

AN OLD COPY OF THE EASTERN REFLECTOR

ONE OF SECOND ISSUE, DATED FEBRUARY 1ST, 1882

TAKES US BACK TWENTY NINE YEARS

Great Changes in Greenville From That Day to This, Also in the Paper—Names of Few People Mentioned Then Are Living Now.

On Monday Miss Mollie Bagley, a warm friend of The Reflector of many years standing, came in to tell the editor she had a present for him. It was copy of The Reflector dated February 1st, 1882, the second issue of the paper ever printed, its existence having begun just a week before.

Miss Bagley told us she got lonesome for something to read Sunday afternoon, and going to the book shelves got down a copy of "Josephus" with which to pass away the time. While scanning through this ancient history, she found the old copy of The Reflector folded among its pages.

Another incident connected with the finding of the paper, was a visit Mrs. Mary Foley had paid Miss Bagley that afternoon, and in the conversation between them Mrs. Foley referred to the death of her husband twenty-nine years ago, and when this old paper was looked over in it was mentioned the death of Mr. Foley, which had occurred a few days previous to its being printed.

And how that old paper took our mind back to the long ago, almost to the beginning of our newspaper career with the exception of three years publication of the Greenville Express. The Reflector was so different in those days from what it now is. It was then only a small paper, and a very small one at that, having only four columns to the page and was printed on a job press, with facilities very meagre both from the standpoint of news and equipment.

In looking over that old paper is found the advertisement of only one merchant in business here then who is still in business now, Mr. James Long. One other, then the "Old Brick Store" is now Mr. S. M. Schultz.

In the general directory of the county and town at that time is found this information: The county commissioners were C. Dawson, M. C. S. Cherry, Jesse Smith, G. M. Mooring and Noah Forbes, now all dead except Mr. Mooring who is one of our present representatives in the legislature. The town commissioners were J. T. Baker, H. Hooker, T. R. Cherry, J. D. Cobb and Austin Flood, the latter colored, all dead years ago. We are ashamed to tell who was mayor of the town at that time.

There were then only three white churches in Greenville, their pastors being as follows: Episcopal, Rev. N. C. Hughes; Methodist, Rev. S. V. Hoyle; Baptist, Rev. Thos. Carrick. Only the last named of these is now living.

Three other names mentioned in the paper of people now living in Greenville are Messrs. A. L. Blow, J. J. Cherry and J. J. Perkins. Mr. M. R. Lang, now a resident of Norfolk, was a merchant here then.

At that time The Reflector was edited by Mr. J. R. Whichard, now residing in Atlanta, and the present editor was conducting a job printing department in connection with it and helping on the paper.

A PLUCKY GIRL KILLS

HER ASSAILANT

NEGRO ATTACKS HER IN HALL.

After the Shooting Girl Surrenders to The Sheriff.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Paragouid, Arkansas, Feb. 28.—Louis Meadows, a negro, attacked Miss Emma Wilson, a white woman in the hall of a down town business house early today.

The girl shot and killed him instantly. Immediately after the shooting Miss Wilson surrendered to the sheriff.

A PATRIOTIC SON OF OLD PITT COUNTY

HAPPENINGS AROUND AYDEN.

Interesting News Notes and Personal Mention.

Ayden, N. C., Feb. 28.—Mr. Lilly, father of our townsman, Mr. Frank Lilly, is very sick at his home in Honolulu.

One of Mr. Walter McGlohorn's twin babies died Sunday night, or Monday morning. We extend sympathy.

Mr. Chris. P. Ware, of Swift Creek township, is very sick with measles. Mr. Claude L. Mooring came near being killed Monday at J. R. Smith Company's factory. He was putting on a belt when he was caught by the shafting. His clothing was torn off. Fortunately no bones were broken, but he was bruised and skinned up though he wonderfully and miraculously escaped instant death.

Mrs. Allie Harrington, of Kinston, is visiting in town and getting data for a Cannon and a Hart tree, going back as far as the seventeenth century when some of the older Cannons came over from the mother country. Mrs. Harrington is a natural born artist. Her work on those trees is a fine demonstration and would reflect credit to one well skilled in art as well as geometry. We have seen several of her beautiful drawings, among them is one character representing the North Carolina toast, "The Old North State."

Mrs. C. L. Cannon and little son, Lee Edward, are visiting Mrs. Jessie Cannon.

Miss Jennie Turnage while skating Saturday evening fell, breaking her arm near the wrist. At this writing she is doing fine.

Mrs. Dickinson spent Sunday with her sister near Greenville.

Mr. G. A. Grimesley, of Greensboro, was here on business Friday.

Mr. C. E. Foy, of New Bern, made us a pleasant call last week. He is a fine talker and very interesting in his resources and experience. He is among the most talented men we have in the east, and has been a great factor in launching some of the largest industrial in his county.

Mr. J. F. Barwick is among the solons at Raleigh this week.

Mr. Stancill Hodges spent Sunday with his parents near Washington. A large crowd were out to hear Rev. Mr. Caraway Sunday morning.

Beside a good number of Odd Fellows, there were in attendance brethren from Shelmerdine, Winterville and Greenville, to hear their fraternal strength renewed. All present enjoyed the service. Many thanks to Miss Jennie Davis who played, and the Methodist choir for such good music. The occasion will be long remembered.

The school at Elm Grove church taught by Miss Esther Jones, closed last week. She will leave Ayden next Friday for her home near Chocowinity. Miss Esther is very popular in the social circle, and we are all loath to give her up.

Mr. Mc. Bryan, Winterville's clever postmaster, was here on business Monday.

Mr. Abram Cox, owner, proprietor and manager of the famous and celebrated St. Abrams spring, has been the instigator of opening a road leading from the road near the late J. R. McGlohorn's, parallel with the Ayden road to the road leading from Hanrahan to Scuffleton, crossing it near the residence of the late John C. Jenkins, via the mineral spring. Besides he is erecting a large dwelling near the spring, on this new road, for the accommodation of the lame, halt, sick and ailing people. This must be good water for we saw one man have 69 gallons on his wagon coming from there last week.

Miss Edith Mumford, who has been teaching at Fort Barnwell, finished her school last week and returned home Sunday.

We hand you a letter which you will please publish as it will speak for itself. This young man is Robt. Lester Jones, son of Wyatt Jones, better known as Mark, was raised near Harrington's Cross roads, one mile from Ayden. His father died a few years ago and when Bob rounded up the business, he saw his mother provided for and joined the army. His friends and those not even acquainted with him, will feel proud of him from a patriotic standpoint. This shows what a boy can do when he has the ginger in him, as most Ayden boys do, when given an op-

With Hundreds of Bills on the Calendar, New Ones Keep Coming—Senator Cotten Offers Bill to Tax Dogs in Pitt County.

Senate—Monday.
Notwithstanding this week marks the last of the allotted term of the present general assembly, it began the week with another flood of local bills, though hundreds of them are yet on the calendar and the more important matters remain to be attended to if they are reached at all. Senator Cotten introduced a bill to tax dogs in Pitt county.

House—Monday.
Speaker Dowd called attention to the fact that there were 403 bills on the calendar, besides 47 messages from the senate, 29 second reading, roll call and 23 third reading, roll call bills, with a large number to be reported today. He cautioned members against getting serious and begged them to let business proceed orderly, assuring them that only in that way could the business be disposed of. With order and system, he said, every one could be reached.

After this statement 40 new bills were introduced, but none of them of general importance.

portunity, they usually make a record.

Fort Wadsworth, N. Y., Feb. 25, 1911.

Mr. R. W. Smith, Ayden, N. C.

Dear Sir:

Seeing the other day a copy of the "Eastern Reflector" brought me back to home days in North Carolina. I resided for 6 years in Raleigh, and those were the happiest days of my life. What I want you to present to the readers of the Reflector, especially the readers who reside in Ayden is the military record of one of her sons, Lester Jones, by name. The young Carolinian's military learning has been marked by all who know him, and his actions in several cases of emergency have been creditable. On one occasion it was most conspicuous at a strike in a town called Arochar, where he alone charged 16 enraged striking Italians and forced them to get away from a building which they threatened with fire. For this act Jones was promptly promoted to the grade of lance corporal in which grade he still honorably serves. Such men are the product of North Carolina. Hoping to see this in an early issue of The Reflector, I hope to remain a true son a North Carolinian.

WHAT IS HAPPENING AT THE UNIVERSITY

GETS DEFEATED AT BASKETBALL

Some Statistics of the Mid-Winter Examinations.

Chapel Hill, N. C. Feb. 28.—In a game of basketball that was in every way well up to the standard of the athletic contests between the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina, Carolina lost by a three point margin, the score being 18 to 15. The score was tied at the end of the first half. The game was played under the inter-collegiate rules, the rules under which Virginia had been playing, while Carolina had played every game thus far under the Y. M. C. A. rules. Virginia's play featured dribbling which was possible under inter-collegiate. Despite this disadvantage and the further setback of a ten pounds inferiority in weight man to man, Carolina played a game that for cheer grit and beautiful fighting courage should make every Carolina man feel proud. There is little doubt that the men who played in this game will be awarded the varsity insignia, the N. C. monogram.

In Chapel Hill Friday morning, Dean Graham read out some interesting statistics that he had gleaned from the returns of the recent mid-term examination. Fifty-one per cent of the entire student body was successful in every examination tried. The junior class was highest with sixty per cent successful on every study. Thirteen men passed only one study. Only seven failed on everything and five of these were men who had been here two years.

Professor M. C. S. Noble head of the department of education, attended a convention of the Masons at Alexandria, Va., on Washington's birthday called for the purpose of considering plans for the erection of a national memorial to George Washington. The meeting was attended by delegates from every State in the Union. Besides Grand Master R. N. Hackett, Professor Noble was the only delegate from North Carolina. Rev. R. L. Patterson, pastor of the St. Marks Lutheran church, of Charlotte, preached the University sermon for February in Gerrard hall Sunday, February 19th. He preached on the personality of Christ. His was considered a strong sermon.

The college dramatic club presented Oliver Goldsmith's comedy, "She Stoops to Conquer," in Gerrard hall Monday night. Opinions vary as to the success of the production. Some think the performance was well up to the standard of student dramatics at Chapel Hill. Others are not so favorable in their criticism of the play and the cast.

POPULAR ELECTION DEFEATED BY EIGHT VOTES

NARROWLY MISSED TWO-THIRDS.

Senate Again Defeats the Will of The People.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Fighting to the last ditch to defeat the will of the people, the old guard in the senate today succeeded in defeating the measure calling for direct election of United States senators. Fifty-four votes were recorded in favor of the amendment and 33 against it. It required a two-thirds majority and was therefore lost by a margin of eight votes.

Sunday School Association to Meet in High Point—Another of The West Gang Arrested—Negro Man Robbed in Wilmington—Farmer Commits Suicide.

A. D. Bissett, a well known farmer, who lived only a few miles from town, committed suicide Sunday afternoon at his home. He, with his family and others in company, had started to call on some neighbor, when suddenly he made some excuse to go back. He took his gun and placed the barrel at his forehead and with the aid of a stick with a notch in one end he punched the trigger which caused the gun to discharge its load into the man's head, causing instant death. There is no known cause for the act, as he was perfectly sober and nothing had been discovered wrong with him. He leaves a wife and five children.—Spring Hope, Leader.

The 28th annual convention of the North Carolina Sunday school association will meet in High Point, April 26-28. Mr. J. Vann Carter, is general State secretary. The following are department superintendents: Elementary, Mrs. E. R. Michaux, of Greensboro; Home, Mrs. C. D. McIver, Greensboro; Teacher Training, J. C. Caldwell, Wilson; Organized adult Class, T. B. Eldridge, Raleigh; Visitation, Miss Dora Redding Randleman. Mr. R. M. Andrews, of Henderson, is president of the association and Miss Maud Reid, of Raleigh, is office secretary.

Statesville, Feb. 27.—News of a tragic death in a remote section of the county has reached Statesville. The victim was Mrs. Tutterow, wife of Virgil Tutterow, a farmer of Union Grove township. Mrs. Tutterow was in the house with her children when her clothes caught fire from the open fireplace. She attempted to tear the burning clothes from her body; and proving unsuccessful in this she wrapped herself in a quilt and got between the ticks of the bed. The flames were smothered in this manner, but the victim was so badly burned that she died after hours of intense suffering.

Wilson, Feb. 27.—Wade Williams, another of the West gang, and who, West states, was in Mary Young's house at the time of the murder of Deputy George Mumford, was arrested here today and placed in jail. Williams says he returned home from Norfolk yesterday. Sheriff Larp, learning that he was here, had the house he was located in surrounded by deputies and policemen and he was captured without resistance. The city and county authorities have retained counsel to assist the State in the prosecution of the West crowd at the special term of court to be held here beginning March 13th.

Wilmington, Feb. 27.—John Wilson, a negro, was held up and robbed by a white man and negro today shortly before noon near the edge of the city out only a few yards from a number of residences. The man was robbed of $17, and one of the high-walked and fired on Wilson, whose left wrist was badly shattered. The robbers escaped.

The Talk of The Town.

Marvelous Ed., or the one-legged wonder, astonished every one present at the Amuzu Monday night. There are very few "two-legged" equilibrists that can accomplish such feats. The searchlight girl, Miss Ra-Mond, made a "big hit" with the audience. Her songs are novel and catchy, such that appeal to all alike. The Amuzu Theatre management is to be congratulated.

Ladies' Aid Society.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church will meet with Mrs. J. S. Tunstall tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. All members, and especially the new members are urged to attend. And all others are cordially invited.

HAVING A HARD FIGHT OVER LORIMER'S SEAT

SENATE IN SESSION ALL NIGHT.

Filibusters Are Finally Forced to Sue For Peace.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, Feb. 28.—After a filibuster which had lasted for more than 19 hours to prevent a vote in the Lorimer case, a truce was reached at 8:10 o'clock this morning, and the senate recessed until eleven o'clock. The session lasted for 19 hours and the Lorimer men, led by Senator Bailey, were compelled to capitulate. The main worker of the filibuster movement was Senator Crawford. He had talked over 8 hours and had just been relieved by Senator Briston when the Lorimer men sued for peace. The senate will reopen with Briston in possession of the floor.

Senate Re-Convenes.

Washington, Feb. 28.—The senate re-convened at 11 o'clock. It was a weary looking lot of legislators, but at 11:20 the senate adjourned until 11:50, that it might comply with the special order providing for a vote on popular election of senators directly after reading the journal on Tuesday.

VOTE FOR GOOD ROADS.

Township Election to be Held in Our Neighbor County.

There will be an election held in Williamston on March 14th, at which time the voters of the township will determine whether or not bonds shall be issued for the improvement of the roads in said township. Every voter should thoroughly consider the question from the economical standpoint and not allow one bit of selfishness to enter into settlement of the matter. People who must travel roads have had all the experience wanted this season. They have seen clearly what bad roads mean to team, vehicle and nerves. Speaking of good roads to a man who has recently paid a visit to Augusta, Georgia, he said that the roads there were made of sand and clay and pressed by an immense roller. Then the roads were sprinkled and the roller passed over again till the driveway was almost as hard as the macadamized one. We have plenty of sand and clay, too. There is so little need for the present condition of our highways.

"The heaviest tax any community can have is an ignorance; the next is bad roads." As the Sanford Express describes the roads of Lee county, so are those of Martin county. Hear it:
"Not one mile of Lee's county roads is improved. They are all shifting sand or mud-deep, narrow streaks of sticky, oozy, silty mud. The farmer fights with mud when he takes his cotton, his wood or his empty wagon to market. It is said to cost him twenty-five cents a ton to haul his produce, while the thrifty Mecklenburg of Guilford county man on mudless roads does it for half as much. The Lee county farmer pays for his mud in decreased profits, in idle acres, in poorer schools; his wife and daughters pay for it in loneliness and isolation.

Nor is the farmer the only man in our county who has to pay the mud tax. Mud puts its price on the fuel that the townsmen buy from the farmer and other things that he uses during the winter season. We think of no way in which our people could get less for the same money.

The present system of working roads is a mere farce in this section. There is no drainage of sufficient power to keep the mud off the driveway. A few clods of dirt are tossed aimlessly in the middle of the road and a pole is laid here and there. There must be an organized system for working under men who know what and how to do. And this only can be accomplished by taxation. As we said in the beginning, every voter should consider the question from the economical point of view. Let him understand that those counties having the best roads in North Carolina are the most progressive and have the largest towns within their borders. Think about this matter and vote to help yourself and your neighbor also.—Williamston Enterprise.

Which is The People?

In bringing up for comparison with the Democratic party's record any feature of the Republican-Populist regime which misgoverned North Carolina for a brief period we shall not be suspected, we trust, of any narrowly invidious intention. Still less can it be supposed that we desire to visit further punishment upon men of whom one has been sufficiently punished and the other is dead. But the present negotiations conducted by the North Carolina congressmen and State authorities over certain ancient State bonds in the Federal government's hands make too impressive a contrast with some preceding events for that contrast to be ignored. During the fusion period a governor and a senator of North Carolina used their official positions to perpetrate a fraud upon the United States Supreme court's jurisdiction at North Carolina's expense by intruding with the politicians of another State. They put through the scheme and pocketed their share of the spoils. Since then the ghost which they raised has vexed the State greatly, but never has any one dreamed that the State's representatives would conduct themselves otherwise than in the most loyal manner. These men acting for the state to have been Democrats, and it is practically impossible to conceive of a North Carolina Democratic governor or congressman in either house doing what the anti-Democratic governor and senator did.—Charlotte Observer.

The Truth Again.

The Greenville Reflector says: "Some of us have no idea what we would get if we really had our deserts." And thereupon hangs the idea that we should be more thankful for what we do get, for much of it is more than we deserve.—Durham Sun.

QUITTING OPIUM HABIT

The Greatest Moral Achievement of Recent Times.

There are many things that give one faith in the future of China, but nothing else which begets such confidence as the success of the crusade against the opium habit. Four years ago, when the news went out that China had resolved to put an end to the opium habit within ten years—had started on a Ten Year War Against Opium—there were many who scoffed at the whole project as too ridiculous and quixotic, even for praise; there were more who regarded it as praiseworthy but as being as unpromising as a drunkard's swearing off at new year's, while those who expected success to come even in twice ten years hardly dared express their confidence among well informed people.

"If there is anything which all our contact with the Chinese has taught more unquestionably than anything else, it is that the Chinaman will always be a slave to the opium habit." So said a professedly authoritative book on China, published only five years ago, and to hold any other opinion was usually regarded as contradictory to common sense. "We white Americans can't get rid of the whiskey habit with all our moral courage and all our civilization and all our Christianity; how then can you expect the poor, ignorant Chinaman to shake off the clutches of opium?" So it was said, but today the most tremendous moral achievement of recent history—China's victory over opium intemperance already assured and in great measure completed not in ten years, but in four—stands out as a stinging rebuke to the slow progress our own people have made in their warfare against drink intemperance.

To shake off the opium habit when once it has gripped a man, is no easy task—officials right here in Peking, for example, died as a result of stopping too suddenly after the edict came out announcing that no opium victim could remain in the public service—but a member of the empire's cabinet, or grand council, told me this afternoon that 95 per cent. of the public officials who were formerly opium smokers have given up the habit, or have been dismissed from office. Five per cent. may smoke in secret, but with the certainty of dismissals as the penalty of discovery, it may be assured that even these few are breaking themselves from the habit—Clarence Poe, in Progressive Farmer.

Comparative Speeds.

Two thousand years ago the legions of Rome swept across the country at a gait just about ten times faster than a wagon can traverse Stokes county in the year of our Lord 1911. The Romans had slaves with which to build their roads, and we are slaves to not build ours. Caesar was not half such a tyrant as our King Mud, while we are bigger fools than his serfs.—Danbury Reporter.

Grow Everything Big.

The Greenville Reflector says that Pitt is a great county, and so it is. There were more diplomas awarded to the boys of that county in the corn contests last year than in any other county in the State. This speaks well for the boys and also for the corn-growing soil over here. They grow everything big in Pitt and Greenville is becoming an important center of this section.—Williamston Enterprise.

There is always room for one more in the strait and narrow path.

A good deal of hospitality is administered according to the homeopathic school.

MY DOCTOR

MIGHTY FINE

Mrs. Hattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it.

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh how dreadfully I suffered!

"I would cramp and have convulsions and it looked like I would die. At last I took Cardui and oh what a surprise! I found it was the medicine for me!

"From the first bottle, I began to mend and now I am well, can do more work, can walk and go where I please and it don't hurt me, and I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui helps sick women back to health. It has been doing this for over 50 years. It is not a laxative, or a heart or kidney medicine—it is a woman's medicine.

If you are a woman, try it.

A Congressman's Rights.

A few days ago the question of the rights of a congressman-elect to use the free mail privileges was raised when an editorial appeared in the Lenoir News, calling attention to the fact that Congressman-elect R. L. Doughton was using a mail frank when his term of office had not yet begun. We copied the editorial in question and made some comment in which one idea was to inveigh against such rights being granted. It was in no sense intended to be a personal criticism of Mr. Doughton. However, when he read the article, he did not regard it as quite fair to himself, as he was the only man named, and his friends would, therefore, regard it as a personal attack. In passing through the city returning home from Raleigh he called at the office, not to "whip the editor," but to tell in a manly way how he felt about it and to explain that the use of frank is a legal regulation and that a congressman-elect is entitled to it from the time his election certificate is filed.

We confess that it is a provision of which we were not aware, and in taking advantage of it, Mr. Doughton is simply following precedent and is not subject to personal criticism. We wish to make it plain that such was not our intention in the first place. This being true, we still do not believe the law granting such a privilege is right. In reply to a direct question Mr. Doughton said he was not willing to express an opinion as to whether the privilege granted is right or wrong, except insofar as its being a law makes it right.

Such rights granted to congressmen-elect virtually have the effect of giving a district two representatives from the time of the election until the newly elected congressman's term actually begins under constitutional provision—the 4th of March. It is under a strict and equitable construction a violation of the constitution, which provides for only one representative for each district. It is unquestionable, further, in that it is a right congressmen have given to themselves, and is not in consistent accord with the manner in which they deal with the rest of mankind. They vote themselves free mail privileges, for which the people have to pay, an act which, in our opinion, bears not the slightest semblance of justice, and then, in a spasm of virtue, write and adopt an ironclad law making it a crime for a railroad to purchase advertising space in a newspaper and pay for it with mileage books. It would be just as fair to say that a farmer cannot subscribe for a newspaper and pay for it with a load of wood at the regular market price.—Greensboro News.

NEWSPAPER PRESS FOR SALE.

Having placed an order for a new fast newspaper and book press, to be installed the middle of April, we have a newspaper press that will be sold at a bargain for delivery May 1st.

It is a Monona Leverless Press, large enough to print four 6-column pages, or two 9-column pages and has steam fixtures so that it can be run either by hand or power. Been in use six years.

It is a splendid press for a weekly paper and is in good condition to do many years good service. We used a press from the same factory for 17 years before installing this one, printing a daily paper with small circulation about 10 years of that time. Its speed, 800 an hour, is too slow for a daily paper with the present circulation of The Reflector, and for that reason we are having to displace it with a faster press.

Any one interested and wanting a good press for a weekly newspaper, can see this press at work every day in the Reflector building, before our new press is installed. Any one who cannot come to see it at work and examine it, can get particulars by addressing

GOOD ROADS.

Are The Milestones Marking the Advance of Civilization.

Good roads mean progress and prosperity, a benefit to the people who live in the cities, an advantage to the people who live in the country. Good roads help every section of our vast domain. Good roads, like good streets, make habitation along them most desirable; they enhance the value of farm lands, facilitate transportation, and add untold wealth to the producers and consumers of the country; they are milestones marking the advance of civilization; they economize time, give labor a lift, and make millions in money; they save wear and tear and worry and waste; they beautify the country—bring it in touch with the city; they aid the social and the religious and the educational and the industrial progress of the people; they make better homes and happier hearthstones; they are the avenues of trade, the highways of commerce, the mail routes of information, and the agencies of speedy communication. They mean the economical transportation of marketable products—the maximum burden at the minimum cost; they are the ligaments that bind the country together in thrift and industry and intelligence and patriotism; they promote social intercourse, prevent intellectual stagnation, and increase the happiness and the prosperity of our producing masses; they contribute to the glory of the country, give employment to our idle workmen, distribute the necessities of life—the products of the fields and the forests and the factories—encourage energy and husbandry, inculcate love for our scenic wonders, and make mankind better and broader and greater.

Good roads have a money value far beyond our ordinary conception. Bad roads constitute our greatest drawback to internal development and material progress. Good roads mean prosperous farmers; bad roads mean abandoned farms, sparsely settled country districts, and poor congested over-populated cities, where the poor are destined to become poorer. Good roads mean more cultivated farms and cheaper food-products for the toilers in the towns; bad roads mean poor transportation, lack of communication, high prices for the necessities of life, the loss of untold millions of wealth, and the idle workmen seeking employment.

Good roads will help those who cultivate the soil and feed the multitude, and whatever aids the producers and the farmers of our country will increase our wealth and our greatness and benefit all the people. The farms are the heart of our national life and the chief source of our material greatness. Tear down every edifice in our cities and labor will rebuild them, but abandon the farms and our cities will disappear forever.

One of the crying needs of the country, especially in the South, is good roads. The establishment of good roads would in a great measure solve the question of the high price of food and the increasing cost of living. By reducing the cost of transportation it would enable the farmer to market his produce at a lower price and at a larger profit at the same time. It would bring communities closer together and in touch with the centers of population, thereby facilitating commerce of ideas as well as of products.

When the agricultural production alone of the United States for the past eleven years totals seventy billion dollars, a sum to stagger the imagination, and it cost more to take this product from the farm to the railway station than from such station to the American and European markets, and when the saving in cost of moving this product of agriculture over good highways instead of bad would have built a million miles of good roads, the incalculable waste of bad roads in this country is shown to be of such enormous proportions as to demand immediate reformation and the wisest and best statesmanship but great as is the loss to transportation, mercantile, industrial and to farming interests, incomparably greater is the material loss to the women and children and to the social life—a matter as important as civilization itself. The truth of the declaration of Charles Sumner fifty years ago, that "the two greatest forces for the advancement of civilization are the schoolmaster and good roads," is emphasized by the experience of the intervening years, and points to the wisdom of a union of the educational, commercial, transportation and industrial interests of our country in aggressive action for permanent good roads.—By Hon. William Sulzer, in The Fra.

The Greenville Reflector is to put in a new and faster press. This is gratifying news. We congratulate Brother Whichard. There is not a more faithful or deserving editor in the State, and his long service is worthy of the greatest success.—Durham Sun.

An Old Story.

I have heard of poor and sad congregations, but the saddest preacher I ever knew went from Posey county, Indiana, to Pike county, Missouri, (where John Hay discovered Little Beeches and Jim Bludsoe). He was starting to death on donations of catfish, possum, and a hundred dollar salary. Finally he made up his mind to go away. With wet eyes, he stood up in the prayer meeting to bid good-bye to his weeping congregation.

"Brothers and sisters," he said, wiping his eyes on his red bandana handkerchief, "I've called you together to night to say farewell. The Lord has called me to another place. I don't think the Lord loves this people much; for none of you seem to die. He doesn't seem to want you. And you don't seem to love each other; for I've never married any of you. And I don't think you love me; for you don't pay me my salary—and your donations are mouldy fruits and wormy apples. 'By their fruits ye shall know them.'

"And now, brothers and sisters, I am going to a better place. I've been appointed chaplain to the penitentiary at Joliet. 'Where I go ye cannot come; but I go to prepare a place for you.'—From the book 'Heart Throbs, in National Magazine for March.

"Delivering The Goods."

It is hard to live up to a good name as it is to live down a bad name. When a man is said to come from the west, you immediately compare him with a cowboy or an Indian. When a man says he is from New England, we immediately associate and measure him with some of the world's greatest characters. If a man undertakes to fill a New England pulpit, we measure him with Brooks and Parker. If he enters literature, we measure him with Emerson and Lowell. If he enters law, we measure him with the Adamses. If he would work reform, we listen intently to hear the clear notes of Puritanism and Phillips and Garrison world leaders. When a man enters business, we measure him with Oliver Ames, whose shovels were the standard of excellency the whole world round. Now, the question that you have to face is, whether you can deliver the goods; whether you can live up to the name you inherited, and give us goods that are worth our dollars.—George Wood Anderson, in National Magazine for March.

Haiti's Tree of Liberty.

In front of the presidential residence in Haiti is a giant cocoanut tree, but its leaves are always in the same condition. In storm or sunshine their serenity is never disturbed. The tree is the republic's tree of liberty. When the republic was established it was thought that a tree should be planted to signalize so great an event, but Haiti, it seems, has but one tree, and that the cocoanut tree. But the cocoanut tree is hardly the species to be chosen for a tree of liberty, for it grows to a good height and becomes bare as its age increases. How was the difficulty overcome? It was a very simple matter. One of the council suggested that an imitation cocoanut tree made of zinc should be ordered from London, with leaves etc., painted to represent nature. The idea was adopted.—London Globe.

Wheels.

The earliest mention of wheels in the Bible is in Exodus xiv, 25, when the chariot wheels of the Egyptians were taken off by the Lord. But chariots are mentioned in Genesis xli, 43. But there were older nations than the Egyptians. The Chaldeans used chariots, and the Greeks—Homer's poems date from about 900 B. C.—had chariots at the siege of Troy, 1500 B. C. Probably in reality the wheel is about as early a piece of machinery as any now existing. Of course it has been developed, but the wheel of today is a lineal descendant of the section of a log of wood used by the agricultural peoples thousands of years ago.—New

The Crust and the Crumbs.

In the days when the "bread loaf" was dear careful mothers had a set of thrifty sayings which are seldom heard in this time of the big cheap loaf. Crumbs were regularly swept up and kept for some useful purpose. If a child threw crumbs in the fire the old fashioned mother lifted a warning finger and said, "If you throw crumbs in the fire you are feeding the devil." Children were told that the better part of a loaf was the crust, and when a child was sent to the shop for bread the order was to ask for "a crusty loaf." If a child left its crust, came the warning: "Yes, my lady (or my lad), you'll want for a loaf some day. You'll find hunger's a sharp thorn."—London Notes and Queries.

A Giant in Strength.

"How's the baby getting on?" asked a family friend. "Growing bigger and stronger every day, I suppose!" "He's growing bigger every day," said the proud father, "and he's plenty strong enough now to suit me. You remember what a tremendous voice he had when you saw him three months ago? Well, it's still more tremendous now, yet he lifts it a dozen times a day."

Tosti's Thanks.

Signor Francisco Tosti, the famous song writer, is very impulsive and quick to resist the slightest assumption of patronage. One day a lady called on him and announced her intention of singing two of his songs at a concert.

"I thought I would just run round and try them over with you," she said. Tosti remarked that he was not in the habit of giving lessons in that manner, whereupon the lady retorted: "Very well; I will not sing your songs then."

Tosti's face beamed as he advanced toward her with outstretched hands. "Madam," he said, "I thank you very much for that favor."

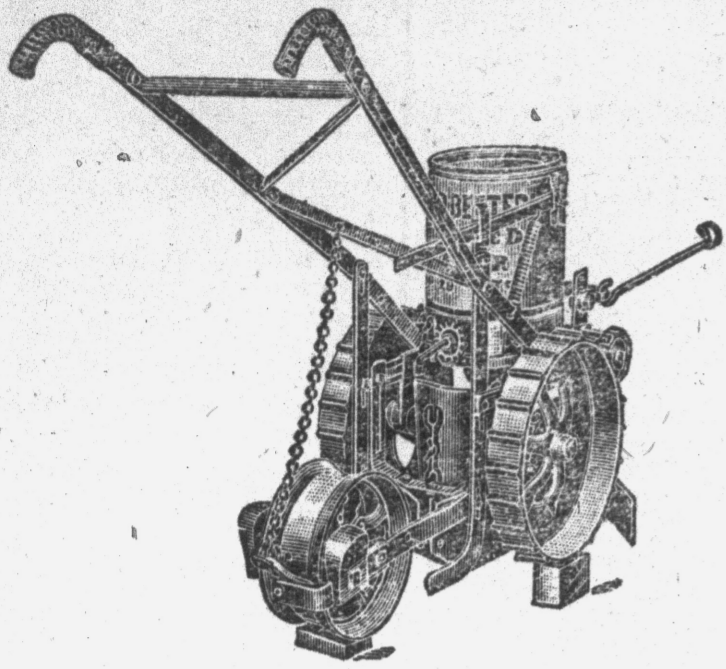

The Monster.

"Miss Peachkin is very angry with young Slurgit."

"Why so?"

"She wrote him to return her letters, and he replied in a politely worded note that he would have his secretary sort them out at the earliest opportunity, his filing cabinet for love missives having been neglected while he was abroad."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

TIMELY TEXT.

How We Can All Help Each Other.

"Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ."

Here is a most excellent text for the year so recently begun—a text that is good for us to adopt for all time. How shall you carry it out? By splitting up the burdens into fragments—you take part of ours and we take part of yours, and each one will take part of the other's, and so we will fulfill the law of Christ.

One of the ways towards this end is encouragement.

Encourage the merchant. If he has a superior style of goods, tell him so.

Encourage the editors of the newspaper in your town. The paper that has always done everything in its power to build up the place and its people.

Be affable to every one. Don't wait until you have an axe to grind before you are nice to people.

Encourage the mechanics. If one has completed a job well, be sure to tell him that it is splendidly done.

Encourage the farmers. There is no class of people in this country who want your sympathy just now more than the farmers.

Encourage the doctors. You always praise the physician when he brings you up from an awful crisis of disease, but do you ever compliment the physician when, through his skillful treatment of the incipient cases, he keeps you from sinking down to death?

Encourage the lawyers.

Encourage the teachers in our public schools. Go to them and tell them that they are doing a good work.

Encourage all individuals by telling them how many you have known with the same ailments to get well.

Encourage all starting in life by yourself becoming reminiscent.

To sum the matter up, live and let live. Help those around you, and thus make your own lives happier thereby.—Durham Sun.

SELECTING ROBIN JURY.

He Smiles Vacantly Around The Court Room.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, Feb. 28.—The work of selecting the jury in the Robin case continued today. The seventh juror was selected a short time after court opened. Robin smiled vacantly about the court room, seemingly unconscious of the fact that prison terms hanging over him. It is understood that even if the jury acquits Robin, Jerome will ask to have him committed to Mattewan as a hopeless paranoiac.

NIGHT RIDERS BURN BARN.

And Make Threats of Death Against Planters.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Night riders in Kentucky are threatening death to tobacco growers who defy their orders. Last night raiders destroyed three big tobacco seed beds owned by Stephen Reynolds, of Bath county, and left notices on empty cartridge boxes that his home would be burned if he again sowed his fields. In the night riders campaign are empty cartridge boxes containing threats of death.

Cholera in Honolulu.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Honolulu, Feb. 28.—Quarantine has been extended here following four additional deaths from cholera, and the discovery of three new cases. Municipal authorities declare Americans are in no danger as yet.

Grasping.

Lieutenant—No, cap; he absolutely refuses to be a part of the spectacle unless we guarantee him a percentage of the moving picture receipts.—Puck.

WILMINGTON READY FOR THE BIG EVENT

A BIG TIME IS PROMISED.

Aviation Meet and Industrial Exhibit
There March 9th to 11th.

Special to The Reflector.

Wilmington, Feb. 28.—Throughout this section of North Carolina and the upper part of South Carolina, interest is growing in the great aviation meet to be held on the grounds of the Wilmington Driving association (later to be known as the Eastern Carolina Fair association) March 9th, 10th and 11th, when the Curtiss Exhibition company will have two of its celebrated Curtiss biplanes and two or three of its most experienced and well known aviators here to make daily flights between the hours of 3 and 6 p. m. Mr. Frank Herbert, the local manager, continues to receive reports which indicate that every town and village in this section will be represented as well as hundreds from other points throughout this State and South Carolina to witness the daring flights of the aviators and inspect the numerous exhibits of poultry farm products and implements, etc., which are promised. There will also be some midway attractions of the best kind. The railroads have granted a reduced rate on account of the gala occasion and they will bring crowds here, while the Wilmington people are making preparations to make the stay of the visitors pleasant in every respect.

One aeroplane has been built in Wilmington by individuals at a cost of several thousand dollars and bids fair to be a success, a few short flights having been made several months ago at Wrightsville Beach. A company has also been formed here to manufacture flying machines, the type to be a machine invented by Mr. Palmgren, of this city. Owing to these facts there is more than common interest in the aviation meet to be held here next week.

Wilmington's Fine Banking Record.

Wilmington business men and others, have been much interested and gratified to note the recent statement of R. G. Dunn & Co., relative to bank clearing for the year 1910, for it shows a gain for Wilmington of 54.4 per cent. over the preceding year. This is the greatest increase shown by any city south of Atlantic City, even greater than Atlanta, Ga., or Richmond, Va., which is only another indication that this city is rapidly forging ahead. The financial institutions of Wilmington have ever been the pride of the city and it will be gratifying news to all citizens to know of the splendid increase in clearings for the past year.—Morning Star.
