

DORMITORIES WILL BE OVERCROWDED

APPEAL TO CITIZENS OF TOWN.

Who Can Accommodate Borders During The Summer School.

At present the indications are that we will have many more applicants for admission to the summer school term than we can accommodate in our dormitories. Many of these will be men. If these people can get rooms and board in Greenville it will be an accommodation to them and we will appreciate it very much. Some of them will wish accommodations for four weeks only, and others for eight.

If you will take some of these teachers this summer, please write me a note (write the note even if you have told us over the telephone) stating your street address, the number of people you can room and board, whether you prefer men or women, or if you can accommodate both men and women, and what you will charge per week for room and board. If you can furnish rooms but not table board let us know this, or if you can furnish table board but not rooms, let us know. In either event give your charges per week.

We are not taking men into our dormitories for the summer term. Several men have requested that I provide a place for them to board. I hope you will let me hear from you by Saturday of this week.

BOOSTING A CITY.

Six Men From St. Joe Show How It Can Be Done.

Six men from St. Joe, Mo., were gracefully disposed on the sofas in the lobby of the Holland House yesterday morning, but mystery hangs about why they suddenly left home the other day and headed for New York. News may come out of it yet, according to two of the party, but the cat was not let out of the bag yesterday morning. However, the two, when asked for a line about St. Joe itself chanted a paean of praise about the place and told why the last census made it out that St. Joe had retrograded.

The party consisted of F. P. Snowden, B. C. Donnell, Geo. D. Bright, M. H. Alderman, C. Knight and C. Rea, but only two talked. These affirmed that out there the inhabitants refer to the town as "St. Joseph" and it is only outsiders who abbreviate it. And as for the town's apparently not having grown in the ten years preceding the last census, why somebody padded the figures in 1900. "For," said one, "according to the school statistics we have grown in ten years 16 per cent."

"St. Joe," said the other, "is a great jobbing centre. It has a population of about 95,000."

"It has a big candy manufactory that employs 500 girls," said the other.

"And the largest overall manufacturing industry in the whole country" added the other.

"There are five such factories, and they employ between 5,000 and 6,000 girls," came from the right.

"We have one of the best woolen mills in the United States," was heard from the right. And from the left came of the antipodal, "and it sells some of its products in this city."

St. Joe is a packing centre for all the big canneries. We have built a new high school and three ward schools. There is an interurban railway running twelve miles, and half of it was financed by local people."

"And we have a fine 10-story hotel, which is as good as any you could want to find anywhere." And then, in final chorus, "St. Joe is a great town!"—New York Sun.

WILL MEET TOMORROW.

Committees on Boys' Corn Contest And County Fair.

Tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock is the time for the meeting of the committees of the boys' corn contest and those appointed to consider the matter of holding a county fair next fall. It is important that all interested in the proposed county fair should be present and help in devising plans for it. Pitt county can certainly have a good fair if the people will determine to do so.

More things seem to be lost than found.

INSURGENTS DISSATISFIED.

Do Not Like Assignments On Senate Committees.

By Wire to The Reflector. Washington, April 27.—Dissatisfied with the action of the committee on committees yesterday, in the matter of appointments to senate committees, and the action of the caucus which followed and which endorsed assignments made by Senator Gallinger, insurgent senators today held a secret conference to decide whether or not to take their protests to the floor of the senate.

STOP THE FREE LIST BILL.

Congressman Sparring for Time to Prepare Speeches.

By Wire to The Reflector. Washington, April 27.—The house interrupted the debate on the free list bill today in order to take up the re-apportionment measure. Some of the members wanted more time to prepare their tariff speeches and it was decided that the house might mark time on the free list bill and pass the re-apportionment bill in the meantime.

WANTS TO ABOLISH UNITED STATES SENATE

USELESS, OBSTRUCTIVE BODY.

So Declares Socialist Congressman in a Resolution.

By Wire to The Reflector. Washington, April 27.—Declaring that the senate has run its course, Representative Victor Berger, Socialist member of the house, introduced a resolution today calling for the abolition of the upper branch of congress. The resolution says the senate has become a useless and obstructive body, a menace to the liberties of the people, and an obstacle to social growth. Many of its members, he says, are representatives not of their state and people, but of certain predatory combinations.

THREE AYDEN NOTES.

Base Ball and Primary For Next Week.

Ayden, N. C., April 27.—The Ayden and Plymouth teams will play two match games on the Ayden diamond Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6.

The town primary will be held next Friday night in the store next to Dall's market, to nominate a mayor and five aldermen and an executive committee. It is to be hoped that good, conservative men will be selected, as the progress of a town depends largely on its officers.

Mrs. J. W. Bryan came down Wednesday to visit the family of Mr. George Cooper and returned to Greenville this morning.

OLD NORTH STATE NEWSY HAPPENINGS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Stated for Our Busy Readers.

State Horticulturist Hutt stated yesterday that in the mountain sections a good apple crop was to be expected, but that in the lower localities considerable damage had been done by the late frosts and freezes. In those localities not more than half a crop is anticipated. Peaches, he said, had been hard hit, and not more than one-third to one-half of a crop is expected, while pears will be mighty scarce. News from the strawberry sections is to the effect that the crop is late, but looks quite promising.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Spencer, April 26.—Fire, which is believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed a barn, two mules and three cows and a lot of machinery on the farm of George Fink, in Rowan county. The loss is about $2,000. An effort was made to catch the incendiaries by the use of bloodhounds.

Durham, April 26.—In the recorder's court today, Leander S. Rochelle, father-in-law of Brodie L. Duke, was convicted of retelling and sentenced to six months on the roads, from which judgment he appealed. Rochelle was caught in the wholesale raid of last week, in which 60 tigers were rounded up in a night.

MR. B. C. PEARCE DEAD.

Passed Away At His Home in Sanford.

His many friends here at his old home are pained to learn of the death of Mr. B. C. Pearce, of Sanford, which occurred a little past midnight last night. He suffered a stroke of paralysis a few weeks ago and continued gradually to grow weaker until the end came.

Mr. Pearce was in his 83rd year, and a native of Pitt county. The greater part of his life was spent in Greenville where for many years he was engaged in the mercantile business. For a short while he was register of deeds of the county, filling out the unexpired term of Mr. W. A. Cherry, who died while in office. He always took a prominent part in public affairs and in politics, and was a staunch Democrat. In later years he became a traveling salesman and was very popular with the trade. He was a man greatly liked by every one, and was one of the oldest members of Greenville Masonic lodge, and Royal Arch Masons.

Mr. Pearce was twice married, his first wife being Miss Ann Kinsaul, of Greenville, who died in 1880. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ada Cherry, by his first marriage. His second wife was Mrs. Maggie Hunt, of Sanford, to whom he was married in 1898. She also survives him. After his second marriage Mr. Pearce made his home in Sanford, where he also took a prominent stand in public affairs. He was most active in working for the establishment of Lee county by the legislature, and was the first treasurer of that county when it was formed.

THE ADAMS SHOW.

Will Be in Greenville All of Next Week.

The James Adams Big Original 10 Cent Show will open here Monday night for a week's engagement. They will show each night under their own big tent, which has a seating capacity of several hundred people. Mr. Adams has played in this part of the state for several years and has established himself with our people as a clever show man, who always gives the public their money's worth. The show is a clean one in every respect, and the nature of the performance furnishes amusement for every one.

Mrs. Rock's Step-Father Dead.

This morning Mrs. C. M. Rock received a telegram announcing the death of her step-father, Mr. James M. Dickey, of Galax, Va., which occurred of pneumonia this morning, after an illness of two weeks. Mr. Dickey, was 56 years old, and is survived by a wife and four children.

"PEOPLE MUST RUN ME IF I AM CANDIDATE,"

SO SAYS EX-GOVERNOR AYCOCK

Makes No Definite Statement as to His Position on Senatorship.

"If I am to be a candidate for the United States senate the people must run me," is the way ex-Governor Aycock expressed himself today in conversation with a close friend.

The ex-Governor is known to be averse to a long-drawn-out and strenuous campaign. He don't mind the strenuousness, it is said, but he don't want such a long seige of it, as would be the case should he come out at this time with the primary to be held way next summer or fall. However, there are many of his friends who believe the people of the state under the circumstances should be advised as to whether or not he will undertake the race.

That Senator Simmons is standing for re-election is officially known and that Governor Kitchin is in the race against him is settled to the extent that he has so stated to numerous friends, with his definite public announcement only awaiting whatever he may consider the most opportune moment to take the whole people into his confidence. Then there is the possibility of some others getting into the race and Aycock's friends want him to get in on the ground floor. This may bring from him some definite statement of the possibility of his making the race, although it is not expected that he will come out in a formal announcement of candidacy for a great while yet.

Along with other senatorial talk there come persistent expressions from the "politically-wise," that Chief Justice Clark not only proposes to stand for the senatorship, but that he is now busy with the "mending of his fences," indeed, that he is actually running for the senate so far as steady work among the people as he can reach them in a quiet way is concerned.

Many believe that whether ex-Governor Aycock gets in the race or not, Judge Clark will be in the running and will put up a strenuous campaign. Thus far he has not expressed himself in such way as would bring about the newspaper presentation of his real attitude.—Charlotte Observer.

PYTHIAN BANQUET.

Tickets for the banquet are $1.00 each and can be had by calling on Mr. W. E. Hooker, secretary of the committee of arrangements, at the John Planagan Buggy Company. It is desired that members apply for tickets early tomorrow, Friday, so that the committee may know how many to provide for. Other Moons Than Ours.

There are in all twenty-five moons besides our queen of night; Mars having two, Jupiter eight, Saturn ten, Uranus four and Neptune one. Of course, new lunar additions are likely to be discovered at any time, although it is improbable that Mercury and Venus have any satellites or that Mars has more than two. The two known moons of Mars are, indeed, very minute, neither being over fifty miles in diameter. On the other hand, Jupiter's first four satellites, as well as Ganymede, are each larger than Queen Lunar, Ganymede having a diameter of about 3,500 miles. Titan, of Saturn, possesses a diameter approximating 3,000 miles, while that of Neptune's sole satellite is about 2,000 miles.

As respects our own moon, Queen Luna has one-fourty-ninth the size and one-eighty-first the weight of our earth. Luna's distance from us varies a good deal, from 221,000 miles to 252,000 miles. Her mean or average distance is about 238,000 miles.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

Dr. H. O. Hyatt will be in Greenville at Hotel Bertha May 1st and 2nd, Monday and Tuesday for the purpose of treating diseases of the eye and fitting glasses.

INCREASE IN POPULATION

This Also Hits Conditions in Pitt County.

If you say good roads mean an increase in wealth—which is a fact—the anti-bond people, or some of them, will answer that an increase in land valuations simply means more taxes and they don't want that kind of wealth—they don't want their property increased in value. It seems strange that one should not want his property enhanced in value, but there are folks who honestly take that position.

But there is one other thing that good roads mean, in this same connection, which it seems would be generally advantageous, but that is more population. Just as a town which has modern improvements and advantages attracts capital and population, so will a county that has good roads, good schools, etc., attract population and capital. People looking for new locations prefer to go where these improvements have been made. There is plenty of land for sale in Iredell, there is an abundance of room for more people. More people, more workers, means more property; and an increase in population and wealth will help to pay the taxes. The more people who come in and create more wealth, more taxable property, the more taxes we will have and the less the tax rate will be.

The Stony Point correspondent of the Taylorsville Scout, whose articles appears in another column, makes a strong point when he asks why it is that people in Mecklenburg and other counties where bonds have been issued and large sums expended for road building, do not sell out and move to Iredell and Alexander, where land is cheap and taxes lower. If bonds for road improvement are such a calamity as some people profess to think, it is surprising that this sort of exodus does not take place, but it doesn't and we all know why. People do not as a rule voluntarily locate in a backward, undeveloped and unprogressive community. There are exceptions of course, for sometimes, in an undeveloped and unprogressive community, where land is cheap, a shrewd business man may see a chance to make money. But people who want permanent homes will as naturally drift to a community that has churches and schools and good roads as a duck will take to water; and they will gladly pay two, three and four times as much for property in a community that offers such advantages as they will pay for the same property in a community that lacks these advantages.—Statesville Landmark.

$50,000 FOR A BIBLE.

First Book Printed From Movable Type—Highest Price Ever Paid.

The first book ever printed from movable type brought the highest price ever paid for any book. The prize was the Gutterburg Bible, the purchaser, Henry E. Huntington, of Los Angeles, and the price $50,000.

The purchase was made at the opening session of the sale of the library of the late Robert Hoe, the largest public auction sale of books ever attempted. Experts have estimated the collection to be worth more than a million dollars, and wealthy amateurs and dealers from Europe have come to vie with the American collectors in the bidding. It was evident from the progress of the sale that American bidders would take in the cream of the offerings at prices averaging higher than any ever offered at a public book auction.

The highest price previously paid for the Gutterburg Bible was $20,000, at which Bernard Quaritch purchased it in England fourteen years ago. At a private sale he disposed of it shortly afterward to Mr. Hoe at a profit of $2,500 and it has remained in the Hoe collection ever since.

The copy was printed some time between 1450 and 1455.

Bidding for the treasured book was spirited, with Bernard Quaritch, son of the former owner, participating until the bids passed the $21,000 mark. From there it jumped by thousands at a clip to $45,000. At $49,000, P. A. B. Widener, of Philadelphia, who had been the most determined of the runners up, dropped out of the race and the even $50,000 was bid by Mr. Huntington. The winner is a son of the late Collis P. Huntington.—New York World.

THE PRINTER'S OFF DAY.

The following item appeared in a Peru (Ill.) paper:

"Excepting on invitation from the Sunday School of the evangelical church at Granville, to there interment to night; the choir of the Ev. church Zion's church at La Salle left late this afternoon to render a fed selections there. A party wish consisted of 15 members were met by a farmer of the Granville church on the corner of Eight and Joilet streets with a large sleigh; by this favorable wetter it is certainly an enjoyable ride. The choir is under the leadership of Rev. who is a musician, educated in Europa and this is surely a excellent opportunity for young people for development of there talent."

This is a reminder of what the proof reader after a linotype machine often has to deal with.

The subject for discussion by the Men's Prayer League of Greenville, in their meeting next Sunday afternoon, is "Business Honesty." Every man in the community ought to be at that meeting, but there are some who will stay away through fear that their consciences might betray them.

So many people fail to recognize their duty to pay for their newspaper, we believe that, sooner or later every newspaper will be driven to the cash in advance policy. Many have already adopted it and others are following.

A Period of Municipal Unrest.

The reports from those North Carolina cities that have had primaries this spring, have shown an unusual spirit of local discontent. The papers have merely indicated this discontent, probably the full story would not prove edifying, for there have been bitter animosities engendered, that the decision at the polls has not settled.

Why this unusual rancor among those who have hitherto been political friends, each community must determine for itself. But that the primaries have been bitterly contested is no secret in any city. Perhaps Raleigh has shown the most remarkable primary exhibit, in the registration of negroes and the taking of the Democratic oath by white Republicans. The fact that Republicans have no voice in way of nominating and voting in municipal elections in this State, because their party attempts no ticket, may be the reason for Republicans taking part in so many cities this spring in Democratic primaries. It is doubtful if a single city can prove an exception in this, the few it might be said only Raleigh has made a full confession of it. That Republicans are thus taking part in municipal primaries, hitherto exclusively for Democrats, indicates the gradual elimination of politics on strict party lines. This is not unhealthy, where good tax paying Republicans can have a say in their own business, as tax payers of a city.

But the fight this spring in Democratic primaries has been personal and a family fight is always the fiercest. The May election, to carry out the primary nominations, will settle who is, who, as office holders, but it will not settle the bitterness that has been and still exists.—New Burn Journal.

A TIMELY SERMON.

Where The Citizens Falls in His Duty.

The Lexington Dispatch takes occasion to preach a little sermon on co-operation to the people of Davidson county which might be read, learned, marked and inwardly digested with profit by the people of many another county. The text taken by our contemporary is based upon a little incident that recently fell under its observation. "There was a bridge to be repaired in Lexington township a few weeks ago. There was just a little break in it—one that a man could fix at the cost of a few minutes' time, a few dozen nails and a piece of plank three feet long. Did some patriotic citizen volunteer to fix that little break? Not quite. It was left for many days, a menace to the safety of every team that crossed the bridge. Half a dozen men came to Lexington to tell the township road trustees that there was a break in the bridge. One man lost two days trying to get the hard-pressed road trustees to repair that little break? As soon as the trustees could spare a man they sent him out to do the work."

Several other illustrations are cited to drive the point home, but the one quoted will show the direction of these remarks. Most of us, if frank, must plead guilty to the charges of neglect of the public welfare thus brought. Precious few citizens nowadays are inclined to put themselves to the trouble of nailing down a three-foot plank unless they can see a financial reward and the man who lost two days in trying to get somebody else, to do what he himself could have done in a quarter of an hour simply did what the average man would have done under the circumstances.

The trouble does not lie in inherent laziness. We have no doubt that the men who wasted time in pestering the road trustees are capable and efficient farmers. It comes rather from a mistaken idea that the public officials always endeavor to postpone their business as long as possible and that if private patriotism did even so much as nail down a plank it would have a bad effect upon the road trustees, making them depend upon further activity of the same kind. The remedy is to come by the gradual training of the people to take a broader view of public responsibilities, and to this end we would be pleased to know that The Dispatch's remarks had been read in every country in the state. It would be deplorable should road trustees neglect their duty because landowners fell into the habit of attending to it for them, but we do not apprehend any immediate prospect of such a calamity.—Charlotte Observer.

Gay Life In St. Petersburg.

I loved the nightly troika drives, with their mad speed through the snow, gleaming brightly in the darkness; the fabulous luxury at the end of them, when, in some splendid restaurant far away from the capital, a magnificent repast with costly wines would be served to entrancing gypsy music, which made everyone, especially non-Russians, forget all the fatigue of the drive. The wonderful attraction of all these things seemed drawn from some fairy kingdom.

Then came the long white nights, so loved by the people of the North—but which told terribly on my nerves—when Russians expect that they and their friends are to regard sleep and fatigue as non-existent; when activity is transferred from the troikas to the Neva, which is covered with small steamers and when there is a life and brightness on the river which only St. Petersburg knows.—Princess von Racowitz.

MY DOCTOR MIGHTY FINE

Mrs. Hattie Cain of Carrsville Thinks all the More of Her Doctor Since He Advised Her to Take Cardui.

Carrsville, Ky.—"My doctor," writes Mrs. Hattie Cain, "who advised me to take Cardui, for my troubles, is a mighty fine doctor, and I say God bless Cardui and the people who make it.

"Before I took Cardui, I suffered with female troubles for sixteen years. I would have to send for a doctor every three months, and oh! how dreadfully I suffered!

Fifteen Cent Cotton.

The New Orleans Picayune thinks the fifteen-cent cotton at this period of the season is a high price, but appears to be fully justified by the actual facts of supply and demand. In a review of the situation, The Picayune says that although the cotton manufacturing industry in the United States is experiencing an era of depression, trade in England seems to be more prosperous than ever before, and it appears certain that despite usually large exports of cotton to Great Britain the supply now in that country will not carry the mills to the end of the season without further good purchases from the remnant of the old crop in this country. Stocks of cotton in the United States are well below last year, and without material curtailment of consumption there is not enough cotton to go around. As it is certain that spinners must complete actively for the balance of the crop, 15 cents a pound does not look unreasonable although it would take a brave man to predict that so high a price will be maintained until the new crop is ready for marketing. All accounts agree in reporting that the new crop has made most favorable start and that cotton is not only up in many localities, but it has already reached a stand. That acreage has been increased is admitted, and it is also known that every effort is to be made to produce a large crop. Should such favorable conditions continue it will be difficult for the old crop to maintain the 15-cent price, as old crop cotton is always influenced more or less by the progress of the growing crop. But even if a large crop is produced this year, a fairly firm range of prices is sure to rule, as practically all of the supply of cotton will be used up by the time the new season opens, and a big yield will be needed to meet the world's requirements and enable spinners to replenish their much depleted reserve stock. Reserves in spinners' hands were probably never so low as they are likely to be at the close of the present season, notwithstanding the heavy exports of Europe and the absence of favorable trade in this country. Just why British trade should be so active, while ours is so dull, is not readily explained, but the fact remains, however, that while Manchester is sold far ahead, Fall River and other American centers are unable to dispose of their full output and have been forced to curtail production of cloths. This is rather an abnormal state of affairs.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Answered the Call.

"It's wrong of me to take this food," said the tramp as he reached out for the pie in the window. "But," he added reflectively, "I've had repeated inquiries for it from the department of the interior, and I shall now deliver the goods."—London Tit-Bits.

SAFFRAN AND SANITY

Intelligence and Sobriety of the New Democratic Regime.

When the Democrats, for the first time in eighteen years, won control of the lower house of congress last November, the Republican politicians and papers pictured and cartooned the event as a sort of a barbaric dance of the hungry. The comic papers of the period dealt with the Democratic patriot, after eighteen years of exile, packing his lean bag, and taking a train for Washington to be in at the pie-cutting. In the light of all this Republican prophecy, the first official act of the Democratic congress is significant. They abolished ninety-eight offices, clerkships, and minor positions, attached to the lower house alone, aggregating about $150,000 annually in salaries. This was their own medicine, to be sure, but it was a pretty strong dose, nevertheless. Probably every Democrat in congress was under pressure from one or more of his constituents, from party workers to whom he is under obligations, for some of these jobs. The renunciation was not easy. The disappointment to hundreds of place-seekers will make every Democrat's re-election next year just so much more difficult. There is therefore, all the more reason for thoughtful persons, who understand and appreciate economy in government, to give sympathy and practical support to the party that has accomplished it.

Some of the committees of congress, which were important and useful several decades ago—for example, the committee on Pacific railroads when the early transcontinental lines were being built with government subsidies—have been obsolete for nearly a generation. Some of these committees have not held a meeting for many years, but they went on, carrying a full equipment of idle clerks and providing so many places for Republican heelers—political graft and nothing else. The new Democratic congress has abolished six of these useless committees, thus voluntarily abdicating about sixty honorary offices for members and paid clerkships aggregating nearly thirty thousand dollars a year. These voluntary sacrifices of power and patronage are creditable in the highest degree.

The economies already put in practice by the Democrats apply merely to the lower house itself. When they get around to the executive departments of the government, the opportunities will be incomparably greater. The new Democratic ways and means committee, together with the rules committee and the appropriations committee, have put in motion machinery which, it is confidently believed, will save the government one hundred and fifty million dollars a year. To any fair-minded observer, the most conspicuous impression of the new order at Washington is the sobriety and intelligence with which the new Democratic majority has approached the responsibility of conducting the government of the United States.—Mark Sullivan in Collier's.

A Trip Into Rural China.

When I was out in Wisconsin last spring I commented on the backwardness of our common one-horse plowing methods in the south as seen in the light of western methods, and I also wrote something on the same subject from Nebraska when I started on this trip around the world. I must say, however, that while the west being ahead of us was not surprising, it is humiliating to find that here in heathen, ignorance, backward, sleepy old China—in the parts where I have recently traveled at least—you will not find among the farmers one-twentieth as large a proportion of one-horse plows as you would find in the south. Now I hate to say this, but it is true, and in that case the bad thing is not my saying it, but its being so.

I hope that no one will be able much longer to say that the "heathen Chinese" is more alive to the advantages of two-horse plows and good land-breaking than the farmers of our southern states. As I have pointed out so many times before, so long as we are content to run our brains with one-horse power, while farmers in the north and west—and even in China—run theirs with two and three-horse power, just so long will southern farming cheat itself out of half the wealth its industry should win for it. In any work where both hands or two horses are needed, a man might as well tie one hand behind him and let his brain direct only one hand, as hitch one horse and have his brain direct only one horse. In either case he cuts his mind-power in half.—Clarence Poe, in Raleigh Progressive Farmer.

Flexible Statistics.
"What do those statistics of yours tend to prove?"
"I don't know," answered the mathematical expert. "I'm just getting up the figures for this man. I don't know which side of the argument he intends to use them for."—Canadian Century.

Social and Personal.

The Booster.

I'd rather be a booster than a knocker any day.
I'd rather tinge with hope than doubt the words I have to say.
I'd rather miss my guess
On another man's success
Than to view his bitter struggle and to prophesy his fall.
I would rather say, "He's coming"
Than "He's going," when I'm summing.

Up the labors of my brothers; I would rather boost them all.

I would rather speak the kind things than the mean things any day.
I'd rather swing a baton than a hammer, let me say.
I would rather sing my rhyme
In a sort of two-step time
Than to let it drag in dirges in a gloomy, heavy style.
I would rather say "God bless you"
And with words of cheer impress you,
Than to preach about your follies all the while.

I would rather be a booster than a knocker any day.
I'd rather praise than criticize in what I have to say.
I'd rather not be wise.
At the cost of other's sighs.
I would rather see the good things than the evil that men do.
When I boost a man along
Than be perfect in my judgment, but make everybody blue.

BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENTS.

Three in Honor of Mrs. Gold and Mrs. Ferrell.

This has been truly an enjoyable week in Greenville social circles, several of our charming hostesses entertaining in honor of Mrs. C. W. Gold of Raleigh, and Mrs. J. W. Ferrell, of Washington, who are guests of Mrs. J. G. Moye.

With Mrs. R. O. Jeffries.

On Monday afternoon at her home on Fifth street, Mrs. R. O. Jeffries gave a bridge party in honor of Mrs. Gold and Mrs. Ferrell.
The decorations of the home were in yellow with an abundance of bright yellow flowers.
The hostess, attired in a yellow gown, received her guests, and as soon as all had arrived an interesting game of bridge proceeded.
The guests of honor were each presented a bunch of yellow tulips.
At the conclusion of the game dainty refreshments were served, the fees also being in yellow.

With Mrs. Haywood Dail, Jr.

On Tuesday morning at her home on Evans street, Mrs. W. Haywood Dail, Jr., entertained at a euchre party in honor of Mrs. Gold and Mrs. Ferrell.

The decorations of the home were beautiful in green and white.
As the guests arrived they were received in the hall by the hostess and guests of honor.

There were six tables of players, and the game was one of much interest. Exquisite bouquets were presented to each of the guests of honor.
At the conclusion of the game elegant refreshments were served.

With Mrs. Joseph G. Moye.

On Wednesday forenoon, at her home on Third street, Mrs. Joseph G. Moye entertained at a progressive bridge luncheon in honor of her guests Mrs. C. W. Gold, of Raleigh, and Mrs. J. W. Ferrell, of Washington.

The decorations of the home were indeed beautiful, the parlor being in pink carnations, the living room in yellow tulips, and the dining room in white carnations and snowballs, while in all the rooms there were numerous potted plants.

The guests upon arrival were cordially welcomed by the hostess, and were received in the parlor by the two guests of honor.
The game was bridge with nine tables of players, and as the players progressed they were presented with pink and white carnations by Mrs. J. R. Moye and Miss Helen Forbes.

At the conclusion of the game a delightful luncheon in several courses was served.

Carolina Club Social.

The social meeting of Carolina club will be held Friday evening, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. The members should take their wives, sisters or lady friends with them. All ladies are cordially invited. It has been suggested that all who attend come earlier than at the former social meetings, so that the program can begin more promptly.

Classification.

"Sir," said a little blustering man to a religious opponent; "I say, sir, do you know to what sect I belong?"
"Well, I don't exactly know," was the answer; "but to judge by your make, shape, and size, I should say you belonged to a class called in insect."

Masons Tonight.

Sharon Masonic Lodge will have a special communication tonight for conferring degrees. Members urged to be present and visiting Masons cordially invited.

Pythians Tonight.

The Knights of Pythias meet tonight. Work in the first rank. Eight candidates.

Scotch Humor.

Mr. A. C. Artan, sends us a copy of The Edinburg Evening Dispatch with the following item marked:
A Scotch farmer one day called to a farm lad, "Here, Tam gan roon' and give the coos a cabbage each, but min' ye g'ie the biggest to the coo that g'ies the maist milk." The boy departed to do his bidding, and on his return the farmer asked him if he had done as he was told. "Aye, maister," replied the lad, "I g'ied 'em a' a cabbage each, and hung the biggest on the pump handle.—Fayetteville Observer.

PROFIT BY OTHERS' EXPERIENCE

Gray Hair Restored

My hair was getting quite gray and falling out rapidly and I was troubled with a terrible itching of the scalp. My head was full of dandruff, which fell upon my clothes and kept me continually brushing it off. While on a visit to Rochester I heard of your Sage and Sulphur for the hair. I got a bottle and used it. A few applications relieved the itching, my hair stopped falling out and gradually came back to its natural color. It is now a nice dark brown color, soft, glossy and pliable. Several of my friends want to use it, and I want to know what you will charge me for six bottles of it.

MRS. E. A. ROSS,
Sharon, Tierce Co., Pa.

Grew Hair on a Bald Head

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is fairly covered and keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

IN THE MATTER OF BILLBOARDS Two Prompt Adjustments.

Newspapers Are The Best For Advertising.

A new turn has been given to the matter of billboard advertising by the action of the organization or circus owners, which by a vote has determined to use newspaper advertising in place of that by billboards. It was the circus advertising that gave the send off to the billboards, and if these live up to their agreement it will largely tend to abbreviate it, if not to destroy utterly.

It is the excess of the use of shrieking pictures in red and yellow and blue that is bringing about the decadence of the billboard. So great a nuisance has this become that in several places there are strict regulations as to their use, the public having been aroused by the lurid and of times indecent pictures that thrust themselves alike upon age and youth. The rule of conservatism has been forgot and one billboard advertiser endeavors to outdo the other in the flaring of the billboard delineation of his offerings.

The idea is that the huger and more glaring the billboard the greater money-fetcher it will prove, for the billboard has only existence in the hope of corralling the nimble dollar. Time was when the circus and the theatre were the only patrons of the billboard. Now everything on the face of the earth is displaying on it and the letters grow bigger, the pictures more insistent. You see molasses dripping from them, soda-water fizzes on them, ice cream parades itself, breakfast food chokes itself into your thought, the cigar looms up huge and smoky, the oceanic width of pantaloons and the clinging of hobble skirts dance upon your vision, while the various brands of whiskies keep on multiplying. It is a pot pourri of extravaganza, illustrated on the white wash brush style that attacks the public as it passes. It is the argument of the man who must shriek, who thinks that noise is logic.

In the cities where civic improvements turns to seeing that the unattractive is driven from sight there has been for years a fight on the disfiguring billboard, which one day glows with the colors of the rainbow and the next is in rags and tatters from wind and storm, and in some cases people are refusing to patronize billboard advertised wares as a protest against the habit. There are an increasing number of people in this country in the fight against the billboard and strength is added to the cause by the determination of the circus owners to cut it out of their plans of seeking the public patronage and transferring their advertising to the newspapers.—Raleigh News and Observer.

THE DISTANT CLOUD.

You have a disagreeable duty to do at 12 o'clock. Do not blacken 9 and 10 and 11 and all between with the color of 12. Do the work of each and reap your reward in peace, so when the dreaded moment in the future becomes the present you shall meet it walking in the light, and that light will overcome its darkness.—George Macdonald.
