

THE GREAT VALUE OF NEIGHBORHOOD CO-OPERATION

A FARMER'S WISE SUGGESTIONS.

Ready to Join His Neighborhood or Any Number of Farmers in Co-Operation.

(By A. J. MOYE.)

Farmville, N. C., March 28, 1911.

There is a small island off the coast of England which is famous and prosperous beyond most islands, and this fame and prosperity is attributed to co-operation among its inhabitants in the raising of one specific breed of cattle. These cattle are widely distinguished in the United States and fabulous prices have been obtained by the islanders for superior specimens of the breed. By this co-operation they have produced a breed of cattle par excellence for butter. I of course refer to the island of Jersey.

The people over in Virginia in the vicinity of a small place named Smithfield, have by working together produced a superior ham and now all that they have are sold in the markets for from three to five cents per pound above any other ham.

Troy, New York, owes its prosperity to co-operation among its people in manufacturing linen collars.

If this little island has derived such great benefit from this spirit of co-operation only, cannot other communities do the same thing?

What has been done can be done provided the same or similar conditions exist or may be caused to exist.

Whatever one can do himself well is best done by himself, but whatever the neighborhood can do best should be done by the neighbors co-operating together.

I will suggest some things in which I think it profitable if those residing in the same vicinity should all do alike. First, there should be a gathering at the public school house and the majority should rule, due regard being shown to the prejudice of those who are the most contentious.

Having decided that the Berkshire hogs are the best for said community, then every one should raise Berkshire hogs who raises hogs. Soon some one would have some fine specimens for sale and might realize a handsome profit.

Whenever the neighborhood produced more than it could consume, then one advertisement could answer for all, thereby saving quite a little sum, besides only the best specimens would be sold which would add prestige to the neighborhood. Then there would be competition, each one would strive to have nicer hogs and raise them cheaper.

They would soon be more intelligent hog raisers. All having the same kind would create an enthusiasm just as planting prolific corn has enthused the boys.

Then this rivalry would soon create a neighborhood spirit—and each one would be proud of his neighborhood and strive to make it the very best neighborhood in the county.

One man could take the stock to the fairs and all would share the burden and help reap the benefits. In the course of time the neighborhood would have a statewide reputation, and if the neighbors were sufficiently energetic eventually they would have a national reputation.

We have been wasting our opportunity by being selfish.

What I have written of hogs would apply equally to chickens, cattle and sheep and in a measure to corn and cotton.

I am myself ready to enter into such an agreement and if my immediate neighbors don't just now see as I do, I will join any ten farmers in the county and let all agree to raise some kind of corn and cotton and breed the same class of cattle and hogs.

I would like to hear from others on this line.

Albany, N. Y., March 28.—William F. Sheehan, Democratic candidate for the United States senator was eliminated as a probable winner today. On the sixtieth ballot he received only 28 votes. Depew received 80, necessary for a choice 99. Littleton received 22 Democratic votes, others scattered.

Mrs. Foley is survived by three children, Mr. E. H. Foley and Mrs. E. E. Griffin, of Greenville; and Mrs. M. Cherry, of Washington.

ARRANGMENTS FOR THE BOYS CORN CLUB

THE COUNTY COMMITTEE NAMED

Committee Will Meet Friday, 31st, to Arrange Details.

The arrangements for the organization of the Boys' Corn Club in this county have about been completed. Committees have been appointed to have charge of and encourage certain features of the work which has been assigned to each committee. These committees are earnestly urged to push the work so that we may make it a great year for corn raising in the county.

It is important that the names of boys who will enter the contest be sent to W. H. Ragsdale, Greenville. The plan now is to offer township prizes as well as county prizes, and in consequence every township in the county ought to have a number of boys in the contest. It is probable that when the county committee meets to arrange the details and announce the prizes that it will be necessary that a certain number of boys in each township shall enter the contest in that township, or the township prize will not be offered.

The following county committee has been appointed: W. H. Ragsdale, A. J. Moye, J. F. Evans, R. L. Little, and D. J. Whichard.

This county committee will please meet in the office of the county superintendent next Friday, March 31st, to arrange the details of the contest and announce the prizes. Let each member of the committee be present promptly at 2 o'clock p. m.

Telephoning Rockefeller.

Any one who wants to talk to the Standard Oil Company over the telephone will find in the telephone directory: "J. D. Rockefeller, Cashier's Dept. 26 Bwy." The number opposite that inscription 2220 Broad, is that of the switchboard which connects callers with all departments of the trust's big building. Rockefeller is president of the company, and probably never bothers to visit the cashier's department. For many years Standard Oil has been listed in the telephone directory in exactly the same way and no one in 26 Broadway is able to explain just why.—New York Press.

ANNUAL LECTURES AT THE UNIVERSITY

DISTINGUISHED MEN SECURED.

Dr. Henry VanDyke Delivers a Series on Poetry and Life.

Chapel Hill, N. C., March 28.—Dr. Henry VanDyke, professor of English in Princeton University, Hyde lecturer to the Sorbonne in France for 1910, who is prominently mentioned for the presidency of Princeton to succeed Governor Woodrow Wilson, delivered the first of the lectures upon the John Calvin McNair foundation for 1911 on Friday night, March 24. The general subject of the series of three lectures is "Poetry and Life" on Friday night he spoke on "Poetry and Patriotism." On Saturday night on "Poetry and Nature" and on Sunday night on "Poetry and the Unseen World."

In introducing Dr. VanDyke, President Venable gave a brief sketch of the McNair lectureship. John Calvin McNair, of Robeson county, North Carolina, of the class of 1849 of the University of North Carolina, died in Edinborough, Scotland, some fifty years ago, while studying to be a Presbyterian preacher. At the time there was thought to be a conflict between science and religion. McNair left some property to the University which was to be used in establishing an annual series of lectures before the students of the University, the purpose of which was to show "the mutual bearing of science and religion on each other and prove the existence (so far as may be) of God in nature." Today, said Dr. Venable, the world has come to recognize that there can be no conflict between truth wherever found. The fund for the lectureship became available in 1908. The men who have delivered the lectures before Dr. VanDyke are Dr. Francis H. Smith, of the University of Virginia; President Francis L. Patton, of the Princeton Theological Seminary, and President David Starr Jordan, of Leland Stanford, Jr., University.

In his opening lecture Dr. VanDyke declared that the aim of poetry is to impart pleasure through the imagination—pleasure that must not be a mere amusement but a vital joy, enlarging the thoughts, deepening the emotion, and ennobling the life of man.

A man's worth is measured not by his money as America is coming to think, but by the wealth of his mind and heart. Dr. VanDyke stated that his three lectures were to treat of three of the ways in which the inner life of mankind had been enriched by the poets—first in inspiring in and deepening in man a love of his native land which properly cultured would reach its full attainment in a spirit of a world democracy, in the brotherhood of man; second, in drawing man to a love of nature for the beauties of her external aspects which would culminate in worship of the God that moves in all nature; third, through his feelings bringing him closer to the unseen world, to which man cannot approach by "searching" but through his heart alone.

Dr. VanDyke's lectures were nothing less than prose poems. His thoughts were so inspiring and his language so beautiful that it was almost impossible to distinguish between his own words and those of the English and American poets from whom he quoted so felicitously.

The lectures drew a number of distinguished visitors to Chapel Hill. Dr. Venable said Saturday night that the University of North Carolina should be deeply conscious of the debt to John Calvin McNair for making it possible for North Carolina students and visitors to hear men like Dr. VanDyke.

Another notable visitor to the University of North Carolina this year will be Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, who will deliver the commencement address.

FORMER MEMBER OF BAND ON WITNESS STAND

EXPOSES CAMORRIST METHODS.

Prisoners Declare The Witness Is Insane.

By Cable to The Reflector.

Viterbo, Italy, March 28.—The murderous methods of Neapolitan Camorra were laid bare today by Genaro Abatemaggo, a former member of the band, and in a dramatic story he betrayed his former associates. He told of his affiliations with Camorra from the beginning and led up to the murder of Cuocollo and his wife. He said the murder of Cuocollo was planned because he was thought to be unfaithful to the band. He told of a general meeting of Camorra at which it was decided to kill Cuocollo and gave the names of those who planned the murder and those who carried it out. While he was testifying the prisoners shouted "it is false!" "Traitor!" "Judias Iscarit!" and other like epithets. He is being watched by an alienist to determine his sanity, prisoners claiming he is insane and the murderous plot a fancy of his own diseased brain.

To Florida in A Wagon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rogers and four children passed through Gastonia, in a covered wagon yesterday en route to Florida. They have made their home near Boone for a number of years, and are going to the land of flowers to reside in the future, if they like that section well enough. When asked when they expected to get to Florida, they replied that they were not in a hurry and expected it would be in the summer. A man and family going so great a distance in a wagon brings to mind the days gone by, when hundreds of families of this section drove through to Texas and other Western states, because there were no railways—Gastonia Progress.

Birthday Party.

Miss Rena Belle Holmes, a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Holmes, in South Greenville, celebrated her eighth birthday on Monday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Many of her little friends were present to enjoy the happy occasion. Dainty refreshments were served.

FIRE IN SCOTLAND NECK DESTROYS GRADED SCHOOL

SUNBEAMS ARE ENTERTAINED.

Two Old Friends Meet After Many Years.

Scotland Neck, N. C., March 28.—About three or four weeks ago they had a fire in the oil mill, but it was put out before there was much damage done, but on last Sunday morning between 4 and 5 o'clock the fire alarm was sounded and it caused hundreds of people to rise early for one time. They found the graded school building in flames and the house and most of its contents was consumed, though they did save some of the musical instruments and a very few books and desks. Professor Aikins residence was very much damaged, but by heroic action and hard work there was no other buildings lost except the school building. We hear that it was insured for four thousand dollars. This being the second fire in a short time they may look out when the third one comes.

The Rev. Mr. Dailey, pastor of the Methodist church here, closed a two weeks meeting last Friday night without any additions.

I must tell you that I had the pleasure of walking out to Kehukee church one mile, last third Sunday, and heard one of my boy day schoolmates (whom I had not seen in many years) preach a very good sermon. It was Eld. A. J. Moore, of Whitakers. We were very much overjoyed to see each other once more. He is 74 and I 72, and had not seen much of each other since we were in our teens.

Mr. J. W. Madry is building a large two-story brick store on his property on Main street in the business part of town.

The Sunbeams of the Baptist church were very charmingly entertained a few days ago at Mr. N. B. Josey's by Miss Annie Josey. The little Sunbeams met there at 4 p. m. and had one of the most enjoyable times of the season. They played several different games and were taken to the dining room and served with ice cream and cake to the enjoyment of all present. At 7 p. m. the larger Sunbeams met at the same place and after having music by young Mr. John Josey and several different games and more music, were ushered to the dining room where all enjoyed one of the most delicious suppers of ice cream and cake that we've had the pleasure of partaking of in many a day. About ten o'clock we very reluctantly repaired to our homes wishing Miss Annie all the joys that can be afforded any one and many more happy entertaining days. Miss Alice B. Braxton, president.

I am still enjoying Scotland Neck and good health, also.

OLD NORTH STATE NEWSY HAPPENINGS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Stated for Our Busy Readers.

Speaking about Eastern North Carolina as a farming region, it might be recalled that a Columbus county farmer got tired storing his cotton and sold his crop for $11,000 a few days ago. He was waiting until he could get 14 1-2 cents per pound for it, and in the meantime didn't have to borrow anything for the family to eat.—Wilmington Star.

Wilmington, March 27.—Dr. C. D. Bell, coroner, today held an inquest over the remains of Bryant Kennedy, the 14-year-old boy, who was stabbed to death last night in the Delgado mill village by his chum, Clarence Summerling, 13 years old. The jury found that the lad came to his death from a knife wound inflicted by Summerling. The youth who did the stabbing was arrested during the day and lodged in the county jail.

Durham, March 27.—Rev. Dr. J. W. Lynch today announced his acceptance of a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Athens, Georgia, to begin September 1, after a tour of Europe. His resignation here takes effect April 30.

Monroe, March 27.—The body of Walter Byrum, a white man, aged 25 years, son of Mr. E. J. Byrum, a prominent farmer of Vance county, was found this morning in a badly decayed condition in the waters of Stewart's mill pond. Some small boys fishing discovered the body, clad in Sunday clothes, in shallow water, face down. Byrum disappeared from home on the afternoon of January 22nd. His family went to church, leaving Walter to follow them. That was the last seen of him alive.

Spencer, March 27.—Postmaster J. D. Dorsett, of Spencer, has been appealed to by a former Spencerian, Gent. R. Harding, who now lives in Water Valley, Miss., to assist him in securing a divorce. In writing to Mr. Dorsett he states that he is now courting a woman in Mississippi who is worth $25,000 and that he expects to marry her shortly. Mr. Dorsett, however, thinks he will be unable to secure the divorce at present.

TUESDAY, MARCH 28, 1911.

Wonder if Hobson talks about the Japs in his sleep.

Let more corn be the slogan for the farmer this year.

The tight wad and the kicker are both hindrances to progress.

Almost every March day has given us weather of a class by itself.

From now until Easter new goods will occupy the fore front of feminine thought.

Some people have a way of remembering acts of friendliness. Others do not.

If Eastern North Carolina had the good roads it ought to have, it would be the garden spot of the world.

See if you can make tomorrow better than you did today. That is the way to keep going forward.

With the number of new houses going up and others in prospect, this is going to be a good building year for Greenville.

Greenville loses citizens some time because they can find nothing here to do. Another argument that the town needs more manufacturing enterprises.

The split log drag continues to miss some of its best opportunities. Possibly that new pair of mules will help the drag to get busy oftener on the streets.

The secretary of commerce and labor says the supply of coal is enough to last 7,330 years. No need to worry then, as we will not need any by the time that is gone.

New York is grossly negligent of the safety of her citizens. We do not believe there is another city in the world in which so many people lose their lives in fires. Many buildings in that city are veritable fire traps.

Humph! No for your "Uncle Joe." Its too much a come down to fit his highness. His party being defeated and losing him out of the speakership want him to take the minority leadership, but no siree.

Ever since concrete sidewalks were laid on certain streets of Greenville, there have been park strips between the walk way and the curb line. But so far nothing has been done toward beautifying those park strips, though to do so, even to sow them in grass,

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

would add much to the appearance of the streets.

Lucky Children Who Need no Guards.

England is interested in the report that Lloyds of London have insured against kidnapping an American baby even guaranteeing a $10,000 ransom in case it should meet with such fate. The name of the infant is not disclosed by the big insurance firm, but it is believed to be the son of a Washington couple whose wealth is reckoned by the million. The child of luxury is a handsome, sturdy-looking youngster, who probably does not appreciate the iron lattice-work of his nursery windows, the daily ride in an automobile guarded by two men, and coos peacefully, never dreaming that detectives stand on the watch day and night to prevent any culprit from getting near him.

He must be a precious baby. But so is every child that crawls around the kitchen or plays on the sidewalk with no guard except his innocence and the Providence which watches over the young. "These are my jewels," quoth Cornelia as she pointed to her children that were to grow into noble Romans. The child is its mother's joy and its father's most precious possession. But the happiest, healthiest youngsters are usually the offspring of parents who have to scratch along to get enough to feed their hungry mouths, to pay for the dresses and clothes they wear out so rapidly and provide shoes as fast as their toes stick through them.

"The watched pot never boils," they say and the child who is too carefully sheltered and guarded seldom grows into the strong, able-bodied, self-reliant youngster that the rough-and-tumble infant makes. Children can stand more falls, scratches, cuts and bruises, can have more hairbreadth escapes from danger without getting seriously hurt, than any other creatures in the animal kingdom. Every fond mother wonders how her boy ever managed to grow to maturity without being crippled for life. But the child who when he falls and hurts himself gets up, brushes off the dirt and doesn't cry is the youngster that will bear the buffets and arrows of misfortune bravely when he grows up and has to face a pretty hard world. He is the kind that fights life's battles and comes out a winner.

There is no more pleasing sight than a lot of children making mud pies, running races, playing "base" or "I spy," jumping and shouting in the joy of pure animal spirits. They are the freest, most frolicsome things alive. They must pity the little boy who is afflicted with so many millions that he has to be cooped up and every time he does get out walks or rides under guard of detectives. How is he ever to learn to play baseball, or "shinny?" He can't even ride a bicycle in peace or run around the streets on roller skates, and when he looks out of the window and sees a crowd of youngsters enjoying themselves without interference he must feel very forlorn and lonesome.—Baltimore Sun.

The New York legislature has appropriated a total of $3,250,000 for building good roads in that state. It was hard to get some of the members of the North Carolina legislature to give permission to build good roads much less to appropriate money for the purpose.—Charlotte Chronicle.

WOMEN'S BEAUTY.

Imperfect Digestion Causes Bad Complexion and Dull Eyes.

The color in your cheeks won't fade, the brightness in your eyes won't vanish, if you keep your stomach in good condition.

Belching of gas; heaviness, sour taste in mouth, dizziness, biliousness and nausea occur simply because the stomach is not properly digesting the food.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets give instant relief to upset stomachs, but they do more, they put strength into the stomach and build it up so that it can easily digest a hearty meal.

"I had stomach trouble for 6 years—for days at a time I could eat nothing at all. After taking MI-O-NA treatment I am in perfect health and can eat anything."—E. M. Campbell, 1200 S. Prospect, Sedalia, Mo.

MI-O-NA is sold by Coward & Wooten, and druggists everywhere, at 50 cents a large box. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion, and all stomach distress, or money back.

A Dollar—What Is It?

Have you got a dollar? If you have, take it out, look at it and then read the following from George Wood Anderson, in "Delivering the Goods," a story running in the March number of the National Magazine:

A dollar—what is it? "A piece of paper," says one. No, more than that. "Circulating medium," says one. No, more than that. "Something that you borrowed from your friend," says another. No, more than that. That dollar is a part of my life. I worked hard yesterday and earned a dollar. I might have spent it in a minute's time and been no richer for the investment, but I did not spend it. It was the only tangible thing I had out of the whole day's existence. The joy, the opportunity, and the privileges of the day had gone into the silence of that eternity that had passed. That dollar is my yesterday. I may spend it, and start tomorrow bankrupt. I may keep it and tomorrow need not work at all, because my yesterday's dollar will pay for the services of one who may do the work better than myself; or, I may work again tomorrow and the next day, and the next, and save my yesterday's until I have long years of yesterdays, strong and capable of toil, who shall labor for me and keep me in comfort when my body is too weak to toil. A dollar is part of a man's life, and as he guards his health to take care of the future, he should be guard his dollars to secure the full service of the past.

Robert Runs Riot.

Wonder why women are frightened by rats? That's one thing we never could understand. We recall an exchange of courtesies between a man and his wife one night in a restaurant, and the courtesies were curious and conflicting, and were fast leading up to the riot standpoint, the woman "holding her own," and even more than that, when a rat ran across the room. That settled the dispute. The woman jumped on the table, among all the dishes, showing ankles and lingerie that would have made a Dutch rdanseuse dizzy with delirium. But the row stopped and the laughter began. The latest rat story, however, comes from Brooklyn and it runs like this: During a matinee performance at one of the theaters, while the house was crowded, a rat appeared in one of the aisles and consternation seized the crowd instantaneously. Women jumped on orchestra chairs, danced the Highland fling and other flangs, screamed and acted like mad, while the rat ran riot through the rows of seats. At one stage of the stampede all the women screamed together; that put the show out of business. The actors lost their lines, the women lost their reason, and the rat lost its life. Why are women frightened at rats, and still wear them in their hair.—New Orleans Picayune.

Not Guilty.

"Is your husband a bibliomaniac?" asked Mrs. Oldcastle as she was being permitted to view the treasures in the library of the new neighbor. "Mercy sakes, no!" replied Mrs. Packenham. "He never wibbles a bit. Oh, of course I don't say that he wouldn't take a little at his meals if the rest was doin' it, but that's as far as he ever goes in them kind of things."—Chicago Record-Herald.

FARMER'S WIFE HAD HEAP TO DO

Mrs. Shepherd Was in Bad Shape When She Could Not Stand on Her Feet.

Durham, N. C.—"I am a farmer's wife," writes Mrs. J. M. Shepherd of this city, "and have a heap to do."
"Four months ago I could not stand on my feet, to do anything much, but at this time I do the most of my work. I took Cardui and it did me more good than all the doctors.

"You don't know how I thank you for the Cardui Home Treatment. I wish that all women who suffer from womanly trouble would treat themselves as I have."

Ladies can easily treat themselves at home, with Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is easy to take, and so gentle in its action, that it cannot do anything but good.

Being composed exclusively of vegetable ingredients, Cardui cannot lay up trouble in your system, as mineral drugs often do. Its ingredients having no harsh, medicinal effects, and being non-poisonous and perfectly harmless, Cardui is absolutely safe for young and old.

Ask your druggist. He will tell you to try Cardui.

RECIPROCITY. GARDNERSVILLE ITEMS.

The Newspaper's Place Among The People.

Congressman Daizell, of Pennsylvania, says the Canadian reciprocity measure is a newspaper bill, fostered by publishers whose impelling desire is to get print paper at a cost much reduced from the prices now exacted by the "paper trust."

For that matter, every proposed law that aims to mend conditions and make a living in this life better is a newspaper bill.

A thing is never really known until the newspapers get hold of it and publish it. People would have a rather vague idea of the abuses of trusts, the crookedness of professional politicians and the bad bills that are shoved forward for enactment every time a legislature meets, unless the honest public prints focused their inquisitive searchlights upon them and made the reading plain.

If it were not for the newspapers, says The Sacramento Bee, the trusts and other privileged entities would flourish like the sickly yellow toadstools in the dark and sunless places, poison the air and encroach upon the fertile ground that should be long to the rest of us.

The newspapers succeeded in making it pleasanter all around for the general run of humanity, largely by exposing the frauds and the law-breakers that abound, and by advocating laws and precautions that will stop or correct them.

All the remedial legislation, from the earliest periods down to the present day of strenuousness in the way of profession, was successfully enacted only because newspaper publicity urged it.

Therefore, the Canadian reciprocity measure is no more a "newspaper bill" than any other. Reciprocity will simply make it harder for some overgrown trusts to gouge the unfortunate ultimate consumer, and that is why the newspapers are back of it.

Incidentally, they are entitled to what few minor benefits will accrue to them.—Fourth Estate.

Men With A Past.

A Brooklyn lawyer, suspended from practice, who disappeared seven years ago and was thought to have committed suicide, reappears as the leader of the minority in the Michigan senate. The chief of police at Danville, Va., is recognized after many years as an escaped convict under sentence in Georgia.

During the recent political campaign a candidate for governor in a western state was identified as one who in youth had participated in a crime of violence on the Texas border. The governor-elect of a Southern state proves in infancy to have been a foundling.

It is pleasing to note that in every one of these cases identity was admitted and that the honorable record of after-life was general accepted as atoning for early misdeeds or obscure origin. Exposure, therefore, while painful in some instances, has not operated to discourage those who in many other places are seeking honestly and industriously to overcome the disadvantage of a bad start.

Experience such as these give heart to optimist, furnish prison reformers with even increasing zeal and prove the genuineness of a democracy which does not dwell unduly upon the past of anybody or anything.—New York World.

Neighborhood News And Personal Items.

Gardnersville, N. C., March 28.—Quite a number of our Gardnersville folks attended church at Riverside Sunday.

Misses Fay E. Corey and Marie Lancaster were visiting the home of Mr. J. L. Causey Saturday night and Sunday.

Messrs. G. L. Moore and Luby Sauls, of Fort Barnwell, were visiting Mr. L. H. Moore Sunday.

Mr. Herman Stokes went to Ayden Saturday.

Misses Rosa Lee Bland, Nettie Dixon and Dora Moore were visiting Miss Minnie Belle Witherington Sunday.

Mr. L. H. Moore went down to Clay Root Neck Sunday.

Mr. Jesse Bland, of Epworth section, was visiting around Gardnersville Sunday.

Misses Bertha Holoway and Minnie Belle Witherington are spending the week with Miss Bessie Harper.

The farmers of this section are turning everything "up side down," getting ready to plant corn.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Pat Oxley, who has been very sick, is improving rapidly.

Rev. J. R. Tingle will fill his regular appointment at Timothy Sunday. Everybody is invited to attend.

Feeding Winter Birds.

Bird lovers who travelled between South Framingham and Fitchburg have had quite a treat this winter. On mornings when the snow has been on the ground John Garland, of Marlboro, a contractor, has daily carried with him many pounds of grain which he has thrown, placed in small paper bags, from the train when passing Clinton. The grain has gone to feed the pheasants, which flocked in that section in large numbers.

The birds quickly learned to be on hand every morning in time for that particular train and they will be missed by the passengers having occasion to journey every day on this train as warm weather approaches and the birds are not obliged to depend upon the kindness of the conductor for their grain.

Many people inquire as to how these English birds happen to be found in this section. The answer is probably this: John Thayer, the Lancaster bird lover, who possesses a rare collection, it is said to secure these pheasants and to raise large families liberating them as soon as they are large enough to care for themselves. The first of the birds were brought over here from England.—Boston Globe.
