JUDGE HARRY W. WHEDBEE AT WAKE SUPERIOR COURT

DISPATCHES BUSINESS RAPIDLY Would Not Let Lawyers Criticise Jurors For Their Verdict.

Judge Harry W. Whedbee held a criminal term of superior court in Wake county last week, and dispatched business so rapidly that in commenting upon it the Raleigh News and Observer says:

Wake county superior court made a record for itself this week, and the credit for it goes to Judge H. W. Whedbee, of Greenville, and Solicitor Herbert E. Norris, of Raleigh. This record is that in place of a two-weeks term the business of the court was so expedited that it practically ended last night, and only some motions will be heard this morning, five days being used in place of twelve.

At the close of the session yesterday Judge Whedbee announced that the jury was discharged, and authorized that notice be given to the jurors summoned for the second week that they need not attend, that the March term was over and there would be no court next week. With 101 cases on the docket at the beginning of the court there were 24 during the week a total of 125 cases. That the business of the court has been thus expedited is a matter for congratulation to the officers.

The News and Observer also gives the following sensation that occurred during the last day of the court, after a man had been convicted of running a "blind tiger." It says:

Following the argument in which Col. Harris and Mr. W. C. Harris spoke vigorously for their client and Solicitor Norris made a strong speech for the prosecution, the jury after being out about 30 minutes brought in a verdict of guilty and recommended the mercy of the court.

At this Col. Harris moved that prayer for judgment be continued to the next term and that Mitchell be allowed to go on bond to show at the next term that he had been of good behavior. This was overruled by Judge Whedbee.

Then Col. Harris asked that judgment be suspended on the payment of costs, or at most that a small fine be imposed with costs. This was disallowed by the court.

After this refusal Col. Harris, in strong language expressed his disapproval of the verdict of the jury, that he believed his client to be innocent and that he did not think any one should be convicted on the testimony offered by the state, and especially by such men as Mr. Moore whom he knew to be unworthy of belief.

At this Judge Whedbee stopped Col. Harris and said that he thought the jury was entirely justified by the evidence in rendering its verdict, which was eminently just and right. He stated that in his opinion Mitchell was undoubtedly guilty and that the jury should not be criticized by counsel, but that it should be commended and that he desired to thank it for its verdict.

Col. Harris again expressed his disapproval of the verdict and said that in his opinion it was absolutely unwarranted and that he had a contempt for men on a jury who had not the backbone to stand out for what they believed to be right and consent to a verdict which they believed ought not to be rendered.

Judge Whedbee again told Col. Harris in emphatic language that he could not permit him to thus criticize a jury which did not have the opportunity of defending itself and that nothing more must be said along that line.

One of the jury at this point said that Col. Harris was taking an advantage of the jury and treating it unjustly.

The court replied: "That is true, but the court will not permit it again. On the other hand, gentlemen of the jury, I commend you for the manly course you have pursued in this matter, and the court desires to thank you in its behalf and on behalf of the public for the verdict you have rendered in this case. The court desires to say further that it affords it greater pleasure to say that you have rendered faithful and honest service as jurors at this term, and that the people of Wake county are indebted to you. In my experience on the bench I have not always seen juries that deserve commendation, but you do and I am very glad to express it." Judge Whedbee then sentenced Mitchell to three months on the roads.

New Order of Political Campaign in Charlotte.

The new order of campaigning in Charlotte is attracting much attention. Says The Lenoir News: "The political campaign that has been waging in Charlotte for some time is unique in that the respective candidates for mayor have conducted a publicity fight through the columns of the papers just as advertising matter. Each side has had good space in the papers and they have kept it full of plain and practical statements, defining the positions of the men they are trying to elect and what they stand for. Aside from the issues involved the information given to the tax-payers has been of a very valuable nature. This strikes us as the most sensible way to conduct a campaign and we congratulate the people of Charlotte upon the decency and lack of venom and spite that the campaign thus far has shown." The municipal campaign in Charlotte, this year, is being conducted on business principles and it is proving satisfactory all around.—Charlotte Chronicle.

REPUBLICANS CAUCUS.

Getting Together to Settle Their Differences.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, April 3.—Republicans of the house will hold their caucus in the hall of house of representatives tonight. Indications are that the caucus will be even more harmonious than the Democratic love feast on Saturday. Leaders of two Republican factions are anxious to close up their differences, at least temporarily. Insurgents hold a conference today, but indications are that most of them will attend the caucus tonight. There will be no opposition to Representative Mann for minority leader. Nearly all members of congress are present now and ready for the opening tomorrow.

Swift & Company Fined.

Raleigh, N. C., April 1.—Swift & Co., the Chicago meat packers, through local counsel today in Wake county superior court, plead guilty that their local branch here sold rotten meat in the Raleigh market and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed in one case and judgment suspended on payment of costs in two others.

In March, 1910, a verdict of guilty was found against the company in the police court here and an appeal was taken. Many citizens had testified that hogs exposed for sale were filthy and rotten. The city agreed that the fine should be imposed in only one case.

ANOTHER WAR GAME.

The Atlantic Fleet in Readiness for Action.

By Wire to The Reflector.

On Board U. S. S. Mayflower off Virginia Capes, April 3.—The annual battle of the Atlantic fleet off the capes will begin this afternoon when fourteen battleships under command of Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, will fire their big guns at targets representing war ships of the enemy. Twenty-five vessels of the navy are on the scene of the battle forty miles off Virginia capes. The four divisions of the fleet are spread over a distance of forty or forty-five miles.

TROUBLE IN COAL FIELDS.

And Troops Are Dispatched to Quell Violence.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Lithbridge, Alberta, April 3.—Troops were ordered in readiness today for transportation to the coal fields of Alberta and British Columbia, where more than 800 men are on a strike at ten mines. Heavy detachments of mounted police are already on way. The striking miners are threatening violence.

BOOKER DID NOT APPEAR.

And The Case Against Ulrich Was Continued.

By Wire to The Reflector.

New York, April 3.—Booker T. Washington failed to appear to prosecute Albert Ulrich on the charge of assault today. Ulrich appeared in the court of special sessions and pleaded "not guilty." His bond was continued and the date for the trial will be set later.

YOUNG ETHNA LANGLEY

DRAGGED TO DEATH

MULE HE WAS RIDING RUNS AWAY Boy Dragged Half Mile and Lives But Few Minutes.

A horrible fatal accident occurred this morning at the home of Mr. T. E. Langley, about three miles from town. His son, Ethna, 12 years old, was out in the field plowing a mule. A shower of rain came up when the boy unhitched the mule, got on the animal's back, and started to ride to the house.

The mule became frightened and run away, throwing the boy off his back. In falling off the mule one of Ethna's feet became entangled in the trace chain, and he was dragged behind the running mule for nearly half a mile, the mule not stopping until he reached the gate.

Members of the family saw the mule run up to the gate and found Ethna with his foot still entangled in the trace chain. The boy breathed but a few times, life having been beaten and dragged out of him.

MYSTIC SHRINE.

Will Meet at New Bern, N. C., May Twelfth.

Among the number of organizations officially slated to meet in Eastern North Carolina in the next two months is Oasis Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., which will meet in New Bern N. C., May 12th, for a Ceremonial Session. Don't forget the date. The railroads will give special rates to all Nobles.

This will give all members of Oasis Temple in Eastern Carolina an excellent opportunity to attend the session, and every member should get busy at once and secure as much "fresh meat" as possible for this occasion.

There will be "something doing" every minute, and all who desire to ride the goat, shoot the shute, or refuse to take good advice, will surely be accommodated. Don't tell your wife you are going for she will know you have been somewhere, and so will all who come.

The New Bern Nobles will do things that will make a lasting impression on all present, especially on the candidates, who had better leave their Sunday clothes at home, and be that much ahead of the game. They should at least wear a smile and try to keep it on all night, as it is a lovely thing on novices.

"The candidate came
And gave his name
And paid his initiation,
Then mid shrieks and groans
They mashed his bones,
This benevolent organization."

HOISTING ENGINE MOVES ITSELF

And The Job Was Done Very Quickly.

The workmen who are putting up the new court house and jail have been using a hoisting engine to lift the material up to the high walls. So far this engine has been stationed between the two buildings, so that material could be quickly handled to both. The hoisting work on the jail being completed, and the workmen needing the engine at the front of the court house, they set to work to move it. And they did not do a thing but just make that engine move itself. The long hoisting cable was run out and fastened securely, and the engine was set to work. It just wound that cable around the pulley and the engine went skidding along to where the workmen wanted it. It's all in knowing how to do a thing.

Charm in Garden.

Charm is an exquisite quality in a garden, but as rare and elusive as a hermit thrush. It comes of itself when plants are happily placed, feel at home in the garden, and begin to be on terms of friendly intimacy with every one. Mere expenditures is powerless to bring it in. The garden may be a blaze of color and an admirably arranged show case of handsome plants, but it will be as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal if the love for the plants is not there, while the simplest of garden may have an abiding and incapable charm if the gardener has a real love for it. When our gardens are loved there will be no question about their being charming.—Frances Duncan, in Century.

It is all right to change horses in the middle of the stream if yours is floating down.

JUDGE J. S. ADAMS

DIES VERY SUDDENLY

HIS DEATH A LOSS TO THE STATE Judge Whedbee Asked to Hold North- ampton Court.

Saturday night Judge Harry W. Whedbee came home from Raleigh where he had transacted practically two weeks' business of Wake Superior court in one week, and thought he was coming home to take a well earned week's rest. This morning he received a telephone message from Governor Kitchin, advising him of the sudden death of Judge J. S. Adams, of Asheville, and asking Judge Whedbee to go hold this week's term of Northampton court that Judge Adams was to have held.

No particulars of Judge Adams' sudden death were given in the message. Judge Adams received the nomination over Judge J. D. Murphy in the Asheville district last year, and was elected in November. He was the judge who tried the recent noted West case in Wilson, and was to have held the fall courts in Pitt county this year. His death is a distinct loss to the state.

MEN'S PRAYER LEAGUE.

The Good It is Doing Grows More Apparent.

"What are we living for?" was the subject discussed in the meeting of the Men's Prayer League in the Baptist church Sunday afternoon, and those present gained a higher conception of the duties of life, that our aim should be sympathy, service and helpfulness to others. Messrs. E. L. Daughtridge and A. D. Dupree both led with splendid practical talks. The other leader was absent, but his place was filled with several short talks that were helpful.

The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be held in the Methodist church. Subject, "Using Our Talents." Text, Matt. 25:14-31. Leaders, Messrs. W. M. Pugh, R. E. Overton and E. A. Moyer.

Every week the good the league is doing among the men of Greenville becomes more apparent.

Helping Her Look.

The clerk was most obliging, but the young woman customer was hard to please. Roll after roll of blankets did he patiently take down and show to her; nothing suited.

For some fifteen minutes this mock sale went on; then the young woman said, descendingly: "Well, I don't intend to buy anything. I was just looking for a friend."

"Wait a moment, madam," cried the clerk: "There is one more blanket left on the shelf, maybe you will find your friend in it."—Metropolitan Magazine.

Chicagoan Tells of Tactics Used by Wife and Daughters.

Here is a shrot political story with a certain real virtue and a moral: Mr. Charles E. Merriam has been receiving lately a very noticeable support from the Republican organization of the 19th ward. As this territory is credited to the Hon. Chris Mamer, on the county central committee, Mr. Merriam and his counselors could not quite see why his "regulars" should be working their heads off for good government. They knew that the Hon. Chris was a good party man, and they expected him to prove true to the ticket. But they knew, too, that he was human and they hardly expected him to run out an aggressive champion for Merriam. The nominee was thoroughly puzzled. Finally he remarked that Miss Mamer, Chris' daughter, was a student in one of his classes out at the University of Chicago. "And a good one she was, too." He wondered if she could have anything to do with the little mystery.

Yesterday Chris appeared in person at the Grand Pacific Hotel—as, by the way, most of the big Republicans in Chicago are doing—and proclaimed his allegiance to Merriam with unmistakable heartiness. His face, however, bore a rather whimsical smile. "You see," he exclaimed, "they got my goat. First, my daughter came out for Merriam, and then my wife. And when a man's wife and daughter are out getting votes for a candidate, he'd better get into line himself if he expects any peace at home at all."

The virtue of this little tale is that it is perfectly true.—Chicago Evening Post.

A Big Deal.

Salisbury, N. C., April 1.—A transaction involving $1,000,000 was closed here last night, whereby 51 per cent. of the stock of the street railroad, electric light and power and gas companies of Salisbury, Concord and Spencer, N. C., was sold to William J. Oliver, of Knoxville. The purchase includes the electric inter-urban line of twenty-two miles, connecting Salisbury and Concord and the line connecting Salisbury with Spencer, where the Southern Railway has large shops.

THIS ONE LIKES "PEACHES."

Down in Norfolk there is a handsome bachelor who regularly reads The Reflector. A close friend of his went to his room and found a recent copy of the paper with the poem below marked and the appended verse written on the margin. That friend didn't do a thing but "swipe" it and mail it back to The Reflector, with the explanation that while the bachelor has been the recipient of some "lemons" he thinks they are "peaches," hence his verse can be readily interpreted:

In Memoriam.

Toll the bell with mournful cadence,
Tie crepe upon the door;
Sing a song of lamentation,
For the peach crop's killed once more!

—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Sound another note of weeping,
Heave another sigh of woe;
Grieve not solely for the peach crop—
Winter flannels, too, must go.

—Charlotte News.

Ere you dry the falling tear drops,
There's one more to join the van;
For along with peach and flannels,
Also goes the hard coal man.

—Greenville Reflector.

You may mourn the loss of your flannel clothes,
And let the coal man take a back seat;
But when in want of fruit, every man knows
He can always find "peaches" on Granby street.

Coca-cola is getting the worth of the money in advertising out of the government investigation. Every paper in the country has contributed a share, and here goes one more mite.

A Harvard professor declares that anyone ought to be able to live on 10 cents per day. Some people manage to live on less than that and save 10 cents.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Money in Lettuce.

The expansion of the lettuce-growing industry around Wilmington has been marked in recent years. In fact, this industry is a development of the past few years. This year, the crop, it is believed, will be a record-breaker. The well-posted Carolina Fruit and Truckers' Journal reports that the plantings of field lettuce this season have been increased so the acreage is greater at this time than possibly ever before in the history of the industry. "This," says the authority quoted, "will come somewhat as a surprise to many people but such nevertheless is a fact. Bed lettuce acreage is about up to the normal of last year, but the field lettuce growers seem to have taken fresh courage from last year's prices and crop and without letting the 'right hand know what the left hand was doing,' continued to increase their plantings until the acreage around here is something immense. This crop will not begin to move to any appreciable extent before April and May, the season having much to do with its maturity." It is further stated that the Wrightsboro Truck Growers' Association shipped out their first carload last week; the average price of which was around $1.50 per basket. Shipments North are now made daily in carload and less than carloads and the latest quotations are all the way from $1.50 to $1.10. The Florida and South Carolina lettuce crops, however, are at the height of their movement and this makes competition with North Carolina stock very keen. The lettuce crop distributes annually several hundred thousand dollars among the growers immediately around Wilmington.—Charlotte Chronicle.

"Mind Your P's and Q's"

Several explanations have been given the origin of the phrase "Mind your P's and Q's." One, which will appeal to all printers as plausible, is the following by Charles Knight: "I have always thought that the phrase was derived from the printing office. The forms of the small p's and q's in the Roman type have always been puzzling the printer's apprentice. In the one the downward stroke is on the left of the oval; in the other on the right. Now, when the types are reversed, as they are when in process of distribution, and they are returned by the compositor to the case, the mind of the young printer is puzzled to distinguish the p from the q. In sorting pi, or a mixed heap of letters, where the p and q are not in connection with any other letter forming a word, I think it would be almost impossible for an inexperienced person to distinguish which is which upon the instant."—American Bulletin.

William T. Lewis has been a familiar figure at the White House for almost half a century. They call him Pop Lewis. He has known eleven presidents. He was a member of Abraham Lincoln's bodyguard. He is eighty-five years old now, and he shuffles about in his "short sleeves."—Baltimore Star.

Catarrh, A Surely Dangerous Disease

Thousands of people allow catarrh to slowly undermine the whole system until a serious disease develops—sometimes consumption.

People who have catarrh should use every effort to get rid of it, but should above all adopt a sensible method.

Stomach dosing, sprays and douches won't cure catarrh because it is a germ disease, and the germs must be destroyed before the disease can be conquered.

HYOMEI is the one sensible cure for catarrh because it reaches every fold, crevice and nook in the mucous membrane and gets where the germs are. You breathe HYOMEI and as it passes over the inflamed membrane its soothing influence heals the soreness and destroys the germs.

A complete HYOMEI outfit costs $1. This consists of a bottle of HYOMEI and a hard rubber inhaler. Pour a few drops of HYOMEI into the inhaler, and breathe it a few minutes each day, that's all you have to do. It is guaranteed by Coward & Wooten and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, coughs, colds and sore throat or money back. Extra bottle of HYOMEI costs 50 cents. ### GRAY HAIRS BANISHED.

The old idea of using sage for darkening the hair is again coming in vogue. Our grandmothers used to have dark, glossy hair at the age of seventy-five, while our mothers have white hair before they are fifty. Our grandmothers used to make a "sage tea" and apply it to their hair. The tea made their hair soft and glossy and gradually restored the natural color.

One objection to using such a preparation was the trouble of making it, especially as it had to be made every two or three days on account of its souring quickly. This objection has been overcome and by asking almost any first-class druggist for Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy the public can get a superior preparation of sage, with the admixture of sulphur, another valuable remedy for hair and scalp troubles. Daily use of this preparation will not only quickly restore the color of the hair but will also stop the hair from falling out and make it grow.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle and is recommended and sold by

W. A. Bowen, Greenville, N. C.

SELECTION OF SEED.

Farmers Cannot Give it Too Much Importance.

Another bulletin of particular value to the farmer at the present time, issued by the agronomy division of the state Agricultural department, is one bearing on the subject of the selection of seed. Upon this the bulletin says, too much importance cannot be laid. The farmers should select his own seed when ever it is practicable for him to do so. It not only saves him money in the purchase of the so-called improved seeds but it guards him against great loss in yield from using varieties which, though good in their own localities, are worthless when grown under new conditions of soil and climate. There are cases, however, where it may pay the farmer to let some good honest seed breeder improve his seed for him while he occupies his time with other lines of business. But whenever the farmer purchases seed corn and cotton seed, and seed wheat and seed oats, he should not fail to have his breeder answer in detail the following questions, namely: How long have you been improving this variety? What kind of soil grow your crops on—sandy soil, clay soil, upland soil, or bottomland soil? red, gray or black. Having received a faithful answer to these questions, the farmer should then know the exact cultural methods used by his breeder. He should know first how deep the land was plowed and when the plowing was done; how much and what kind of manure and fertilizers were used; how often and how late cultivation was practiced as well as what tools were used in the cultivation; then, finally, what yield per acre was obtained under these conditions. Less information than this is insufficient for the farmer who is going to risk his profits for the coming year on the possible performances or non-performance of the variety in question. No farmer would buy a horse without some knowledge of his performance record, and why should he know less about a variety of corn, cotton, or wheat than he would insist on knowing about the horse?

Last year the state agricultural department got together a large number of varieties of corn and cotton and grew them in competition with each other in different parts of the state on as many different types of soil. The results of these tests are given in detail in the bulletin to show the value of seed selection.—Charlotte Chronicle.

ONE WEAK SPOT.

Most Greenville People Have a Weak Part and too Often It's the Back

Everyone has a weak spot. Too often it's a bad back. Twinges follow every sudden twist. Dull aching keeps up, day and night. Tells you the kidneys need help—For backache is really kidney-ache. A kidney cure is what you need. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. Cure backache and urinary ills. Good proof in the following statement.

Jackson Baxter, 424 Bonner street, Washington, N. C., says: "I suffered from kidney and bladder trouble for a long time. The kidney secretions were scanty at times, while at others profuse, and the passages were attended with pain. I had severe back-aches and constant gnawing pains through my kidneys. I was feeling miserable when I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and began their use. They gave me such great relief that I obtained a further supply and since using this, the pains across my back have disappeared. I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone troubled by kidney complaint." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Tariff of Canadian Lumber.

The proposed legislation pursuant to the reciprocity agreement with Canada puts rough lumber on the free-list. The present law taxes it $1.25 a thousand feet; the Dingley law taxed it $2. On planned lumber, however, the proposed law retains charges ranging from 50 cents a thousand for lumber planned on one side to $1.50 for lumber planned and finished on four sides. All these rates, except possibly the 50 cents for lumber planned on one side, exceed the whole cost of planing. For lumber planned on four sides, the duty may be two or three times the whole cost of planing.

Shingles were taxed 30 cents a thousand by the Dingley act, and were raised to 50 cents by the present law. The proposed law would reduce them to 30 cents, the Dingley rate. Lath paid 25 cents a thousand under the Dingley act; they pay 20 cents at present; the proposed law puts them at 10 cents.

Telegraph poles, pickets, and staves pay 10 per cent. at present. The proposed law puts them on the free list.

While the present law reduced the Dingley rates on sawed lumber, the change in the quality imported was not great. Imports of sawed lumber were 1,003,993,000 feet in 1906, 769,267,000 in 1908, and 950,269,000 in 1910. The latter quantity sawed in the United States—American Review of Reviews.

"Income Tax" Nearly Dead.

In rejecting the Aldrich income-tax amendment by a decisive vote and considering favorably a state income tax instead, the Maine legislature has apparently given the former project its quietus—certainly for some time to come. Thus far adverse votes have been cast by Louisiana, Virginia, Arkansas, Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, New Jersey and Utah. West Virginia has deferred action by a vote which was tantamount to rejecting the measure. Twenty-six states have voted affirmatively out of the 35 needed. Counting West Virginia in the negative, there have already been cast the twelve votes which bring defeat. States not yet voting are Connecticut, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Florida, Tennessee, Minnesota and Wyoming. Of these the first three, at least, will almost certainly join the adverse twelve.

In New York, Virginia and West Virginia efforts will be made to secure reconsideration. The fact that seemingly, there is no limitation upon the period of reconsideration naturally serves as an encouragement to the amendment's friends. But American history teaches that constitutional amendments which drag along thus die in the end. Several have perished on the road where the Aldrich amendment's feet are now set.—Charlotte Observer.

Saved His Mother's Life.

"Four doctors had given me up," writes Mrs. Laura Gaines, of Avoca, La., "and my children and all my friends were looking for me to die, when my son insisted that I use Electric Bitters. I did so, and they have done me a world of good. I will always praise them." Electric Bitters is a priceless blessing to women troubled with fainting and dizzy spells, backache, headache, weakness, debility, constipation or kidney disorders. Use them and gain new health strength and vigor. They're guaranteed to satisfy or money refunded. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

A TRAGIC OLD CUSTOM

Human Being Once Walled Up in Building Foundation.

The practice of putting money under the foundation stone of a new building is the shadow of an older tragic custom. The money stands theoretically for the ransom of the human being who by ancient superstition should have been buried in its place. Other wise, it was held, the building would not stand firm and endure.

There was a time when this particular kind of human sacrifice had a vogue extending to most parts of the world. Even in England skeletons have been found imbedded in the bases of castle walls, and there is record of one German fortress at the building of which a child was bought from its mother with hard cash and walled into the donjon tower, the unnatural mother, according to the story, looking on the while. Effigies of human beings are still used in some parts of Europe as harmless substitutes, and in remoter and more ruthless places the old custom crops out from time to time in all its grim reality. Within the last century two children, a boy and a girl, were it was reported, walled into a blockhouse by some laborers at Duga, Asiatic Turkey.—Westminster Gazette.

Our Guardianship of Caribbean Lands.

The United States has become the guardian of the American continent, and, more particularly, the policeman of the Caribbean Sea and the countries and islands whose shores are washed by its waters. Although this country has taken a deep interest in everything pertaining to the welfare of the nations on this hemisphere from the time the first republic was born until the Spanish war, that event has served to create a new condition and accentuate the responsibility which this government assumed when it first promulgated the Monroe Doctrine. The acquisition of Porto Rico, a virtual protectorate over Cuba, and the control of Santo Domingo finances, have made our interests supreme in the West Indies. The Panama Canal, as President Taft said in his message urging the fortification of the great waterway, has made the Isthmus a part of our coast line, and in so doing has extended our interests to a much greater degree in the Central American republics. Mexico is yearly claiming more of our attention on account of the American capital invested in that country. While the American flag may not float over these lands, yet everything between our southern border and the Panama Canal may be within our "sphere of influence," to use a term employed by European government in Africa.—Uncle Sam on Police Duty.

Always Some Plague.

There are about 1,000 American missionaries in the two provinces in China, Chefoo and Shantung, where the bubonic plague is raging, and about 250 more in the districts affected by the famine, says the Milwaukee Sentinel. Secretaries of American missionary societies having work in these provinces, and which sent out these workers, have notified the relatives in this country in so far as they are known, that in the judgment of the societies, missionaries and their families have little to fear.

The secretaries point to the fact that plagues of various kinds rage in China nearly all the time, and that to recall workers when one breaks out would be to disarrange the work nearly all of the time. Besides, say the secretaries, missionaries would not come home at this time were they ordered to do so.

An American physician trusted by the Chinese officials, and prominent in Pekin since the plague is a woman, Dr. Minnie Stryker, first sent by the Congregationalists, but now working under direction of the Methodist women of America. Reports of her usefulness at this time throw honor upon those who are supporting her. She is a native of Flemington, N. J., and a graduate of Mount Holyoke college in Massachusetts, class of 1894. She took her medical course at the Women's college in Philadelphia, and went to China under the American board in 1900.

No Remedy in Sight.

The Wadesboro Ansonian, discussing the high cost of living, points out the great expense to which merchants are put in delivering purchases—much of which might be obviated. "One firm," it reports, "tells of sending its delivery wagon to the same house twelve times to deliver small telephone orders, the whole amounting to less than a load for the wagon. Another carried a loaf of bread a mile and a half—the profit on the sale being one cent. Another was asked to send a 5-cent spool of cotton beyond the town limits, in order that it might be exchanged for one of another number." These instances may appear to be extreme, but we are confident that the average retail merchant would have no trouble in duplicating them from his experience without overstraining his memory to do so.

None the less, we cannot see much hope that the matter will be remedied. Modern business competition requires the retail merchant to go to the limit of possibility in delivering purchases to customers; if he does not, his competitor will make havoc with his trade. Equally necessary is it that he put on at least the appearance of cheerfulness when sending his man and wagon on a three-mile jaunt for the sake of a 1-cent profit. Under these conditions the buying public has become badly spoiled. The merchant perforce shows eager appreciation of the business given him, no matter how small its volume or how great the lack of foresight bestowed upon the transaction by the customer. Allowed an inch, to take an ell is strictly in line with human nature, and the latter has been found somewhat difficult of serious modification.—Charlotte Observer.

Idleness Means Failure.

When General Grant was living at Long Branch he was asked one day what he understood as a successful man, by the word "happiness." Without an instant's hesitation he answered, "Contentment." He then explained. By contentment he meant love and labor. "No man, he said, 'is a success who is unhappy; and I can't see how any man can be happy unless he is congenially employed. That's the only way to get contentment."

It is the only way. An idle man is a failure—even though he be worth millions. He knows no contentment. His indolence is sure to breed a perversity of will, a shallowness of mind, a moral decay. It is even so with women. Out of congenial employment, flows the quiet self-satisfaction—a realizing sense of the word and dignity of words forever memorable—"well done," thou good and faithful servant." Good to his own body, faithful to the talent that may be in him.—Philadelphia Press.

The Spelling Bee.

Editor Archibald Johnson, of Charity and Children, lately returned from a visit to Scotland county, tells of an organized spelling bee in Laurinburg, in which the best speller was given a cup as a prize. This cup was secured by a small tax on each school, and will be held by the school whose representative wins it until he may lose out in a subsequent contest. Of the spelling bee which Editor Johnson attended he says: "The contest consisted of ten words followed by a spelling match, the winner making the best mark in the two exercises. The former was written, the latter oral, and thus the real merit of the speller was revealed. Fred Bowen was the hero of the day. His age is 14 and he is in the seventh grade of the Snead's Grove school. We give the top of the morning to Fred, and hope he will enjoy the victory he has won. Such a victory means more than forty baseball scores, and in after years Fred will see it plain and clear, and so will his neighbors." Scotland county is going to send out some good spellers to the high schools and universities. The spelling bee, conducted along that line, is a valuable institution.—Charlotte Chronicle.

The Oldest Living City.

The oldest living city in the world is undoubtedly Damascus. Nineveh, Babylon, Tyre, Sidon, have gone their way; but Damascus remains, and that too, what it was before the days of Abraham, a center of trade and travel.

Aside from any historical interest, Damascus is interesting purely as a commercial center. From it came our damson, our blue plums, and the apricot of Portugal called damasco; damask, our fabric of cotton and silk, with designs of veins and flowers raised upon a smooth bright ground; the damask rose introduced into England during the time of Henry VIII; the Damascus blade, famous for its keen edge and its remarkable elasticity, the secret of whose manufacture was, it is said, lost when Tamerlane carried the artist into Persia; and the art of inlaying wood and steel with gold and silver.—Harper's Weekly.

AN UNREAD REPORT.

The Methods of Barney Barnato in His Mining Ventures.

Barney Barnato before the tragic termination of his career was widely known because of his large fortune won in mining ventures. His rapid accumulation of wealth was popularly attributed to luck, but luck of the persistent variety usually rests upon a more solid basis than mere chance. An insight to Barnato's methods is afforded by an incident recently related by A. A. Blow, an American engineer once in Barnato's employ. After an exhaustive examination of a mine whose purchase was under consideration Blow prepared an elaborate and voluminous report. It was accompanied by maps and selections and was a piece of work of which the engineer felt that he could be justly proud. When it was handed to Barnato to read, however, the latter laid it aside unopened.

"Tell me about it," he said. Blow proceeded to make an oral report.

Barnato dozed. Finally he exclaimed:

"I employed you because I think you know something about this business, and I do not. Now, I do not want to hear all of this scientific rot about this mine. All I want you to tell me is whether it is good business?"

Blow told him "No." "Then that settles it," said Barnato. "You are willing to accept the responsibility of turning down this property at the price offered?"

"Yes," was Blow's reply, "but I want you to examine the reports, maps, assays, plans, etc., and see the reasons I have for my conclusions."

"Why should I do this?" Barnato inquired. "You tell me that it is not 'good business.' And as I cannot understand your report why should I waste my time on anything that is not good business?"—Moody's Magazine.

VOCAL TRAINING ABROAD.

The Handicap American Music Students Face in Paris.

"The American voice is better handled at home than abroad," is the conclusion that years of experience have led Mr. Savage to reach, "for here it is better understood than it is there. Vocal training acquired, Europe offers the advantage of generations of tradition and an opportunity to crystallize individual ideas of interpretation. Here the singer has his courses of technology; there he finds the Beaux Arts for polishing.

"One thing that must be keenly felt by Americans studying in Paris and who for years have spent their money and time there is the chauvinistic attitude of the French toward American singers.

"There are, it seems, 3,000 American music students in Paris. You can count on three fingers those in that number who will ever really 'arrive.' In many cases their people are slaving at home to meet constant demands for more money. Yet those students have no more chance of a Paris engagement than an icicle in regions ultra tropical.

"At the Paris Conservatoire, a most excellent institution, they bind native pupils on conclusion of study for years of appearances at French opera houses. In Paris there are the Grand Opera, the Opera Comique and the Lyrique, all signing them for engagements. From these they are in turn sublet to such outlying theaters as those of Bordeaux, Lyons and elsewhere in the provinces. The French do not want the money to go out of the country.

"And still the cry is: 'Go to Paris to study! Go to Paris to study!'"—William Armstrong in Ainslee's.

When the Press Was Restricted.

Many of the restrictions that hampered the influence of the press remained in force until the close of the eighteenth century in England. It was not till that period that newspapers obtained the right to criticize the policy of ministers and of the king. Mr. Walter, the first editor of the London Times, was prosecuted for censuring the Duke of York. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $250, stand in the pillory for an hour, be imprisoned for a year and give security for his good behavior for seven years. The order with regard to the pillory was canceled, but he had to serve his term in jail.

Same Thing.

Mr. Simpson was reading the newspaper. "Here's a Chicago man got into a drunken brawl and was stabbed to death," he said aloud.

His wife glanced up from her knitting and commented, "In some low saloon, I suppose."

"No. The paper says he got stabbed in the thoracic cavity."

"Same thing. You'd think the police would close such a place up."—National Monthly.

Unfit.

Cadger—Old Highroller has just been telling us about a time when he was shipwrecked and all the survivors but he were eaten by cannibals. Badger—Why didn't they eat him? Cadger—I don't know exactly, but I suspect there was a pure food commission on the island.—Lippincott's.

Perplexed.

"Your daughter's brain, madam, appears to be normal."

"Dear, dear, we've never had anything of that kind in the family before, I'm sure!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Our generosity should never exceed our abilities.—Cicero.

NEWSPAPER PRESS FOR SALE.
Having placed an order for a new fast newspaper and book press, to be installed the middle of April, we have a newspaper press that will be sold at a bargain for delivery May 1st.
It is a Monona Leverless Press, large enough to print four 6-column pages, or two 9-column pages and has steam fixtures so that it can be run either by hand or power. Been in use six years.
It is a splendid press for a weekly paper and is in good condition to do many years good service. We used a press from the same factory for 17 years before installing this one, printing a daily paper with small circulation about 10 years of that time. Its speed, 800 an hour, is too slow for a daily paper with the present circulation of The Reflector, and for that reason we are having to displace it with a faster press.
Any one interested and wanting a good press for a weekly newspaper, can see this press at work every day in the Reflector building, before our new press is installed. Any one who cannot come to see it at work and examine it, can get particulars by addressing
