GETS BACK TO THE SCHOOL ROOM

PAYS EULOGY TO HIS DEAD DOG

School Keeper Cuts Short The Flow of Eloquence.

Hanrahan, N. C., July 5.—In my last "big playtime" had come to a close and books were called. With sad hearts we had to respond to that authoritative call. So here he went helter-skelter, each one trying to make the most racket. Our tyrannical school keeper had fully settled down to his day's task. I had been planning (and marshaling my forces, consisting of the small boys and girls), for something that I deemed more entertaining than spending that long afternoon in looking at the few pictures in that old blue-back speller. That faithful old servant of God, the circuit rider they called him in those days (he is called now the pastor in charge), who got around one Sunday in about four months, had preached the day before, Sunday, at our nearest church, five miles away. Papa and mother went and carried us children, Mrs. Meadows and her two children. The preacher gave a long discourse (long sermons were the standard by which talent was measured in those days) on the life and labors of Mr. Meadows, the one that the tree killed. He had told of his love for country, his devotion to home and family, of his tragic, untimely death. He told in loud and thrilling tones of the pitiable condition of his widow and two helpless children left in this cold world without an earthly pilot to steer their barque over life's troublesome sea, no star of hope from which to get their bearings, no light house on the craggy rocks nor beacons of friends nor loved ones standing along the shore. All seemed darkness, gloom, yea, even despair, for besides the loss of husband and father it was war times, and the looming of the cannon could be heard from off Fort Fisher.

But with all its gloom and sadness, my young heart and soul had caught on fire with inspiration and I determined at some future day to reproduce in my own words a part, at least, of this sermon as a eulogy to my murdered dog, for then I thought that dog almost, if not quite, equal to any man, and vastly superior to many men, his slayer, for instance. But I had not the slightest idea that the yearned-for time and place would so soon present itself, but opportunities come only to those who use them, a lesson that my oldest sister had taught me, though I was young. So on entering that old cabin the small boys and girls at my pre-planned signal, each and all huddled in a space arranged behind the door, as I had hoped would cut off from view of that old man. Soon he had called up the large boys and girls to "say" their reading lesson. This was the time of my opportunity. So I mounted one of those sharp edged benches and began my discourse in real earnest. My subject was "The faithfulness of a true dog to his master." I had told of his noble qualities, of his sleek black hair, his charming beauty, of his never unguarded faithfulness, especially to his young master. I was about to reach the climax as I then thought a powerful, oratorical display, of eloquence and pathos. I was telling with indignant feeling of the tragic death of that faithful companion and playmate of mine, and saw in reality, or imaginary, tears of sympathy rolling down the cheeks of my attentive listeners, when I felt a severe rap across my back which was repeated for several times in quick succession. As soon as my lacrimal glands would secrete I began crying. "What are you doing here?" he yelled out, "I'll learn you how to quit your books and lead this whole gang of children off with you. I'll teach you how to ridicule your school master when you think you are hid behind the door, you impudent little ape."

By this time he had slackened his licks and I had the rejoinder. So I said "I was only paying a eulogy to the life and character of my dog that you deliberately, without any cause, killed, and if for that you are treating me in this style, I shan't come back here any more, for I don't like you any way." He saw that I would die before I would be driven, so he sauntered back to his seat after making my hearers face towards his cabin.

The remainder of that afternoon wore drearily away until 7 o'clock,

Mr. W. L. Vaughan has been re-elected superintendent of education for Beaufort county.

then he let us out to go home. I told papa that if he would not send me back there, that I would not worry him with my many questions, and that I would daily sit at the feet of my oldest sister and drink in her sweet counsel, and even try to learn of wisdoms ways. So he let me stay home.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM SCOTLAND NECK

CHURCH BUYS LOT PARSONAGE.

Woman Found Dead In Bed—Dry Weather, But Good Crops.

Scotland Neck, N. C., July 4.—Well, Mr. Editor, as this is the fourth of July, will try to write you a few squibs.

We are having it very dry here, though we have a light shower occasionally, and cotton and corn in this section are doing well and are very fine. Gardens are suffering for moisture.

The Baptist church here has purchased a two thousand dollar lot and is arranging to build a handsome parsonage on it. It is on Church street. Rev. O. L. Powers, pastor of the Baptist church, after being away for a few weeks, is home again and filled his pulpit Sunday morning and night. He goes to Robersonville this week to assist in a meeting.

The work of the graded school building is progressing very rapidly.

The relatives and friends of Mrs. Walter Marks were greatly shocked here Sunday evening when they learned that she was found dead in bed that morning at her home in Jamesville. There was no one in the house that was living except her nine months old baby. Don't know what time of day she was found. We think it was the saddest case we ever heard of. She was well Saturday night as usual and Mr. Marks was up very early Sunday morning and was going on an excursion, and thinking to let his wife rest, did not disturb her, supposing she was well. You may be sure it was a great shock to him when he learned that she was a corpse. Her remains were brought here Monday morning and buried in the Scotland Neck cemetery. The burial services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Powers.

There was a large crowd of Scotland Neckties went off this morning four or five miles to somebody's mill pond picknicking. There were five or six wagons loaded down and we are not going to tell how many bugles, carts, carriages and automobiles, but enough to fill the road a considerable distance. I told them that I hoped it would rain before they got back, but there is not much indications for it now at three o'clock. It is so hot I'll have to stop.

BELIEVED ATTEMPT TO SHOOT THE PRESIDENT

SPENT BULLET STRIKES A LADY.

Police Hunting The Men Who Fired The Shot.

Tuesday being the Fourth of July and a holiday, caused some of The Reflector's telegraphic news to come late after the paper for the day had been printed. One of the dispatches, even if a day late, is of sufficient interest to be given today:

Indianapolis, July 4.—While seated in the reviewing stand from which President Taft was to witness the parade, Mrs. Henry Tutweller, wife of the chairman of the committee on arrangements, was struck by a spent bullet. This occurred shortly before the president's arrival on the stand. Police are unable to find where the shot was fired from, though they are hunting for two men who are believed to have plotted to kill the president.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE IN SESSION

MEETING IS WELL ATTENDED.

Prominent Sunday School Workers Deliver Interesting Lectures.

The Sunday School Institute for this district, held under the direction of the North Carolina Baptist Convention, began here this morning in Memorial Baptist church, to continue for three days. About thirty people from a distance were present at the opening, and those with the town people made a good attendance.

The devotional exercises this morning were conducted by Dr. I. M. Mercer, of Rocky Mount. Then after some announcements by Mr. E. L. Middleton as to the purpose of the institute, the regular program for the day was taken up.

The lectures by Mr. Middleton, Dr. Brewer and Dr. Cullom were excellent and received the closest attention. These are especially helpful to Sunday school workers, and of much interest to others. All who can do so should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing these distinguished speakers.

The program for tomorrow is as follows:

- 9:00 a. m.—Devotional.
- 9:15 a. m.—Studies in the Life of Christ.—W. R. Cullom.
- 10:00 a. m.—The Elementary Departments.—E. L. Middleton.
- 10:45 a. m.—Why Train Teachers?—I. J. Van Ness.
- 11:30 a. m.—The Preparation of the Lesson.—C. E. Brewer.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 5, 1911.

The state building commission has decided to cut down one story on the new administration building and make it four stories instead of five.

Now listen at them go after the governor for the place on the corporation commission made vacant by the death of Commissioner Brown.

An increase of $8,000,000 in exports and $3,000,000 in imports for the city of Wilmington the past fiscal year shows a gratifying growth of business in North Carolina's chief seaport.

Greenville, in keeping with her spirit, extends a cordial welcome to every visitor here at the Sunday School Institute. The best that the town has is theirs, coupled with the wish that each may have an exceeding pleasant stay among us.

President Taft was the center of a sensation in Indianapolis on the fourth. A spent bullet striking a person on the platform from which he was speaking, brought out the stir that two thugs were trying to kill the president.

Mr. Henry C. Brown, one of the members of the state corporation commission, died Tuesday morning at his home in Raleigh. He served as clerk to the board for many years, and at the last state election was chosen a member of the commission.

The city of Charlotte has made an appropriation of $1,000 toward the support of two trained nurses to attend poor people who are unable to provide themselves with proper attention in cases of sickness. This is a step in the right direction.

Bonds For Roads.

Major A. A. MacKethan, in The Fayetteville Observer, is advocating an issue of $200,000 in bonds to build good roads for Cumberland county, and one argument which he uses is applicable to all counties. It is that it is cheaper to issue bonds than it is to build roads by the direct tax system. He gives the figures to prove it. "I find," says Major MacKethan, "for three years ending December 1, 1910, that our county has spent $30,946.75 for good roads, an average of $10,315.58 per year, and at each meeting of the commissioners there are delegations from outlying districts begging for our small convict force, and under a bond issue we could give such sections relief. Under a bond issue of $200,000 at 5 per cent, would cost $10,000 per annum interest, which is $315.18 less than we are now paying, so that we would only have a sinking fund to provide for. With $200,000 under contract system, we could build good roads for the whole county in a short time, and in my opinion at less cost than we are now paying per mile." The bond issue for building good roads in the state is growing in popularity. Iredeil gave it an impetus when that county voted an issue of $400,000. If Iredeil can stand that much, certainly the big county of Cumberland could stand half as much. It is a good sign that the people do not stand so much in fear of bonds as formerly. A few years hence, we expect to see counties voting bonds as a matter of fact.—Charlotte Chronicle.

A King Who Left Home.

Set the world to talking, but Paul Mathhulka, of Buffalo, N. Y., says he always keeps at home the king of laxatives—Dr. King's New Life Pills—and that they're a blessing to all his family. Cure constipation, headache, indigestion, dyspepsia. Only 25 cents at all druggists.

When The Failures Talk.

Truly says the Greensboro Daily News: "It makes us tired to hear a poor man who will not work trying to express sympathy for or an interest in the laboring classes."

And this thought can be carried on and on, with much profit. The man with the right spirit in his heart, with the proper amount of common sense in his mind and any grey matter at all in his cranium hates to hear the failure in any branch preaching in support of some thing which caused his failure. If he is going to be manly enough to act as a horrible example all right, but when he tries to pose as a shining mary that is wherein he makes a fool of himself. When a man tries to preach morality he should be in a position for people to know that he is sincere, that he is consistent, that he really knows something. When the failure, with pomp and bravado, commences to tell a person how a business should be conducted, why he should be given the "ha, ha." No man has a right to teach unless he has made something of himself. This does not mean that he has got to be worth money, nor, on the other hand, does it mean that because he is worth money (the money may have been left him). It means has his life profited him or others? Is he a manly, an intellectual success?

Along the same line of reasoning we hate to hear the bum talking against prohibition, and we despise to listen to some hypocritical prohibitionist shouting for it. Many conscientious men, those of intellect, differ on the question of prohibition, and one does not mind turning a listening ear to either side, but when the hypocrite talks disgust sweeps over the listener, and when the bum commences to damn prohibition the feeling is one of repugnance. The bum who talks against prohibition is making a spectacle of himself and even the honest chap who is against prohibition should feel disgust when he raises his vote in such a strain.—Wilmington Dispatch.

More Need For Good Roads.

The road-drag joy ride is an idea from Missouri. A few weeks ago a farmer south of Columbia put into operation an efficient system plan when he used his road-drag for a wagon on a trip to town with produce. He could boast afterward that he had combined two pieces of necessary business in one movement. Yet a later experiment goes even further than this by welding business and pleasure. This is the Melloway System, named for L. T. Melloway, of Huntsville. Chronicles the Columbia "Statesman":

His wife wished to visit a neighbor about a mile away, and, as he was using the team to a road-drag, he placed a few boards and a seat on the drag. Mrs. Melloway was hauled to the neighbor's and later brought home on the drag. Thus the road work was not delayed nor the lady disappointed.

The only unpleasing aspect is that the lady must have reached the neighbor's badly mused from jolting, and somewhat sprinkled with dust. Yet from this crude beginning beneficent legislation may spring, as, say, a law requiring all joy-riding motor-cars to tow road-drags. This would improve the roads and reduce the speed of cars.—Collier's Weekly.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Cal., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at all druggists.

Where To Live.

Fountain Inn is a town in South Carolina. The editor of the "Tribune" of that address, says he would rather have his present position than to write editorials for a metropolitan daily, one of his reasons being that in the great city he would know a few boys around the office, be on speaking terms with the patrolman of his block (possibly), have a nodding acquaintance with his next-door neighbor (perhaps), and know his janitor, while ninety-nine out of every one hundred faces he passed in the street would be unknown. He would rather hunger for the open county and board walks, for fields of clover, wheat, and barley, and he would miss the cackle of the hens. In Fountain Inn he knows all the first names, hardships and triumphs, virtues and faults; he can sit up with neighbors when they are sick, and they will take notice when it is his turn to die. The town is without rich or poor, without saloons or gambling dens; the people like the churches, and the children deemed fortunate in their school. We like the looks of the "Tribune." It is interesting; it announces at the head of its editorial page that it will not accept patent medicine or other questionable advertising; it is published in what the editor in his enthusiasm conservatively calls the richest farming district on earth; and it is a pleasant and wholesome theory that he finds Fountain Inn plenty large enough. Many a person who rushes to the big cities manages only, as Marlowe has it, to live in grief and baleful discontent.—Collier's Weekly.

Prohibition Will be Given Real Test.

With the elimination of the near-beer saloons in North Carolina the prohibition law will be given a real test. The old saloon with its association of crime and vice passed away when the prohibition law came into effect, but the near-beer saloon took its place in many parts of the state. It is true that some of these places were kept clear of vice and run in a reputable manner. But attendance upon the sittings of a recorder's court in almost any town of the state would convince any one that these places were the centers from which a large part of the crime committed in the community radiated. It was in connection, either direct or indirect, with these places that the greater part of the illegal sales of whiskey were made. The gruesome murder recently committed in Granville county in connection with one of these places brought home in an impressive manner to the people of this section the criminal aspect of near-beer saloons.

With the elimination of the near-beer saloons the last hang-out place of the saloon element has passed. What other center this element will congregate around remains to be seen, and the workings of the real prohibition law will be watched with much interest from this time forth.—Durham Sun.

Time to Water Horses.

Many have argued for watering after feeding, and a large number have been positive in teaching that the water should be given before feeding; but experiments have been sufficiently extensive to make it pretty certain that it matters but little when the horse gets his water, as related to the time of feeding. That is, he may be watered before or after feeding, as is most convenient, and it may sometimes be best to water both before and after feeding.

The two points of importance are that (1) he gets his water often enough and (2) that he gets it regularly, without sudden changes. Whatever habit of watering is established it should be strictly adhered to.—Progressive Farmer.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From The Experience of Greenville People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Greenville residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had.

Mrs. Jane L. Godwin, 416 Dickinson avenue, Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I received from them. For a long time my back ached and I had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions also annoyed me and I had pains through my lions. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box from the John L. Wooten Drug Company, and their use as directed relieved me. I can now rest much better at night and my condition has improved in every way."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

The Dream Of Home.

Who has not felt how sadly sweet
The dream of home, the dream of home,
Steals o'er the heart too soon, too fleet,
Sunlight more soft may o'er us fall,
When o'er the sea or land we roam?
To greener shores our bark may come;
But far more bright, more dear than all,
That dream of home, that dream of home.

As of the sailor youth when far
His light bark bounds o'er ocean's foam,
What charms him most o'er ocean's star
Smiles o'er the wave? To dream of home.
Fond thoughts of absent friends and loves
At that sweet hour around him come;
His heart's best joy, where'er he roves
That dream of home, that dream of home.

Morehead City.—On Monday afternoon, July 3rd at 4:30 o'clock there took place in the parlors of the Atlantic Hotel, here, a marriage of much interest to the younger social set of North Carolina, when Miss Helen Bruce Swift, of this city, became the bride of Mr. Herman White Rodwell, of Richmond, Va.

Mrs. N. W. Outlaw Entertains.

Tuesday afternoon, from five-thirty until seven-thirty, Mrs. N. W. Outlaw delightfully entertained her many friends at a Fourth of July party, given at her home, on Fourth street, in honor of Miss Eunice Taylor, of Goldsboro.

When the guests arrived they were received at the gate by little Misses Mary Blanche Patrick and Nell White, and were given score cards. They were next received by the hostess and the guest of honor. Ice tea and sandwiches were served, after which the game of "Fourth" was played. The tables for the game were arranged about the lawn, and these, with the porch, were beautifully decorated in national colors.

When the game was over grape juice frappe and cake were served. The souvenirs were miniature silk flags.

Potatoes were almost a failure this year.

LAWS OF WARS.

The Code Now in Use Among All the Civilized Nations.

The "laws of war" as at present formulated by the civilized nations forbid the use of poison against an enemy; murder by treachery, as, for example, assuming the uniform or displaying the flag of a foe; the murder of those who have surrendered, whether upon conditions or at discretion; declarations that no quarter will be given to an enemy; the use of such arms or projectiles as will cause unnecessary pain or suffering to an enemy; the abuse of a flag of truce to gain information concerning an enemy's positions; all unnecessary destruction of property, whether public or private.

They also declare that only fortified places shall be besieged; open cities or villages not to be subject to siege or bombardment; that public buildings of whatever character, whether belonging to church or state, shall be spared; that plundering by private soldiers or their officers shall be considered inadmissible; that prisoners shall be treated with common humanity; that the personal effects and private property of prisoners, except their arms and ammunition, shall be respected; that the population of an enemy's country shall be considered exempt from participation in the war, unless by hostile acts they provoke the ill will of the enemy.

Personal and family honor and the religious convictions of an invaded people must be respected by the invaders and all pillage by regular troops or their followers strictly forbidden. —New York Herald.

"UNLAWFULLY CAUSED."

The Jury's Verdict in the Hill Tragedy At Jamestown.

With the commissioners of Guilford county who met yesterday for their regular monthly session the report of the coroner's jury in the Jamestown tragedy of June 7, when Mrs. Ida Hill, of Lexington, met her death, was filed by Coroner Wood, the last meeting of his jury having been held last Tuesday, the 27th. Their verdict threw no light on the mystery that has baffled the community in which it occurred, and has caused considerable speculation on the two theories of murder and suicide. The verdict as filed is:

"We, the undersigned jurors, summoned and empaneled this day (the 27th) by W. W. Wood, coroner of Guilford county, to inquire into the cause of the death of Mrs. Ida Hill, of Lexington, N. C., which occurred at Jamestown, N. C., on the night of June 7, or morning of June 8, in the home of her mother, Mrs. Emily J. Ragsdale, being duly sworn and having viewed the dead body of the deceased and after examining the evidence and circumstances available and brought before us, find that the death of the deceased was unlawfully caused by means of strangulation, but by whose act we are unable to ascertain. Signed, W. W. Wood, coroner; J. W. Sechrest, D. F. Staley, H. P. Staley, E. S. Armfield D. W. Moore, C. V. Morrison."

The jury first met on the day following the tragedy, but being unable to ascertain any definite information, deferred adjournment until the 27th, which Coroner Wood states, was that something tangible might develop. Filed with the verdict was testimony taken from Dr. J. R. Gordon, J. W. Modlin and J. W. Sechrest on June 8th.

Despite the verdict of the coroner's jury the death of Mrs. Hill has gone on record as one of the mysterious tragedies in the history of the state. The case which is still a subject of discussion bring forth two theories, those of suicide and murder. Every effort that has been made has failed to unravel the tangle, or to absolutely dislodge either of the conflicting opinions, and although detectives have spent many days studying, their efforts to trail a murder have not resulted in success. —Greensboro News, July 4th.

BALANCING THE SEXES.

Singular, Isn't It, the Way Nature Preserves the Equilibrium?

One of the most subtle and interesting problems of life, according to the eminent statistician and student of heredity, Professor R. J. Ewart, is the numerical relationship of sex and its influence upon the body politic. The woman's rights movement is in essence a mathematical and statistical problem, according to him. There is not a general advance of woman, as some sociologists assert. There is a sudden manifestation of her power, a period of supremacy and then a decline of her status.

The explanation is statistical mainly. True, it has always been something of a puzzle why the proportion of each kind, apparently with little or no underlying reason, is produced in the right numbers. The argument that if such were not the case the particular species would not survive does not reveal to us the methods by which this object has been achieved. That some mechanism must exist by means of which within certain limits the number of males and females born is regulated is proved by the facts of history, where we have numerous examples of wars and other social upheavals where males have largely suffered, and yet within an apparently short period of time, as measured by such events, a balance has again been established. The sex equilibrium may be compared to that of a gyroscope, where the greater the disturbance of position the greater is the force tending to re-establish its natural stand while in motion. —Current Literature.

She Had Noticed.

He was talking to the pessimistic, sharp tongued damsel.

"Have you noticed," he asked, "that as a rule, bachelors are wealthier than married men?"

"I have," she replied.

"How do you account for it?" he inquired.

"The poor man marries and the rich one doesn't," she answered. "A man is much more disposed to divide nothing with a woman than he is to divide something, you know."

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and it's the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. Its most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequalled for lagrippe, asthma, hay fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. ## Advertising A Necessity

The Daily Newspaper is the great common carrier. It brings to the home the news gathered from every quarter of the globe and side by side with the varied descriptions of the world's activities are the announcements of merchants, bankers, realty operators and the rest of those who have something to sell. Information about everything in the way of business is set before the reader. Why, Mr. Merchant, is information about your enterprise, about your offer, absent from these columns?

There is no method of announcement of the goods you want to sell to the people who want to buy simpler, more direct and more efficient than that offered by the Daily Newspaper.

Advertising is the order of the day and no man in trade can dispense with its enormous influence. Any business man may become known without advertising in the course of years, but while the grass is growing the steed starves. Do not starve. Do not hide your light under a bushel.

Henry Clay Brown Dead.

Raleigh, N. C., July 4.—Hon. Henry Clay Brown, member of the North Carolina corporation commission; died this morning at 6:30 o'clock, after an illness that has steadily grown worse since May 20, when he was last at his desk.

It was as successor to the late B. F. Aycock, that Mr. Brown was first appointed on the commission, May 6, 1910, after he had given to the commission service as secretary since 1891, that eminently equipped him for the commission and won for him the universal verdict of being the best equipped man for the place that could be found for the commissionership. He was born in Randolph county, in 1857, a son of John Randolph and Mary A. Brown and while yet a youth held clerkships at Chapel Hill, Guilf. Bynums being a bookkeeper in a cotton mill at the latter place. He took a business course at Poughkeepsie business college and in 1885 became cashier of the Bank of Mount Airy, continuing in this position with the railroad commission up to the time he was appointed secretary to the old railroad commission and the reorganized corporation commission up to the time he was appointed commissioner by Governor Kitchin. Following his appointment May 6, 1910, he was nominated in the state Democratic convention in July and elected in November and was filling out his first elective term at the time of his death.

Grifton scooped the afternoon game played with Ayden Tuesday, score 10 to 9. It was a close call.

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs, cuts, corns bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c, at all druggists.

JULY AND AUGUST.

The Broom That Sweeps The Cobwebs Out of Business.

The humor of the late Mark Twain cropped out long before Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer became world known characters. When the great humorist was editing a country weekly in one of the western states, a subscriber of his, upon opening his paper, found a big healthy spider between the sheets. The subscriber, being superstitious, wrote to Mark to know what such a phenomenon signified.

"It signifies nothing," wrote the future creator to Huck Finn. "That spider was simply looking through the paper to find some merchant who did not advertise. On getting this information, the spider intends to go to the store of this merchant, weave his web across the door and rest in peace forevermore."

The merchant who does not advertise may be able to keep the cobwebs from his door by the strenuous use of a broom, but cobwebs are bound to accumulate in his business sooner or later. Letting people know where they can get what they want day by day through the columns of a newspaper puts the cobwebs that usually gather in July and August in the other fellow's store. Newspaper advertising is the broom that sweeps the cobwebs out of business and makes dull seasons bright.—Durham Sun.
