MANY ENTER GREAT CONTEST

MORE ARE WANTED AND NOW IS THE TIME TO COME IN

$600 IN PRIZES VERY ATTRACTIVE

The Contest Bids Fair to be The Most Successful in The History of This Section—Remember Even The Smallest Prize is of Great Value.

Nominations continue to come in to the office of the Contest Department of The Reflector from a large number of wide-awake people who have been attracted by this paper's announcement that it would give $600 in prizes in its big voting-contest.

From many sections comes reports of general interest. Almost every mail brings nominations and letters from energetic people who are determined not to let slip a chance to be handsomely rewarded for the expenditure of a small amount of energy.

Mainly responsible for this large number of nominations is the size of the prize list and the value of the prizes offered. It is a conclusion that with the large number of prizes there must necessarily be a large number of prize winners.

Of those who have already nominated themselves, or been nominated, a large percentage will drop out of the race, or fail to show an active interest, leaving the field open for those who remain to the last. This suggests that the large number of nominations will, in no way, effect the chance of those who have entered with the determination to remain to the end. It is a fact that in a contest of this kind it is not the meteoric contestant who does a few days brilliant work and then sits idly by, who wins. But it is the contestant who moves along steadily, but surely and sticks to the last.

Just a limited number of these will be expected to enter and any person who will run a sure, steady race is pretty certain to be awarded a handsome prize in return.

More Nominations Wanted. Many more nominations are desired—several hundred more are needed to make a success of the contest and The Reflector invites from all who feel inclined to compete for the valuable prizes.

A few inquiries have been received in regard to the exact manner the prizes will be awarded. There are nine prizes (9)—two grand prizes, four (4) district prizes and three special prizes.

The candidates receiving the highest number of votes, no matter in what district he or she may reside, will be awarded the $300 STULTZ PIANO—the first grand prize.

The next highest will be awarded one year's full course in the East Carolina Teachers' Training School. After the two grand prizes have been awarded, the highest candidates in either of the four districts will be awarded their choice of the district prizes and the remaining three districts will be handled accordingly.

The special prizes will be awarded at certain periods during the contest to the candidate having the highest number of votes at a certain period of the contest.

Subscription books may be had upon application to the Contest Department, either in person, by letter, or by telephone.

A grand prize winner will not be permitted to win a district prize.

DANGER OF FIRE.

Warning Issued by Commissioner Young.

Insurance Commissioner Young says that sometime ago he called the attention to the citizens of the State to the large number of fires being caused by defective flues, and urged that every citizen of the State would see that the property owned or occupied by him was thoroughly examined especially in regard to the condition of the flues and other matters about the premises likely to produce fire.

Commissioner Young says it would be well at this time for all citizens of the State, especially merchants, to look out and endeavor to prevent the usual amount of Christmas fire. The decorations in the windows of our stores, as well as the decorations around Christmas trees in our homes cause a large number of fires each year, and with the fires caused by fireworks, make an immense waste which must be borne by the State and her citizens. An exercise of the proper care on the part of our citizens will result in an immense saving along this line and Commissioner Young says he appeals to the citizens of the State to act promptly in this matter. —Raleigh Times.

Elections May Bring Reform.

By Wire to The Reflector. London, Dec. 14.—The present general elections being held throughout Great Britain will likely lead to electoral reform. This election, which has stagnated business and caused thousands of pounds loss, has not aided in the slightest towards solving constitutional questions which vex the empire. Interest in the election is now largely lost, as it is seen that parliament will be the same complexion as before. There is still some excitement and rioting in Ireland.

Disk or Moldboard Plows?

A correspondent wants to know if we would advise the use of a disk plow when only two 1,100-pound animals are available to pull it. Unless the land is light, two horses of this weight will not be able to pull a disk plow satisfactorily, and even in light land, if the plow is run very deep this amount of team force will be too light.

The disk plow has certain advantages over the moldboard plow, but for ordinary work a good moldboard plow will do as satisfactory work. The disk will plow land when so hard that it could not be plowed with the ordinary plow but it takes more than two 1,100-pound horses to plow this kind of land with a disk.

The disk is also superior in its ability to turn under large quantities of trash and where the land is full of small roots the disk will do work that it would trouble the moldboard plow to do. With sufficient force the disk plow will probably do deep plowing better and less of the raw soil will be turned up on top.

But with only two horses and for general farm work we would take a good two-horse moldboard plow.—Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Tools for One-Horse Farmers.

We are frequently asked to state what farm implements one horse can pull. We wish we could recommend to the man with one horse or mule, implements which will do good work in preparing the land, but we can not do it. This is not our fault, and we hope the one-horse farmer will not think that we do not appreciate his situation and wish to help him. No one can ever tell how to break land properly with one 900-pound horse. It is simply a physical impossibility, for which neither he nor this paper is responsible. It would please us the best in the world, if we could, to name a plow or an implement which can be pulled by one horse or mule and do good and economic work plowing or preparing land; because one horse costs much less, and can be fed cheaper than two or three; but the implements are not made and can not be made.

We would like to help the one-horse farmer along this line. In fact, would rather help him than any other class, but we can not do it, and to expect us to do it, is expecting impossibilities.

The weeder can be used with one horse and do good economical work in early cultivation of crops, when the land has been well prepared, and if our one-horse farmers could join forces and prepare their lands well, then we could recommend this one implement for economical cultivation which one horse will pull.

Crops may be cultivated with one horse, but not economically, because two horses and two men can usually do very little more than two horses and one man. In preparing the land in breaking it at least, one horse can not do the work either well or economically.

The problem of the one-horse farmer is a difficult one, and his only salvation is in getting at least two good horses or mules. We can not help him to do good work with one horse but we can help him to get two, by telling him how to grow more feed and to breed and care for live stock and this we are trying to do. It is no lack of desire to help the one-horse farmer on our part; but the impossibility of the task that has prevented us telling what implements will do economical and satisfactory work for the one-horse farmer. Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Re-Districting the State.

The redistribution of the State congressionally is a problem that has been exciting the liveliest interest and discussion in political circles to some time past. The report of the 13th census issued last week has brought matters to a climax and some sort of an agreement as to a re-alignment of counties will have to be reached at an early date. Thoughtful observers and keen students of events have been pondering the situation over for some time past but as yet nothing of a definite nature has been suggested. The most casual review of the figures of the recent census for North Carolina will show that some kind of re-arrangements of counties will have to be made. Allowing for the prorata increase in population to the district, it will be seen at once that several of the districts as now constituted will go far beyond their allotment, while others will fall behind. This is noticeably the case in the fifth, ninth and seventh districts, which have made great strides forward in population, while the third, first and second have fallen beneath the allotment. And then the aggregate discloses the interesting fact that the State will probably receive another representative in congress which will necessitate eleven instead of ten districts.

The problem that is exciting such lively discussion just now is that of the location of the new district and the determination of just what counties constitute it. And then, too, there is animated speculation as to what counties will be taken away from too-populous districts and just what counties will be added to these that are too small. The last division of the State into districts was made in 1900 or shortly thereafter following the report of the twelfth census. In this decade that has elapsed some of the districts have grown faster than others and hence the imperative demand for substantial re-arrangement.

The greatest gain in population was made by the fifth district, which is composed of the following counties: Alamance, Caswell, Durham, Forsyth, Granville, Guilford, Orange, Person, Rockingham, Stokes and Surry. The aggregate population of these eleven counties, according to the thirteenth census just issued, is 340,874 or 150,874 above the prorata allowed for district representation 10 years ago. Estimating that the pro rata figure this time will be raised from 120,000, the allotment 10 years ago, to 220,000, for each representative, then the fifth district will have 120,246 above the requisite number. On the same basis, the ninth district, which includes Burke, Catawba, Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, Madison, Mecklenburg, Mitchell and Yancey, with its 244,497 population, will have 24,451 too many and the seventh district with its 242,833 population will have 22,833 too many. The eighth district will just escape as its population is 220,813 or 813 above the pro rata.

Of particular interest, however, are districting being obligatory, the question, the extreme western mountain district. The third district has only 178,775 population, which on the basis of 200,000 for representation, falls short by 41,225. This is not extreme, however, as according to the census of 1900 the population of the district was only 157,704 on the basis of 190,000, or approximately 33,000 short. Likewise the first falls far short on the new standard and so also the second.

Such being the case and the re-districting being obligatory, the question is as to what re-arrangement of counties will follow. It goes without saying that the Democratic machine will make the best re-alignment possible to maintain the Democratic strength. Such being the case it is not improbable that some aid will be thrown to the eighth and again some help will be given the tenth. Additions will be made to some of the eastern counties also to bring them up as near the standard as possible. It has been suggested that one strong Republican district be formed in the west but this idea is not meeting with much favor.

This matter will be in the hands of a special body whose action when consummated will be of extraordinary interest. Charlotte Observer.

A New Back for an Old One. How it Can be Done in Greenville.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the lions are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the bad back for a new stronger one. Greenville resident would do well to profit by the following example:

Joseph Savage, Church street, Tallboro, N. C. says: "For some time my kidneys were disordered the passages of the kidney secretions being scanty and at times painful. I had sharp pains in my lions and if I stopped suddenly, sharp twinges caught me across the back, making it hard for me to straighten. After trying a number of remedies without finding relief I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They removed the aches and pains and regulated the passages of the kidney secretions. I am pleased to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I have derived from their use."

Fertilizer From Air.

The innovation, shortly to be inaugurated by the Southern Power Company, in producing fertilizer from the air is something altogether revolutionary in its nature.

Machinery has been shipped and it is said that soon the plant, which is to produce the product, is to be constructed at Great Falls. Naturally the agricultural world awaits developments with a great deal of interest. Fertilizer forms a big item with Southern farmers, and if it be possible, as some one has predicted, to fall upon a process whereby any farmer may install a small electrical equipment of his own, and produce his supply of fertilizer a tremendous saving will result.

Many efforts have been made in this direction, but promoters of the new process are confident that the effort in this case will be successful. Charlotte Observer.

Cotton Seed Meal.
Commissioner of Agriculture H. J. Watson, of South Carolina, is much interested in the tendency being manifested in his State towards a healthy live-stock industry—that is, the feeding of beef cattle for the market, and he has recently called attention to a danger which threatens success in this direction. A considerable portion of the cotton seed this year seems to have reached the mills in more or less damaged condition. The consequent depreciation of the meal renders it unsuitable for feeding purposes, although rather enhancing its value as a fertilizer, owing to the increased percentage of ammonia present. In a recent circular the meal manufacturers Colonel Watson says: "The very thing that is so full of promise for the curshing industry—the establishment of a live-stock industry utilizing cotton seed meal—the maximum of money and fertilizer results—is about to be materially set back by the shipments of meal made from bad seed for feed purposes. The crop of seed this year has been the worst for years, but that no reason why meal from such seed should be forced on the public feed."
The point is well taken, especially as the brown meal made from the inferior seed gives a higher fertilizing value than the first class bright meal. It would be greatly to the future advantage of manufacturers of feed if exercised every precaution to supply only bright meal for feeding purposes, reserving the darker product for fertilizer orders. If this discrimination is not used, the cattle feeders cannot obtain satisfactory results from using the meal as feed, and the natural consequence will be that if employment for such purposes will suffer great diminution.—Charlotte Observer.
Quite Safe.
Well Meaning Golfer—Er—do you think it quite safe to bring that child across the links?
Matilda Jane—Oh, it's all right, sir! I shouldn't think of bringin' 'im if he warn't as deaf as a post, poor little chap!—London Punch.

To The Tobacco Farmers of Eastern North Carolina.

I wish to announce to my friends and the public, that since the fire which destroyed the Peoples warehouse on Saturday night December 10th, I will be on the sales and can be found at either the Gum or Star warehouses where I shall take the same interest and strive to the utmost to give my friends and customers the very highest possible price. I appreciate very much the patronage and loyal support which the tobacco farmers in this section have given me during the past season. I came to Greenville to build up a permanent business. That is still my intention, and I desire to say, that no effort of mine shall be spared to prove to the farmers that I appreciate their patronage.

Mr. Lovelace and Mr. Foxhall have assured me their hearty co-operation in looking after the interest of my customers.

Again thanking you for past patronage and assuring you of deep appreciation of your future interest I am,
Yours truly,

MAN'S WORLD TRANSFORMED

But Machinery Has Done Little for Women.

Machinery has transformed, for the most part, only man's world. Woman's world has hardly been changed at all. The city woman has a carpet-sweeper, but she has a large house to sweep. She has a gas-stove and perhaps a furnace—each an improvement upon the fireplace—but she has stairs to climb. She has water from a tapet instead of in a well. A 'that is about all. If she does her own work, as most women do, she has no more leisure than her grandmother had. If she doesn't do her own work, she must wade with the "servant problem," and the woman who does her work for her will have no more leisure than her grandmother had. In other words, housework, in city or country, is almost if not quite as hard today as it ever was.

There is no more reason why woman should have to sweep and dust than there is why she should have to cook over a fireplace. Sweeping and dusting are signs of a time that should be past. Such methods of cleaning were all right when better methods were unknown, but they are all wrong now that better methods are known. Vacuum-cleaning is a better method. A vacuum-cleaner gets all the dust and makes none—so there is no dusting. A electricity does most of the work. The little work that a woman does is not burdensome. The air she breathes while cleaning is clean. No dust settles in her hair. When the task is finished she is not in need of a bath. And if she has been running the cleaner for an hour the cost of the electricity consumed is less than three cents. Moreover the room is clean through the rugs to the floor. Turn up the corner of a rug and there is—just floor, no dust.

Every woman knows, of course that vacuum-cleaners are on the market. Every woman would like to have one but they think they can not afford to buy vacuum-cleaners. Very few of the women who hire their housework done have cleaners. They moderately well-to-do women believe they can afford no such luxury. And the wives of wage-workers and small farmers, of course, never dare to hope beyond the door of the vacuum-sweeper. Yet, as good a cleaner as there is on the market can be bought for approximately $125, and a cleaner big enough for a small house can be bought for less.

A good vacuum-cleaner will last with slight repairs, twenty years. If a man, for an expenditure of approximately $125 could take a kink out of each day of his work for twenty years, how long would the kink stay? Let the housewife's wife ask him how long he would carry the hod if he could buy a motor for $125 that would carry the hod for him. Ask any man if he would give $125 to have one of his worst tasks done for half of a working lifetime. A man would stop at nothing short of safe-blowing to get the money.—The Delineator.

What She Should Do.

Bertie had been forbidden under severe penalties to play in the rain barrel, but the other day, sad to relate, his mamma and grandmother found him splashing in it in high glee.

His mamma's face hardened, but the grandmother's kind heart led her to make a plea for the offender.

Bertie heard the plea, and when his mamma asked him sternly what she should do to a little boy who did not mind what was told him he answered promptly:

"I think you had better mind your mamma."

She Knew Him.

She—You know, Harry, so far as I am concerned, I am only too happy to become your wife, but my father, you know—

He—But what has your father got to do with it? Your father hasn't got to live with me.

She—No, Harry, but you may have to live with father, you know.—Boston Transcript.
