THE PRIDE OF EAST CAROLINA

Is The Teachers' Training School At Greenville

LEGISLATURE SHOULD DO MORE

Mr. Josephus Daniels Says Good Things About The School And About Greenville And Pitt County—People Are Alive To Progress And Good Things Generally.

Mr. Josephus Daniels, editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, who delivered the literary address at the recent commencement of East Carolina Teachers' Training School, had much to say in his paper about the school, and the progress of Greenville and Pitt county. We give below an extract from his article:

The great need of North Carolina today is trained teachers. Our educational revival halts just here. Patriotic men and women everywhere are teaching children for the love of it, because the compensation in most rural districts is so small as to give hardly the bread without any butter. The good teachers are trying to make bricks without straw. They recognize their lack of training, and rejoice that this school here has established a one-year course for practical teachers, which is going to be one of the most popular things it has ever done, and one of the most useful as well. These practical teachers will go back to their schools much better equipped for their task, but the crying need is for teachers who are making a profession of teaching, who have been trained in some college like this for teaching, and this is the great work that is being done here. It is no credit to the state, and indeed, it is a shame, that the appropriation for this college is not adequate to enable the authorities to take all the persons who desire to secure its training. I feel sure that when the people know the great work that is being done here, public sentiment will demand such appropriations as will enable President Wright and Governor Jarvis and the trustees to advertise that the institution is to be enlarged and will be big enough to hold every young woman in Eastern North Carolina who wishes the best training for teaching.

Greenville is proud of the Training School. It has always been a good business town, but did not grow rapidly for years, because it lacked the spirit of co-operation among its progressive people. The organized purpose to secure the East Carolina Teachers' Training School showed the business men what could be accomplished by working together. That organized effort, crowned with success, was Greenville's awakening, and since that day it has gone forward by leaps and bounds. It grows day and night, and seems to work overtime. No town in the state has grown more in the past ten years, and much building is now going on. The new court house, being erected, is to be one of the most commanding and beautiful structures in the state. The cost of the lot, court house and jail will approximate $100,000. Just opposite the beautiful new court house the Federal government has purchased a most desirable and spacious lot and will shortly build a handsome post office building on it. A large office building and many other structures are now going up. The streets have been paved, the people are alive to progress, and the future holds big things in store for this solid and progressive town.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE

At The Amuzu Theatre Tonight and Saturday Night.

The show at the Amuzu Thursday night was one of the best of its kind ever seen in Greenville. Misses May and Poole did the vaudeville feature. Miss May has a splendid voice and her singing was highly appreciated as well as her fine commedienne work. Miss Poole is a toe dancer, the equal of whom Greenville audiences have never seen. Their act is fine in every way, and their costumes are pretty. Tonight and Saturday matinee and night they will be on with entire changes of program at each performance. See Amuzu ad. on fourth page.

The big man is not conscious, of it; neither is the little one.

AN APPEAL TO YOUR PATRIOTISM

YOUR SERVICE IS NEEDED.

The Town Should Have The Best Men For Aldermen.

Editor Reflector:
Greenville's business men are among the best to be found anywhere. Her business enterprises are conducted on a sound and safe basis by successful men. Greenville's business men stand willing and ready to do whatever is in their power to build up Greenville and make of it one of the best, largest and most attractive cities in North Carolina. Her men stood together and secured for her splendid internal improvements—electric lights, water works, sewer system, paved and improved streets over a good portion of the town, a splendid graded school and one of the best of state schools. These things you, the people of Greenville, have done, for Greenville and the surrounding country.

Now, it is the duty of every citizen of Greenville, your duty, to assert your patriotism and enthusiastically declare your willingness to serve your town as an alderman, when as such she needs you.

Look on your town from a business point of view, for the administration of its affairs is the transaction of business that should be as wisely and economically done for the public as for any private individual or corporation.

Now, turn to the private business enterprises in Greenville, and observe the men conducting them. Think them over. Do you successful business men do your full duty toward giving Greenville a progressive, wise and economical business administration? Think this over. But you may say that aldermen are not thanked nor much paid for their services, and that they are criticized. That may be true, but does that excuse you?

Greenville collects and expends about twenty-seven thousand dollars yearly, and you pay that money into the town. What other business enterprise in Pitt county expends that amount of money? Don't you know that the very best and most successful business men of the town should assist in directing the uses made of that amount of money?

Let your patriotism assert itself, express your willingness to help your town in this most important capacity, and use your best judgment in making up your board of aldermen, and then see to it that Greenville's government is unselfish and as wisely and economically administered as your own affairs are wisely and economically administered for yourself, and your Greenville will be the best town in North Carolina.

If you fail now to do your part for your town, bear in mind during the coming trials that you could have served your town but would not.

Men, give expression to your patriotism, and serve your Greenville, and make her your pride and your satisfying home. If you don't act now, don't grumble when it is too late. You have one week yet in which to act.

Unknown Schooner Off Diamond Shoals—Greensboro Carpenter Hurt—Little Girl Died From Operation at Greensboro—Whole Train Crew Poisoned at Spencer.

A message was received here yesterday advising the tug boat companies that an unknown schooner was ashore on the northeast point of outer Diamond shoals, near Cape Hatteras. On account of the distance from Wilmington the tug boats did not respond to the call for assistance. The telegram was received here after a wireless had been sent from Diamond shoals light ship to the Beaufort station. The tug boat companies at Norfolk were also informed and as they are much nearer the scene, doubtless tugs will go from here. The name of the vessel, or her condition, was not stated in the brief message.—Morning Star, Wilmington.

W. A. Temple, who lives on West Lee street, was painfully injured yesterday afternoon about 1:30 o'clock while at work on the annex to the county courthouse, which is being erected on Court square. Mr. Temple was sawing timber in the rear of the building when Henry Leach, a negro, who was at work on a scaffold on the second floor, dropped a board about 16 feet long and six inches wide, which struck Mr. Temple in the back.—Greensboro Daily News.

Last night at 12 o'clock at St. Leo's hospital little Miss Beulah Gray, the 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mallie Gray, of Pleasant Garden, died after an illness of a few days. The little girl was operated on last Friday for appendicitis, the effects of which she was unable to survive.—Greensboro News.

Spencer, N. C., May 25.—A wholesale poisoning took place near New London, Stanly county, yesterday afternoon when a whole train crew partook of buttermilk causing ptomaine poison. With a view to a good dinner a quantity of fresh milk was placed in the cooler on the engine of a freight train. In some way the milk became infected and the entire party, with the exception of the conductor, had a narrow escape from death. The only member of the party to escape was Conductor C. A. Surratt who did not partake of the milk. Soon after the dinner all were seized at the same time with the poison and a physician worked hard for four hours.—News and Observer.

No rain yet in these parts and the crops are suffering. The farmers are becoming heart-sick at the situation. The berry crop is a thing of the past. The cotton that has not come up is suffering terribly for the want of moisture.—New Bern Sun.

A colored man, named Nath Matthews, who lived four miles west of this place, died Wednesday night in rather a singular manner. He had been ill with pneumonia and was delirious and when some of his family went to his room about midnight to give him his medicine, he was not to be found. A careful search was made and he was found several hours later in a field near the house, where he had wandered, with his quilt wrapped around him, dead.—Chatham Record.

FARMERS' UNION GREAT PICNIC

There Were Fully Three Thousand People In Attendance

WAS A GREAT DAY AT CENTRE BLUFF

Crowd Enjoys Bountiful Dinner—Mr. T. B. Parker, President R. H. Wright And Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale, All Make Good Speeches—Most Successful Occasion.

Fully three thousand people were at the Farmers' Union picnic at Centre Bluff Thursday. Not only was every section of Pitt county represented, but people were there from all the neighboring counties. They began arriving early, they stayed late, and the day was enjoyed to the utmost. It was a splendid location for a picnic. A high bluff overlooks the river at a picturesque spot, and extending back for acres is a green sward with numerous shade trees here and there, with woods forming the background.

The committees appointed by the Farmers' Union to arrange for the picnic certainly did their work well. They planned for big things and big things were carried out. A table hundreds of yards long was built in square form, and around this the great crowd gathered when dinner was announced. And such a dinner as was spread before them. It was both elegant and abundant, a plenty and to spare even though a multitude was fed. It was well prepared, splendidly served, and none turned away unsatisfied.

About three hours of the afternoon was devoted to speaking. In a grove on the bluff where refreshing breezes swept from the river, a platform had been erected, and around this as many of the crowd as could get in easy hearing distance gathered. Here Mr. T. L. Williams was master of ceremonies. He called on Mr. W. H. Moore, who, in brief but appropriate words, welcomed all to the picnic and pleasures of the day.

Senator R. R. Cotten fittingly introduced Mr. T. B. Parker, of the State Agricultural Department, who was the first speaker. Mr. Parker spoke on "Agricultural Uplift." He said this uplift should begin first in the home and extend to the fields. By comparison with conditions forty years ago, he pictured the great progress that had been made both in country homes and on the farms, and predicted much greater advancement for the future, things as yet not even dreamed of. He commended the Farmers' Union for the good work the organization is doing for the betterment of the farmers. Referring to the road over which he had traveled from Greenville to Centre Bluff, he put in some good words for improved roads.

Mr. J. L. Evans gave a brief outline of the growth of the Farmers' Union throughout the United States, and introduced President R. H. Wright, of the Training School, who was the next speaker. Mr. Wright, following Mr. Parker's reference, said the betterment of home life on the farm comes through education and culture. The home is made attractive and congenial by the farmer giving his children every possible advantage in improvement. The home without education and culture makes little progress.

Prof. H. B. Smith introduced County Superintendent W. H. Ragsdale, the last speaker. As two school districts in that section of the county are soon to hold special tax elections in order to have longer school terms, Mr. Ragsdale spoke mainly on that question. He pointed out the great advantage to the children of longer schools, and that there was no better way to get these than by local taxation. He was glad the people were being aroused to the importance of this.

The picnic was a marked success and the Farmers' Union have cause to feel proud of the day.

HANRAHAN CORRESPONDENT'S VISIT TO GREENVILLE

MEETS WITH HIS NOBLE KINDRED

Training School Commencement Was Enticing To Him.

Hanrahan, N. C., May 26.—We feel sure that the printer who has to decipher copy scribbled with a dull pencil often prays (if he does not get too badly worried to pray) that the one who scratches it would think a volume, write a page, and of that page publish but a single line.

Well, if we had to publish but one line of what we saw and heard at our Training school last Tuesday, it would be this: As we saw it, it was nigh to sublime. If we can comprehend the meaning of that word, we suppose it is something almost heavenly beautiful. And when we beheld that spacious rostrum crowned with young ladies from all parts of our state, and heard the sweet melody from their well trained voices, we thought of the vision on which Isaiah beheld before his lips were made clean. It was more rapturous and beautiful than this. We cannot wonder that he cried out "I am a man of unclean lips," especially if he had ever unthoughtfully used a profane or smutty word, and if what he saw was grander and more beautiful than was that scene as we beheld it, we are not surprised that the Seraphim with two of their wings did cover their face.

What made this scene so rapturous and beautiful? Because those young ladies who are to go out from there to train our children had been trained by unsurpassed, devoted, Christian teachers. So much was this manifested that the chicana of God's love pervaded the whole rostrum.

The manner in which the orator of the day was dressed should teach us this lesson, and, to our mind, an important one, that is that people can dress comfortably and still be great, for surely greatness does not consist of pomp or show.

After we dined and rested an hour or two, we strolled down one of your most beautiful streets until we came to a corner lot, and back some distance from the street stood a lovely though unpretentious concrete house. In the front yard surrounded by no wall, only a hedge of evergreens, were lovely roses and beautiful flowers and in the midst of this charming scenery stood an uncrowned queen, a lady 70 years young gathering roses. Her face wore a pleasant smile, her form was symmetrical and erect, her tresses that were once given black were frosted with the storms of many winters. As we beheld her, possessed of so much love and beauty, we could but turn in and in the front yard embrace, yes, and kiss her. Then we went in the porch and talked of bygone days and of kith and kin. Her life has been an inspiration to me since the time I was a boy and visited her when she, as a widow, with three little boys and one little girl, living on a farm in an adjoining county. There we saw how she planned, labored and prayed for the development of her children, that they might become useful men, and a woman useful and good, such as God desires all girls should be, and such prayers as she sends up are ever answered. So today two of her boys are among your city's most prominent men. The other is a prominent hotel man in one of our Southern states, and the girl is all that a fond mother could hope for an only girl to be.

My mother was that woman's aunt, and the older I grow the more I love my royal kin.

DEPUTY SHERIFF IS SHOT AT DUNN

Was After a Fleeing Blind Tiger, Who Made His Escape

$350 REWARD FOR BLIND TIGER

John Aiken Shoots and Dangerously Wounds Deputy Sheriff Thaddeus Jernigan—He Escapes to the Woods The Military Is Called—Reports Are That Jernigan Will Not Live.

Dunn, N. C., May 25.—Dunn is aroused over the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Thaddeus Jernigan, who is not expected to live, by John Aiken, a white man, when Jernigan went with six others to arrest Aiken, who is charged with running a blind tiger.

Aiken escaped to the woods after shooting Jernigan, and has not been found. Poses are searching for him, and the Dunn military company has been called out by the sheriff to assist in the search. There is excitement throughout Harnett county wherever the news has been heard.

The county of Harnett has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of Aiken, the town of Dunn has offered another $100 and the citizens of Dunn have raised $150 and added to the fund. This makes $350 that is offered for Aiken's capture.

This afternoon, having a warrant for Aiken's arrest on the charge of the illegal sale of whiskey, Deputy Sheriff Jernigan, with six others in the party, went to Aiken's house about a hundred yards outside the corporate limits. The party went in at the front door and Aiken fled by a back window. The party started after him, and while running, Aiken turned and shot back with an automatic pistol. The bullet struck Jernigan just below the heart, and he fell. Aiken got away in the woods.

Jernigan was at once brought into town and given medical attention. Late tonight the doctors say, he has very little chance to live.

Sheriff Lanier was informed of the shooting. He was at Lillington, and after talking with state officials in Raleigh, had Capt. V. C. Parker to order out the Dunn military company to aid in the search.

When Aiken's house was entered, another white man was found in it. His name is John Coach and he was arrested. He is now in the lock-up.

During the afternoon Aiken had sent his wife to her father's, and only he and Coach were in the house.

Aiken weighs about 165 pounds, is about 5 feet 8 to 10 inches tall, is clean shaven and has dark hair. The authorities will pay the reward named for his capture.—News and Observer.

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS.

"Clean-up" day and clean-up week are becoming deservedly popular. Obviously there is no reason why the "spring cleaning" idea of our housekeepers should not have been extended, in the course of evolution, so as to include the premises. That this has been the tendency is evidenced by the early practice of occasionally brushing off that part of the home lot lying between the residence and the street. From doing this once or twice a year, and observing good results, our ancestors gradually shortened the intervals between until within recent years the front yard is kept scrupulously neat, clean and sweet.

Accumulations of disease-breeding filth characteristic of back premises, with debris unsightly, to say the least, force occasional disposition. If the consequences of this untidiness and neglect were to be attended to as infrequently as the cause now sought to be removed—as, for instance by the doctor seeing but once a year, a patient who is chronically ill, we should be justly indignant, shouldn't we? But "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." If the effects of unsanitary conditions demand urgent and persistent treatment, why not, at much less expense, inconvenience and risk, make sanitation a condition instead of a circumstance of annual seasons?

How would it do to turn the domestic premises hind-part-before, leaving the clean, inviting lawn in the rear for a time, while the back yard basks in the sweet sunshine of spring days, smiled upon by admiring eyes? Oh, oh!! oh!!! Really, now, don't you think you might be able to get to that back lot with shovel and tongs, pitchfork and broom a little bit oftener than semi-annually?

OBJECT LESSON ON ROADS.

A most striking contrast between a good road and a bad road is now shown in the road from Greenville to Falkland, and every one who traveled over this road going to the Farmers' Union picnic at Cente Bluff, Thursday, had a real object lesson. The editor of The Reflector was in a party taken out by Mr. H. A. White in his automobile, and the trip gave abundant opportunity to observe the condition of the roads. The first three miles of the road, from Greenville to Mr. O. L. Joyner's farm, where the sand-clay work has been done, is as fine a section of road as could be wished for. It is as hard and smooth as a paved street, and to ride over such a road is a delight. From the end of the sand-clay work on as far as we went, the road is almost a disgrace to an enlightened people. A succession of sand beds, ruts and holes, the road is so heavy and rough as to make travel over it difficult and uncomfortable. Such a road is a severe strain on any vehicle or team that goes over it. To travel these two sections of road and note the contrast ought to be sufficient to make any right thinking person an advocate of good roads.

The $310,000 in bonds to be issued by the state for the erection of an administration building at a cost of $250,000, and a school for the feeble minded at a cost of $60,000, have been awarded to C. C. McDonald, of Raleigh and A. B. Leach & Company, of New York, for $310,124. These gentlemen were the highest bidders. The bonds will run forty years and bear 4 per cent interest.

We are reasonably assured that there is to be no unseemly scramble. It is not to be inferred, however, that either one of the Big Four is going to let the other fellow take it away from him, if he sees him first.

Five aces in one deck, according to a news item, was the cause of three deaths and a fatal wound. Which is only another evidence of the fact that it is possible to have too much of a good thing.

Every citizen of the town ought to be interested in the town having a good administration.

If you are not in favor of good roads you ought to be.

Fraternal Sternness.

Lovers whose course of true love is prevented from running smooth by parental objection and interference not infrequently receive widespread sympathy. It is pitiable oftentimes to witness two fond young souls which have but a single thought compelled to operate that thought apart rather than in unison. None the less we believe that even the most romantic will confess the wisdom of the measure adopted by a Philadelphia mother recently. Her young daughter was absolutely sure that her young man possessed her eternal devotion and the young man harbored similar sentiments with respect to his sweetheart. They desired therefore to become one. "Nay," said the practical mother, "let him call the engagement off for a while and turn his attention to demonstrating that he can make a living for two. After he has proved this problem to our satisfaction there will be time to consider further steps."

And the young man is reported to have departed sorrowful and indignant at the sternness of his prospective mother-in-law. We feel that the hundreds of practical economists who know from experience the price of eggs and butter and milk, of shoes and clothes and hats, will unite in congratulating the bride-expectant on the wisdom she exercised in her choice of a maternal parent.—Charlotte Observer.

Cultivate Early and Late.

Many corn crops are stunted and the yield considerably reduced by lack of sufficient early cultivation. A stunted calf, pig or colt may afterwards be highly fed and cared for and make a comparatively good animal but it will never make quite the animal that it would have made otherwise, while the cost of getting it back into a strong, growing condition is considerably increased. The same is true of stunted plants. With a wide-reaching weeder or light harrow the young corn can be gone over often enough so that no weeds or grass will ever be allowed to choke it. In fact, they never should have a chance to show themselves above the surface, being dislodged in the soil and killed while germinating. The soil should at all times be kept loose on top in order to prevent the evaporation of moisture as well to destroy weeds. It often happens that from one to three late cultivations will add several bushels of corn per acre. It is a critical time with corn when it is completing its stalk growth and making the ear. Good conditions of cultivation, season, etc., may bring the corn along all right up to this period but if cultivation is discontinued too early, and the season becomes dry the soil may become compact, dry out and the yield of the crop be shortened.—C. R. Hudson, in Progressive Farmer.

Bryan and Lloyd-George.

The heart of William Jennings Bryan goes out to David Lloyd-George; there are ties that bind. The Welshman also was once a boy orator. He's eloquent, he's religious, he's radical in his politics; he, too, has known what it's like to be years ahead of your time and your party, to be criticized, to be laughed at. But look at him now! "Time has vindicated him," says William Jennings Bryan, "just as it vindicates every man who strives for the truth."—Hartford Courant.

A Creed.

Not to complain at the cross that I bear,
Never to whimper or whine at my woes;
Seeing and feeling the thorns the are there,
But glad of the fragrance and red of the rose,
Hoping for better things always, yet ever
Content with my lot, as I plod on my way;
Worn out and weary I may be, but never
Discouraged or gloomy when plans go astray.

To live on in peace with my loved ones about me,
To merit their patience and gentle caresses;
To give friends or foe not a reason to doubt me,
And bravely to bear all my little distresses,
To count it a pleasure to labor for others,
But always unwilling to strike at a foe,
Avoiding all hatred as something that smothers
And stifles the soul—and to smile as I go.

What The People of Harnett Think of Him.

Our people are greatly pleased with Judge Whedbee. This is his second visit to Harnett, and on every hand we hear expressions of commendation and highest praise as to his admirable judicial qualifications.

Although a young man, he has a strong insight into human nature which enables him to look into matters coming before him with an exactness and intelligence that cannot be questioned. He is brief, pointed and unwavering in his opinions, showing to a marked degree a judicial temperament irreproachable and strong in every respect. Being a man of strong personality, indefatigable energy and unerring wisdom, he presides over his court with an ease and courteous grace unsurpassed by any judge who has ever rode our circuit. He is eminently fitted for his position and lends dignity to the legal profession.

New Century

No Levers. No Springs. Always in Balance

Farmers actually want the "New Century" on account of its many distinctive features. Which are briefly: Operators weigh balances gangs. Perfectly balanced pole without even so much as a balance lever. Simplicity unequalled—not a lever, spring, ratchet or other nuisance on it. Light of draft, because it weighs less and has draft closer to shovels. Evenness of cultivation, that is, movement does not affect position of gangs. Six shovels, spring break Works perfectly in widest or narrowest rows cotton, corn, beans, peanuts, tobacco, potatoes, etc.

Learn more about this cultivator. Fifty of the best farmers in Pitt county using this cultivator. Call and let us demonstrate to you its many distinctive features.

We also sell the celebrated NEW DEERE WALKING CULTIVATOR, the best and most satisfactory walking cultivator on the market. When in need of anything in the hardware line be sure to see us.

ANNOUNCEMENTS FOR MAYOR.

To The Voters of Greenville.

I respectfully announce myself a candidate for the office of mayor of Greenville, subject to the will of the Democratic primary. I have retired from the drug business, that I may live more in the open air and purpose, if elected, to devote myself to the detailed discharge of the duties of the office.

My past record as an officer is known to you. I have used my best efforts to enforce the laws, and if elected, shall continue to do so. Gratefully,

5 15—tfd FRANK M. WOOTEN.

To The Voters of Greenville.

I take this method of announcing myself a candidate for mayor, subject to the action of the Democratic voters of the town. As has been the custom heretofore, and as there is more than one candidate for the nomination, I suggest the holding of a voting primary to decide upon the nominee. In announcing my candidacy, I wish to state that I have no special interests to serve, and am no particular person's candidate, and if nominated and elected, will do all that I can for a more economical administration of the town's affairs, and to serve all the people to the best of my ability.

5 15—tfd W. F. EVANS.

To The Voters of Greenville.

At the solicitation of several prominent business men and many personal friends, I have consented to become a candidate for mayor, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, and take this means of announcing my candidacy and soliciting your support.
