TRAINED GANDER

Mr. Johnston Quite a Trainer
of Pets

Mr. J. Milton Johnston, of The Reflector force, who sometime ago developed a talent for training animals, has enlarged his field to the feathered tribe. He first begun with a dog, and was not long in making him do many marvelous things, even to climbing ladders and diving off into a net. There is not a better trained dog in all this region than "Turk."

Now Mr. Johnston has a trained gander also. He commenced teaching the bird about two months ago and has in this time learned "Charlie" to see-saw, jump through a hoop and to follow him around.

PRESIDENT REFUSES PARDON

Harlan Must Serve His Sentence
for Peonage.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Jan. 6.—President Taft today refused to pardon W. S. Harlan, manager of the great lumber and turpentine business in Florida and Alabama, who was convicted of peonage. Harlan was sentenced to eighteen months in jail and to pay a fine of $5,000. Harlan's company held in peonage 180 laborers from New York city, mostly foreigners, many of whom are said to have been flogged when they attempted to escape.

INCREASE IN CONGRESSMEN

The Next House Will Have 435
Members.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Jan. 6.—The apportionment muddle was clarified today by the introduction of a new bill by Representative Crumpacker, providing for a house membership of 435, a gain of 44 over the present congress. The measure is satisfactory to the Democrats on the census committee and will probably be unanimously reported to the house next week. It compromises claims of various factions and will probably be enacted into law at an early date.

DOUBLE SUICIDE PROBABLE

New Evidence in Twigg-Elleson Case.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Cumberland, Md. Dec. 6.—Discovery of a new clew in the anti-nuptial tragedy which cost the lives of Grace Elleson and her fiance, Chas. Edward Twigg, today led to postponement of the inquest until this afternoon. It was reported that the authorities have secured enough evidence to establish the theory that Twigg carried poison into the Elleson home. All members of the Elleson family and a number of others have been subpoenaed for the inquest. The belief prevails that a verdict of double suicide will be returned.

Fatal Wreck.

Paris, Jan. 6.—A passenger train was wrecked near this city today and the shattered cars were consumed by fire. The loss of life was heavy, as it is believed 25 are dead and many injured.

Send The Child to School.

If you have a neighbor who does not read, urge him to keep his children in school every day he possibly can. Of course, men and women who can read and take newspapers are too much alive to the needs of their children to keep them out of school for even a day—short as our public school term is—if they can possibly have them in school. But here and there is a man who has not education himself, who can hardly read, who says that his children do not need more schooling than he got. Do your best for such a neighbor for his children's sake. Until the law gets in behind such a man and makes him send the children to school as it will do before a great many more years come and go—use your best efforts at persuading him to send his children to school at least four months during the year.—Monroe Journal.

A laborer in Vermont had to take a poor farm in payment for work, and latter it developed into a rich marble quarry. Another case of hard luck.

NORTH CAROLINA ITEMS.

Of News Happenings Far and Near
Within Its Borders.

A most pitiful scene was presented in Clerk of the Court Collin's office yesterday, when a young white woman, Maggie Dail, with two small children, one of them but 15 months of age, applied to the county for relief.

The woman was of weak mind, and, in fact, bordering on insanity. She was in destitute circumstances and the clerk, upon investigation, found that her home is in Pitt county, and with the chairman of the board of commissioners of this county, the clerk drew up a notice to the board of commissioners of Pitt relative to the woman's condition. Pending a hearing from the officials of Pitt county, she is being cared for.

The Legislature.

We cannot foretell what sort of law makers we have elected, but on the list of members there are many honorable names. We would judge that the average age of the members of both branches is slightly above that of recent sessions, and this is not a bad omen of careful as well as economical legislation. The tendency for the past two or three sessions has been somewhat in the direction of lavish expenditure. There are so many pressing calls from worthy objects that a member, especially if he be young and inexperienced, is liable to be swept off his feet. Mr. Lacy, our excellent treasurer, has been in deep water trying to make brick without straw. It is not at all probable that there will be a bond issue for our State schools, but some enlargement of the appropriation for the equipment of the University, if the revenue can possibly be provided, ought to be made. Our greatest institution of learning, the largest enrollment, is the most inadequately equipped of either of the three State colleges. The Stonewall Jackson Training School needs and should have a decent appropriation. It has accomplished wonderful things with its present meagre support, and the legislature ought to deal very liberally towards this fine institution. Of course, the public school fund ought to be enlarged. It is a shame to us that less than $5.00 for each child is given for primary education. We hereby tender to our lawmakers our sincere sympathy. They have a thankless job, and they will be roundly abused whatever they do; so our advice is to go ahead and do the best that can be done with the available funds, and let the kickers prance.—Charity and Children.

Lawlessness the National Vice

Century Magazine.
These are days of rude awakening for those Americans who have been reared on the old Fourth-of-July theory that "freedom" and "education" keep a people in the way of moral, social, and political advancement—in other words, that an enlightened and vigorous people, with free play given to its better instincts, is sure to develop a society that steadily intrenches itself in law and order.

A nation which has reached the ninety-million mark in population without a uniform standard of public sentiment in regard to the enforcement of law is surely at the mercy of its selfish passions, rather than under the control of its reason and as statutory wisdom. In the last twelve months every variety of lawlessness known to man—private and official, labor and corporate, family and social—has been on view, in a degree of extreme development. And although these many crying instances were not evenly distributed over the country, similar events, differently placed in other years, remind us that no particular region has a monopoly of lawlessness, or is wholly immune. Even when it is startled into an expression of abhorrence, the public is seldom aroused to united and persistent action; yet everybody realizes that all these various floutings of the law are not merely special outbreaks; they are also symptoms of national influences which impel hundreds of men of intelligence and force, as well as thousands less favored by endowment and circumstances, to use lawless means for the attainment of selfish ends.

While the other fellow is talking about it you can beat him to it by acting.

Occasionally political reformer is merely envious of a political grafter.

DR. J. E. NOBLES ELECTED FOR THE FIRST WARD

TO SUCCEED ALDERMAN SMITH

General Business Transacted by the Board Aldermen Committee to Meet With Committee of Graded School Teachers and Arrange for Deficit in the School Fund.

The board of aldermen met irregular monthly session Thursday night with the mayor and six members present.

It was recommended that the portion of the cemetery known as the Methodist grave yard be cleaned out. The mayor and chief of fire department were instructed to purchase sufficient couplings for the fire hose. W. S. Moye was elected assistant chief of fire department.

Dr. Schaffer was granted license to run a moving picture show the remainder of the fiscal year upon payment of tax of $10.

To Teach Farming by Mail.

Perusal of advertisements has long made the reading public familiar with the possibilities of correspondence schools. A modification of the idea has been adopted by Clemson College, which announces that hence forward it will teach farming by mail. Text-books have been selected covering such subjects as soil, tillage, fertilizers, domestic animals, etc. Upon the enrolment of a student in this course and his purchase of the required text-books a lesson will be assigned. When he notifies the college authorities that the lesson is prepared, a set of examination papers will be sent him together with the assignment of the next lesson. His replies will be carefully corrected at the college and returned to him, and if necessary a second correction will be prepared if he does not appear to have grasped the meaning of the first.

Such a course has great possibilities. Purely theoretical, it is intended for pupils of all ages who will receive plenty of practical experience in the earning of their daily bread, and to such it should prove of distinct benefit. The agricultural population is each year becoming more fully alive to the advantages of a modicum of book-learning even in the conduct of a farm, and we anticipate a large enrolment for Clemson's new department.—Charlotte Observer.

If walking were as popular as talking, a lot of people would be both healthier and wiser.

Interesting Health Lesson.

The following articles written by Dr. George W. Lay, rector of St. Mary's and chairman of the executive committee of the Raleigh Health League, puts the health matter so plain that any man, though a wayfarer, may see it:

It is related that in a composition on pins a little boy wrote "Pins have saved the lives of thousands of people." Some one asked how this was. The little boy replied "By not swallowing them."

Foolish as this may seem, on consideration there will be found a deep philosophic foundation in the wisdom of this little boy's remark. We ought to feel, gartful for things that do not happen; but we seldom do feel grateful in such cases. When in health we do not feel grateful for that greatest of all blessings, since we do not think about it at all. It is only when sickness comes that we realize from the misery of our condition at that time, how very happy we were indeed before, and how grateful we ought to have been that we simply had not fallen sick.

Suppose that a thousand people had to come up at a certain time and draw little slips of paper, and that on some of these slips it said "You have to die of tuberculosis," on others "You will have to have typhoid fever and be sick a long time and be very miserable, and cause your friends a great deal of trouble and expense," while some said "You have to die of typhoid fever," Suppose others said "You will have to lead a comparatively useless life from the attacks of malaria, or other diseases." If every one had to come up and draw one of these slips there would be great excitement previous to the drawing, and when anybody drew a blank slip, showing that he was to be blessed with perfect health, he would feel exceedingly happy and exceedingly grateful. We are drawing these slips all the time without knowing it, and it is only when we draw a slip that puts us into our beds and inflicts upon us a great pain and suffering that we realize that we have drawn any slip at all. This is why people are so careless about matters of health.

Nobody ever thinks that he is going to be the one to draw the fatal slip. "In time of peace prepare for war." Just because we are in excellent health we should feel most grateful for it, and should show our gratitude by working to keep ourselves and others in health.

Let us imagine that in the above supposed case it was possible for people by banding together and helping each other to take out a certain number of the fatal slips that had tuberculosis, typhoid, etc., on them and substitute for them blank slips which would show that those particular people would enjoy perfect health. Would we not use every effort in the world to take out as many of the fatal slips as possible, and substitute for them the white slips that would give the blessings of health? This power is actually in our hands, and we do not realize it, or use it as we should, because we do not see the slips with our eyes.

If we should all join together many diseases can be practically prevented, and the blessing of health and of life given to many who otherwise are condemned to illness with its attendant pain, discomfort and expense, or even to death itself. Let us be thankful for the blessings given us by means of the pins we do not swallow.—Raleigh Times.

Why Not Turn This Tide.

During the year just ended one hundred and fifty thousand people of the United States, many of whom are farmers and nearly all of whom come from hardy Teutonic stock, moved across the northwestern border and settled in Canada. They will become citizens of that country, developing its wilderness, enriching its agriculture and adding to its national strength.

One hundred and fifty thousand producers of wealth have left us within a single twelve months. The number is considerably greater than it was in 1909 and, according to the forecast of the Canadian immigration department, it will be greater still at the end of 1911.

Such a record is of vital concern to every quarter of the Union and particularly so to the South. For it is in this section that these thousands of land seekers should logically settle. It would be a conservative estimate to say that the emigration to Canada last year meant a loss of one hundred million dollars to our own country. A nation has no asset more valuable than the man who works. Labor is of itself a source of community wealth and social welfare. Every farmer that moves from a country, not overcrowded, is a loss to that country.

And he is likewise a gain to land whither he goes. Had the tide of emigration from the northwest been southward instead of toward Canada our whole union would be richer today and our own section would be incalculably so.

The South neither desires nor needs that sort of immigration which flows in from the muck piles of the Old World, but she should welcome the men whose veins hold the blood of her own forbears and whose honest industry would add to the wealth of her harvests.

The immigration department of Canada is carrying on a vigorous systematic campaign to secure settlers from our northwestern states. Herein lies a truly golden suggestion for the South.—Atlanta Journal.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1911.

Wilmington is coming up to the scratch.

The bath tub trust says it is not guilty. Most criminals make a similar plea when they are called to trial.

The government postal banks have opened, but there is no report that depositors are tumbling over each other to get on the ledger.

The number of train robberies occurring in the West look like that section has dropped back to pioneer days.

The towns under 5000 will get their census figures next. Greenville expected to come in that class, therefore is not impatient.

Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, died Wednesday night in Washington City. The nation loses a prominent man in his passing, one who has been many years a political leader.

To be a winner and get things necessitates being in the hustle class. One thing especially that Greenville ought to do, is get busy and hustle to secure some manufacturing enterprises.

Governor Dix, of New York, proposes to enact economic measures in the administration of affairs, that he calculates will save his state $1,000,000 a year. If he succeeds we hope he will show other states how it is done.

Mecklenburg should now take top position in the satisfied class. It is the most populous county in the State, possesses the largest city in the State, and two of her citizens sit at the head of the two branches of the general assembly. No more room for complaint up that way.

Whichard, of The Greenville Reflector, notes that "The Girls From Reflector's" has "come back." He just can't get away from the petticoats, even though he has just had a chance of making a resolution.—Wilmington Dispatch.

And that resolution was to stick closer to 'em.

Governor Kitchin's message to the legislature takes rank as an able document. His recommendations are timely, and the legislature can well afford to enact laws along the lines he suggested. On the questions of prohibition and education his message was especially strong.

Mr. Ivy Smith, a good farmer of Beaver Dam, dropped in Thursday, to say that he was glad to see The Reflector talking against dogs, and hoped it will keep going. He said the best step would be to exterminate the dogs but if this cannot be done he would like to see a tax of $1.00 each levied on them, the money thus raised to go either to the road or school fund. Dogs are the greatest hindrance the state has to sheep raising. A few dogs on a plantation will keep it practically clear of game, as they roam about and destroy partridge nests and kill every young rabbit they can catch. The present legislature ought to do something with dogs.

College Girls as Wives.

Some foolish man, hunting publicity, recently declared that the college-bred girl fails to make a good wife. Hundreds of letters to protest have followed into the newspapers, declaring that the college girl does make good as a wife.

Miss Katherine Parsons, voicing the sentiment of dear old Wellesley, declares that the popular impression is that the college girl is destined to become an old maid. That is not the case, she points out, for seventy-eightths of all college girls marry. "The assertion that the college girl also makes a poor wife is likewise untrue. At Wellesley the majority of the girls can cook, sew darn stockings and perform all the little domestic services which mean so much to happiness. They are makers of pie as well as fishers of men.

Miss Parsons says finally: "There is no reason why the college girl should not make an excellent wife, providing she mates with an intellectual equal and marries a man who desires a mental companion as well as a housekeeper and a mother for his children." College life, college training, college thought have a tendency to make a girl well-balanced, tactful and self-reliant. In the really efficient colleges for women there is a wholesome and true spirit of democracy which batters down social and artificial barriers and teaches the girls that fine clothes are not the best things in life nor the best assets for the girl out in the world. Her college training teaches the girl to "do her work with greater skill and in less time than the typical stay-at-home for she has learned the value of system and exact methods."

While all these things are true, it must be said that modern society has not yet realized the real value of an educated woman. A genuinely educated girl is still the exception however great the proportion of those who have attended preparatory and finishing schools. Too prevalent is the idea that an educated girl will not be popular socially, and therefore should not be highly educated. Yet a college education enhances the charm of a girl already charming, and induces those not naturally so with a grace and attractiveness that a smattering of nonessentials cannot give. College women are the most tactful class of women in the world; they are versatile to a remarkable degree. They make good wives too.—Times Dispatch

BURNT CORK.

The Paste Used by Minstrel Performers When "Blackening Up."

The popular impression as to the application of burnt cork by minstrel performers and actors in general is that it is rubbed on the face and hands of the player from a cork whose end is charred in a convenient gas jet. This impression is, however, incorrect. The burnt cork used by minstrels and others is the product of the theatrical "paint factories," just as is any other cosmetic or pigment employed by the profession.

One house makes it in the following manner: The corks are placed in three tin vessels, resembling wash boilers, with holes punched in their sides and bottom. Alcohol is sprinkled over the corks, and they are "fired." When the corks have been properly charred they are placed in muslin sacks, which are kneaded in barrels of water. This operation forces the powdered charcoal through the sacks into the water.

When all the charred corks have been worked through the sacks into the water in this way the water is drained through a close canvas sack, and what remains in that sack is ready for the performers. The stuff is put up in cans, from which, when the minstrel is ready to "black up," he takes a little of the black paste in his hands and applies it to his face, neck and sometimes his hands.—New York Herald.

SAVED BY QUICK WIT.

Clever Ruse of a French Peasant Called For Conscription.

Two young men of a certain French village were called on to draw for a conscription. One only was wanted to complete the number, and of the two who were to draw one was the son of a rich farmer and the other the only child of a poor widow.

The farmer made friends with the official in charge of the ballot and promised him a handsome present if he would only prevent his son from going into the army. In order to do this the official put into the urn two black balls instead of one black and one white. When the young men came "There are two balls, one black and one white, in the urn. He who draws the black one must serve. Your turn is first," pointing to the widow's son.

The latter, suspecting that all was not fair, drew one of the balls from the urn and immediately swallowed it without even looking at it.

"Why have you done that?" asked the official. "How are we to know whether you have drawn a black or white ball?"

"Oh, that's very simple," was the reply. "Let the other man now draw. If I have the black he must necessarily draw the white one."

There was no help for it, and the farmer's son, putting his hand into the urn, drew the remaining ball, which, to the satisfaction of the spectators, was a black one.

MUZZLING THE PRESS.

A Much Favored Official Duty at One Time in England.

There was a time in England when government officials viewed the press as a hostile power, to be destroyed if possible—to be curbed at any cost. In 1633 Roger L'Estrange, "overseer of the press," brought out his "Considerations and Proposals In Order to the Regulation of the Press." He advocated the severest restrictions for authors and printers, as well as for "the letter founders and the smiths and joiners that work upon the premises" and "the stitchers, binders, stationers, hawkers, mercury women, peddlers, ballad singers, posts, carriers, hackney coachmen, boatmen and mariners."

A proposal of L'Estrange was that culprits convicted of having broken the law should be condemned "to wear some visible badge or mark of ignominy, as a halter instead of a hat-band, one stocking blue and another red, a blue bonnet with a red letter T or S upon it." A few years later L'Estrange went one better by declaring that newspapers ought not be allowed at all.

He said that the reading of them "makes the multitude too familiar with the actions and councils of their superiors, too pragmatical and censorious, and gives them not only an itch but a kind of colorable right and license to be meddling with the government." In 1685 L'Estrange was knighted.—Chicago News.

A FEW EXCEPTIONS.

There was no love lost between Rufus and his teacher. Rufus thought the teacher was a severe and occasionally unjust person who had never known what it was to be young and full of fun, while the teacher considered the little dandy both stupid and mischievous.

"You are not attending to what I say, Rufus," said the teacher one day in the midst of an address to her class.

"Yes, teacher, truly I is," said Rufus, with the reversion to the speech he had learned at home which often accompanied great earnestness.

"You should never say 'I is'!" commanded the teacher. "I have told you that a hundred times. You know the correct form. There are no exceptions to its use. Give me two examples at once."

"Yas'm," said Rufus meekly. "I am one of de letters of de alphabet. I am a pronoun."—Youth's Companion.

ROSSINI'S JEALOUSY.

Rossini was intolerably jealous of all his musical contemporaries, and particularly of Meyerbeer. In 1836 he heard "The Huguenots," and on listening to the performance from the beginning to the end he made up his mind that Meyerbeer had excelled him and determined to write no more operatic music. He lived until 1868, but produced nothing for the lyric stage. His thirty-two years of retirement were spent in the pleasures of a voluptuary. He was particularly fond of good eating and drinking and assembled about him the youngest and gayest society he could attract to his house.

His Way of Showing His Love.

"You wrong him, papa. He does not love me for my money. He scoffs at the world's sordid eagerness for wealth."

"What proof have you, child?"

"Why, only last night he told me he didn't care if he never was able to make a penny in his life if he only had me!"

GETTING TO IT.

Anxious Mother—Has Mr. Bashful proposed yet? Daughter—Not exactly, but last evening when I was holding little Dick in my lap Mr. Bashful went to the piano and sang, "Would I Were a Boy Again."

Took His Advice.

"He told his wife she ought to take cooking lessons."

"Did she?"

"Well, yes. She sent for her mother to come and give her a three months' course."

REPUBLICS IN GERMANY.

Three City States Whose Constitutions the Empire Respects.

Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck are theoretically three republics which have for the mutual convenience of themselves and the empire come under the rule of the kaiser in all but purely local affairs. As they had joined the north German confederation, which was formed after Prussia's victory in 1866, there was nothing left for them to do but to give their allegiance to its successor, the empire.

Each is represented in the bundesrath, or federal council, as well as in the reichstag, and each retains the republican principle in its local legislation. The Hamburg senate may have fallen from its highest estate, but it still lives and legislates concurrently with the house of burgesses. The burgomaster of Hamburg remains the great man in the estimate of the Hamburg people the inheritor of the great traditions of the Hansa. Bremen and Lubeck have constitutions in cousinship with Hamburg.

A wise empire respects the constitutions of these city states and refrains from any action hinting of the application of the steam roller in pursuit of harmony. The survivors of the Hansa have been more fortunate than some other republics of continental Europe. They have outlived several that had hopes of being left ignored in their republicanism.

Cracow was once a republic, but being surrounded by Austrian possessions, was finally swallowed up in 1846. Since that time it has been a city of Austrian Poland.—Boston Transcript.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

Racing For the Honest Lawyer in a Town in Denmark.

In telling of his boyhood home in Denmark, "The Old Town," Jacob A. Riis says that he does not remember that there were at any time more than two lawyers in the place. One was good, the other bad—not a bad lawyer perhaps, but reputed to be tricky, whereas the other was known to be honest itself.

It is therefore perhaps the best character I can give my people when I record the fact, writes Mr. Riis, that when two farmers quarreled, each sure that he was right, they made haste to hitch up to get first to the honest lawyer, and usually that was the end of the quarrel, for the last in the race was willing to make peace.

They used to tell of two well to do neighbors who had fallen out over a line fence and started simultaneously for town. Both had good teams, and they were well matched in the race.

For half an hour they drove silently alongside, each on his own side of the road, grimly urging on their horses, but neither gaining a length. At last as the lights of the town came into sight, for it was evening, a trace broke on one of the rigs, and the horses stopped. The other team whirled away in a cloud of dust.

"Hans," the beaten one called after him, and he halted and looked back, "are you going after Lawyer —?" naming the square one.

"I am that!" came back.

"Then let's go back. I'm beat." And back home they went and made it up.

A HURRY CALL.

The political boss of a small city grove his buckboard at top speed down the main street on the morning of an election.

"Hey, Johnnie," he yelled to his son, "git down in the Fourth ward quick! There's people down there votin' as they blame please!"—Success Maga-

GERMS IN HER SYSTEM.

Every Woman Should Read This Advice and the Generous Offer That Goes With It.

The number of diseases peculiar to women is such that we believe this space would hardly contain a mere mention of their names, and it is a fact that most of these diseases are of a catarrhal nature. A woman cannot be well if there is a trace of catarrh
in her system.

Some women think there is no help for them. We positively declare this to be a mistaken idea. We are so sure of this that we offer to supply medicine absolutely free of all cost in every instance where it fails to give satisfaction, or does not substantiate
our claims. With this understanding, no woman should hesitate to believe our honesty of purpose, or hesitate to put our claims to a test.

There is only one way to overcome catarrh. That way is through the blood. You may use all the snuffs, douches or like remedies for years without getting more than temporary relief at best. Catarrh in general is a diseased condition of the system that shows locally most frequently in discharges from mucous membranes. Local treatment should be assisted by internal treatment for the general diseased condition if a complete cure is to be reached. That internal treatment should be scientifically devised and faithfully administered.

Rexall Mucu-Tone is scientifically prepared from the prescription of an eminent physician who for thirty years made catarrh his specialty. This remedy is admirably adapted to the treatment of the catarrhal ailments of women. It purifies and enriches the blood, tends to stop mucous discharges, aids in removing impurities from the system, soothes, heals and strengthens the mucous tissues, and brings about a feeling of health and strength.

We want you to try Rexall Mucu-Tone on our guarantee. If you are not benefited, or for any reason not satis-

Spite Suit Falls Down.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt while president of the United States, was not averse to using his high and mighty position to crush his personal enemies. The robes of exalted position were not sufficient sanctity to cause him to forget enemies. He stood ever ready to step down and denounce as malicious liars, falsifiers, or unscrupulous prevaricators those hapless beings who chanced to incur his displeasure. Time after time the nation was regaled by the spectacle of a president of the United States endeavoring to annihilate with the presidential bludgeon some honest individual who had dared to oppose
"my wish" or frustrate the consummation of my policies.

So it came to pass that the anger of the Little Father fell upon the head of the New York World, because forsooth, that paper published certain rumors, and asked that they be investigated. It had been reported that there was a giant corporation formed, with several of Mr.
Roosevelt's closest friends as leading spirits, to take over the Panama canal property. It was said that the deal was made with the old French company and the property sold to the United States, with several millions of profit for the members of the mysterious syndicate, which dissolved thereafter. The matter was chiefly rumor, but it was one which should of have been probed to the bottom, if for no other reason than that men prominent in the administration were implicated. If innocent they should have been cleared of all connection with the report, and The World dared to ask that the matter
be thoroughly investigated.

Immediately Mr. Roosevelt is said to have caused a suit to be brought against The World. The suit has become famous as the Roosevelt spite suit. The lower court held that the editors of the New York World could not be hauled to the District of Columbia to answer to an alleged offense committed in the State of New York. And now the highest court in the land upholds this decision, and the Roosevelt spite suit falls flat.—Charlotte News.

Accidents and Disasters.

Deaths due to violence and property losses from disasters for the past year are as follows:

The suicide record shows 12,608
victims. Loss of life was general.
The disasters given follow: Drowned
5,112; fire, 362; mines, 1,004; storms, 365; explosions, 951; electrical, 189;
lightning, 199; asphyxiation, 239; elevators, 112; automobiles, 920. Losses by fire—approximately—$222,000,000;
railroad fatalities, 3,520; killed 21-
856; making a total of about $25-000,000.

An effort is being made to devise means for cutting down the heavy death toll in mines. Ways and means for preventing fires are also being studied. The death and property loss recorded above is enough to make wise men give much time to remedying the conditions which sometimes are responsible for ruinous disasters.

DO YOU KEEP A BANK ACCOUNT?

You Should For the Reasons:

MONEY in Bank is safe from fire and burglars; in your home it is not.
MONEY in Bank is safe from careless handling; in your pocket it is not.
MONEY paid by check guarantees to you a permanent receipt; cash handed out does not.
MONEY in Bank is a starter towards economy, always ready for use,

A Tit For Tat Game.

The beauties of female suffrage is now being demonstrated in Colorado in a kind of tit for tat way. What applies to men also applies to women, in a suffragette state.

The Colorado Mrs. Voter is carefully laying plans to "get back" at Mr. Voter, out there this winter if he dares attempt to take the ballot
from the charming and beautiful Mesdames and Misses who are filled with zeal to vote early and often. If the men introduce a bill in the coming legislature providing a constitutional amendment which shall deprive women of the right to vote,
as has been threatened, the women legislators will introduce a bill a moment later proposing a similar amendment to deprive the men of the right to vote.

The women are already drawing up such a bill in full legal form to be ready for emergencies. They suppose the men who are quietly espousing the cause of disfranchisement of women will plead that women have not done with the ballot what they set out to do. The women retort with the assertion that man, in a much longer period and with much greater experience has also been a failure.

So there you are, Mr. Colorado
Man. This looks like "Greek meeting Greek," as the saying goes, and there are coming evidences of a "tug of war."—Durham Sun.

A New Mars Theory.

In a novel theory of Mars, Prof.
Svante Arrhenius rejects Prof. Lowell's view that the changing dark spots and bands are due to vegetation, and accepts the old suggestion that the so-called canals are long, deep fissures. Similar formations exist on the earth, one extending a distance of 2,200 miles along the coasts of Peru and Chile. Water is supposed to collect in the fissures or canals, and to accumulate at the points where several meet, these "lakes" of Schiaparelli or "vases" of Lowell being explained as places
where the planet's crust has sunk.
Though very salty, the water is frozen by the intense cold. The ice evaporates in the dry air the vapor
collects as snow at the winter pole,
and the canals become dry beds of salts, until, with the melting of the snow in spring and summer, the air ceases to be dry, and the salts again attract moisture, turning to a darker hue.

Among objections offered to the new theory is that it does not satisfactorily account for the complete winter disappearance of the canals,
which, if really fissures, should remain visible throughout the year.—

IF WOMEN ONLY KNEW.

What a Heap of Happiness it Would Bring to Greenville Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.
Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—
that,
Backache pains come from sick
kidneys.

'Twould save much needless woe.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Many residents of this vicinity endorse them.
Mrs. L. Camerson, 117 Payton Ave., Kinston, N. C., says:

"The great benefit I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills justifies me in recommending them. A dull, nagging backache, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins, bothered me for a long time. I had but little energy or ambition and was caused additional annoyance by weakness.
Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me, I procured a box and the difficulty with the kidney sections had been corrected.

Atlantic Coast Line Hotel Closed
Saturday night Dec. 31, 1910, the Atlantic Coast Line hotel closed its doors for all time to come as a house of entertainment and at an early date
it will be torn down.

It has been famous in one way or another for generations and is one of the largest frame hotel buildings in the State. The erection of this building was first started by President
Byrd, of the Petersburg and Weldon Railroad, and was completed later by Moody & Jarrett.

This is a building with a history
and it has had some notable proprietors during its existence. Among the well known men who have at various periods been in charge of this building, may be mentioned the late Dr.
G. W. Blackhall, who was for years proprietor of the Yarrowborough House in Raleigh. Later it was in charge of the Happers, Major T. L. Emory and others. In more recent years
it was known as the Davis House,
run by Colonel Davis up to the time of its sale to the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Company. The railroad people put Mr. Mann in charge and all trains stopped here for meals.
Mr. Mann was succeeded by Mr. Gaul, who was quite popular with the traveling public. Several years ago the Atlantic Coast Line leased the property to Gresham and others. Mr.
C. I. Gresham was succeeded by Mr.
L. T. Briawner, who remained in charge only a few months, and then, on account of rheumatism, he sold out to C. D. Cherry and others. Mr.
Cherry remained in charge up to the expiration of the lease, which expired Saturday night last, and then the building was closed for all time to come as a hotel.—Weldon News.

Notwithstanding the fact that it has been forty-five years since the civil war closed, the amount paid out for pensions to Federal soldiers, instead of diminishing should naturally be the case, is growing larger every year. A dozen years ago there were confident predictions of diminishing expenditures on pensions. The high-water mark, $158,000,000, had been reached in 1893. There was a decline to $139,000,000 and the probabilities were cited to show that it would continue. But there was a new high-water mark in 1900—$162,000-000. And now the House Committee on Pensions has agreed on a bill which it is estimated, would increase the expenditure to nearly $200,000,000 annually by increasing the service pension rate. This is one of the worst outrages ever perpetuated on the people, and the people of the South have to bear their part of the burdens
and get but little part of the benefits.
