second $10 and the third $5. The $5 went to the girl corn raiser but everybody will be satisfied that she should have gotten one dollar a bushel for her 120 bushels. The 140 members of the Boys' Corn Club averaged a production of 62 bushels per acre, or 8,680 bushels on their 140 acres.

These corn contests in North and South Carolina demonstrate that cotton, tobacco and peanuts are not the only big money crops that can be raised in this unrivalled part of the country. Let us have some Boys' Hay Clubs for next year.—Wilmington Star.

If every county able to have good roads would go ahead and build them, you would soon see very different highways from those now traveled over in many counties.

The Reflector is working for the rebuilding of its town, county and section. Every subscriber who pays his subscription promptly helps to carry on this work. But the man who borrows his neighbor's paper is no help to anybody.

Notwithstanding a large number of arrests were recently made, there are some people around Greenville who seem to think they can go right on violating the law against selling liquor. But they had just as well take cognizance of the fact that they are going to be caught sooner or later, for the officers and the law abiding citizens of the town have determined that these violations shall be stopped.

The Reflector wants to see the people living eastward from Greenville get interested in good roads building like those westward from town. There is a good road from Greenville to Farmville, and work is now in progress on the road to Falkland. Next we would like to see good roads to Grimesland and to Black Jack. They are good sections, but have about the sandiest roads in the county between them and Greenville.

The Parcel Post.

A parcel post will not damage the city nor the large retailers of the city to any appreciable degree, but we are confident that it will damage the small merchants of the country towns and villages. This, notwithstanding the statement that the parcel post proposed is for the benefit and not for their injury. We have discussed the various plans proposed by the postmaster general and the congressmen, and we have failed to find one which stops up all the holes through which the large mail orders houses might percolate. Some of them are better than others, but none of them is of benefit to the country merchant, save in a doubtful degree, the best of the lot tending to make him an agent for the big stores of the centers of commerce.

The claim is made that these are "experimental" bills, and, after they have been tried out, the country will be able to decide whether or not it wants them and finds them beneficial. This is a dangerous proposition, although it sounds good and fair. Suppose one of these experiments should be tried and should prove disastrous. Would the supporters of the parcels post be willing to have a return to the old ways of doing things? Not by any manner of means.

Also, there is no test which can be devised which would give a fair test for such a system. The best, the fairest and the most honorable way is to consider the matter with what light we have. First, we consider other countries which have a parcel post. They conduct them without any great losses because their mails are short. How has it worked out for the merchants? Don't think the merchant of the United States is in far better shape than the merchants of European countries. Have those countries thrive under their parcel post measures? We think they have not, from a standpoint of real success.

From the merchant's viewpoint, the parcel post will be a losing proposition; from the government's viewpoint, the present deficit will be increased greatly; from the viewpoint of the entire country we think and experience of others will make it clear that the same injury will follow. When socialism has secured control, when the country has disowned its constitution and proclaimed a king; when the government owns the railroads and the people become subjects rather than free-born men, the parcels post will be a logical law for adoption in the United States.—Merchants Journal.

Where Are Your Cotton Seeds?

Where are your cotton seeds? What are you doing with them this fall? As long as the price is forty-five to fifty cents per bushel at the gineries, it pays to sell them there and not move them at all. Every time they are handled there is some waste, and if kept they lose some of their weight. No farmer can afford to bury seed for manure when they sell at the prices they have brought this fall. They may bring higher prices the coming winter, but we are not looking for much higher prices. If cotton seed are heaped together in large quantities early in the season they are liable to get hot and damage unless moved about so as to air them. There is little danger from this source at this time of year unless we have wet weather and get the cotton wet before it is ginned. Some farmers have the habit of hauling their seed into piles in the fields. Not so much of this is done as formerly. Most of them have learned better. They have learned that a large pile of seed will damage enough when exposed to the weather to more than pay for a shelter to build over them. If you have made this mistake this fall then the next step to take is to either build a shelter over the seed or haul them to a barn or shelter. Cotton seed are too valuable now to let them get damaged. Be sure protect them even if it does cost something to do it.—Smithfield Herald.

The corn growing contests have done much for the farmers of this state in that it has furnished them an object lesson, and it cannot be denied that the newspapers have done a good deal to help it along.—Durham Herald.

I Love You.

Very interesting are the phrases used by the various people of the world to express "I love you." Wherever there are human beings declarations of love are made, and there are a thousand languages in which the tender passion may be expressed. The Chinese say "Uo ugal ni." The Armenian expresses his love with "Se siren as bez," the Arab is content with the short "No habbek," while the Turk murmurs "Sidi sevelorum." In India "Main syne ka pisar karim" is the declaration. But the Greenlander holds the palm for the word of love. When he does not stammer it has fifteen syllables and has been recorded phonetically thus: "Unifgraerndlainerlironjunguarrig-ujak!"

Why He Couldn't Pay.

He was a switchman in a small town up state. When it came time to pay his board bill the first week he complained that work had been scarce and he had not been able to save enough. So his landlady, not with any too good grace, agreed to wait.

It was the same the next week, and the landlady, still hoping, kept him. The third week she felt he had had every chance, and she was determined to get at least some of her money. She stated her request.

"Well, I did get some work this week," he admitted. "but it was mostly switching empty cars, and we don't get anything for switching empty cars."

TERRIBLE STRAIN RESULTED NOT AMISS

A Lenoir Lady, After Two Weeks Grinding Labor, Feels Better Than Ever.

Lenoir, N. C.—"I am not tired at all, and am stouter than I have ever been," writes Mrs. Kate Waters, of Lenoir, N. C., "although I have just finished a two weeks' wash. I lay my strength to Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken a lot of it and I can never praise it enough for what it has done for me. I can never thank you enough for the advice you gave me, to take Cardui, for since taking it I look so well and am stout as a mule."

You are urged to take Cardui, that gentle, vegetable tonic, for weak women. Its use will strengthen and build up your system, relieve or prevent headache, backache and the ailments of weak women.

It will surely help you, as it has helped thousands of others, in the past 50 years.

N. B.—Write to: Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

Should Feed More Cotton Seed Meal.

Corn is a good horse feed when used with certain other feeds that will supply the nutrient, trotin, in which corn is deficient. To supply this deficiency we have the rich stand cheapest feed known today, a yet through prejudice, habit, ignorance, or carelessness, we persistenly refuse to use this Southern feeding stuff in the feeding of our horses and mules. We refer to cotton seed meal. Every horse and mule now receiving 14 pounds of corn a day should have that amount reduced at least 5 pounds, and 3 pounds of cottonseed meal, or probably what is better, cottonseed cake, substituted.

It is established beyond doubt, both through scientific considerations and by actual practice, that 9 pounds of corn and 3 pounds of cottonseed meal will give better results than 14 pounds of corn, especially when the long forage is corn fodder or any of the grass hays. The extra trouble of feeding the cottonseed meal, which is probably the true reason for our failure to use it, would be well paid for in the increased value of the manure; and the saving which would result in the cost of feeding the horses and mules of the South, with corn at 60 cents a bushel and cottonseed meal at $30 a ton amounting to over $20,000,000 annually.

To this gain we can safely add better health and at least 10 per cent greater efficiency in the work required of our work stock.—Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

APPETITE GONE.

Coward & Wooten Has the Cure.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years and ima-

They over eat or over drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra

But they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do extra work.

If these people would take two Ml-O-NA stomach tablets with or after meals stomach misery would go five minutes and they would be great big help to the stomach in its strain of overwork.

THE BELTED PLAID.

This Was the Original Dress of the Scottish Highlander.

The original dress of the highlander was the belted plaid. This was a piece of tartan cloth, two yards broad and four long, which was drawn around the waist in nicely adjusted folds and tightly buckled with a belt. The lower part came down to the knees in much the same manner as the modern kilt, while the upper part was drawn up and adjusted to the left shoulder, so that the right arm might be perfectly free. This upper part was the plaid, which was used as a covering for the shoulders and body in wet weather, and when the use of both arms was required it was fastened across the breast with a brooch, often curiously enriched. A brooch was also used to fasten the plaid on the left shoulder.
To attire himself in the belted plaid required on the part of the highlander a small amount of dexterity. The usual way was to lay it on the floor and after carefully arranging the folds to lie down upon it and then buckle it on. The lower end was fastened at the right hip. The utility of such a dress in the highlands is obvious, for the plaid rendered the man indifferent to storms and prepared to pass a night in the open air in the most inclement weather, while the loose undergarment enabled him to wade rivers or ascend mountains with equal ease. It was thus peculiarly adapted to the warrior, the hunter and the shepherd.—London Mail.

SHE LOVED SNUFF.

Remarkable Will and Funeral of a Queer Englishwoman.

The will of Mrs. Margaret Thompson, which is preserved as a curiosity at Somerset House, England, is a tribute to the delights and consolations of snuff. The testatrix directed that in her coffin should be buried with her her handkerchiefs and sufficient of the best Scotch snuff to cover her body.
This she preferred to flowers, as "not-thing could be more fragrant and so refreshing to me as that precious powder." Further, the six greatest snuff takers in the parish of St. James, Westminster, were to be her bearers.
Six old maids, each bearing in her hand a box filled with the best Scotch snuff to take for their refreshment as they walked, were to bear the pall.
Before the corpse the minister was to walk, carrying and partaking of a pound of snuff. At every twenty yards a handful of snuff was to be delivered to the bystanders, and at the door of the testatrix's house were to be placed two bushels of the same quality of snuff for gratuitous distribution. In order to insure the carrying out of her wishes the testatrix made the legacies given by the will dependent upon an exact and literal fulfillment of the conditions above named. In closing she bade all concerned to regard snuff as the grand cordial of nature.

Toned It Down.
"King Edward," said an English visitor in New York, "hated snobbish-ness. To show how ridiculous snobbism was he used often to tell about an alphabet book of his childhood.

"This book had alliterative sentences arranged under each letter, thus:
"Callous Caroline camed a cur cruelly."
"Henry hated the heat of heavy hats."
"Under the letter V came the facetious sentence:
"William Vilkins viped his veskit."
"But the young prince's snobbish tutors thought this sentence too vulgar and low for their charge and accordingly they substituted for it the more refined and genteel line:
"Vincent Vining viewed a vacant villa."

Genius and Mediocrity.
Cornelius did not speak correctly the language of which he was such a master. Descartes was silent in mixed society. Themistocles, when asked to play on a lute, said, "I cannot fiddle, but I can make a little village into a great city." Addison was unable to converse in company. Virgil was heavy colloquially. La Fontaine was coarse and stupid when surrounded by men.
The Countess of Pembroke had been often heard to say of Chaucer that his silence was more agreeable to her than his conversation. Socrates, celebrated for his written orations, was so timid, that he never ventured to speak in public. Dryden said that he was unfit for company. Hence it has been remarked, "Mediocrity can talk; it is for genius to observe."

The Art of Carpentry.
How many common figurative expressions in our language are borrowed from the art of carpentry may be seen from the following sentence:
"The lawyer who filed the bill, shaved the note, cut an acquaintance, split a hair, made an entry, got up a case, framed an indictment, impaneled a jury, put them into a box, nailed a witness, hammered a judge and bored a whole court, all in one day, has since had down law and turned carpenter."

Contrary Human Nature.
"I suppose it is our natural contrar-iness which makes us do such paradoxical things."
"Such as what?"
"As makes us long for things when we are short."—Baltimore American.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 22.—Weak cables with continual selling and bear pressure here caused cotton to drop 7 to 12 points lower with further declines after the call. Spot interests were heavy sellers, but on subsequent covering, there was a rally. Opening: November 14.50; December 14.53 January 14.51; February 14.53 (dit) March 14.68.

New York, Nov. 22.—The stock market opened irregular with prices in general slightly under the close of yesterday. During the first fifteen minutes there was an inclination on the part of some stocks to move upward, but later a general tone of weakness developed and stocks began to drop. Losses 1-4 to 5-8 were scored. The entire market again displayed better tone, but prices were not materially changed.

Chicago, Nov. 22.—Wheat was 1-1-2 to 5-8c at the start. There was a reaction later, however, with plenty of offerings. Corn and oats were easier; provisions firm. Opening: December wheat 91 1-8; corn 43 1-2; oats 30 3-8.

PRIMITIVE PHYSIC.

John Wesley as a Physician and Some of His Remedies.

It is not generally known that John Wesley in one of his brief intervals of leisure published a sort of medical vade mecum called not inappropriately "Primitive Physic." It was first published in 1747, and it ran into at least twenty-four editions. The author was greatly surprised there was so swift and large a demand for it. In the later editions he was able to add the word "Tried" to certain remedies the virtues of which he had meanwhile found opportunities of testing. After five years' careful trial and notwithstanding the objections of the learned he recommends for the ague "to go into the cold bath just before the cold fit," but omits to say how to time the coming of the fit. To prevent apoplexy use the cold bath and drink only water. If this proves useless and a fit should declare itself you have only to "put a handful of salt with a pint of cold water and if possible pour it down the throat of the patient." To cure asthma "take a pint of cold water every morning, washing the head therein immediately after." Wesley gives four ways of curing old age—"take tar water morning and evening" or "a decoction of nettles" or "be electrified daily" or "chew cinnamon daily and swallow your saliva." The two great panaceas in the Wesleyan doctrine are the use of cold water and the use of electricity, and at the end of the book are columns of every sort of disease which may be overcome by these simple expedients.—St. James' Gazette.

WANTED A JOB.

Therefore He Did His Best to Please the Manager.

A certain playwright relates how a manager was much annoyed by the persistent applications for a "job" made by a peculiarly seedy individual.
Time and again the manager had referred this person to his stage manager. "See Blank," he would say, interrupting the man's attempts to set forth his qualifications.

At last the applicant did succeed in gaining audience of Blank, the stage manager, who was in the theater for the time "sizing up" candidates for the chorus.

There were, of course, a number ahead of him, but this fact did not prevent the seedy man from interrupting the stage manager between songs with requests for a job.

Exasperated, the stage manager at length turned to the pianist and ordered him to play an accompaniment for the stranger. With considerable hesitation the seedy person raised what voice he had in song. The result was bad as bad could be.

"The manager suddenly commanded him to desist.
"What do you mean by this tomfoolery?" he demanded, disgusted. "You certainly have confounded impudence to ask me for a job!"

"Look here!" said the stranger, angry in turn. "I don't claim to be able to sing. In fact, I don't want to sing.
I'm a stage carpenter. I only sang to please you because you insisted on it!"—Pearson's Weekly.

HIS GOOD FORTUNE.

When He Had to Work He Started a Dainty Rolling Mill.

I was just entering upon my thirty-fourth year when, owing to the failure of my wife's father, I found myself obliged to make a living.

I had often wondered where all the steel rails came from, and now I determined to go into the business of supplying them to railroad companies.
Having learned through careful inquiry that nearly all of them were made in rolling mills, I persuaded the owner of a bankrupt iron foundry to convert it into a rolling mill. Then I went to a good reliable machinery man on the next block and told him to send me some of the very best rolling mill machinery that he had in his store.

Meanwhile my noble wife had not been idle, and by the time I was ready to begin operations she had induced several of the most brilliant women in society to agree to buy all their steel rails of us. Touched by her unselfish devotion, I clasped her in my arms, while the tears coursed down my cheeks.

Then I called on a railroad president, told him that I desired to become self supporting and asked him to buy some of my rails. He told me to deliver a basketful to his place of business every Saturday night.

Greatly elated over my prospects, I called together a number of workmen whom I found idle on the streets and directed them to make some nice steel rails without delay and take them around to the kind railroad president.

Rejoicing at the prospect of steady employment, the workmen hastened to obey, and the rails that they made under my direction proved so durable that in a very short time I had all the orders that I could fill.

I attribute much of my success to the fact that each rail is delivered to the customer tastefully wrapped in tissue paper fastened with pink ribbon.—Delineator.

DINNER GUESTS.

Bad Enough to Be Late, but to Be Too Early Is Unforgivable.

It is an accepted aphorism that one should never be late at a duel or a dinner. Tardiness is unpardonable, but the converse is also true. If it is an offense to be late it is unforgivable to be too early. This refers solely to the dinner, since duels are affairs of the past.

Overhaste may be flattering, but it is also inconsiderate. If the dinner is important enough to be called a "function" and the house in which it is given is sufficiently large to be rated as a mansion the early guest may find a hostess still in her maid's hands. If instead a cottage and a simpler repast await one the housewife may herself be putting the last necessary touches to the salad. In either case the hostess feels a warm personal approval and an ability for self praise if the coming guest is a little tardy. Should the soup be cold or the roast dry it is not her fault; she was on time.

Can anything be more harassing than the "you-don't-mind-me-dear" type of woman who always comes half an hour early and always wants to "help?" Can anybody worship one's household gods, turn away the nicks, display the gleaming side in the pro-faning presence of a comparative stranger? A despairing hostess said recently:

"When I have just men coming I spend my soul on the cooking; when it's women I put my extra efforts into burnishing the house; when it's both I almost kill myself, and when they come too early I want to lie down and die."

"The quality of mercy is not strained." It applies even to giving one's prospective hostess ample leeway for preparation. Failing this, invitations may soon be written, "At 7, and please be late!"—Youth's Companion.

Not at All Private.
In the trial of a case recently in one of the English courts a witness was asked to repeat a conversation that she had with her husband. Objection was made that the question should not be answered because the conversation was private in its nature. The judge then asked the witness whether anybody except herself and husband was present. She replied that her mother and the husband's mother were, whereupon the judge remarked: "It appears that both mothers-in-law were present. I shall therefore rule that the conversation was public."
