BETTER HEALTH PROTECTION

LIFE INSURANCE MEN INTERESTED

Abstract of a Report on the Present Sanitary Condition of Thirty-Two American Cities Prepared by Hiram J. Messenger, F. A. S., Actuary of the Travelers Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn.

New York, June 9.—That at least thirty per cent. of the population in various cities of this country equipped with good water supply systems mainly use well water that is subject to contamination, was stated in a report of a special investigation of the sanitary condition of thirty-two American cities, submitted to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents today by Hiram J. Messenger, actuary, of Hartford, Conn. In cities with sewer systems the population living in houses unconnected with sewers was given at about forty per cent.

The cities investigated are with one or two exceptions in the South and Middle West, and are as follows: Lynchburg, Roanoke, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Nashville, Louisville, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Bloomington, Springfield, St. Louis, Memphis, Little Rock, Vicksburg, New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Birmingham, Atlanta, Macon, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Savannah, Charleston, Augusta, Columbia, Charlotte, Danville, Richmond, New York and Hartford.

In addition to water supply, and sewerage systems, the principal points investigated covered disposal of garbage, inspection of milk, meats and perishable provisions; board of health ordinances for maintaining sanitary conditions; laboratory equipment and work of the department of bacteriology; climatic conditions; location of city and natural character of surrounding country; character of city government; character of people, with special reference as to whether or not they appreciate the importance of maintaining proper health conditions and whether or not there is a powerful public sentiment that can be brought to bear upon the city government in regard to such questions.

"The evidence found practically everywhere (particularly through the Southern States) showed that there has been a most wonderful improvement in the general sanitary conditions during the last ten or twenty years," states the report, "cities in the South in proportion to their means, as a rule, are spending as much money in improvements affecting the general health of the city as in the North.

"It was found that as a rule most of the cities visited had a fairly good supply of city water. The important question in regard to the city water supply is not so much the character of the water furnished by the city water systems, but the extent to which the inhabitants use the city water and the extent to which they make use of some other source of supply.

"In regard to the disposal of garbage, conditions in most cities were unsatisfactory. The most sanitary way of disposing of garbage is probably to burn it. About half a dozen of the cities investigated had incineration plants and as a rule these plants were working in a reasonably satisfactory manner—and if they were not it was generally because the work of collecting the garbage for burning was subject to political influences with unfavorable results. In the great majority of cases the garbage is dumped on vacant lots, frequently within the city limits and sometimes not far from the heart of the city.

"Ordinances for inspection of milk, meats and perishable provisions were quite general, and it is clear that they are being enforced with increasing effectiveness every year; but successful work of this kind depends mainly upon three things—freedom from political control, a competent and particularly a courageous board of health and a strong public opinion in favor of thorough enforcement of the work.

"In a large city in the South one of the great public markets was visited and the conditions were simply revolting. Great quantities of meat, vegetables and more or less over-ripe fruit were displayed in an open market extending for two blocks, with no kind of protection for the perishable provisions. Never were such swarms of flies seen before. In one case a big piece of meat was so covered with flies that it was really difficult to make out what it was. Fortunately, a movement is on foot to have this market done away with. All public markets of the kind ought to be abolished. It is impossible to maintain sanitary conditions as long as such things exist.

The report urged the organization of sanitary clubs in every city in the country and it was suggested that the Association of Life Insurance Presidents take the lead in this work through its agents, medical examiners and other representatives in different communities.

GAYETY AT WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

THE SEASON PROMISES MUCH.

Many Interesting Events There The Past Week.

Wrightsville Beach, N. C., June 9.—The mid-week dance at Lumina, the recent arrival of many visitors, the fine opening of the hotels and boarding houses, together with several important fishing parties during the past week, and the pleasure crafts to be seen on the sound emphasize an early, and what will doubtless be the largest and most successful season in the history of the beach.

Registered at the Seashore Hotel, among others, is Mr. W. C. Carrington, of Spartanburg, S. C., one of the most genial and popular guests at the beach, who annually visits the seashore, and spends the greater portion of his time in breaking the past records theretofore attained by the many enthusiastic fishermen visiting Wrightsville Beach. Mr. Wade Harris, of Charlotte, one of the most brilliant and popular newspaper men in the state, was also a visitor at Wrightsville Beach during the past week.

The Seashore is now thoroughly equipped with splendid life saving service, having as one of its life savers a former employee of the U. S. life saving service at Cape Lookout in addition to which the Ocean Pier and the Lookout Station are equipped with life savers and hand lines.

The social life of the hotel will be particularly emphasized this year by the orchestra of young ladies, whose presence and musical ability lend pleasure and culture to the life of the hotel.

The first souvenir dance of the season was given at Lumina on Thursday evening, and many attractive and dainty souvenirs were presented to the dancers, several of whom availed themselves of the opportunity to enjoy this delightful occasion.

Washington, June 9.—The senate foreign relations committee authorizes a favorable report on the treaty with Honduras.

James Gayley, former vice president and now a director of the United States Steel Corporation, was the first witness today before the Stanley investigating committee, and told of the organization and growth of the Carnegie companies until absorbed by the trust. Gayley described how Carnegie scared Morgan into buying the Carnegie steel companies with threats to build a railroad from Pittsburgh to New York and erect tube work in competition with Morgan's tube concern.

The house resumed the debate on the wool bill.

A delegation of Oklahomans called on President Taft with a protest against the appointment of W. T. Vernon, a former negro register of the treasury, as superintendent of schools for the Oklahoma Indians.

BLOUNT COLEMAN PEARCE.

Resolutions of Respect Adopted by Greenville Lodge A. F. and A. M.

Whereas, it has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe to remove from our midst, our late brother, Blount Coleman Pearce,

And, Whereas, the intimate relations long held by our deceased brother—with the members of this lodge render it proper that we should place on record our appreciation of his services as a Mason and his merits as a man; therefore, be it resolved:

1. That while we, the members of Greenville Lodge No. 284 A. F. and A. M., bow in humble submission to the will of the Great I Am, we do not the less mourn for our brother, who has been called from labor to rest.

2. That in the death of Blount Coleman Pearce, this lodge loses its last charter member. He was always active and zealous in his work, prompt to advance the interest of the order, although he removed from this jurisdiction to another, Sanford, N. C., in 1898, yet he kept in communication with his old lodge, who was always glad to have him in their midst.

3. That in his death the state loses an esteemed, loyal and patriotic citizen, the family loses an affectionate and loving father and husband.

4. That this lodge tender its heart felt sympathy to the family and relatives of our deceased brother in their sad affliction.

5. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, a copy be sent to the Oxford Orphan Friend, The Sanford Express, and The Daily Reflector for publication, and a copy be sent to the bereaved family.

THE HOME BOYS WIN ANOTHER GAME

SCORE, GREENVILLE, 7; AURORA, 0.

Another Snappy Game With Some Good Features.

In the second game between Greenville and Aurora, played in the park here Thursday afternoon, the home boys again came out winners in a score of 7 to 0. Aurora has a good team, and do as fine field work as any can show, but they are weak at the bat, and their being shut out was due mainly to inability to find the balls off Greenville's pitchers.

The features of Thursday's game were the home run of Jordan, bringing in two men, the home run by Luterloh and the superb fielding of Litchfield for Aurora. With one foot on the fence he caught with one hand a fly that would have been a park ball, as pretty a catch as was ever seen on any diamond.

Aurora 000 000 000—0 2 4

BRASS PIN IN HER APPENDIX.

Article Swallowed by Woman Three Years Ago Found in Operation.

Richmond, Va., June 9.—When the appendix of Mrs. Preston Glass was removed at the Virginia Hospital a brass pin, which she had swallowed about three years ago, was found imbedded in it. The pin was very much corroded and had inflamed the appendix, causing appendicitis.

The operation proved entirely successful and the patient is now said to be on the road to rapid recovery. Every since she swallowed the pin, about three years ago, Mrs. Glass has been suffering with sharp pains in her side, but did not learn the cause until after the operation.

TRADE REPORT.

Trade Conditions Generally Are Irregular.

Richmond, Va., June 9.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say for Richmond and vicinity: Trade conditions generally are irregular, however, improvement in some lines is noted. The long drought which had so retarded crops throughout the district has been broken by rain and improvement in crops is reported. Reports of the cotton crop from North Carolina are more favorable, however, curtailment in production by the mills still continues. Peanuts show an advance in prices, the crop of 1910 being well used up. The usual between season dullness is noted in the wholesale dry goods and shoe market, but fair filling-in orders are reported. The demand for other than hardwood lumber is poor and many mills are curtailing. Drugs, chemicals and fountain supplies are active. Distillers and blenders of liquors report a falling off in orders. Provisions are in fair demand, buying being stimulated by the reduced price of some commodities. Vegetables are generally late and inferior. Retail trade shows some improvement. Collections are slow.

SKIMMED MILK NUTRITIOUS.

Dr. Wiley Contradicts Himself in His Book.

New York, June 9, 1911.

Editor Reflector:
Greenville, N. C.

I was interested in reading in your May 27th issue an article with the caption "Skimmed milk crusade," in which you quote Doctor Wiley as follows: "Dr. Wiley says he is convinced that the lives of almost an unlimited number of infants are endangered every day by the use of such milk."

Dr. Wiley has evidently changed mind since he published the second edition—revised and enlarged—of "Foods and their adulterations." He says in said book on page 176 "skimmed milk," "the residue which is left from the removal of cream is known as skimmed milk. Skimmed milk contains the principal part of the nitrogenous constituents of milk, the greater quantity of its sugar and a very large quantity of its mineral matter. It is a very valuable food product, lacking only the element of fat. Naturally the composition of skimmed milk would be that of milk corrected for the abstraction of fat. It contains some little fat when prepared by the gravity method and only a very small portion when separated mechanically. The abstraction of the fat increases the relative proportion of sugar and casein."

On page 181 he states "Buttermilk." It does not differ greatly in its chemical properties from skimmed milk, although there is a slight difference in the relative percentages of the milk solids in cream as compared with the same constituents in whole milk.

On page 499 he states "Infants foods." If sweet milk does not meet the requirements, sour milk or buttermilk properly modified may be used.

It is evident from the above quotations that skimmed milk is a nutritious substance, and that it is also necessary to modify cow's milk prior to feeding it to an infant.

Yours truly,

H. L. HARRIS.

His Last Breath.

The reflections upon the value of breath, writes a correspondent, recall an old riddle which asked what it was that no man wished to take and no man wished to give up. The answer was, His last breath. Charles Lamb had an epicurean desire concerning his own last breath, half of which at any rate comes home to many of us. Macready heard him express the hope that he might draw it in through a pipe and exhale it in a pun. Certainly that would be the most precious breath on record.—London Chronicle.

A Traveller's Tale.

The early explorers of the Brazils brought back some strange tales. One of the most curious of those which Mr. Guy Rothery recalls in his book on "The Amazons" is of a race of men "whose feet were turned the wrong way round, so that if any one attempted to follow in their tracks the pursuers were misled, actually receding from those whom they desired to catch up."

FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1911.

The last few days have been cool enough and with sufficient breeze to make Greenville as delightful as the seashore.

They used to call Colonel Bryan the "peerless leader," but the Washington Post has changed it to "cheerless pleader."

We are not kicking about base ball enthusiasm, but just suppose the people were as enthusiastic for securing manufacturing enterprises. There would be something doing.

Four thousand bottles of liquor, recently captured in blind tigers, were emptied into the French Broad river at Asheville on Wednesday. Guess the fish all had a spree.

It is all fixed now so far as the Republican nomination for president is concerned, ex-President Roosevelt has announced that he will give his unqualified endorsement to President Taft for re-nomination in 1912. What the colonel says goes.

Indiana must also have some medal seeking reporters. An item comes from a town in that state which says that during a storm a church, filled with worshippers was struck by lightning and a prayer book held by a woman was burned out of her hand.

It was very kind of the Chicago & North Western railroad to send us a ticket of admission, with the services of a guide promised, to make an inspection of its new passenger terminal just opened in Chicago. How to get there to look at it is the obstacle in the way.

Those towns that want to swing around to "open" Sundays and let certain lines of business be done on the Sabbath as on other days, ought to take a day off and memorize the Fourth Commandment. Some business men want to do business on Sunday, but "what doth it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" The sight of a dollar makes some people forget that God yet rules the universe.

Even if the drought is a long one, keep cheerful. Rain is coming after a while, and crops will be better than many anticipate. Nobody hereabouts is going to starve for the lack of something to eat. Let the farmers keep the grass out of their crops, and the business men hustle for more business, and the fall will find you all getting along as well as ever. Don't waste the time grumbling, but keep busy.

Work Will Start Soon.

After you take Dr. King's New Life Pills, and you'll quickly enjoy their fine results. Constipation and indigestion vanish and fine appetite returns. They regulate stomach, liver and bowels and impart new strength and energy to the whole system. Try them. Only 25c at all druggists.

Mayor Gaynor, of New York, paid a handsome tribute to the Southerners who attended the Cotton Seed Crushers' convention in that city. In delivering the address of welcome to the delegates, he took occasion to say:

"We have 100,000 votes of Southern people, who now live here. Let me tell you they are the best votes we have. They have brought with them the pure political sentiment of the South. They vote right every time in local affairs to put the rascals out."

Living in The Open.

Not everyone may take a vacation, and not everyone may, literally speaking, "take to the woods" in summer. But hardly a man, woman, or child in Atlanta but may, with slight effort, get from the summer that one distinguishing advantage it has to give—living and sleeping, to a great extent at least, in the open air.

As a matter of fact, instead of malingering summer as a season meaning curtailed energies, we should hail it as one providing chances for getting closer to nature. In one respect we are compelled to live sanely. The temperature forbids the closed doors and windows still the custom with many people. Perforce, they must keep both open, or sweeter. And the great majority choose the former alternative.

For little or nothing, one may rig up home-made sleeping coats, adjusted to windows in such manner as to keep the face of the slumberer constantly in the circulating air. The magazines abound with plans for such contrivances, and many of the department stores carry ten-beds at prices that are very reasonable. Then comes eating and reading, sewing and talking in the open. These are better done where one has a porch that may be screened in, with a convenient electric or gas "drop" supplying the light. Even in the country districts, acetylene or the old reliable kerosene may be made to serve all purposes.

All this means, of course, that it will be necessary, in many instances, to exercise a little ingenuity when quarters are cramped, and slight additional expense. Both will be amply compensated by the heightened comfort, and that sense of well-being which is a reward for keeping the blood count at normal by close association with the open air.—Atlanta Constitution.

True Business Gospel.

Greenville cannot do business on its past prestige alone, nor can it get trade without making the effort for it, as was the case a quarter of a century ago when there was no competition to speak of.—Daily Reflector.

Just as true business gospel as was ever preached. The business man who sits down and waits for trade to float to him finds that it does not float. It is the man or town who keeps everlasting at it that wins success. Let the people know what you have got to sell and you can find a purchaser; and no better medium can be found than your home paper that goes in the home and stays there every day or every week as the case may be. Advertising by fits and jerks is not the kind that pays, it is the fellow that keeps right at it, saying something fresh and attractive everyday or two or every week or so. Eternal vigilance is the price of success as well as liberty.—Farmville Enterprise.

HAPPY RESULTS.

Have Made Many Greenville Residents Happy.

No wonder scores of Greenville citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements, like the following are but truthful of the daily work done in Greenville by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. L. Mangum, 416 Dickinson Avenue, Greenville, N. C., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are by no means a new remedy to me. I have used them on different occasions and have found that they are a preparation of great merit. Kidney complaint and backache made me miserable and it was not until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from the John L. Wooten Drug Co., that I found relief. Recently I again got a supply of this remedy and it helped me as promptly and effectively as before."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

NASAL CATARRH.

Mrs. E. Karberg Says It Is Easy to Get Rid Of.

"A bad case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of HYOMEI. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying and disagreeable, and the cure, from the use of HYOMEI, was very gratifying. HYOMEI has from me a strong recommendation and endorsement."—Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingsley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16, 1908.

HYOMEI (pronounce High-ome) cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are, and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated membrane, it gives relief in two minutes.

Use regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei at druggists everywhere, or at White's Drug Store, for only 50 cents. If you do not own a HYOMEI inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat, or money back.

A Great Chestnut.

There is probably no man engaged in the newspaper business in this state, who is not acquainted with a man whose excuse for discontinuing his subscription is that he already "has more papers than he can read." It is only an excuse offered to ameliorate the presumed lacerated condition of the editors feelings. It has no such effect, for in the first place an editor never worries over the loss of a subscriber except when he leaves the country without paying up arrearages. But why not be truthful and say to the honest newspaper man just what you feel in your heart? Go into his den, ask him how much you owe, pay the delinquency, and tell him frankly that you don't want his disreputable, blackguard sheet any longer. Say to him in a sorrowful tone of voice that you deeply regret his inability to publish a newspaper worthy of the name and advise him to sell his plant to some man with a thimble full of brains and seek some occupation which does not require much wear or tear of mind. Do this and then you can go away with the comforting assurance that the editor respects you for your candor and will cherish no hard feelings because you choose to borrow his paper instead of buying it.—Gaffney (S. C.) Ledger.

As to Socialism.

That was a story well worth your perusal, which yesterday told of the address of Jacob A. Riis to the seniors at Trinity. There are two kinds of Socialism, as Mr. Riis understands it. One kind says: "What is mine is thine," and in this he sees the spirit of service. The other says "What is thine is mine," and in this is to be distinguished the spirit of vengeance. Mr. Riis thinks if we take the first we shall block the second, and shall be saved from the whirlwind. A striking way of stating the case, from the point of view of the intelligent student of social conditions.—Greensboro News.

Did You.
 Did you e'er awake from your slumber deep,
 And feel that the whole world was fast asleep,
 And you knocked alone on the mid-night moon,
 And wondered why sleep had left you so soon?
 Did a song burst fourth on your listening ear,
 Fearless and strong from a perch very near?
 Did it whistle and call and loudly trill,
 As if with music the whole world would fill?
 Did it coax, entreat then threaten and scold,
 With notes as clear as from strings of pure gold?
 Did it warble with voice clear as a bell
 Then ripple in tones like a brook in the dell?
 Did it tremble with joy, till its wonderful lays,
 Filled all the moonlight and shadows with praise?
 If you ne'er heard it's song at mid-night hours,
 You know not the half of this dear bird of ours.
 When at night it keeps watch o'er its brood and nest,
 Our Southern Mock Bird is then at its best.

INS. CO. OF NORTH AMERICA.

The Oldest Fire Insurance Company in Wilkinson's Agency.
 "The oldest fire insurance company in the United States" is a distinction to be proud of, and especially is this true when that company has not reached its zenith of growth and prosperity, judging from the fact that the past two years have been among the most successful in its entire history. The last two years are especially mentioned because it is during this time that Mr. Eugene L. Ellison has been the president and guiding force in the company's affairs and because many important changes have taken place, which has strengthened the company, both in administrative and in a financial way. As instance, the capital has been increased from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000, and at the same time $500,000 was added to surplus, the increase being made through stock subscriptions. Here in the South the company's prestige has grown and its reputation has been extended under the splendid management of Captain E. S. Gay, southern department manager, assisted by his son, Assistant Manager Ewell Gay, who has been engaged in the business of fire insurance since leaving college. The company's 1910 annual statement shows assets of $16,001,411.66, a gain for the year of $2,615,910.10; reinsurance reserves of $7,125,854.74, a gain of $311,542.37, and net surplus of $3,743,980.17, exclusive of $4,000,000 capital, making policyholders' surplus $7,743,980.17. In the Southern department offices of the company under Captain Gay's management, is also the Philadelphia Underwriters and the Alliance of Philadelphia, making this one of the most important fire department offices in the South. The Insurance Company of North America does not write anything but standard business and it will, therefore, be of interest to those who have this class of business to see the agent.

 Elder Weatherington filled his regular appointment at Hardee's school house Sunday.
 There was a large crowd to prayer meeting Sunday night to hear Mr. Haddock.
 One of our neighborhood boys left home the other day and went up near Kinston and got a job and went to work, but was not satisfied and returned home Sunday. Some of the boys said he came in singing "Home, Sweet Home."

"I Forgot."

The merchant said, in caustic tones:
 "James Henry Charles Augustus Jones, please get your pay and leave the store; I will not need you any more. Important chores you seem to shun; you're always leaving work undone; and when I ask the reason why, you have a sad and soulful sigh, and idly scratch your dome of thought and feebly say: 'Oh, I forgot!' Henry Charles Augustus Jones, this world's a poor resort for drones, for men with heads so badly set that their long suit is to forget. No man will ever write his name upon the shining wall of fame, or soar aloft on glowing wings because he can't remember things.
 "I've noticed that such chaps as you remember when your pay is due; and when the noontime whistles throbs, your memory is on the job; and when a holiday's at hand your recollection isn't canned. The failures on life's busy ways, the paupers, friendless wan and gray, throughout their battle days like you, forget the things they ought to do. So take your coat and draw your bones, James Henry Charles Augustus Jones!"

The Passing of Diaz.

Ever since the beginning of the present insurrection, Senior Madero and the other leaders of the revolt have maintained that the resignation of President Diaz was an absolute necessity before any real reforms could be assured to the people. While General Diaz is in power, said Madero in his manifesto issued on May 6, "all laws will be fictitious, and all promises tricks of war." Time and time again important and dignified leaders of thought in the republic have brought to the attention of the aged president this feeling that he should step aside. Last September, on the attainment of his eightieth birthday, and the centenary of the republic, Porfirio Diaz was the idol of the Mexican people. Recently there has been wide opposition to his rule, and it is plain that there could not have been any lasting peace in the country until the tyrant, as the Mexican hero had come to be called, had been overthrown. Up to a few weeks ago, Diaz steadily refused even to consider the idea of resignation. The revolution, he maintained, was scattered and headless, and should he step aside, there was no one strong enough to restore order. "I came into the city of Mexico fighting; I will leave it accompanied by bullets." There are many in the republic who have believed it would be disastrous for Diaz to retire. Most of the conservative elements, however, apparently believe that Diaz, having first declined, made a mistake in having himself elected to the presidency for the seventh time, and a still greater mistake in forcing Roman Carral an exceedingly unpopular man upon the republic as vice-president. Early last month the aged statesman issued a manifesto promising to resign the office of president as soon as peace was restored. "We do not want manifestos," said Madero, when this news was brought to him, "we want resignations." Porfirio Diaz belongs to the past. He has kept himself, or has been kept, ignorant of the extent of the disaffection of the country. The Diaz who made and built Mexico no longer exists, and it is to be regretted, for the judgment of history upon his life and achievements that last autumn he did not persist in his determination to refuse a seventh re-election.—American Review of Reviews.

Diversifications of Earlier Georgia.

Micajah Williamson kept a licensed tavern in the town of Washington. In front of this tavern was a large picture of George Washington hanging as a swinging sign. John Clark (governor 1819-23) used to come to town, and, like most men of his day, get drunk. They all did not "cut up," however, as he did on such occasions. He went into stores and smashed things generally, as tradition says, but he always came back and paid for them like a gentleman. Once he came into town intoxicated and galloped down Court street and fired through the picture of Gen. Washington before the tavern door. This was brought up against him later, when he was a candidate for governor, but his friends denied it.—Macon Telegraph.

If So, Why?

Judge Gary intimates that the cut in steel prices may involve a reduction in wages.

If so, why? The last official report of the steel trust itself declares that more of the products of that concern are sold abroad than at home. It is an admitted and notorious fact that the foreign sales are effected at prices much below those exacted from domestic consumers for articles identically similar, even where the recently reduced figures are taken as a basis of comparison. The products sold abroad and those sold at home are turned out by the same workmen drawing wages identically the same in either case. The assumption is both logical and safe that the foreign business is not done at a loss. On the contrary, there is some reasonable measure of profit in it, or it would not be done at all. If the steel trust can afford to pay its workmen the existing scale of wages for turning out products which are sold abroad at prices from twenty-five to forty per cent. below those exacted at home, certainly the average mind will find no little difficulty in understanding why a slight reduction in domestic prices should necessitate a lowering of the wages paid for the manufacture of articles consumed in this country. If the cut intimated by the executive head of the steel combine should be made, the explanation and the cause of it will alike be found in the greed of that concern and its congeners which have long used labor as a catspaw to save their tariff chestnuts from burning.—Norfolk Virginian Pilot.

"Bad" Newspapers.

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, N. J., is disturbed about the evil influence of the "bad" newspapers and he thus defines a bad newspaper:

They publish sensational news; pander to the morbid desire of reading the demoralizing details of divorce, impurity, suicide, murder, and theft, exaggerate the luxury and the extravagance of the rich, as well as the privations and misery of the poor; excite the masses against the classes, and ridicule and sneer at constituted authority, whether in the legislative, judicial or executive branches of state and national government.

There are bad newspapers and they deserve all the bishop says about them, but we doubt the efficiency of the remedy proposed. The bishop thinks "newspaper men should get together and form a code of ethics similar to those adopted by physicians and lawyers and bind themselves to adhere to them, upon their honor as journalists." This would be very fine if the bad newspapers would live up to the system. But the "code of ethics" of the lawyers has not rooted the bad lawyers out of the profession. In many communities the bad lawyer thrives and his professional brethren do nothing to put him out. Disbarment proceedings are rare; the same is true of the doctors, but the bad doctor is not so common as the bad lawyer. The best way to reach the bad newspaper, the bad doctor or the bad lawyer is for the public to leave them alone. So long as the public supports them they will flourish, despite all the codes of ethics in the world.—Statesville Landmark.

Lexington.—The people of Lexington were shocked and saddened this morning to learn of the death of Mrs. Joel Hill, widow of the late Dr. Joel Hill, which occurred at Jamestown last night. The first report had it that she had been killed by burglars, and later it was reported that she had committed suicide. Dr. David J. Hill, her brother-in-law, went to Jamestown early this morning and telephoned to friends here at 10 o'clock that it was unmistakably a case of murder. Members of the family found early this morning that the home had been burglarized, and on entering Mrs. Hill's room she was found dead, her throat showing signs of strangulation. A blanket filled with silver was on the floor, as if the burglar had left it there in his fright.

Shelby.—Although it is rather remarkable for a victim of pellagra to get well, Mrs. Charles J. Houser, of this city, has practically recovered. She was this week removed to her home from the Shelby hospital, where she has been treated by Dr. R. C. Ellis. Mrs. Houser had a severe case. One month ago when she underwent treatment, she had an ulcerated mouth, raspberry tongue, red rings on her arms and an emaciated body. Now her skin is cleared up, she has regained her former strength. This is the only genuine case known to have been cured in this section.

"So Dr. Kivack couldn't save poor Dumley, after all."

"No, but then it wasn't the doctor's fault. He was treating Dumley for lung trouble."

"Well, and wasn't that what killed him?"

"Oh, not at all. It was his heart; it stopped beating, you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Knowledge Increases Efficiency.

With the proper organization of industry it seems to me that it must ever be so—certainly as far ahead as we can look into the future. When a machine is invented which enables one man to do the work it formerly required two men to do in producing some sheer necessity for mankind, an extra man is released or freed to serve mankind by the production of some comfort or luxury, or by ministering to the things of the mind and the spirit. And it is the duty or society and government, it may be said just here, to facilitate this result, to provide education and equality of opportunity so that each man will work where his efforts will mean most in human service. Knowledge or education not only cuts the shackles which chain a man down to a few occupations, not only sets him free to labor where he can work best; but it is also itself a productive agency; a tool with which a man may work better. Take the simple fact that cowpeas gather nitrogen from the air, a man may harness this scientific truth, use it and set it to work, and get results, profits, power, from it, as surely as from a harnessed horse or steam engine. And so with every other useful bit of knowledge under Heaven. Knowledge is power.—Clarence Poe, in Progressive Farmer.

When a man and a girl are engaged they have a sort of free license to act just as crazy as they can.
