PRAYER LEAGUE GOES FORWARD

CONTINUES TO INCREASE IN INTEREST AND ATTENDANCE

APPOINTS A CHARITY COMMITTEE

To Have Supervision of Charity Work in the Community—Cases of Need Can be Reported to Any Member of the Committee or Any of the Ministers.

The attendance upon the men's prayer league Sunday afternoon, in the Baptist church, was by far the largest of any meeting yet held, more than fifty being present. The subject was "What do the Boys Think of Us?" and the talks of Messrs. O. E. Warren, W. H. Ragsdale and T. J. Jarvis were excellent. Our example and influence upon others, with the attendant responsibility, was forcibly presented by these gentlemen.

The committee appointed the previous Sunday to suggest a plan of charity work for the league, made the following report which was unanimously adopted:

Your committee recommends that the league appoint what shall be designated a charity committee. The duty of this committee shall be to have general supervision of charity work in our community. Any member of the league, or any person in the community, hearing of a case of destitution or need, or a case of sickness that needs attention or visiting, can report this to the chairman or some member of the charity committee, and it will be the duty of this committee to take steps to render relief as promptly and to such extent as the case reported may require. And in the event of any solicitation for assistance by persons unknown, or whose appeals are questionable, it shall be the duty of the committee to investigate these and take such action as they may deem advisable.

The committee also recommends that no regular collections be taken in the league for raising a fund with which to do charity work, but that when a case of need is reported to the committee for which money is needed the committee ask contributions either outside or in the league, as it may deem best, to supply that need.

We recommend that the following be appointed to serve on this charity committee until the next regular election of officers of the league, when their successors may be elected by the league or appointed by the president as may be deemed best: G. E. Harris, chairman; D. J. Whichard, E. B. Ficklen, J. G. Latham and W. A. Bowen.

The ministers of the different churches are asked to serve as ex-officio members of the charity committee, giving the committee such assistance as they can in finding cases that need help and in relieving such need.

Every member of the league is also asked to give his hearty co-operation to this work, in helping the needy visiting the sick, or doing any act of kindness for humanity in Christ's name; and especially not to decline to do work in this line if requested by the committee to do so. In other words, we ask that every member of the league do all he can to relieve suffering or distress wherever found, and try to make mankind happier and better.

We also recommend that the charity committee, through its chairman or secretary, shall from time to time, or whenever advised, make a report of its work to the league.

The devotional committee reported as a subject for discussion next Sunday, "The Man of the Hour". Text, 1st Sam. 17:40-51. Leaders, Messrs. E. H. Thomas, W. E. Hooker and D. M. Clark. Meets in Methodist church at 3:30 p. m.

Boosting New Orleans.

Washington, Jan. 9.—One hundred and thirty-six "Boosters" of New Orleans for the Panama Canal exposition called today on the President, vice president and Speaker Cannon. They will be heard by the committee in charge Panama Canal bill tomorrow.

Week of Prayer.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church are observing this week as a week of prayer for missions.

WITH THE LAW MAKERS

Business Will Proceed in Earnest This Week.

Including Saturday the general assembly of North Carolina had been in session four days. While the senate committees were appointed in that time, the house being a larger body it was more difficult to make proper assignments and speaker Dowd reserved naming these until today.

Several bills have been introduced, but so far they have been mainly of a local nature. Some of the measures offered in the senate were:

Resolution Fisher: Requesting our Senators and Representatives in Congress to vote for the city of New Orleans as the proper site for holding the world's fair.

A bill by Graham: to regulate the practice of architecture and create a board of examination and registration for the regulation of same.

By McLaughlin, of Cumberland, establishing the county of Hoke out of portion of Cumberland and Robeson.

Bills of general interest in the house were:

Stubbs: To provide for a call of a constitutional convention of the people of North Carolina.

Carr, of Durham: To amend the laws of 1903, charter of Trinity College, by striking out the limitation of the amount of property the college shall hold.

Alfred: To amend the revision, relating to fees of jurors and witnesses.

Battle: To improve the administration of the criminal laws of the State.

Roberts: To amend the laws of 1909, establishing a police commission for Asheville.

Worked Old Racket.

A slick bunco game was worked successfully by an unknown negro man early last evening, whereby the firm of Conyers & Sykes, druggists, were separated from a dollar bottle of patent medicine and four dollars in cash.

A telephone message was received at the store asking that a bottle of Swamproot be sent to 443 East Washington street, together with four dollars to make change for a five dollar note. The instructions were carried out, but when the boy arrived at the number given, he was accosted by a negro man, who said the medicine was for him. He took the four dollars change and the bottle of medicine and gave the delivery boy a check for fifteen dollars, telling him that he owed the drug store ten dollars and that the check would settle the debt. The boy thinking that the transaction was all right, accepted the check and returned to the store.

Of course the check was a bogus one and the negro grafter has escaped with his loot leaving the drug store lighter as to pocket-book but considerably wiser. Some one doubtless the same party attempted to work the same game on the Farris-Klutz Drug Company yesterday afternoon, but it didn't go through.—Greensboro Record.

Banks Are Safe.

A Macon, Ga., press dispatch in describing a fire in that town this week, says: "It develops that the fire which destroyed the store and dwelling of J. D. Noble, and said to have been of incendiary origin, also burned $2,000 in paper money which was forgotten in the rush to escape. Mr. Noble was not at home at the time and the members of the family did not remember that the money had been left in the house until this morning." Probably ten to thirty times more money is destroyed by fire at home than is lost by failure of banks.—Charlotte Chronical.

Mrs. Martin Pleads Guilty.

New York, N. J.—Mrs. Caroline B. Martin today pleaded guilty before Judge Teneyck to the charge of manslaughter for killing her daughter, Okey W. M. Snead the East Orange "bath tub victim." Sentence was deferred.

Former Greenville Lady Dead.

Friends here have received information of the death of Mrs. Edward Purdee, which occurred Thursday at her home in Dunn. Mrs. Purdee was formerly Miss Olive Daniel of Greenville. She had many friends and relatives in this section.

A Distressing Tragedy in Raleigh Little Girl Terribly Mangled in Flour Mill Near Hickory—Suicide at Marietta—Minister Killed in Rail- road Shops at Spencer—Governor Appoints a Director for Insane Asy- lum.

Fayetteville, Jan. 7.—Three small children of Arabella Gilmore, colored were burned to death by fire in the home of their parents on Broad street, in this city last night. The house which is in that section of the town known as Campbellton, was found to be on fire about 11 o'clock and when the fireman entered the house, the bodies of the three children were found, charred with flames.

Goldsboro, Jan. 7.—At a meeting of the board of trustees of the city school this afternoon the board suspended school for ten days on account of an epidemic of measles, which is raging throughout the city, together with the whooping cough.

Governor Kitchen commissions Editor R. R. Clark, of The Statesville Landmark, a member of the board of directors of the Western State Hospital for the Insane at Morganton to succeed C. H. Armfield, deceased.

A distressing tragedy occurred in Raleigh Friday evening, when Mrs. H. O. Bannister, wife of the manager of the Western Union telegraph office in that city, and their little 17-months old son, were killed by asphyxiation. Mrs. Bannister had taken the child into the bath room and in attempting to light the instantaneous gas heater attached to the tub, when in some unaccountable way they were overcome by escaping gas. Both were dead when discovered.

Durham, Jan. 7.—Mr. M. C. Jones a prominent merchant living a few miles east of the city, is in Watts Hospital today as a result of a wound on his head made by a brick thrown by Pink Johnson, a tenant on the farm of the merchant. "Sheriff" Jones as he is called by many had some difficulty with the man, who entered his store yesterday and began to abuse him until Mr. Jones hurled a chair at Johnson. The tenant left the store and later returned with a brick which he hurled at the merchant. The aim was true and the merchant was rendered unconscious.

Spencer, Jan. 6.—Rev. R. P. Bryson of Spencer met instant death in the Southern Railway shops here this afternoon by being crushed under three pairs of engine truck wheels and axles, which were being lifted by a huge crane. Rev. Mr. Bryson, who has not been in the active ministerial work for the past year, was employed as a machinist in the shops and was attending to his usual duties when the tragic accident occurred. The crane bearing the ton or more of truck wheels suspended by a chain was passing over his head and the chain suddenly broke, precipitating the mass of iron down upon the head of Mr. Bryson who was caught at an unguarded moment, and he never knew what killed him.

ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY

Colored Woman's Claims to Have Lost Large Sum.

On Saturday afternoon Martha Lewis, a colored woman, swore out a warrant against John Mitchell and Pearl Price, also colored, charging that Mitchell had robbed her of $350, and that the Price woman was implicated in the theft. She claimed that she had the money in her house, and went out Saturday morning leaving the money and Mitchell in the house. When she returned the money and Mitchell were both gone. Sunday officers arrested both John Mitchell and Pearl Price and placed them in the guard house pending preliminary trial.

Henry Lewis, husband of Martha Lewis, was sent to the roads from the recent special term of court for selling whiskey. There was also an indictment against her, but it was not pressed.

BURNING QUALITY OF TOBACCO

Some Formula Suggestions for Fertilization.

The Tobacco Association of the United States, in carrying out a resolution passed at the instance of a number from the new belt tobacco territory, secured the services of a representative from the department of agriculture at Washington, Mr. E. H. Mathewson, who during the first week of December, visited several markets in Eastern North Carolina and South Carolina and made intelligent and valuable talks as to improvement of fertilizers for tobacco.

The object sought are a better burning or smoking quality so the tobacco of this section will compare favorably with that from the old belt, thus increasing its popularity and demand. Also to get better yields and improvement of character, which has been unsatisfactory, during the past year or so.

From actual experience it is shown that an increase of (sulphate) potash will not only help the smoking qualities, but it will increase the yield, and the extra expense is very small compared with results. The formulas suggested and advised are based on the amount used per acre.

1st.—To the 3.3.3. goods so much used, add 100 lbs. sulphate potash in every 800 lbs. per acre used, costing $2.50 to $3.50. Compare to the 3.3.3. a fertilizer analyzing 3.8.10. or 3.8.7.1-2, would be far preferable.

Better results, however, can be obtained by either having the following formulas put up or mixed at home:

2nd.—250 lbs. dried blood 16 per cent ammonia, 400 lbs. 16 per cent acid phosphate, 150 lbs. sulphate potash, thus 800 lbs. costing $14.00 or $15.00 to be applied to one acre.

To those who wish a less expensive fertilizer:

3rd.—150 lbs. dried blood 16 per cent ammonia, 400 lbs. 16 per cent acid phosphate, 150 lbs. sulphate potash 50 per cent potash, thus 700 lbs. costing $11.00 or $12.00 to be applied to one acre.

The experience of the best farmers was found to be along the lines proposed above. The sulphate of potash increases was strongly advised, also a fair per cent of ammonia preferable from dried blood.

It is believed that under this plan of fertilizing that satisfactory results will follow both to the farmer and buyer.

DURHAM LEADS STATE

Pays More State Taxes Than All Other Counties.

Over and over the State has told you to keep your eye on Durham. Now you can keep both eyes on her. She is the coming metropolis of North Carolina, and has mighty nearly arrived.

The census returns on her population are very satisfactory. They do not get in all of our inhabitants, if they did, we would reach 23,000 easily. As it now stands, according to the last census, Charlotte is only 15,773 ahead of us; Wilmington 7,507 ahead; Raleigh 977; Asheville 520. Durham now stands fifth in the list. The next census will show our progressive city as the cap stone. Keep both eyes on Durham.

While we feel great pride in the census showing, that does not fill our cup of patriotism. We have something else to brag over. Durham county leads the state in tax paying. Just listen to this.

From figures received from Raleigh this morning Durham county pays into the state treasury $32,942.50 more than she receives. This is the largest amount paid by any county in the state. Mecklenburg comes next with $26,416.30. This shows an honest and proper valuation of the property of Durham county. If all did likewise, we would not have the 59 pauper counties which receive more than they pay in. This is encouraging enough for a New Year's starter up the hill of progress to the mountain top of success and prosperity.

Some few cities may, for the time being, beat us in population, but we just walk away with all the rest in our financial showing with the state, in helping to building her up and support her institutions. This is glory enough for one day!

On to greater things, is Durham's slogan this afternoon and ever!—Durham Sun.

A woman isn't self made just because she makes her own complexion.

EXPERIMENTS IN TOBACCO

THE STATE TO LOCATE FOUR TEST FARMS

PITT COUNTY WILL GET ONE OF THEM

The Expense for Operating These Experiment Farms to be Shared by the State and Federal Govern- ment.

A plan of co-operation has been reached between the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture, whereby both parties share in the running expenses, plans and conduct of four local tobacco experiment stations in different parts of the State.

One of the stations will be located in Transylvania county another in Rockingham County, another in Granville County, and another in Pitt County. The one in Transylvania County is located by the State Department of Agriculture with the view of ascertaining what variety or varieties of the heavy shipping tobaccos may be grown in the mountainous section of the State. Incidentally, fertilizer experiments will be conducted to ascertain what fertilizers and combinations of fertilizers are best suited to the soil types in the mountains on which tobacco may be grown. Other experiments will be put under way from time to time as necessity seems to dictate.

The stations to be located in Rockingham, Granville and Pitt counties are to be run in co-operation with the National Department of Agriculture. These stations are to be located with the view ascertaining the best varieties of bright tobacco to be grown in the old bright tobacco belt of the State and also with the view to ascertaining the best fertilizers to be used and their production.

Systematic crop rotations will be experimented with in order to find what rotation is best for tobacco culture in the different sections of the State.

No land will be purchased for these stations. The State Department of Agriculture will pay a fair rental for the land, which will include curing barn and storage room for the experimental tobacco and other crops; and all labor and fertilizer bills. In short, the State Department of Agriculture pays all running expenses, but receives the proceeds from the sales of all tobacco and other experimental crops grown on the station to aid in defraying these running expenses. The National Department of Agriculture gives to the State a tobacco expert, and pays his salary and expenses to look after these different stations.

These stations will begin with two and one-half acres of land, which amount will be increased yearly until not less than fifteen acres in one body will be used in this experimental work. This plan has been followed, and is now being followed, very successfully in Virginia, South Carolina, Florida, Kentucky and other States, and great good has come from their results of the work of these stations in every instance.

The work in North Carolina will begin in 1911 with the above-named stations, and others may be taken up later on as circumstances may seem to justify.—Raleigh News and Observer.

MONDAY, JANUARY 9, 1911

Charlotte is to keep her mint.

Possibly Mr. Carnegie wishes that New York bank had not been named for him.

If nothing else, Greensboro can be satisfied at the advertising she is getting out of it.

Near-beer is shaky in the knees over the prospect of a legislative knock-out.

It seems but a short while since we were talking about the beginning of a new century, but that was ten years ago.

That once-upon-a-time Greensboro directory maker must have been getting pay for his job according to the number of names reported.

As suggestions to the legislature are going forward, whether in order or not, we are going to say that body will not perform its full duty if it goes home at the end of the session without eliminating or modifying the present homestead and personal property law. That law as it now stands is a cloak for more dishonesty than any other on the statute book.

The Greensboro News reprimands a South Carolina paper for saying the Republican party in North Carolina had got in such bad shape that the ex-chairman of the party attempted suicide. The News was entirely right in its strictures on the South Carolina contemporary. Newspapers often express themselves in a vein of too much levity on serious matters. It was enough to shock better feelings the way the punsters joked about the hanging of Dr. Grippin, and no less so were their jokes about Mrs. Eddy "coming back" because Mrs. Stetson, a religious fanatic, had expressed the belief that she would arise from the dead and appear on earth in another life. In the face of death there should be no levity.

Hasty Legislation.

There is an old saying that "advice is cheap," and no doubt very much advice will be given our lawmakers now in session, and yet at the risk of being presumptuous we would most earnestly urge upon the members of our legislature not to delay until the closing days of the session the passage of most of their laws.

It has become the custom of our legislature to enact most of the laws in rush near the close of the session, and this is a custom which we hope the present legislature will not follow. During the rush of legislation in the closing days of the session many bills are passed without due consideration and which ought not to be passed and would not be passed if the members knew their contents. We know this to be true from personal experience, and attention has recently been called to it by Secretary of State Grimes.

In his forthcoming report Secretary Grimes says that the legislature of 1907 passed 1,535 acts, of which 1,245 were ratified during the last twenty days of the session, and that actually 237 were ratified on the very last day. He says that 66 per cent of the laws of the session of 1909 were enrolled and ratified during the last ten days. Of course most of those bills were never considered by committees, and it is a physical impossibility for the committee on enrolled bills to have read them after being enrolled. In such a rush not only are many bills passed that ought not to be passed, but many that are meritorious are not properly enrolled and are defective.

Of course more bills are passed necessarily near the close of any session than near the beginning, because all bills are, or should be, duly referred to committees for full investigation and the committees rarely report many bills until some time after the session has begun. What we now urge is that the committees do not delay their work but promptly consider and act on all bills referred to them, so as to avoid the rush near the close of the session.—Catham Record.

As was to have been expected Speaker Dowd rings true on the subject of the state's higher institutions of learning. He said in his speech of acceptance that he hoped these institutions would receive most generous treatment at the hands of the legislature. While there should not have been any doubt of Mr. Dowd's position on this matter there had been some suggestions to the effect that he would oppose liberal treatment of the state schools. His speech of acceptance will allay any uneasiness which may have been felt by anybody regarding this matter.—Raleigh Times.

The secretary of the treasury urges a system of uniform bookkeeping in National Banks as a better aid to politicians, instead of expert bookkeepers, appointed as bank examiners. In spite of so-called "examination," an official of a bank at Westfield, Mass., a few days ago confessed that he had been systematically misappropriating the funds of the bank during eleven years. Uniform bookkeeping might help, but examiners who can examine evidently are more useful than any system of bookkeeping little understood by a clever fellow who can smoke good cigars and draw his pay.—Wilmington Star.

All Who Suffer from Catarrh, Sore Throat or Colds

Millions of people throughout America have breathed HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) and now own a HYOMEI Inhaler made of hard rubber. If you own a HYOMEI Inhaler, no matter where you live, you can get a bottle of HYOMEI at druggists everywhere for only 50c.

Ask for an extra bottle of HYOMEI Inhaler; it is only 50c. and with it you can cure a cough or a cold in a day.

You can get relief from catarrh or stuffed up head in two minutes and stop hawking and snuffling in a week. Just pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler and breathe it in—that's all.

It's so easy and so pleasant and so much more desirable than swallowing nauseating drugs. Breathe Hyomei over the inflamed membrane of the nose and throat and its soothing, healing action will be felt immediately.

If you have not a HYOMEI Inhaler, get a complete HYOMEI outfit at once. This only costs $1.00, and with it comes a HYOMEI Inhaler that will last a lifetime and ought to be in every family. For free samples of HYOMEI write Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

What He Would Do.
"Always remember, boys," admonished the Sunday school teacher, "never harbor a spirit of revenge. Now, for example, John Thompson, if Arthur Smith struck you what should you do?"
"I'm 'im!" cried the indignant youngster. "Why, miss, if 'e attempted it I'd put his ears back an' make a runnin' dog of 'im!"—London Mail.

TIDES THAT RAGE

Queer Pranks Played by the Ebb and Flow of the Ocean.

THE RUSH INTO THE AMAZON.

Three Successive Waves, Each Ten Feet High, Fling Themselves in a Rearing Mass Upon the Great River.
The Tides at Panama.

The highest ocean tide in the world is in the bay of Fundy, where it has been known to rise eighty odd feet.
The second highest tide is found at the mouth of the English river the Severn.

The top of the Severn tide is at Chepstow, and when there is a gale behind a spring tide a rise of nineteen feet seven inches has been observed within a single hour. The result of this is a "bore," a tidal wave which sweeps up the wide channel at more than ten miles an hour and swallows the bare sands under a wild tumble of turbulent waves.

The cause of the gigantic Severn tide is interesting. It is not entirely due to the rapid narrowing and shall-owing of the Bristol channel, but is chiefly caused by the fact that two tides enter the Severn simultaneously.
The crest of the tide which runs into the Irish channel meets at the mouth of the Bristol channel another wave, twelve hours older, which has come round the north of Ireland. These two together run up the Severn.

A tide almost equal to that of the Severn is seen in the bay of Mount St. Michael, on the French coast. At low tide carts drive across from La Vendee to the Isle of Noirmoutin; at high tide big ships sail across the road.

In stories of adventure one sometimes reads of the tide racing in over the sands faster than a man can run.
This actually happens in the bay of Mount St. Michael.

At low tide there lies before one a wide plain of sand 150 square miles in extent, in the center of which rises the huge black mass of St. Michael's mount. The tide turns, and one sees it rushing in edged by a line of white.
A liquid mass estimated at 1,470,000, 000,000 of cubic yards comes pouring into the bay and in a very few hours covers the whole great plain. The distance between ebb and flood marks in the bay is nearly seven miles.

Centuries ago all this desolate gulf was a wide stretch of fertile land, protected on the seaward side by tall sand hills. A great tide with a heavy gale behind it burst through the barriers and stole 90,000 acres of farm and pasture.

While the French side of the English channel is daily visited by immense tides, England's side has comparatively small ones, and from Poole harbor to the Isle of Wight the very peculiar phenomenon of double tides is seen. These are caused by the interruption of the tidal wave by the Isle of Wight.

All over the world we find the tides playing the queerest pranks. At the port of Panama, on the Pacific end of the Panama canal, you may watch a tide of twenty-three feet rise and fall.
Less than forty miles away, at the Atlantic end of the big cut, there is practically no tide at all.

We have spoken of the "bore" in the Severn. Imposing sight as this is, it is child's play compared with the tidal wave which rushes up the enormous estuary of the Amazon.

This rush of water, which, by the way, makes a terrific roaring sound, comes in three successive waves, each about ten feet high, and vessels navigating the estuary are in as great danger as when they are overtaken by storm in the open sea.

The Ganges has a dangerous "bore" at high springs, and the "mascaret" on the river Seine is also a source of peril to small craft.

The force of the currents or races produced by tides penned in narrow channels must be seen to be believed.
Every one has heard of the famous maelstrom off the Norwegian coast, the terrible whirlpool which was supposed to drag down ships and grind them to pieces against the rocks at the bottom. The whirlpool as such does not exist, but the tide race between Moskol island and its next neighbor is almost as dangerous as the revolving eddy of the fable.

The sea here rushes through a rock walled channel at more than ten miles an hour. A sailing vessel caught in this race is perfectly helpless, and a steamer must have uncommonly good engines to drive her way through it.

Between Jura and Scarba islands, on the west coast of Scotland, is a tidal race which for speed and fury holds a world's record. The native name for this race is Colbreheacain, literally "cauldron of the spotted seas." Here the tide runs at no less than twelve and a half miles an hour, and when the wind is over the tide the whole strait becomes actually a boiling, foaming cauldron, into which no craft of any kind could venture without certain disaster.

In December, 1902, an easterly gale created enormous difficulties for the shipping at Hamburg. It took the water right out of the Elbe, and where vessels drawing twenty-five feet had been accustomed to move easily there was not water enough to float those drawing fifteen feet. All the large steamers in the port were stranded and some lay right over on their sides.
The scene was a most curious and amazing one.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

METEORIC DUST.

An Invisible but Constant Shower of Tiny Hollow Steel Balls.

Meteoric dust is composed of minute hollow spheres of steel that look under the microscope like leaden shot.
They are infinitely finer than grains of sand. Their origin is interesting.
Meteors, or shooting stars as they are generally called, have from the beginning of things been bombarding the world at a rate estimated by the highest authority at many thousands an hour. Owing to the earth's protecting envelope of air very few of these missiles reach us. In size, meteors vary from a few ounces to many pounds in weight, and it is only very occasionally that one is of sufficient dimensions to survive the passage of 80 to 100 miles through an atmosphere increasing in density as the earth is approached. The speed at which they enter the atmosphere, calculated at not less than thirty-five miles a second, generates such intense heat by friction that the iron of which the meteor principally consists is immediately reduced to an incandescent vapor, which is the luminous train so frequently seen in the heavens on a clear night.

The vapor rapidly cools and condenses in the form of these minute particles, which assume the spherical form, as does shot during its fall from the top of a tower. Finally the little spheres are scattered by the winds and currents in the upper regions and gradually descend in their millions as an invisible but never ending shower.
The perfect condition in which the spheres are found is due to the presence of certain noncorrosive elements found by analysis to be present in the metal of meteors which have come to earth.

These little spheres can be found in almost any sample of dust, particles where it has collected in sheltered recesses or hollows, as in the gutter, on the housetop or round the roots of old trees and dry ditches. They may be readily gathered by a magnet and when mounted form an interesting object for the microscope.—Chicago News.

CAGLIOSTRO.

Effect of a Draft of the Notorious Charlatan's Elixir of Life.

Cagliostro, the famous eighteenth century charlatan, was the hero of many strange stories. A great lady who was also, unfortunately for herself, an old one and was unable to resist herself to the fact was reported to have consulted Cagliostro, who gave her a vial of the precious liquid (his "wine of Egypt"), with the strictest injunction to take two drops when the moon entered its last quarter. While waiting for this period to arrive the lady who desired to be rejuvenated shut up the vial in her wardrobe and the better to insure its preservation informed her maid that it was a remedy for the colic.

Fatal precaution! By some mis-chance on the following night the maid was seized with the very malady of which her mistress had spoken. Remembering the remedy so fortuitously at hand, she got up, opened the wardrobe and emptied the vial at a draft.
The next morning she went, as usual, to wait on her mistress, who looked at her in surprise and asked her what she wanted. Thinking the old lady had had a stroke in the night, she said: "Oh, madam, don't you know me? I am your maid."

"My maid is a woman of fifty," was the reply, "and you—"

But she did not finish the sentence.
The woman had caught a glimpse of her face in a mirror. The wine of Egypt had rejuvenated her thirty years!

Cagliostro's valet was as great a rogue as he and posed equally as a mystery monger. "Your master," said a skeptic to him one day, "is talking us all in. Tell me, is it true that he was present at the marriage at Cana?"
"You forget, sir," was the reply, "I have only been in his service a century."

Lisbon's Names.

Lisbon, the capital of Portugal, sometimes claims to have been founded by Ulysses in the course of his wanderings. But, according to the London Chronicle, there is no doubt that Ulysses is only a fanciful version of Ollisipo, the most ancient name of what was probably at first a Phoenician city. When the Romans absorbed and municipalized Ollisipo it became Felicitas Julia, but in the hands of the Moslems it slipped back to Lashbuna. Byron's line in "Child Harold," "What beauties does Lisbon first unfold!" gives the Portuguese spelling of the name today.

Mercury and the Sun.

The distance of Mercury from the sun varies owing to the eccentricity of its orbit. When he is nearest to the sun he receives ten and a half times more light and heat than we do, but when he removes to his greatest distance the light and heat are reduced by more than one-half. Even then, however, the sun blazes in the skies of Mercury with a disk four and a half times larger than that which he shows to us on earth.

Showing Him Off.

Husband who fancies himself as a raconteur is, with his wife, paying his first call in a new neighborhood. He tells a humorous story with excellent results. His Proud Wife—Now tell them your other story, dear.—Punch.

True to the Saying.

"All the world's a stage," quoted one misanthrope.
"Yes," replied another, "and it's the same old story. A lot o' fellows that's cut out for supers is tryin' ter star."

THE TURKISH BATH

A Victim's Story of the Real Thing in Its Native Land.

WELL MAULLED AND SCRAPED.

He Was Kneaded, Plucked, Turned Over and Walked Upon and Then Scrubbed as Though He Were a Kitchen Floor.

The tourist who wanders about Stamboul will from time to time come on domed buildings of all sizes which might be taken for mosques but that they seem to have no fountains and no minarets. From some place, such as the terrace of the mosque of Sultan Sulayman, where their roofs may be overlooked, it will be seen that the low domes are often of a peculiar salmon pink color and always covered with glass bullseyes. These are the real Turkish baths.

Quite apart from the ceremonial wash before prayer, Islam, which considers cleanliness not so much next to godliness as a part of godliness itself, ordains a periodical scrub all over.
And the Turk, unlike the sodden west, never sits in hot water, but prefers a hot room, a tap and a basin as a minimum and a shampooer and a flesh glove if he can afford such luxuries.

One enters, as in the west, into the cooling room, generally a high domed room with many galleries around, a marble floor and a fountain; and before going to a private room or, if the bath is to be done on the cheap, to a place on the big common sofas one exchanges dirty boots for slipshod beardless slippers. Watch and valuables may be left under the care of the cooling room attendant, who superintends the process of undressing, winds a loin cloth around one and throws a primrose towel over one's shoulders.
Before crossing the floor of the cooling room the slippers are again exchanged for wooden clogs, wherein the novice walks like Agag, delicately, in fear of a fall, till he learns to imitate the speed of the bath men by abandoning all attempts to walk and executing a fast shuffle.

The outer hot room, at about the temperature of an English shampooing room, is a very secondary affair. One stays there for a little, still clothed in the primrose towel, reclining on a distant imitation of a bed, drinking coffee and smoking a cigarette, perhaps watching a couple of shampooers amusing themselves by a wrestling bout. The customer and the shampooer wear the same type of loin cloth, an elaborate check of red and yellow that may be seen any day in the streets on an apron worn by the Albanian sellers of chestnuts or sweetmeats.

If that cigarette is finished come into the inner room, heavy with damp heat, the real bath. The attendant pulls off the shoulder towel and opens the door, a heavy wooden affair, kept shut by a counterweight, whose banging is not the least characteristic noise in the bath. Inside is a large square domed room. Innumerable bullseyes in the dome admit the light, which the whitewashed walls reflect, making a light and airy effect. On the great square slab in the middle they have placed a towel and a pillow, and here one lies, leaving the clogs on the floor.

Round the room, screened from one another by dwarf walls, are a row of marble basins, and here may be seen all classes—such is the democracy of Islam—from the army officer to the day laborer, whose shaved head oddly suggests a tonsure. The poorer classes do not indulge in the luxury of massage. They come for a wash only and often bring their own soap for economy's sake. It is not uncommon to see two of them scrubbing one another by turns.

Presently, unbidden, the shampooer mounts the slab and squats beside his victim. Most of his work consists in kneading the flesh rather than the long, heavy strokes of an English masseur. But when the customer is turned on his face the masseur becomes more energetic. He plucks the skin on each side of the spine, walks up and down on the back and strenuously gathers up arms and legs into curious bone breaking knots regardless of the grunts of the stiff jointed west. A final super-Gordian knot and the clapping of his hands show that it is over.

The customer, as soon as he can collect limbs which seem to have been pulled clean off him, adjourns to one of the basins and is rubbed with a rough glove to take off the old skin. Then the man brings a battered metal bowl ("old bowl, old bath," is the Turkish proverb for "the old, old story") with soap and a lather wisp of "lyf" (Mecca palm fiber, and scrubs conscientiously for some ten minutes, working with the abandon of a zealous housemaid on a floor, forgetful apparently that the object he is scrubbing is flesh and blood.

Finally he pours warm water from the bowl to wash away the last of the soapsuds and, if the bath is a large and up to date one, conducts his well scrubbed victim to a cold douche.

Drying takes place in the outer hot room, sundry loin cloths and towels are wrapped about the body, a small towel makes a turban for the head and clean clogs are produced for the feet, which have been dried with great—sometimes inconveniently great—care.
A loud clapping of hands announces that the process is over, and the three or four Turks who seem always to be doing nothing zealously in the room crowd round to wish one good health.
—London Globe.

THE WEREWOLVES.

Fantastic Story of a Sixteenth Century Tragedy.

John of Nuremberg relates how a man, lost at night in a strange country, directed his steps toward a fire that he saw before him. On reaching it he found a wolf sitting, enjoying its warmth and was informed by him that he was really as human as himself, but that he was compelled for a certain number of years, like all his countrymen, to assume the shape of a wolf.

A strange country, indeed, where wolves when the evenings grow chilly light a fire and in the comfort of its ruddy glow are found ready to entertain the passing traveler with their conversation!

Olaus Magnus in the early part of the sixteenth century tells us a story of a nobleman and his retinue who lost their way in journeying through a wild forest and presently found themselves hopelessly foodless and shelter-less. In the urgency of their need one of the servants disclosed to him in confidence that he had the power of turning himself at will into a wolf and doubted not but that, if his master would kindly excuse him for a while, he would be able to find the party some provision. Permission being given, the man disappeared into the forest under semblance of a wolf and very quickly returned with a lamb in his mouth and then, having fulfilled his mission, resumed his human form.

In Auvergne in 1588 a nobleman in returning from the chase was stopped by a stranger, who told him that he had been furiously attacked by a savage wolf, but had been fortunate enough to save himself by slashing off one of his fore paws. This he produced as a trophy, when, to the astonishment of both, it was found to have become the delicate hand of a lady. The nobleman felt so sure that he recognized a ring upon it that he hurried to the castle and there found his wife sitting with her arm tied up, and on removing the wrappings the hand was missing. She had to stand her trial as a loup-garou and, being convicted, perished at the stake.— Hulme's "Lore and Legend."

A TURBULENT VOLCANO.

The Boiling Hot Pools of Taal, in the Philippines.

The central or main crater of Taal is nearly round. Its diameter on an air line north and south is 6,233 feet and the east-west diameter 7,546 feet. The edge of this crater is somewhat irregular, but is nowhere broken through, its highest point standing at only 1,050 feet above sea level and its lowest at 426 feet.

Within the rim are two hot pools, known respectively as the yellow and the green lake, and a little active cone above fifty feet in height from which escape steam and sulphurous gas in varying quantities.

In the smaller lake every few minutes the water in the center is blown up like an immense bubble, which, rising above the surface, finally bursts, revealing a black orifice and causing the boiling and very turbulent water to assume all imaginable colors. The aqueous vapor escaping is sufficient to form a broad, smokelike column which is visible especially during the night and in the early morning.

At some distance and before reaching the edge of the crater, where a view of the bottom can be obtained, the rumbling sound produced by the escaping vapor, under the influence of the mysterious subterranean forces can be heard like that of an immense boiling kettle.

The greatest eruption of Taal took place in 1754. The eruption began on May 13 and did not end till Dec. 1 During this dreadful time the intensity and aspect of the eruption were continually changing, and the four principal towns of the laguna of Bombon disappeared—viz, Salpa, Liga, Tanauan and Taal, with the numerous villages around them.—Manila Times.

Pasteur's Revenge.

In Vallery-Radot's "Life of Pasteur" we read the story of his misery. It is nothing to say that the war nearly broke his heart. But it broke neither his faith nor the straight line of his work. Only a sort of rage possessed him to redeem and console France by working for her. "Henceforth," he said, "every one of my books shall have written on it these words, 'Revenge, revenge, revenge.'" And this was his revenge, to set the name of France in the honors list of science higher than ever, to give the rest of his life to her service and to wear himself out for her sake.

After a Fashion.

dency.

the old man.

"Shore thing, dad," replied the boy.
"I wuz guarded by two policemen

Intensive Growth of Cotton.

The current issue of The Cotton Seed published at Atlanta carries three illustrations showing the results of experiments in the heavy fertilization and intensive cultivation of cotton in Mecklenburg and Union counties. One striking picture shows a field near Davidson where two and a half bales of the staple to the acre were produced. Two other pictures show the result of experiment by Mr.
J. P. Biakney, near Monroe, where in parallel rows fertilizer was used as follows: 1,000 pounds per acre, 600 pounds per acre, 400 pounds per acre, and none at all. To say that the difference shown at each stage is striking is putting it mildly. A row of cotton without fertilizer between heavily fertilized cotton could hardly be seen.
The land upon which the test were made was not rich soil and the following deductions are made from the experiment.

"First—It proves that ordinary cotton land can be fertilized at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre is much better than the plot fertilized at the rate of 600 pounds per acre; the 600 pound per acre plot is proportionately better than the 400 pounds per acre plot.
The unfertilized plot in each instance are so clearly inferior that comment is unnecessary. Had the land been richer in humus the difference would have been still more marked. The richer the land the greater the profit from heavier fertilization.

"Third—The third and most important lesson taught is that the cotton plant is a close feeder and does not go far from its base in search of food. It might starve in the midst of plenty. This clearly establishes the fact that the broadcasting of fertilizer for cotton even when excessive amounts are used, is an unprofitable practice. Moreover the close feeding habit of the cotton plant is exclusive evidence that a badly mixed fertilizer is a waste of money.

The lesson is a practical and striking one and one which Southern farmers are rapidly learning. More care more fertilizer and more work per acre will produce astonishing results and this intensive system of cultivation section. Another striking fact about the experiment, the same being true in all cases of intensive cultivation in this section, is that the South is producing at home practically all its fertilizer, not only for cotton but for corn, small grains, potatoes, truck, etc., the nitrogen product of the cotton field itself, cotton seed meal. Many farmers mix their own fertilizers, but the larger number, especially those who are not particularly well fixed for it, and who are not sure of their knowledge as to the requirements of the various plants and soil prefer to trust to the perfectly balanced and analyzed fertilizers manufactured at the nearest fertilizer factories, the government regulation and inspection assuring the purity of these goods.—Charlotte Chronical.

It Is Simply Enormous.

Be it known and understood in the outset that we would not detract one iota of the credit due the real soldier that served in the civil war, or take from him, or any other reputable man who deserves honorable recognition, what is justly due him, but our federal pension list needs overlooking and scrutinizing more closely. It has been 45 years since the civil war, and instead of the list diminishing, as it naturally should, it is yearly growing larger.

A dozen years ago there were confident predictions of diminishing expenditures on pensions. The high-water mark, $158,000,000, had been reached in 1893. There was a decline to $239,000,000 and the probabilities were cited to show that it would continue. But there was a new high-water mark in 1900—$162,000,000. And now the house committee on pensions has agreed on a bill which it is estimated would increase the expenditure to nearly $200,000,000 annually by increasing the pensions rate.

This is one of the worst outrages ever perpetrated on the people, and the people of the south have to bear their part of the burden and gets but little of the benefits.—Durham Sun.

THE LADIES' FAVORITE.

Wherever Parisian Sage is Known It Has The Call.

Parisian Sage, that most efficient of all hair restorers, is a very delightful and refreshing hair dressing.
Besides possessing these qualities it will positively make any woman's hair soft, luxuriant and attractive.
Coward & Wooten sells it for 50 cents a large bottle and will return your money if it does not cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.

"I had given up hopes of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff and has started a growth of new hair and all this after having been troubled 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."—Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, Mechanicsburg, Pa.

DO YOU KEEP A BANK ACCOUNT?

You Should For the Reasons:

- MONEY in Bank is safe from fire and burglars; in your home it is not.
- MONEY in Bank is safe from careless handling; in your pocket it is not.
- MONEY paid by check guarantees to you a permanent receipt; cash handed out does not.
- MONEY in Bank is a saviour towards economy, always ready for use, or to be added.

Backache pains come from sick kidneys.

"I would save much needless woe." Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Many residents of this vicinity endorse them.

Mrs. L. Camerson, 117 Payton Ave.
Kinston, N. C., says:

"The great benefit I obtained from Doan's Kidney Pills justifies me in recommending them. A dull, nagging backache, accompanied by sharp twinges through my loins, bothered me for a long time. I had but little energy or ambition and was caused additional annoyance by weakness.
Having Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me, I procured a box and the difficulty with the kidney sections had been corrected.

RUN ON TWO BANKS

Morgan Comes to Rescue to Prevent Crisis.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Jan. 9.—Runs were begun on the Nineteenth Ward & Twelfth Ward banks as soon as these institutions opened today. Trucks carrying gold and paper were drawn up before both banks, but this failed to allay the anxiety of depositors. The Twelfth Ward bank has three branches and on the counters of all three stacks of gold were piled high before they opened. The Nineteenth Ward bank also has these branches and the same conditions existed there and depositor were paid off rapidly. Depositors were formed in lines by policemen.
The run is caused by the failure of the Robin banks. It is said that Morgan interests are furnishing money to pay depositors, having formed a $50,000,000 pool to prevent a financial crisis.

MRS. SCHENCK ON TRIAL

Both Sides Express Confidence.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 9.—The trial of Mrs. Laura Schenck for poisoning her husband, was begun today. Great interest is being taken in the trial.
Although the court room will hold only two hundred and fifty people, two thousand men and women were early, clamoring about the door for admittance. Both sides appear confident of victory. The state's attorney says his evidence is convincing, while the defense says Mrs.
Schenck is anxious for trial, as it will clear her name.

RULED AGAINST BEEF TRUST

Judge Carpenter Says They Must Stand Trial.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Judge Carpenter today ruled that the ten millionaire beef packers indicted on criminal charges in connection with the formation of the National Packing Co. the alleged "beef trust," must stand trial under the indictments. His decision was against the packers' plea that the indictments, charging criminal conspiracy, were improper inasmuch as they were under an injunction not to have a trust and that if such trust had been formed they were only liable for citation for contempt.

Virginia Banker Dead.

Government Finances Show Some Improvement

The coming of a new year finds the finances of the United States Treasury far improved over the condition which the business of 1910 was begun, having spent in that year $26,000,000 more than it had taken in. That sum took no account of the extraordinary expenditures for the Panama canal.

The beginning of 1911 finds the deficit reduced to $6,000,000, and the total deficit, including Panama expenditures, reduced to almost $25,000,000 on all accounts—practically half of what it was a year ago.

The year closes with about $86,000,- 000 in the general fund and a working balance of $34,000,000 in the Treasury offices, both considerably lower than a year ago. This is considered by Treasury officials a remarkable showing in the face of the fact that more than $130,000,000 has been for the canal construction.

Protest Against Lorimer By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Senator Beveridge of Indiana, today filed in the senate a minority report protesting against the vindication of Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, because of the taint of bribery in his election. Senator Lorimer is not legally entitled to his seat in the senate according to Senator Beveridge's report.

New York, Jan. 9.—Trading in the cotton market was quiet after the opening, initial prices being one to four points lower. Brokers declare the financial situation had no effect on the market. Cables were strong but accompanied by few buying orders. Opening: January 14.64, March 14.91, May 15.03, July 15.01.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Wheat opened firm 3/4 cents up with light offerings and good buying. Corn and oats were also higher. Provisions easier. Opening: May wheat 100 1/2, corn 49 1/2, oats 34 1/2, pork, Jan. 20.25.

New York, Jan. 9.—The influence of J. P. Morgan triumphed over the pessimism due to bank failures in the stock market and trading was firm. Advances were made in several stocks immediately after the opening. There was brisk demand especially for standard railroad shares.
Reading was an early leader in the upward movement. Steel was also in persistent demand. Amalgamated copper was slightly off in early trading but soon rallied.

A fellow claims to have discovered Roosevelt's double. Oh, maybe he just saw Roosevelt over in Indiana, when he was talking against the tar-then saw him up in Massachusetts, when he was praising the tariff and Senator Lodge, and the poor individual got his mind befuddled and thought it two different men.—Wil-

AMUZU TONIGHT

THE COWPUNCHER'S GLOVE (Drama)

No matter how many moving pictures dealing with the life of the Western man of the plains are given to the market, there is always room for one more. The scope is so broad, plains are so vast, and human nature so varied that there are hundreds of interesting subjects yet to be gleaned from the man on the horse with his "devil may care" life, his wonderful vitality and his deep human love, or hate, as the case may be.

The "Cowpuncher's Glove" is only another chapter in his life that is well worth seeing.
