TESTIMONIAL OF APPRECIATION.

To Rev. J. H. Shore by Baraca Class of Methodist Sunday School.

In recognition of their appreciation of the work and worth of their pastor and teacher, the Baraca class of the Jarvis Memorial Methodist church at the close of the lesson Sunday morning read the following testimonial:

To our dear brother, Rev. J. H. Shore:

On this Sunday which marks the close of another conference year, the members of the Baraca class of the Jarvis Memorial church, Greenville, N. C., wish to express to you their sincere appreciation of your earnest and faithful ministry to us as friend and pastor, as teacher.

As the weeks have passed which measure the period of your association with us; we have learned to esteem and love you more and more.

With earnest words coming from a heart full of prayer for your people, you have endeavored to show us the way to eternal life and to lead us in us those principles of Christian character that make for more efficient living and service in our community.

But your earnest, sincere Christian life, as you have lived it here among us, has been a far greater inspiration to us and has been to us an example in Christian citizenship. Actions do speak louder than words, and they always reflect the life within. Your ministry with us has been for good and for the upbuilding of Christ's kingdom in Greenville, for your life has shown us that your words were always spoken in sincerity and truth.

It is our earnest prayer that God may direct you back to us for another year of service.

We want to keep you as a friend, and as our pastor, and as our teacher, and Greenville needs you as a champion of civic righteousness.

"How sweetly fall those simple words

Upon the human heart;

When friends in holiest terms thus seek

Their best wish to impart.

From far and near, they ever seem

To bear a power to cheer you,

And soul responsive beats to soul,

In breathing out, "God bless you!"

May God bless you and keep you and make His face to shine upon you and give you peace.

(Signed for the Baraca class)

B. & O. TRAIN WRECKED.

Three Killed Instantly and Three Others Injured.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Grafton, W. Va., Nov. 28.—Three persons were killed and three others injured when train No. 7 on the B & O. was wrecked near here. The engine and fireman were killed. The wreck occurred at the head of a 17-mile grade. The helper engine had helped the passenger train up the grade, had uncoupled and was backing in the siding when the passenger train came into it. The dead were L. J. Flanigan, of Grafton; H. D. Dumoss, of Grafton; Joe Weaver, of Piedmont.

Parliament Dissolved.

By Cable to The Reflector.

London, Nov. 28.—Parliament was dissolved by King George today, after a speech before the assembled members of the house commons and house of peers. The session which was brought to a close was convened about a fortnight ago, but it was known beforehand that all legislation upon the veto and other important questions affecting the upper house was deadlocked. The campaign has already started for a general election, the date for which has not yet been announced.

Found Dead in Room.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Nov. 28.—Alone in his room at the old Marshall home, Sidney F. Marshall, 68 years old, the last male descendant of one of the oldest families of America, and a prominent lawyer here, is dead. Death was due to heart disease. His body was found several hours after death by his only living relative, his niece, Miss F. C. Marshall. He was born in Maryland 68 years ago and was of the same family which Chief Justice Marshall came.

THEATRE MANNERS IMPROVED.

We do Not Hiss the Villian, We Endow the Actor.

Of late our manners in the theatre have improved, says Louis V. De Foe in the Delimitator. In the East, except perhaps in some of the cheap melodrama houses we no longer hiss the villian when he appears in front of the curtain to garner the rewards of his manevolescence. In the one-night stands of the Far West it is now the custom for the audience to warn the unsuspecting heroine that her evil Nemesis is lying in wait behind the rocks along her path. We have learned, to outward appearances at least, to draw a line between the make-believe and the real.

But deep in our hearts do we always preserve the distinction between character as it is unfolded before us in the play, and the actor who is behind the mask? Do we often make the egregious blunder of confusing his own identity with the counterfeit he assumes? "The villian still pursues her!"

Reduce drama to its last analysis by all the arts and wilds of criticism and it will be found to be ever true. And does not some of the actor's pretended villian still linger with him in the popular mind after the curtain has fallen and the lights are out, and he has stepped back into his own individuality? In other words, is not a prejudice, conscious or unconscious, our unjust return for an unsavory character born of his imagination?

On Founder's Night at the Players many years ago, that great and gentle genius and noble man, Edwin Booth, sat at the head of the table in the famous club in Germany Park which his generosity had provided for his profession. Among the guests on that occasion, was an elderly banker from Denver, who had been one of the great actor's boyhood playmates. The banker was entertaining his neighbors at a table with reminiscences of those childhood exploits.

"The last time I saw Booth act," he reflected, "was as Iago. The villian with which he saturated himself that night frightened me. You may charge it to my lack of imagination or to the weakness of my old age. Just as you wish, but I confess I have never quite trusted the man since then."

Here is an instance of a common tendency to confuse the actor's self with the character with which, for a few hours, he clothes himself.

ADDRESS ON HEALTH.

Dr. Rankin at The Graded School Next Friday Night.

We are pleased to announce a lecture in the chapel of the graded school next Friday night, at 8:00 o'clock, by Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the State Board of Health. Dr. Rankin will discuss adenoids, their cause, effects, and mode of treatment. Incidentally he will speak of the diseases of the throat, such as tonsillitis, diphtheria, etc.

In addition to Dr. Rankin's lecture, we hope to have one or two short talks by specialists on teeth, care of the eyes, and common effects in vision and hearing.

We are especially anxious for all the parents of the school children to hear the lecture. The lectures are free, and all who may desire to come will be welcome.

There is a large number of cases of adenoids in school. Many of the parents do not know that there is anything wrong with their children. Very few know much of the nature of adenoids and the result which follow in the wake of the disease.

Come to hear Dr. Rankin. He is a good speaker. His address will be in plain language such as any one can understand. The talks we hope to have on teeth, vision, tonsillitis and deafness will be of the greatest value to all who hear them. It is not often we have the opportunity to hear such men as Dr. Rankin, and for the sake of the children and their health and progress in school, I am very hopeful that we may have a large attendance of the parents. For the sake of your helpless and probably afflicted child, come and hear the insidious and dangerous diseases explained.

Remember the time and place—in the chapel of the graded school next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

H. B. SMITH,
Superintendent of Schools.

NORTH CAROLINA ITEMS.

Of News Happenings Far and Near Within Its Borders.

Wilson, Nov. 28.—Last Wednesday night the citizens of Lucama were shocked when they learned that little Nellie, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. Gary Sullivan had been kidnaped during his absence in Wayne county. It was soon learned that Jonathan Lucas, a young man about thirty years old, and Sidney Bass another young man of the neighborhood had left on the southbound train with the girl. The party got as far as Dillon, S. C., when young Lucas applied to a justice of the peace and made it known that it was his intention to marry the young lady. While it is not necessary in South Carolina—and no license is required when a mature couple desire to be "hooked up"—the same people have an eye to the fitness of things, and soon saw that the young girl was nothing but a child and rescued her from the kidnapers and sent her back to her father—the child has no mother. The young men were locked up and the father notified. The old gentleman was slow in his movements, in consequence of which the boys were released. They returned to Lucama last night and today Mr. Sullivan will get out a warrant for their arrest, charging "kidnaping."

Death of Mr. J. W. Whitehurst.

Rocky Mount, Nov. 28.—After an illness extending over several days, Mr. J. W. Whitehurst died at a late hour yesterday afternoon at his home No. 403 South Main street. Mr. Whitehurst, who was a traveling salesman, came home from Virginia on Tuesday night, and while he was not feeling well enough to continue at his tasks, it was only recently that his condition was considered serious. The deceased was forty-four years old and was a wife and three small children, an aged father, seven brothers, and three sisters. He was a member of the First Methodist church and a prominent factor in the Baraca Bible Class of the Sunday school, having been one of the possibly half-dozen who were instrumental in its founding.

The three sisters who survive him are Mrs. John Cherry, of Parmele and Misses Minnie and Fannie Whitehurst, also of Parmele. The seven brothers are Messrs. T. W. Whitehurst, of Greenville; Mr. J. E. Whitehurst, of Maywood; Mr. L. F. Whitehurst, of Haysgood; and Messrs. D. C. Whitehurst, Z. V. Whitehurst, T. A. Whitehurst and G. R. Whitehurst, all of Parmele. The aged father, Mr. J. B. Whitehurst, resides with one of his sons at Parmele.

Rioting in Madrid.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Madrid, Nov. 28.—Scores were wounded in a battle between strikers and police at Sopuerta near Bilbao. The strikers, rendered desperate by hunger, attacked the police and municipal guard. Mounted troops charged into the rioters, inflicting many wounds. The rioters drew off and under the protection of walls hurled stones at the soldiers. One hundred arrests were made.

Christmas Sale.

The ladies of the Baptist church will have a Christmas sale on Monday and Tuesday of next week in the store in the Proctor building, next door to the county offices. They will have on sale many articles appropriate for Christmas presents and will also serve lunches and refreshments. They ask for a liberal patronage.

Engraved Cards and Stationery.

The Reflector takes orders for engraved cards and embossed stationery. Persons wanting any of these for Christmas, and they make appropriate Christmas presents, should place orders as early as possible, as it requires about ten days to get them filled. Samples can be seen at the office.

Every fall we hear the same story about it being the finest ever, with very little rain, etc., all of which may be true, but whatever we may be short on is generally made up in the end. For instance, if rains do come now they are almost sure to come later and make up for lost time. The goosebone prophecy is still sticking—that we are to have a real snow storm in which—Greenboro Reflector.

AN EVENING OF MUSIC.

Miss Helen Forbes Delightfully Entertains.

"This is a musical era," says musical America. It is interesting to note that in Greenville there is a decided taste for that sort of entertainment which is nowadays claiming the attention of the "Four Hundred" set in our leading cities. Miss Helen Forbes' delightfully informal musical on Thursday evening was a rare treat to her music-loving friends. The affair was planned in honor of the recent bride, Mrs. W. L. Best, who had just returned from her honeymoon trip. Miss Forbes wore a pink satin gown elaborately embroidered in gold. Mrs. Best was daintily gowned in blue satin and embroidery. Those assisting in the courtesies of the evening were the married sisters of Miss Forbes, Mesdames Quinnersly, Hadley, Moye, and Best.

After the large guest composing of talented women had arrived, they were served refreshing hot chocolate and pimento sandwiches. A most entertaining program of both vocal and instrumental numbers then followed, participated in by women whose ability would do credit to a town of broader opportunities than those of Greenville. Mrs. Ada Cherry who is always pleasing, interspersed the musical program by giving several of her negro dialect readings. Mrs. Cherry, we understand, contemplates recital outside of Greenville during the social season. When repeated encores had been given those who took part in the program, the hostess served delicious fruit-ousse and cake.

The out of town guests were Mrs. Robt. White, of Hertford; Mrs. Chas. Skinner, of New York; Mrs. White, of Greensboro; Mrs. Hadley, of LaGrange; Miss Sadler, of Baltimore; and Miss Whitfield, of LaGrange.

SUIT AGAINST SUGAR TRUST.

Bill in Equity Asking Dissolution of Company.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Nov. 28.—A bill of equity to dissolve the American Sugar Refining Company, because it is a monopoly conducted in restraint of trade, was filed today in the United States Circuit court by District Attorney Wise. Perpetual injunction is asked restraining the company from paying dividends and stockholders from exercising any privileges as stockholders. The petition charges unlawful combination and conspiracy in dominating and fixing the selling price of raw sugar. It describes the manner in which the trust acquired smaller concerns and how by the selling sugar for less than cost the company forced the other factories to close down.

CLOSE OF CONFERENCE YEAR.

Greenville Desires Return of Rev. J. H. Shore.

On Sunday Rev. J. H. Shore closed the conference year as pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church here, and he will go to the annual conference at Elizabeth City with an excellent report of the work on his charge. At the service Sunday morning he received twenty seven persons into the membership of the church.

Mr. Shore has served the church here two years in which time he has greatly endeared himself not only to his own congregation but to all people of the community. It is the hope of all that when the conference appointments are read he will be returned to Greenville.

French Killed in Morocco.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Madrid, Nov. 28.—Two French officers and 27 French soldiers were killed and many others wounded in an uprising of Moorish tribesmen in Morocco, according to an official government dispatch received by Premier Carnegies from Melilla today. The French soldiers were doing patrol duty and were taken on surprise by the tribesmen.

Address to Tobacco Growers.

Every tobacco grower in touch with this section should be in Greenville Wednesday to hear the address of Mr. E. H. Matthews on tobacco culture. The address will be delivered in the city hall at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The People Who Come and Go on Our Trains.

YOUNG MEN'S PRAYER LEAGUE.

The First Meeting One of Much Interest.

According to the announcement made by Dr. Black on the closing night of the recent meeting he held here, the first meeting of the Young Men's Prayer League took place Sunday afternoon in the Presbyterian church, with Mr. C. W. Wilson presiding. There were about thirty present, which was a most encouraging beginning for this work.

The subject for this meeting was "Forward," and Messrs. G. E. Harris and H. B. Smith both made excellent talks on it that were helpful to all present.

The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be held in the Christian church at 3:30 o'clock. Subject, "Go," Text, Matt. 23:19-20. Leaders, Messrs. E. A. Moye, A. E. Ellington and W. A. Bowen.

All men of the town and boys above 15 years of age are invited to join this league. To attend and take part will be very helpful in developing their Christian life.

Visiting Minister.

The congregation of the Memorial Baptist church was delighted to have with them Sunday Rev. J. N. Sullivan, pastor of the Baptist church at Washington. He preached excellent sermons both morning and night. The subject of the morning was "Twilight Rays from the Last Day of Life," and at night: "Surprises and Disappointments of the Judgment." At the morning service the doors of the church were opened and three persons were received as candidates for baptism. While here Mr. Sullivan was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hart.

Primitive Baptist Service.

After filling his regular appointment at Great Swamp, Sunday, Elder Sylvester Hassell of Williamston, spent the night here the guest of Mr. D. C. Moore. He preached that night at Mr. Moore's residence a quite a number of people attended.

Any county could afford to build good roads, but the trouble is that some of them do not seem to know it.

Deep Plowing and Soil Improvements.

The red hills need the deepest breaking, for these red lands resulting from the decomposition in place of the granite rocks are all soil down to the fast rock and only need aerating to make good soil as deep as you can drive a subsoiler after a turn, plow that runs eight inches deep.

And nothing you can do will tend more to check the washing than a deep bed of loose soil for the rains to settle in, especially if you practice a good rotation and have vegetable matter to turn under every time it is broken for a hoed crop. I believe in deep fall plowing and subsoiling of the hills, but I do not believe in letting them lie bare all winter. Sow rye on them and turn this under in the spring, and it will pay well for the extra work.

But as the Editor says, if you have level and sandy land let the subsoiler alone. On deep, sandy soil we want to make a sort of hard-pan right below the turning plow furrow, and that should not be over six inches deep.

On level soils that need underdrain age subsoiling is useless, for the wet soil will go right back to its former state. But with deep underdrains even these soils, the "black-jack" soils, for instance, can be wonderfully improved by deep breaking and subsoiling. Deep plowing is only one item in good farming, and as Editor says, deep plowing alone will not permanently improve the soil unless it is kept up by a good rotation. It will enable crops to withstand dry weather better, will check washing, but if only the old methods are then practiced, even the deep-plowed land will run down. It is but the beginning point for good farming in general—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Are the women of the country forgetting the Bible? That assertion was made in Ithica, N. Y., a day or two ago by a woman reformer. The probabilities are that she is more familiar with the suffragette movement than she is with the home life of American women. She probably spends more time at club meetings than she does in nurseries, kindergartens, churches and Sunday Schools. We do not believe for one instant that the women of America are forgetting the Bible. It would be an evil day for the country when they did; and the country and humanity are growing better all the time.—Savannah News.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1910.

The press dispatches have Mexico all quiet one day and all turmoil the next.

The Four C's property, consisting of the Street railway system and the gas and lighting plants of Charlotte, have been purchased by the Southern Development company, and the "Queen City" is to be made the centre of a great electrical transportation and power system. This means that Charlotte is to become the most important city in the South. Just "Watch Charlotte Grow" between now and next census taking time.

The Wilmington Dispatch and The Greenville Reflector are engaged in an interesting discussion of the modus operandi of the art of kissing. Neither seems to be aware that the subject is heavily loaded.—Charlotte Observer.

In our opinion both of our contemporaries are past the stage in life of discussing a subject of this kind.—Louisburg Times.

Did you ever hear the like o' that? When a man gets too old to discuss a good thing it is time he was planned in the cemetery.

Some people argue that they are afraid of banks, therefore will not put their money in them. Well, maybe they do hear of a bank failing once in a while, but they read of a hundred times more cases of people losing money by their home being robbed or burned. Not only is a bank the safest place to keep money, but a man who keeps money about his home endangers the life of himself and every member of his family. Just let it be found out that you keep money about the house and somebody will be watching for a chance to rob you. And things of this kind happen more frequently at this time of year than perhaps at any other. Go put your money in the bank where it will be taken care of until you need it.

A Proverb.

A book publishing firm has been sending out a post-card with just this on it: "There's nothing in life that's held as nice as knowing you have the purchase price." Whoever originated that couplet, originated a proverb. What could bring more elation, more joy, more happiness, than to have the price? The bill collector would be eliminated from one's thoughts by day and dreams by night—dreams that cause many a waking moment and a wracking of the brain that sometimes wrecks it. Many a good man has been caught without the price by a combination of circumstances which he could not control but while that may relieve his conscience, it does not pay his debts, and he is in the same fix as those who have no sense of responsibility and do not care. It is a blessed thing to have the price!—no greater truth than that has been penned.—Charlotte Chronicle

Editor Caldwell.

Throughout North Carolina there will be a recurrence of pain over the distressing announcement that Editor Joseph P. Caldwell, of the Charlotte Observer, had another stroke of paralysis on Tuesday, at Morganton. The Observer yesterday says that Mr. Caldwell rallied on Wednesday and while his condition was "considered satisfactory," by his physicians, a fear there is nothing upon which to base a hope that Carolina's distinguished editor will ever again be able to write for us the articles which alternated between honest and fearless opinion, calm and cheerful philosophy, and the pleasant and humorous that made Mr. Caldwell the master of persiflage. It is a sad reflection that an editor so gifted and useful is laid low by an affliction, relief from which we scarcely dare expect. Nevertheless we hope that Editor Caldwell will be spared yet a while.—Wilmington Star.

Quality in Eggs.

Quality in eggs depend on other things beside freshness. The feeding of the hens and the condition of the nests have a great deal to do with the market value of eggs. Many people do not realize that the flavor of eggs depends very largely on what the hens eat. They do not know that if the hens eat wild onions the eggs will soon have the taste of the onions. Duck eggs are often strong-flavored, and on that account are not as well liked as hen eggs. Most people think that this flavor belongs to the duck eggs. The fact is that it comes from the feed eaten. Ducks are naturally gross feeders, delighting in poking about the barnyard or marsh places for their food. Ducked on good sound grain will produce eggs of good flavor.—Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

The Signs the Farmer Should Heed

The only signs a farmer needs to notice are the signs that show soil to be gaining in humus and his crops increasing through good farming and clean seed. I have driven around the country this summer, and have seen field after field of corn when the man who planned it knew very well that the land could not make a crop of corn, if he knew any of the signs of poor land. And yet we see such men planting year after year, and failing when they know that ever the moon or the seven stars could not give them a crop of corn or cotton on that land till it was improved by better farming; and men who have been working on a piece of land for many years write that their land is poor, and all because they have made no proper effort to make it rich.—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

A hunter from New York has sued the Southern Railway for $30,000 and all on account of a dog or dogs. The account says he took two or three dogs with him into the ladies' reception room at Salisbury. An officer asked him to take them outside; he declined; there was a talk and in a few minutes the dog gentlemen grew wrathful and proceeded to cuss; then he was arrested and fined for disorderly conduct. The suit is based on this and is to be heard in New York this week. It is a pity the suit was not brought in this State. Under certain circumstances we would like to attend.—Greensboro Record.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Greenville women know the aches and pains that come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, tell of sick kidneys and warn you of the stealthy approach of diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills permanently cure all these disorders. Here's proof of it in a Greenville woman's words: Miss Susan Kainsaul, 503 N. Fifth St., Greenville, N. C., says: "For some time I suffered from dull, nagging backaches and distressing pains through my loins. My kidneys were very weak and caused me great annoyance. My back pained me severely when first arising in the morning. I was so lame and sore I could scarcely get around. I at length procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Wooten's drug store and through their use I was entirely relieved. The fact that my kidneys have given me no trouble since then, leads me to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills very highly."

An Unfortunate Vacancy.
Elizabeth, just six, had been going to kindergarten and enjoyed very much the little motion songs taught there. She was very enthusiastic at learning all the words, but one day she realized that, try as she might, she could not make her voice harmonize with those of the other children. Thoroughly disheartened, she ran home to her mother and, with a sigh, said:
"Oh, mamma, I don't know what I shall do. I'm so full of words, but so empty of time!"—Woman's Home Companion.

A LEGAL DILEMMA

Tangle of Red Tape In an English Extradition Case.

GETTING AROUND THE LAW.

Only the Quick Wit of the Canadian Police Inspector Kept a Notorious Criminal in Custody When in Realty He Was as Free as the Air.

The manner in which a prisoner extradited to England from a foreign country is treated while on the voyage home depends very much on the detective who has him in charge and also on whether or not there is any suspicion that he may be contemplating violence either to himself or to others.

For instance, in the case of Jabez Balfour, who was taken to England all the way from Buenos Aires, there was a strong suspicion—probably ill founded—that he contemplated committing suicide. Consequently Inspector Froest, who had him in charge, decided to take no risks that he could possibly avoid.

The regulations do not permit of an unconvicted prisoner being handcuffed on board ship once the vessel has left port, and he must be allowed one hour's exercise on deck each day. These indulgences, if indulgences they may be called, were therefore not withheld from Balfour.

But he got few others. For twenty-three hours out of every twenty-four he was immured in a locked cabin. He was not permitted even to enter the public dining room, his meals being brought to him by Mr. Froest himself after the rest of the passengers had fed. He was, besides, constantly watched and was subjected to a most rigorous search immediately on coming aboard.

His only relaxation was an occasional game of chess with some of the passengers who kindly came to his cabin to play with him by permission and in the presence of his keeper. This sea imprisonment lasted exactly one month and a day, and Balfour afterward declared that it was the most trying experience of a captivity that was destined to continue for nearly twelve years.

One of the longest and in its later stages one of the pleasantest voyages ever undertaken by an unconvicted criminal was that which Charles Hylton Davidson, the notorious forger, made some years back in the custody of Chief Inspector Murray of the Canadian department of justice.

Murray tracked the wanted man to Mexico and secured his extradition to Canada. But then his difficulties began. He could not bring his prisoner to Canada by the direct route through the United States, for immediately Davidson set foot in that country he could have demanded to be released. There was therefore nothing for it but to convey him by way of Jamaica and England and thence back across the Atlantic to Quebec.

On the voyage Murray kept Davidson under close observation, although allowing him considerably more freedom than Froest allowed Balfour. When, however, he had got safely as far as London he was both mortified and astonished at the likelihood of his having had all his trouble for nothing. The law was, he was told, that a prisoner extradited from a foreign country to a British colony could not be kept in custody in England for longer than twenty-four hours, nor could he be taken as a prisoner on board a British ship sailing from a British port.

Here was a dilemma. Davidson was free as air—had he only known it. But Murray was equal to the occasion. "Look here, Davidson," he said, "I've got you safe. There is only the last stage of the journey to complete. If I allow you to travel saloon with me as an ordinary first class passenger will you give me your word to play me no tricks?"

To this proposition Davidson, knowing nothing of the real state of affairs, was naturally quite ready to agree. And so it came to pass that one of the most notorious criminals Canada has ever known came home in state; free, yet not free, a voluntary prisoner, and yet an involuntary one.—Pearson's Weekly.

Tactful Truth.
"I appeal to Mr. Verity, whose truthfulness nobody doubts," said the outraged hostess, with a glitter in her eye. "Mr. Verity, do you think I supply my boarders with bad butter?"
The others looked eager attention to see how Mr. Verity would get out of it.
"Madam," he answered, with a bow, "the truth on which you compliment me forces me to declare that your butter is one of your strong points."—Baltimore American.

Bites.
The safest way to measure your maximum bite longitudinally is to lay it out on an ear of corn. To get the depth of the bite, measure it in a slice of watermelon.—Boston Globe.
And the best way to determine the capacity of your bite is to watch your eat beans.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Serious.
Mother—Oh, Effie! What has happened to your dolly? Effie—The doctor says it's a nervous breakdown. He prescribed muelage.—Life.

Sorrow is a school of virtue. It corrects levity and interrupts the confidence of sinning.—Attisbury.

THE GIFT OF GAB.

Why Stephenson Thought There Was No Power Equal to It.

When George Stephenson was visiting the seat of Sir Robert Peel at Drayton on one occasion, says the writer of "Famous British Engineers," there happened to be present Dr. Buckland, the scientist, and Sir William Follett, the famous advocate.

Stephenson discussed with Dr. Buckland one of his favorite theories as to the formation of coal and, though undoubtedly in the right, was ultimately vanquished by the arguments and oratory of the doctor, who was a better master of tongue fence than himself. Next morning while pondering over his defeat in the solitude of the garden he was accosted by Sir William Follett and confided to that gentleman the story of his failure.

Sir William, acquainted with the details of the matter in dispute, agreed to take up the case and soon afterward attacked Dr. Buckland on the subject. A long discussion ensued, in which the man of law completely silenced the man of science, who was at last compelled to own himself vanquished. Sir Robert Peel, highly amused at this example of "tit for tat," then turned to the inventor and inquired, with a laugh:

"And what do you say on this matter, Mr. Stephenson?"
"Why," he replied, "I will only say this—that of all the powers above and under the earth there seems to me no power equal to the gift of the gab."

QUAINT EPITAPHS.

Gems From Ancient Graveyards in Suffolk, England.

The Suffolk (England) Institute of Archaeology has been collecting epitaphs from the ancient graveyards throughout the shire, and several of the most curious are here printed. One shows traces of a pessimistic philosophy surprising when we consider the strong orthodoxy of the day when the epitaph was written:

Beneath this stone lies Catherine Gray, Changed to a lifeless lump of clay, By earth and clay she got her pelf, And now she's turned to clay herself. Who know but in the course of years In some tall pitcher or brown pan She in her shop may stand again.

Another from Suffolk reads as follows:

Here lies Robert Wallas, The King of Good Fellows, Clerk of All Hallows And maker of bellows.

These which follow could scarcely be lines chosen by the reverend occupant of the tomb himself, a clergyman named Chest:

Here lies at rest, I do protest, One Chest within another. The chest of wood was very good. Who says so of the other?

And, to conclude, here is a bit of philosophy that cannot be improved by any of the great thinkers of all time:

Here I lie outside the chancel door; Here I lie because I'm poor. The further in the more they pay, But here I lie as warm as they.

A Wooden Head.

Certain members of the house party were describing the accidents that had happened to them during their various careers. Adventures by flood, fire and field had all been well received, and De Sappley, eager for fame, thought it was his turn.

"D'you know," he said, "I had a very painful experience once. I ran a con-founded splinter quite half an inch long right under my finger nail, don't you know?"

"Really, Mr. de Sappley," said a maiden of the party. "How did you do it?"

"Well," he said, "it happened like this." As he spoke he unconsciously raised his hand and scratched his forehead.

"Oh, I see," she interrupted sweetly. "How very careless of you!"—St. Paul Dispatch.

Carpets and Rugs.

Carpets and rugs were originally employed by oriental nations for sitting, reclining and kneeling purposes during devotion. When introduced among the western peoples they were for a long time used for purely ornamental purposes, covers for tables or couches and for laying before altars or chairs of state upon great occasions. Carpets were brought to Europe by the Moors, but it was well into the eighteenth century before they came into any thing like general use.

Every Little Movement.

A visitor to the cobbler's shop noticed one day a barrel half full of tiny brass cogwheels.

"Why," he said, "what are all those for?"

"Goodness knows," answered the cobbler, with a careless laugh. "I get about a cupful out of every clock I mend."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Try This for Catarrh.
Get a HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) outfit today.
Pour a few drs from the bottle into the inhaler that comes with each outfit, and breathe it in four or five times a day.
Immediately you will know that HYOMEI soothes and heals the inflamed and irritated membrane.
But HYOMEI does more than to soothe and heal; it kills the germs, those reverse-germs that are at the root of all catarrhal conditions.
"Last year I suffered terribly with catarrh. I used one bottle of HYOMEI and my catarrh was better."
Miss Helen McNair, Loyalton, Cal.
A complete HYOMEI outfit, including a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber pocket inhaler and simple instructions for use, costs only $1.00. If you now own a Hyomei inhaler, you get an extra bottle of Hyomei for only 50 cents at Coward & Wootens and druggists everywhere. Guaranteed to cure catarrh, croup, asthma and sore throat, or money back.

Now is a good time to nail loose boards on the barn and sheds and to replace broken glass in the windows.

A Fair Sized Trout.
The gentleman was strolling across a large estate when he came upon a man fishing. "What sort of fish do you catch here?" he said.
"Mostly trout," replied the man.
"How many have you caught?"
"About ten or twelve, sir."
"What is about the heaviest you have caught?" continued the gentleman.
"Well, I don't know the weight, but the water sunk two or three feet when I pulled it out!"

Divides the Waters.
Situating exactly at the highest point of the divide of the Rocky mountains, on the Crow's Nest division of the Canadian Pacific railway, in British Columbia, is a hotel. When it rains in the mountains the water which falls on the eastern slope of the hotel roof trickles away to join a tiny rivulet, which in due time mingles its waters with the Atlantic. The water falling just beyond the ridgepole, on the other side of the roof, flows westerly and ultimately into the Pacific.

Lots of Them.
"There is one thing which has rather puzzled me."
"What is that?"
"When money talks does it always talk cents?"—Baltimore American.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 23.—After an opening in which prices were in most instances about equal with those of Saturday's, the stock market suddenly developed extreme weakness and prices of standard issues sustained losses of 1-2 to one point or more. Prominent in the decline were railroad stocks led by Union Pacific and Reading. Steel and amalgamated were also weak. Despite the decline, trading was active in most stocks.

New York, Nov. 28.—Cotton opened active prices two to seven points higher followed closely by an upward movement which carried late months to a new high record for the season. Later prices broke ten points. Opening: November 14.84; December 14.88; January 14.95; March 15.2; August 14.92.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Wheat was easier, off 1-4 to 3-8c. There was a little rally later. Corn was 1-4 to 3-8c lower; oats slow, provisions firm. Opening: Wheat December 89 3-8; corn 44; oats $0 1-2; pork January 16.72.

HOLD THE RIGHT IDEALS.

Latent Courage and the Power of Mental Suggestion.

We not only can strengthen mental weaknesses and deficiencies, but it is perfectly possible to increase the general ability through the power of suggestion, says Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine. Indeed, the susceptibility of all the mental faculties to improvement, to enlargement, is something remarkable.

Sometimes very strong faculties are latent until especially aroused. There are many people who pass for cowards, who are humiliated because they have so little courage, when, if they only knew how, they could strengthen this deficient faculty wonderfully by holding the courageous ideal, by thinking and doing the courageous deeds, by carrying the thought of fearlessness, by reading about heroic lives, by constantly thinking the heroic thought and trying to live it. The courage may be small in a person because it has never been called into sufficient exercise. It may need only to be aroused. There are many people living lives of mediocrity who might do great things, might become mental giants, if their dormant faculties were aroused their general ability improved and enlarged.

The Number Nine.

There were nine earths, according to mediæval cosmogony, nine heavens, nine rivers of hell and nine orders of angels. The number being perfection since it represented divinity was often used to signify a great quantity, as in the phrases, "A nine days' wonder." "A cat has nine lives" and "Nine tailors make a man." In Scotland a distempered cow was cured by washing her in nine surfs. To see nine magpies was considered extremely lucky. Nine knots made in a black woolen thread served as a charm in the case of a sprain. It was also believed and is still by some that if a servant girl finds nine green peas in one pod and lays them on the window sill the first man that enters will be her beau. Nine grains of wheat laid on a four leaved clover enables one, it is said, to see the fairies.

The Curse of Genius.

The somber, long haired, seedy looking man was speaking in a voice of rolling thunder. "A million times a million, fateful curses sit balefully athwart his fateful head of tow! Through the gloomy eons may his black soul flit homeless forever!" "Of his balance, I suppose?" observed the stranger. "Oh, no," said Smith; "that's Rimer, the well known poet, swearing at the editor who rejected his verses."—Puck.

No Practical Difference.

"I made a mistake," said young Mrs. Tortkins, "and picked up my locket instead of the little gold watch you gave me." "Never mind," replied her husband. "The only difference is that the watch doesn't tell time and the locket doesn't even pretend to."—Washington Star.

Knew What They Were.

Examiner—Well, my good boy, can you tell me what vowels are? First Boy—Vowis, zur? Ess, of course I can. Examiner—Tell me, then, what are vowels? First Boy (grinning at the simplicity of the question)—Vowis, zur? Wbz, Vowis be chickens!—Puck.

LITTLE RED SPOT.

If He Were Bigger This Spider Would Be a Real Peril.

Strangely enough, the one really dangerous spider on the American continent is small, obscure and practically unknown to popular or journalistic hysteria. Latrodectus mactans is its scientific name. It is about the size of a large pea, black with a red spot on the back—a useful danger signal—and spins a small web in outhouses or around wood piles. So far as is known, its poison is the most virulent and powerful, drop for drop, secreted by any living creature. Cobra virus, in the minute quantity which the latrodectus' glands contain, would probably have no appreciable effect upon man, whereas the tiny spider's venom, in the volume injected by the cobra's stroke, would slay a herd of elephants. Were this little black hunting spider of our gardens and lawns its bite would be almost invariably fatal. Happily the "red spot's" fangs, being small and weak, can with difficulty penetrate the skin and are able to inject venom in dangerous quantity only when the bite is inflicted upon some tender skinned portion of the body. Nevertheless fatalities consequent upon the bite of this insect are sufficiently well attested to take rank as established scientific facts.—Samuel Hopkins Adams in Everybody's.

CHANGING THE SUBJECT.

What Lincoln Said After Harvey Ended a Two Hours' Talk.

The Hon. Peter Harvey, the friend and biographer of Daniel Webster, was a large man with a small voice and that pomposity of manner that many very diffident men possess. Above everything he valued and prided himself upon his friendship with the "great expounder."

The first year of the war between the states he went to Washington and on his return was asked how he liked President Lincoln.

"Well," he said, "Mr. Lincoln is a very singular man. I went on to see him and told him that I had been an intimate personal friend of Daniel Webster; that I had talked with him so much on the affairs of the country that I felt perfectly confident I could tell him exactly what Mr. Webster would advise in the present crisis, and thereupon I talked to Lincoln for two solid hours, telling him just what he should do and what he should not do, and, will you believe it, sir, when I got through all Mr. Lincoln said was, as he clapped his hand on my leg, 'Mr Harvey, what a tremendous great calf you have got!'"

Proof of Fairness.

A frown developed on the countenance of the new patient as he studied the bill the physician had handed him. "What do you mean," he at length snorted, "by charging me $25 for a two weeks' treatment when you charged Handerson only $10 for a treatment extending over the same length of time?"

"If you mean that I am not impartial in my charges," retorted the bristling doctor, "I want you to distinctly understand that you have absolutely no foundation for your insinuation. I ordered Handerson to eat three square meals a day, while I forbade you to eat more than one light lunch. Now, sir, if you will add the cost of Handerson's meals to my charge of $10 and compare the result with the cost of your meals plus my charge of $25 you will obtain such proof of my equitableness that you, if you are a man, will humbly apologize to me for your unkind and unwarranted attack."—Chicago News.

Felling a Fakir.

A story used to be told at Cairo of Sir Richard Owen during one of his sojourns in Egypt. The great naturalist was seated in the shade on the veranda at Sheppard's hotel when the inevitable snake charmer came to him and produced from his bag a lively specimen of the horrid asp—the deadly cerastes. The professor gazed and, nothing daunted, stopped and plucked the horns from the head of the reptile wriggling at his feet, remarking to a bystander that the man would probably think twice before trying to palm off upon any one else a harmless snake as a cerastes by the aid of a couple of fish bones. With anybody else the charmer would probably have succeeded. He had tried it on the wrong man.

Followed Instructions.

She was a woman of very puritanical notions, and when she came into his room to kiss her little boy good night and found that he had not said his prayers she was very much shocked. "How was it, Willie," she asked, "that you neglected such an important duty?" "You see, mamma," he replied, "when dad sent me in a hurry to bed he said there mustn't be another word out of me tonight."—Lippincott's.

Just the Very Trouble.

A French scientist says that the oceans hold enough gold in solution to give each inhabitant of the earth $24,000,000. The trouble is that they will continue to hold it.—Albany Journal.

Might Is Right.

We have noticed that when two boys are playing with a wagon the smaller boy is pretty apt to be the horse.—Aitchison Globe.
