THE SAND CLAY ROAD.

It Is Coming Rapidly into Popular Favor.

Due to the abundance of clay and sand, and the cheapness of the road made from the combination, what is known as the sand-clay road is coming rapidly into favor. It is a subject which should receive careful consideration, and the opinion of experts is worth consideration. In South Carolina the sand-clay road is popular and many miles of such roadways have been built. We understand that the subject is being investigated by several large owners of suburban realty here.

It is said that the sand-clay road does not cost more than one-third as much as the macadam. How it compares in durability is a matter upon which we are not fully informed. The Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce has been informed by New York and Atlanta Journal scouts that the sand-clay roads they traversed in their tour are superior to any other kind, the macadam included.

In this connection the official reports, issued by Mr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist of Georgia on the sand-clay roads should be read with interest:

"A sand-clay road is a road surfaced with a mixture of sand and clay in such proportion that when the mixture is compacted it forms a firm surface suitable for traffic. Roads of this class have in the last few years attracted much attention throughout the Southern states by reason of their cheapness and suitability for common country highways.

"The sand-clay mixture may be either an artificial mixture or a natural mixture, but in either case other things being equal, the relative proportions of the two different ingredients remain the same. It not interquently happens that common earth roads have for long stretches the right proportioning of sand and clay to make typical sand-clay roads, in which case it is only necessary to give them the proper drainage and grade to form them into first-class sand-clay roads. A clay in order to give the best results, should be highly plastic, and at the same time it should shrink but little in drying. In addition to these two physical slacking qualities, otherwise it will slacking qualities, otherwise it will form lumps and will not mix readily with sand."

"The methods of building sand and clay roads are variable, depending upon the character of the subsoil and the nature of the material to be used. In the event the subsoil consists of sand, the method of surfacing, after the roadway has been properly drained and graded is to cover the road bed with a layer of clay from six to eight inches in thickness in the center, thinning gradually to the outer edges to five inches or less. As each load of clay is dumped on the road it should be spread uniformly over the surface to the desired thickness. The surface is now ready for its coating of sand. Where the clay is not too lumpy, the sand may be allowed to be worked into the clay by harrow, more being added from time to time as it is needed. This method of making a sand-clay road is quite slow, unless the materials are especially adapted for the purpose for which they are used. To hasten the process of mixing the sand and clay, often the harrow and plow are resorted to. When this is done, it is best to use the plow and harrow just after a rain, when the surface of the road is in such condition that it readily works up into a thin mud.—Charlotte News.

Train Parents First.

Child training is after all a problem of parent training.

The parents who keep always in mind that they are to so treat the child that it will want to do the right thing, will not go far astray and they will not resort very often to corporal punishment.

Prayer and love and ingenuity must be cultivated ad libitum. Nothing else will take their place.

There should be a few well-defined laws for every child to obey, and there should be absolute obedience required, not sometimes but every time. With the exception of these few absolute laws, the child should have perfect freedom of action and continual fresh inspiration to right thought and right action, which includes useful and skillful work. Love, literature, music and art all help.—Elizabeth Towne, in May Neautials.

WASTE IN THE HOUSEHOLD.

Its Effect On The Present High Cost Of Living.

In discussing the little phrase 'cost of high living' we want to identify it with 'waste' as it exists in the American home of moderate means. Folly causes waste among the idle rich; ignorance causes it among the wretchedly poor. But in the home over which there presides an apparently intelligent, earnest woman, why should there be waste? Because intelligence and earnestness go down before three factors of modern life—haste, false values and false pride. The little leaks which in the end represent the cost of high living can be traced to one of these three causes. Of late years the American woman has adopted the slogan of her husband and son, 'Time is Money.' She seizes upon every time-saving device. She rushes her housekeeping as her husband rushes his employees. The result is a peculiar form of high living in the home that did not exist when more time was given to its management," says Woman's Home Companion.

"Take the single item of marketing. Investigators have reported that only one-third of the housekeepers in American cities and towns do their own marketing. The other two-thirds intrust it, save on special occasions, to servants, children and the telephone. In the average town where the telephone service is unlimited three-fourths of the ordering at the butcher shops and groceries is done over the wire. Dealers all approve the telephone method because it is a timesaver for them as well as the customer. Many of them maintain that it is fully as economical for the housewife, but actual investigation proves that this is not true. The housewife who selects her meals and green vegetables with personal care and discusses comparative prices of different brands in groceries saves from five to fifteen per cent. on her orders. These figures were furnished by representatives of three reliable firms in as many typical American cities: New York, Detroit and Baltimore, and the same figures have been found to hold good in smaller cities and towns. Yours may be the exception to the rule, but find out for yourself if this is so; don't take any body's word for it."

In Unfamiliar Surroundings.

"That Mrs. Gossip seems to be at home wherever she may be."

"Well, I saw her in a place yesterday where she seemed decidedly restless and uneasy."

"You don't say so? Where was that?"

"At home."—Catholic Standard and Times.

A New Definition.

"What is naturalization?" asked the high school teacher.

"Naturalization," said the captain of the baseball team, slowly, "why, naturalization is making a person who was born somewhere else a native of the country he's living in."—Youth's Companion.

FOR COTTON OR CORN.

The One-Horse Farmer Needs a Harrow and a Weeder.

Even the one-horse farmer can use the harrow and weeder to advantage in the early cultivation of the corn, if the land has been properly prepared. Of course, in using a harrow he must use a smaller one and can not cover so much ground as with two horses; but if his soil is sandy or mellow, and has been well prepared, he can use the weeder to the greatest advantage. If his soil is heavy, he will need the smoothing harrow, and here is where the man with two horses can make the labor of one man and two horses worth more than two men and two horses working separately. The chief gain in the use of the smoothing harrow and two horses, however, will be in the fact that if he uses these the corn crop is likely to get the best cultivation it is possible to give it just when it needs it most; whereas, if he does not use this rapid-growing method the corn crop is apt to be entirely neglected because of the rush of other work, and when it does get attention it will cost much more to put it in good condition.

Most farmers have come to a point where they hesitate to deny a harrow may be run over a corn or cotton crop advantageously, after it has come up; but comparatively we yet believe in it "hard enough" to practice it. They seem to admit that some other fellow may do it, but still fear that it will, in some way, act differently for them and ruin their crop. Or, perhaps, it is simply the old human tendency to do things the way they have been accustomed to do them. Whatever the cause for our failure to run the harrow over every acre of well prepared corn land before the corn comes up and at least twice after it is up, the neglect costs us much hard labor later in the season, and many bushels of corn in decreased yields. —Raleigh Progressive Farmer.

To The Public:

The teachers at the graded school for the colored people have arranged an exhibit to be given at the colored graded school building next Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5. The exhibit is for white people only. It will consist chiefly of specimens of their work in carving, sewing and basketry.

I take pleasure in extending to the white, people of the community an invitation to visit the school and see the display of work done by the colored children. We have tried to stress the industrial features, and I believe much good has been accomplished.

Last year quite a number of white people visited the school to see the exhibit. I hope a larger number will attend this year. I think it is well for our people to take enough time to visit the school for the colored people occasionally, and, to some extent, inform themselves as to what is being done there.

Very truly yours,
H. B. SMITH,
Superintendent of Schools.

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"

Men Had An Interesting Meeting Sunday Afternoon.

The Men's Prayer League has not had a more delightful spiritual meeting than that held in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon. The subject for discussion was "What Think Ye of Christ?" and the leaders, Messrs. O. E. Warren, M. W. Wallace and R. L. Jones made inspiring talks, others following with brief remarks that added to the interest of the meeting. Those in the habit of attending these meetings are much benefitted by them.

The meeting next Sunday afternoon will be in the Presbyterian church when the subject will be "Who is My Neighbor? My Duty to Him." Text, Luke 10:29. Leaders, Messrs. L. H. Pender, J. F. Stokes and L. J. Bishop.

What Is A Town Good For?

What is a town good for, anyhow? Some men are "cut out" for lawyers, others for doctors, some for preachers, others for merchants, some for industrial captains, others for promoters, or for poets, as the case may be. Men ought to train up and fall into line according to their talents. Some men might make a good lawyer, but a mighty poor doctor, and so it is with men in all the vocations and employments in life. However, men often mistake their calling, but as a general proposition a man is likely to make more of a success at what he is fitted for or in the calling or work which he loves. When a man is struck on his job he is on a fair road to success. Anyhow, whatever a man is good for that is what he ought to be. When a man finds out what his boy is good for he ought to turn heaven and earth to make the most out of the boy. We must develop the special talent which we have and then we are in the best way to accomplish something.

Towns have no talents but they are good for something—it may be little or much. There are very few towns that haven't got some emphatic advantages, some conspicuous opportunity or some splendid possibilities. A town's people ought to find out what these advantages, opportunities and possibilities are. They can make a study of them and thus learn to know their own. When people get acquainted with their town and get posted concerning its adaptabilities, there is pretty apt to be something doing. When, however, it is ascertained what a town or region is good for, that is what should be emphasized in its development. That is the line to work upon. That is what should be exploit-

It Startled The World.

When the astounding claims were first made for Bucklen's Arnica Salve, but forty years of wonderful cures have proved them true, and everywhere it is now known as the best salve on earth for burns, boils, scalds, sores, cuts, bruises, sprains, swellings, eczema, chapped hands, fever sores and piles. ed, just as we develop our own talents or those of our boys. By the way, watch your boys and keep your eyes out for the fine points of your town. —Wilmington Star.

B. and L. Advantages.

If there is one line of endeavor which may be advertised in editorial space without doing violence to newspaper ethics—and any worthy line may, we believe—it is the building and loan association. The Greenville Reflector pronounces the association in that town one of its especial pets and gives it unqualified approval, going so far as to urge the attention of its readers to a new series to be opened this week. Charlotte itself is one of the best recommendations a conservative conducted association could desire. It would take a great deal of space to begin the story of what this particular development has meant locally, and there is no reason why a similar enterprise should not do quite as much in proportion for Greenville. One of the curses of the day is the habit of financial improvidence which is so easily formed by otherwise irreproachable young men and which carries such large possibilities of misery in its train. The association which fosters a spirit of thrift among the most energetic members of a community is of value almost inestimable to that community.—Charlotte Observer.

An Industrious Crawfish.

Country-bred folks have noticed in the lowlands, where the crawfish makes his hole, how the mud is piled up around the hole. The other day Mr. N. P. Watt found in a low place in the vicinity of his home in town, a stack of mud around a crawfish hole that attracted his attention. The stack was about a foot high, more than two feet around the base, cone-shaped, with a small hole through the center, where the fish had passed through as he carried out the mud. Being made of blue mud the stack had hardened in the air until it was solid and Mr. Watt brought it to The Landmark as a curiosity. It is remarkable for size and shows that that particular crawfish was industrious and went into the ground a considerable depth.—Statesville Landmark.

Assignments of Bishops.

Members of the Methodist church and members of others will be interested to know that Bishop E. E. Hoss will preside over the two conferences in North Carolina next fall. The sessions will be at Statesville, November 8, and at Kinston, November 22. Both of these conferences will be held at an earlier date than usual. Bishop Kilgo has been assigned to hold the Kentucky, North Mississippi and the South Carolina Conferences. Bishop Atkins goes to New Mexico, West Texas, Northwest Texas and Central Texas.—Greensboro News.

CATARRH DOCTOR.

Cures Catarrh, Acute or Chronic, or Money Back.

Would you pay one dollar to rid yourself of disgusting catarrh? Then go to Coward & Wooten, today and ask them for a Hyomei outfit and you will not only engage, but you will own outright a little catarrh doctor that has cured more cases of catarrh than all the catarrh specialists on earth.

In the $1 box which contains the Hyomei outfit, you will find a little hard rubber vest pocket inhaler.

Into this inhaler you pour a few drops of Hyomei. Then all you have to do is breathe through the little inhaler, either through the nose or mouth, according to where the catarrh is located.

When you breathe HYOMEI you breathe a powerful, yet soothing, antiseptic air, which as it passes over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane penetrates every fold and crevice, and destroys germs completely.

Stomach dosing never cured catarrh, sprays and douches always fail; and why? because they don't get where the germs are, and as catarrh is a germ disease you must kill the germs, before you can cure catarrh. HYOMEI is guaranteed by Coward & Wooten, and by druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup and sore throat. 417-28-58

Some men manage to dodge the trials fate has in store for them by not getting married.

Even a homely girl doesn't try to be described in plain language.

Insurance Against Rain.

The bane of outdoor life in England is the excessive rainfall. Shows, pageants, garden parties, seaside outings, cricket matches regrettas and fetes of all kinds are to an uncommon degree at the mercy of the skies. No wonder that the English have finally elaborated a systematic scheme to provide indemnity for disappointment or loss caused by wet weather. The new plan, which is associated with Lloyd's underwriters, will first be tried at the resorts on the south and east coasts from May to October. You may insure against rain, to a certain fraction of an inch, on any single day; or against rain on more than two days during any one week; or, if planning a week end party, against rain on four consecutive days.—Chicago Record Herald.

Neighborly Help.

Shortly before departing on a three weeks' visit to a distant city, Benjamin Rawn, who lives near Colfax, in the State of Washington, intimated to several neighbors that he believed that somewhere in a ten-acre lot on his farm there was an immense amount of gold dust which had been buried there by a miserly ancestor. When he returned from his visit he found that lot plowed and replowed more thoroughly than ever had been before. Mr. Rawn has planted that lot in potatoes, and so far as can be ascertained, he has never asked whether the plowmen found any buried treasure. It seems that Mr. Rawn has most exceedingly friendly, helpful neighbors. Also, he has read his Aesop.—New York Mail.

Broken Cut Glass of Value.

"If a cut glass dish accidentally gets broken, don't throw the pieces away," a thrifty housewife said. "Take them to a glasscutter and have them cut into various small dishes. I broke a berry dish and from the remains I had made a bon bon dish and half a dozen lovely almond dishes. A friend of mine accidentally knocked a tall vase off the piano, and was almost in tears until I told her to have the three pieces made into three little dishes. This was done and now she vows she would rather have the dishes than the vase."—New York Sun.

COMPOUND CALLOUSES

Tells Splendid Cure for Them and All Foot Troubles.

A compound callous is the secondary stage when it grows inward and presses on the nerves, causing intense pain. Callouses never cure themselves but always get worse, sometimes irritating the whole nervous system. The following is a most effective and speedy cure "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide in a basin of hot water. Soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. (Less time will not give the desired results.) The soreness will disappear immediately and the callous can be easily peeled off. Repeat this for several nights. A little olive oil rubbed into skin is very beneficial."

This Calocide is a very remarkable preparation for all foot ailments. Bunions, corns and ingrowing nails get instant relief and are soon cured. Bad smelling and sore feet need but a few treatments. Calocide is no longer confined to doctors' use. Any druggist has it in stock or will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is usually enough to put the worst feet in fine condition. It will prove a blessing to persons who have been vainly trying ineffectual tablets and foot powders.

CAPITAL'S OPPORTUNITY HERE.

North Carolina is the Place for Investment.

The development of Western Canada and other new or awakening countries in the process of development, called for men and capital. They got both and are continuing to get them. They get settlers because they offer inducements and give publicity to them. They get capital because there is something doing and investors are assured of a square deal. Capital wants to be treated right and it is all it asks, otherwise people with the money get timid and will take a rest. Scare capital and progress comes to a standstill.

China is waking up and developing. The heretofore sleeping giant needs millions of capital for development. Money is wanted to build railroads and develop industries and agriculture and to exploit the mineral resources of the Orient. All the money loaner of the world have heard China's demand for money, and the European money powers are rivaling each other in their eagerness to loan money in China. Even the financiers of the United States have insisted upon the opportunity to help furnish money to China for developing her resources.

However, why should American capital be seeking for investment in foreign countries? There is no reason for the investment of a single American dollar in China or foreign countries unless the opportunities for profitable investment are greater there than they are at home. There best opportunities for capital are is nothing to that, however, for the right at home, if capital gets the right showing.

This country needs twice as much railroad mileage as it has. With double tracking and new lines to be built, it is asserted that it is necessary for the United States during the next ten years to double the present trackage. Then there is needed millions to keep up equipment and furnish new equipment required for needed railroad development in this country.

American capital is losing opportunities for development all over this country. In the South there is an awfully big hole for the absorption of investments. Rich resources in the South are neglected because of the lack of capital. Thousands of miles of new railroads are needed and mineral and agricultural development await the quickening influences of capital. Millions of dollars are needed for industrial development and vast sums of money are required to drain millions of acres of swamp and savannah lands, to build good roads, to equip towns and cities with sewerage, water, streets, etc. Indeed, there is unlimited use for capital in the South, and American capitalists do not have to be anxious to loan money in China. Let American capitalists look around in North Carolina and they will behold opportunities for investment on all sides. A pile of it is needed in Wilmington to get this port in readiness for Panama Canal business, so there is no need to send money away to China or anywhere else so long as the demand at home is unsupplied.

If capital is not assured in the South it is time for us to offer it all the reasonable chances necessary to get it interested. We must not block the progress of the South, but at least compete with China in displaying Southern opportunities for the millions of money that might be profitably turned loose in every state south of Mason and Dixon's line—especially in North Carolina which is a double-track, electric-power State with inexhaustible resources open to development. North Carolina wants capital and people. The completion of the Panama Canal will catch us unprepared for business!—Wilmington Star.

Why Want Human Butchery?

Some folks may be inclined to laugh at the present Peace Congress, but for our part there are too many big and bratny men, too many folks who have been tested in the crucible and found genuine, at the congress for us to be so silly as to give it the "ha ha". It's true that often the small calibre fellow accidentally stumbles on the "lost article", when men of great capacities, have searched for it for years, and have used reams of paper in making deductions, yet the idea, as being promoted by the Peace Congress, is so exalted and humane that none should "pooh-pooh" it. All should rather lead their best endeavors towards obtaining the glorious object. Success for such a movement cannot in a second be snatched from the atmosphere, and neither can the greatest intellectual builders and the most powerful diplomatic constructionists in a week, or month rear a wall that will withstand the attack of the red-tongued, sharp-tailed beast of war. But this end can be obtained. War, at its best, is but the blood-thirsty raving of that which is hysterical and ferocious in the breasts of men. This is the spark that causes the fire. It plays upon the mind until the flame bursts forth and then patriotism and daring surge through the veins and human butchery follows. Then comes the sequel of sorrowing women and suffering children—desolation and ruin. Thousands of dear and useful lives, that would not only have made individual homes happy and brighter, but would have advanced the world, would have helped Christianity, are sacrificed. Heroes stain battlefields with their blood, instead of being allowed to have their rich, red fluid surge for the betterment of humanity. There is no reason why disputes between countries should not be settled in some other way than by war, and there is every reason why they should be so settled. It is not an impossibility to find the solution, but every person should make it a probability. It will not lessen courage any to banish the martial spirit. It will not detract from the glory of heroism to cast out human butchery.—Wilmington Dispatch.

OUR GREATEST MENACE.

Extract From Judge W. J. Adams' Charge to Surry Grand Jury.

The greatest menace to North Carolina today is a spirit of lawlessness among certain classes. It is such that it demands the attention of every good citizen. During the past three years as many as 500 people have been killed in this state and nearly every one killed without any adequate reason. There is such a thing as making violation of the law respectable. Man, some one has said, is a bundle of habits and many men get to be confirmed criminals, utterly regardless of law, and this state comes about gradually. The child contracts the criminal habit and by the time he is a man he develops into a confirmed criminal. The greatest lesson the people of this state have to learn is the spirit of obedience. Which makes the best citizen, the best neighbor—the man who obeys the laws or the man who violates them?

There is much criminal negligence in this state, due to the small value placed upon human life. There seems to be an idea in the minds of many that a man is none the worse after he takes the life of his fellowman just so he escapes the penalties of the law. Some even think of him as something of a hero. The man who keeps a vicious animal that is known to be dangerous, and should this animal kill a man, his owner is guilty and should be punished. Any kind of conduct that is likely to cause the loss of life needlessly is a violation of the law.—Reported by Mt. Airy News.

Thrilling Detective Story Free.

There are three reasons why you should read "The Adventures of Black Peter," the great Sherlock Holmes detective story, to be given free, in booklet form, with copies of next Sunday's New York World. In the first place it is a rattling good story; secondly, it is an extraordinarily great story; thirdly, it is one of the best detective narratives ever written by Sir A. Conan Doyle, the most famous author of "mystery fiction" of modern times. Their demand is so great Sunday Worlds should be ordered from newsdealers in advance.

Some of Them Here.

The proposition to vote a bond issue for good roads in Anson county was defeated. In speaking of the result, The Wadesboro Ansonian says: "Not a few of those who voted against road improvement yesterday did so because they wanted to hit the automobile a blow, but they have hit the poor old mule the hardest blow of all. It doesn't hurt the inanimate machine to run over rough roads or to climb a telephone post, but the mule gets it in the shoulder pulling heavy wagons over muddy roads and steep grades." It is a fact that in some sections of the state, the people are laboring under the impression that the good roads are built for the benefit of automobiles. The truth is that good roads are a permanent benefit to the farmers, many of whom are themselves becoming automobile owners.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Do Ghost Haunt Swamp?

No, never. Its foolish to fear a fancied evil, when there are real and deadly perils to guard against in swamps and marshes, bayous, and lowlands. These are the malaria germs that cause ague, chills and fever, weakness, aches in the bones and muscles and may induce deadly typhoid. But Electric Bitters destroys and casts out these vicious germs from the blood. "Three bottles drove all the malaria from my system," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Luccama, N. C. "and I've had fine health ever since." Use this safe, sure remedy, only 50c at all druggists.

YOUR GRAY HAIRS WILL QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made From Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, Moye's Pharmacy.
