Home Team Wins Wednesday's Game From Visitors

FINE WORK DONE BY BOTH TEAMS

Visitors Made The Home Boys Hustle For What They Got—Game Was Fast, Snappy And Full of Interest All Through—The Crowd Was Pleased.

In a fast and snappy game played Wednesday afternoon by Aurora and Greenville, our boys defeated the visitors by the score of 6 to 0. After the disastrous defeat in Washington Tuesday, the boys returned and put up a fast game that few teams in this section could beat. The visitors played the best fielding game in Greenville this season, their inability to hit Lanier being the cause for their defeat. The big feature of the game was the superb pitching of Con. Lanier, who allowed but two hits (one of which was technical, as the ball should have been handled and the batter put out), and did not give a base on balls. His cross fire ball was very effective and had the visitors guessing. Other features were Gus Forbes' hard hit, which cleared the centre field fence on a line, (some power behind that ball) and the fielding of Litchfield, the fastest outfielder seen in Greenville in years.

Game By Innings.

Greenville, 1st inning.—James went out Bonner to Taylor. Lipscomb hit by pitched ball was thrown out trying to steal second. Forbes fouled out.

Aurora.—Thompson, fly to infield was safe, the ball dropping between Lanier and Lipscomb. E. Hooker bunted and both runners safe on error by Lipscomb. R. A. Thompson bunted and was out, Hooker caught off second. Bonner out short to first.

2nd Inning.—Lutterlow out on a drive to short. Smith out on infield hit to second. Jordan out by the same route.

Aurora.—R. S. Thompson made three swings and dropped the willow. Rives ditto. Litchfield, the player with the hair of the Whichard color, got in the three and two hole and then smote the atmosphere for the third strike.

3rd Inning.—Bowling out second to first. Darden was given an ovation from the grandstand when he went to bat and made a hard drive to left centre and was robbed of a hit by a great catch by Litchfield. Lanier shoved one through the infield for a base and James duplicated between short and third, advancing Lanier. Lipscomb fled out to left field.

Aurora.—Taylor, after fouling off a few, hit at one of Lanier's cross-fire balls and Mr. Jordan did the rest. J. Hooker out, Lanier to Smith. H. Thompson out, Lipscomb to Smith.

4th Inning.—Forbes selected a good one and drove same on a line over centre field fence for four bases. Lutterlow, out pitcher to first. Smith struck out. Jordan drove a beauty to left but was held at first by a quick return by Litchfield. Bowling out at first by Taylor unassisted.

Aurora.—E. Hooker out, Lanier to Smith. R. A. Thompson out, Lipscomb to Smith. Bonner drove one to right which Bowling misjudged the runner taking second. Bonner advanced to third on a wild pitch. Bonner, having read in the sporting columns of the base ball sheet how Ty Cobb plfers home from third, died in attempting to imitate Cobb. No imitations allowed on this diamond.

5th Inning.—Darden out on a tap to second. Lanier ditto. James out on a fly to Litchfield.

Aurora.—R. S. Thompson struck out. Rives out, Lanier to Smith. Litchfield struck out.

6th Inning.—Lipscomb out third to first. Forbes safe on fly to center which was dropped. Lutterlow bunted and beat it out. Both runners safe. Smith was out on a sacrifice fly to left scoring Forbes and advancing Lutterlow to third. Jordan out on infield drive.

Aurora.—Taylor out Lanier to Smith. J. Hooker out, Lutterlow to Smith. H. Thompson out Lanier to Smith.

7th Inning.—Bowling got a clean single past first. Darden struck out, Bowling stealing second. Lanier hit through second, advancing Bowling

TREASURE SEEKERS MAKE BIG FIND

GET FIFTY MILLIONS DOLLARS.

Buried Twenty Years Ago By Crew of Chilean Cruiser.

By Wire to The Reflector.
San Diego, Cal., June 8.—Treasure seekers have unearthed a gold cache off the Honduras coast. The treasure was buried twenty years ago by the crew of a mutinous Chilean cruiser. The seekers are backed by Harry Krelling, of San Francisco, a clubman. The treasure is estimated at $50,000,000.

TWO MURDERERS HELD.

Without Ball For The Grand Jury Which Meets June 14th.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Baltimore, June 8.—Ida Brooks Cohn and Morris Cohn, charged with killing Ida's husband and Morris' wife, are held by Magistrate Gramming, without ball, for the grand jury which meets June 14th.

REHEARING REFUSED.

Wife Murderer Must Serve A Life Sentence.

New York, June 8.—President Taft arrived here at 1 o'clock and reviewed 20,000 Brooklyn school children. He speaks tonight at the Cotton Crushers' Association banquet and will return to Washington at midnight.

to third and took second on the throw in. James hit past third, scoring Bowling and Lanier. Lipscomb looped one over third for a hit, James going to second. Forbes sacrificed, advancing both runners. James was caught off third retiring the side.

Aurora.—E. Hooker, out Lipscomb to Smith. R. A. Thompson fled to Darden who dropped the ball. Bonner out on fly to Lipscomb, who doubled Thompson off first.

8th Inning.—Lutterlow hit and went to second on error of first baseman. Smith fled out to left. Jordan hit to third and both runners were safe. On a wild throw by R. S. Thompson, Lutterlow scored and Jordan advanced to third. Jordan scored on Bowling's out to center. Darden fled out to center.

Aurora.—R. S. Thompson was safe on James error. Rieves out on infield fly to Lanier. Litchfield hit to Lipscomb who scooped the ball to James on second forcing Thompson James making a quick and accurate throw to Smith for a double.

Ninth Inning.—Lanier out second to first. James struck out. Lipscomb safe on error by E. Hooker, but was thrown out trying to steal second.

Aurora.—Lanier hit Taylor on the head, giving him a base. Failing to appreciate the gift, Taylor tried to steal second and was promptly thrown out. J. Hooker out, Lanier to Smith. H. Thompson on fly to Lipscomb.

MORE OF THE STORY OF LONG AGO

NO LOVE SO TRUE AS MOTHER'S.

The Kind of School "Keepers" Back In Those Days.

Hanrahan, N. C., June 8, 1911.
Three days after I reached home I received a letter post marked at Hillsboro, N. C., and I feel sure she would not object if I should give here a few extracts from it. "I hope you reached home safe and found your dear old mother well. Give her my best love, for she is worthy of any one's love. I was glad to hear you say while here that you had decided to live with her alone and give her your best love and care so long as she shall live, for indeed, there is no love nor sacrifice like that of a true mother. You remember the little brooklet that wended its way through that wilderness of old field daisies, or black-eye Susies, as we called them, and went by that stately oak that we sat beneath last Friday and talked of by-gone days, when at my brother's home situated in that quaint old village near the banks of one of its tributaries, Contentnea, as sister and brother we used to romp together and how you talked so much of the Neuse, how you said "it had so often inspired your little muse."

Well, that little rivulet that we sat beside was the fountain head of your beloved Neuse, so no wonder while you sat there you thought so much of home and your mother.

Now as to the volume that you sent me and said in your note "that it your most 'frequented,' I must say that it is not an especial favorite of mine. While it is true that Thomas says some beautiful things, but I do not fancy the god that he so often worships at the shrine of his god back as the god of man. Though I was glad to hear you say (and your life has proven that it is so) that when you read one of his odes to that god, that you always wrote underneath on memories page these lines:

"Thou sparkling bowl, thou sparkling bowl,
Though lips of bards thy brim have passed,
And eyes of beauty on thee roll,
And song and dances thy power confess
I'll not touch thee for there clings—
A scorpion to thy side that stings."

And, too, I forgot to tell you that my sentimental days are about over, if indeed I ever possessed any. Three months from today, I shall marry one of God's greatest noblemen, a tiller of the soil in all that implies. He is not one of those sowers that the Master alluded to who went out with a basket of unselected seed and just scattered them helter skelter everywhere, among thorns on unkept ditch-banks, among stones or stumps, on hard soil and every where. But he is a farmer who thinks and does things by first preparing his fields, by getting rid of the stones and the stumps, clearing the hedge rows and ditch-banks, and then with the best farming implements breaks and makes ready his land for the most selected seed, and first of all, he plants and cultivates a plenty of feed stuff for his flocks and herds that always look like pictures as they feed among the clover, peas and other crops full of nutrition and when they have eaten a sufficiency they lay down under the shade trees that border the cystal water that sings its little song of love as it warbles its way through his well selected pastures, in sight of his neatly painted cottage and well built out houses, situated on a beautiful hill surrounded by many flowers and a lovely lawn carpeted with grass.

Don't you think that any woman could be happy in a home like this and united in one common cause by love with such a man as is he?"

I shall from my story here dismiss one of God's truest heroines by saying that in her native county near Hillsboro she is indeed a happy wife and a true mother.

The old white man that helped my father bury Eugene Meadows (the man that the tree killed) was long, lank, uncouth looking, ever wearing a sour expression on his face, one of those fellows who always thought the world and every one in it was trying to do him. I suppose because he wanted to "do" every body. He didn't love the great beauties of nature.

TODAY'S DOINGS IN CONGRESS

Steel Trust Investigation Continues Before Committee

THE REPORT ON REPROCIITY BILL

Senate Committee Stood 8 to 6—How The Senators Voted on The Root Amendment—Southern Railway Firemen's Strike May Possibly Be Averted.

Washington, June 8.—Judge Gary resumed his testimony before the Stanley investigating committee today. He told what companies were competitors before the United States Steel trust was organized.

Debate was resumed in the house on the wool bill.

The senate finance committee had decided to report the Canadian reciprocity bill with the Root amendment next Tuesday.

The Southern Railway firemen's strike will probably be averted.

The committee vote on the reciprocity bill was eight to six. Those voting for the Root amendment were Lodge, Smoot, Gallinger, Clark, Heyburn, LaFollette, Bailey and Simmons.

Against, Penrose, Cullon, McCumber, Stone, Kern and Williams. Johnston, of Maine was absent. Motions to report favorably on the report and unfavorably were lost on a tie vote. The Root amendment stipulates that before the agreement becomes effective the Canadian provinces must remove all restrictions to the export of wood pulp and print paper.

HOTEL MAN SHOT.

Two Women Are Under Arrest For Felonious Assault.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, June 8.—W. E. D. Stokes owner of the Hotel Ansonia, one of the apartment hotels in the Middle West side, was shot three times by a woman in an apartment house on West Eightieth street on the night of the 6th. Today Stokes' condition is reported favorable. Two women, Graham and Conrad, are under arrest charged with felonious assault. This case promises as much notoriety as the Thaw case.

The Conrad and Graham women have been remanded without bail to await the result of Stokes' injuries.

AFTER LUMBER TRUST.

Illinois Federal Grand Jury Are Investigating.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Chicago, June 8.—A special federal grand jury is now investigating the lumber trust, and will go after Frederick Weyer Hoysler, the lumber king. Several of the employees of the lumber trust are under subpoena to give evidence before the grand jury. Members of the Union League Club demand the resignation of Edward Hines from its board of governors.

Electrical Storm in Salisbury.

Salisbury.—The worst wind and electrical storm for years passed over this section of North Carolina this afternoon, doing several thousand dollars damage. The roofs of the Salisbury Dry Goods Company, Belk, Harry Company and the Vance Cotton Mills were partly blown off and the contents damaged by the heavy rain that broke a prolonged drought. The smokestack and a part of the brick wall of the Salisbury gas plant were blown down and Bal Burgess, engineer at the plant, was injured in the head by a falling brick. As a result of the storm three blocks of cable and two hundred telephones are out of commission in Salisbury, and it will take one month to repair the damage. A dwelling near Salisbury is reported blown out into the field.

THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1911.

A CYCLONE STORY.

Among the newspaper men in North Carolina is a "mendacity medal," and along about this time of year some of the brethren try themselves at story writing to get it in before the State Press convention when the award is made. We are not prepared to say if something like this exists among the newspaper fraternity of Pennsylvania, but here is a cyclone whopper going around with a Pittsburg date line that is a story right.

It says:
A cyclone swept up through the Ohio valley this afternoon, and after it had passed Sewickley, the home of Pittsburg millionaires, the roof of the First National Bank there was found barricading a street. Thousands of dollars in paper money was whirled hither and thither in the bank building. The bills formed a whirlpool and a score of men and boys made a mad scramble for them. Yet only a few yellow backs were unaccounted for when the daily balance was taken. The rain poured down on the currency, necessitating the use of "ovens" to dry it out in time for tomorrow's business.

The roof of the bank, torn off with its rafters and metallic cornices, was dropped on a six-story dwelling and crushed it like an egg-shell. The chimneys of the bank building were blown through the roof of a shoe store.

"LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION."

Not infrequently we hear complaint made that some servant has stolen articles of jewelry. And occasionally we learn that a servant has been convicted of the larceny of jewelry from an employer. The fact that larceny is committed is regrettable, pitiable. And the fact that the owners of such property will carelessly allow it to be exposed to servants and tempt them to steal it is scarcely less regrettable—pitiable. Reverse the situation and you will almost immediately recall the injunction "Lead us not into temptation." You, with the superior intellect, superior understanding of the laws of God and your country, with superior blessing of moral training, and superior environment, bear in mind that you, too, are to obey that divine injunction, and that when a weak subject yields to a temptation which you have permitted to exist, you, too, should have some regrets. Remember, that if you had not permitted the temptation, the theft, in the great majority of cases, would not have occurred.

Some weeks ago the writer had the privilege of riding over the sand-clay portion of the old plank road, laying side by side to the section of the old road which was abandoned.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY

Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. They break up colds, cure feverishness, constipation, teething disorders headache and stomach troubles. These powders never fail. Sold by all drug stores, 25 cents. Don't accept any substitute. A trial package free to any mother who will address Allen S. Olmsted, LeRoy, N. Y.

Yet he saw no evidence of travel over that unimproved section of road. It would seem that the reason is a good and sufficient one. Does any one believe that if every road in Pitt county gave the same opportunity that the unimproved section would be used in preference to the improved section? Think it over. If you do not think so, use your opportunities for securing a better road bed.

A harem skirt wearer struck Wilmington, a day or two ago. The Star says a fire alarm would not have brought more people out on the street and the Dispatch says there was no division of attention at all, every eye being centered on the bifurcated affair.

Under a Sunday law enacted by the commissioners of the city of Greensboro, the list of "necessities" that can be sold on the Sabbath includes cigars, tobacco, soda water, ice cream, newspapers and periodicals.

Cowan Seeking a Job.

A Chicago professor advocates teaching the art of hugging and kissing in school. Guess the adoption of such would put an end to this howl for more money for teachers. It might overcrowd the professor, however.—Wilmington Dispatch.

The Builder of The Canal.

Col. George W. Goethals, in carrying on the colossal work intrusted to his management, is ahead of schedule. He is away under original estimates and previous accomplishments, in a hundred particulars of time, of cost, of economy of operation, of thoroughness of construction. When the achievements of his engineering and administrative efficiency are finally measured by competent authority we believe that the exhibit will astonish the world. No wiser thing was ever done by the American government than when it was decided to commit the execution of the Panama enterprise to one of our own army engineers, and there was never a more fortunate choice of an individual than when this modest man of real power was put in charge.—New York Sun.

Have you ever thought of it, that frivolity in the church is just as much out of place as the snow, sleet and ice would be amid the fragrant freshness and most luscious bloom of sweet and flowery June. Leave all gayety at home, and let solemnity meet us at the vestibule, and whispering, "God is in His holy temple," keep the heart in reverence bowed.—Orange, (Va.) Observer.

Get out of your old ruts. A rut is the very worst thing in the world for business, for politics and for society. A man in a rut goes to seed early, gets old and useless before his time and kills the variety that is the spice of life. Get out of your old ruts, and what is more, stay out of them.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

A DEAD STOMACH

Of What Use Is It To Anyone? Thousands! yes, hundreds of thousands of people throughout America are murdering their own stomach, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the laws of nature.

This is no essential statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny. These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of pepsin and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach.

In other words, they are taking from the stomach the work that nature intended it should do, and are also refusing it the only chance for exercise it has. MI-O-NA stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes. Taken regularly for a few weeks they build up the stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach, headache and stomach misery go.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets are sold by White's Drug Store, and leading druggists everywhere, at 50 cents a large box, and are guaranteed to cure all stomach distress or money back.

Off With The Coat.

The securing of liberties is not a matter of a day or even a year. The wresting of Magna Carta from King John was the result of long protest on the part of the barons. Our American revolution is usually agreed to have begun with the great speech delivered by James Otis in a Boston court room against the writs of assistance some fourteen years before Mecklenburg's patriots definitely cut the knot. The advent of the present heated term has revived a movement which was bravely launched some years ago to fast apparently into innocuous desuetude after only too brief a career.

One citizen of Charlotte at least has proclaimed his unalterable determination to advocate a coatless state for mere man during the continuance of the present temperatures. He bases his position upon logical analogy. A woman he declares, who appears upon Tryon street these days habited in a full-coatsuit would risk a commission in lunacy. But the poor convention-oppressed brothers and husbands are expected to burden themselves with an outer garment entirely unsuited to climatic conditions.

As a rule, we do not rush headlong to the support of iconoclasm. We believe that reformers should employ the axe conservatively and with all possible caution. In the matter under consideration, however, the victims have sweltered through too many Junes already from entirely inadequate causes. Even the mildly tempered climate of Charlotte makes this coat-wearing in the heat of the day a nuisance and an annoyance. Contemplating the suffering undergone in the midst of less favored neighbors—their name is legion—we cannot repress a shudder. All honor to the courageous mortal who shall volunteer to be the Jefferson of this new Declaration of Independence, and may the efforts of the delegates who shall sign eventually be crowned with glorious success.—Charlotte Observer.

Demonstration Tobacco Farm.

The experiment farm, established jointly by the state and the national government on the farm of Mr. J. P. Somers, near Reidsville, consisting of four acres, has all its tobacco plants in the holls, and our information is that they are growing off nicely. The plants were set out this week before the rain were watered as they were put into the ground.

There are in all a total of twenty-three varieties, and the demonstration is for the purpose of determining which variety is best adapted to the soil of this section.

There have been several kinds and combinations of fertilizers used, and the work is all being done under the instruction or direction of Mr. Matherson, who is in charge.

Two acres are planted in the little Orinoca and the rest of the land contains the other twenty-two varieties.—Webster's Weekly.

SHE GAVE UP ALL HOPE

Physicians Failed To Help Mrs. Green, But She Finally Found Relief in Cardui.

Meetez, Va.—Mrs. J. C. Green of this place, says: "I suffered with womanly troubles so that I could hardly sit up. Two of the best doctors in our town treated me, and I tried different medicines, until I gave up all hope of ever getting well."

One day, I decided to try some Cardui. It did so much for me that I ordered some more, and it cured me! Today, I feel as well as I ever did in my life.

The pains and the trouble are all gone. I feel like another person in every way. I wish every sufferer could know what Cardui will do for sick women."

A few doses of Cardui at the right time, will save many a big doctor bill, by preventing serious sickness.

It tones up the nervous system, and helps make pale cheeks fresh and rosy. Thousands of weak women have been restored to health and happiness by using Cardui. Suppose you try it.

It may be just the medicine you need.

An Echo From Byron.
 Know ye the land where the cypress and myrtle
 Are emblems of deeds that are done in their clime,
 Where the rage of vulture, the love of the turtle,
 Now melt into sorrow, now madden to crime?
 Know ye the land of the cedar and vine,
 Where the flowers even blossom, the beams ever shine;
 Where the light wings of Zephyr, oppressed with perfume,
 Wax faint o'er the gardens of Guf in her bloom;
 Where the citron and olive are fairest of fruit,
 And the voice of the nightingale never is mute;
 Where the fruits of the earth, and the hues of the sky,
 In color though varied, in beauty may vie.
 And the purple of ocean is deepest in dye;
 Where the virgins are soft as the roses they twine.
 And all, save the spirit of man, is divine?
 'Tis the clime of the East; 'tis the land of the Sun—
 Can he smile on such deeds as his children have done?
 Oh! wild as the accents of lovers' farewell
 Are the hearts which they bear, and tales which they tell.
 —From the Bride of Abydos.

GREENVILLE 6 AND AURORA 0

 Lutterlow, Bowling and E. Hooker. Double plays, Lipscomb to James to Smith. Lipscomb to Smith. Stolen bases, Bowling. Struck out by Lanier, 6; by Hooker, 3. Hit by pitched ball, Taylor, Lipscomb. Wild pitch, Lanier.
 Time of game, 1 hour 40 minutes. Umpire, Skinner.
Squibs for Fans and Fannies.
 The Greenville boys redeemed their off playing at Washington the day before.
 Gus Forbes is a peach. That park ball which gave the first score of the game brought an ovation from the grand stand.
 Aurora's red-headed left fielder, Litchfield, was a wonder and gained much admiration from the way he skillfully bagged every ball that came in his vicinity.
 Con. Lanier is a left-hand twirler right.
 Every time Lutterlow went to the bat the fans looked for something to happen.
 James at short and Lipscomb at second did as pretty work as the most enthusiastic fan can wish for.
 Under the captaincy of Smith, Greenville is expected to win a majority of all games and fly the pennant on the new court house at the end of the season.
 Aurora sent up a clever bunch, and they can certainly play good ball.

Plymouth Defeats Grifton.
 Grifton, N. C., June 7.—The Grifton ball team, minus the services of Helen and Webb, their two heavy hitters, and with catcher Lancaster disabled, lost a hard game here today to Plymouth, 1 to 0. "Big Jess" Bland shot them over for Grifton and had the Plymouth boys hitting mostly after the catcher had the ball. Grifton made three errors in one inning, giving Plymouth the only run of the game. White, pitching for Plymouth, was also very effective. Each team made but four hits. Grifton used only home boys, while Plymouth was assisted by players from Tarboro, Hertford and Ayden.
 Batteries: Grifton, J. Bland and D. Bland. Plymouth, White and Floyd.

Aurora Wins From Ayden.
 In the game played here this morning between Aurora and Ayden, the score was 6 to 2 in favor of Aurora. There were no special features in the game.
 Score by innings: R. H. E.
 Aurora 010 200 120—6 5 6
 Ayden 000 001 010—2 7 5
 Batteries: Aurora, Holiday and Thompson. Ayden, Little and Dean. Holiday struck out 9; base on balls, 0. Little struck out 9; base on balls 3.
 Umpire, Forbes.

MORE OF THE STORY OF LONG AGO.

 ture. He hated, it seemed to me, all the birds and animals; he never spoke kindly to a child, he thought that women were fit only to cook meals and that they should cut and carry in the wood to do that with. But I am thankful to say he never found one fool enough to tie up with him. Such folks don't marry. He was all this and more, he was the kind of a man they hired for school keepers in the rural districts in those days. Do you wonder that school keepers were snorted at in those days? I never owned but one dog. He was a beauty, went with me wherever I went and no rude hand could come near me at any time without first taking this dog's life or getting my consent, and because of this, one day old Long John S. killed him, and I cried, and wept, and I have never wanted dog since. But with all of this and more, they hired him to keep school in our community and papa made me go, and one day I suppose, to keep me from asking him so many questions about how to get even with this old fellow for killing my dog. I thought at that age that vengeance was mine and that I must repay, and not leave it to the Lord.

Miss Pringle Dead.
 Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock the body of Miss Ray Pringle was laid to rest in the private graveyard of Mr. L. A. Mayo, in the Mt. Pleasant neighborhood, the funeral being conducted by Mr. C. C. Ware, minister of the Christian church.
 The deceased was an estimable young lady, a native of Edinburg, Scotland, and had been in America only about six months. She leaves one sister in America, Mrs. George Robertson, of Pitt county, to mourn her untimely death. Her other relatives are in Scotland. She died with tuberculosis.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
 by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
 We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

HAIR WHITE AS SNOW
 Restored to Natural Color with
WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY
 ALMOST A MIRACLE
 My hair was as white as snow when I commenced using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. One bottle restored my hair to its natural dark brown color. As I am now 70 years old, I consider the result most remarkable. It is an agreeable and refreshing hair dressing, keeping the hair soft and glossy, without being in the least greasy or sticky.

RABIES.

Interesting Article Giving Information About That Disease.

Rabies is a disease of all animals but most prevalent in the dog because they are more subject to inoculation.

Most people think of the disease as one wherein the animal froths from the mouth and bites everything he comes in contact with, this however, is not the condition in the majority of cases.

There are two forms of the disease, viz: Dumb and Furious. The former is the most prevalent and to the casual observer nothing abnormal is noticed about the animal until the last stage when he is noticed to be paralyzed. The furious form is recognized at once, because attention is directed to the salivation and great irritability of the animal.

Rabies is caused by the animal being inoculated with a virus, and cannot, as some think, occur spontaneously lose sight of the fact that dogs are very frequently inoculated by eating rabbits, mice, squirrels, etc., that are affected with the disease.

This is perhaps the most common way in which dogs become inoculated.

Town dogs often become inoculated by being bitten by stray dogs, because a dog with the disease will often travel as far as forty miles in a day.

As a preventative, all dogs not wearing tax tags should be destroyed. This would do away with strays.

As a preventative for persons having been bitten by a dog, the animal should be immediately killed and the head sent to a laboratory where a microscopic examination of the brain can be made and if lesions of the disease are found the Pasteur treatment should at once be resorted to, because a person cannot afford to take chances of becoming a victim of this terrible malady.

The period elapsing before a person will develop the disease after being inoculated varies. The nearer to the brain the inoculation occurs, the sooner the disease will be likely to develop. It has been known to develop within twelve days while other cases have gone one year before symptoms were manifested. About 80 per cent. of persons bitten by rabid animals, who do not take the Pasteur treatment, die of the disease while the mortality of those having taken the treatment is less than one per cent.

Spencer—The great anxiety which has prevailed in Spencer for the past two weeks on account of the controversy between the Southern Railway firemen and the officials of the road relative to an increase in wages, was considerably relieved yesterday when reports came from Washington that a settlement had been reached. For the past week a strike seemed unavoidable and employees of the Southern in all lines are rejoiced that it now seems that one will be averted.

Extreme Caution.

"I am sure that you have never had a fight with my little boy."

"Oh no."

"That is because he obeys me and always counts a hundred before he strikes a blow."

THE TOBACCO DECISION.

Attorney General Thinks It Means Disintegration and Not Reorganization

By its decision in the case of the American Tobacco Company, handed down on Monday, the Supreme court has shown, so that he who runs may read, what it really meant by saying in the Standard Oil decision that it is the duty of the court to determine "by the light of reason" whether contracts or agreements or forms of organization business alleged to be contrary to the statute known as the Sherman Anti-Trust law, are so or not. The absurd misconception of the true aim and scope of the earlier decisions, to which so many enthusiastic people in Wall street and elsewhere jumped, has been effectually dissipated. It is now easy enough for these people to see that the court was as far as the poles are asunder from saying that anybody who is restraining trade "reasonably" or monopolizing a part of it "reasonably" is conducting himself according to the law. On the contrary, it is now plain that the court has cut to the very heart of the matter, and has made it clear that it regards the essential and not the accidental in interpreting the law; that it has concerned itself and will concern itself, not with the letter of the law, but with the principles of public policy embodied in the law; and that it makes the test of the legality of the acts of men heedfulness of those principles of public policy. Thus, instead of limiting the application of the law, as many had supposed, it has proved that the court has given it an inclusiveness which is co-extensive with the principles of public policy themselves. "If the anti-trust law is applicable to the entire situation here presented and is adequate to afford complete relief for the evils which the United States insists that the situation presents, it can only be because that law will be given a more comprehensive application than has been affixed to it in any previous decision." And again; "but the difficulties which arise from the complexity of the particular dealings which are here involved and the situation which they produce, we think, grows out of a plain misconception of both the letter and spirit of the anti-trust act. We say of the letter, because while seeking by a narrow rule of the letter to include things which it is deemed would otherwise be excluded, the contention really destroys the great purpose of the act, since it renders it impossible to apply the law to a multitude of wrongful acts which would come within the scope of its remedial purposes by resort to a reasonable construction, although they would not be within its reach by a too narrow and unreasonable adherence to the strict letter." Thus is the last refuge taken away from those who have been imagining that by the use of legal dexterity, by ingenuity in discovering ways to meet the letter law but avoid its spirit, they can attain the same ends as if the statute had never been enacted.

And now, how does this plain enunciation of the principles which the court is following affect the popular theory of the practical outcome of the whole matter, which suddenly became current this week, just as the popular notion of the meaning of "reasonableness" did after the Standard Oil decision. This week's theory is that the Supreme court has remanded the carrying out of the court's decree to the Circuit court, whose duty it now becomes to show the American Tobacco Company how to re-organize its whole business so as to come within the terms of the law. According to this theory, the Supreme court has not ordered that there shall be a substantial change in the business of the defendant company, but only that the form of organization of that business shall be remodeled so as to conform to the statute. Thus, much trouble and expense will doubtless be caused, but when all is over the business will doubtless be left substantially what it now is, with the added advantage of a certificate of health from the courts. Such is the theory, and we cannot help saying that to us it seems quite as absurd as last week's theory about "reasonableness." As we see it, the Circuit court must be guided in carrying out the decree by the principles laid down in the decision. It will not be able to approve of any plan of re-organizing the business of the defendant company, which does not remove from that business every vestige of restraint of trade or of monopoly. But that business, as it stands today, has been found by the courts to be everywhere permeated with the two unlawful principles. We do not believe the wit of man can devise any way to re-organize it in its integrity, and yet eliminate these principles. As Attorney General Wickersham is reported to have said, this decree means disintegration, and not re-organization.—From Virginian-Pilot.

Washington has an increased number of handsome buildings owned by foreign governments devoted to the residence and official use of their representatives in this county. Every one knows where to find the British French or German Ambassadors, no matter what their names may be. No one has ever had the slightest occasion to inquire whether these representatives of the great European nations have large private means or mail. In Washington, as in London, Paris, Berlin, St. Petersburg, Rome and other great capitals of the world, here is always an appropriate, permanent embassy of these nations, with suitable salaries for the ambassador or minister, and proper allowance for its maintenance. When Mr. Bryce came to be British ambassador in Washington, or Dr. Jesserand came to the capital to be spokesman for the French government and people, neither of them was compelled to hunt for a house. They followed their predecessors into well-appointed embassies without hitch or embarrassment of any sort. Up to the present time almost exactly the contrary has been the experience of American representatives abroad.—American Review of Reviews.
