LOUIS WEST TO BE ELECTROCUTED

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER IN THE FIRST DEGREE

STETSON SENTENCED THIRTY YEARS

Verdict Against Him Was Murder in Second Degree—Others in House At Time of Shooting Get Smaller Sentences.

The trial of Louis West and John Stetson, charged with killing Deputy Sheriff Mumford, which was in progress in a special term of court in Wilson, came to an end Friday afternoon. The jury found West guilty of murder in the first degree, and Stetson guilty of murder in the second degree. The trial attracted much interest throughout the entire Eastern section of the State.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Wilson, March 18.—Louis West was this morning sentenced for electrocution May 5th, for the murder of Deputy Sheriff George Mumford. Stetson was given 30 years and the others in the house at the time of the shooting get smaller sentences.

THE COTTON MILLS.

Why Bulk of Them are in The Carolinas.

The New Orleans Picayune cannot understand why the bulk of the cotton mill business of the South is confined to the two Carolinas and Georgia, or why Georgia, in the way of cotton spinning, is so far behind the two Carolinas. The Picayune prints a table showing the increase in spindleage since 1840, when North Carolina had 47,934, now 3,374,917; when South Carolina had 16,336, now 4,064,320, and when Georgia had 42,589, now 1,972,833. Analyzing the figures, the Picayune says they show that in 1840 Georgia had 19 textile mills with 42,589 spindles; South Carolina 15 mills with 16,335 spindles and North Carolina 25 mills, with 47,934 spindles.

In 1860, just before the outbreak of the war, Georgia had 3 mills with 85,186 spindles; North Carolina 39 mills with 41,884 spindles and South Carolina 17 mills with 30,890 spindles. In the twenty years between 1840 and 1860, in which the Southern textile industry made quite notable progress, the rate of increase in the number of mills in Georgia was greater than the rate either in North Carolina or South Carolina, and the number of Georgia spindles was more than doubled, and in 1860 was greater by about 14,000 than the aggregate number in the other two states. In 1880 when the textile industry had begun to revive, the forty mills in Georgia had about 24,000 more spindles than the sixty-three mills in the two Carolinas. In the next twenty years there was a decided change in the relative positions of the three states. With the Georgia mills increasing in number from 28 to 68, the South Carolina mills increased from 14 to 80 and the North Carolina mills from 49 to 177 in number. There was a far greater increase proportionately in the number of spindles, bringing the aggregate total in North Carolina and South Carolina to 2,564,781, while the increase in Georgia was only to 817,345. The year 1910 found Georgia with 157 mills, having 1,972,833 spindles, or an average of 12,566 to the mill; South Carolina with 185 mills and 4,064,320 spindles, or an average of 21,939, and North Carolina with 331 mills and 3,347,917 spindles or an average of 10,169 spindles to the mill. It shows that much interest is being taken in the subject of Southern cotton spinning when the three leading Southern states in that industry make it a matter of discussion, but the question might be asked with vastly more propriety, why it is that such other cotton states as Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas have so few cotton spindles at work, they having only hundreds of thousands, where the three first states mentioned have millions.

In explanation of this "mystery" as the Picayune calls it, some think there "is not in the Gulf states the population of women and girls available for cotton mills, whereas, the Atlantic states have. Some others believe that our people are not as willing to invest their money in manufacturing as are

Robin, bank wrecker, has not completed his evidence before the grand jury, the testimony he has already given is expected to result in the indictments of twelve other persons. It is understood that six of the indictments will be handed down next week. Robin held a conference with the assistant district attorney today.

PLAYS REPEATED.

The Audience Was Again Delighted Friday Night.

In order to gratify those who had requested it, the senior class of East Carolina Teachers' Training school on Friday night repeated the two plays, "The Kleptomaniac," and "A Proposal Under Difficulties." If anything the plays were even better than at the first presentation, and the audience was thoroughly delighted.

The people of the town showed their appreciation in a large attendance, and they thank the class for favoring them with a repetition of the plays.

those of other states." The truth is the big planters of the lower cotton belt states have not yet waked to the possibilities of cotton manufactures. They are too content to plod along in the old ways and do not yet realize how far the world has left them.—Charlotte Chronicle.

GREAT SUNDAY SCHOOL MEETING.

Twenty-Eighth Annual Convention of N. C. S. S. Association.

The greatest Sunday school meeting of the year will take place in High Point, April 26-28.

The music will be in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Butler. Mr. Butler has been for several years past with Dr. R. A. Torrey in his evangelistic tours. He is well known as a leader of evangelistic singing and as a soloist of unusual ability. His wife has a very sweet soprano voice. Their solos and duets are inspiring and uplifting.

The railroads have granted reduced rates from all parts of the state. The tickets will be sold on the certificate plan and will be one and one-half fare, plus 50c for round trip. Tickets will be on sale from April 22-26, with final limit May 2nd.

Each county is entitled to as many delegates as there are townships in the county. This does not mean that every township must be represented, but that the basis of delegation shall be the number of townships in the county.

All delegates will pay a registration fee of $1.00. This will be paid at High Point when assignment to home is made. All delegates will receive entertainment during the convention, a seat in the convention with county delegation, a souvenir badge, convention program, a right to voice and vote in all the deliberations of the body, helpful literature of various kinds.

Entertainment will be provided all delegates by the citizens of High Point, during the three days of the convention.

Mr. Marion Lawrence, general secretary and Mr. W. N. Hartshorn, chairman of the executive committee, will be the representatives of the International Sunday School Association.

The program is one of the very best ever prepared on Sunday school work.

This convention is interdenominational. Those desiring to attend should send their names to the county association secretary, or J. Van Carter, general secretary, Raleigh, and receive appointment as a delegate.

Cleveland County Sand Clay Roads

Up to the present about eight miles of roads have been graded and surfaced with sand clay in No. 6 township, and the approximate cost has been $1,500 a mile. Bonds amounting to $25,000 have been sold, $12,000 of this amount has been spent on the roads and $6,000 has been invested in machinery, stock etc., with which to carry on the work. The people in general seem highly satisfied with the way in which the money is spent and the amount of work done. Mr. W. P. Eddlemen is one of the most competent and experienced road builders in the state. At present he has 16 mules, about 26 convicts and a number of wagons, scrapers, etc. He is finishing up the road across the river between the Southern and Seaboard trestles. The new iron bridge is completed and all the grading on both sides. As soon as the sand clay surface is laid he will be ready to move to the road leading toward Faliston—Shelby Star.

The Motion Picture.

Those who, a few years ago, predicted that the moving picture would prove but a passing fad, have long since acknowledged their mistake. When the moving pictures first came along, any kind of a vacant store would be instantly halted. But now the finest of theatres in the country have been built especially for the motion picture show. The latest recognition of this art—for art it is—is the publication of a magazine which treats solely of the moving picture enterprise. It is called The Motion Picture Story Magazine, and The Chronicle has found it exceedingly entertaining. It opens with a moving picture illustration of "A Dixie Mother," a story that will be only too well remembered in the South. The Magazine is printed in the highest style of the art. We regard it as a novel venture and we should think that it would prove a very popular one.—Charlotte Chronicle.

An Old Colored Woman Taken Into Dog Scare in Winston-Salem at Custody by Lenoir Sheriff—Mad High Pitch—Some Queer Coincidences on 15th of March

Some queer coincidences sometimes appear. Living in Greensboro is a gentleman whose father was born on the 15th of March; he was married on the 15th of March, died on the 15th of March and yesterday the 15th of March he had been dead 15 years.—Greensboro Record.

Fearing that she had received poison from her pet dog, which she had given a bath after it had been attacked by a mad dog, Mrs. J. C. Goodman, who resides two miles from Winston-Salem, came to Raleigh to take the Pasteur treatment at the state laboratory of hygiene. The mad dog scare in the vicinity from which Mrs. Goodman comes has been at a high pitch during the past few days. On Monday a vicious dog attacked about a score of chickens and fifteen or twenty canines. The animal was killed and its head brought to the state laboratory of hygiene, where it was examined and signs of rabies found.—News and Observer.

"Aunt" Morning Loftin, an old colored woman over 90 years old, was taken into custody by Sheriff Nunn Thursday and placed for safekeeping in the county jail, pending the receipt of the necessary papers committing her to the state hospital for insane colored people at Goldsboro. The old woman has lately lost her mind, and her commitment to the state hospital became necessary.—Kinston Free Press.

NO GENERAL STRIKE.

International Brotherhood of Teamsters Forbids It.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, March 18.—A general strike of teamsters in sympathy with the express drivers has been forbidden by D. J. Tobin, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. President Tobin today wired the general organizer that the international organization will not endorse a general strike under any circumstances and that local union contracts must be respected.

When Thieves Fall Out.

"When thieves fall out honest men get their dues" is a true maxim. Joseph G. Robin, the man in the tolls in New York for wrecking half a dozen banks, has told the district attorney an astonishing story. He has been saying that others high up were involved, but at first little attention was paid to him. It is known that in recent weeks a man representing the Carnegie Trust Company and other large interests, has been calling on Robin at the jail and now Robin tells the district attorney that he was offered an even half million to keep his mouth closed; that while he would be convicted he would receive only a short term and the money would stand him in good stead when he came out. Robin considered the matter for some days, then sent for the court officer and told him the whole story. Whether true or not, Robin's sentence has been held up and the men referred to will be investigated.—Greensboro Record.

The Class Gratified.

The senior class of the Training school is highly gratified at the success of the second performance of the two plays given Friday evening. The audience was remarkably appreciative, following closely the finer, subtle points with keen interest and sympathetic attention. It was an inspiration to the actors, who, in turn, gave a performance notable for polish and ease. The school, with the exception of the senior class, did not attend as they had an opportunity to see it Monday evening.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARTY.

Mrs. D. J. Whichard Entertains Lady Friends.

On Friday afternoon from 3:30 to 6 o'clock, at her home on Evans street, Mrs. D. J. Whichard entertained at a St. Patrick's day party.

All the decorations of the home were in keeping with the day, the color being green. From chandeliers, grill, walls and curtains hung festoons of shamrocks and golden harps of Erin, with the flag of Ireland much in evidence.

Upon arrival the guests were met by the hostess, and after being shown to the cloak room were invited into the dining room where fruit punch was served by Misses Lizzie Jones and Hennie Ragsdale. The punch bowl was wreathed in smilax studded with harps, and numerous flags waved over it, while from around the base peeped green frogs.

The game of the afternoon was progressive Ireland, and at each progression the hostess presented the winners with Irish favors. After three games sandwiches and tea were served by Misses Hennie and Essie Whichard, Lillian Burch and Willie Ragsdale. Other games were then played, each guest being presented a favor at the conclusion. Following this pistachio cream and orange ice with cake were served, the cakes served, the cakes bearing small flags bearing small flags of Erin.

SALE OF COCA-COLA DROPS.

Charlotte "Dopers" Calling for Something Else Now.

With the recent publications of evidence given in the case of the United States against a number of barrels and kegs of coca-cola, from Chattanooga, Tenn., where the case is being tried, many injurious things have been said and the effect has been immediate so far as local sales have been concerned.

Thursday nearly every soda clerk in Charlotte realized that coca-cola was not being called for with the same vim from the imbibers. Today the sale has been still less. Since publication of the statement that worms and vermin were found in the vats at the main plant of the coca-cola house in Atlanta, Ga., when the place was inspected by government experts, the drinkers of the fluid have been less thirsty and have spent less money on the "dope."—Charlotte Chronicle.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Little Items too Short for a Head, but Interesting.

If the weather tomorrow is as perfect as today, every well person should attend church.

Birds are singing like it was spring time now sure enough.

This is when the farmers are busy hauling fertilizers.

It Pays to Read Ads.

Two farmers were not long since discussing their local paper. One thought it had too many advertisements in it. The other replied: "In my opinion the advertisements are far from being the least valuable part of it. I look them over carefully and save at least five times the cost of the paper each week through the business advantages I get from them." Said the other: "I believe you are right—I know that they pay me well and rather think it is not good taste to find fault with the advertisements after all." Those men have the right idea of the matter. It pays any man with a family to take a good local paper for the sake of the advertisements if nothing more. And if business men fail to give farmers a chance to read advertisements in the local paper they are blind to their own interests, to say the least of it. "You never trade with me," said a business man to a prosperous farmer. You have never invited me to your place of business and I never go where I am not invited; I might not be welcome," was his reply.—Gaffney, South Carolina Ledger.

Will Bring Responses.

Because men are men and women are women, and not mere brutes, the call for help always will bring a response. Let a horse run away on a crowded street, and some one will brave peril. Let anyone be drowning, and some one will endanger his life in a possibly vain effort. But sacrifices as great are being made every day, in little houses and large, in office and factory, in poverty and wealth, in health and in sickness, and will be made while life lasts.

Civilization is based on sacrifice. All that we enjoy in security, peace, comfort, affection, of joy is founded in sacrifice, and for it in the past not one human being, but many human beings, have gladly thrown their lives in the balance. Always this sacrifice goes on. It is in progress today. Nothing dies but selfishness. Nothing lives but unselfish sacrifice.—Oxford Banner.

CAUSE OF DELAY.

In Reno, Nevada, a woman was lately divorced from one man at 11 in the morning and married to another at 1 in the afternoon of the same day. The Richmond Times-Dispatch jups up, frisky-like, and says "the delay was due to the fact that she had to put on her hat." We do not think so. It was due to an extra number of small buttons on the back of her wedding dress, which fitted so tight it broke the finger nails of the maids in getting the buttons buttoned.—Durham Sun.

Or perhaps it was due to the fact that it took a little time to settle with the lawyer who got the divorce, and then a little more for a license to be obtained.

We have not seen a copy of the law passed by the recent legislature modifying the stock law territory of Pitt county. It is reported that many people are much worried over it, but from what we can learn the change in the boundary line makes about twelve or fifteen miles of fence answer the same purpose of seventy-six miles heretofore. With the doing away of some sixty odd miles of fence and the heavy tax of keeping it up, it looks like the people ought to be satisfied.

The last issue of the Farmville Enterprise had the name of Z. T. Broughton at its mast head. "Uncle Zack," as those who know his best familiarly call him, has taken charge as editor and manager. He had many years experience in the "print shop" in Raleigh before changing to tobacco auctioneer, and he knows the business. The Enterprise shows that he can make good as an editor and news gatherer. We wish him abundant success.

Even though not much has been said in very recent days on the subject, sentiment in favor of good roads is growing right along. And we believe that when the election is held in Greenville township on the proposition of issuing bonds to build roads, so many people will see it is the proper thing to do that it will be carried by a large majority.

The fear of having to pay a few more cents in the way of taxes is doing more to keep back the good roads movement in this state than any other one thing.—Durham Sun.

That is true, yet the people who look at it that way fail to take into consideration the heavy indirect tax that the bad roads lay on them continually.

Some men boasts that they "pay as they go." But the Charlotte street car system has put forth the edict

The Greensboro News intimates that the country needs more silkworm and less hookworm. It is getting almost time, Bob, for fishworm to be more popular than either.

Greenville has the B. P. O. E. Best people on earth. There are also a few of the sorriest, who we hope will not flatter themselves by thinking the first of this paragraph applies to them.

"Keep hammering and things will come your way," was a remark made about the efforts of The Reflector to awaken interest in manufacturing enterprises for Greenville.

With the president, the ex-president and most of the standing army are down South now, it looks like folks are catching the idea of coming our way.

They handle it a little different in Paris. Over there if a man is run over by an automobile they arrest him for interfering with traffic.

Even a blind man can often see the point in an argument better than the fellow with two good eyes.

We might say "Erin Go Brach" to day if we could find anybody who knew what it meant.

Value in Advertising.

The advertisements in a newspaper if the merchant means what he says are a very valuable part of the paper to its readers. Through them the people learn where they can secure bargains and thus save themselves money. For this reason the merchant who has bargains to offer and who always does by his customers just as he advertises that he will do, is the man whose "ads" are read with interest, and who is sought when the readers wish to buy. The prosperous merchant, when he has bargains to offer, advertises the fact to the people because he wishes them to come and see him; and then he does just as he advertised to do. People are always looking for bargains.—Giffney, South Carolina, Leader.

MY DOCTOR MIGHTY FINE
Mrs. Hattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it."

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh! how dreadfully I suffered!"

"I would wramp and have convulsions and it looked like I would die. At last I took Cardui and oh! what a surprise! I found it was the medicine for me!"

"From the first bottle, I began to mend and now I am well, can do more work, can walk and go where I please and it don't hurt me, and I owe it all to Cardui."

Cardui helps sick women back to health. It has been doing this for over 50 years. It is not a laxative, or a heart or kidney medicine—it is a woman's medicine.

If you are a woman, try it.

The Peanut
The peanut is a legume rich nitrogen, but gathers from the air a large part of this nitrogen. Our soils are generally deficient in nitrogen, and it is the most expensive of the plant foods we buy by the millions of dollars worth every year. The peanut furnishes good hay for cattle, and may save us millions of dollars in money now paid for roughage shipped in from other sections. The peanut is one of the best crops for producing pork cheaply. We now pay millions of dollars for pork which can be produced on peanuts for one-half what it now costs. The peanut brings a good price on the market because the demand has always exceeded the supply, and at 75 cents to $1.00 a bushel, is a money crop equal to cotton at 10 to 12 cents a pound. The peanut—certain varieties—can be made in four months, and is suitable for use as a catch crop after oats and wheat, in the part of the cotton belt which is best suited to its growth. Let us grow the peanut, but let the increase in acreage be sane and safe or of slow growth so that we may learn how to handle it to the best advantage.—Progressive Farmer.

RADIANT HAIR.
Any Woman Can Have It by Using Parisian Sage.
Madam: If your hair isn't just what you would like it to be why don't you use Parisian Sage?
If it does not put life and luster into the hair and cause it to grow abundantly you can have your money back from Coward & Wooten.
"I cannot say enough in its favor. Two years ago I lost all my hair. I saw Parisian Sage advertised and thought I would try it. Before I had finished using the first bottle my hair had stopped falling and my head was covered with new hair; also removed all dandruff, and today I have a lovely head of hair."
I think Parisian Sage the best hair restorer and dandruff cure in the world today. It also makes the hair clean, fluffy, and silky, and I would recommend it to every one who wishes a hair restorer and beautifier.—Miss Mary E. Dickson, 287 South Ave., Bridgeton, N. J., 1910.
For men, women and children, there is no hair preparation that equals Parisian Sage; it never disappoints; it does just what the American makers advertise it to do. It banishes dandruff, kills the dandruff germ, stops falling hair or scalp itching, or money back. Sold by Coward & Wooten, and druggists everywhere. Large bottle 50 cents. 3 18, 29,—4 8

Where the One-horse Farmer Loses.

Says one of our correspondents:

"I rarely find that my two-horse tenants more than double the crops of my one-horse tenants on double the land and with double the stock."

Therefore, he concludes that one-horse farming is best. It seems never to have occurred to him that the labor of the man in the case is worth anything. Does not any man who will think for a minute know that if the man with two horses does produce only twice as much as the man with one horse, he is far ahead of him in what he receives for his own labor? Even if a man's labor is worth more than that of a horse, there are two workers in the one-horse layout and only three in the two-horse. Hence an increase of 50 per cent in gross returns will even matters up. Now, there isn't a farmer in the South who doesn't regard his labor as of more value than that of a mule, and, of course, he is right about it. There may be, as we have said, times when a man must do his work with one horse, but we can not see why any man should be willing for that reason, to consider himself a "one-horse farmer" and be content to remain so. It isn't a matter of pretty theories or ingenious arguments, but, as we have said, a mere matter of mathematics. The more horses, the larger the farmers' earnings in practically every State in the Union; and the fewer horses to the man, the more expensive the work done whenever other conditions are equal. Against such incontrovertible facts as these, all the theories of those who argue for one-horse farming amount to very little.—Progressive Farmer.

The School for The Feeble-Minded.

In conversation with Dr. A. A. Kent, Caldwell's able representative in the recent legislature, we learn something of the law providing for a school for feeble-minded people of the State. This bill carries an appropriation of $60,000 to start the work and a board of trustees consisting of L. B. McBrayer, of Asheville; R. F. Austin, of Wilkesboro, and Dr. A. A. Kent, of Lenoir, was appointed. There are approximately 1,000 of these unfortunate people in the State, most of them in county homes and other places where they are not taught or instructed in any way towards helping themselves. The object of this institution is to provide a place where they can be taught and do something for their own betterment and support. Many of these people under proper direction can become valuable citizens and that the fact the State has not heretofore made provision for them, like many others have done, is a shame and a disgrace. The present measure is, of course, only a beginning, but it is the start of an institution of which the citizens of the State will be proud in the years to come. It was a piece of constructive legislation and as Dr. Kent truthfully says, was perhaps the most important bill passed.—Lenoir News.

How Atlanta Boys Celebrate Easter.

The annual egg hunt at Atlanta, Ga., is another unique celebration, instituted by the authorities of that city several years ago, for the decoration of its juvenile population. On the Saturday before Easter, Grant Park, one of the city's most popular breathing places, is closed to the public and in the shrubbery and grass are hidden some 40,000 or 50,000 candy eggs, one of which is gilded. At noon on Easter day, when the band strikes up "Dixie," the throngs of waiting youngsters are admitted and the hunt for the eggs begins. The fortunate finder of the gilded egg is presented by the city with a goat, harness and wagon as a prize. The eagerness with which the children prosecute their search is a source of infinite amusement to their grown-up guardians who accompany them and there is a concerted rush for drinking fountains and refreshment stands when the hunt is over.—Chas. A. Brassler, in April Columbia.

WHAT GOVERNOR FOLK SAYE.

Democratic Prospects for 1912 Are Bright.

The Denver Times recently printed the following news item: Declared former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri, a smooth-faced, dimpled-chinned man of forty-one years, when talking with a Times representative: "These are some of the things I favor—

"A reciprocity treaty with Canada. "A Popular election of United States senators.

"Commission form of administration for cities.

"Uniformity of laws in the several states.

"And I believe that the national democratic party will be successful in 1912 if it advocates real democratic principles.

"I am opposed to—

"The new nationalism of Mr. Roosevelt.

"Protective tariff, bounties and subsidies in any form."

Mr. Folk did not become heated while expounding his views. He is a calm man. He is cheerful, dark complexioned, a little above medium height and carries a hearty handshake around with him on his journeys. Just now he is here because of a contract that he had with the teachers' club of Denver to deliver an address at Trinity M. E. church.

"I favor reciprocity with Canada," said Mr. Folk, in his room at the Brown hotel, "because it will open up a vast domain to American trade and will not cost the country a cent. The United States is spending millions of dollars to open up trade in South America. The United States is spending hundreds of millions to build the Panama canal for the purpose of expanding trade. The proposed treaty with Canada will cost nothing. I believe that it should be adopted by congress.

"As to the election of senators by direct vote of the people, it simply not only shrd etaoi cmfw etaiardw is another step in government, not only only of and by the people but government for the people. When our constitution was being framed the fear was that the people might confiscate the property of the well-to-do. That the time would ever come when the rights of the people would be in danger through accumulation of capital, did not occur to our fathers of the republic, so they provided a house of representatives to representatives sent the people and for a senate elected by the legislatures of the various states to represent property.

"We now have learned that property interests should not be inconsistent with the public interests, and that officials should represent no class but the entire public.

"The commission form of civic administration is an excellent one. A city government is not a sovereign government like a state or national government, but is a business corporation and should be modeled after a business corporation. The idea is to have five directors to conduct the affairs of the city. There is no reason that I know of why a commission system of administration should not be successful in a large city like Denver."

In reply to further queries, Mr. Folk said:

"I do not favor the new nationalism because I think the integrity of the states should be preserved. The perpetuity of the nation depends upon the dual form of government under which we operate—this government of the states and the government of the nation. If one of these is strengthened at the expense of the other, the ship of the republic will sink.

"The chances for democratic success in 1912 are bright if the democratic party advocates real democratic principles. By these I mean those principles embraced in the maxim, 'equal rights to all, special privileges to none.' This prohibits protective tariff, subsidies and bounties in any form for the benefit of the few at the expense of all.

"Privilege says to a man, 'Come with us and we will give you tariff, with subsidies enabling you to make money at the expense of your fellow men.' True Democracy says, 'Come with us, we cannot offer you any advantage over others, but promise that others will have any advantage over you. Privilege appeals to avarice and greed, true democracy to brotherhood and conscience. One stands for selfish few and the other for the common good."

COAXING SLEEP.

Simply a Question of Will Power and Self Suggestion.

Ordinarily we do not sleep by accident or haphazard. We simply resolve to sleep, and self suggestion plays a great part in the production of sleep. We go through a variety of actions, all suggestive of a change from our normal waking condition. We undress; we place ourselves in a comfortable position; we close our eyes; we believe and expect we are going to sleep, and the result is—sleep.

One of the great preventives of sleep is the fear of not sleeping, but a writer in Harper's Bazar says that once this fear is broken down we sleep anyhow. The insomnia worries about his insomnia, and this very worry deepens the mischief; hence the sufferer should suggest to himself again and again, "If I sleep, well; if I don't sleep, I will at least gain rest by keeping my mind calm and my body relaxed."

In a word, our chances of getting sleep increase if we assume the external physical attitude which corresponds to sleep if we relax every muscle and let it stay relaxed, if we breathe lightly and regularly, if we call up the imagination of a sleeping person and talk and think sleep to ourselves, repeating silently and in a quiet, dreamy fashion such a formula as this:

"There is no reason why I should not sleep. Therefore I can sleep. Therefore I will sleep. My mind is at peace. Sleep is coming. I am getting sleepy. I am about to sleep. I am asleep."

HIS QUEST FOR A WIFE.

John Newcomb Was a Close Observer and Was Hard to Suit.

The sister of Simon Newcomb, the great astronomer, tells in McClure's of their father's John Newcomb's wanderings in search of a wife, whom he had decided to select in accordance with scientific theories:

"John Newcomb stopped at farm-houses for his refreshment, and in each house, if there was a daughter of marriageable age, he tarried perhaps a day or even longer to make a study of the maiden. He always made himself 'handy' about the place, drawing up water with the great well sweep, bringing in firewood—doing anything that he could do and still keep near the daughter.

"Disappointment met him at every door. At one house the cooking was poor, at another the house was not neatly kept, at a third there was scolding or faultfinding, a want of harmony—and in all the maidens a lack of desire for learning or education. One young woman little knew by what a narrow margin she missed her fate. All was going smoothly till, when she was molding the dough for the baking pans, he noticed that a considerable portion of the dough was left in the wooden kneading trough. He asked her the reason for this, and her reply was that she left it for the horse because he was fond of it. She always did this, she said; there was plenty. 'Want of thrift,' decided the young man, and he shouldered his bundle and walked on."

Told Who He Was.

Dr. Beadon, a former rector in Eltham, Kent, England, one Sunday preached from the text "Who art thou?" After reading it he made a pause for the congregation to reflect upon the words, when a man in military dress who at that instant was marching very sedately up the middle aisle of the church, supposing it a question addressed to him, replied, "I am, sir, an officer of the Sixteenth regiment of foot on a recruiting party here, and, having brought my wife and family with me, I am come to church because I wished to be acquainted with the neighboring clergy and gentry." This so deranged the divine and astonished the congregation that the sermon was concluded with considerable difficulty.

Ring for Gofer.

Among the queer church customs in England is the one observed at Newark parish church, called 'ringing for gofer.' This custom, which has lasted for over 300 years, arose through a wealthy merchant named Gofer losing himself one October night in the forest that then surrounded Newark. He carried much money, and the forest was infested with thieves. Suddenly he heard the sound of Newark bells and was guided safely home by their music. To commemorate his escape Gofer left a goodly sum for Newark bell ringers on condition that they "rang for Gofer" every year on Sunday nights in October and November.

Patti at Fifty-two.

Adelina Patti wrote in a letter to Mr. Klein in 1895: "Do you not feel proud of your little friend, who was fifty-two last month and has been singing uninterrupted every year from the age of seven? I am really beginning to believe what they all tell me—that I am a wonderful little woman!"—Musical Life in London.

Patronizing.

"That man Pufferton has a very supercilious manner."

"Yes," replied Miss Cayenne. "He can't even say 'It's a pleasant day' without seeming to patronize the climate."—Washington Star.

Just a Bluff.

"How is it that the quail on your bill of fare is always struck off?"

"That's just a fancy touch," explained the beady waiter. "We never had a quail in the joint."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Bullcock Skin Boats.

There are few more primitive methods of transportation than those in use today by natives of northern India who make their homes in the vicinity of the swift flowing Sutlej. The boats of these aborigines are nothing more or less than bullock skins inflated by the breath of the natives themselves. Two natives may be seen hard at work filling the skins with air. Having inflated them to their satisfaction, they will leap aboard and paddle themselves across the river, great skill and strength being necessary to sustain their equilibrium during the passage. But even should the boats overturn they are easily righted, and the natives are without exception expert swimmers.

His Love.

"A case of love at first sight, eh?"

"No, second sight. The first time he saw her he didn't know she was as heiress."

NEWSPAPER PRESS FOR SALE.

Having placed an order for a new fast newspaper and book press, to be installed the middle of April, we have a newspaper press that will be sold at a bargain for delivery May 1st.

It is a Monona Leverless Press, large enough to print four 6-column pages, or two 9-column pages and has steam fixtures so that it can be run either by hand or power. Been in use six years.

It is a splendid press for a weekly paper and is in good condition to do many years good service. We used a press from the same factory for 17 years before installing this one, printing a daily paper with small circulation about 10 years of that time. Its speed, 800 an hour, is too slow for a daily paper with the present circulation of The Reflector, and for that reason we are having to displace it with a faster press.

Any one interested and wanting a good press for a weekly newspaper, can see this press at work every day in the Reflector building, before our new press is installed. Any one who cannot come to see it at work and examine it, can get particulars by addressing Peanut Possibilities.

The South has listened with commendable eagerness to the voices which have urged improved methods in the cultivation of cotton and corn. Equally beneficial results may follow similar attention devoted to a recent bulletin of the United States department of agriculture giving some interesting figures in connection with peanut possibilities. Time was when the toothsome pinder had a very general reputation as the poorest food for the circus elephant, and except in a few limited sections where its cultivation was familiar, as little else. The bulletin referred to estimates the yield of a carefully tended acre of peanuts at a ton of vine, worth from $8 to $10, and 60 bushels of the nuts worth from $40 to $70. Placing the cost of cultivation at from $12 to $25, the net income from such an acre would be from $30 to $45. This last figure is somewhat above the present average net profit, but is easily attainable under methods of cultivation which have been thoroughly proved and need only widespread application.

A fact little known is that the United States import a considerable quantity of peanut oil from abroad. This oil could be raised and refined quite as readily at home, and just this development is almost sure to follow the improvement and increase of peanut-growing. The food value of the peanut has long been recognized although it has been obscured by the undoubted indigestibility of the raw or half-roasted nut. These two items alone should remove any uneasiness about a market, even were the output to be very greatly increased. The farmers who have adopted the hog-and-hominy slogan with such gratifying results might devote a few hours' leisure to looking into the practicability of employing some of their less fertile acres in an experiment with peanuts.—Charlotte Observer.

Six Thousand Millions.

In the last six years congress has appropriated almost six thousand millions of dollars for the expenses of the federal government.

To be exact, ex-Representative Tawney shows that in the six years that he has been chairman of the house committee on appropriations the estimates of the Roosevelt and Taft administrations amounted to $6,061,257,132, of which congress granted all but $165,662,264. For six years the appropriations have averaged practically one thousand million dollars a year.

The six thousand million dollars appropriated in the six years under Roosevelt and Taft is about three and one-half times the total expenditures of the United States government under fifteen presidents, from the inauguration of Washington to the beginning of the civil war. It is double the total value of all the gold coined by United States mints from 1792 to December 31, 1908.

The six thousand million dollars appropriated by congress represents over three-fourths of the total value of all the agricultural products of the United States in the year 1909. It is nearly double the total value of the foreign commerce of the United States both imports and exports, for the year 1910.

In fourteen years the cost of the United States government has far more than doubled. In the same period the expenditures for the army and navy each have increased fourfold. Over 70 per cent. of the total current expenses of the government today are for preparations for war or on account of past wars.

Six thousand millions in six years, spent in time of profound peace, is more than the entire direct cost of the civil war. Yet there are no signs of real abatements in the extravagance of the national government, and Mr. Taft was talking yesterday about preparations for "a real navy."—New York World.

Economy Needed.

Congress—which includes the house and senate—carries on the payroll a small army of employees. The Raleigh Times has published an inventory of the house employees, as follows:

"The house has a total of 578 employees and pays out in salaries to these employees $744,335.25 annually. The house has five elective officers, not including the speaker. These are 18 employees under the speaker, 75 under the clerk, 64 under the doorkeeper, 30 under the postmaster, 41 under the superintendent of the capitol building and 47 janitors and messengers. The salaries are: Under the speaker, $66,940; under the clerk $133,390; under the sergeant-at-arms, $84,665; under the doorkeeper, $203,905.25; under the postmaster, $28,720; under the superintendent of buildings and grounds, etc., $190,275."

This summary does not include secretaries to members—each member having a secretary at a salary of $1,500 in addition to the member's salary of $7,500. Of course, 33 1-3 to 50 per cent of these employees are not necessary. They are attached to the government payroll through favoritism; and the same method is pursued by our state legislature, 25 to 50 per cent. more employees than are actually necessary to do the work put on the payroll at every session of the legislature. The Democrats will take charge of the house of congress on the 4th of April and many of the faithful who are an hungered from long fasting will be on hand to take these jobs. While the jobs are many the number of applicants will be far the greater. It has been stated that the Democrats propose to abolish many of the places and effect a saving of a few hundred thousand dollars. That is what they should do, but the pressure for place will be so strong that it is doubtful if this very laudable purpose is carried into effect.—Statesville Landmark.

Get-Rich-Quick Game.

The officer of the United States government who managed the recent raids on get-rich-quick concerns has estimated that $100,000,000 a year is stolen from the people by their methods. Most people seem to be surprised by the size of the figure. They think that it is too big. It is not; it is far too small. If one could add together the illegal promotions and criminally careless or ignorant campaigns in worthless bonds and stocks, insurance companies, real estate certificates, etc., during the last year I am certain that it would treble the government's figure.

First, one may ask, why has the United States government allowed these swindles to go on, year after year, and only moved at last, after $500,000,000 has been stolen?—Worlds Work.

NEW YORK AND CHICAGO MARKETS

Cotton.

New York, March 18.—Cotton was barely steady at the opening, prices being from three points higher to six points lower. Cables reported both futures and spots steady at Liverpool.

Opening—
March	14.45
May	14.55
July	14.35
August	13.34

Grain.

Chicago, March 18.—Wheat opened 1-4 lower under the influence of cables and good rains in the Ohio valley and southwest. A rally of 1-2c occurred later, however. Offerings were light and the demand good. Corn was a little higher; oats a little lower and provisions lower.

Opening—
May wheat	90 1-2
Corn	49 1-2
Oats	31 1-4
Pork	17.20

Stocks.

New York, March 18.—The stock market opened irregular with fractional gains and losses about evenly divided. Lehigh Valley was the leader with advance of 1-2 in the opening prices. Steel opened unchanged; Canadian Pacific was up 1-4, Amalgamated copper was off 1-8; Reading off 1-8; Pennsylvania up 1-4; Missouri Pacific off 1-8; Union Pacific and New York Central were unchanged. The tone on the curb was steady and market moderately active.

A Cat Story.

A remarkable cat story comes from Lancaster, Pa., and is vouched for by the Philadelphia Press. Last summer the family of R. W. Hadden, a well known Pennsylvania railroad engineer, went to Sea Isle City, N. J., to spend several months, taking along the family pet, a big maltese cat, named Minnie. Friends who visited them by the sea brought a number of children, who received the attentions usually bestowed on the cat, and the animal gave unmistakable signs of jealousy and resentment and finally disappeared. At the close of September the Hadden family went back to Lancaster mourning the cat as gone forever. They had advertised in the newspapers, but nothing came of it. This week the family heard a familiar scratching at the kitchen door, and when it was opened it bounded a big maltese cat, which ran straight to the chair on which Minnie had always slept. The lost had returned, as was proved by peculiar markings on the face or tail. From Sea Isle City to Lancaster, as the crow flies or cat walks, is 137 miles, over which Minnie had come home. How she crossed the Delaware at Camden, whether she beat the ferry boat company out of a fare or crossed on the ice, can never be known. In all the wide range of its gleanings about cats did Dumb Animals ever beat these adventures of Minnie.—Durham Sun.

Greater Safety in Travel.

"Regulation" of railroads is proving a good thing in more ways than one. In one important thing it is resulting in a greater degree of safety to the traveling public and to train crews. The safety appliance requirement, adds to experience and skill in the operative department and to better trackage conditions, have brought the casualty account down to the minimum. As an instance, is the record of the Pennsylvania railroad in 1910, the lines of that company carried 136,000,000 passengers and not one of these was killed. But that is not all of the remarkable record of this road. It is stated in an official report that out of 371,858,277 passengers carried in the past three years, only one was killed in an accident. The reckoning is that the chances for a passenger losing his life by accident on this road, is "one out of about three hundred and seventy million." There is no doubt of the fact that railroad management in the United States has been vastly changed for the better in the past few years.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Coca-Cola.

It is a mighty late day for the government to wake up to the sale of coca-cola. It is a very remote corner of the United States, indeed, where the drink is not on sale. Every country store is plastered with coca-cola signs. It is sold by the news butchers on the trains. No matter where one goes, there's the very present coca-cola. Steel skyscrapers have been built from its sales. It has spread over the country like a contagion and it is here to stay. If it is a harmful drink, if there is enough poison in three glasses to produce death, why has the government been so late in warning the public? The entire country has the coca-cola habit and the chemists are going to have a hard time breaking it up. The whiskey habit or the tobacco habit, never fastened itself on its victim with a tighter grip than the coca-cola habit. The warning as a result of their analysis, will not be regarded as a warning. The imbibers of this drink will declare that it has never hurt them and will laugh the government to scorn.—Charlotte Chronicle.
