Mr. W. J. Teel Killed.

W. J. Teel, of Everetts, Martin county, accidentally killed himself a few days ago. He was out hunting, and jumping a rabbit stepped up on a stump to see which way the rabbit went so he could shoot. The stump broke down with him and in falling his gun was discharged, the load of shot entering his body and killing him almost instantly. Mr. Teel is the man who some years ago when residing near Bethel, was assaulted by white cappers, it being one of the most sensational cases ever occurring in this county.

Sugar Trust Coughs.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The American Sugar Refining Company has deposited $700,000 in cash in the United States treasury to compromise its civil liabilities in the sugar drawback frauds in New York.

AYDEN CORRESPONDENCE.

Community Social News Items and Business Notes.

Ayden, Jan. 10.—We regret to note that two of our jolliest citizens are on the sick list this week, Messrs W. J. Boyd and W. S. Blount.

Mr. Robert Dawson, son of Mr. James Dawson, who has been out west for ten years returned last week on a visit, and said Ayden did not favor Harrington Cross Roads when he left.

Mr. Ike Gardner, of Vanceboro, spent Saturday and Sunday with his brother, Mr. Walter Gardner.

Mr. Reuben Wall lost his barn, with 100 bushels of corn, 500 bales of hay, besides peas, etc., and a lot of tools, Saturday evening by fire. Mr. Wall was at Ayden when he was apprised of the fire. We are unable to get the particulars.

His honor, J. F. Barwick made a business trip to Maple Cypress Monday.

J. R. Smith and Bro. have purchased the stock of groceries from C. G. Moore and Bro.

Mr. Samuel Alphonzo Jenkins is spending this week at Greensboro, and will return via Raleigh to attend the Grand Lodge Masons.

Mr. Luther McGlohon is suffering with gout.

Mr. Zack Broughton, of Greenville, filled the pulpit of the Baptist church here Sunday night. Rev. M. A. Adams held service at Greenville on same date. Mr. Broughton sustained the family reputation for talented men. He is a brother of Mr. N. B. Broughton, of Raleigh, who has a national reputation as a speaker.

Mr. A. L. Sumrell has moved from East Third street to West First street.

There is a call for a citizens meeting at Sauls hall on Thursday night at 7:30 to lay plans to erect a suitable Graded school building to accommodate 400 children. "As we live we grow." Come see our stock of hardware more complete than ever, J. R. Smith, Co.

Dr. Joe Dixon left Sunday for his stock farm in the fertile valleys of Virginia.

Mr. Samuel W. Tyson made a business trip to Greenville Monday evening.

The stock holders of the Ayden Amusement Co. will meet at J. J. Stokes office to divide the spoils of 1910.

Mr. Webb, who moved here from Morehead for the practice of law, will leave Tuesday for Grifton where he has a position as cashier of the Bank of Grifton.

We are sorry to hear that the little daughter of our former townsman, Dr. J. W. Taylor of Greensboro, was severely burned lately.

Mrs. J. R. Smith and children spent Sunday visiting relatives in the country.

The Brightest Spot On Earth

Happy home is the brightest spot on earth that the eye of God looks down upon, says a writer. Love and peace in his home sends sunshine around the man wherever he goes; but let there be disorder and trouble, and there is misery everywhere. There are few worries of life which a man cannot now and then shake off, but who can shake himself free from the skeleton in the closet, from the worry of the household, a blister on the heart? A day will tell how many a man carried that with him without wincing down to the grave. When husband and wife are helpmate to each other in the best sense; when order and love and goodness prevail in the house, then the man who has a hard battle in life to fight can leave his struggles behind him when he enters there. With all our faults we are the most home loving of people, and that is the reason why we are the greatest of people. Whatever helps home life is a national blessing; whatever hurts home life is a national curse, and the greatest curse can touch these blessings is what would tamper with the peace and blessedness of our homes.

CONSCIENCE.

Conscience is just ce's best minister. It threatens, promises, rewards and punishes and keeps all under its control. The busy must attend to its remonstrances, the most powerful submit to its reproach and the angry endure its upbraidings. While conscience is our friend all is peace, but if once offended farewell to the tranquil mind.—Mary Worley Montagu.

REP. J. L. STUART DEAD

Montgomery's Representative in the House Succumbs to Old Ailment.

Members of the general assembly were shocked yesterday afternoon to learn that one of their colleagues, Representative John L. Stuart, had died at Rex Hospital shortly after noon.

Mr. Stuart was taken ill Friday and while his condition was serious it was not thought to be dangerous. He was granted indefinite leave of absence by the house Saturday, when it was found that his illness had taken a more serious turn.

He was removed to the hospital between 2:00 and 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, on the order of his physician, Dr. C. O. Abernathy, and Dr. K. P. Battle was called into consultation. His ailment was diagnosed as an acute attack of angioneurotic oedema of the throat, a trouble from which he had suffered for several years. This was complicated by a chronic kidney trouble, but the immediate cause of his death was strangulation from the swelling of his throat.

Representative Stuart was 68 years old, married, and has several children. He was the representative from Montgomery county and lived at Starr.—Raleigh Times.

THE SCHENCK TRIAL

Family Physician Springs a Sensation With More Light on Matter.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 10.—There was again a big crowd on hand at the opening of the Schenck trial. Mrs. Schenck was in good spirits and hopeful of acquittal. The first witness called by the prosecution was J. E. Wolfe who traveled with Schenck abroad when he had an attack similar to the one in which it is alleged he was poisoned. Wolfe said he had no such attack.

The leading sensation of the day in the trial came when Dr. Ackerman, family physician for Schenck, testified that more than one poison had been administered to Schenck. On examination he found traces of lead poisoning as well as of arsenic.

BARGES WRECKED IN GALE

Five Known Lost and Several Others Missing.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Provincetown, Mass. Jan. 10.—Five men are known to be dead, five more are missing and probably dead, and seven more as fighting for their lives on Peaked Hill has as a result of a 55 mile gale sweeping three barges away from the tug that was towing them and swept two of them on the reef. One of them was pounded to pieces and her five men lost. Another is still on the reef with seven men aboard but no trace has been found of the third.

Later—it has developed that all three of the barges were lost, bringing the number of dead up to seventeen.

TURNED ON MORGAN.

Charge Him With Forcing Bank Failures.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York.—While J. P. Morgan was haled 24 hours ago as the savior of three New York banks, sober reflection on the part of various financial leaders not in the Morgan camp led them to renew his appellation of "financial buccaner." It is charged he forced the Carnegie Trust Co., Madison Trust Co., Nineteenth and Twelfth Ward banks to the wall in order to get control of them.

Mine Disaster in Spain.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Santander, Spain.—One hundred and ninety workmen in the Anita mine at Castro Urdiales were entombed and forty were killed when the roof of the mine caved in today. Rescue parties were able to rescue the remaining 150 men, five of whom are so badly injured it is feared they will die.

Planing Mill at Wilson Destroyed by Fire—Goldsboro Census—Suit For Damages Against Southern Railway—Woman Arrested at Fayetteville Charged With Criminal Negligence Because Children Were Burned.

Saturday night shortly after eleven o'clock the planing mill plant of the Bryant Lumber Company was discovered on fire and the main building and contents were totally destroyed, together with the boiler house and a box car belonging to the Norfolk Southern.—Wilson Times.

Fayetteville, Jan. 9.—Arabella Gilmore, whose three children were burned Friday night in a tenement in which she had left them locked up, was arrested and jailed today on a charge of criminal negligence and a violation of a state statute.

Goldsboro, Jan. 9.—The late census report from Washington officially stating that Goldsboro's population according to the thirteenth census, is only 6,107 has greatly disappointed the citizens and business men of Goldsboro, and many believe that the census taken of this city was in some way erroneous.

Asheville, Jan. 9.—Before aid could reach him, Arthur Justice, 30 years old, a farmer of the Pigeon river section, Haywood county, bled to death this afternoon after being bitten by a large boar which he had been feeding. The animal attacked Justice from behind, burying its tusks in the flesh below the right knee joint and severing the main artery. Justice managed to get out of the pen, but sank to the ground a short distance therefrom. He died from loss of blood before the nearest doctor, who lived two miles away, could be summoned. The deceased is survived by a wife and two small children.

Suit has been filed in the superior court by A. G. Stone through his attorney, R. N. Simms against the Southern Railway Company for damages alleged to have been sustained in being put off the defendant's train near Reidsville a few weeks ago. The complaint has not yet been filed but it is learned that the plaintiff will claim considerable damages under the recent ruling of the superior court in regard to mileage tickets. Stone had a mileage book but had not secured a ticket, and he claims that he was forcibly ejected from the train at Reidsville and left there in such a sick and disabled condition that he has since been under a doctor's care.—Raleigh Times.

Again Mileage Exchange.

As Mr. W. H. G. Belt of Wadesboro has suggested, the railroads of this section can escape the problem which President Finley makes the basis of his argument for mileage exchange by simply issuing one class of mileage-books interchangeable with other roads and one not interchangeable. As to the second class there would be no interline book-keeping at all. This arrangement would not obviate the inconveniences which through travel has suffered since the mileage-exchange era began, but many people would appreciate it and it would save the railroad argument from such transparent self-defeat.

The fact is that the real motives for this step by Southern railroads have never yet been frankly set forth by any responsible official. We do not take the published statements seriously, for they are not serious. Probably it is doing the railroads a service to say for them what they shrink from saying themselves, namely that the only conceivable reason for a mileage-exchange requirement on the issuing road—aside from soreness over rate regulation—is that the conductors are not trusted as they are up North or as they were trusted until recently by the Southern roads themselves. A check on them in the form of mileage coupons was desired—though opportunities for dishonesty could be very moderate—restricted merely. The question arises whether southern conductors are less honorable than conductors elsewhere there will be general agreement, we think, that as a rule they are superior men drawn from a superior class, ranking in this latter respect above their fellows almost anywhere else.

Moderate business methods tend to eliminate the element of personal honesty as much as possible, but at many points this has never been very effectively done. To insist upon an additional check which operates no more effectively than mileage exchange, nevertheless vexing the public grievously, impress us as far from wise.—Charlotte Observer.

Tobacco Market Opened

The tobacco market has started up again after being closed for the holidays. Sales are light, but prices are better than they were before Christmas. Farmers should finish selling their tobacco early now, so as to have it all out of the way before starting crops for this year.

HONEST WORK.

Work in every hour, paid or unpaid. See only that thou workest and thou canst not escape the reward. Whether thy work be fine or coarse, planting corn or writing epics, so only it be honest work done in thine own approbation, it shall earn a reward to thy senses as well as to the thought. NAIL HIT.

By Tar Heel Hand Across the Sea.

From a recent letter from Editor Clarence Poe to the Greensboro News, writing from China, the following extract is decidedly to the point:

"Another decidedly forward step in education is the most important thing the state has a right to expect of the new general assembly. The people who think that after the advance of the last ten years we can afford to rest on our laurels, ignore the fact that we have no laurels to rest on. We have gotten out of a position that was a disgrace to us; we have not yet come to a position that is creditable to us. An average school term of four or five months will not now equip the boys and girls of North Carolina to hold their own with the rest of the world. Fifty years ago a North Carolina secretary of the navy made the plans for opening up Japan to the world, and even yet majority of our people are accustomed to think of the Japanese as a heathen and more or less ignorant nation. But today Japan boasts that 98 per cent. of her boys and girls between six and fourteen are in the schools—and in schools not for four months (the Japanese anywhere would be ashamed of a four months school term), but for 10 months in the year! Their department of education in Tokio assures me that even the farm boys and girls have ten months schooling. Can we afford to let the future men and women go into life more poorly equipped than the so-called heathen in Asia? An average school term of six months by 1915 should be the aim of the new general assembly."

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Brinkley Ailsbrook Run Over and Cut to Pieces.

About 6:30 o'clock Monday evening Brinkley Ailsbrook, of Tarboro, was killed by a train at Parmele. Several trains meet at the junction there in the evening, and while Mr. Ailsbrook was on the track one of these trains, No. 64 going to Plymouth, ran over him and literally cut his body to pieces.

TUESDAY JANUARY 10, 1911.

If you don't like Greenville, it might be easier to move out.

It is to be taken for granted that Robin feathered his nest while he was at it.

As a place of depositing money, trunks and mattresses are a snare and delusion.

With the numerous cases or small-pox reported in this county, compulsory vaccination would not be a bad order.

Instead of some of the legislators introducing local anti near-beer bills, they had better save their work for an entire state bill that is coming along before the session closes.

Since the recent decision of the supreme court in favor of a plaintiff against a railroad for being put off a train because mileage was not exchanged for a ticket, other suits of a similar character are being started.

We wish the New Orleans 'boosters' now in Washington City every success in getting their city named as the place for holding the Panama exposition in 1915. New Orleans is the logical location for the exposition.

This promises to be a big week in Raleigh. Besides the legislature, there will be the grand lodge of Masons the unveiling of the Ransom bust, the state historical association meeting, and several smaller assemblies.

Pitt county elected two widowers to the legislature, but Representative Thorne took unto himself a wife the day before the general assembly met and took her along to Raleigh with him. In that respect he stole a march on Representative Mooring.

A Look in at Raleigh.

Everything points to a business legislature. Talking with individual members of the body and looking over the personnel of the two houses as a whole, one gets the impression that the legislature is going to do something for the state. Three of the richest men in the state have sacrificed sixty days from their offices in order to give their services to the state—and financiers are needed in the legislature. There are other members, not rich but successful business men who have sacrificed their time and business interests to aid in legislation they believe the state stands in need of. First, and towering above all other questions, is that of the equalization of taxation. The legislature is bent on passing an effective law and is not going to wait until the closing days of the session to do it. The drafting of the measure will be done by Senator Brown and his finance committee and it will be championed in the senate by Mr. Boyden, of Rowan. The plan is to eliminate the "pauper" counties. By that it is meant counties that draw more from the state treasury than they pay into it. There are 49 of these counties and there is not one that should not feel ashamed to be called a pauper. Iredell with two big towns, and Davison, with two big towns are but instances. The new law will probably provide a commission to visit these counties and equalize the assessed value of property. An equalization of taxation having been secured, the state will receive an enormous additional income, with no raising of the tax rate. The equalization will not apply to the delinquent counties alone, but to the entire state. Securing an equitable system of taxation this legislature will go down great in history. Charlotte Chronicle.

Raise Home Supplies.

There is food for thought in fact contained in a bulletin just issued by the state department of agriculture on the amount of foodstuffs shipped into North Carolina. The state imported for instance, $4,227,636 worth of wheat and flour; $6,877,148 worth of cured meat; $1,123,166 worth of corn and oats; $221,878 worth of hay; $49,655 worth of butter. The conclusion reached in this special investigation, as expressed by Agronomist Burgess is that every farmer should make it a point to at least raise his own home supplies, no matter what special crop his lands and section may be especially adapted. He says he would not expect all counties to raise all their home supplies, but he sees no reason why the crop development should not be brought to that point where the home supply products the state over should be such as to practically eliminate the heavy drain to which the state is now being subjected in purchasing these supplies out of the state.

It strikes us that Mr. Burgess is not far wrong in the conclusions he has arrived at.

Each year large sums of money go out of the state which could be kept at home. There is a tendency among farmers to raise their own supplies, but, according to these figures, the lesson has not been fully appreciated. —Charlotte News.

It is related that when President Taft entered a Washington theater the other evening the orchestra struck up "God Save the King." The audience seem to have been impressed with the incongruity of the selection and actually went so far, according to the report, as to "titter." The Anderson Mail notes the incident and comments "The leader of that orchestra is doubtless a foreigner who knows nothing of American sentiments and principles." No objection can be made to the "tittering" of the audience. They are assumed to have paid for their seats and consequently purchased the right even to laugh aloud if they felt so disposed. Nor can any one cavil at the attitude of The Mail. None the less we confess there is one phase of the incident which we do not thoroughly understand.

"God Save the King" (its music from an old German air) is a stately anthem and is loved by Englishmen for its intrinsic merit, as well as on sentimental grounds. Indeed, so excellent wrote "My Country 'Tis of Thee" he intentionally framed his language to suit the English music and on this side of the ocean the strain means to the average man not "God Save the King," but "America." We do not quite see how the orchestra indicated that they were playing the foreign setting of the music when it would be so much more natural upon the entrance of the head of the nation, to burst forth in some patriotic selection. We will be gratified if some musically inclined contemporary will let light in upon the difficulty. —Charlotte Observer.

The Same Old Story.

Biennially the general assembly meets and biennially there is much talk about the body doing business from the jump go, making the necessary appropriations, and disappearing promptly. Good white paper and good printer's ink are thus wantonly wasted. The legislature would be in session six months if the law allowed per diem, and every day would see the introduction of freak bills and the liberation of much hot air. Like Col. Boyden, of Salisbury, we believe that a session once in ten years would suffice. —Catawba County News.

A Lenoir Lady, After Two Weeks Grinding Labor, Feels Better Than Ever.

Lenoir, N. C.—"I am not tired at all, and am stouter than I have ever been," writes Mrs. Kate Waters, of Lenoir, N. C., "although I have just finished a two weeks' wash. I lay my strength to Cardui, the woman's tonic. I have taken a lot of it and I can never praise it enough for what it has done for me. I can never thank you enough for the advice you gave me, to take Cardui, for since taking it I look so well and am stout as a mule."

You are urged to take Cardui, that gentle, vegetable tonic, for weak women. Its use will strengthen and build up your system, relieve or prevent headache, backache and the ailments of weak women.

It will surely help you, as it has helped thousands of others, in the past 50 years.

WONDERFUL REMEDY.

That's What is Said of Stomach Prescription Guaranteed by A Stephen Waite of Lansing Michigan writes:
"For over three years I suffered much pain and annoyance from stomach disease. I had no help from my digestive organs. My food would stay in my stomach and ferment, causing gas and a dizzy headache I doctored and used every remedy that I heard of, but it remained for MIO-NA to cure me entirely. Before I had used three boxes, my appetite and digestive organs became all right. It is a wonderful remedy."
MIO-NA stomach tablets are small and easy to swallow. They stop the most painful stomach distress in five minutes. They drive out sourness and gas and make the stomach clean and sweet.
They are sold under a positive guarantee to cure any case of indigestion, or money back.
They put vigor and vitality into people run down by indigestion. Sold by all druggists everywhere at 50 cents a large box.

Who Was There That You Knew?
If the shadowy ranks of those who marched to defeat or death or victory fifty years ago in the mighty conflict that convulsed this great nation, is there father or grandfather or uncle of yours? Would you like to see a photograph of him in that long ago day of his youth—a photograph that he never knew was taken? Perhaps we can show you one; and in any case, we can tell you a story, stranger than any detective fiction of 3,500 priceless photographs that were lost and are found again.
3,500 Long Buried Photographs of the Civil War 12 of These FREE
For the Cost of Mailing
In order to give you some idea of the greatness of this work we will send you 12 superb reproductions of the photographs free of charge in a handsome portfolio. These photographs are very expensive and valuable, but you send only 10 cents to cover the cost of mailing. They are not only interesting from a historic standpoint, but, framed, make a splendid addition to your library walls.
At the same time we will tell you how the Review of Reviews can offer this $100,000 collection of 3,500 photographs at the price the United States Government paid for three of the pictures.

A CARDINAL'S SALT CUP.
Monumental Work of Art Designed by Benvenuto Cellini.
At the same time that the cardinal gave me some other commissions to execute he employed me to make a model of a saltcellar, but desired it should be in a different taste from the common ones. * * * I designed an oval almost two-third of a cubit in size, and upon this oval as the sea appears to embrace the earth I made two figures about a hand high in a sitting posture, with the legs of one within those of the other, as some long branches of the sea are seen to enter the land. And in the hand of the male figure, representing the ocean, I put a ship, designed with great care, in which was deposited a great quantity of salt. Under this I represented four sea horses, and in the right hand of the ocean I put his trident. The earth I represented by the female figure, the most elegant and beautiful I could form an idea of, leaning with one hand against a grand and magnificent temple. This was to hold the pepper. In the other hand I put a cornucopia adorned with all the embellishments I could think of.
To complete this idea in that part which appeared to be earth I represented all the most beautiful animals which so small a space was capable of containing. In the remainder of the oval I placed several grand and noble ornaments.—From Benvenuto Cellini's Autobiography.

NOT A TRAMP.
The Tag That Rider Haggard Put on a Literary Hobo.
Rider Haggard was on one occasion traveling across the United States as the guest of John Hays Hammond in Hammond's private car.
"What I want to see," said Haggard, "is the real tramp. I haven't seen one since I reached this country.
I can't believe you have as many as has been stated to be the case." Harris Hammond, the eldest son of John Hays, promised:
"I'll show you one at the next stop." He had seen one riding on the trucks under the car, and at the next station he went down and called the hobo out.
When the tramp entered the car he was covered with cinders and dust and looked like something from the lower regions.
Hammond shook hands with him and introduced him, saying:
"This is Mr. Rider Haggard."
"Rider Haggard!" exclaimed the hobo. "Why, I've read all of your books and loved every one of them!" Then he sat down and discussed literature with Haggard for half an hour. At the end of the talk Harris took him back, let him get some of the dust and cinders off and handed him a good cigar.
"That fellow's not a tramp," said Haggard. "He's a gentleman in distress."—Popular Magazine.

The Virtue of Traveling.
There are two great fallacies based on ancient and rusty saws it were a noble deed to demolish. One is that traveling is a form of wrongdoing, founded belike on the stupid saying that a rolling stone gathers no moss.
A pertinent reply would be that a mossy stone is never highly polished and that a stone is not a proper place for moss, anyway. The other underlying caution is that one ought to see ones own new country before one sees the wealth of the old countries. Unless on business bent, there is no earthly reason why one who can afford to travel should not begin at once with the richest and most beautiful countries, with Italy and Greece.
Life is short and uncertain; one cannot tell what may happen to deprive one of sight and health and means day after tomorrow, therefore it is well to see and enjoy the best while one can.
—Happer's Bazar.

Deadly Pulque.
In spite of her long years of independence Mexico has not solved the drink problem. The national drink of the poorer classes is pulque (pronounced "pookay"), the fermented of-spring of a plant resembling the aloe.
It tastes like stale buttermilk dashed with a strong dose of stagnant water and must be drunk within twenty-four hours of fermentation. Its action is instant and powerful, and its speedy results are softening of the brain, paralysis of the nerves and death. So deadly are its effects that no employer of labor will employ a peon from the pulque making districts until he has tried everywhere else.—Chicago News.

Expecting Too Much.
It was a cold, raw day, but the Nev-erswets and the Fearnoughts were playing a game of ball on the prairie just the same.
The pitcher for the Neverswets, his fingers half frozen, failed dismally in getting the balls over the plate.
"Aw," said the captain, "I ought yo wuz one o' dese cold weather pitchers!"
"I am," said the slab artist, blowing on his numbend digits to warm them, "but I ain't a ice pitcher, blame ye!"— Chicago Tribune.

Anticipating.
"My wife and myself had another foolish quarrel."
"About what?"
"About where we would go if we had money enough to travel."—Washington Herald.

BRUISED FINGER NAILS.
A Simple Remedy That Keeps Them
From Turning Black.
A young woman who was going to a debutante dinner the next evening bruised three of the finger nails of her right hand badly by catching them in a door. Visions of an unsightly hand, possibly one in a sling, drove her to the telephone to get in touch with her physician.
His advice was: "Get yourself a comfortable chair and an interesting book, set yourself by a stationary washstand in such a way that the fingers can be held upright under the faucet, then turn on the cold water and let it run over the bruised fingers for at least three-quarters of an hour, preferably longer.
"If the water gets too cold or chills you during that time turn it off for a few minutes, but never once let the hand get out of the upright position so the blood can run into the bruised finger and blacken."
The maiden's hand was unmarred for her dinner, and she was so delighted with the remedy she told it for the benefit of the guests, one at least of whom has tried this cure repeatedly since, being inclined to awkwardness and badly bruised fingers.
No matter how bad the hurt, unless the finger is mashed the throbbing will not be followed with weeks of blackened nails.—Exchange.

VICE PRESIDENT KING.
Took the Oath of Office Abroad, but Did Not Live to Serve.
William Rufus King, born April 6, 1786, died April 18, 1853, was a vice president of the United States who never served in that capacity and one who took the oath of office on foreign soil, something which can be said of no other executive officer who has ever been elected by the people of this country. King was an invalid, but his friends urged him to take second place on the ticket with Pierce in 1852.
Both were elected, but Mr. King's health failed so rapidly that he was forced to go to Cuba some two months before inauguration day. Not having returned to the United States by March 4, congress passed a special act authorizing the United States consul at Matanzas, Cuba, to swear him in as vice president at about the hour when Pierce was taking the oath of office at Washington.
This arrangement was carried out to a dot, and on the day appointed, at a plantation on one of the highest hills in the vicinity of Matanzas, Mr. King was made vice president of the United States amid the solemn "Vaya vol con Dios" (God will be with you) of the creoles who had assembled to witness the unique spectacle. Vice President King returned to his home at Cahaya, Ala., arriving at that place April 17, 1853, and died the following day.

Wedding Fees in New York.
Large wedding fees are rare—even in New York. Fees of $50 and $100 are considered large. The $1,000 fee when it makes its appearance usually goes to the rector of a wealthy congregation who enjoys a salary of $10,000 or $12,000 a year. Larger fees are sometimes given. The man of wealth, actuated by a high regard for his pastor and friend, occasionally gives his check for $2,000 or $3,000 under the guise of a wedding fee. He wishes to help the minister and knows the money would not be accepted under any other circumstances. Such gifts, it is needless to say, are extremely rare. New York has a few clergymen whose marriage fees average $1,200 a year. The pastor of a large Presbyterian church on Broadway has estimated that his fees amount annually to $1,000. These are topnotch figures.—Christian Herald.

Ich Dien or Eich Dyn.
Which is accurate as the motto of the Prince of Wales—Ich Dien or Eich Dyn? The one is German and the other Welsh. The one means "I serve," the other "Behold the man" or "Behold your man."
"Ich Dien" was the motto of John king of Bohemia, whom the Black Prince slew at Crecy. "Eich Dyn" are the words supposed to have been used by Edward I. when presenting his infant son to the Welsh assembly at Carnarvon.
Welsh tradition has adhered naturally to the Welsh form. The other has been more popularly accepted.—London Lady's Pictorial.

A Queer Ceremony.
A queer ceremony is performed every year on the 8th day of September in the Valle Maggio, Italy. The region abounds in vipers. The celebrants form into a weird procession, each person—man, woman and child—carrying a huge figure of a snake stuffed with cotton. As they pass along they weep and lament, believing that by the expiatory ceremony they will render themselves proof against snake bites during the grape gathering.

Wretched Man.
Algy—By Jove! Miss Clara, how sweet you look in white! Do you know when I saw you coming across the lawn you looked so nice I thought it was Miss Julia.—Happer's Bazar.

Generous.
"Some men say," remarked the beautiful heiress, "that I have no heart."
"Oh, that doesn't matter!" replied the poor but willing youth. "I'll give you mine."

Reflect upon your present blessings, of which every man has many, not upon your past misfortunes, of which all men have some.

Wherever Parisian Sage is Known it Has The Call.
Parisian Sage, that most efficient of all hair restorers, is a very delicious and refreshing hair dressing.
Besides possessing these qualities it will positively make any woman's hair soft, luxuriant and attractive.
Coward & Wooten sells it for 50-cents a large bottle and will return your money if it does not cure dandruff, falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks.
"I had given up hopes of ever being cured of dandruff, when I purchased a bottle of Parisian Sage. It has entirely removed the dandruff and has started a growth of new hair and all this after having been troubled 15 years. I cheerfully recommend Parisian Sage."—Mrs. Eliza-

A Tribute to The Press.
The Hon. Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, in his retiring address as mayor of that splendid southern-city, paid a noteworthy and most significant tribute to the power and energy of the press. Among the good things he said I believe that publicity in all departments of government, whether national, state or municipal, is the best safeguard of the people, and a watchful, loyal, fearless press is one of the best assets of any community.
Graft and wrong-doing can not exist and will not grow under the sunlight of pitiless publicity, and I hope in the future our daily press may continue to earn the appreciation of our people which they now richly deserve.

His Latest Fancy.
She could not restrain her curiosity when she saw that the envelope was unsealed and forthwith extracted the contents. A great frown spoiled her pretty face as she read the invoice:
"To one new bonnet, gray, lined with gold, to suit Ariel, $5.00." A mist swam before her eyes. She had never in her life been able to pay 5 guineas for a bonnet. And who was Ariel? The name sounded like a music hall—and—oh, oh!
But just as she was settling down into a swoon the explanation flashed across her, and she laughed the laugh of the joyous as she remembered that her husband's motorcar sported a "bonnet."—London Merrythought.

HE LED THE CHARGE.

And Then the General Changed His Mind About the Colonel.

The French General Gallifet was a famous cavalry leader, a good liver, a fine soldier and a man of impetuosity, daring and bravery. It is said that Gallifet's pluck was in great measure owing to his extraordinary powers of digestion, he once undertaking and accomplishing the feat of eating a wine glass. In a biography of General Gal-lifet is the following story:

"During some maneuvers he was watching a charge of cavalry under his orders. Suddenly the leading squadron stopped dead. Gallifet roared, 'Send me the colonel!' And the colonel galloped up.

"Now, colonel, what's wrong?"
"We came upon a road at the bottom of an embankment which was too steep to ride down, sir."

"Nonsense, sir! You're not fit for your job. I will lead the charge. You go to the tail of the squadron."

"Gallifet took the command, galloped to the road and roared down the embankment with his horse. Lying on his back with a sprained muscle in his leg, he shouted to his men to stop, adding:

"Send me the colonel!"
"The colonel came up from the tail of the squadron.

"Colonel, you were right. I am a d—d fool! You may take the command of your regiment again."

FIRST TYPEWRITER.

It Was a Clumsy Machine and Practically Useless.

Most persons will be surprised to learn that the typewriting machine is not, as they imagine, a distinctly modern invention. So long ago as 1714 a patent was taken out in England by Henry Mill for "a machine for impressing letters singly and progressivly as in writing, whereby all writings may be engrossed in paper so exact as not to be distinguished from print."

His machine was, however, a clumsy one and practically useless. It was not until over a century later (1829) that anything more in this line was attempted. Then the first American typewriter, called a "typographer," was patented by W. A. Burt.

In 1823 a machine was produced in France having a separate key lever for each letter, and between the years 1840 and 1860 Sir Charles Wheatstone invented several machines which are now preserved in the South Kensington museum, London.

In 1873 C. L. Sholes, an American, after five or six years' work, succeeded in producing a machine sufficiently perfect to warrant extensive manufacture. He interested a firm of gun manufacturers in it, and in 1874 the first model of the modern typewriter was put upon the market.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Every Minute Counts.

A business man from a small southern town was visiting New York. A friend asked him what was the most impressive thing he had seen so far—the high buildings, the subway, the ocean liners or what.

"None of them," was the prompt reply. "The thing that impressed me most was the rush in everything. I was in an office one day, and a young woman, evidently a new hand, was opening the mail. There must have been several hundred letters. She cut one open, took out the letter and laid it in its proper basket.

"Here, that will never do," said the boss. "Every time you lay down that paper cutter and take it up again you are wasting time. Cut them all open first and then take them out. You will save at least ten minutes that way every day."—New York Sun.

A Different Idea.

A well known man had lectured upon color blindness, and at the conclusion of his remarks a collier, who had evidently not grasped his explanations, asked him if he would explain.

"Certainly," said the professor.
"What is this color blindness, then?"
"Well," replied the learned gentleman, holding up a piece of red colored glass, "supposing that when you look at this you imagine it is green. That would be an instance."

"That's color blindness, do you say?" replied the man, with a look of contempt. "I should call it blessed ignerance!"—London Mail.

Saving Himself.

A little boy was asked by his mother to bring in some wood. Five minutes later his mother, looking out and seeing him sitting in the yard, asked why he did not fetch the wood.

"Oh, I am tired," he replied, "and if I use all my strength now, when I am a boy, what will I do when I'm a man?"—Omaha World Herald.

Courtesy to Strangers.

If a man be gracious and courteous to strangers it shows he is a citizen of the world and that his heart is not island cut off from other lands, but a continent that joins to them.—Bacon.

Hope.

"Hope," said William Dean Howells,
"is not really an angel in a diaphanous robe of white, but only the wisp of hay held before a donkey's nose to make him go."

IDOLATRY IN MEXICO.

The Natives Still Sacrifice Animals to Their Favorite Gods.

It may not be as apparent, but as a matter of fact idolatry has a strong hold on the natives of the Mexican Yot lands as when Cortes and his soldiers marched through them on their way to Honduras 400 years ago.

In the state of Oaxaca, in which is Teluantepec, there is near every village some secluded spot—be it a cave, the top of a mountain or a forest encircled pool—whither the people clandestinely repair in order to make sacrifices to their gods. The favorite sacrifice is a goat, a turkey or other fowl, the head of which is cut off and buried, while the soil and the other offerings, consisting of dishes of food and a gourd filled with an intoxicating drink, are sprinkled with the blood. The place where these sacrifices are made determines their effect. If a Teluana bears a grudge against a neighbor he will bury the head of a chicken or the bones of a dog at dead of night outside of his victim's house, though, on the other hand, if the ceremony is performed within it can bring nothing but good luck.

The natives of the Isthmus firmly believe that every child at birth becomes intimately connected with some beast of the jungle, and the grownup man will never hurt that particular kind of animal. If the animal dies, the child dies too. The question is to determine just what kind of an animal it is, and in order to reassure himself the father sprinkles ashes or dust on the ground outside the house at the child's birth and watches for a spoor.—Everybody's Magazine.

TORRICELLI'S VACUUM.

Experiment That Led to the Invention of the Barometer.

The barometer was invented by Torricelli, a pupil of Galilei, in 1643. In attempting to pump water from a very deep well near Florence he found that in spite of all his efforts the liquid would not rise higher in the pump stock than thirty-two feet. This set the young scientist to thinking, and as he could not account for the phenomenon in any other way he was not slow in attributing it to atmospheric pressure. He argued that water would rise in a vacuum only to such a height as would render the downward pressure or weight of the column of water just equal to the atmospheric pressure and, further, that should a heavier fluid be used the height of the column could be much reduced. To prove this he selected a glass tube four feet long and after sealing one end filled it with mercury and then inverted it in a basin containing a quantity of the same peculiar liquid. The column in the tube quickly fell to a height of nearly thirty inches above the mercury in the basin, leaving in the top of the tube a vacuum which is the most perfect that has ever been obtained, and which is to this day called the Torricelli vacuum in honor of its discoverer. The name of the instrument means "air measure," and its fundamental principles cannot be better illustrated than by the above described experiment.

Good Hunting.

It was at St. Andrews, in Scotland, the home of golf, where the links stretch away over the moors by the sea, and dear, quiet Aunt Mary had gone up from London to visit a golfing family of nephews and nieces. At tea the first afternoon some one managed to stop talking golf long enough to ask, "Well, Aunt Mary, and how do you spend the morning?"

"Oh, I enjoyed myself immensely, my dear. I went for a walk on the moor."

"A good many people seemed to be about, and some of them called out to me in a most eccentric manner; but I didn't take any notice of them. And, oh, my dear, I found such a number of curious little round things! I brought them home to ask you what they are."

Hereupon Aunt Mary opened her workbag and produced twenty-four golf balls.

TAX NOTICE.

A Dramatic Situation.

Beau Brummel was once sitting at a table with one Bligh, who was known to be insane. The Beau, having lost a considerable stake, affected, in his farcical way, a very tragic air and cried out, "Waiter, bring me a flat candlestick and a pistol," upon which Bligh, who was sitting opposite to him, calmly produced two loaded pistols from his coat pocket, which he placed on the table, and said, "Mr.
Brummel, if you are really desirous to put a period to your existence I am extremely happy to offer you the means without troubling the waiter." The effect upon those present may be easily imagined at finding themselves in the company of a known madman who had loaded weapons about him.

Surveying Land.

The art of land surveying owes its origin to the fact that the Egyptians were unable to keep permanent monuments on land which was overflowed every year by the Nile. Under such circumstances it became necessary to have some means of reidentifying the various pieces of land. The instruments and mathematical methods of astronomy, with suitable modifications, were used by the Egyptians for land surveying.

An Unsatisfactory Method.

"Been walking the floor because of your debts, eh?" said the sympathetic friend.

"Yes," replied the improvident person.

"Any results?"
"Not worth mentioning. I walked till I wore out the carpet and had to go further in debt for a new one."

"Whuppity Scourie."

The ancient custom at Lanark, Scotland, of "Whuppity Scourie," the origin and meaning of which are lost, is celebrated annually and watched by a crowd of grownups. The town bell is rung nightly at 6 o'clock from March to September and then lies dumb for six months. On the first night of the ringing all the young folk congregate at the cross, and after parading three times round the parish church the Lanark lads meet the New Lanark boys in a free fight, in which the only legiti-mate weapons are their caps tied at the end of pieces of string.
