Washington, April 14.—Ambassador Hill handed in his resignation two days ago and it was accepted and made public today.

Failure to successfully cope with German diplomats in the petash dispute, it is said, was motive for his resignation. Hill was appointed ambassador in 1908 and it is said that this resignation is merely the following out of custom of appointees of one administration handing their resignation to next.

NORTH CAROLINA ITEMS

News Happenings Throughout the State

On Monday last, as a token of love and affection of the members of St. John's Commandery No. 10, Knight Templars, a beautiful bouquet of flowers was presented by the excellent Eulate to Dr. F. M. Moyer, at the Sanatorium, where he is confined by temporary illness. Dr. Moyer is Past Grand Commander of the Order in this state and Past Commander of Mount Lebanon Commandery No. 27, of Wilson, N. C. He has in probably more chapters of Royal Arch Masons, and Commanderies of K. T. in North Carolina than any other official, and is at present Grand Lecturer and Instructor of Durham Sun.

SO. COMMERCIAL CONGRESS

A North Carolinian Becomes Commissioner of Immigration

Washington, D. C., April 14.—Leroy Hodges, present with the Tariff Board will in a few months become Commissioner of immigration of the Southern Commercial Congress. In the interval, he will co-operate with Senator Fletcher and Managing Director Dawe, in organizing to successfully carry out the delicate task assigned to him by the Executive Committee. Mr. Hodges is in complete sympathy with the Southern Commercial Congress in its repeated declarations that the lands of the south would better remain empty than bring on a second racial problem. In a written communication to the Executive Committee, Mr. Hodges says:

"There is a pressing demand now in the south for skilled industrial laborers, as well for unskilled workmen, who can be relied on, and who will not further complicate our negro problem. I would advocate, however that the energy of the Southern Commercial Congress be directed towards turning agriculturalists towards the south. The large tracts of land which are now lying idle throughout the south should be placed in condition to produce not only subsistence for the army of workers who will be attracted to the region in quest of employment, as our industrial development continues, but also to furnish the raw cotton, tobacco, sugar cane and other commodities which our own mills and factories will require outside of the export demands. While this may be made the work of the congress for the present, I do not mean to say that the demand for industrial laborers and skilled artisans should be overlooked, for I believe that as far as it is practical an effort should be exerted to supply this need. But as these latter classes are seldom permanent settlers in any one locality, the Southern Commercial congress can best serve the South by guiding within her boundaries those who will become great factors in the communities in which they take up their residence."

Mr. Hodges is a native of North Carolina, although reared in Virginia where he received his early education in Gatewood's Naval Preparatory School at Norfolk. His education in economics and law was received in Washington, Lee University, and at the University of Chicago. He has spent about two years in railroad and general engineering, having served under the Seaboard Air Line and the Augusta and Florida railroads, and several construction companies.

WITH MISS MATTIE MOYE KING

Enjoyed in Honor of Miss Lillian Burch, Bride-Elect

On Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at her home on Dickinson avenue, Miss Mattie Moyer King entertained in honor of Miss Lillian Burch, the bride-elect.

On arriving the guests were received by the hostess, attired in white, marquisette over taffeta, and the guests of honor in black marquisette over yellow brocade.

They were then invited to the punch bowl where Misses Annie King and Annie Leonard Tyson, each wearing white lingerie dresses, gracefully presided.

The game of the afternoon was progressive initials. Miss Ward Moore, making the highest score, was awarded a bouquet of flowers.

The guest of honor was also presented a basket of baskets.

At the conclusion of the game in which cakes, ornate with satin-attire bride slippers, and ice cream with white chocolate sauce, the flame of love, and handkerchiefs were served.

Before the guests departed little Miss Virginia King entered with a white slipper filled with tiny gold and silver shoes which she offered upon the bride-to-be.

The marriage of Miss Burch to Mr. James Ellison of Washington, will take place in Memorial Baptist church next Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock.

ENCOURAGING BRIGHT PUPILS

Classroom Established at Cincinnati For Especially Bright Pupils

Parents and educators everywhere will be interested in this experiment now being tried in the Cincinnati public schools of establishing a classroom for especially bright pupils, which would appear to be the logical accompaniment of the classroom for backward pupils. The proposition that it is as unfair to hold back the apt or clever child in the ranks of the mediocre as it is to speed the dull pupil to a pace he cannot maintain appeals as reasonable and common sense.

It will be argued with much force that the system which makes provision for caring for the backward pupil cannot be justified without provision is made for accompanying the needs of those who can advance more rapidly than the average. The proposition simply provides for the application to schooling of the plan that is generally adopted and followed in the business world, where wage scales, and cost of production and all the advantages are based on the ability of those engaged in the work.

What the Salary System Saves

Guilford county, N. C., pays its officers salaries, and last year the difference between the salaries paid and what the officials would have received under the old fee system was $36,111. Of this amount, $7,975.71 went to the building of better roads, and $2,419.34 was added to the school fund. Of course, the savings would not be as great in smaller counties, but there are few counties in which a saving could not be effected, and finally, the roads and the schools need the money more than this.

The salary system is a business system and the fee system is not. How many readers know how much their county officials are getting? The amount is nearly always larger than would be supposed, and the officials' sums received by the officials in many counties certainly have no tendency to promote better government or cleaner politics.

Base Ball Meeting

GRIMESLAND VOTES

THE SCHOOL TAX

CHICCOO VOTES FALL IN LINE

They Start Early and Carry the Election Before Breakfast.

You just can't get ahead of our Grimesland folks. They are up and at it soon, and when they start to do anything it is done and over with. They held a election at Grimesland today on the question of establishing a local tax school district for the purpose of lengthening the public school term, and a telephone message to The Reflector by Dr. C. M. Jones says we carried it before breakfast. At the time he phoned there had been 45 votes cast for the tax and only one vote against it, the vote then cast being a good majority of the registered voters of the district, leaving the votes that come in later to swell the majority that much larger. Good for Grimesland.

BOY CORN CONTEST

The county committee with several of the township committees on the boys' corn contest held an enthusiastic meeting here today going into the details of the contest and the prizes to be awarded. It was so late when the meeting finished its work that we cannot give a full report until tomorrow.

In addition to the interest shown in the boys' corn contest, the meeting took a turn for a county fair next fall, and this was also enthusiastically discussed, resulting in the appointment of township committees to come together two weeks hence to confer as to the organization of a county fair association.

Insanity as a Defense

It is reported that the Society of Medical Jurisprudence is, strongly opposed on both legal and ethical grounds, to the proposal of the State Bar Association to abolish the defense of insanity in criminal cases and to put conditions upon the issue of a writ of habeas corpus after conviction of the criminal insane. The report of the committee of the society, which has been inquiring into the matter, holds that the proposed acts are unconstitutional.

All in One Night

In the course of a note to the editor of The Chronicle, Dr. J. O. Atkins, editor of The Christian Sun, has occasion to give an instance of the discouragement to the sheep industry about Elm College. "A friend has just phoned me from the country and says, 'That dogs got into his flock of sheep last night and killed fourteen, outright, gnawed and maimed four more and hurt others—obliterating nearly the entire flock in one night. I told him that if the legislature had listened to The Charlotte Chronicle, recently, such devastation and destruction as this would cease. The man is heart-sick and discouraged, but what can he do except to sit up tonight and maybe kill a hog or so? Our present law is a shame. We hope the reading of this will not make our legislators feel badly. The experience of this farmer is only a repetition of that of many others. Is it a wonder that farmers hesitate about going into sheep raising in North Carolina?' Charlotte Chronicle.

Bryce on Reciprocity

Ambassador Bryce's keen intelligence is shown in his analysis of the proposed reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada. The arrangement, he says, rests on a growing realization of the fact that high tariff wall between contiguous countries, whose products are economically interchangeable is an injury to both and opposed to sound fiscal principals. It is to products economically interchangeable that the proposed agreement applies, it involves no sacrifice of the principle of protection to the industries of the United States. There is a likelihood that its enactment would tend to reduce the cost of living in the United States, if so, it would tend to work those industries in their competition with the industries of other manufacturing nations for position in the markets of the world—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

Strike in Iowa Town

Muscatine, Iowa, April 14.—Gov. Carroll today ordered out a company of national guards here to quell riots precipitated by striking hatter makers. The city is under martial law. Should it prove necessary, after troops will be sent.

The Adjutant General's Report

The Adjutant General's Report shows that the state troops consist of 222 commissioned officers and 2,208 enlisted men, making a total band force of 2,430. The naval militia consist of 39 commissioned officers and 2,898 enlisted men, a total of 2,937, making a combined total of 5,367 men ready for service, an increase of 112 over the previous year. This year the Guard will receive from the national government a total of $77,708, of which upwards of $35,000 will be for arms and other equipment for camp purposes. The state appropriation is $38,000.

The adjutant general recommends that in the adoption of public school text books this year a suitable text book for the organization, aims and purposes of the military establishments of this state and the United States to be taught in the schools. He says there is a great lack of information on military matters among the general public and believes that such an innovation would accomplish much good.

A Object Lesson

The Asheboro Courier, making a fight for a good road bond issue in Randolph county, gives this object lesson:

"Guilford is the only county in the state rich enough to build good roads by direct taxation, and yet Guilford is one county in the state which has built its roads by a bond issue. A few years ago Guilford voted a bond issue of $300,000 for good roads. Since the building of good roads a revolution has taken place in that county. In the last ten years the increase in population is greater in that county than in any county in the state, and the increase in property has been greater than in any other county in the state."

Ten years ago Randolph stood next to Guilford in white voting population. Now Guilford has twice the population of Randolph and nearly a third more voting population. A few weeks ago the people of Guilford got together to consider the question of issuing more bonds for good roads. Upon investigation it was found that the county had a surplus each year, after repairing the roads and paying the interest on bonds and providing the sinking fund for said bonds, of $44,000 which could be used in building more good roads. One would expect a county which has a surplus of nearly $50,000 can build its good roads and does not need a bond issue, and yet the tax rate in Guilford is only 79 cents on the $100 valuation of property. Keep in mind that the only county in North Carolina that is now able to build good roads by direct taxation is the county of Guilford—a county which has built its roads with a bond issue.

Not all women who look in a mirror are lost in admiration.

FRIDAY, APRIL 14, 1911.

New Bern is having a very warm municipal campaign over the election of city officials and establishing a recorder's court.

The Reflector acknowledges an invitation to the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the statue of Hon. George Davis by the Cape Fear Chapter North Carolina Division, U. D. C., in Wilmington on Thursday, April 20th.

The more business you do with The Reflector, the more you help The Reflector do business in bringing more business to the town for you to get the benefit of. So it works to mutual advantage all around.

The tide of progress seems to be on in earnest in North Carolina. Capitalists are realizing the opportunities afforded by the water powers of the state, and the development of these for generating electric power, means that at no far distant day every section of the state will be reached and supplied with cheap power for all electric uses.

The Reflector has no patience with cotton contracts, that is selling cotton for future delivery, and thinks it is wrong for men to thus deal. But when men enter into such contracts they should be made to live up to them. Because the price of cotton goes contrary to what the seller expected it to do, is no reason for his violating his contract. It is wrong to enter into such a contract in the first place, but more wrong to try to violate it after it is made. It strikes a blow at the foundation of business confidence for men not to live up to their obligations.

Punishing The Farmers.

The name of the proposed trade agreement with Canada, called by its advocates "A Reciprocity Treaty," should be changed to "An Agreement to Punish American Farmers for Voting the Democratic Ticket."

For years the strength of the Democratic party in the North and central West has been in the cities where the cost of living is said to be high, while the Republican vote has been in the country. The Democrats have been carrying such large cities as New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Baltimore and Boston, while the Republicans carried the rural districts in the states in which those cities are situated.

In the elections last fall the farmers in large numbers who had heretofore voted the Republican ticket, either remained at home on election day or voted the Democratic ticket. We have not the room to print a discussion of the cause which led the farmers to give the Democrats control of the lower house of congress and almost control of the senate. The Democratic party has always

Kicked By A Mad Horse.

Samuel Birch, of Beeton, Wis., had a most narrow escape from losing his leg, as no doctor could heal the frightful sore that developed, but at last Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it completely. stood for equal rights for all and special privileges for none, yet in congress we find a number of Democrats who are advocating this Republican measure to punish the farmers for voting the Democratic ticket last fall. A large majority of the farmers of the South have been voting the Democratic ticket ever since reconstruction days, but if they are to be punished along with the Northern and Western farmers there is no telling what they may do in the future.

This paper is published on a farm and is owned, edited and published by a farmer and it claims the farmer has not received too much for the products of the farm. The city papers tell us that the adoption of the trade agreement will not cause the farmer to receive less for what he has to sell, and in the same breath advocate the ratification of the treaty in order to lower the price of farm products and reduce the cost of living.—Rich Square Times.

The Press Dinner.

Through the ever-vigilant courtesy of Mr. D. M. Tompkins three of the officials of the Associated Press met in fellowship with the Charlotte news paper people, at a dinner at the Manufacturer's Club, Saturday afternoon. At this dinner sociability was admirably mingled with business. News and the improvements of the character of news to be handled by the press association and the papers, was the subject under discussion. Sometime ago, Mr. Tompkins began a campaign against unnecessary sensationalism for a more general attention to news of the elevating and decent sort, rather than to the exploitation of scandals, murders, suicides and things of that kind, and it was agreeable to know that the Associated Press influences were in accord with him to a considerable extent. This great news agency is one of the cleanest in the world—one of the most cautious and conservative. There is no yellow streaks in it. The trend of recent years in all respectable newspaper offices has been for the elevation of the character of the news they send into the homes of their readers. This trend, we believe was given an impetus at the Charlotte dinner.—Charlotte Chronicle.

OLD TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

EASTER SUNDAY'S LESSON II Kings 11:1-20—April 16

"Blessed are they that keep his testimony, and that seek him with the whole heart."—Psalm 119:3.

JEZEBEL'S daughter, Athaliah, on the death of her husband, became Queen Dowager of the Kingdom of Judah, her son Ahaziah becoming King. In Oriental lands the King's mother is still the highest authority in the Kingdom, as, for instance, in China. This was the custom with the Jews. As Queen Dowager, Athaliah had exercised a powerful and baneful influence against the true God and His worship and in favor of Baal worship. Hers is not the only instance in which the intermarriage of the kings of Israel with the daughters of foreign kingdoms brought great injury. Her mother Jezebel was another notable illustration. And we remember that it was Solomon's foreign wives who ensnared him.

A proper recognition of the antitype, or spiritual significance of that item of Jewish law, should be observed by all and is applicable to Christians, who constitute, from the Divine standpoint, "a holy nation, a peculiar people." Christians are not to be unequally yoked with unbelievers. Christians are to come out from the world and be separate. This, however, does not apply to nominal Christians, but only to the spirit-begotten class, who have made a full consecration of themselves to the Lord. These are counseled to marry "only in the Lord"—only the consecrated. Those who disregard this Divine injunction endanger their own spiritual development, as well as their own happiness and the happiness of the worldly person with whom they become yoked.

Murdering For Power

When King Ahaziah was slain by Jehu, his mother, the Queen Dowager, realized instantly that this meant her loss of rank and power—the power and honor and riches which her selfish, proud heart so loved. She realized that the moment her grandson ascended the throne she must vacate her position in favor of her daughter-in-law. Her selfish, proud heart resolved that on no account should this be. Rather, she would be a murderess. Forthwith she caused her grandchildren to be slain, except one, an infant, who was hidden by his aunt in a room used for the storage of sleeping mats, and, in our lesson, styled a bed-chamber. Subsequently, he was nursed until his seventh year, in one of the rooms connected with the old temple, which was in disuse during Queen Athaliah's reign, as she favored and upheld the worship of Baal.
 One lesson for us here is the power of pride. We may well hope that many could not be influenced to become murderers, even with such inducements. But not many of us will ever have such a temptation either to grasp a throne or to retain hold of one already possessed.
 Since we are not kings and queens and have not their temptations, let us note that the same principle of hardness of heart operates in the business world, in the social world and in the family. In the business world, it operates to the destruction of a rival concern. In the social world, it cuts rivals, prompts to misrepresentation, slander, etc. In the home, as between parents and children, brothers and sisters, it frequently means injustice. The correction for all this is a love of righteousness which will lead each to love and to obey the golden rule and, as nearly as possible, to comply with the Divine will, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and all thy mind and all thy being and all thy strength, and thy neighbor as thyself."

Crowning the Boy King

The young King was named Joash. He was kept in hiding six years and, in his seventh year, was crowned. Jehoida, the High Priest, whose daughter had rescued Joash, superintended the inauguration ceremonies. With great wisdom he called together the chiefs of the nation at a festival time, when their coming would not be thought strange. Likewise the guards were so disposed as to give every protection to the young King; and leave the palace without protection. The ceremony passed off successfully. The Queen Dowager, hearing the shouts, "Long live the King!" came forth from the palace to the temple to investigate and, realizing the situation, cried, "Treason, treason!"

So it is that injustice sometimes becomes entrenched and fortified in human minds so that an attempt to establish righteousness is considered treason, rebellion, outrage. The lesson to us all is, "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."—Prov. 4:23.

SECURE MORE FOR THEIR MONEY

Young Exploits Commission Form in The Senate.

Senator LaFayette Young, of Iowa, has told the United States senate all about the success of the commission plan of government as employed for the past three years in his home city of Des Moines, and advised other municipalities to adopt it in the interest of efficiency. "We have not reduced expenses," he said, "but we have secured more for our money."

Asserting that there is entirely too much machinery in the old type of city government and far more offices than the service demands, Mr. Young told how Des Moines had adopted the plan of placing its affairs in the hands of five commissioners with generally gratifying results. The commissioners are all elected at the same time and are entrusted the duty of selecting all other city officials. Each member of the commission represents the head of the bureau. The mayor complains that he has not enough to do. The commissioners are paid by the year and are expected to give all their time to the work.

"We have cut out all boards and commissioners." Mr. Young went on. "We never complain to paving inspectors; we complain to the commissioner or having charge of the work. We never go to the subordinate. We go to the boss. No commissioner is entirely independent in his department. The law does not give him a department. His associate commissioners could change him from one department to another. Our city charter has the recall. I endorse the recall feature as applied to municipal governments; I do not endorse it in a wider field. We have the initiative and referendum. I think these provisions might be beneficial in cities but wholly impracticable in States."

This system, Mr. Young characterizes as the application of business common sense to municipal affairs and said: "Government municipalities is a business proposition and no sense political. Cut out the city hall; cut out the city council."

CLOTURE IN THE SENATE.

Will Sweep Away the "Last Refuge of the Minority"

Once again we hear of an attempt to adopt cloture in the senate. It seems that a senator, in the final hours of the last session, concluded a successful opposition against some measure, and now, of course, the hitherto uninterrupted course of procedure in the senate is assailed. It is to be hoped, however, that action will not be taken hastily in this important matter.

It is not strange that impatient and inconsiderate men should fret and fume because the custom of the unlimited debate still prevails. They demand action, action, action. Every hour spent in speech-making arouses their indignation, and they would be most happy if every minute a vote could be recorded. It is true that this sentiment is in keeping with the times. In an era when gigantic buildings are erected in a day and locomotives are constructed in an hour and automobiles manufactured by the minute, why should not laws be turned out in rapid succession? Why delay and elucidate and argue over fine points while the rest of the world rushes by in mad haste?

In very large degree this system prevails in the house, where an enormous membership necessitates stringent rules, and where the most important measures are voted upon with only the semblance of consideration. It is different, and very properly so, in the senate. That body still happily remains, as George Washington is said to have expressed it, the sauce in which the hot tea of the house is poured to cool. It is in the senate that the great political issues of the last 20 years have been formulated, because in that body there has been genuine discussion of vital subjects. It is not necessary to delve into ancient history for illustration. The analysis which the Aldrich-Payne bill underwent in the senate was good and sufficient testimony to the value of unlimited debate.

Two important points deserve to be emphasized. The first is that no measure which was supported by a solid and substantial majority was ever prevented from reaching a vote in the senate, and the other is that if cloture is adopted in that body the last refuge of the minority in this country is swept away. The so-called force bill, against which the late Senator Gorman and his fellow-Democrats filibustered throughout an entire session, was not voted upon, but it never had a majority behind it. On the other hand, Senator Teller and the advocates of the free coinage of silver could not prevent the enactment of the bill for the repeal of the Sherman law, although their opposition was earnest and prolonged. Once in a while the passage of some desirable measure may be temporarily delayed, but if it is really essential it will eventually be passed, and the safeguard of unlimited debate ought not to be removed simply on account of these rare exceptions.

It may be, finally, that in the minds of some the minority has no rights which the majority is bound to respect. To this view, however, serious exception may be taken. In this country, where the majority of today is the minority of tomorrow, it is a wise thing to have one forum wherein the lesser representation may find opportunity for the free expression of its views. The moment that cloture is adopted in the senate we invite the enactment of hastily, ill-considered, partisan legislation, and dethrone the senate from its present proud position as a great deliberative body.

The senate will certainly hesitate before it will allow this condition to prevail.—Washington Herald.

Great Demand for Labor.

The development idea is so wide spread and the area needing development is so vast, it seems inevitable that one portion of the country is drawing on the other for its people. For years, the developing west drew on the south and the east, and the growth of the west has been largely at the expense of the south. The east is now on the defensive, urging its people to stay at home and even the press of New England has turned to boosting home opportunities in order to retain emigration.

The "back home" movement in the south has put the west on the defensive. Western papers and organizations are not only still engaged in luring people west, but also are taking positive steps to prevent emigration from the west to the south. It is now a fight between the sections for people. It seems every state wants more people and the cry for labor is long and loud. The west sends up an insatiable demand for people, Canada is doing the same, the south is now in the field, and yet there are other countries all wanting more people.

Even far away Alaska is raking the west for labor, and is even invading Hawaii where the Honolulu officials are making strenuous efforts to prevent the recruiting there of laborers for the Alaskan canneries. It is complained that the taking away of laborers has already cost the Hawaiian planters several hundred thousand dollars, and consequently they are having labor agents arrested to keep them from taking their laborers away. In one instance the Hawaiian planters went so far as to serve witnesses subpoenas on 200 intending emigrants with a view to detaining them. In spite of every effort to prevent their departure 254 sailed from Honolulu March 30th, for San Francisco whence they were forwarded to Alaska. It is said 2,000 laborers have been engaged at Honolulu, and that 1,800 others who have just been landed there by the planters at an expense of $200,000 will be solicited to go to Alaska.

The whole country wants more people and one country is robbing another. Where are they to come from? The competition for settlers is greater than ever and the country which offers the greatest inducements upon the most practical plan will get the most people. Evidently some will have to go without.—Wilmington Star

Midnight in The Ozarks.

And yet sleepless Hiram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, but found no help in the climate, and started home, hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life," he writes. "For it made a new man of me, so that I can now do good work again." For all lung diseases, coughs, colds, la grippe, asthma, croup, whooping cough, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy, its the best known remedy. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by all druggists.

Her Birthmark.

"I hear," said the count, "that you are going to marry an American girl who has a birthmark."
 "Yes," replied the marquis, "the report is true."
 "I hope she is not badly disfigured."
 "Not a bit, my dear fellow. For your enlightenment I will make a drawing of her birthmark. It is like this—"
 —Chicago Record-Herald.
