

FRED DIXON IS CAPTURED

Negro Who Wanted to Shoot Sheriff S. I. Dudley

SCOOPED BY POLICEMAN CLARK

As Usual, A Woman Leads Way To Capture—Criminals Don't Go Far From Their Paramours—Started To Swing Off Bridge, But Changed His Mind.

Fred Dixon, the negro who some weeks ago waylaid and shot another negro just as the latter was driving off the north end of the river bridge, and who told that he thought he was shooting at Sheriff S. I. Dudley, has been captured.

Policeman George A. Clark heard that Dixon was hiding in the low grounds across the bridge, and that a woman had been going out occasionally to spend the night with him. The officer rode out on his bicycle Thursday night, and also spent the night in the woods hunting for the negro. Just after daylight this morning, when some distance away, he saw a woman wearing a light dress come out of the woods on to the dam and turn toward the bridge. Officer Clark hurried in that direction, and when he got on the dam he saw the woman and Dixon walking across the bridge toward town. He came down on his wheel in pursuit and noiselessly rode up not far behind them before his presence was discovered.

Dixon turned around and saw the officer, and his first impulse seemed to be to jump off the bridge. The negro hurriedly climbed over the railing of the bridge and was swinging from the lower guard rail when Officer Clark reached the spot where he climbed over. The negro did not turn loose to take the drop to the ground below, the distance doubtless being enough to frighten him.

When Officer Clark spoke to Dixon the latter begged to be pulled back on the bridge, as he could not get up without assistance. The officer pulled him up all right and brought him on to the lock-up.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Important Meeting in City Hall Tonight.

At 8:30 o'clock tonight, in the city hall, there will be a meeting of the chamber of commerce that should be attended by every business man and every citizen interested in the progress of this section. Mr. B. E. Rice, industrial agent of the Norfolk Southern railroad, will address the meeting. He will present a plan, on which the Norfolk Southern railroad is now working, to attract settlers to this section, and the co-operation of the community is desired in this movement. There are many people, farmers especially, in the north and west, who want to come south, and this section will get its share of them if our advantages and possibilities are properly presented to them.

Some other important matters will also come up for consideration at the meeting tonight. It is your duty to be present.

TRADE REPORT.

Conditions Improved, But Crops Still Backward.

Richmond, Va., June 23.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say for Richmond and vicinity: Trade in some lines has improved since the drought was broken by general rains, however, crops are still reported backward. In this district dullness continues in the shoe and dry goods markets. Iron and metals are extremely dull. Drugs are active. Manufacturers of agricultural chemicals report early fall orders active and manufacturers in this line have had the best year in their history. Petersburg reports the 1910 crop of peanuts well used up, the stock now on hand demanding good prices. Retail trade is fair. Collections are slow.

Confederate Veterans Reunion at Wilmington August 2nd and 3rd—Automobile Owners Must Pay License by July 1st.—Fourth Annual Convention of Retail Merchants Association to be Held in Raleigh.

Charlotte.—For his refusal to divulge the names of the person or persons from which he has purchased liquor illegally in Charlotte, William Owens, formerly a member of the fire department of Charlotte, was sentenced by Desk Sergeant J. M. Scullion, yesterday afternoon to serve a sentence of ten days in jail. Owens was summoned to testify under the capias and testificandum proceedings. He was given two opportunities to answer Sergeant Scullion's question, but stoutly refused to "peach" on his friends. He is now in jail and as the sentence is for contempt of court there is no way to obtain his release except through means of a pardon.

Raleigh.—Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes states unless automobile owners renew their license tax by July 1, their license will be cancelled and a new license will only be secured upon the payment of $5. Not more than half of the automobile owners have yet sent in the $1 for renewal of license and there will likely be a great scramble within the next few days. It is stated that positively no grace will be allowed beyond June 30.

Wilmington.—The local veterans are making ready for the state reunion of the veterans which will be held in this city August 2 and 3. A general committee has been appointed to provide board and lodging places for the visitors at the reunion with Capt. W. P. Hendersonville.—With the election of officers, the selection of Raleigh as the next meeting place and the delivery of a fine address by Hon. James R. Young, state insurance commissioner, the ninth annual convention of the North Carolina Retail Merchants' Association adjourned at half past two o'clock this afternoon.

Raleigh.—A cattle tick case of interest to the department of agriculture was tried this week in Warren county court, when Judge Frank Carter fined W. A. Connell $201 and costs for violating the quarantine regulations. It was alleged that he carried cattle beyond the quarantine lines.

Raleigh.—Miss May Williams, a young woman of this city, died of pellagra at a local hospital tonight. She had been at the hospital about ten days, and her case had gone too far to be cured.

WANT PENNINGTON REMOVED.

As The Receiver of The Bank Of Tarboro.

The stockholders of the late Bank of Tarboro met here today and appointed a committee to appear before the corporation commission to protest against the appointment of Ed. Pennington as receiver, and to ask that he be removed and a receiver acceptable to the stockholders and depositors be appointed. This resolution was offered by Henry Clark Bridges, Dr. R. H. Speight and J. A. Davis constitute the committee, as near as can be gathered there is no objection to Mr. Pennington personally. Some do not relish the idea of his appointment without being consulted, and then others the concentration of the deposit in one bank. The resolution was not unanimous. Of the individuals present there was nearly an equal division.—Tarboro Southerner, 22nd.

THE GREAT MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA

OF WORLD WIDE SIGNIFICANCE

The English Are Strong Speakers—Southern Baptists Most Loyal.

Philadelphia, June 23, 1911.

Editor Reflector:

The Alliance is on in full swing now. The Spirit is in the air and all moves easily. The great task is strongly started. It is a missionary meeting to the heart.

Today we took up "The Christianizing of The World." This was presented, first, "In non-Christian Lands, an Open Door," by Dr. W. Y. Fullerton, of England. He did it well. These Englishmen, when they have anything to say, say it well and quit. Then "Co-operation in Foreign Fields" by Dr. R. J. Willingham, of Richmond, Va. This is one of the most vital matters at this time before us. To co-operate is not compromise, it is a task of great delicacy. It will require all the grace and statesmanship at our command.

At 11:30 a. m. the crowning event so far occurred; the sermon by Thos. Phillips, of London. His text, "The Lord Will Give Grace and Glory." Oh, such a sermon. Grace magnified and abounding.

These English preachers understand the truth and know how to present it. It is to be most deeply regretted that they do not practice as well as they preach it. The Alliance will have a salutary effect on them. There are no people so loyal to conviction as Southern Baptists. That is manifest everywhere.

The women held a great meeting of world wide significance this afternoon, and we are now about to begin our evening session. Will write of that tomorrow.

M. A. ADAMS.

J. O'Hagan and is following the footsteps of that renowned physician.

TRAINING SCHOOL SUMMER TERM

Shows Phenomenal Attendance Record This Term

THOROUGHNESS OF THE WORK DONE

Teachers From Various Schools Here—In Addition to Regular Courses They Have Benefit of Helpful Lectures—Greenville Homes Provide For Overflow of Dormitories.

This is the third week of the summer term of the East Carolina Teachers' Training school. From the very beginning there has been present all the teachers who could in any way be accommodated. Dormitories and recitation rooms are over crowded in addition to these the town of Greenville has come to the rescue of the school in taking a large number to room and board. Between seventy and one hundred are quartered in the town. This opening of the homes of the town to the students is greatly appreciated by the president of the institution. But for this, a still larger number would be denied the opportunity of being present. About one hundred and seventy, even with this extra accommodation, have been notified that they could not be taken. What a pity that these people who are seeking opportunities for improvements can not get them. We believe the state will soon make adequate accommodations for all who wish to come. Those here now who are boarding in town, are doing so with at least fifty per cent increase in cost.

The enrollment this week has reached between two hundred and seventy and three hundred and they are still seeking room and entering as best they can. Never in the history of the school have there been present as many as are here now.

The work being done at this summer term is such as to meet the demand of every teacher who comes. All the subjects required in the public schools of the state are being taught, and in addition, courses are being given in Primary Methods, Pedagogy, Latin, Algebra, Rhetoric, Drawing, School Management and Public Music. Every teacher is required to take a certain amount of work and to attend regularly every recitation; in fact, all the regulations which are enforced during the other terms of the school are enforced in this term. All instruction in every course is given to meet the needs of the teacher, both as to content matter and method, and is made so practical that they may see what they get in their respective schools. In addition to the regular work of the session, a course of lectures are had. These are given on each Monday night. They are so arranged that the regular work of the student body shall not be interfered with. Monday being the weekly holiday instead of Saturday, the work for Tuesday can be prepared and leave the evening of Monday available for attending a lecture.

The school consumed only one day in getting organized, being in full working order with regular schedules (Continued on page 2)

Dutch Railroads Need Protection.
In contrast with the history of Belgium, Germany, France and Austria, Holland alone of all European countries presents a situation where the railroads require protection from the competition of the canals. Holland thus reserves the general rules which apply in all other countries. Railroad development was remarkably slow in Holland. The first Dutch railroads were short local lines while the waterway system was extensive and strongly entrenched.

At length, convinced that she could not keep pace with other European countries by her waterway system alone, the Dutch government constructed an ambitious line of railroads connecting with the international lines of Europe. The railroads were built not with any expectation that they would be profitable as investments, but because they were considered absolutely necessary to save the country from industrial decadence. Holland is the only country in the world in which the state has provided both rail and water highways substantially free of capital charge. The railroads are now operated at a loss to supplement the waterways, which carry 90 per cent. of the traffic of Holland.—Hubert Bruce Fuller, in the American Review of Reviews.

Don't Know "Unkivered" Pie.
Bob Phillips, of the Greensboro Daily News, who poses as and, in fact, really is a connoisseur on things gastronomic, is shouting vigorously for "unkivered" pie, and he is creating quite a stir among such epicureans as Patton, of The Charlotte News, and that brazen fellow, Whichard, of The Greenville Reflector. Just what is meant by "unkivered" pie we would beg to plead ignorance, even at the risk of being dubbed a "pie faced mutt." However, if Bob Phillips is leading a reform meaning that "unkivered" pie is pastry that will show at a glance what there is in it, we are heart and stomach with Reformer Phillips. We've got an eye, a mouth, and, best of all, an appetite for pie, but we hate to sink our molars into pastry to find that the top and bottom crusts are merely stuck together by a thin coat of apple sass, or that the steam from stewed peaches has merely been allowed to waft its way between the covers. It may not always be as toothsome to do without the rich, top pastry, or the palate tickling meringue, that puts the finishing touches to the lemon pie, but if "unkivered" pie is necessary for one to feel certain that he is going to get the right kind and the essential amount of stuffing, why us for the "unkivered" kind every time, Brother Phillips. Yes, sah, every time, at the risk of being called a gormand.—Wilmington Dispatch.

The Absolute Zero.
What is the absolute zero of temperature? The zero of thermometers is purely conventional. The inventor of the centigrade simply took for zero the coldest temperature known in his day, while Fahrenheit had even less ground for his selection. Absolute zero is a point fixed by nature and may be arrived at in a variety of ways. All gases expand or contract equal amounts for every degree of heat. The amount is 1-273 of their volume for each degree centigrade. If, then, a gas is cooled down continuously, it must reach a point at which further contraction is impossible. If a gas loses 1-273 of its volume at each downward degree of centigrade, then in 273 degrees it would exhaust this power and become a solid. Hence (minus) 273 C is the absolute zero of temperature. This answers to 461 Fahrenheit. — Louisville Courier-Journal.

NO REASON FOR IT
When Greenville Citizens Show the Way

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the dangers of serious kidney ills when relief is so near at hand and the most positive proof given that these ills can be cured. Read what a Greenville citizen says:
Mrs. Fannie Moore, 214 Pitt St. Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel very grateful for the relief I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills which I obtained from John L. Wooten Drug Co. Backache annoyed me and there was much lameness and weakness through my loins. My kidneys did not do their work as they should and the kidney secretion bothered me. Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief from these symptoms of kidney complaint and improved my condition in every way."

SUMMER TERM TRAINING SCHOOL

on the second day. The personnel of the student body is very fine, probably fifty per cent better than last year, and the earnest, consecrated way in which they are doing their work is an inspiration not only to those who teach them, but to each student teacher. All types of schools in the state are represented from the one teacher rural school in the remotest parts of the counties to the best city school. The aim and purpose of the work of the school is to better fit and prepare those who attend to go to their respective schools next fall with a purpose and preparation to do much more efficient and intelligent service than they have ever done. High ideals of school life and school work are given each teacher, and a professional spirit of the highest and best type inculcated.

In addition to the work done in the regular courses named above is a special course given in school administration and supervision for city and county superintendents and high school principals. This course is given by Dr. Strayer, professor of educational administration, Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York City. There is today no man connected with educational work in the United States more thoroughly equipped both by nature, training and information to give such a course than is Dr. Strayer. He is thoroughly conversant with every theory and phase of education both in the past and present. Having given close and thorough research and profound thought to this phase of the work he is enabled with ease and force to direct his entire class to an intelligent conception of what real administration and supervision of schools is, and to the best methods to get the best and most lasting results from their supervision. The value of such a course as he is now giving here can never be estimated in dollars and cents. It can only be partially appreciated as we see coming from it better and more intelligent supervision resulting in some courses of study and proper direction and helpfulness in leading teachers to get the most out of the courses by the use of better and more natural methods.

Friday, June 30th, has been set apart by the authorities of the school as a day for the celebration of the anniversary of the breaking of the ground for the erection of the buildings of the school. This is to be made a history making day in the career of this institution. Governor W. W. Kitchin, Dr. Strayer, of Columbia University, and other distinguished educators will be present and deliver addresses. A cordial invitation to attend these exercises is extended to everybody and a great crowd is expected to come and hear these able and distinguished speakers.

We cannot close these brief notes of the great work that is being done at this term of this splendid institution without reference to this week's talk by Dr. Strayer, last Monday night, on "Teaching as a Profession." He said in part: Teaching is only beginning to be recognized as a profession. Formerly teaching was used merely as a stepping stone to some other calling. With the increased provision for free public education there is coming to be a better recognition of the importance of the teachers work and an increased demand for special training in preparation for teaching.

The professional teacher, as well as the members of other learned professions, must have received a liberal education as a basis for the later technical training. It is especially necessary for the teacher to have that breadth of training which characterizes the man or woman of culture, for it is her special office to transmit to children the spiritual possessions of the race whether scientific, literary, aesthetic, institutional or religious.

The special training of the teacher is no less important than the corresponding preparation for the other professions. A trained teacher must be acquainted with psychology, sociology and biology—the sciences which are fundamental in education. In addition, she must master the technique of teaching for each of the subjects of the curriculum. It is not enough to know the subject. She must know the arithmetic, geography or history as a possible method of normal, mental growth for children. In the training of teachers it is necessary that practice be given in adapting subjects to children as that the student be conversant with the subject. A training school for teachers without a practice school is as much an anomaly as a medical school without a hospital.

The teacher who belongs to the profession is actuated by ideals of service, both to the individual children entrusted to her care and to the June Grooms.

They don't amount
To much, I know,
The brides mono-
Polize the show;
But see the flowers,
They carry now,
The orange wreath
Upon the brow;
The carriages
In which they ride;
The rings with which
The knots are tied;
The scarfpins that
The ushers get;
The license fee,
And there is yet
The "ten spot" for
The parson, too;
The cabbies' tips
When all is through;
The shower bouquets
For bridesmaids fair;
The diamond sunburst
For her hair.
Yes, all of those
And more beside,
Are glories that,
The grooms provide.
They don't amount
To much, I know,
But lacking them
There be no show.

Travel Party.

A most novel and unique entertainment was the travel party given by Mrs. L. C. Skinner, Thursday afternoon, in honor of her sisters, Misses Lillian and Aileen Minor, of Oxford, and her sister-in-law, Miss Ethel Skinner.

The guests upon arrival and ascending the stairway to the depot, first beheld a placard "To Greenville 3,000 Miles." The train was already in waiting, and the passengers soon learned that on an express limited distance is annihilated.

At the ticket office the agent, Mrs. E. B. Ferguson, furnished tickets for first-class passage over the "L. and A. M. and E. S. Line," the letters being the initials of the young ladies in whose honor the entertainment was given. The ticket also designated the station from which each passenger started, the destination being Greenville.

Then boarding the train in charge of the conductor, Mrs. E. B. Ficklen, progressive "Travel" began, the stations enroute being Reno, Boston, Paris, Cairo, London, Egypt and New York.

Two rooms represented respectively a parlor car and a chair car, while the front balcony as an observation car completed the train.

The score cards were in suit case designs and as each passenger progressed in the game a sticker with the name of the station was pasted on her suit case.

Everything about the entertainment was suggestive of taking a journey on a train. The decorations were suit cases, umbrellas, hats and wraps about the aisles and racks, even the water cooler being in evidence. At intervals the newsboy passed through crying magazines, chewing gum, peanuts, candy and fruit.

At one of the stations the porter announced a stop of 20 minutes for lunch, and ice tea and sandwiches were served. The game was resumed and when the players reached Greenville the porter again announced "last call for dinner," and ice cream and cake were served.

The stickers on the score cards were counted to ascertain who had received the highest number, and it was found that Miss Leary had won the first prize. This was a suit case filled with assorted candies. The booby, a miniature suit case to which a time table was tied and filled with salted peanuts, went to Mrs. F. M. Wooten. The consolation was cut for and won by Miss Lizzinia Moore. This was an imitation trunk filled with confections and fruits. Each of the guests of honor also received a prize, a suit case filled with chocolates.

Master Charlie Skinner brought in the prizes on an express wagon and they were distributed amid much merriment.

The originality and suggestiveness of the party elicited much admiration from the guests and afforded them great pleasure.

ADRIAN GALLOWAY DEAD.

Operated On In Hospital For Appendicitis.

Mr. Adrian Galloway, 14-year-old son of Mr. Rufus Galloway, near Grimesland, died Thursday in a hospital at Washington. He was taken sick about a week ago, and when it was found that his trouble was appendicitis, he was carried to the hospital Wednesday and an operation was performed that evening. He never rallied after the operation.

The remains were brought to the home of his father and the interment took place today.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

People of Greenville Should Support It.

The ladies of the Round Table Club have generously donated the sum of $5 to the public library, also the books purchased during the year.

The library committee wish to thank these ladies for their timely aid, and assure them we will invest it as wisely as possible.

We wish you, (the public generally) would drop in at the library on any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday, from 5 to 7 p. m. and see what we are trying to do. We are sure you will then feel interested enough to lend your aid—if only to the amount of one year's subscription at $1 per year.

In Washington, our neighbor town, one hundred people have subscribed $5 per year to the maintenance of a library, besides larger sums from some individuals, and all the prominent men of the town are interested in the enterprise. We are sure Greenville people are not content to be less interested in what concerns our town.

We believe it only needs to be brought to your attention, and hope you will manifest your interest without delay.

THE LIBRARY COMMITTEE,
Mrs. W. A. Bowen, Librarian.

Missionary From India.

Illinois Water Survey.

A bill has just been signed by the Governor of Illinois adding to the duties of the State Water Survey an inspection of the water sheds of all of the municipal supplies of the State making such field studies and collecting such samples as are necessary; also "To analyze and test samples and to make any investigations to the end that a pure and adequate water supply for domestic and manufacturing purposes may be maintained in each municipality; to make sanitary analysis free of charge of samples of water from municipal water supplies or from private wells collected according to the direction of the State Water Survey; and to report the result of such examination to the Board of Health, Superintendent of Water Works, or other officer or officers of the water department of the city, village or incorporated town, or to citizens by whom the samples, respectively, were collected." The bill provides for an annual appropriation of $15,000 for the salaries of the assistants and employees and for the expenses of this work. The Survey is directed to publish an annual report and such special reports as may be necessary. The University of Illinois was practically constituted the State Water Survey when it was originally established, Professor Edward Bartow being the director of the survey.—Virginia-Pilot.

SUNDAY, FIRST DAY SABBATH, SEVENTH DAY

DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO

Takes Issue With Prayer League Speakers On Use Of Words.

Farmville, N. C., June 23, 1911.
Editor Reflector:

In your issue of 19th of June your first article is correctly headed. Sentiment against open Sunday and the resolutions adopted by the Men's Prayer League is commendable, but I respectfully suggest that a good and proper resolution may rightly be adopted, though the argument offered to sustain the resolutions may be based upon a faulty premise.

The first speaker in his opening sentences changed from Sunday to the Sabbath, two very different days, one the first day of the week, the other the last. Now, I am for keeping respectfully and rightfully the first or Lord's day. Wonder if the speaker wishes to keep holy the last day or the Jewish Sabbath?

The mayor seems to have turned Seventh Day Adventist, for he says our duty is to rest the seventh day. Does he really mean to stop the sale of cigars and soft drinks on the seventh day? Or does he not want the proper observance of the first day or Sunday.

The next speaker said that he had always observed the Sabbath, had never violated it. Well, he was mistaken, that is all. He has attended too many political meetings upon that day to have done any thing of the kind. He evidently has his days mixed. He was alluding to Sunday or the first day, not the seventh.

The only person in that meeting who seems to have had a correct idea of the proper use of words was a business man of no pretensions to learning, Mr. G. E. Harris. He stuck to Sunday and did not juggle with words. I am with Mr. Harris all the way.

It may seem to be presumptuous in me to call in question the proper use of words by our professors and other notable men, but I think it very necessary for such to use the language properly.

I offer the following why we should use Sundays, or when we mean the first day of the week. To all people Sunday means the first day, to very many Sabbath means the seventh.

2nd. No where in the New Testament is the command to keep the Sabbath day enjoined upon Gentile Christians. In the 18th chapter of Luke the Master names over the commandments and this one is not among them.

Paul, in all his exhortations to Christians, never once enjoined them to keep the seventh day. Nor does he ever commend one for having kept it. He does chide them for lying and stealing, oppression and nearly the whole category of sins, but never for not keeping the Sabbath. But he does exhort them to assemble together to worship God upon the first day of the week.

If Christians had been commanded by Christ to keep the Sabbath, they would have kept it, and we should not be keeping it after a fashion.

Betrothals in Germany.

In Germany an elaborate method of announcing the betrothal practically puts an end to all breach of promise cases. As soon as a couple become engaged the pair visit the town hall and declare their willingness to marry and sign, with witnesses, a series of documents which render a chance of mind on the man's part practically out of the question. When either party wishes to withdraw from this agreement the pair again visit the town hall and additional documents are formally signed, witnessed and sealed. The authorities then determine the question of compensation for injured feelings, etc.
