THE CREAM OF HAPPENINGS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

GOVERNORS' MEETING IN KENTUCKY

Aerial Passenger Service to be Established Between Northern Cities—Railroads Challenge Brand's and he Accepts, Will Show Them How to Save Money in Scientific Management.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Atlantic City, Nov. 29.—Melvin Vaniman, chief engineer of the Wellman aerial expedition, admitted today that he expected to submit a plan for an enormous dirigible passenger carrying balloon to fly between New York and Boston. According to promoters of the project, America will have its first inter-city aerial line service within a year, probably within six months. President Chas. J. Gidden, of the Aerial Navigation Co., who is promoting the project, declared that the line will include Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore. Dimensions of the liner have not been announced, but will be about the same size and type as Zepelin's.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 29.—The house of governors, a conference of chief executives of many states, opened in Kentucky's new capitol today under favorable auspices. Many matters for discussion were advanced, and among subjects to be taken up are conservation, irrigation, hygienic conditions in larger cities. Elaborate plans for entertainment of visitors have been made. On Wednesday morning the governors will go to Louisville, where real business of the conference will begin. The veteran former governor of Kentucky, Simon Bolivar Buckner, now 86 years old was present today to assist the welcome.

Washington, Nov. 29.—Louis D. Brandeis, attorney for the railroad shippers, in answer to a telegram from O. L. Dickerson, president of the Western Association of Railway presidents, who made the attorney an offer of $250,000 annually if he would conduct the railroads and show them how to save a million dollars a day, today accepted the challenge and offered to serve without compensation. He suggested a conference at which he would explain the principles of scientific management.

Puts Cotton at 11,445,000.

New Orleans, Nov. 29.—A total of 11,445,000 bales is the final estimate of The Times-Democrat for the cotton crop of 1910, as based on reports from correspondents throughout the cotton belt. This forecast relates to the actual growth of the year and is exclusive of repacks, linters, etc.

Alabama, 1,165,000; Arkansas, 700,000; Georgia and Florida, 1,825,000; Louisiana, 255,000; Mississippi, 1,200,000; North Carolina, 700,000; Oklahoma, 900,000; South Carolina, 1,200,000; Tennessee, 80,000; Texas, 3,200,000. Correspondents say that farmers have hitherto sold freely as a rule, but are inclined to hold the remnant.

Marriage and Liberty.

Liberty comes in such different ways! For women it comes often through marriage.

Nine women in ten have more space after they are married for the exercise of their wills than they had before; therefore we can all see more clearly what they really are. The most tyrannical husband cannot rob a woman of her authority over her children and her household. The good woman is better, the hard woman is harder, the mean woman is meaner than she was.

Usually a married woman has a more strongly marked character than her unmarried sister. Her friends find it more easy to call up her mental face; they are more sure she will act in given circumstances. Marriage is almost always fraught with some surprise to the student of character. These surprises are loosely described as changes; but change in character is so rare an occurrence, more especially in women, that it should never be regarded as an explanation unless all others fail.—London Spectator.

EXAMINE YOUR FLUES.

Commissioner Young Issues a Timely Warning.

Insurance Commissioner Young says he is receiving a large number of reports of fire losses in this State. These reports have commenced coming in since the beginning of the winter.

Commissioner Young says that very many of these reports show that the fires are due to defective flues and stove pipes and that he believes that the people of the state should be warned in regard to the matter. There is no excuse in his opinion, for any fires occurring in the state that can be prevented and there is no doubt that most of the fires now occurring throughout the state could be prevented by the proper inspection of and attention to the condition of flues and stove pipes.

Let every citizen of the state at once employ some competent person to examine thoroughly the condition of their flues and the manner in which their stove pipes are put up, or else do it themselves.

Let the citizens of the state look into the condition of their flues and they will save fire losses to themselves, to their neighbors and the loss of taxable property to their state and cities.

American Interest in Music.

It is a good many years since Charles Lamb paid his annual tribute to the musical receptiveness of his to this generation—"an age constituted to the quick and critical perception of all harmonious combinations. I verily believe, beyond all preceding ages, since Jubal stumbled upon the gamut." Reading this encomium a century after, one can but wonder curiously what that shrewd observer and loveable philosopher would say of the musical capacities of propensities of our own day, were he desirably present to estimate them.

It is altogether probable that he would be incredulous of the wide diffusion of musical taste and curiosity in, let us say, the American of today, and it is beyond all question that he would be staggered by our appetite for and our interest in music of the better sort. What, it is delightful to speculate, would he have thought of music and our liking for it? It is impossible to forget that inimitable confidence of his: "Sentimentally I am disposed to harmony; but organically I am incapable of a tune."

Would his friendly disposition toward harmony have withstood, let us say, the "Also Sprach Zarathustra" of Richard Strauss, with which, among other performances, the Philharmonic Society began last month in the current season in New York? But that serene and mellow spirit has been silent these many years; and we read his words less often now than we read Nietzsche's, so we would be restless and unsatisfied if we had to subsist upon the kind and the quantity of musical fare of which we would have been confined in the day of the delectable Elysium.

In the matter of both quantity and quality, consider the amount of good music to which America will be expected to respond this season. In New York we shall give heed to the activities of no less than seven orchestral, four chamber-music, and two choral organizations, all offering performances of music of the highest class, not to speak of the uncountable operations of the soloists—givers of piano, violin and song recitals and for twenty-two weeks we shall hear performances of opera which will occur, after the middle of January, on every night of the week, save the first. When we look beyond the gates of the metropolis, we find that Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Montreal, have their opera companies and their seasons of opera-giving; that not alone the first three of these cities, but such others as Cincinnati, Seattle, Minneapolis, St. Paul, have their own orchestras and their seasons of high grade orchestral concerts; that it is an exceptional city which is without its carrying ambitious choral society; and that the most eminent of the world's singers, pianists, and fidlers go up and down the land, between October and June, giving more or less profitable concerts of more or less worthy music. Surely this is a spectacle that would have amazed the understanding of Lamb!

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Community Social News Items and Business Notes.

Ayden, N. C., Nov. 29.—The handsome residence of Mr. Stencil Hodges in Ghent, that was partially burned is nearing completion.

Mr. John C. Cox, a very industrious farmer who resides near here and owns a farm in Fork Swamp section, lost his barn, 65 barrels of corn, two racks of fodder, hay, etc. besides tools, last Saturday night about nine o'clock.

Capt. D. G. Berry is making a tour of the tenth district of I. O. O. F. He is an Odd Fellow of the ante-bellum type and so enthusiastic that we can see in him the expression of "the great stone face."

Turner's North Carolina almanac, 1911, J. R. Smith Company. Cotton sold here at $14.80, and 133 bales were marketed last Saturday.

Hoyt Forbes, a colored man of good reputation, died Sunday night near here, and was buried Tuesday with Masonic honors.

Mrs. Willis, the aged lady mentioned in our last week's letter, died Sunday from the effect of the burns she received a few days ago.

Mr. Sol. Harris has purchased the B. Bryant James farm near Ayden. Let us gin your cotton, grind your corn and saw your logs, send you a cart, waggon or buggy.—J. R. Smith Company.

Mr. M. F. Sumrell is building him a nice home on his farm near town and expects to move to it about the first of the year. We will miss "Uncle Mose."

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. John H. Coward to Miss Blanche Cannon at the Christian church, on December 14th, 1910.

Fineman & White have opened a music house in the Smith building, next to the post office.

Messrs Grover McGlohorn and B. B. Sumrell have the contract to build a fine brick store for W. W. Ormond in Hookerton.

We will gin your cotton, give you your bagging and ties for the twentieth, and pay you top price for seed or give you meal in exchange. Come any day.—J. R. Smith Company.

If you wish to make the columns of the Ayden Department newsy, tell us what you know.

The old maids of our town will hold a special session at Ormondville next Friday night. They have lost a member. Cause, matrimony. Our jolly friend, "Theodore," will be given a free ticket if he will attend and help out the cause.

Mrs. Harry G. Burton is visiting her sister, Mrs. Britt, in Wilmington. Mr. W. H. Harris left Monday evening for a visit to his daughter in Rocky Mount.

Quite a number of Ayden Odd Fellows attended the district meeting at Aurora Thanksgiving day, and report a fine trip. The next meeting will convene at Belhaven in April. Our local lodge is making good progress. The election of officers will take place next Monday night and there is no danger work every meeting.

Hardware hardware, hardware.—J. R. Smith Company. Mr. Jesse Cannon is giving the Rightless house an overhauling and building an annex to it near the Winfield Park.

Rev. W. O. Winfield of Bath, will preach his inaugural sermon as Shepherd of the Ayden Christian church, the first Sunday morning in December. He is a scholarly gentleman and we can well expect a spiritual feast.

Rev. C. E. Lee will minister to the Rountree church the coming year. Stoves, mill fittings, flooring tools, and supplies.—J. R. Smith Company.

Bad Fire at Mount Airy—Big Celebration in Raleigh Over A. & M. Vytors—Serious Shooting Near Granite Falls, Murderer Escapes—William G. Herndon, Formerly of Oxford Died in Atlanta.

Something decidedly unique in 9 day school circles is at once to become a part of the school of the First Baptist church. It is a class composed of persons who are deaf and dumb. It will have about 20 members and will be taught by a deaf mute handicapped just as are they. There are 75 similarly afflicted in Mecklenburg county. They are organized and have their own minister who lives in Louisville, Ky., and who makes a regular circuit of visits. He will be here in January to hold a meeting. At that time a number of the young men will be baptized into the membership of the First church. County meetings will be held at frequent intervals.—Charlotte Observer.

The 15th annual meeting of the Seaboard Medical Association of North Carolina and Virginia, will convene in Kinston, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. Prominent physicians and surgeons from various sections of the two states will be present and participate in the discussion of many vitally important questions. A public meeting will be held in the court house Tuesday, December 8th, at p. m.—Kinston Free Press.

Mt. Airy, Nov. 28.—Fire broke out this morning at 5 o'clock in the Merritt-Thompson Furniture Company's big store on Main street and burned briskly for quite a while until our fire boys conquered it. The loss is a very heavy one on the building, and stock, running up into the thousands. The house was literally packed with goods and the loss must have been $6,000 or $7,000.

Goldsboro Nov. 28.—A wholesale raid was made on alleged blind tiger joints in this city today and when the afternoon police court opened twenty alleged "tigers" were caged in the city hall charged with selling whiskey. Many brands of different kinds of whiskeys were displayed as evidence by four detectives, three of them white and one negro, who have been in the town for several weeks working on the above cases, and today they closed in on their victims.

Oxford, Nov. 28.—A telegram has just been received in Oxford bringing the news of the death in Atlanta, Ga., of William G. Herndon. Mr. Herndon was a member of one of the most prominent families in Granville county. He left Oxford about 60 years ago to make his home in Atlanta and arrived there with less than $1 in his pocket. He became a very successful business man and accumulated a fortune of something over $250,000. He was an extensive dealer in Atlanta real estate and the rapid growth of that city gave him opportunity to multiply his resources.

Lenoir, Nov. 28.—News was received here today of a serious shooting which occurred Saturday night near Granite Falls. Two young men, Walter Poovey and Pink Ward, quarrelled. Poovey invited Ward out to settle the trouble and fired four shots. Ward died in about half an hour, and Poovey escaped. It is reported that each of them had an old grudge against the other.

The Baptist State Convention meets in Hendersonville on Tuesday, December 6th.

Raleigh, Nov. 28.—The victory of the Agriculture and Mechanical College over the Virginia Polytechnic Institute in the Thanksgiving day football game and the record of the Carolina farmers for the season in winning the college championship for the South Atlantic States, was celebrated here tonight on Fayetteville street. Special occasion lights, including the big "welcome to Raleigh" electric sign, were lighted in honor of the occasion. The A. & M. team rode in a big band wagon. A large special canvass football on a frame was carried on the shoulders of the students bearing the inscription "Agriculture and Mechanical College."

PERSONAL MENTION.

The People Who Come and Go on Our Trains.

Mrs. M. A. Whichard, of Whichard, who has been spending several days with the family of the editor, returned home Monday afternoon.

Mr. Wiley Brown left his morning for Wilmington, having accepted a position as traveling salesman for a firm of that city.

Rev. J. H. Shore left his morning for Elizabeth City to attend the North Carolina conference.

Miss Nettie Gregory, of Winston-Salem, came in this morning to take a position as assistant teacher of the fourth grade in the graded school.

Rev. M. R. Eure, a former pastor of the Methodist church here, spent today in town the guest of Mr. A. B. Ellington. He was on his way to the conference in Elizabeth City, but stopped here by a telephone message announcing the death of one of his members and asking him to return home to conduct the funeral. He left for Carthage this afternoon.

Miss Elizabeth White, of Baltimore who has been visiting Miss Muffy at the Training School, left for her home Sunday.

Miss Emma Page of Aberdeen, who has been visiting Miss Davis at the Training School, left this morning.

Mr. R. Williams went to Oxford today.

Mr. D. M. Clark went to Weldon today.

Mrs. Z. V. Murphrey and Miss Daisy Taylor left this morning for Greensboro.

Misses Sue Beyer, of Dayton, O., and Mildred Goodwin, of Raleigh, are visiting Miss Lee Brown.

ABOUT THE CAMPUS.

North Carolina Teachers' Training School Notes.

Messrs. Giddon, Ross and Johnston, of Philadelphia, and Willson, of Cumberland, Md., are the guests of Mr. Wright. They are having fine sport hunting.

Miss Elizabeth White, a teacher in the Eastern High School, of Baltimore, who spent Thanksgiving week with Miss Muffy, observed the class work of the school.

Miss Emma Page, Bible teachers at Greensboro Female college, is visiting Miss Davis.

The students enjoyed the relaxation of Thanksgiving holiday. In the evening the Y. W. C. A. held appropriate services in the auditorium.

At each monthly meeting the Pitt county teachers, under the direction of Prof. H. E. Austin, an hour is devoted to the study of McMurtry's "How to Study."

Prof. C. W. Wilson recently gave a series of helpful talks on the value of exercise from both the physical and psychological stand points.

The senior class, under the skillful direction of Miss Muffy, gave a play, "The Superior Sex," on the evening of November twenty-third. The young ladies deserve great credit for the marked success of the play. The snap and ease of their acting was striking. Miss McKinney, the class advisor, rendered apt assistance in stage setting and costuming. A short musical program was given before the beginning of the play.

Lecture on Tobacco Culture.

Mr. E. H. Matthewson will deliver a lecture on tobacco culture in the city hall at 10.30 o'clock Wednesday morning. All tobacco farmers especially should hear this address.

Some women are beautiful because of their clothes and some in spite of them.

A parade back and forth of Fayetteville street by students and the college band was a feature. Meredith college, Peace Institute and St. Mary's school were invited.

Feeding the Colt

The age to wean a colt depends largely on conditions. If the mare is not working or is not in foal again no hurry need be felt in weaning the colt, but ordinarily from six to seven months of age is not far from the most satisfactory time.

The feeding of the colt should start when it is three or four weeks old; corn, oats, wheat bran and any good, clean sweet hay may be given. If and while it is sucking the mother this is done, there will be no check in the growth of the colt when weaned, but after it is deprived of its mother's milk more care must be taken in the selection of its feeds.

At least one-half the hay should be of some good legume, free from dust and sweet. The other half may be corn fodder or any good grass hay. For grain, corn, oats, wheat bran, and after it is nine months or a year old, cottonseed meal may be used. The corn should never form more than one-third the grain ration and the cottonseed meal not more than one-sixth.

Let the colt run in the pasture where it will get exercise, and if good growth is expected, feed during the first winter, at least, all of these feeds it will eat up clean, three times a day. Salt should be kept before the colt all the time. Ordinary salt kept in a box in the stable is probably best. If a tablespoonful of hardwood ashes be given once a day it is thought by some to do good in supplying extra material for bone-making.

Be certain to avoid allowing the colt to become infested with lice. Good, regular grooming, with a brush only, is also of much benefit.—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

TUESDAY NOVEMBER 29, 1910

There are many things Greenville might get, but is not going to get them until the people make up their minds to go after them.

There are all kinds of folks and numerous methods of locomotion in these days. Two fellows recently left New York to walk around the world on stilts.

The eastern part of the State ought to follow the lead of the central section in developing its water power. The falls of Roanoke river above Weldon and the falls of Tar river near Rocky Mount could furnish electricity for all this eastern section.

If the farmers in any county in the state would stand up and demand good roads they would get them, but it seems a hard matter to get them sufficiently interested.—Durham Herald.

Yet they are the ones who would receive the greatest benefit from good roads.

The session of congress that convenes next week will consider the selection of the place at which shall be held the exposition celebrating the completion of the Panama canal. There are but two places mentioned—New Orleans and San Francisco. There is every reason why the former should be selected. It is not only the nearest seaport city of consequence to the canal, but is also nearest to the centre of population of the United States and far more accessible than San Francisco.

We had hoped the thing would be allowed to drop; but Col. Jimmy Cowan stirs it up worse than ever in this one: "Dr. Hawley Crippen may have been a fine dentist, but he certainly didn't have a pull with those English courts." Next thing Whichard, or somebody else, will be wondering if Crippen carried his pull-kens and tweezers and things with him on his last trip.—Greensboro News.

Not this time, as this is too serious a matter to make a subject of levity. When a man passes from this world to another, he should not be pursued even by the newspaper punster.

"Why don't the men let the women alone?" asks Col. Reece, of the Greensboro Record. Of course, we don't suppose he is hitting at any particular person, but we know one that his remarks fit precisely. However, we will not mention the name of the red-headed Greenville newspaper man.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Oh, you dodger! Always wanting to say somebody else is guilty, when you know you are the one aimed at. As to the remark fitting us, that's all right, for we don't want to lose sight of the fact that woman is the best of all creation, and this work is great as it is, would be a worthless place without her.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

The Brazilian authorities, perhaps understand that in granting the demands of the mutineers they are encouraging that sort of thing for the future.—Durham Herald.

But how could they help themselves? It was their own navy that mutinied, and the mutineers being in control of the warships with guns aimed on the city, the government had nothing left to fight with and there was nothing left but to yield or take the threatened bombardment. And the same thing might happen in any country if the men in charge of the warships were to mutiny.

The South Atlantic corn exposition, to be held in Columbia December 5-8 1910, which is the first undertaking of its kind ever attempted in the South, gives every promise of being a great success. The state corn contest and the boys' corn clubs have developed and are still developing the public interest in the matter of yields of corn. Now, that so much has been accomplished in that direction, this corn exposition is to be held with a view of setting the machinery in motion to improve the quality of the corn raised in this and our sister states, to stimulate breeding work and make corn bring more per bushel.

North Carolina counties which hardly know whether to show a spirit of progress or not, are invited to contemplate for a minute the vote of Wise county, Va., on a good roads bond issue of $700,000. Out of 2,000 votes cast 1,700 were for good roads. Thus, only 15 per cent. of the citizens of Wise county were content to act like the inhabitants of "Sleepy Hollow." What is your impression of Wise county? Why, the decision for good roads is proof enough that Wise is one of Virginia's most progressive counties.—Wilmington Star.

Corn smut gets into the corn from the smutty stalks going into the manure and out on the land, and it goes into the plant only in the germination stage. You can put smut into the cup of a corn stalk knee-high and hit it with smut, and it will not affect the plant. It is never carried by the seeds and the way to get rid of it is to cut and burn every smutted plant and not let it go to the barnyard at all.—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Every school superintendent in North Carolina should follow the lead as Professor Graham is following it. The flag of old North Carolina should not only float from every court house in the state, but from every school building and every state institution. There should be dozens of the state flags floating every day from the state institutions in Raleigh, yet it is seldom you can see one unless it is from the dome of the Capitol building.—Raleigh Times.

Bamboo Cooking Utensils.
The Dyaks of Borneo boil their food in bamboo cut into lengths of about two or three feet. These are placed over the fire in such a position that the joint of the bamboo does not come in contact with the fire, but rests upon the ground beyond. The fire is placed under the green and harder part of the cane, which, by its silicious coating, resists the action of the flame until the provisions are sufficiently prepared. A bundle of leaves placed in the mouth of the bamboo serves the purpose of the lid of an ordinary cooking vessel.

A LIVING SNUFFBOX.

Peculiar Role Mme. du Cayla Played For Louis XVIII.

There have been snuffboxes of gold studded with jewels, of delicately carved tortoise shell, of green silver, porcelain, ivory, mother-of-pearl, humble horn, wood and tin, but there is only one living snuffbox on record, and that was the particular luxury of Louis XVIII. of France. "His majesty's snuffbox," as she was known throughout Europe, was Mme. du Cayla, a fascinating favorite at the Bourbon court. Her place at table was always at the monarch's left hand, and when during the course of the meal he signified his desire for a pinch of brown powder to titillate his fat nose she took a diamond crusted box from her pocket, dusted just the right quantity of perfumed snuff on her snowy right shoulder and presented it to the king, who partook of it with profound pleasure.

Louis was the greatest snuff taker at a court where everybody snuffed constantly. Mme. du Cayla's position was no sinecure, but the human snuffbox was well paid for indulging the king in his little fad. He presented her with a copy of Roy-mont's Illustrated Bible, and each one of the 150 engravings was covered with a thousand franc note. It was followed with the gift of "Bassnet's Sermons," interleaved with the same valuable paper from cover to cover.—New York Press.

ANTIQUITY OF CHEESE.

Homer and the Book of Job Allude to the Product.

Cheese and curdling of the milk are mentioned in the book of Job. David was sent by his father, Jesse, to carry ten cheeses to the camp and to look how his brother fared. "Cheese of kine" formed part of the supplies of David's army at Mahanaim during the rebellion of Absalom.

Homer says that cheese formed part of the ample stores found by Ulysses in the cave of the Cyclop Polyphemus. Euripides, Theocritus and other early poets mention cheese. Ludolphus says that excellent cheese and butter were made by the ancient Ethiopians, and Strabo states that some of the ancient Britons were so ignorant that, though they had abundance of milk, they did not understand the art of making cheese.

There is no evidence that any of these ancient nations had discovered the use of rennet in making cheese. They appear to have merely allowed the milk to sour and subsequently to have formed the cheese from the caseous part of the milk after expelling the serum or whey.

As David when too young to carry arms was able to run to the camp with ten cheeses, ten loaves and an ephah of parched corn, the cheeses must have been very small.

Marvels of the Telephone.

The Electrical Review thus describes the minute electric current required in transmitting speech:

"The peculiar electric telephone current is perhaps the quickest, feeblest and most elusive force in the world. It is so amazing a thing that any description of it seems irrational. It is as gentle as the touch of a baby sunbeam and as swift as the lightning flash. It is so small that the electric current of a single incandescent lamp is greater—500,000,000 times. Cool a spoonful of hot water just one degree and the energy set free by the cooling will operate a telephone for 10,000 years. Catch the falling teardrop of a child and there will be sufficient water power to carry a spoken message from one city to another. Such is the tiny genius of the wire that had to be protected and trained into obedience."

The News by Windmill.

In certain parts of Holland births, marriages and deaths are frequently announced by the windmills instead of in the newspapers. When a miller gets married he stops his mill with the arms of the wheel in an oblique position and with the sails unfurled. His friends and guests often do likewise with their mills in token of the ceremony. To indicate a birth the wheel is stopped with the arms in a slanting position, but at a more acute angle than for a marriage and with the two upper sails unfurled. Should a miller die the sails of his mill are all furled and the wheel is turned round until the arms assume an upright cross, in which position they are left until after the funeral has taken place.—Harper's Weekly.

A Comparison.

Two friends met one day after a long absence. One of them had a very ruddy complexion, and his nose was carmine. The other looked into his face and said:

"Ah, John, I doot!"

But John said he was not to judge by appearances, as he only drank one glass of beer in a day.

"Oh, weel," said the other, "yer face, perhaps, is like our gas meter—it registers more than it consumes."—London Answers.

Where They Belong.

"Have you any men serving sentences for bigamy?" asked the prison visitor.

"Lots of them," replied the keeper, "but we confine them all in the insane ward."—Philadelphia Record.

Naturally.

"Pop, flowers shoot, don't they?"
"Certainl', my son."
"Well, pop, do they shoot with their petals?"—Baltimore American.

THE PRESENT INSTANT.

Science Defines It as the Hundredth Part of a Second.

A congress of European astronomers decided that the present time—that is, the present moment at any particular instant—consists of the hundredth part of a second. This has been settled on because these men of science have thought that it represented the tiniest fraction of time which could be appreciated by the human brain. Yet the thousandth part of a second is actually used in physical science, especially in certain important uses of electricity.

For scientific purposes, however, the official present moment flashes from the future to the past in the hundredth part of a second. This cannot seem so remarkable when it is recalled that speed records for both horses and men runners are officially calculated in fractions as small as one-fifth of a second.

But in astronomy it is needed to have the hundredth part of a second, for in that moment light can travel 2,000 miles. So time, which is, after all, only a figure of speech and is a mystery that no human brain can understand or fathom, must be considered relatively to one's sensations. The time to pull an aching tooth is really much longer to the sufferer than a whole night spent in sound sleep. It is more of the person's actual life. It demands more food to stand the nervous strain and the pain than hours of quiet rest.

Time, then, for all men is relative to their personal sensations. Yet time is real enough. It takes actual time for starlight to travel, in some cases thousands of years. It takes time for sound to travel and time for the electric wave to work actual results over long distances.

So that time is not only theoretical; it is as real as coal and wood. Yet this reality stretches over a human lifetime back to ages before the existence of the sun and the stars. For purposes of ordinary human work the second is small enough to use as a standard of value, but scientific men have progressed so far in knowledge that the second is too long a period for them to consider as the scientific instant. Therefore they have chosen the hundredth of a second as the standard for the length of time that they will consider as the actual moment at any one instant.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Spoiled His Act.

A musical artist announced to his friends that he had a feature for his act that was calculated to make the whole profession sit up and take notice. Several days later he was asked to divulge his plans.

"Oh, that's all off," was the answer. "Well, if it was such a wonderful thing what was it?" was the general inquiry.

"I had planned to have a real skeleton," the musical man replied, "with its ribs tuned up so that I could play music on it like a xylophone."

"Great! Why aren't you going to do it?"

The musician heaved a sigh of disappointment.

"I tried it," he answered, "but somebody sold me the skeleton of a ticklish man and I couldn't hit the ribs."—Youngstown Telegram.

HIS QUICK LUNCH.

A Cleveland Man's Experience in a Toronto Restaurant.

The Canadian brother certainly differs from us in several strongly marked respects. A Cleveland man went into the leading restaurant of Toronto and said to the waiter in his customary quick lunch voice:

"Crackers 'n' milk—cup coffee—apple pie."

The waiter bent a little lower, "Beg pardon, sir?"

The Cleveland man said it again and, being slightly irritated, said it faster.

The waiter shook his head. "I'm afraid we 'aven't it, sir," he deprecated, as Hashimura Togo might say.

"Haven't you any crackers?"

"No, sir." Then, with a sudden inspiration. "We 'ave biscuits, sir."

"All right; bring me biscuits. And you can give me some milk, can't you—milk in a bowl?"

"I'll inquire, sir." Then another inspiration. "We can give you coffee, sir."

"Good! How about the apple pie?"

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, Nov. 29.—Fervid and unsettled market with gains and losses about equally divided throughout the general line, existed during early trading today on the stock market. At the beginning of the second hour, a steady tone prevailed, and in many stocks early losses were wiped out and replaced with fractional gains. Steel was slightly lower. Northern Pacific and other Hill stocks were a little brighter.

New York, Nov. 29.—Heavy realizing resulting in the cotton market opening with prices from 4 to 11 points off. Selling appeared to be general. After the call a sharp demand sprang up and the market rallied somewhat and about half of the early loss was recovered. Opening: December 14.73; January 14.71; March 14.94; April 15.05 (bid)

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Wheat opened 3-5 to 1-2c lower with commission houses leading the selling. Demand was scattered. Corn started steady to 1-8 lower; oats opened a shade easier; provisions were a shade easier. Opening: December wheat $9 3-8; corn 42 3-4; oats 30 5-8; pork day 16 20.

He Loved His Enemies.

James MacNeill Whistler looked upon life as upon a kind of warfare and was never so happy as when he was quarreling with somebody. He is quoted as having said when asked if he did not have many friends: "Yes, I have many friends, and I am grateful to them, but those whom most I love are my enemies, not in a Biblical sense. Oh, no, but because they keep one always busy, always up to the mark, either fighting them or proving them idiots."

Then He Sulked.

"Mrs. Guschley remarked to me that it must be pleasant to be married to a clever man," said Proudley's wife. "And what did you say?" queried Proudley. "I told her, of course, that I didn't know; that I had only been married once."

Suffering becomes beautiful when one bears great calamities with cheerfulness, not through insensibility, but through greatness of mind.—Aristotle.

An Antiseptic Child.

Little Walter was always carefully guarded against germs. The telephone was sprayed, the drinking utensils sterilized and public conveyances and places were forbidden him. "Father," he said one night in a tone of desperation, "do you know what I am going to do when I grow up?" "What?" asked his father, preparing himself for the worst. "I'm going to eat a germ."—Success Magazine.

His Style.

DIDN'T WASTE WORDS.

The Stoical Mountaineer Simply Answered the Question.

"For stoical indifference and tactfulness," said a young man from Knoxville, Tenn., who was visiting in Louisville a few days ago. "I never saw any one that could equal the Kentucky mountaineer."

"Two years ago I was camping during the summer with a party of young men and women in the mountains. During our stay there we became acquainted with an old mountaineer whom we called Sam. He always referred to his wife as Maria, and we fell into the same habit.

"Last year we returned to the same place to camp. As we were going up the mountain path on our first day out we met Sam walking along apparently in a deep study.

"Hello, Sam!" we all called. "Where's Maria?"

"She's comin' back there," he said, directing his thumb backward over his shoulder.

"We went on up the mountain path and a short distance farther came upon a party of mountaineers transporting a dead body in a rickety wagon. It was a funeral party. Imagine our surprise when we were informed that the deceased was Maria. Sam had not thought it worth his pains to inform us that Maria was dead when he stated she was 'comin' back there.'"—Louisville Times.

THE ENGAGEMENT RING.

Advice the Jeweler Gave the Young Man Who Was Investing.

"Some of these jewelers are an accommodating lot," remarked the young man in the light suit. "I went in the other day to buy a diamond ring.

"For a lady?" the clerk asked me. I told him it was.

"An engagement ring?" he asked me further.

"Yes," I told him, getting a little bit peeved, "but I don't see what business it is of yours what I intend to do with the ring after I've paid for it out of my own private funds."

"Don't be offended," says the clerk in a conciliatory tone. "I was just going to suggest that if it was simply a present, with no engagement going with it, you go in for size rather than for quality, and when the girl comes in to inquire about its value we'll be $50 or $75 worth for you. But if it's an engagement ring I would advise you to get the best quality you can find, even if it does mean a smaller stone. Just as a matter of sentiment you'll want to know that it is right, and then if you ever get in hard luck you can pawn the good ring for two-thirds of its value."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Toad's Tongue.

The skillful manner in which a pet toad used its wonderfully formed tongue entitled it to be ranked as an expert. For one thing, it showed wonderful skill in judging distances. The tongue was never darted out until the insect came within a certain range. The accuracy of the creature's aim was another matter for surprise. The insects were generally in motion when the tongue was darted out against them, but the arrow never failed to hit. The rapidity with which the tongue was shot forth excited much wonder. The operation is a complex one. The tongue is doubled or folded up when in the mouth. Therefore a twofold action is required, an uncoupling of the weapon and then the darting of it forth. The withdrawing of the tongue with the captured insect on the tip was not less remarkable. Notwithstanding the rapid motion, the fineness of the tongue tip and the struggles of the prey the victim was never dropped.—Exchange.

Graves in China.

There are various kinds of graves in China. The graves are dug generally from twelve feet to thirteen feet below the ground, while, according to an old custom, the mounds of the graves of emperors were thirty feet in height, those of territorial lords fifteen feet and those of barons without territories and of lord stewards eight feet, while for inferior officials and common people mounds only four feet in height were erected. Pines were planted on the tombs of emperors, a species of oak on those of territorial lords, a species of willow on those of barons and lord stewards and elm trees on those of inferior officials. Although there are no territorial lords and lord stewards now in China, men of high rank still have their tombs constructed in accordance with this old custom.

PARKER'S STUDIO. 11-26-3dws—12-16m

A very large number of our people never seem happy as when they are being humbugged—fished out of their hard-earned money by sharpers and swindlers. According to Postmaster-General Hitchcock, the people of the United States have thrown away $100,000,000 in five years up a get-rich-quick swindling concern which have laid themselves open to Federal prosecution by criminal use of the mails to defraud. Where does all this money come from? What is the secret of the willingness of people who seem otherwise intelligent to yield their hard earnings to schemers of whom they know nothing for purposes which they cannot judge.—Salsbury Post.
