THE GREAT VALUE OF THE DAIRY PRODUCTS

IT IS A PROFITABLE INDUSTRY.
A Matter of Interest to the Farmers of North Carolina.

According to information furnished by the United States department of commerce and labor, 9,611,400 gallons of cotton seed oil were produced in North Carolina in 1909. This was worth approximately $3,844,560. This is a considerable amount of money and the market which demands this product is an important one to the people of the State.

This fact has held men who wish to see oleomargarine take the place of butter to make it appear that the manufacture of oleomargarine furnishes one of the greatest if not the greatest reasons for this market demand. But such is not the case. In fact the value of the cotton seed oil used in the manufacture of this product is so small in comparison that it is not worthy of the least consideration, especially when the value of the dairy products of the state are considered.

We do not have the statistics for 1909 but in 1908 the value of the cotton seed oil used in the manufacture of oleomargarine in this country was $499,458.42. The value of all the cotton seed oil produced in 1909 was approximately $63,331,400. This means that less than one per cent. of the cotton seed oil sold was used in making oleomargarine.

According to the department report, North Carolina produced about 6 per cent. of all the cotton seed oil produced in 1909. Using this figure for 1908 and we find that the value of the cotton seed oil used in oleomargarine returned to the cotton farmers of North Carolina the comparatively small amount of $29,967.50.

According to figures compiled by the United States department of agriculture, the value of butter produced in North Carolina in 1908 was $4,566,726, or for every dollar's worth of cotton seed oil used in making oleomargarine the cows of the state returned over $152 worth of dairy products.

These are facts which the farmers of North Carolina should carefully consider before they lend their support to any movement which discourages dairying. An increase in the production of dairy products in North Carolina will be just 152 times of greater value than an increase in the production of oleomargarine. This is not even taking in to consideration the value of dairying in building up the fertility of the soil, thus making the land more productive in growing cotton.

The farmers of North Carolina should awake to the benefits of dairying and should use every legitimate means to foster and promote this important industry.

THE MEN'S PRAYER LEAGUE

Continues to Have Helpful Influence

The meeting of the Men's Prayer League in the Methodist church, Sunday afternoon, had another large attendance. The subject "Nothing Without Love," made an inspiring topic and the leaders, Messrs. J. A. Lang, E. H. Thomas and Wiley J. Brown spoke with much interest.

A letter was read from Dr. William Black, out whose meeting here in November the league was organized, which came in response to a resolution thanking him for what he had done for Greenville.

The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be held in the Presbyterian church. Subject, "Blessings Multiplied." Text, Mark 10:23-30. Leaders, Messrs. L. H. Pender, C. C. Pierce and E. B. Ficklen.

Medieval Monarchs.

Almost every medieval monarch claimed a whole or a part of the dominions of almost every other and insisted on inserting his claim in his list of official titles. In treatises and all official documents the whole list was religiously copied, and as it often happened that the two negotiating monarchs had some of the same titles it became usual to insert a clause in the list, non praefudicando, in order to indicate that, no matter how absurd, inappropriate or untrue were the titles, they were understood to be inserted because they pleased the monarch who claimed them, that they did not confer a valid claim, and so no harm was likely to result from their use.

AFTER THE DISORDERLIES.

Mayor Wooten Gives Marching Orders to a Bunch.

Maggie Roberson, Dora Bullock, Sarah Moore and Mamie Foster, all colored, were in the mayor's court to answer the charge of keeping a disorderly house. They were all found guilty, and each was sentenced to a thirty days' term of imprisonment, the sentence to go into effect any time within two years if the defendants are found in Pitt county after 10 o'clock on March 14th.

These women have been maintaining a resort similar to that in which the outlaws were harbored in Wilson that caused the death of the deputy sheriff of that county recently. It is well that the community should be rid of such characters and that such places of evil be stopped. Public sentiment should support every step the officers take in that direction.

Alex. Bailey, colored, was also tried for disorderly conduct, and taxed $8.80 by the court.

DICKINSON TO PANAMA.

Will Visit Camps on His Return in April.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, March 13.—Secretary of War Dickinson sailed for Panama and when he returns April the first he will immediately proceed to the camps at Galveston and San Antonio to inspect the troops now engaged in maneuver on the Mexican border, was announced at the war department today. A list of 1,200 militia officers who went to take part in the maneuvers are now on file, and they will be sent in batches of 150 each.

NEW SECRETARY SWORN IN.

Will Leave For Seattle in A Few Days.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, March 13.—Walter S. Fisher, of Chicago, was sworn in as secretary of the interior today, succeeding Richard A. Ballinger. The new secretary said he would spend some time getting acquainted with the details of his office before announcing any policies. Former Secretary Ballinger was present when the oath was taken. He will leave in a few days for Seattle.

After Adulterated Whiskey.

It is announced that District Attorney Holton proposes to go after the manufacturers and dealers who are shipping cheap, adulterated liquor into the state. It is said he has sent a sample of the stuff to Washington for analysis and if it is found to be adulterated an investigation under the pure food law will follow. The district attorney has struck a fruitful field. It is probably within the bounds of reason to say that 75 to 90 per cent. of the stuff sold on the market today as whiskey is more or less adulterated and the cheaper grades are rank poison. People should not drink liquor to be sure, but this does not excuse the wretches who put the poison on the market. It is bad enough to sell liquor and worse to drink it, but if it is sold and drunk it should be what it purports to be, and nothing is too severe for the people who sell the adulterated and poisonous stuff under the name of liquor. The liquor dealers talk much of their "rights" and "personal liberty" and all that. Whatever may be said on this subject, when the quality of the stuff that most of them sell is considered, the wonder is not that they are being driven out of business, but that they are not being put into the penitentiary, as they deserve to be, for selling adulterated goods. It is greatly to be hoped that District Attorney Holton can find a way to put stripes on some of these folks.—Statesville Landmark

Mr. Hugh Holcombe Dead.

A telegram received by Mr. Frank Wilson this morning announced the death of Mr. Hugh W. Holcombe, which occurred Sunday evening in Richmond. Some years ago Mr. Holcombe lived in Greenville, being manager of the American Tobacco Co.'s business here, and he made many friends in this section.

MODIFICATIONS OF SOUTHERN CATTLE QUARANTINE

PROGRESS EXTERMINATING TICKS

Several North Carolina Counties Are Released.

Nearly 11,000 square miles of additional territory has been released from the Federal quarantine for Texas fever or tick fever of cattle by an order of the secretary of agriculture taking effect March 15. This action is taken as a result of good progress made during the past year in the extermination of cattle ticks which spread the disease. The total area released from quarantine since the eradication of the ticks was systematically undertaken in the summer of 1906 by co-operation between Federal, State, and local authorities now amounts to nearly 140,000 square miles, and includes territory in the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California. The released territory exceeds in extent the combined area of South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

In North Carolina, the counties of Stanley, Montgomery, Randolph, Chatham, Wake and Franklin.

In Tennessee, the county of Overton and portions of the counties of Fentress, Polk, Lincoln, Lawrence, Benton and Madison.

In Mississippi, portions of the counties of Marshall and Benton.

In Oklahoma, the county of Kiowa and portions of the counties of Greer, Jackson, Swanson, Caddo, Cleveland, Pattawatomie, Lincoln and Pawnee.

In Texas the county of Cottle and portions of the counties of Hardeman, Howard and Mitchell.

The order also prescribes regulations for the territory remaining in quarantine, which includes the entire States of Alabama, Florida and Louisiana, and parts of North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and California. Copies of this order may be obtained on application to the Bureau of Animal Industry, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

TO EDUCATE, NOT INTERFERE.

This, Says Mr. Marburg, is Object of Peace Society.

Before leaving for North Carolina, where he will spend a week with his family, Mr. Theodore Marburg, president of Maryland Peace Society, said yesterday that he thought the United States should fortify the Panama canal. This declaration is regarded as an index of the attitude of the peace advocates throughout the country.

Mr. Marburg had been questioned about the attitude of the Maryland Peace Society toward the possible intervention of this country in Mexican affairs. He said the society would take no steps to stop the movement of the American army.

"We have no disposition to interfere," he said, "when nations are about to engage in war. Our plan is to educate the people so that they will eventually come to regard an international court as the proper place to settle disputes between nations. Even then we do not expect to prevent war entirely."

"I approve of the fortification of the Panama canal by the United States, as contradictory as it may appear. Forts there would naturally be able to save us many ships in case we were engaged in war. While it would increase our armament in one way, it might prove useful in keeping it down in another."—Baltimore Sun.

Supreme Court Says It is Constitutional.

By Wire to The Reflector.

This decision will add $25,000,000 annually to the revenues of the country. The tax has been in force ever since the adoption of Payne-Aldrich tariff law. The decision was unanimous and sweeping in detail, every objection being overruled.

AUTOMOBILE AND BICYCLE HAVE A COLLISION

MIXUP PURELY AN ACCIDENT

Bicycle Rider Run Over, but Escapes Unharmed.

Saturday afternoon Mr. W. J. Turnage was running his automobile out Dickinson avenue. A colored man named Andrew James was riding a bicycle in the same direction and was keeping along by the side of the automobile, but not near enough to the front for Mr. Turnage to see him or be aware of his presence. The negro anticipated that the automobile was going straight ahead to the depot and did not expect it to turn a corner, but reaching Pitt street Mr. Turnage turned his machine to go in that direction. A collision followed, the bicycle and rider plunged into the automobile. In the mix-up both of these went under the machine and were run over. The man fortunately escaped with only some bruises, while his bicycle was considerably broken.

In the meantime seeing the man and bicycle go under the automobile somewhat excited Mr. Turnage and the machine knocked down a section of Mr. J. C. Lanier's yard fence and butted into the front porch before it stopped. The automobile was not damaged, but gave the bicycle rider a closs call.

IN CHINA

The Heavy Price of Their Forestry Neglect.

Another thing that has burned itself into my memory is the heavy penalty China is now paying for the reckless destruction of her forests in former years. On this trip I have seen river valley after river valley, once rich and productive, but now become an abomination of desolations—covered over with unnumbered tons of sand and stone brought down from the treeless mountain sides. While the peaks were forest-clear, they held the rain-water like sponges, giving it out slowly from the decaying leaves, humus, and well-soaked soil. Now, however, the mountains are in thousands of cases merely enormous rock-piles, the soil completely washed away, having laid waste the country below; while other mountains show the destruction still going on, rent as they are by gorges through which furious torrents rush down, submerging once fruitful plains with rock and unfertile gully-dirt. Usually the Chinese farmer around here has nothing to do with piddling little "patches" such as the negroes have made disgracefully common in the South; he prefers to cultivate in broad fields where the plowman will not have to waste half his time in turning round at the end of garden length furrows. In the devastated valleys, however, I find that John Chinaman is often forced, against his will, into this sort of patch-farming simply because it is only here and there that fertile streaks have been left unruined. In these cases he has piled the rocks in little heaps and saved some remnants from the general soil wreck.

Saturday I rode over the bed of a once deep river. Now it is almost entirely filled up with sand and rock and of the once splendid arches of an old stone bridge. I found only a few feet of the upper part not yet submerged in sand. Once the clear, deep, steadily flowing water ran here month after month, and all around were well-tended lowlands; now when a rain comes a mad fury of waters sweeps over the lowlands, leaving a ruinous deposit behind, and later there are long weeks when the river-bed is dry and deserted-like. So it was when I saw it yesterday, the old bridge itself standing amid the waste a melancholy monument to the gladness and fertility of a vanished era.—Clarence Poe, in Progressive Farmer.

SOLD HIS SWORD FOR $1.

Haitian General Then Adopted Sugar-cane as Emblem of Authority.

Passengers arriving here from Haiti on the Hamburg-American steamship Albinga declared that Port au Prince and other cities on the island were in a state of disorganization akin to revolution. It was the belief of many that unless President Simon takes some drastic action in dealing with the situation many lives will be needlessly sacrificed. According to W. A. Placier, an electrical engineer, of London, who had been on the island for six weeks, the city of Port au Prince is an exceptionally dangerous place for any person who values his life.

"There are only about 90,000 persons in Port au Prince," said Mr. Placier, "and there is more noise in that town than there is in New York. The city is filthy, and the pig seems to be the household pet. There are hasty trials of offenders during the day, and the victims are sometimes buried when alive and unconscious. Fresh graves may be seen every day in the cemetery, but no one knows who has been buried until the identity of the victims becomes known through their absence from customary haunts."

"The soldiers are supposed to receive 12 cents a week, but they seldom get their allowance, and depend almost wholly upon foraging for existence. Organization seems to have disappeared. I saw a general drilling six men with a sword. When I offered him $1 for the sword he sold it eagerly and continued drilling, substituting a piece of sugar-cane for the sword."

Among the Albinga's passengers was Robert Hertzberg, chancellor of the German legation of Port au Prince. He was taken ill about a month ago, and because of the disturbance was unable to find a physician capable of treating him. Becoming worse, he sought the help of a native physician, but after a few days the Haitian doctor disappeared. Mr. Hertzberg sent a servant in search of the doctor and found that he had been put in prison. On learning this the chancellor came to this city for treatment.—New York Tribune.

MONDAY, MARCH 13, 1911.

The fool who puts a dynamite cap on a stove is in the class with the one who rocks the boat.

The Reflector has several times been asked what the last legislature did. To tell the truth, we don't know.

Nothing has been said on the subject in a long time, but a hospital would be an exceedingly good thing for Greenville.

A South Carolina school teacher whipped one of her pupils and the father of the child assaulted and cursed the teacher. He was convicted and got a sentence of five years on the county chain-gang. Guess he will learn his lesson by the time the sentence expires.

His brethren of the press throughout North Carolina are glad to know that Editor C. H. Poe, of the Raleigh Progressive Farmer has returned from his trip abroad which covered a period of about six months. His trip embraced many foreign countries, and he gathered a fund of information that will be of great value to his readers. In a personal letter to the editor of The Reflector, Mr. Poe says he had an interesting trip and enjoyed every moment of it. We are glad to have been among the friends he remembered during his absence, and appreciate copies of Japanese, Chinese and Hindoo papers which he sent us. Of course we cannot read them, except the one from India, which is printed in English, but they are a curiosity. The Japanese paper has a circulation of 180,000, which shows that they are reading people over there.

How to Grow a Big Potato Crop.

How to grow a big potato crop is told by J. V. Bopp in the Northwest Farmstead. He says:

"Few types of agriculture give more profitable returns with less element of risk than the growing of potatoes. Intensive methods of culture, careful preparation of the soil and judicious selection of seed all have their determinate value and can not be ignored. Because of repeated inquiries regarding this matter, a brief description of potato management is important. The prospective grower should do his planning carefully at this time of the year.

"Soil type has more or less of an influence on cultural methods. In St. Louis county, Minnesota, the predominant type is a loam to a sandy loam, which adapts itself readily to potato culture. However, because the initial preparation must be made this spring the method of procedure must be somewhat modified. The soil should be given a coating of 10 to 12 loads per acre of well-roted manure. Distribute this uniformly over the surface this winter or early spring. Care should be taken that the manure is not to course, as it will interfere materially in the cultivation. Weathered manure is, therefore, essentially better.

"As early as the soil permits, thoroughly disk it so as to incorporate the manure with the first few inches of earth and then harrow. There are two reasons for this. One is that the early cultivation will prevent the loss of moisture, and secondly, the manure is incorporated with the soil and the plant food becomes more evenly distributed and available. Sod or meadows require a definite method in order to attain greatest success. When such a field is plowed the furrow slices should be turned on the edge instead of completely over. This is a very important step. If the furrow slice is turned on edge and then thoroughly disked the manure and turf will not interfere with the upward movement of water. This, of course, has been materially helped in the early disking of the field.

"Potatoes need a deep, loose seed bed and the ground should be turned from 6 to 8 inches deep. It is easier to plow this depth if the plow is permitted to cut only a narrow swath. Much time should be spent in the preparation after the plowing. The repeated disking and harrowing should be done at weekly or 10-day periods until time of planting.

"The best varieties are Early Rose and Red Bliss Triumph. The best late varieties are Rural New Yorker No. 2 and Sir Walter Raleigh. In planting an area of 15 acres it is advisable to grow both early and late sorts. If the potatoes are scabby they should be treated with a solution made by mixing one pint of 40 per cent formalin with 30 gallons of water and soaking the potatoes for two hours. They are cut so that every piece contains at least one good, vigorous eye. The best method is to plant in rows three feet apart, placing the pieces at intervals of 15 to 18 inches. At this rate it will require about 12 bushels of seed per acre. The rows are made by drawing a furrow about four inches deep with a plow and then covering with the same tool, which leaves the soil somewhat in ridges. The potatoes are to be planted about the middle of May.

"Much depends upon the cultivation. When the potatoes are coming up or weeds make their appearance the field should be dragged with a harrow. At the end of a week or 10 days another cultivation is given with the same tool. If the field becomes quite weedy after the first harrowing cover each row by plowing and let lie. These rows can later be harrowed down. The object during all the cultivations should be to conserve moisture and only incidentally kill weeds. Potatoes should be cultivated frequently to a depth of about three inches until blossoms appear. It will require about three months to reach maturity. However, nearly two-thirds of this time is used in developing a strong, vigorous stalk, while the tubers actually attain their growth in a comparatively short time. Some blight has prevailed in this section, which should be held under control by spraying with Bordeaux. The potato beetle can easily be held in check by spraying with paris green. This mixture is made at the rate one pound of the poison to 20 gallons of water, and is best applied as a fine spray.

"The grower of potatoes should bear in mind that attention to these minor details is very essential to success. Managing the field after the potatoes are up centres largely in good, careful cultivation and spraying for insects and blight. By such handling a yield of 250 to 300 bushels should be produced."

Catarrh, A Surely Dangerous Disease

Thousands of people allow catarrh to slowly undermine the whole system until a serious disease develops—sometimes consumption. People who have catarrh should use every effort to get rid of it, but should above all adopt a sensible method.

Search dosing, sprays and douches won't cure catarrh because it is a germ disease, and the germs must be destroyed before the disease can be conquered.

HYOMEI is the one sensible cure for catarrh because it reaches every fold, crevice and nook in the mucous membrane and gets where the germs are. You breathe HYOMEI and as it passes over the inflamed membrane its soothing influence heals the soreness and destroys the germs. A complete HYOMEI outfit costs $1.00. This consists of a bottle of HYOMEI and a hard rubber inhaler. Pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler, and breathe it a few minutes each day, that's all you have to do. MILE A MINUTE BEATS DEATH.

Wild Locomotive Dash Saves Dying Brakeman From Strangling.

Throwing regulation to the winds and placing their own lives in grave risk, the crew of a freight train on the Danbury division of the New Haven Railroad saved the life of a trainman by running an engine and caboose from Branchville to this place, a distance of ten miles, in ten minutes.

While the trainmen were eating their noon meal at Branchville a chicken bone became lodged in the throat of Jay Mallory, a brakeman. There was no physician available and none of the men was able to get the bone out. Mallory became frightened and resisted all efforts to help him.

As it became plain that if he were not helped quickly he would be strangled to death, John Wilkinson engine driver, ordered the other men to lift Mallory into the caboose. Then, while the operator at the station sent a message here requesting that a surgeon be ready, Wilkinson coupled his locomotive to the caboose and started for South Norwalk at a mile a minute speed. The telegraph operator sent orders ahead for a clear track.

Between Branchville and South Norwalk is a steep grade and several sharp curves. As Wilkinson sent the locomotive flying toward South Norwalk the men in the caboose with Mallory were obliged to sit on the floor and brace themselves. Several times it seemed as though locomotive and caboose would leave the rails as they flew around the curves or came to uneven sections. All the time Mallory, with two men holding him and trying to administer restoratives, seemed nearer and nearer to death.

He became unconscious before reaching South Norwalk. Wilkinson threw open the whistle valve and sounded a long shrill warning to those waiting at the station. Dr. H. B. West and an assistant were there with an ambulance.

As the locomotive stopped Dr. West sprang into the caboose and satisfied himself by one look at Mallory that the man not could live long enough to be carried to a hospital. Opening his case of instruments he administered an anesthetic and extracted the bone from Mallory's throat as he lay on the floor of the caboose. The man rallied and is now recovering.—South Norwalk Dispatch to New York Herald.

SURE ROAD TO GLORY.

The Great Faith Shown by Condemned Criminals.

In the days when hanging was the penalty for a capital crime in North Carolina, every poor devil who was hurried to eternity at the end of a rope professedly went direct to heaven. The occupants of the State chair which succeeds the gallows and of which there has already been several, go the same way. Many living, if taken away suddenly, are not as well prepared as it seems to be in the case of these condemned criminals. And why? should, however, a criminal be reprieved, and the shadow of the gallows or electric chair be removed, would he hold fast to his profession, or wander back to the paths of sin? Has the murderer, the rapist, or the burglar, condemned to die, a better opportunity than the average human being drifting along life's way, indifferently, it may be. It is good that the miserable ending of these criminal lives is brightened by the hope and gleam of a blessed immortality. It is a road no one would prefer by choice and is only taken through necessity and with no other alternative. We conversed with three men who were hanged in Forsyth county and they were all sincere. In their belief of a complete forgiveness of their sins. In it all there is a lesson, that if every condemned criminal goes direct to the abode of the blessed after death, then those who obey the laws and lead honest, moral and God-fearing lives have a far better opportunity if they live to the end of their days—as God intends that they should—and why not? —Winston Republican.

Attacks School Principal.

A severe attack on school principal, Jas. B. Allen, of Sylvania, Ga., is thus told by him. "For more than three years," he writes, "I suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys. All remedies failed till I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely." Such results are common. Thousands bless them for curing stomach trouble, female complaints, kidney disorders, biliousness and for new health and vigor. Try them. Only 50c at all druggists.

NEWSPAPER PRESS FOR SALE.

Having placed an order for a new fast newspaper and book press, to be installed the middle of April, we have a newspaper press that will be sold at a bargain for delivery May 1st.

It is a Monona Leverless Press, large enough to print four 6-column pages, or two 9-column pages and has steam fixtures so that it can be run either by hand or power. Been in use six years.

It is a splendid press for a weekly paper and is in good condition to do many years good service. We used a press from the same factory for 17 years before installing this one, printing a daily paper with small circulation about 10 years of that time. Its speed, 800 an hour, is too slow for a daily paper with the present circulation of The Reflector, and for that reason we are having to displace it with a faster press.

Any one interested and wanting a good press for a weekly newspaper, can see this press at work every day in the Reflector building, before our new press is installed. Any one who cannot come to see it at work and examine it, can get particulars by addressing Eternal Lamps.

A common superstition that the ancients possessed the art of making lamps which would burn forever for a long time obtained, and it was claimed that one such lamp was discovered in the tomb of Rosicrucius. Science, however, has long set this, together with other superstitions, forever at rest, since it has been demonstrated that fire will not burn in a chamber from which the air has been exhausted.

AIR PRESSURE WATER SYSTEM

Water under pressure for kitchen, laundry, bathroom, sprinkling lawn and garden, watering stock and for fire protection.

An air-tight steel tank in the basement, or in an out house, stores the water as it is pumped by hand or power and forces it through the pipes and faucets by compressed air in the upper portion of the tank. No elevated or attic tank to freeze and become stagnant. Water kept cool, clean and pure.

PIONEERS NEEDED.

The Tasks of Upbuilding The Country Districts.

One of the most difficult things is to do things a little differently from your neighbors and yet that is among the first of the needs in the country life of America today. The life of the city is different from that of the country. There the quickening influence of growth and civilization accelerate development, co-operation is involuntary and there is less need for a large number of leaders.

In the country the problem is more complicated. The average farmer lives the year round in a rut. Many of his customs he has inherited from his father. Others he copies from his neighbors. As a result life proceeds from one year's end to another with not one-tenth degree of the progress witnessed in the city, into which is all the time pouring new ideas and new influences.

To illustrate, it has been the custom for decades in the country to squabble over land lines, over differences in religious opinion, etc. It has been a custom here and there to indulge in that baneful neighborly gossip which does no one any good and does everybody concerned an infinite amount of harm. One community may have the one horse habit where it should have the two horse habit. One county may be sticking to old inherited methods of agriculture, when it needs modern, scientific methods. One county may need more schools, or better teachers, or longer terms and more teachers.

One community—in fact, thousands of them in this country—forgetts each year to the city a great many more of its young men and women than it can afford. There is a way to keep these young men and women at home, and to invest in the country the energy that brings dividends in the city.

Now, I suggest that if you want to write yourselves down as a benefactor to your fellows, that you get out and start doing some of these things that the rest of your neighbors are too lazy, too blind, or too busy to do or see.

One wide-awake, energetic, self-sacrificing man in a county can accomplish wonders.

The results may not be apparent at once, but if the task is followed with patience and persistence, they are sure in the long run.

In the olden days, when this country was a wilderness, it took the hardest sort of courage for men to be pioneers. It takes as much or more courage of another sort to be a pioneer in our civilized age, when it comes to starting the task of upbuilding our country districts. The man who launched it is going to run up against enough snags and discouragements and ridicule and indifference to make him feel that he is wearing a crown of thorns.

But in the end he will triumph and be rewarded by the crown of gold that comes from the gratitude of his awakened friends and neighbors.

For the mass of the farmers are not so unreasonable or unresponsive, after all. Once shown the right way and once convinced that a man is trying sincerely to benefit their condition, their gratitude is decidedly worth the having.—President Chas. A. Barrett, of the Farmers' Union.

Inspiration In Dreams.

Coleridge must be added to the list of authors who have found inspiration in dreams, for he himself has told us that he composed over 200 lines of the "Kubla Khan" during a sleep of three hours. On awaking he wrote down the fragment now existing, but the interruption of a visitor banished the rest from his mind. The first idea of "The Ancient Mariner," too, was suggested to the poet by a dream of his friend Cruikshank. And Kipling's "Greatest Story In The World" was but the half remembered dream of a commonplace young man.—London Mail.

THE PEOPLE OR A MONARCHY.

All The Cry is That The People Must Rule.

This is the day of the people, or rather the days, because the goal has not been reached. However, a start has been made and the goal is going to be gained. In neglecting to provide a primary system—certainly a primary system for State officers and United States senators—and in not passing the Cotten bill calling for the establishment of the Torrens system of land registration, the legislature blundered, and blundered badly. It failed absolutely to stand with the people. But both these things will come in time. The rush forward can not be stopped, and the man who stands in the path may not get injured, but he is going to be ruthlessly thrown aside. It is not an hysterical or infurated rush on the part of the people, because men of conservative ideas, men of vast intellect, including Woodrow Wilson, Judson Harmon, Senator Borah, ex-Senator Beveridge and others, are in the front ranks, representing various sections and different political parties, and the people are studying conditions, and they are capable of bringing about good results. But in cases of the ignorant and the careless there is an even chance of not making a mistake, but the end in the hands of the grasping and the tricky is always hurtful. And the people are realizing that not to permit them to have a voice and a hand in government means a slur on their intelligence besides depriving them of a right. It means that the people either must rule, or this country must become a monarchy. The people are not hysterical, although some folks may attempt to make it appear so, to gain their selfish ends, and the people's rule will not mean oppression for law abiding corporations, nor will it mean government ownership, but on the other hand it will mean increased prosperity.

But the people must rule. This cry is sweeping over the land. From north and west comes the cry, and it must be heeded. The movement will not be allowed to rest.

Well says the Winston Sentinel: "Popular rule, real popular government is not to be had without the referendum and the initiative. These two devices bring the government closer to the people.

"Arkansas adopted the initiative and referendum by a vote of 90,000 to 30,000. Ten States now have the law and ten more States are getting into line.

"Your constitution belongs to whom? To you, the people, not to machine politicians nor their owners. "It is time for the people to make their own laws instead of corporation attorneys.

"Oregon has had a most successful experience with these two intrusions of legislation. People there do not complain of these laws.

"This is a popular government. Let the people rule! If this kind of government will not work successfully, we may go back to kings, and queens, but we probably will not. "Popular government is on trial. Unless we advance we will go back. Let us keep abreast of progressive ideas."—Wilmington Dispatch.

Machinery for Tax Assessments.

The legislature which has just adjourned passed a law which conferred upon the corporation commission the authority of a "State Tax Commission." There is to be a tax assessor for each county and the act is very specific in requiring the corporation commission as State tax commission to visit each county and instruct the assessors and to finally pass upon the equitables of the standards of valuation applied in the various counties in the assessing of property. The act multiplies the work of the corporation commission considerably and likewise provides for $500 additional compensation for each of the three members. These county assessors are newly created and will have supervision of the work of the township and ward assessors in listing both real and personal property and assessing real estate, a work that recurs each fourth year under the North Carolina system of assessment.

The appointment of these tax assessors will probably be made by the corporation commission early in April when the new method for tax assessment throughout the state begins. This is one of the best bills of the late legislature and as a revenue producer is one of the best numbered among the revenue and machinery acts for the last general assembly.—High Point Enterprise.

CRYING FOR HELP.

Lots of it in Greenville, But Daily Growing Less.

The kidneys cry for help. Not an organ in the whole body so delicately constructed. Not one so important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood. When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous. There can be no health where there is poisoned blood. Backache is one of the first indications of kidney trouble. It is the kidney's cry for help. Heed it. Doan's Kidney Pills are what is wanted. Are just what overworked kidneys need. They strengthen and invigorate the kidneys; help them to do their work; never fail to cure any case of kidney disease.

Mrs. Disco Pittman, Walnut St., Tarboro, N. C., says: "For some time I had not been feeling well and thought that my kidneys might be disordered, as my back was very weak and the kidney secretions annoying. My husband got me a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and since using them, my back has become stronger and my kidneys have been normal. I am now feeling much better in every way and therefore am willing to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

More Poultry for the Farm.

No careful observer can fail to note the increased interest in poultry raising in the South during the last year. Like all other lines of live stock raising, it is especially receiving attention in the area being invaded by the boll weevil. It is simply astonishing what capacity this little bug—the boll weevil—has for making men think and even act. All lines of live stock are receiving more attention than ever before and poultry is coming in for its share of increased attention. But, strange as it may seem the greater part of this increase in poultry interest is among the people in the towns and to a much less degree among the farmers.

This appears to us wrong. Surely there is no place where the opportunities for raising strong, healthy poultry at a minimum of cost, are so good as out on the farms. Not only is this true as regards the production of utility poultry—eggs for food—but it is especially true of the production of fancy poultry and birds for breeding.

By much care, constant work and intelligent feeding and management, good poultry is produced on the small lots in or near the towns; but it requires more intelligence and poultry knowledge to raise good birds under such conditions than it does to accomplish the same results on the farm. Why then, is most of our best poultry raised in the small towns or near the cities?

The range which may be given the birds on the farm, except perhaps during the breeding season, is almost unlimited and this means a variety of feed, such as poultry require, and ample exercise, two things most essential to the economical production of vigorous birds.

It requires some knowledge to raise good poultry and this can only be obtained by reading and studying the experience of others as set down in poultry journals or agricultural papers and in books, and by actual personal experience in the handling of the birds. In the past this has been thought too small a business for the farmer, but if that is still the idea, we insist that the women and children should be given an opportunity to add this additional industry to the farm. Nor would we limit them to the production of eggs and the growing of birds to be used as food; but would insist that where the inclination exists they be given a chance to produce the best, to be sold as breeders, or eggs to be sold for hatching.—Progressive Farmer.

The War Correspondent 50 Years Ago

The war cloud, doubtless, have been fought through without the aid of correspondents, and some of our generals were of opinion that their movements could have been managed more successfully, because with more secrecy, if they could have felt assured that information was not going to their opponents by way of the New York papers. These same generals felt not infrequently also that there would have been a wider freedom of action if their movements and the management of their responsibilities could have been directed solely with reference to the approval or criticism of their superiors instead of being made the text for more or less misleading newspaper leaders. There was doubtless ground for such annoyance on the part of General Sherman and other of the military opponents of the correspondents. There can, however, be no question as to the skill, enterprise and courage with which was conducted the work of these representatives of the press. They incurred, in pressing their way to the scene of active operations, and in making their observations, and in scribbling their reports actually under fire (see, for instance, the vivid portrait of the correspondent on the field of Gettysburg), practically all the perils that came upon the soldier himself.

Not a few of these plucky newspaper men fell on the field of battle, while others, like Richardson of the Tribune, endured long terms of imprisonment. It is certain that without the clever and often dramatic work of these newspaper writers, the citizens at home would have known much less than they did know then, and their successors would know much less today, about the actual happenings of the campaigns. It was necessary also that the people at home, who were finding supplies for the armies and paying the taxes under which the armies were supported, should be furnished with information as to what the men at the front were doing. It may safely be concluded that on the whole a great debt was due to the American war correspondent.—From Review of Reviews.

He Wanted Figs.

At a small stag dinner the only young and unnoteworthy person present sat throughout the meal communing with his own bashful soul, afraid lest by speaking he betray his sophistication. Dessert being served, he felt he must have some of the candied fruit at the other end of the table. Clearing his voice, he fixed the nearest waiter with a glittering eye and, amid a sudden total silence, peremptorily called out at the top of his voice, "Figs, figs!"—Exchange.

Found Wanting.

Mrs. Laytebyrd (as Laytebyrd comes in unsteadily at 3 a. m.)—You have no excuse for coming home at this hour and in this condition. Laytebyrd—I had one, my dear, and it was a grand one, but I can't think what it was.

Dr. Reece Defends Groundhog.

Says the Greenville Reflector: "March seems to be trying to do its worst in the way of weather. It may be giving the groundhog some satisfaction, but that's all." "That's all, nothing! Is not the cold weather—the groundhog—holding back the fruit crop so there is a prospect of a fine yield? Why not give the devil his dues if he is a groundhog?"—Greensboro Record.

NEW YORK AND CHICAGO MARKETS

Cotton

New York, March 13.—Cotton opened easier today with general declines. March contracts were off seven points from Saturday's close, and May and July were off six points. Liverpool futures were steady, spots quiet and in little demand.

Opening—
March..... 14.30
May..... 14.50
July..... 14.31
August..... 13.84

Stocks.

New York, March 13.—There was a tone of irregularity at the opening of the stock market caused by the possibility of the Supreme court decisions in the Federal anti-trust cases. There was a feeling of hesitancy and disposition to await developments. Mexican National Railway was weak, opening off. Southern Pacific was up 1-8; Union Pacific off 1-8; Copper irregular; Steel up 1-8.

Grain.

Chicago, March 13.—Favorable weather and crop news of larger receipts, etc., caused lower market today. Trade in corn was light and easier. Oats also light and easier; Provisions were lower.

Happiness of Home.

It makes little difference in home happiness whether you own your house, or have one little room on the sixth floor of an apartment house. You can make that one little room the perfection of all that is worth living for, a quiet harbor to which a husband will turn, feeling that he has run out the storms of his day's work into the security of something that is real.

We are not all born with the sunshine in our hearts as the Irish people prettily term it, but we can all coax some of it in there if we only try.

The faculty of seeing the bright side, or, at least the edges of that side, is one that married people might cultivate with profit to each other.

Courtesy is of more value in the home than many believe it to be. It is easier to love a person than it is to be always courteous to him, and yet it is one of the most valuable recipes for keeping that love fresh within our hearts.—Durham Sun.
