LOOKING AFTER PUBLIC HEALTH

IMPORTANT MEDICAL MEETING IN RALEIGH FEB. 22-23

THE DOCTORS OF THREE STATES

Tri-State Medical Society Made Up of Leading Physicians in Virginia and the Two Carolinas—Expect Large Attendance at the Approaching Meeting.

The Tri-State Medical Society of Virginia and the two Carolinas, although scarcely more than a decade in age, numbers among its membership the leading physicians and surgeons of the States represented. In addition to the pleasure and profit derived from all medical societies, this one has the special purpose of correlating medical thought and action in these three leading Southern States.

The Park Hotel, just one block from the union station, will be used as headquarters, and the Elk's club, only one block from the hotel, has very kindly been tendered the society by the Elks for the reading and discussion of papers.

Governor Kitchin will open the meeting with an address of welcome, Wednesday morning, February 22nd, at eleven o'clock. After this will follow an extremely interesting program, on which will be found the names of many men of national reputation.

The president of the society is Dr. Joseph A. White, a well known oculist, of Richmond, Virginia; the secretary, Dr. J. Howell May, of Waynesville, North Carolina, under whose supervision the excellent program has been prepared, is well known to the profession of these three States for his special ability as an executive officer.

A smoker has been arranged at the Capital club, Wednesday evening, at eight-thirty o'clock. Any one desiring hotel reservation may communicate with the chairman of the committee on arrangements, Dr. H. A. Royster, who will take pleasure in making desired reservation.

It is earnestly desired that as large a representation of the profession of this State as possible show their interest in this meeting by their attendance; they may be sure that their time will be well spent, as the program promises to be an extremely instructive one.

Pluck, not Luck.

During the past year Mr. Claude Grant picked up five thousand dollars in profit on land deals, besides earning a good salary and many of his old friends on hearing of his success remarked that "Claude is lucky" but "luck" is not the word. It is simply pluck and perseverance that brings success to Mr. Grant, or to any one else. The person who sits down, or lounges around public places waiting for something to turn up, is not the person to meet with "good luck." Mr. Grant is an honest, sober, truthful young man, of clean life and good habits, full of energy and perseverance, and the success he meets with is due to these causes, and not to luck.—Rich Square Times

How Draft Horses Have Paid.

I started without capital, and on a rented farm, six years ago owning light-weight farm teams. I began farming with mules. I deliberately put aside the wise instruction of Dr. Taft Butler and other instructors who advised me to use a good type of draft horses. The only possible explanation for my trial of mules is that great fallacy, "mules work much on little feed," this having been taught me since infancy. But I am giving my experience as a young farmer doing his own work, and I emphasize this truth: Nothing can be gained by saving feed at the manger and losing it in the fields, light eaters necessarily being light haulers. I worked my mules hard for two years, but by weighing the grain and hay fed, and comparing its cost with the actual value of the team work, I could not find any possible means of ever recovering the purchase money except by selling them. I soon was compelled to admit that the mules would not do any more work than good mares, and besides I wanted to be raising colts for later service. Selling my mules I purchased a registered Percheron mare, and with several neighbors, the registered Percheon stallion referred to. I did not seek two horses, but found a well-quartered, short-coupled, and very attractive animals. After using them under every possible condition, should I lose them, I would not go back to mules or light weight teams if I had to pay twice what these cost.—W. F. Finley, in Progressive Farmer.

An Important Crop.

In the course of an editorial reference to the National Corn exposition, now in session in Columbus, Ohio, the Rochester N. Y., Democrat-Chronicle says "one of these lads who lives in South Carolina raised 223 bushels and three pecks of corn on a single acre, and this very nearly establishes a record." That paper very probably overlooked the fact that Wake county has a record about three bushels in excess of that.

But all contentions aside, the aforesaid exposition is expected to give added stimulus, as the Rochester paper says, to the cultivation of this important crop. The best ways of raising corn, of improving the quality, of increasing the yield and of adding to the agricultural wealth of the country are being discussed. Secretary Wilson and a number of his expert assistants are prepared to furnish a great deal of information in this direction. State officers show what the different states have accomplished. Some of the boys who have been under the tutelage of the department of agriculture will tell of their success.

The average corn yield throughout the country is only a little more than thirty-three bushels per acre, so that it will be seen there is plenty of opportunity for missionary work. Better seed and better methods of cultivation would greatly increase the size of the national crop. The South particularly is making rapid strides, and is going to be reckoned with one of these days as the real corn belt of the country.—Greensboro News.

PROHIBITION NOT A FAILURE

The last Raleigh Christian Advocate contained a letter from Mrs. T. A. Person, who is now in Frankfort, Ky., where she will remain until the first of April before returning to Greenville. While the letter was mainly intended for the Young People's societies of the North Carolina conference, yet it contains a comparison of bar rooms and prohibition that we give to our readers. It says:

One thing I feel I must speak of, and that is, the bar-rooms. They are many. Let no one say prohibition is a failure. What if a man, or fifty, or a hundred men as that, a thousand times better than a whole town full of it? And yet, a few lonesome jugs cry: "Prohibition is a failure." The way to see what prohibition really is, is to visit a liquor state.

Young women of Carolina, for many years it will be your lot to mould the opinion of our great state and whether you ever vote or not, it is yours to control the vote of husbands, brothers, and sons, which is all the same, and I think, a little better.

Under the gain of population reported by the last census, the number of representatives in congress will be increased from 391 to 433, the increased number to take effect March 3rd, 1913. No State will lose a member, as was recently indicated but several will gain. The States that gain congressmen are as follows: Alabama 1; California 3; Colorado 1; Florida 1; Georgia 1; Idaho 1; Illinois 2; Louisiana 1; Massachusetts 2; Michigan 1; Minnesota 1; Montana 1; New Jersey 2; New York 6; North Dakota 1; Ohio 1; Oklahoma 3; Oregon 1; Pennsylvania 4; Rhode Island 1; South Dakota 1; Texas 2; Utah 1; Washington 2; West Virginia 1.

An example of the inaccuracies of the last census enumeration is shown in the town of Hendersonville. The report gave that town a population of 2,818, and the citizens went to work and took the census over, the result showing 3,765. This is quite a difference in figures.

There were forty-five applications for law license at the recent examination by the Supreme court, and ten of them failed to pass.

The Next Speaker.
Champ Clark, farm hand, scholar, educator, lawyer, orator, statesman, patriot and commoner, is to be the next speaker of the house of representatives.

We think Mr. Clark is going to make a splendid presiding officer for the great popular branch of congress. And the faith that is in us is based largely on his fundamental

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Democracy. He is bright, sharp-witted, aggressive, and has had some sixteen years' experience in the angular, devious and rapid-fire affairs of the house. He is not unduly sensitive; cannot be bullied; he is exact and just and evenly balanced, also, he will stand without hitching, and he is by nature predisposed toward the masses.

One the seventh day of March next Champ Clark will be sixty-one years old, and despite Dr. Oeler, the days of his greatest usefulness to the country are just coming. He was born at Bowling Green in the good old Blue Grass State, and her common school was his earlier seat of learning. Later he attended the Kentucky University and Bethany College and the Cincinnati Law School. In 1873 he was president of Marshall College, West Virginia, having attained the honor of being the youngest college president in the country, a distinction he held for a quarter of a century. In addition to his work as a college president, Mr. Clark tells us his occupations have been varied, extending from his first employment as a hired farm hand in vacation times, to his service in congress. He worked as clerk in a country store, edited a country newspaper for a while, and finally engaged steadily in the practice of law and politics, and in the latter profession, or game as they call it, he achieved his greatest distinction.—National Monthly.

Apologize to The Standard Oil Co.
Counsel for the Standard Oil Company, which recently began damage suits for $250,000 against Hampton's Magazine as publisher, and $100,000 against Cleveland Moffitt, the writer of an alleged defamatory statement concerning the Standard Oil Company, today received written retractions from the publisher and the writer.

The article in question said the Standard Oil Company manufactured and sold impure materials which went into the candles and that when the various dealers were arrested and fined, the Standard Oil Company paid the fines.

"Upon investigation" writes Mr. Moffitt in a letter given out today, I have ascertained that your company was in no way connected with the transactions referred to, and I hasten to retract in the fullest manner all charges made against your company and to express my sincere regret that I should have fallen into this serious error."

Another letter from Benjamin B. Hampton, president of the Broadway Magazine Company, incorporated, publishers of Hampton, express regret that the apparently erroneous statements had been made and agree to publish a full retraction in the next number of the magazine.—Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch.

Many Women Now Doing Without False Hair.

Rats and other false paraphernalia for the upbuilding of woman's thinning out hair may be necessary, but the sight is far from pleasing.

With care nature can supply to most women all the hair necessary for attractive dressing.

Many thousands of women, refined and educated, have learned that it is not hard to have, and to keep an abundance of lustrous hair, if Parisian Sage, the hair grower is used daily.

Since its introduction into America, Parisian Sage has become a prime favorite with women who desire luxuriant hair that will not fall out or turn gray, used daily it will keep the scalp immaculately clean; will stop itching and falling hair, and remove every particle of dandruff.

It causes the hair to grow because it is able to penetrate into the roots where it besides nourishing the hair, destroys the dandruff germs. Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere, guarantee Parisian Sage to do exactly as advertised, or money back. A large bottle only costs 50 cents, and it is a most invigorating and refreshing hair dressing. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.—2 11,22-34.

No Danger.
Coal Merchant—I say, Premium, I want to insure my coal yard against fire. What's the cost of a policy for $1,000?
Insurance Agent—What coal is it—same kind you sent me last?
Merchant—Yes, it is.
Agent—Oh, I wouldn't insure it if I were you. It won't burn.—London Ad.

"Needs Investigation, Anyhow"
Under the above head the Monroe Journal, edited by Mr. R. F. Beasley one of the most able editors in the state, has the following to say of the insurance grafters:
Notwithstanding the governor's strong recommendation that the legislature make some investigation of the condition under which fire insurance is sold in this state, the insurance lobby has secured an unfavorable report to a bill providing for such investigation. The fire insurance companies have stated the way of all such corporations. Such policy has always been to declare that there was nothing wrong, and if there was, it was none of the public's business. Thus at a time when the good will of the public might have been secured by frank and open dealing, every one of these corporations have blindly pursued the policy of doing nothing until driven to it. If there is nothing dead-up the insurance branch it would hurt nobody to let a legislative committee walk up and sniff around some.

The insurance companies have had everything their own way in North Carolina; the insurance department is really a device for protecting them and not the people. They may prevent an investigation now, which, of course, only means a more stringent one at some future time.

The Journal, it seems to us, is looking at the matter from the correct viewpoint. A great many thought no investigation was needed when the matter was first suggested. But the activity of the fire insurance companies to prevent investigation is calculated to cause one to pause and think. Some of the methods they are using to prevent investigation also suggests that they would not be overly scrupulous when the business in hand was strictly that of insurance. If they resort to crooked dealing to prevent an investigation it is not too much to suppose that they would use the same methods in other matters.—Raleigh Times.

A Divorce Cure.

Illinois is trying to head off the divorce epidemic by requiring that the State shall be a third party to each divorce, and represented by a State's attorney at every divorce hearing.

This suggestion, of course, is based on the theory that the public good and society in its broad sense are much affected by indiscriminate granting of divorces.

One out of every 12 marriages in the United States ends in divorce. These figures show that society may well be alarmed at the divorce epidemic which is sweeping the country.

Oregon now has a law similar to the one sought in Illinois, and it is said to be successful in its practical working.—Nashville Tennessean.

AWFUL PAINS FULLY DESCRIBED

A Lady of Pizarro Tells Story of Awful Suffering That Cardui Finally Relieved.

Pizarro, Va.—"I suffered for several years," writes Mrs. Dorma A. Smith, "with that awful backache and the bearing down sensations, so fully described in your book.

"I tried doctors and other medicines and found little relief, until I was induced to try Wine of Cardui, when I found instant relief and today I can heartily recommend Cardui to all suffering women and think there is no other as good."

In some instances, Cardui gives instant relief; in others, it may take a little time. But in all cases of female trouble Cardui can be depended on to be of benefit, as it is a specific remedy for women and acts in a curative way on the womanly organs.

As a general tonic for women, to build up your strength, improve your appetite, bring back rosy cheeks and make you look and feel young and happy, nothing you can find will do so much for you as Cardui.

Your druggist has it.

RAINY DAYS

Come to everybody. Life has more ups than downs. Right now, while you are making, you ought to be saving; then when the downs come you will have something to fall back on.

Where is the money you have been earning all these years? You spent it and somebody else put it in the bank. Why don't you put your own money in the bank for yourself--why let the other fellow save what you earn?

The Public Conscience.

The public conscience is but a composite photograph of the private conscience of individual citizens. Its makeup is determined by the number subjecting themselves to the camera. Every man who reads, every original thinker, and every one publicly expressing a view, is an exposure.

It is said that corruption wins more than honesty, and the individual conscience, when not engaged in passing judgment upon public or private conduct, may be said to be right. This clearly demonstrable by the applause, which, in every theater is accorded the hero, and the hissing which follows the conduct of the villain. It is not difficult to regulate other people's conduct, or to obtain a right expression as to their conduct.

All life appears to be periodic. There is progress and then a retrograde movement. Yet, ever, there is an advance, however slight, from year to year. Every phase of life is like the pendulum of a clock. It swings through its arc from ultra conservatism to ultra radicalism, and, unfortunately, if it paused at the golden mean, time, so far as its record is concerned, would be no more in the municipality and in the nation we have these periods of great public awakening, and the conscience of the people discloses only the fairer features of the individual. There is such a period now in American public life. The public conscience approves and demands right things and right men. This is good; this augurs well. Do you ask me will it be vitalized in legislation and public life? My answer is--it depends. Sin is too much what the other fellow does. "Orthodoxy is my doxy; heterodoxy is your doxy." It is easy and satisfying to applaud the hero and to hiss the villain. It is not easy to admit that you may be the villain and he may be the hero and exact justice to all men, and special privileges to none. Off go our hats to the sentiment and we beam with satisfaction over the thought that we believe in it. But suppose the crystallization of the conscience into law and business should lessen dividends, decrease incomes, lessen the value of a dollar, increase the value of a man--then, is there not danger of a new public conscience? May we not be compelled to close our theaters, to lose our heroes and our villains, to take a new photograph wherein may appear the keen eye of the man who feels that he can look after me better than I can look after myself, and the pallid face of the man who feels that it is perhaps better to be looked after by some one else than it is to take poverty's chance?

The trumpet call of public conscience today is not to the meek and the lowly, but to the high and mighty. Since the world began, business and wealth have had no such opportunity for the Angel of the Lord to write their names down beside that of Ben Adhem as they have just now. There may be lessening of dividends, they may not be able to drive so many men if they listen to this conscience, but in listening to it, they will behold a miracle, and that miracle will be that those whom they used to drive will, under the changed conditions, follow them gladly. The world must be led. The hour has almost gone when it can be driven.

Happy the democrat who, in the hour of peace, will sacrifice somewhat of his power, not for the larger, but for the common good. These men can make the ideals of the republic real if they will. Let them try the yoke of brotherhood and if they do not find the yoke easy and the burden light, it will not be heard to discard it. I plead for this because, just now, it is the public conscience; unheeded, it will become the public wrath.--Gov. Thomas B. Marshall, of Indiana

NEW YORK AND CHICAGO MARKETS

By Wire to The Reflector.

Stocks.
New York, Feb. 11.--The stock market opened irregular, gains and losses being about equally divided, except in railroad shares which showed a general drop. Canadian Pacific however, was an exception, being up 1 3-4 points. American Smelting advanced 1-8; U. S. Steel unchanged on initial quotation; Union Pacific, Reading and Southern Pacific were off a fraction.

Newspaper Men Like Wilson.
Woodrow Wilson, governor of New Jersey, made a decided hit with the newspaper men of Washington during his two days' visit. In his speech at the National Press Club and in little interviews thereafter the governor of New Jersey represented a miracle of the political writers of the national capitol. They found at last a man who advocated absolute publicity in public affairs, who decried the policy of concealment on the part of office-holding, and who said that the people's business was too often handled by individuals as though it were private business.

In sizing up the governor, also, the 20 newspaper men, who faced him found an undivided man. He was easy and direct. He answered any question put to him freely, with never a suggestion of the politician's apology. "I am sorry, but I can't say anything about that."

Doctor Wilson was told that his arguments against a committee on committees, cited in his book on "Congressional Government", had been used at a recent democratic caucus.

"That book was written a good many years ago," said Doctor Wilson, "when I had never even been congress." These answers were typical of the governor and his attitude; no concealment, no pretense, no affectation. And the men who met him were treated to constant exhibitions of fine, manly courtesy without a suggestion of insincerity.--Raleigh Times.
