MORALITY IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Dr. Strayer Delights Everybody At the E. C. T. I. S.

MOST HELPFUL LECTURE DELIVERED

Every Teacher Present Benefitted—Intricate Subject Aply Put Forth—To be Moral Requires That One Shall Have an Interest And Sympathy in Common Good.

The period set apart for the devotional exercises at the Training school has always been so utilized by President Wright as to make them in truth exceedingly valuable to the school. No one save those who have had the privilege of regular attendance upon these exercises will ever know really how helpful and instructive they have been. Time and again questions of vital importance, both to the teacher and her work, have been presented to the school as to find a permanent and faithful lodgment in the minds and hearts of every thoughtful, earnest teacher present. It is possible that in the whole history of these vitalizing exercises none have ever been more timely, more suggestive, more thoughtful, and more truly helpful than on yesterday morning, when Dr. Strayer talked to the great crowd of teachers assembled in the auditorium on the question: "Moral Training in Public Schools."

We dare say that no audience in the short period of twenty minutes ever heard so important and intricate a question so clearly, so forcibly, and so delightfully presented. Dr. Strayer is absolute master of both thought and presentation of every phase of education with which he deals, and the impress he is leaving here upon every teacher, and this means all who are here with whom he has come in contact, means much to their lives and their work, and through these to thousands of children in the state. No true spirited teacher heard this talk yesterday morning who is not better fitted and prepared for real heart belief in the possibilities of moral training in the schools, and more fully realizes that her influence is to be the patent and significant factor in the inculcation of those things which produce real moral character.

In his brief discussion of this question Dr. Strayer asked, first: "What is Morality?" It consists in doing good, working for common welfare. Those who simply abstain from wrong doing do not count largely in the world. To be moral requires that one shall have an interest and sympathy in common good. Must have a knowledge of type of action that will result in the moral uplift of a community. For one to grow in morality it is necessary to form the habit of acting for others. He next discussed "How Shall we Train Children in Morality?" You must realize the instructive equipment with which the children are endowed, substitute for one type of action another based on the same instinct. For instance, a boy wants to fight. This is predominant with him. Tell him fight to overcome difficulties, fight for right. All great moral reformers have been fighters. Instinct for imitation causes children to imitate wrong. The same disposition may be directed to imitate good. Children generally imitate what they admire. Therefore the importance of ideals.

You cannot treat all children alike. They are different, and therefore they must be treated on different moral planes. For some, fear, for others, respect for authority, or faith in the one directing is effective. Desire for social approval will move some, others will reason in any situation to discover the moral significance of their action and act accordingly.

Lastly the school is one of the best opportunities for the inculcation of morality. This is not done by taking moral stories and emphasizing the moral they teach, but rather by utilizing the social situations in which children live, to secure moral action. The school may develop moral character by lessons of accuracy, openness, intellectual integrity, cooperation, and the development of self-control through class management.

TODAY'S EVENTS IN NATIONAL CAPITOL

HINES BEFORE COMMITTEE.

Mrs. Hines Is Attentive Listener To Story.

Washington, June 29.—Edward Hines, the lumber king, is the witness on stand in the Lorimer investigation today. It is reported that Governor Deneen will appear to deny the alleged conversation with Hines.

Edward Hines is the first witness before the Lorimer investigating committee. Mrs. Hines is an attentive listener. Hines was first examined by his counsel, William J. Haynes. He related the story of his rise in the business world from office boy to presidency of the Hines Lumber Company, of Chicago, which does the largest lumber business in the United States.

George H. Earle resumed testimony today before the sugar trust investigating committee. He said despite the fact that he had called attention of President Roosevelt and Attorney General Bonapart that the sugar trust had wrecked the Real Estate Trust Company, of Philadelphia, that neither of them would start prosecution.

Discussing Waterway Bill.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Springfield, Ill., June 29.—The Illinois lower house adjourned at 4:15 this morning in a riot of discussion over waterway bill.

The influence of the teacher is all-important in this matter. Water will rise no higher than its source, nor will children rise in morality above their teacher.

The above is but a meagre report of the many thoughtful and wise things said by Dr. Strayer in this, one of the best talks the school ever heard.

SUMMER AT WRIGHTSVILLE BEACH

FISHING CONTINUES POPULAR.

Social Season At Its Height—Guests Present.

Wrightsville Beach, N. C., June 29.—Fishing still continues to be the most popular sport at the beach, as is evidenced by the daily parties which go outside to enjoy the deep sea fishing. One which occurred yesterday and which reported a fine catch was composed of several gentlemen from Atlanta, who went out in the sharpie "Louise" from the Seashore Hotel, bringing back with them 255 beautiful blue fish. The gentlemen in the party were Messrs. Albert Thornton, A. B. Hammond, Charles H. Black and Dr. E. D. Richardson.

Mr. Edward Wooten, of Wilmington, and the Messrs. Roberson, two of the guests at the Seashore, went outside in the "Hornet" yesterday, and in a short while landed 120 bluefish, greatly enjoying the fine sport.

Yesterday the Inlet presented a very lively scene, when nine sharpies were there, the occupants of which were all busily engaged in the fine sport of trawling, looking for all the world like the original "Mosquito Fleet." Great care had to be exercised by the captains of these various boats to avoid running into each other, in the excitement of landing the members of the funny tribe. During the morning a stupendous catch was reported, the total amount being 2,600 blue fish. This was a record-breaker, and created considerable comment, even at this great fishing resort.

Dancing at Lumina continues to be the favorite amusement in the evenings and one of the most delightful dances of the season was the "Watch Dance," which took place on Monday evening last, all of the ladies being present with a souvenir of a sealed box, one of which contained a gold watch. A large crowd was in attendance, and the dance was one of the most unique ever given by this ingenious company.

Large crowds arrived on the beach today, when the Atlanta excursion, which will last for six days, arrived; in addition to which, a large excursion from Charlotte, the Pritchard Memorial excursion, which greatly augmented the crowd. Everything has been done for the comfort and convenience of the visitors, and doubtless their visits to Wrightsville Beach will be greatly enjoyed.

HAPPENINGS IN AND AROUND AYDEN

MR. JAKE FRIZZELLE TO WED.

Large Crowd From Greenville Attend Ball Game.

Ayden, N. C., June 29.—We had a fine game of base ball yesterday.

Mr. W. F. Hart and wife, of Morehead City, are visiting friends in Ayden.

A large crowd, about two car loads of people, came down from Greenville to witness the ball game Tuesday. Next time we shall expect Dr. Mc. G. Ernul, Messrs. Ben. Patrick and John Andrews to come and help root for Greenville.

Field peas are getting scarce, as our people are sowing more and more each year.

Corn and cotton is extremely fine in this section, while the tobacco crop is not worth talking about.

Mrs. J. Tedock Frizzelle and son, Jack, passed through here Tuesday enroute for Ocracoke, where Mr. Jake Frizzelle will wed, on Wednesday, Miss Virginia Dare Pittman, the accomplished daughter of Capt. Bob. Pittman, formerly of Grifton.

Mrs. Mary Dickinson is visiting relatives in Granville and Person county, also attended the celebration of the 24th of June at the Oxford Orphanage.

Quite a large delegation of Aydenites expect to hear Gov. Kitchin speak in Greenville Friday. Governor Kitchin is very popular with our Ayden people.

Mr. J. F. McLawhorn and family spent Wednesday in Ayden.

Messrs. R. W. Smith and W. F. Hart spent Thursday with Mr. E. E. Hardee in Greene county.

Mr. Marshall Tripp had his right hand badly cut in a machine that he was operating this morning, cutting off the ends of three of his fingers.

Our farmers should feel very grateful for their nice crops of corn and cotton, the largest for the time of year for several years. Our vicinity has had ideal seasons so far and a bountiful yield is expected.

Work has begun on the large dormitory on the Seminary lot which will be an ornament to Ayden and the pride of the Free Will Baptists.

Rev. M. A. Adams, pastor of the Baptist church, gave a brief report to his congregation Sunday afternoon of his trip to Philadelphia, where he had been attending the Baptist Alliance of the World. These meetings are held once in five years, the next one will be held at Berlin, Germany.

Colored Centenarian in Alexander.

Mr. Jake Lackey tells The Landmark about an aged colored man who lives in Miller's township, Alexander county, about a mile and a half from Stony Point. Berry McLelland is the name of this colored patriarch. He claims to be 118 years old and there is support for his claim. Mr. Lackey says his grandmother Lackey died about six years ago at the age of 92; that when she was a baby Berry McLelland was grown.

Notwithstanding his great age, Berry is quite spry; is able to get about and chop wood.—Statesville Landmark.

YOUNG MEN BROUGHT BACK FROM RALEIGH

BOTH CHARGED WITH LARCENY.

Skipped Board Bill, Also—Trial Before Mayor Friday Morning.

Tuesday night two young men boarding at Mrs. Lucy Rives' boarding house on Third street, took their departure without notice, for parts unknown, on the 3:13 a. m. Norfolk Southern train headed towards Raleigh, taking with them a watch belonging to one of the other boarders and leaving their board bill unpaid, both of which are state offenses. Immediately upon learning that they were gone next morning the matter was reported to the police, who began to wire for their arrest by police in other towns. In the afternoon the authorities here were notified that the men were being held in Raleigh, whereupon Policeman G. A. Clark went up and brought them both back here, arriving on the 9:40 N. S. train this morning, to face a serious charge. Following is a report taken from the News and Observer:

"This morning, Winston and Morgan Hill, the two young white men, brothers, who were held here by Chief of Police Stell on advice from the chief of police at Greenville, charging them with burglary and jumping their board bill, will be carried back to Greenville to await trial. The young men, who are of nice appearance, admit having jumped their board bill, but claim lack of money as the reason, and also declare themselves willing to settle the account. Both of them, however, deny having stolen a watch with which they are charged.

"It seems, according to their story, that, having gone to Greenville on last Thursday to work as carpenters on the new court house and jail, one of them was taken sick. After being unable to get the sick one in the hospital there, on account of lack of funds, they decided to come to Raleigh. With this in view, they borrowed a watch to prevent them from missing their train. This on departing they left on their bureau, and it is their theory that the owner of the watch, ignorant of this fact, hastily charged them with theft. However, this will be seen later, for the chief of police of Greenville arrived yesterday evening and will return this morning to Greenville with his prisoners."

At the time this is being written the whereabouts of the watch is unknown. Their trial will take place Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

FOURTH OF JULY BALL.

At Atlantic Hotel, Morehead is to be Held July 1st.

Morehead City, N. C., June 29.—Manager T. Alex Baxter, of the Atlantic Hotel, Morehead City, announced yesterday that the annual Fourth of July Ball Atlantic Hotel will be held on the night of July 1st and no pains will be spared to make this event the crowning social feature of the season.

The opening dance at the famous old hostelry is always looked forward to as the real opening of the vacation pleasures and the spacious hall room is always crowded to its fullest capacity. The music is of the best and a cooling ocean breeze continually fans the brows of the dancers.

The guests are not limited to any one section, but hail from every part of the south and particularly from Virginia and the Old North State, with a generous sprinkling of northern pleasure seekers.

For the ball this season Manager Baxter expects to have as his guests more men and women of state-wide prominence than ever before and the generous booking now assure him that his surmise will be fulfilled. Morehead City has always been popular and this season is expected to eclipse all former years in point of attendance and variety of social function.

Life at the hotel this year is teeming with interest and it is hard to find time for a dull moment. The weather is always pleasant there, out door sports are at their greatest popularity. During each day there are countless fishing parties, at night either sailing trips to the various islands and inlets and various other amusements about the big hotel extend every opportunity to the pleasure seeker "for a good old time at a good old place"

For July reservations the applicant must be early in making his request. Manager Baxter's slate is being rapidly filled. Those who were there last year are coming again and will bring their friends. A good time is looked for from the grand ball on July 1st to the grandest of them all—the mid-day ball on the glorious 4th, and the beautiful fancy dress ball at night. From nearby towns of New Bern, Washington, Kinston, Goldsboro, Wilson and Raleigh great crowds, as usual, are expected, most of them to join the merry throng of dancers and the others to listen to the splendid band of ten pieces.

Everybody interested in the welfare of Greenville and Pitt county should attend the mass meeting of citizens to organize a good roads association at the city hall July 4th. Let us have a good roads association second to none in the state. We can do it if we put behind the movement the Greenville spirit.

What's the matter with Maj. Hemphill, of the Times-Dispatch, Richmond. He doesn't even know that the North Carolina Press Association is in session. He speaks of the meeting in the future tense. Evidently he is not as close a reader of the Charlotte Observer as he used to be. Perhaps its because Virginia can't lay claim to North Carolina history like South Carolina does and he isn't interested in us since he moved.

A patriotic thing for all of Greenville to do Friday is to decorate profusely in the E. C. T. T. S. colors. There will be lots of visitors here and it will do lots of good, by showing that we appreciate the fact that we have such a fine institution in our midst. And, too, it would help to make the occasion one of the greatest ever in Greenville. The Training school is making every effort to celebrate the event of the third anniversary of the breaking of ground for the buildings fittingly and it is only a small part for us to do to decorate.

Wife Deserters and Wife Beaters.

Until with recent years it has been a rare thing in Virginia, or for that matter, in the South, to hear of a man deserting his wife and children, leaving to the wife the burden of supporting their common offspring. No adequate law for the prevention of this crime has been enacted in Virginia, but it is a crime of the first magnitude, and the severest penalty should be attached to the brute who may be guilty of it. The penalty of desertion from an army in time of war is death, but that is no greater crime than the desertion of husband and father. In the majority of such cases it will be found that the man is a drunken vagabond, who squanders his earnings in a saloon, at the card table or in association with depraved women and men. The husband at the bridal altar makes a vow to honor, protect and defend the woman who there links her life to his by an inseparable bond until death shall part them. Moral and civil law alike impose upon the husband that obligation. The man who would desert his wife and children regards the laws neither of God or man. Whatever duty he voluntarily abandons the law should compel him to perform. Desertion of wife and children should be declared by law to be a felony punished by confinement in the penitentiary at hard labor. Drs. Buchanan and Wiley, both connected with charitable work in the city of Richmond, have come in contact with so many cases of this character in that city, nearly 2,000 of them and both are urging the adoption of a law which will send the wife deserter to the penitentiary, compel him to work and have the state pay a good wage for the work done and send the same to his family, to aid in its support. If such a man refuses to work after being sent to state prison, then have a strong man to lash his bare back until he changes his mind. This is none too severe for such creatures.

For the wife beater no penalty is too heavy. A man who would beat his wife is apt to fail to support her, and he is the kind of man who after spending his money in drink, comes home with no supplies of food for the family, and because the poor wife cannot furnish a meal out of nothing proceeds to rain blows and curses upon her. Such a creature deserves not the name of a man. He is beneath the lowest brutes, the law should be inflicted upon his bare back, three blows for every one he has given his wife, and they should be given by a man of strength without mercy for the wretch. These crimes are fast becoming too frequent in the South and should be compelled to stop.—Roanoke (Va.) World.

Grimes and Watson at Battle Ground.

With Hon. C. B. Watson, of Winston-Salem, delivering the memorial addresses on Maj. Joseph M. Morehead and Col. J. Bryan Grimes presenting a reproduction of the only Revolutionary flag used in North Carolina known at this time, the annual Fourth of July celebration at Guilford Battleground next month will be an event of more than usual interest. The presentation of this flag will be made on behalf of the North Carolina Sons of the Revolution. Able men to entertain the crowd on these two matters could not have been secured.—Raleigh Evening Times.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place," is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grand parents used. The best preparation of this kind is Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Weyth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Moye's Pharmacy.

Worth Trying.

We are inclined to think well of Senator Simmons' proposition to levy a $10 tax upon each automobile doing an "interstate business," so to speak. Mr. Simmons estimates that this proposition will yield at least $1,000,000, which he thinks could be used to good advantage in improving the roads over which the rural free delivery service is operated. As a general rule, the manufacturers and owners of automobiles are—or soon become—ardent good-roads people. Their everyday experiences press home upon them the tremendous advantage following the improvement of the roads, and it is by no means exclusively a selfish interest which they manifest.

There are still some folks who honestly believe that the good roads agitation which is spreading so fast is principally a scheme of the automobile owners to lure the dollar out of the farmer's pocket for a use which will redound mainly to the benefit of the automobilists. If Senator Simmons' bill should become law without any opposition from the automobile interests another argument would be furnished the advocates of roads. The rural routes upon which this money would be expended are not as a general thing the ones selected by the interstate machines. The men who are paying the tax would be doing so to benefit localities in which their interest is but indirect. Thus the dyed-in-the-wool opponent of taxing the farmer "for the benefit of wealthy tourists" would be furnished most interesting subject for further meditation.—Charlotte Observer.

HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help."

I had almost lost my reason, but, thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical.

Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardui.

The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways.

Summer.

Blue skies, and a singing bird,
In the maples overhead,
Young leaves, by the breezes stirred,
And blossoms white and red,
The drone of the busy bee
And the hum of an insect band,
And our dreams, and you and me,
And summer over the land.

Green fields, fenced in from the street,
The sunshine fell in their face
Young cattle with eager feet
And horses that rear and race,
Sweet bloom of the wild rose tree
In reach of an eager hand,
And our hopes, and you and me
And Summer over the land.

A brooklet that sings away
To the ocean's waiting breast,
And minnows that leap and play
Where the alder shadows rest,
God's peace upon stream and lea
And blossoms by soft winds fanned,
And our love, and you and me,
And Summer over the land.

First Social Meeting With Mrs. Forbes.

The Philathea class of the Methodist Sunday school held its first social meeting Monday evening at the home of Mrs. C. J. Forbes, which was beautifully lighted, and also provided with electric fans, making one unconscious of a temperature of ninety degrees.

At the appointed hour members of the class and invited guests began to arrive and were welcomed by teachers and officers as they entered the front veranda; then the committee on entertainment, of which Mrs. Quinerly was chairman, took them in charge and soon this happy assembly, consisting of pastor, superintendent, teachers, pupils and visitors were seated at various tables and we learned that games may serve a good purpose, for this game of "Hearts" is unique in the one purpose of causing everybody to meet everybody else.

Delicious refreshments were served during the evening, and we continued to enjoy this social occasion until the hour of eleven, when we took leave of our hostess, feeling grateful to her for the kind hospitality awarded to our class.

Six Things To Do.

- Remember that a mother should know, not guess.
- The milk for the baby should have your first care. Just one feeding of impure milk may be sufficient to bring on an attack of diarrhea or other grave symptoms.
- When babies are teething rub their gums with cold water. It will often prove a great relief.
- Begin early teaching the baby regular habits. Two or three months old is not too young—a certain time for the bath, after the bath, the food, then a nap.
- Arrange a separate bed for the baby. It should be placed, when in use, in a spot protected from excessive light and strong drafts.
- Keep in mind that it is not enough to love our babies. We must love understandingly.—Raleigh (N. C.) Progressive Farmer.

Amend the Pure Food Law.

The vigorous plea of President Taft for an amendment to the Pure Food Law calls for and should have immediate action by congress. Concerning this important matter the New York Evening Post says:

A recent decision by the Supreme Court unfortunately throws open the door to one of the most notorious classes of evils against which the law of 1906, and the twenty years' agitation that preceded it were directed. Thus the law compels the vendor of a patent medicine to print the chemical constituents of his specific, but having done that, there is nothing to prevent him from printing also the claim that the remedy in question will cure diseases that are known to be incurable. In other words, the way still lies open to the miracle cures with which the advertising columns of the newspapers and the periodicals were formerly flooded. A law like the Pure Food Law of 1906 should not be the end of a long campaign, but the beginning. It must be made the basis for a whole body of legislation that shall deal with evils as they arise.

It may be necessary at times, as in the present instance, to protect the consumer against himself. Quacks and lying vendors of worthless nostrums have always existed, but the properly amended Pure Food Law will have a strong tendency to discourage them. Men who live on the misfortunes of their fellows should have no place in modern civilization.—Virginia-Pilot.

Lawyer's Children Now Own the Land

We happen to know of a fine tract of land in Lee county concerning the title to which two men went to law many years ago. That suit was kept on the docket of the Superior court of Moore county for 25 or 30 years—so long, in fact, that both parties died, and the land, instead of being in possession of the rightful heirs, is now owned by the children of a once prominent attorney. How much better would it have been for all concerned had they submitted the settlement of their dispute to arbitration.—Sanford Express.

HIS NECK BROKEN.

Young Physician of Kinston Survives Operation at Richmond.

Richmond, June 27.—Dr. Thomas Graham Faulkner, who accidentally broke his neck several months ago while bathing in a stream near Dover, N. C., where he was a resident physician for the Goldsboro Lumber Company, left the Virginia hospital today for his home at Kinston, N. C., feeling in fine spirits, though still paralyzed from shoulder to tip of toes.

He was carried on a stretcher, accompanied by Dr. T. H. Faulkner, of Kinston, his father, J. B. Faulkner, of Richmond, his uncle, and Miss Etamae Newton, of Wallace, Va., trained nurse, who has been constant in attendance at the hospital bedside ever since the young physician was brought to Richmond in the early spring.

According to Mrs. J. B. Faulkner, Miss Newton and the young physician are engaged to be married, the two having met and fallen in love while Dr. Faulkner was interne at the Virginia hospital last year following his graduation from the University College of Medicine. Miss Newton will continue to nurse the physician at his home.

Doctors say that while he may linger for some time he can hardly recover. He is in full possession of his senses and uses his arm freely. The operation was performed on the fractured vertebrae soon after the accident and is said to have been highly satisfactory.

DUST TO DUST.

How Everything Crumbles Away as the Years Go By.

As dust was the beginning, so shall it be the end of all things earthly. It is the comic undertaker of the ages, and silently, resistlessly, and eternally is has performed its function. The proudest monument built by man, the Sphinx, the Pyramids, the Colossus of Rhodes, the Gardens of Babylon, and the glories of Grecian art, have either crumbled to the dust whence they sprang or have been buried deep in its winding sheet. No one knows how many Londons at Jerusalem there have been. Excavations into the dust on which these cities are built reveal the relics and remains of former cities which once flourished and were the course of untold centuries by the gradual but immense deposits of dust and debris.

The mighty Himalayas are slowly crumbling into dust and the lofty peaks of the Andes are splintering, fragment by fragment, until they, too, shall become clouds of the valley. Every wind that blows "soft o'er Ceylon's Isle" carries away in tiny dust particles some of its beautiful hills and vales. Every brooklet trickling down the rugged mountain side bears part of a continent to the sea. In 3,500 years the Mississippi cuts down its entire basin one foot. When we stop to consider what the other great rivers of the globe are doing, such as the Nile, the Yangtze-kiang, the Yukon and the Danubs, we can appreciate in some measure the everlasting waste that is eating away great continents, and foresee the inevitable supremacy of the Kingdom of Dust.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Will Be Ultimately Helpful.

"The cotton mills of the country, and particularly of the South, are in better shape financially than they have been in ten years." This statement coming from a prominent New York commission man, who is also personally interested in a number of Southern mills, is worthy of consideration. It was this authority's further opinion that periods of depression are at times beneficial to every industry and that the experiences through which the cotton manufacturing industry has passed and is passing are but a means to an end. These experiences have been bitter to many and to certain the end is not discernable. But the reorganizations which have occurred, the introduction of new capital, the change of management and other details have worked out in very many instances a more stable situation with the elimination of many of the objectionable and speculative features. All this presages a more healthy basis for the future.—Textile Manufacturers' Journal.

NORFOLK SOUTHERN RAILROAD

To Exhibit Products of Eastern North Carolina at Great Land Shows.

Norfolk, Va., June 29.—Knowing that the soils and climate of East North Carolina are unequalled in the United States in the way of farming possibilities, the Norfolk Southern Railroad is planning for a broad advertising campaign in the way of exhibitions at the big land shows of the country this fall. The success attained, and the wide-spread interest that resulted from the exhibits made by the Norfolk Southern at the Cincinnati exposition and the Pittsburg Land Show in 1910, have prompted a still broader campaign for 1911.

The collection of Carolina coast country products that was secured by the Norfolk Southern, for the last season, was only hurried ones. The selection of samples were promiscuously taken as they could be found in an emergency for the Ohio Valley exposition, which was held in Cincinnati in September. In a small measure this exhibit was overstocked for another display at the great land show held at Pittsburg in October. At both Cincinnati and Pittsburg the Norfolk Southern's exhibit of Eastern Carolina products out-classed the display from other states and gave to Eastern North Carolina a new reputation and awakened a sudden interest in the rich soils and possibilities of the coast country. Following these successes plans are already under way by the land and industrial department of the Norfolk Southern to make a very attractive exhibit of farm products at the New York Land show, to be held in November of this year, and also to again enter the contest among the numerous railroads who will make exhibitions at the second big land show, to be held at Pittsburg next October.

The land show at New York will be held in Madison Square Garden, and the Norfolk Southern has already contracted for a large amount of exhibit space at this show. Floor space at the Madison Square Garden show is very expensive, $2.00 per square foot for the two weeks the exhibit will be open. Although it will cost the railroad company hundreds of dollars to install and make this exhibit at the New York show, nevertheless they have sufficient confidence in the worth of the Carolina coast country to justify the cost necessary to show the people of other states the great productive possibilities and natural advantages that pertain to Eastern North Carolina lands.

Now that the Norfolk Southern has arranged to make this exhibit it is up to the people in the home territory to assist in producing and securing such high grade products as will enable the land department of the railroad to place an exhibit which shall stand head and shoulders over any display that can be assembled there by other railroads or land companies. Is it at the especial request of the railroad company that all friends and farmers in Norfolk Southern territory set about the producing and assembling of creditable exhibits. Vegetables, grasses, grain, corn and cotton, both in the growing plant and in the seed, should be selected and preserved by growers and placed at the disposal of the railroad people. Eastern North Carolina should be able to show mammoth corn, both in the stalk and in the ear; great cotton plants, the tallest and strongest that could be found in the country; tall samples of grass, oats, wheat and rye; potatoes and vegetables of all kinds; apples, peaches, grapes and all kinds of fruits. These and many other farm products that can be thought of, should be produced by Eastern North Carolina farmers during this growing season and reported to the land and industrial department of the Norfolk Southern Railroad, at Norfolk, Va.

Arrangements will be made for the assembling and caring for of all these products, and as the resultant to be derived from these exhibits falls jointly to the people of our community, then let all the people help. A large and interesting collection of soil samples will also be assembled and made a prominent part of the exhibit. Records of rainfall, temperature and all climatic conditions will be prominently displayed before the thousands of visitors from other states who attend these land shows.

Surely this is the time and opportunity for all farmers of the Carolina coast country to get together and help create the most valuable display of our farm products that was ever placed before an inquiring public.

All who can find it possible to assist in furnishing exhibits should write to the Land and Industrial Department, or to W. W. Croxton, general passenger agent of the Norfolk Southern Railroad, Norfolk, Va.

Booze Shipped by Express.

Approximately 20,000,000 gallons of liquors are annually shipped by express, principally from mail order houses direct to the consumer in prohibition states. This fact was developed in an inquiry before the interstate commerce commission into proposed changes in express classification, resulting in advanced rates on packages containing liquors. The commission held the express requirement that liquor containers should be packed in corrugated paper cartons was reasonable, but the change for transportation based upon arbitrary weight of 18 pounds for a gallon of whiskey packed, was unreasonable and that discrimination against stone jugs was also unreasonable.—Statesville Landmark.

Justice in Practice.

A few years ago it was discovered that the city of San Francisco was being plundered by a most startling combination of political and business interests. Among others, Eugene Schmitz, the mayor of San Francisco, was convicted of the graft and blackmail which made the name of the city a byword in the land. After the law had for years been tortured by various appeals and all the wits known to ingenious intellects, the judgment of the lower court convicting Schmitz was finally reversed by the Supreme court of California, mainly because the indictment upon which he had been tried failed to allege at the time he was charged with the corruption and malfeasance he was mayor of San Francisco, a thing which every newsboy and bootblack in the city knew, and of which the courts should have taken notice.—H. B. Fuller, in World's BATTLES WITH LOCUSTS.

In 1780 an Army Was Arrayed Against the Ravaging Pests.

Since the days of the pharaohs the locust has been an unmitigated plague. Pliny relates that in many places in Greece a law obliged the inhabitants to wage war against the insects three times a year—i. e., in their various states of egg, larvae and adult.

In 1749 locusts stopped the army of Charles XII., king of Sweden, as it was retreating from Bessarabia after its defeat at Poltava. The king at first imagined that he was being assailed by a terrific hailstorm.

In Transylvania in 1780 the ravages of the locusts assumed such disastrous proportions that the army had actually to be called out to deal with the pests, and whole regiments of soldiers were employed gathering them up and putting them into sacks.

A weird, uncanny looking customer is the locust. The general color scheme of his body is a kind of indefinite green, relieved by pink legs and wings of a whitish color. Two huge, blank, unmeaning eyes give an expression of utter imbecility to the insect's countenance.

To atone in a measure for their destructive proclivities the locusts are edible. The Arabs are particularly fond of them. Camels, to which they are given after being dried and roasted between two layers of ashes, look upon locusts as great delicacies.

The flavor resembles that of crabs, and in Bagdad they are consumed so extensively as to affect the price of meat.—Stray Stories.

KEEPING TAP ON THE CROPS

The Way the Agricultural Department Gets Its Information.

The details of the comprehensive system employed by the department of agriculture in gathering the crop information from all over the country are interesting. There are 30,000 township correspondents scattered all over the Union, whose duty it is to go carefully over the territory and submit each month concrete information as to the condition of all kinds of crops. In addition to this branch, 3,000 "county correspondents" send in separate reports from those of the township men. A state agent makes a further report direct from his agents, and an organization in direct communication with the department, comprising seventeen traveling "field agents," go about the country and make separate reports for groups of states. Special cotton correspondents are also employed to furnish accurate information concerning the cotton yield. Five different reports are sent to Washington each month by five different sets of correspondents. This safeguards the government crop reports for accuracy in local crop reports and keeps the great crop account and cost estimates for the millions of American farmers. These records are sent to the agricultural department. Officials of the bureau of statistics and a board go over all the five reports from five distinct groups of correspondents, and from all the figures a crop report estimate is distributed to 70,000 post-offices throughout the country every month.—National Magazine.

Modern Steamships.

Inasmuch as the giant ocean steamer is a proved success, there is no apparent limit to the length or tonnage which we may see in the course of the next few years. But popular enthusiasm for big ships has grown somewhat satiated. It is only a question now of adding seventy-five or a hundred feet and a couple of decks. It is different with pace. The Mauretania and her sister ship hold the imagination because of their speed and only secondarily because of their size. The piling on of decks means only the transformation of a ship into a hotel. No matter how many decks are reared, there can be only one uppermost deck, fully exposed to the sun. The amount of open air playing space is not proportionately what it used to be on the older steamers. The pleasures of the interior. The palm room and the Turkish bath have replaced horse billiards and quoits. As for the graceful structural lines that justified the name of ocean greyhound, they are rapidly disappearing and will soon be gone.—New York Evening Post.

Mayor Cuts Own Salary.

Taxation affairs, which have caused no end of discussion in Ohio city government for the last few months, owing to the passage of the Smith 1 per cent. tax law, have come to a climax in Springfield with the announcement by Mayor C. J. Bowlius that he has cut his salary almost in half in order to have this city proceed with the many public improvements planned here. Mayor Bowlius has been receiving $2,500 a year, but now announces that he has decided that $1,500 will be enough for him to live on. He also makes the statement that he does not expect to be the only official here who will chop his salary. This announcement has caused an alarm among the county officials, all of whom say they will not cut their salaries even though the mayor should choose to cut his out altogether. Mayor Bowlius has called a meeting at which this question will be talked over in plain words. He says the officials must cut their salaries at least one-third.—Municipal Journal.

Urbanizing the Country.

Delegates who had made a careful study of conditions asserted, at the recent meeting of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections, that the wild rush of girls and boys from the farms to the cities was caused largely by the desire for amusement. They found life on the farm dull by its loneliness, and flocked to the cities like moths to the light. Mrs. Belle Israels suggested that the country schoolhouses be made the centers around which the life of the rural community would revolve. This has been done in some sections, and with marked success. Improvement in school buildings and in instruction has been followed by a much greater interest of parent and children in the schools. As the old log or ramshackle board cabins have given place to modern buildings well equipped, new life has been put into communities that were declining, and there has been less disposition of the young people to leave the farm. With good schools, good roads, telephones, telegraphs, daily mails and letters, with the agricultural clubs and the automobile, the dwellers in the country districts no longer suffer from the isolation that was so trying to women and ambitious girls and boys.—The Baltimore Sun.
