WHAT THE LAW MAKERS ARE DOING

PROCEEDINGS OF THE N. C. GENERAL ASSEMBLY

A BILL TO REDUCE STATE BONDS

Offered in the Senate—House Has Lively Debate Over Insurance Investigation Resolution—Constitutional Convention Bill Gets Favorable Report from Committee—Too Many Bills Appointing Justice. Senate—Thursday

The senate met at 11 o'clock and adjourned at 12:10, but in this time had up some of the most important matters that will come during the session. The bills of general interest were:

Graham of Orange: To provide for the payment of all appropriations during the session and for the redemption of bonds falling due January 1, 1913. This bill authorizes the state treasurer, upon the approval of the council of state, to borrow whatever money is sufficient to cover the difference between the amount appropriated and the revenue received, or if loans cannot be made he is authorized to issue 40-year 4 per cent. bonds, not to exceed $1,000,000.

Lincoln of Wayne: To amend the law relative to escapes.

Reinhardt of Lincoln: To conserve the cattle supply of the state.

Parham of Wayne: Relative to the speed of automobiles and penalty for violation.

Cobb of Roberson: Changing the name of the Indians known as Croatan to Cherokee and providing for separate apartments for the insane in the asylum at Raleigh.

Senator Graham's bill establishing standard time in the state passed the senate and was ordered sent to the house.

House—Thursday

The house was convened by a debate which arose over Mr. Koonce's joint resolution asking the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the conduct of insurance companies in the state, which was reported from the judiciary committee No. 1 with a recommendation that it be sent to the committee on propositions and grievances, of which Mr. Koonce, the author of the resolution, is chairman. Objection was made to the reference, members insisting that the resolution should go to the committee on insurance. In urging reference to his committee Mr. Koonce stiffed up a hornets nest by insinuating that the committee on insurance would be too biased to give the measure proper consideration, and declared that a powerful lobby is already working to defeat the proposed investigation. Immediately half a dozen members clamored for recognition, to reply to Mr. Koonce's statement. It developed that the committee on insurance has not yet been appointed, but this did not prevent the members from defending the speaker's probable choice, for this committee. On a rising vote the resolution was referred to Mr. Koonce's committee on propositions and grievances.

The committee on constitutional amendments reported favorably Mr. Stubb's bill providing for a constitutional convention to be called after an election to be held in 1912. The measure was set as the special order for Wednesday, January 25.

A protest was registered by Mr. Doughton of Alleghany and Mr. Taylor of Brunswick, against the flood of bills appointing justices of the peace which were being offered. Mr. Taylor pointed out that these appointments could all be taken care of in the omnibus bill and that these individual bills only lumbered up the calendar and caused the state additional expense.

Among the new bills introduced were:

Carr of Duplin: To regulate passenger rates in state; also to regulate Confederate pensions.

Taylor of Vance: To safeguard state agricultural buildings.

McArthur of Roberson: Regulate practice of veterinary surgery in state.

Choir Practice.

The choir of the Christian church will meet tonight for practice at the home of Mrs. T. E. Hooker, at 7 o'clock.

THE SCHENCK TRIAL.

The Strain is Telling on The Defendant.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Wheeling, W. Va., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Schenck was pale and agitated when she came into court today. The strain is evidently telling on her. There was again a big crowd in expectation of sensational evidence from the nurse, Juliette Kline. Dr. Burdott, a dentist, was the first witness today. He said Schenck complained of his teeth. He examined them and found nothing wrong with them. He also examined Schenck's gums by drawing blood and came to the conclusion that Schenck was suffering from some drug.

STANDARD OIL CO. IN COURT.

Attorney Denies That It Controls Other Companies.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Jan. 13.—The Standard Oil Company today began the second day's battle for existence before the United States Supreme court. Attorney Milbourn, for the Standard Oil Company, concluded his argument in behalf of the alleged trust. He gave an elaborate history of the establishment of oil pipe line system. He said the Standard Oil Company owns their own pipe lines and handled no other oils; that there were a number of independent lines and he denied the charge that the Standard had acquired any of them.

COTTON EXPORTS $530,000,000.

Exceeds by $60,000,000 the Highest Former Record.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, Jan. 13.—Cotton exports from the United States in 1910 aggregate $530,000,000. In value this exceeds by $60,000,000 the highest record heretofore made, according to the report issued today by the department of agriculture. The average export price was 14 1/2c, against 10 cents in 1908. The high record year for quantity was 1910, and the export price is the highest since 1874.

'GOES TO PRISON.

Girl Wife Gets Long Sentence For Manslaughter.

By Wire to The Reflector.
White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Rose Pecchiani, a 17-year-old girl, convicted of manslaughter for killing her husband, was today sentenced by Supreme court Justice Tompkins to prison for not less than seven years and six months and not more than eleven years and six months. The girl hugged and kissed her baby while being sentenced and refused to allow the child to be taken from her.

FATAL RAILROAD CRASH.

Two Trains in Rear End Collision Kill Four.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Batavia, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Four persons were killed and nearly a score injured in a rear end collision on the New York Central here this morning. One train was standing on the siding when the other crashed into it. After the crash the cars caught on fire. Three cars were completely telescoped and an engine dented. Fire hindered the rescuers in their work.

Murdered Boy Identified.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Albany, N. Y., Jan. 13.—The 5-year-old boy slain with poison and left on the turnpike road in a swamp, was today identified by relatives as George Melburn, of Schenectady. State wide search was immediately begun for the boy's mother.

Burglars Foiled.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 13.—Three yeggmen were foiled in an attempt to burglarize the post office at Utica today. The men were surprised by officers. One of them was shot but all escaped.

Frequently a thief steals such a small sum that he is sent to jail.

ENTERTAINED VETERANS.

Senator Cotten and Representative Mooring Among the Guests.

Raleigh, Jan. 12.—A happy event for the Confederate veterans who are members of the general assembly was an elegant dinner given in their honor Tuesday evening by Col. A. B. Andrews at his hospitable home. The evening was one of unalloyed enjoyment for Colonel Andrews's guests, who included Senators John F. Rutherford, of Lincoln; Julian S. Carr, of Durham; D. A. McDonald, of Moore; A. H. Boyden, of Rowan; D. N. Bickett, of Stanley; Robert R. Cotten, of Pitt; John W. Graham, of Orange and Representatives Ashley Horne, of Johnson; George W. Rabb, of Catawba; R. H. Battle, of Wake; Guilford M. Mooring, of Pitt. During the evening the veterans entered enthusiastically into an informal discussion of ways and means to give the best of care to the inmates of the Soldier's home.

Woodland Items.

Woodland, N. C., Jan. 13.—We are having a struggle with the measles in our neighborhood at present.

Mrs. W. L. Nobles, of Ayden, spent a part of last week with her parents.

Mr. Lonnie Baker, of Greenville, spent Sunday at Mr. A. W. Barber's.

Mrs. Puss Barber is spending a while with her son, Mr. A. W. Barber.

Mr. J. P. Woodard, of Greenville, E. C. T. T. S., came out Saturday to fill his appointment at Piney Grove Sunday.

Hog killings are about over around here for this season.

Mr. Roy Sutton, who had measles sometime ago, took cold on it which developed into typhoid pneumonia. He is very low. We hope he will recover.

We are having fine weather for working folks like myself, but yet it don't make us work.

Miss Mary Smith, of Ayden, spent the latter part of last week with relatives.

Those Mileage Books.

A great deal more fuss is being made over the mileage book question than it deserves. It is no very great hardship for the holder of a mileage book to stand at the ticket window and await his turn, like other folks. Some travelers demand special privileges anyhow. We have seen a few who acted as if they owned the train. Of course the railroads ought to furnish proper facilities and be ready to wait on people who present their books. We have observed a few agents who are so slow that Job would lose his patience if he had to deal with them, but all these things can be adjusted without the legislature taking the bit in its teeth and compelling the railroads to change their methods. Mr. Finley, who always writes well, presents a particularly strong argument in favor of the present plan, and gives reasons for its adoption that ought to satisfy a reasonable man. When you come to think of it, the railroads do not inconvenience the traveling public just for the fun of the thing. They must have good reasons for adopting a plan that they know will evoke criticism, and Mr. Finley gives his reason which appears to this writer as being entirely reasonable. It may be said that we have no mileage book, which is true, but if we did have we hope that we could still see the force of a statement that bears the truth on its face. Charity and Children.

Teachers' Association Tomorrow.

The County Teachers' Association will meet in the chapel of the Greenville graded school tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

A good program has been prepared, and we hope all the teachers will be able to attend. Three of the topics to be discussed tomorrow are of unusual importance to the welfare of schools; no teacher who can attend should fail to do so.

H. B. SMITH, President.

New Grocery Business.

Mr. J. L. Carper, who recently moved back to Greenville from Williamston, where he lived last year, has purchased the Tunstall stock and will carry on business at the same stand on Dickinson avenue. He is putting in a nice line of groceries and will cater to the best trade.

Iredell County Man Injured by Stepping Off Moving Train—School Superintendents Will Meet in Raleigh January 26-28—High Point Woman's Appendix on Right Side.

Wadesboro, Jan. 12.—A very sad accident occurred yesterday south of here when Walter Little, the seven year old son of Samuel Little, shot and killed his three year old brother, Daniel. The boys were playing alone in the house while the mother was out in the field. Walter went to the dresser and taking out his father's pistol, shot the baby brother. The ball went through the body of the child and death was instantaneous. Walter said he did not know the gun would shoot.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

Red Men meet tonight.

Today was almost like spring. The old buildings formerly used as a gin, on the corner of Contanch and Fifth streets, are being torn down.

Tomorrow is the day for the meeting of the teachers association. Business will come your way if you try to persuade it to do so. The best persuader is advertising.

This pretty weather is likely to change to a blizzard on short notice.

We hope the present warm weather will not cause any farmers to lose their meat.

Increase Should be Given

The bill calling for an increase of salary for the governor of North Carolina should pass. It cannot be charged as a partisan measure, because an advance in salary could not apply to the present incumbent. It could only become effective with the next governor, and whether that chief executive would be a Democrat or Republican would be for the people to say, and they would say, too, before the increase was placed in effect. The present salary of $4,000 per annum is too small for the great State of North Carolina to give its governor. Both parties should want to raise the pay.—Wilmington Dispatch.

The Death Rate.

The death rate of the United States is slowly but steadily decreasing. For the last year it is estimated at 15 to the 1,000. The highest in cities of over 100,000 population, is that of New Orleans, 20.2; the lowest, that of St. Paul, Minn., 11.4. Statistics for the rural districts are as yet little more than estimates.—Raleigh Progressive Farmer and Gazette.

Mr. J. R. McLawhorn Dead.

A telephone message from Ayden this morning announces the death of Mr. J. R. McLawhorn, which occurred Thursday night about 11 o'clock. He had been in bad health for some time with what was supposed to have been pellagra. He was a member of the Christian church at Roundtree's, and also a Mason. The funeral will take place tomorrow with Masonic honors. Mr. McLawhorn was a good citizen and neighbor, and well thought of by all.

Trade Report.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 13.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say for Richmond and vicinity: The usual after holiday dullness prevails in trade circles, wholesale houses are preparing samples and some of them have their travelers out. A feeling of optimism is apparent in most lines, dealers anticipating a greater business during this year than was done in 1910. Produce and fruits are plentiful and prices are slightly lower. Retail trade is quiet. Collections are fair.

Young Men Wanted

Nearly every business man in Rich Square (and in most every other town) has been watching the boys and young men of their acquaintance for several months with a view to employing one or more at good wages for this year. The young men who keep bad company, smoke cigarettes and get drunk are shunned, not wanted to serve in responsible places. We happen to know that several good business men have been puzzled about whom to employ. They want steady young men, and these are in demand.—Rich Square Times.

Services Sunday.

There will be services at the Greenville Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, and at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Rev. N. McShields, of Greensboro, will conduct both services.

Mr. Shields is a strong preacher, and the pulpit committee is pleased to announce his coming.

He is Always Right.

Hon. John H. Small was the only congressman from North Carolina who voted right the other day on the Cannon matter. He voted as he voted in the last congress, and was consistent. The Democrats who changed made a big mistake.—Raleigh News and Observer.

A CIRCUIT RIDER'S ESTATE.

Major Part of It Invested in "Heavenly Securities," Says His Wife.

Mrs. Cora Harries, author of "The Circuit Rider's Wife," has filed with W. F. Hunt, clerk of the county court, an inventory of her late husband's estate that is probably unique in court records, says a Nashville dispatch. Her husband, the Rev. Lundy H. Harris, who was commonly supposed to be the real "Circuit Rider" of the story killed himself by taking morphine at Pine Lodge, near Cartersville, Ga., on September 18. The county court clerk asked for an inventory of his estate, and Mrs. Harries has written a letter stating that the major part of it was "invested in Heavenly securities, the value of which have been vigorously declared in this world and highly taxed by the various churches, but never realized." She writes to Mr. Hunt:

"I find it impossible to give you a complete and satisfactory inventory of the estate of Lundy Harris. The part that I gave is so small that it is insignificant and misleading. At the time of his death he had $235 in his purse, $116 in the Union Bank and Trust Company of this city (Nashville), about four hundred books and the coffin in which he was buried, which cost about $85.

"The major part of this estate was invested in Heavenly securities, the values of which have been vigorously declared in this world and highly taxed by the various churches, but never realized. He invested every year not less (usually more) than $1,200 in charity, so secretly, so inoffensively and so honestly that he was never suspected of being a philanthropist and never praised for his generosity. He pensioned an outcast woman in Baron county and an old soldier in Nashville. He sent two little negro boys to school and supported for three years a family of five who could not support themselves.

"He contributed anonymously to every charity in Nashville; every old man interested in a 'benevolent object' received his aid; every child he knew exacted and received penny tolls from his tenderness. He supported the heart of every man who confined in him with encouragement and affection. He literally did forgive his enemies, and suffered martyrdom on September 18, 1910, after enduring three years of persecution without complaint. He was ever recognized as one of the largest bondholders in Heaven. You can see how large his estate was and how difficult it would be to compute its value as to furnish you the inventory you require for record on your books.—Charleston News and Courier.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 1911.

It is rare that the colonel gets mentioned in the head lines these days.

Congress might devote its time to a much better purpose than wasting it on Peary.

Some of them are taking consolation by saying the census figures are wrong.

Talk about poultry shows, most any town can have one when the hats come out in force.

Wonder if the year 1911 will give Greenville an opera house. We have not yet heard any noise that sounds like it.

Today brings a combination that should satisfy the most superstitious.
Friday, 13th, and full moon. Maybe the moon will keep off bad luck.

New York wants to lay a fine of $50 on every woman who lets a hat pin stick out more than two inches from the crown of her hat.

Before taking a whack at the other fellow, see if there is not something in yourself that would make a good target for a brick.

A letter that had been on the way

You must want to sneeze at one end of the line and take a dip at the other.

Rev. George Cates, who was put off a Southern railroad train near Asheville because he failed to procure a ticket, has entered suit for $100,000.
His feelings must have been wounded awfully bad to want so much.

The man who starts out to help himself is most likely to get help along the way from others. If he sits down and waits for things to come his way, they do not bother about coming. The same is true of a town. If a town is composed of active, hustling citizens who are not afraid to invest their own money, it is likely to attract others to come in and invest with them. But the town that sits still and waits for outsiders to come in and build it up, will not get built. Capital does not go around looking for a dead town.

"Pernicious" Activity.

"A storm of applause swept over the legislature," so dispatches state, when Representative Ewart introduced a resolution thanking Governor Pothier, of Rhode Island, for refusing to accept the gift of North Carolina repudiated bonds offered by a New York syndicate of bond speculators.

Representative Ewart is one of the staunchest Republicans of the State.
He is the recognized leader of the minority in the legislature. He is one of those sincere gentlemen—and there are hundreds in the Republican party—who will not sanction political perfidy no matter who may be the guilty party.

His resolution embodied a heroic denunciation of Marion Butler, and his conduct in harassing the State in the effort to collect repudiated North Carolina paper was pronounced "pernicious and perfidious." The house applauded the verdict—Republican members and Democratic members joining alike in the open denunciation of an unscrupulous political trickster's work.

Butlerism did more, perhaps, to aid in the overwhelming defeat of the Republican party in the recent election than anything else. True there were other issues of signal importance—issues of such moment as to play a leading role in the general defeat of Republicanism the country over—such as the tariff question. But the one local issue which outshone all others was Marion Butler. Although the State chairman permitted him to occupy the center of the State, and although the leading party paper supported him, after having reviled him in seven tongues prior to the selection of Morehead, still this loyalty on the part of a few leaders was not sufficient to turn the anti-Butler tide the State over, and many honest Republicans joined hands with their Democratic fellow-countrymen and helped to administer an eternal quietus to the mock patriot who had once bartered a high trust accorded him by his native State.

Thus it comes to pass a Republican is the first to enter the halls of our legislative assembly with a resolution publicly denouncing the political traitor whom the people publicly interred in November.

Naturally the action of Judge Ewart was applauded.

And thus endeth the career of Marion Butler—the greatest politician in the galaxy today—a nonentity whose very existence is bemoaned by leading members of the party which he just now espoused.

The resolution introduced in the house finds hearty response in the hearts of every true North Carolinian, whether he style himself Republican or Democrat.—Charlotte News.

Worth Trying.

A Chicago woman certainly has a kick coming. She does not like the attentions of her husband's stenographer, and complainingly, says:
"She looks at him longingly, lovingly, sweetly, and invitingly." She might, if she is a sensible woman, use the same tactics herself and cut the stenographer out. She is evidently not a quick-witted woman.— Durham Sun.

Will Hit Near Beer.

The near beer business is probably nearing the end of its days.
From present indications it would seem that the legislators are only waiting to get a whack at it and that when they do get a chance they will hit it hard. And it deserves to be hit hard. There is absolutely no excuse for its existence and many reasons why it should be put out of business.—Raleigh Times.

ARE YOU DEAF?

Catarrh is Probably the Cause. Get Rid of the Cause.

If you have catarrh and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once.

It's a pretty sure sign that catarrh is spreading and is making its way through the Eustachian tubes that lead from the nose to the ears.

When catarrh gets to the ears partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go and get a HYOMEI outfit and drive out catarrh.

To cure catarrh HYOMEI should be breathed through a pocket inhaler for a few minutes, four or five times a day. Just pour a few drops into the hard rubber inhaler and breathe it.

It kills the germs; soothes the irritation; heals the inflammation; stops sawking, spitting and snuffling.

HYOMEI keeps the throat free from mucus and prevents crusts in nose.

The complete HYOMEI outfit which includes the little indestructible hard rubber inhaler, a bottle of HYOMEI and simple instructions for use, cost $1.00. Separate bottle of HYOMEI costs 50 cents at druggists everywhere, or at Coward & Wooten's, on the money back plan.

BOARDING IN A CUBAN HOME

You Must Not Mention Money, but You Pay All the Same.

In Cuba, where money is not talked of, where no one is valued according to his money, the need of it is nevertheless the sword hanging over every home. Money—the lack of it is evident everywhere, but the word is never mentioned. writes Kate Jordan in the New Idea Woman's Magazine.

"Be sure you do not speak of money," the Cuban friend who had introduced us had said. "From her cousin's brother-in-law I know the senora expects $15 a week for each of you. Put this in an envelope with her full name on it, which you know means not only her husband's name, but all of her own family names, which I will give you, and leave it where she will find it. It will disappear, but," said our Cuban friend proudly and sternly, "it will never be mentioned."

To eat one's three meals under the summer sky gave a holiday flavor to what becomes habit. Our table was set under a palm on one of the galleries. Our first taste of the leed oranges of Cuba was a moment to be remembered. They are peeled whole and so close that even the juicy pods are cut into a little. A fork is stuck into each orange, and, resting in a bowl of ice packed all night, they are in the morning little globes of leed liquid sweetness. They are eaten while held up on the fork, on the pulp, the skeleton of the orange being left impaled on it.

The Havana housekeeper believes in having the cook, with the gravity of a prime minister, deposit the food on the table, because to her point of view what is meant to be hot should be as hot as cayenne and what is meant to be cold of a polar iciness.

After the cook's triumphal bearing in of a fish other servants are on hand to give minor service.

AN EXPERT BOOKMAKER.

One in Havana That Puzzled a Chicago Betting Man.

"If you want to see expert bookmak-ers you should go to Havana," remarked a Chicago man. "They certainly have their business down fine.
I went to a cockfight in one of the suburbs of Havana on a Sunday.
Nearly everybody in that part of the town had turned out.

"With two friends I got seats close to the pit. I had never seen a cock-fight, and I was interested. At the edges of the pit several natives were standing, facing the audience and yelling and waving their hands. I asked one of my friends, who had been in Havana a short time, what they were doing. He said they were taking bets.
Sure enough, the spectators were shouting back at them, announcing their favorites and placing their bets.
But the bookmakers were not using even a pencil. One of them, I am sure, must have taken fifty bets.

"I wanted to get in on the game, so I decided to bet $2 on a black gamecock that looked good to me. I handed over my money, but I didn't get a ticket. I felt sure I should never again see my money even if I had picked the winner. Well, the main was fought, and my bird won. I watched the book-maker as he went among the crowd, handing money here and there. When he came to me he handed over $10. I was surprised, but he didn't notice it, as he was too busy cleaning up his slate. Finally I discovered through a spectator near by who could speak English a little that my bird had been a four to one shot.

"How that bookie ever kept all those bets in his mind is more than I can understand."—Washington Post.

A BANK ACCOUNT SEEMS to BE a MAGNET; WHEN ONCE STARTED IT DRAWS MORE.

You will help make it grow.

In 1861, a depositor in a bank in Cleveland, Ohio, had $418. Since that time he has drawn out $573, and still has $1,500 to his credit.

How do you figure that out? Why he let his money STAY IN THE BANK. It grew.

Curved Bridges of Japan.

The curved bridges of Japan are of three kinds—first, those known as spectacle bridges, with an arch in the center suggesting a pair of spectacles; second, the camel back bridges, which go up very high indeed; third, the ordinary one arch, semicircular bridges. The reason the Japanese so often have curved bridges is because until modern times they could not build them flat, and even today there is no keystone to the Japanese arches. They are not generally familiar with the keystone. A great many of two classes of bridges—the camel back and the high curved bridges—are found in the palace grounds at Peking, in China.—St.

NEW YORK AND CHICAGO MARKETS

Stocks.

New York, Jan. 13.—Persistent buying of standard railroad stocks and Steel common caused the stock market to become strong and active with practically the entire list quoting gains running from fractions to 1 point or more. Reading and Canadian Pacific were features, the last named stock moving up 1 1-8 points to 205 3-8, a new high record price for this stock. Pennsylvania was also strong and active; Steel common was exceptionally strong. Copper stocks displayed the same signs of activity.

Cotton.

New York, Jan. 13.—Good cables and over night buying orders caused cotton to open firm with prices 3 to 5 points up. Offerings became so heavy on the bulge that the list declined to closing prices. Opening: January, 14.64; March, 14.88, May, 15.06; July, 15.06.

Grain.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—There were price dips in all grain markets today. Increasing receipts were a big factor in causing an easier market. Provisions were lower and weak.
Opening: May wheat, 101 5-8; corn, 50 1-4; oats 35; pork, 19.05.

North Carolina's Example.

The drift in North Carolina is from the towns and cities to the rural districts and this is but the drift—to prosperity and happiness. It is announced by the census department at Washington that the Old North States population did not show the same tendency of drifting from rural districts to the cities during the last ten years as was the case in many other states. This qualifies the first statement, for North Carolina's population shows a steady increase during the past ten years.

Announcement by the director of the census of the population figures as enumerated in the thirteenth census of cities and towns in that state having a population in excess of 5,000, indicates that slightly over 25 per cent. of the state's total increase in population 312,477 inhabitants was contributed by these cities and towns. The rural districts furnished 229,391 or about 73 per cent. of the increase, as compared with the $3,106 increase in the cities.

North Carolina is now in the line to make some progressive strides. It is a great state and does not suffer the incubus of a centralized population, therefore every voting precinct in that Commonwealth has a chance to develop and within a few years we hope to see that North Carolina has perfected the work of distributing its population all over the state.

It has set other Southern States a fine example. We cannot overcrowd the towns and cities to the depopulation of the farms if we would prosper and expand.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A Youthful Farmer's Cotton Crop.

Master Lawrence White, son of Mr. A. White, is one of our county's most successful young farmers. Last year when most of his young neighbors were trying to out do the other in the cultivation of corn he decided to see what he could do with a small patch of cotton. His father allotted 2-1-3 acres to him for this purpose and when the yield from this patch was weighed it was found that the youngster had raised 2900 pounds of seed cotton.

Lawrence is only fifteen years of age and used but five dollars worth of fertilizers to each of his 2-1-3 acres.—Farmville Enterprise.

The winter of a man's discontent arrives when he begins to realize that it is more blessed to give than to receive the resulting bills.

CAUGHT THE COINER.

An Accident Spoiled an Ingenious Counterfeit Passing Scheme.

A case which shows the ingenuity about in passing counterfeit coin is the following: A tailor, who also was a very successful coiner, had a little daughter who was some ten years old.
She was being taught to play the violin, and twice a week she went to have a music lesson at a house about a mile distant. Once a week the innocent little thing carried besides her violin case and violin a package cunningly secreted in the false bottom of the violin case, which contained some twenty or more pieces of counterfeit coin.

The music master, a rogue who was in the know, found no difficulty in abstracting the package unnoticed by the child, and in his turn passed it on to a woman "fence," who again gave it to a male friend, who delivered it safely to the "utterer," a woman again, at a street corner, the package being this time concealed in the false bottom of a canary cage. Thus it passed through six hands, and besides the man himself only the music master knew who manufactured the coin.

The tailor was caught by an accident. His little girl let the violin case fall in the street, the bottom of the case was smashed, and all the coins, done up in tissue paper, fell into the street. The child, much mystified, opened one of the little packages, and the glitter caught a policeman's eye.
This mishap led to the instant arrest of the tailor, who confessed, hoping for a light sentence, a hope which was not realized. Among the coiner's stock in trade were discovered two works on chemistry, fourteen molds, two batteries, plaster of paris, two ladles, a melting pot, crucibles and a quantity of chemicals.—London Telegraph.

HENTY AS AN INVENTOR.

The Author's Reversible Boat That Was a Halfway Success.

George Henty, the author of boys' stories, is described in "Sixty Years in the Wilderness" by Henry W. Lucy, as the warmest hearted, shortest tempered man in the world.

"Before he found his true vocation in writing boys' books Henty tried various methods of supplementing his salary on the Standard. One was the recovery of tin from broken or disused utensils. For some months his study was filled with a bad smell and scraps of broken tin. The smell was engendered by efforts to melt off the tin from the baser metal with the assistance of a chemical compound invented by the operator.

"The next thing that attracted Hen-ty's attention and filled him with hope of fortune was the building of a reversible boat, bound to right itself au-tomatically. He took rooms up the river and, with some assistance from a village mechanic, built his boat. To a certain extent it proved an unqualified success. At the slightest well directed touch, sometimes without it, it would turn over, keel uppermost, with Henty in the river. Righting itself was, as the French say, 'another pair of sleeves.'

"Through some anxious weeks he was frequently ignominiously rescued by a passing boat and walked home, oozing water from pockets and boots.
In the end his landlady gave him notice that she could not be always mopping up after him. I fancy he gladly seized this opportunity of retiring from the boat building business."

Stories of the Gravediggers.

Grimly humorous is the tale of the Scottish gravedigger who complained that he did not get constant work.

"But, George," said the minister, "if you were to be constantly employed in the duties of the office you would soon bury the whole parish."

"That might be, sir, but hoo am I to keep a wife and family unless I get regular work? 'Deed, sir, I havena buried a leevin' soul for the last six weeks."

Harder still was the case of another gravedigger who was asked to reduce his fee for digging a grave because "mind ye, James, she was an auld woman and was sair spent."

Window Glass.

It is certain that there were glass windows in Pompeii, as the proof is found in its ruins. In more modern times it is known that windows of some kind were glazed so early as the third century, if not before, though the fashion was not fairly introduced until it was done by Benedict Biscop about 674. Windows of glass were used in private houses in Italy as early as 1177.—Exchange.

Training Future Farmers.

Discussion first, its practical application later. We have been talking for some little time in North Carolina about the necessity of taking more pains to adapt the education of our country boys and girls to the probable requirements of farm life. The gist of this discussion is admirably condensed in a paragraph from the recent annual report of Superintendent C. W. Massey, of the Durham county schools. The education of the farmer, "says Mr. Massey, "should be as broad in its scope and as thorough in every sense as that of the business man in the city but his environment and work are different.
His education should fit him to appreciate and enjoy the one and successfully to carry on the other. To this end agriculture and domestic science should be taught in a practical way in all of our country schools.
Teach our young people that there is something worth while on the farm.
Teach them how and where to locate their home and how to take care of a home properly. Teach the boys how to take the 'worn-out' hillsides all up the gullies and render them fertile and productive once more.
Teach them how to select and prepare the soil for the various crops raised on the farms, how to select seeds, how and when to plant, how to cultivate, how to harvest and how to market the various farm products."

Precisely in line with this excellent outline is the step which has just been taken by the Guilford county commissioners in arranging for the installation of a superintendent of domestic science, a commissioner of agriculture and a superintendent of sanitation to devote their entire time to Guilford county. "These officers," says a dispatch, "will teach their respective branches in the high schools during the session and in the summer will hold institutes in parts of the county not touched by the high schools. The tuition and institutes will be free of cost to the pupils."

Thus Guilford is getting ready to put into practice the recommendations made to the Durham teachers by their superintendent. In the natural course of events the latter county will not long delay in following Guilford's example in respect to placing these important matters under the direct control of teachers who will be enabled to give their entire time to looking after them. Guilford and Durham have set an excellent pace for the other ninety-six. Who will be the next to follow their lead?—Charlotte Observer.
