NORTH CAROLINA ITEMS

Of News Happenings Far and Near Within Its Borders.

In the announcement late yesterday afternoon that Judge James S. Manning and Mr. R. O. Everett, one of the leading members of the Durham bar had decided to unite forces after January 1, this city will have one of the strongest law firms in the State of North Carolina. During his service on the Supreme court bench, Judge Manning has more than demonstrated his qualities as an eminent jurist. Mr. Everett during his residence in this city has built up one of the largest individual practices in the State. He has been city attorney and stands in the highest regard by all members of the local bar. The style of the new firm will be Manning & Everett, and they will occupy the entire suite of rooms on the second floor now occupied by Mr. Everett.—Durham Sun.

Mr. Wade Peacock, of Mooresville, was the victim of a distressing accident yesterday at Rimertown, when he lost his life from wounds resulting from the accidental discharge of a six gle barrel shot gun in his own hands. Mr. Peacock and several companions were returning from a day's hunt and had stopped on an old bridge, near the home of Mr. Julius Barrier, and was leaning on the muzzle of his gun with the butt resting on the bridge, looking down at the water beneath, when the butt of the gun slipped off the bridge, and the hammer struck the edge, causing the full discharge to strike the young man in the right side, opening a wide hole through his body, from which protruded parts of his liver and other vital organs. His friends hearing the report of the gun rushed to the bridge and were greeted with the horrible spectacle of the young man writhing in the agonies of a horrible death. His death resulted in about 20 minutes.—Concord Tribune

With the maturity of this series the management of this association will have paid off nearly the sum of $3,000,000 to its subscribers. This is the largest building and loan association in the United States, having an authorized capital of $5,000,000 and 27,500 shares in force.—Charlotte Observer.

John C. Davidson, one of the most highly esteemed colored citizens of Charlotte, died at his home, No. 702 West Third Street yesterday morning. He was by trade a tinner and was also a minister of the gospel. He was born and reared in Charlotte, having lived to the ripe old age of 92 years. He leaves a wife and several children.—Charlotte Observer.

Charlotte, Dec. 30.—Editor James A. Cromartie, of Spartan, Ga., who disappeared mysteriously from a hotel at Hamlet, N. C., November 9th, was found today wandering in the woods near Ellenboro, Rutherford county, more than a hundred miles from the scene of his disappearance, by a farmer, Cromartie, who is over sixty years old, is said to be deranged and does not know his own name, but the identification was established by pictures and newspaper stories. He arrived at Hamlet the night of November 9th, at which place it was necessary for him to change cars for Clarkton, N. C., where he purposed visiting relatives. During the night he disappeared, leaving his baggage at the hotel.

Constantinople, Dec. 31.—The rebellious Druzes and Bedouin tribesmen of Syria have surrendered to the Turkish authorities after a series of conflicts in which they lost 1800 men. Turkish military officials at Damascus reported today that the tribesmen had agreed to submit to any terms named. These terms will include heavy indemnity to Sublim Porte and the restoration of all loot seized by tribesmen.

Mr. J. B. Kittrell, of Greenville, was in town Thursday.

McLawhorn-Johnson Nuptials.

On Wednesday evening, the 28th, the Episcopal church of our town was the scene of the prettiest wedding our people have attended in some time, when Mr. Heber McLawhorn and Miss Miriam Johnson two of the popular young people in our community were united in marriage.

The church was very festive in its holly and mistletoe, but the addition of four tall arches of white, draped with evergreen, suggested the sunny vine clad arbors of oriental lands. As one glanced up the aisle toward the altar the effect was very pleasing indeed. These arches were arranged over the curtail aisle, the last one terminating at the chancel rail. This one supported from the top a semi-circle of white marriage bells, and it was here the bride and groom took their place at the beginning of the impressive ceremony.

Shortly after 7:30 Miss Venetia Cox, a cousin of the bride and Mr. Royal Adams, of our town, marched up the aisle, Miss Cox officiating at the organ, while Mr. Adams assisted in turning the pages of her music.

As the first strains of Lehengrin's bridal chorus pealed out the voices of six young ladies in white, Misses Helen Adams, Hulda Cox, Jeanette Cox, Pearl Hester, Clyde Chapman and Olivia Cox, were heard at the door, singing the fitting words to this familiar march as it guided their steps toward the organ. Following the singers came the ushers, Messrs. Fountain Cox and Bruton Bryan. As they had placed the carpet of white over the aisle, the first couple of attendance made their way toward the altar. During the singing of the sweet bridal chorus these couples drew up in front of the chancel in the order given: Mr. Charlie McLawhorn with Miss Lela Brown, of Williamston; Mr. Hugh Smith, of Farmville, with Miss Lena Cobb, of Conetoe; Mr. Lester Johnson, of Rocky Mount, with Miss Nellie Johnson, of Greene county; Mr. Gordan Johnson with Miss Corinne McLawhorn, Mr. Roy Cox with Miss Janie Kittrell, Mr. Herbert Cox with Miss Magdalene Cox.

The bridesmaids so daintily arrayed in evening dresses, and the groomsmen in dress suits, made a pleasing picture as they formed a semi-circle about the altar. Mrs. Joe Patrick, of Ayden, was the dame of honor, and looked very imposing in her dress of old rose with silver trimmings.

Miss Esther Johnson, sister of the bride, made a charming maid of honor.

In a handsome dress of cream and silver, and draped in her misty veil, the bride looked very queenly as she came up the aisle on the arm of her father. They were met at the chancel steps by the groom with his best man, Mr. Doremus McLawhorn. The impressive ring service which made them man and wife, was conducted by Rev. B. F. Huske, of New Bern. At the end of the service the benediction, with words from Sidney Lanier, was effectively rendered by Misses Hulda and Venetia Cox. Owing to the efforts of Miss Venetia Cox, the entire musical program during the service was a decided suc-

FACES TURNED HOMEWARD.

The Cruisers Will Try to Slip in Unawares.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Dec. 31.—Seven scout cruisers, eyes of the navy, are ready to slip out of Hampton Roads at a moments notice to detect the approach of a hostile battleship fleet of sixteen dreadnaughts which, having assembled off Sicily Island turned their prows westward for a raid on the United States. War is on. It is war of brains, however. The cruisers are defending the home coast from invading home ships. The fleet is due at Guantanamo, Cuba, January 16th. Before that date it may appear suddenly before New York or some other city on the coast and "capture" it unless its presence is detected by cruisers.

The navy departments only instruction to the "enemy" is to reach the Atlantic Coast line without detection of cruisers, to intercept fleet and report its movements.

Hero Fund in Germany.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Berlin, Dec. 31.—Announcement was made today that Andrew Carnegie has established a hero fund for Germany similar to those in America, England and France, endowing it with $1,187,000. Emperor William has forwarded a warm letter of appreciation and thanks to the American millionaire. A committee of twelve appointed by the Kaiser will manage the fund. Carnegie will probably come here to place the work upon American basis.

Tries to Commit Suicide.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Dec. 31.—Joseph G. Robbin, the young financier who wrecked two banks and who tried to commit suicide yesterday afternoon just before he was to be arraigned in court, by swallowing poison, is much improved and will get well. A detective stays by his side now all the time to prevent another attempt at suicide. This was the second attempt he having tried to throw himself out of a window several days ago.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Dec. 31.—Fourteen persons were injured in a panic which followed the clash of two rival East side gangs early today at a dance. Loss of life was prevented by the prompt action on the part of the police and detectives, who were on the scene. Shots were fired and glass and chairs used as weapons.

eggs, and as most of it was entirely new, it was much enjoyed.

After leaving the church, the bridal party proceeded to the home of Mrs. J. D. Cox, an aunt of the bride, where a delightful reception was held. Delicious fruit salad and cake was served.

At the bride's home, open doors were kept next day and in the front parlor a handsome array of presents were seen. Many valuable gifts in silver, linen and china, will prove their beauty and usefulness in the new home that is soon to be established. But these were not all the young bride and groom received, for the good wishes of our whole town go with them for their future success and happiness.

He leaves a widow, Mrs. Carrie Latham Hooker, and a daughter, Miss Maude Latham Hooker, besides four sisters—Miss Rosa Hooker, Mrs. Louise Forbes, Mrs. S. M. Abbott and Mrs. Mamie Cherry—and four brothers—Oscar Lawrence and Zeb B. Hooker, of this city; S. T. Hooker, of Greenville, N. C.

Mr. Hooker was forty years old, and came here from his native town Greenville, N. C., about four years ago. He had made his home since that time in Richmond and was actively engaged in business here up to last spring, when he was forced to retire on account of failing health.

Mr. Hooker's death will be mourned by a large number of friends not only in Richmond, but in many North Carolina cities. He was a member of Patrick Henry Lodge, Odd-Fellows No. 123, and took an active part in the work of the order before his health began to fail.—Richmond News Leader.

Let us know what you want in the way of machine composition and we can do the work for you. The home people need not be afraid of overcrowding us with orders for job printing, for we are prepared to do all kinds of work promptly.

Value of Good Literature.

To the man who has learned to read, who has developed a taste for good literature, who reads thoughtfully and carefully, for instruction and inspiration as well as for entertainment, all the thoughts and dreams and achievements of the wisest and best of all the ages are offered for enjoyment and for possession. He may make them his at his own will. The person who has not learned to read—and many who are far from being illiterate have never learned what to read or how to read—misses more than he can imagine, loses a wonderfully large part of the sweetness and beauty that should belong to life.—Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1910.

THE PAST—THE FUTURE.

We have come to the close of another year. The ending of one year and beginning of another is a most appropriate time for taking inventory of the past and planning for the future. This is not only a good thing to do in a business way, but also in every phase of life. Cast your thoughts backward over the old year to take stock of what you have accomplished, then with your acquisitions and experiences as an asset, turn to the new year with a determination of making it count for more than its predecessor. Even should the summing up bring a feeling of gratification at what has been done, let not this satisfy your ambition, but may your resolve be that the future shall bring higher and better attainments. The satisfied life means to stop and rest where you are, while the ambitious life means to go onward and upward to better things. To go onward and upward to better things.

The year 1910 has in most respects been not unlike other years. It had its quota of joys and sorrows. It distributed its successes and failures. It brought its victories and defeats. There were days of sunshine and days of clouds. Hope sometimes perched on the highest pinnacle of the delectable mountains and again it groveled in the slough of despond. Life was ever so, and will be to the end of time. It takes the sorrows to make us more appreciative of the joys. It takes the failures and the defeats to nerve us for the successes, and the victories. It takes the clouds now and then to make us love the sunshine better. If there were only joy and success and victory, and sunshine, we might become so self-satisfied and unappreciative as to forget God, forget that He rules and that His hand guides our destinies.

Whatever the old year has been, it was better to most of us than we deserved. Have we done our best? Have we done all the good we could? Have we been as mindful of others as we might have been? Have we thanked God for the many blessings He has bestowed? A bit of self-examination here will disclose many short comings. Then let us endeavor to improve these. And let us begin the new year with good hope, with faith in God to take care of us and give us strength to perform our duties faithfully. Unless we make the new year better than the old one, we fail to do our best.

In closing the old year The Reflector wants to express a word of appreciation to its patrons. It has been a good year for the paper, and

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY
Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

It made more improvements than during any previous year in its history. This is due to the confidence the people have in the paper and the liberal patronage they have given it. While we have done our best to give full value for every dollar that has come our way, and believe that this has been done, yet we are none the less appreciative to every one for his patronage. You are helping us make The Reflector what it is, and we want to serve you faithfully. We believe all will be interested in knowing that the volume of business the past year was large, and that we come to the new year with many more subscribers than ever before. We wish you each and every one a prosperous and happy new year.

An advance fashion note says stripes will be worn much the coming spring. They have already been long the fashion, among criminals. Yet some who ought to wear them do not.

The suggestion that Congressman Morehead would resign the Republican State chairmanship was in advance of the game. He held on to the job.

Let one of your new year resolutions be to do no kicking, but push for your town.

The recent oyster convention in Elizabeth City was open-mouthed.

Farewell to 1910.

Begin the new year right.

"How About the Weather?"

The Norfolk Southern Railroad has issued and is sending broadcast through the north and west a little circular entitled, "How about the Weather?" It ought to prove a telling argument to those people who are now snow and ice-bound. It shows them plainly that all the world is not that way and that they don't have to freeze for half the year if they don't want to. They can come to Eastern North Carolina, where the weather never runs to extremes, where it is never very cold or very hot, and where soil joins climate in being everything that could be desired and where markets are plentiful and remunerative. The Norfolk Southern is doing good work in trying to interest the people of other sections in the eastern part of this State and results are sure to come.—Raleigh Times.

The Greenville Reflector celebrated its sixteenth birthday Saturday of last week. During this time it has been a recognized power for good in its community and has at all times kept in touch with up-to-date matters. Bro. Whichard is to be congratulated and we wish him continued success and prosperity.—Lynchburg Times.

AWFUL PAINS FULLY DESCRIBED

A Lady of Pizarro Tells Story of Awful Suffering That Cardui Finally Relieved.

Pizarro, Va.—"I suffered for several years," writes Mrs. Dorna A. Smith, "with that awful backache and the bearing down sensations, so fully described in your book.

"I tried doctors and other medicines and found little relief, until I was induced to try Wine of Cardui, when I found instant relief and today I can heartily recommend Cardui to all suffering women and think there is no other as good."

In some instances, Cardui gives instant relief; in others, it may take a little time. But in all cases of female trouble Cardui can be depended on to be of benefit, as it is a specific remedy for women and acts in a curative way on the womanly organs.

As a general tonic for women, to build up your strength, improve your appetite, bring back rosy cheeks and make you look and feel young and happy, nothing you can find will do so much for you as Cardui.

Your druggist has it.

To Our Customers and Friends

We want to thank you for your kind patronage during the old year of 1910 and wish you a happy and prosperous new year.

Some men, perhaps the majority, deem it proper to get drunk Christmas if they never touch it at any other time. On the contrary there are men who drink too much at other times, but make it a point never to touch liquor during the holidays. One old fellow used to give, as his reason, that he did not want to be drunk when everybody else was drunk, as there was liable to be trouble, with not enough sober men around to look after him. The habit of the late Peter Adams was the right one—he said he never drank before or after meals.—Greensboro Record.

The Torrens System.
Quite a number of the more progressive states some time ago adopted the Torrens system of registering land titles and everywhere it has been tried the system has proven entirely satisfactory. The sooner North Carolina adopts this splendid system the better, for we have too long held on to our present old, antiquated and wasteful system which, as Editor Poe of the Progressive Farmer, recently remarked, "is an enormous loss and handicap in American real estate deals, preventing the farmer from realizing on and using his capital and holding back progress." This subject should be given special and careful consideration by our forthcoming general assembly.—Mt. Olive Tribune.

Who Was There That You Knew?

IN the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.

3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War

THEY were taken by the greatest photographer in the United States of that day; they were bought by the United States Government for $30,000; they were buried in the War Department for 50 years—they are buried there still. But a duplicate set was kept by the photographer—who died poor and broken down; the duplicate set was knocked from pillar to post for nearly 50 years, until it was discovered by a New England collector. J. Pierpont Morgan (tried to secure the collection—Ex-President Garfield and General Benjamin F. Butler said it was worth $150,000—yet with the help of the Review or Reviews, the entire collection has been gathered into 10 great volumes and is placed within your reach at less than the value of one of the photographs. It is the one accurate, impartial history of the Civil War—for the camera cannot lie. It tells the story of the War you never heard before. Taken under protection of the Secret Service, these photographs bring to light thousands of little-known phases of the war; they penetrate to strange places and record strange things.

When the Negro Was Created.
The Mexican Indians, as well as those of most of the Central American republics, have a superstition to the effect that the negro was made before either the white man or the Indian or even before the sun was created. They account for his color by declaring that he was made and dried in the dark. Their own race, they say, was made in the morning of the first day between daylight and sunup. On this account they delight in a term which they apply to each other and which signifies "dawn people." The white man, "who fears darkness and cannot stand heat," was made, according to their belief, at noon on the first day of creation.—Exchange.

The Tired and Tiresome.

Tord Byron once wrote:
"Society is now one polished horde,
Formal of two mighty tribes, the bores and bored."

That tells it all. No matter how optimistic a view one might take of the world and its people it is true that one vast portion of us constitutes the tribe of the bored, while the rest of humanity amuses itself by worrying, or boring those of us who have neither the time nor the patience to hear their tale. It is most gratifying however, to note that tiresome people are not in the majority.

Among those who make us restless may be listed the man who is never in too big a hurry to stop and talk on the streets; the man to whom the time to go and leave you alone never occurs. Then there is the man who prefers to name the subject of conversation and lead it regardless of whether such a subject interests you. Some think that the average book agent is hard to beat as a bore, while the candidate whose feelings you respect too much to tell them how you expect to vote, is no slouch as a tiresome company.

The drunken man is never welcome while the young man thinks a clock that strikes twelve at night ought to be smashed with a hatchet. There is little room for the bore, but he remains with us just the same.—Montgomery Advertiser.
