

SENTIMENT AGAINST "OPEN SUNDAY"

Vote of Men's Prayer League Was Unanimous

GOOD SPEECHES ON THE SUBJECT

Request Sent to Board of Aldermen Not to Let Greenville Have "Open Sunday"—Proper Observance of God's Day The Safeguard of The Nation.

There was a large attendance at the meeting of the Men's Prayer League in the Christian church, Sunday afternoon, and much interest was shown in the discussion of the subject "Is The Open Sunday in Keeping With God's Law?"

The first speaker was Prof. H. E. Austin. He said there was not even a question against this subject, and no argument at all could be reverently raised against God's command. Divine purpose was shown that the Sabbath should be kept holy, and we should follow the commandment "Be ye separate and make of yourselves a great nation" was God's injunction to His chosen people. History records the downfall of nations that were disobedient to God's command. It has become more difficult to keep the Sabbath holy, because more temptations have come. This is largely due to the type of people coming into this country and the foreign ideas that they bring. We cannot afford to adopt the customs they bring, for the effect would be to check the growth in power of our nation and bring it to decay. The worship of money is the motive behind the clamor for an open Sunday. It is the desire to gain a few nickels that men are willing to stand at their counters and sell cold drinks, cigars, etc., on Sunday. Can we permit this in Greenville? The men of the Prayer League, and representatives of the Baracas and the churches have a duty to perform in preventing this. When he moved to Greenville a few years ago he was impressed with the general observance of the Sabbath, and he hoped to see this continued. Seven days of labor to the week means a loss of physical, mental moral health. We cannot afford to surrender the Christian Sabbath.

Mr. J. W. Bryan was the next speaker. He said when we take all matters that affect our life, whether these be civic or private, and measure them by the standard of God's law, we take the right step for guidance. The Sabbath is an old institution appointed by God for the good of men. It is for our well being and gives us the power of recuperation of the strength expended during a week of labor. The Sabbath and the home are closely allied. A community is made up of units, and society is no better than its several parts. We are no better than we are in our homes. Mr. Bryan referred to the conflict between Christ and the Pharisees over questions of Sabbath observance, and how Christ showed by example and teaching that certain things were permissible. He said we some times get too straight laced over things that are done on the Sabbath. Some things are for comfort and convenience. While he is a druggist and the nature of his calling takes him to his store on Sunday, he does not want to see all-day Sunday opening for business. Here he enumerated several things done on Sunday—keeping servants busy much of the day, housewives freezing ice cream and preparing big dinners, pleasure driving and automobilizing, telephone and telegraphic messages, open passenger station and mails, and asked do we regard these people as greater sinners than the rest of us? He also emphasized one evil the aldermen permit and go so far as to regulate by ordinance the section of the town given over to it.

Here President Wilson, in calling the next leader, said that if some evils do exist, what is our duty about opening the door and permitting others. Mayor F. M. Wooten was the next speaker, said he would answer that the question briefly: Our duty is to keep the Fourth Commandment, which says do our labor in six days and rest the seventh. It is as much our duty to labor six days as it is to rest one day. God made this law. Those to whom it was first given might not have seen its necessity nor caught its full meaning. We of this day are

SUGAR TRUST INVESTIGATION.

All In Readiness For Silver Wedding Anniversary at White House.

By Wire to The Reflector.

Washington, June 19.—Additional details of Henry Havemeyer's amalgamation of the sugar refinery were given the house committee investigating the sugar trust, by James Post, president of National Sugar Refinery Company.

The house voted to adjourn to avoid action on the Anderson pension bill increasing the pension list to $45,000,000.

The white house silver anniversary will be celebrated tonight. All plans are complete for the reception on the lawn. The skies are clear. Five thousand invitations were issued. Former President Roosevelt will not attend. The presents received will total $35,000 in value. The ball will be held in the east room.

more enlightened and see the necessity for and good of such a law. Nations have been punished and blotted out of existence for failure to keep God's law. He did not believe any of the commandments can be set aside—no person can violate either of them and be a true Christian. It is true there are some regrettable conditions in Greenville. Can we correct these? Yes. Can you or I as an individual correct them? No. It takes a unity of sentiment and action to do this.

After the talks by the leaders the meeting was opened to any who wished to add remarks. Ex-Governor T. J. Jarvis said that from childhood he had observed the Sabbath. While in the wayward days of youth he did many things that were sinful, he did not violate the Sabbath. There are certain acts that are overlooked on the Sabbath—such as are done through necessity, mercy or charity. Selling cold drinks and cigars on Sunday was for neither necessity, mercy or charity, but that the seller might put that many extra nickels in his pocket. He did not believe there was a druggist in Greenville who wanted to keep open on Sundays to carry on this business. If any do desire it, they have no more right to do so than has the grocers and dry goods dealers. There are certain things in the way of trains, mails, etc., over which we have no control (if I had the making of the law every wheel would stop at mid-night Saturday and not move until mid-night Sunday) but because there are some evils we cannot correct is no reason that we should open the doors and permit others that we can prevent.

Mr. G. E. Harris said we should go after one specific thing at the time and get it. If an expert fisherman has out three poles and gets a bite on all at the same time, he is going to let two alone until he is sure of landing one, and not lose all by trying to land all at the same time. That is what we want to do now—be specifically against the open Sunday in Greenville and see that we do the one thing now of not having that. Then we can take up other things, one at a time, and do them. While trains run on Sundays he does not ride on them and they would have to stop if nobody patronized them.

Mr. E. B. Ficklen, an alderman-elect, quoted James 4:17 and said he knew the law, and so far as he was concerned he was going to carry it out by being against the open Sunday.

Mr. C. W. Wilson spoke briefly in behalf of the children, urging that for their sakes and to give them a right example in Sabbath observance, Greenville should not have an open Sunday.

Then by unanimous vote without a dissenting voice, the Men's Prayer League adopted a motion that the president of the league convey to the board of aldermen of the town the request that they do not permit Greenville to have the open Sunday.

The league will meet next Sunday afternoon in the Baptist church. Subject for that day "Known by Their Fruits." Text, Matthew 7:12-20. Leaders, Messrs. J. S. Norman, J. A. Bland and W. H. Ragsdale.

WASHINGTON MAN ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

SLASHES THROAT WITH RAZOR

Momentarily Crazed By Grief Over Death of Fiancee.

Special to The Reflector:

Washington, N. C., June 19.—This town was engulfed in intense excitement and sorrow, about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when it was learned that Mr. Charlie Ricks, aged 23 years and son of Sheriff George E. Ricks, was found in his room at his home on East Second street, with a 4-inch gash in his throat that had been self-inflicted with a razor. Physicians were summoned and every thing possible done to save the life of the young man. He passed a fairly comfortable night, and today hopes are held out that he will recover.

It is supposed that the attempt of young Ricks to take his life was due to being momentarily crazed with grief over the death of a young lady to whom it is reported that he was engaged and would have married next fall. This young lady, Miss Zadah Watson, was on Friday night operated on for appendicitis at Fowle Memorial Hospital. Not satisfied with the results of the first operation, the surgeons operated again Saturday night. The young lady died at 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

THE SEASON AT WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

MUCH FISHING AND DANCING.

Big Excursion Coming From Atlanta Next Week.

Wrightsville Beach, N. C., June 19.—The Virginia Life Insurance Company is holding its annual outing at Wrightsville Beach, where they are registered at the Seashore Hotel. A delightful feature of this occasion was a large fishing party which was tendered them by the superintendent, Mr. B. T. Hopkins, on Friday morning when they went out in the "Virgie May" at 6:30 a. m., in charge of Captain Wells. The fishing was unusually good and added to the zest of the occasion. The catch of black fish was especially good, and the sportsmen spent a most interesting morning. About seventeen gentlemen composed the party.

Another fishing party which was greatly enjoyed took place Friday, when Messrs. J. F. Walker, Jas. Divine and Capt. Sadler went out to the Five Mile Rocks, in one of the staunch launches afforded at Wrightsville Beach. About an hour and a half was spent outside, in which time 45 blue fish, 8 trout, 12 mackerel, and many other fish were landed.

Dancing continues to be the chief delight of the young folks at the beach, and each evening many couples flock to Lumina, to enjoy the pleasures afforded them. Many hundreds come down from the city and practically all of the young folks at Wrightsville Beach to participate in the souvenir dances given by the Tidewater Power Company.

Friends of the beach are interested to learn that Miss Julie Owens, of Wilmington, will be among the guests entertained by Miss Laura Lee Cooney, in Atlanta, on the 22nd, at Piedmont Driving Club, during the Phi Mu National Convention. Her friends are glad to learn that she will return in a few weeks.

The excursion from Atlanta, which will occur on the 28th, is being anticipated with much pleasure by hundreds who will take advantage of the cheap rates to visit the beach, and every preparation is being made for the convenience and comfort of the visitors.

NEWS THAT IS OF INTEREST TO TAR HEELS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Told For The Reflector's Busy Readers.

Mr. G. A. McDaniel, of Rives Chapel, was here Saturday and he told us that he killed a chicken snake last week about five feet long, that was swollen out of proportion. He investigated and found a gourd within that his wife had used some time ago as a nest egg and which had disappeared with a nest full of eggs. She had no idea at that time what had become of her eggs, but now the secret is explained. No doubt the old snake was a regular visitor to the nests on Mr. McDaniel's farm, and now that it is killed, the hens can pursue the even tenor of their way undisturbed, conscious that their efforts will not be fruitless and wasted upon a mere snake.—Siler City Grit.

Waynesville.—Four convicts were killed, twelve seriously injured and fourteen convicts and three guards slightly injured Saturday in the collapse of a bull pen near Waynesville, N. C., in the heart of the Smokies, the only remaining mountain pass to the east. The convicts were all negroes, the property of the state of North Carolina, and were being worked in connection with the construction work of the transcontinental railroad.

J. D. Jenkins, for several years a merchant in Mt. Airy, took an overdose of laudanum Thursday and died from the effects of the drug yesterday morning. It is believed that the dose was taken with suicidal intent.

CUCKOOS.

Don't be a cuckoo. A cuckoo won't build its own nest but lays its eggs in other bird's nests and lets them do its hatching. The main point is that the cuckoo won't do any nest building for itself but depends on the other fellow while it gets the benefit. No people should expect others to build up their town and make it a manufacturing center while they contribute hot air only.—Wilmington Star.

In the same class are the business men who do no advertising themselves but wait for others to draw trade to the town and then they try to profit off of what the others have done. People ought to give their trade to those business men who ask for it and who by advertising do something to advance their community.

The government's $50,000,000 three per cent. Panama bonds being much over subscribed with more than three thousand bidders, gives an idea of the anxiety of people to get bonds when they are good ones. The willingness to invest money at three per cent. also negatives the cry going over the country that money is scarce. Such a cry emanates from the money sharks who are holding what they have to exact illegal interest.

In several sections of the state elections have been held recently on the question of issuing bonds to build good roads. In only one instance—Anson county—is it noted that the bonds were defeated. Greenville township in Pitt county is to vote on such a proposition some time this year, and we must join the line of progress by having good roads.

Greenville never felt the need of pay rolls more than now. Factories will make the pay rolls, but the factories are not coming until there is some co-operation on the part of business men and going after them. The town has enough men with money to secure manufacturing enterprises if they would put their capital together.

As will be seen by a notice elsewhere in this paper, the Chamber of Commerce is to hold an important meeting in the city hall Friday night. Some matters of great interest are to be presented, and there should be a large attendance at the meeting.

If the aviation disasters keep up, the countries can cut out war as a means of reducing population, and save pension payments at the same time. It is a dull day in aviation that the press dispatches fail to report fatalities.

If the board of aldermen of Greenville act on their equest of the Men's Prayer League—and that is what they should do—Greenville will not have open Sundays.

You can see some very small boys in Greenville puffing cigarettes. Somebody is selling these cigarettes to the boys, though they know it is against the law to do so.

What many people think of the coronation is not far different from the opinion of Andrew Carnegie.

Good Roads by Low Taxes.

It is no new thing in states where good roads were made long ago by the bond system for the bonds to be retired, and the roads maintained at no greater cost than it used to be for the maintenance of dirt roads, and in some instances it does not cost so much to maintain a good system than was the cost to maintain the dirt roads under the old system.

It has been demonstrated time and again that a county actually saves money by issuing bonds to improve its roads.

The mere mention of a bond issue makes cold chills run down the backs of most people. Ordinarily it does not pay to go in debt, but as a business proposition it does pay to go in debt for necessities, as every one knows who has had experience with the world. We realize that it is a difficult matter to conceive many people that the construction of goods roads do not necessarily entail any increase of taxes.

Take Christian county, Kentucky, for an example. It was not only recently that the county officers in that county went on record with the statement that taxes had not been increased by the issue of bonds for good roads. Simpson county, is another county in which the same is true, and Guilford, in our own State of North Carolina, is another instance where the same will be found to be true.

In this the question of the direct tax incurred by bad roads which the tax payers vote off when the bond issue is voted on, neither is the increase in values considered in the two counties in Kentucky cited, nor the gain in population and the comfort in living and traveling on good roads.

In the case of Guilford county in this state the evidence is so overwhelming that the slightest investigation will show the advantages of good roads.—Asheboro Courier.

The greatest resource of any country is agriculture. Take that away and there is no foundation for anything. Discrimination against the farmer is digging under the foundations of prosperity. In North Carolina, agriculture is the state's biggest asset, hence no other industry is so entitled to our fostering care. Cripple the farmer and it makes every other industry limp. The first thing to encourage and protect is agriculture and the next thing is something else.—Wilmington Star.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Greenville Citizens Show the Way

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the torturers of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ills can be cured. Read what a Greenville citizen says:—

Mrs. Fannie Moore, 214 Pitt St. Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel very grateful for the relief I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills which I obtained from John L. Wooten Drug Co. Backache annoyed me and there was much lameness and weakness through my loins. My kidneys did not do their work as they should and the kidney secretion bothered me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief from these symptoms of kidney complaint and improved my condition in every way."

YOUR GRAY HAIRS WILL QUICKLY VANISH

A Harmless Remedy, Made From Garden Sage, Restores Color to Gray Hair.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair, even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff, but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, Moye's Pharmacy.

Why The Gringo Is Hated.

We all know that our Mexican neighbors love us not. Some say that it is because our swashbucklers go over there and tell them what we'll do to 'em when wet get good and ready; others say that it is because there can not be a Mexican senorita, with an estate, that some adventurous American Adonis does not swoop down upon her and take her, acres, cattle and all. Others say that it is because even the most polished and cultivated Americans are boors in their eyes and do not know how to behave when they are away from home; but perhaps a more cogent reason, more recently suggested is that our big financiers go (or send) to Mexico, get fat concessions, suck the opportunity like an orange and go back up North to spend the proceeds without leaving behind anything more important than the dried and shriveled peel. Not a school is founded, hospital built, library established, or anything else done for the permanent development of Mexico or its people. In short, it is the American exploiter who, in making himself detested abroad, as he is coming to be at home, taints the fair name of the whole American citizenship. There may be something in that view.—California Outlook.

Roads and Mails.

Here is a pointer for those counties in this state that persist in having bad roads. The post office department is contemplating the withdrawal of rural free delivery from some sections of Jackson county, Missouri, in which Kansas City is situated, on account of the bad condition of the roads. It would hardly be supposed that the circulation of literature would be any inducement to the sort of people whose indifference and neglect made the infliction of the penalty necessary. But, for one reason or another, people who do not know enough to want and work for good roads like to receive their letters regularly; so the rural system has become an agent for highway improvement all over the country, especially where the roads are unusually bad.

It is known that in some sections of North Carolina a similar step has been under consideration; and unless the people wake up and improve the roads they will one of these days find themselves going back to the old system of getting mail only once or twice a week.—Greensboro News.

People Who Marry Frequently.

Nat Goodwin is suing his former wife for $250,000, which was transferred to her in a pre-nuptial engagement. This suit revives interest in Goodwin's marrying proclivities, and also recalls that Lew Dockstader once inquired of him:

"Nat, why don't you invite me to some of your weddings?"

Even better than this was DeWolf Hopper's query: "Why do people marry Lillian Russell?"—Daily Oklahoman.

The World Does Move.

They have cut off their queues in China land!
At last they are coming to understand that the way which is truly to be prized
Is the way enlightened and civilized. In time they will learn the other things
That makes a race of a billion kings. They will learn to dispense with their garments light
And wear suspenders and collars tight,
And drink hard stuff in their lemonade
When the weather is 90 m in the shade.
They will teach their ladies with patient care
To appear with bales of transplanted hair.
The hobble will presently replace Their garments of light and flowing grace.
Let's all take cheer, for the end is near
Of their barbarisms so quaint and queer.
In progress lend them a helping hand. They have cut off their queues in China land!

Vaccination Against Typhoid.

The Health Department of Baltimore has been instructed by the city council of that city to undertake an investigation of the matter of vaccination against typhoid fever and the advisability of its general adoption.

The move was suggested, as will be surmised by those who have been following such matters, by the remarkable results which have attended the use of typhoid vaccine in the United States army, especially among the troops now gathered along the Texas border. There only one case of typhoid fever has developed we are told, and it a mild one, some 18,000 officers and men having been vaccinated. The Baltimore Sun makes the statement that of 14,000 men in the United States army to whom the vaccine was administered in 1910, only six developed typhoid fever, none of whom died; whereas, among the soldiers not so vaccinated there were 418 cases of typhoid and 32 deaths.

A number of Baltimore physicians, while not advocating compulsory vaccination, think that it would be a wise move to arrange for general vaccination of those desiring to secure immunity in this way. It is stated that Mr. Stimson, secretary of war, has had himself vaccinated and that many of the physicians and nurses at Baltimore hospitals have done so also, none of them having developed the disease.

The use of typhoid vaccine is still in the experimental stage, but it is expected that its adoption will become general before a great while. Unlike vaccination against smallpox, the reaction, both local and general, is slight, and, while occasionally attended by some discomfort, lasting a few hours, is never dangerous.—Charleston News and Courier.

It was a long and bloody battle for life that was waged by James B. Mershon, of Newark, N. J., of which he writes: "I had lost much blood from lung hemorrhages, and was every weak and rundown. For eight months I was unable to work. Death seemed close on my heels, when I began, three weeks ago, to use Dr. King's New Discovery. But it has helped me greatly. It is doing all that you claim." "HOME, SWEET HOME."

How Song Was Written By American Exile in Paris.

*One of the features of alumni day at Union College was the dedication of the John Howard Payne memorial gate.

Mme Alma Gluck, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang the song with which Pany's fame is associated "Home, Sweet Home," so that the great crowd of people that filled the chapel were moved to tears.

Dr. George Alexander, of New York, presided and paid a tribute to the author of the famous song. Prof. George Pierce Baker, of Harvard University, delivered the address, and Thatcher T. P. Luquer, a grand-nephew of John Howard Pany, told how the words of "Home, Sweet Home" came to be written.

Pany was living in Paris at the time. Mr. Luquer said, and was acting as dramatic agent for Covent Garden Theatre. He was comfortably established in an apartment on the Palais Royale. Not many months before his fortune had been at low ebb, following a disastrous attempt at the atrical management in London, but he had extricated himself from his financial difficulties. He was preparing two plays and as so-called opera production at Covent Garden, and it happened that the theme of the opera was the longing for home of an unhappy exiled girl.

A song was needed for the heroine, Clari, to sing at her entrance to the first act, and to fill this requirement Payne wrote the verses which were to make him famous. He wrote undoubtedly under the stress of strong emotion and the words expressed his own heartfelt desire, for it was ten years since he had left his family and friends and during that time he had suffered many severe trials.

About a month later he forwarded the opera to Henry R. Bishop, the musical director of Covent Garden, suggesting an air for "Home, Sweet Home," which Bishop so admirably adapted that words and melody are inseparably associated.

"Clari" was produced on the 8th of May, 1823, and "Home, Sweet Home" as sung by the charming Ann Maria Tre was received with enthusiasm, its popularity increasing from day to day. Soon it had become one of the loved folk songs of the English speaking world.—Dispatch, to New York Sun.

Wicked Widows; Awful Orphans.

Whenever the Sugar Trust is caught stealing or engaged in one of its multifarious infamies, it resorts to the trick of trotting out the widows, orphans and clergymen, who are said to hold some of its tainted stock. It is an old dodge, but it has been somewhat overlooked. The New York Evening Post evidently thinks that, as the widows and orphans have the name, they should be allowed to participate in the game. It says:

The iniquitous widow and the depraved orphan have been absent for some time from the discussion of corporation ethics. They made their reappearance yesterday in the statement issued by the acting president of the American Sugar Refining Company. Mr. Atkins points out that among the stockholders of the company are: executors, guardians, churches, Christian organizations, banks, mortgage and investment companies, orphan asylums, hospitals, and others.

Long ago the answer was made that even the widow and the orphan are entitled only to an honest return on their investments, and if they insist on anything more they are in the same boat with the unbreathed transgressor of the law. But he pertinent question is whether the widow and the orphan really do insist on the largest possible dividends, no matter if dishonestly gotten. The matter might be put to a vote by the directors before they initiate the policy that brings on the attack which necessitates the bringing forth of the women and the children. Why could not a corporation send out a circular to all its women and trustee stockholders, saying: "It has been shown that by cheating the Custom House the dividends of the company can be increased one per cent per annum; do you approve of such a course?" or, "By buying out our competitors, shutting up their plants, and picking up a few legislatures on the way, we can double dividends; do you approve?" Then, and only then, could we really arrive at a true estimate of the Satanic influence exerted on American business by our widows and orphans.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Why Grape Cures Are Popular.
Genuine cream of tartar is the natural salt of the grape. It also contains much tartaric acid, and of all the fruits composed of these minerals they are the best to take into the system. They are always to be recommended for persons whose digestive organs are out of order. Grapes are a perfect conveyance for the introduction into the system of potash salts, and through their use wonderful results—not at all surprising to the learned—have been achieved in cases of illness. Both the water and sugar of the grapes are taken at once into the blood, requiring virtually no digestion. The kidneys, liver, intestines and other organs are cleared and strengthened by mineral elements of the fruit.—Detroit News

Stocks.
New York, June 19.—Strength was the chief feature of the opening of the stock market today. Gains were shown in all departments. Advances ranged up to 1 3-8 by the Southern Railway; U. S. Steel was a strong feature, advancing 1-2. The curb was active; American stocks in London were active.

Grain.
Chicago, June 19.—The grain opening was as follows:

The Bible in Two Versions.
The old version holds the ground not only by the familiarity of its phrases but by its wonderful charm. It is universally accepted as a literary masterpiece, as the noblest and most beautiful book in the world. The new version is more valuable, more accurate, more scholarly. But it avails not. It lacks the literary charm. The verdict of the people is "The old is better." Yet it is only fair to say that much of the changes objected to, and much of what is called defective style, comes from the scholarly desire to be very accurate. The Revised Version places the reader as far as an English version can do on a level with the reader of the original languages. A scrupulous attention to the force of the Greek article, the different tenses and verbs and the delicate shades of meaning in particles and prepositions, accounts for many of the minor changes. Then the revisers determined that the same Greek word must always be represented by the same English word, which is a loss in smoothness and beauty of diction, but a great gain in accuracy. For example, we have in the Authorized Version "comforter" and "advocate"—"eternal" and "everlasting"—"count" and "impute" and "reckon"—as respectively renderings of the same Greek word, while on the other hand, to take only one example, the word "ordain" is made to stand for ten different words in the original Greek. This makes smoother reading, but it is certainly not accurate scholarship.
On the whole we may assume that far into the twentieth century the Authorized Version will still remain the popular Bible. The version that is to supersede it will come some day but when it does it will have more than accurate scholarship. It will have in some degree at least the literary charm and beauty which for 300 years has brought the whole English world under the spell of the Bible—J. Patterson Smyth, in American Review of Reviews.

The Arab Plowman.
To see an Arab steering a yoke of oxen, one hand pressed upon the single stem of the plow and the other holding the long, slim goad, is to see a living illustration of how Elisha looked and moved when Elijah found him plowing and cast his cloak upon him in significant symbolism of his destiny. It has often been remarked that, while imperishable relics of Roman stonework abound in northern Africa in the form of bridges, aqueducts and so forth, the impress left on the people themselves by the greatest civilizing power that ever existed is extraordinarily slight. Only in some such insignificant details as the names of the months in the Kabyle dialect is the stamp of Rome still visible, and in the system of hiring labor in the Tell there survives a custom belonging to the early days of the Roman republic.—Wide World Magazine.

Ancient Spectacle Makers.
The ancient Guild of Spectacle Makers is numerically one of the strongest London companies. Its charter dates from the year 1629 and, though the exact date of its origin is lost, there is ample evidence that the calling of spectacle maker was extensively followed at a very early date. An old book of 1563 mentions the spectacle makers among other traders, and the biography of Carlo Zenzo, an illustrious Venetian, who died in 1418, mentions that even at the age of eighty-four he needed no artificial aids to his sight. So presumably spectacles were common in Italy five centuries ago.—London Telegraph.

Different Altogether.
Visitor (consolingly to Tommy, who has upset a bottle of ink on the new carpet)—Tut, my boy, there is no use crying over spilt milk.
Tommy—Course not. Any duffer knows that. All you've got to do is call in the cat and she'll lick it up. But this don't happen to be milk, an' mamma will do the lickin'.

A's Account to Settle.
The Lawyer—Madam, I find that your husband's will leaves you nothing but what the law compelled him to leave you. The Widow (angry and forgetful)—Just wait till I see him!

Professional Proposals.
The Doctor—May I attend you in health as in sickness?
The Lawyer—May I argue all your cases for you, none with you?
The Politician—I sincerely desire your personal indorsement of my campaign for your hand.—Judge.

The Poet Won.
"I understand Kipling is paid a dollar a word for his poetry," said the soulful poet to the hard-headed editor. "Now you don't pay me any such price for my poetry."
"I can hardly afford to pay you a dollar a word for your poetry," the editor said; "but I will pay you a dollar a line for a short poem."
The poet departed to return next day with the following poem:

- John
- Yeans,
- Jane

- Eyes
- Meet;
- Love
- Sweet;
- Jane
- Stops;
- John
