THREE LECTURES AT TRAINING SCHOOL

MR. SCHAUB ON TOMATO CLUBS.
Dr. Laughinghouse on Tuberculosis
And Dr. Ferrall on Hook Worm.

The Monday night lectures at East Carolina Teachers' Training school continue to be events of interest and profit to the many teachers attending the summer term at this institution.

Teaching in this age has gone beyond the old method of posing so many hours a day over books and getting the rudiments of "reading, writing and arithmetic," and the teacher well equipped for the work becomes a factor in the community in which she teaches, for she not only possesses a knowledge of text books, but is informed on matters of health and sanitation, on domestic science, on agriculture, and those things that go to increase a community interest and make life happier and better. Education that instructs only the mind and carries with it no care of the body is not worth much. Mental culture may be ever so extensive, it is practically useless unless backed by physical and moral culture. The purpose of those weekly lectures is for development along all practical lines, that the teachers going out from this institution may be thoroughly equipped for their work.

Monday night there were three lectures that were heard not only by the student body but also by a large number of citizens of the town. Mr. I. O. Schaub, of the state and government agricultural departments, spoke on the canning of fruits and vegetables. He said as our people get the benefit of these only during the period of growth, a great product goes to waste, while if the surplus was canned it would not only provide for winter use but afford a means of profit as well. He pointed out the cheapness and simplicity of home canning outfits, and urged the teachers to encourage girls' tomato clubs in their schools and thus awaken an interest in this profitable enterprise.

Dr. Charles O'H. Laughinghouse spoke on the question of health and sanitation, mainly tuberculosis and its prevention. He went back to the first discovery of knowledge of this disease that has annually claimed its thousands of victims, and showed that by the progress of medical science through the succeeding centuries, and with it the increased knowledge of hygiene and sanitation, the death rate from this scourge has grown less year by year. Like almost all other diseases this is largely preventable under proper sanitary precautions. He urged the teachers to inform themselves in matters of hygiene and sanitation and prevention of disease, and be enabled to impart this knowledge to their pupils and the people among whom they teach. He also argued for a more rigid sanitary inspection of city markets and other places where public health is affected, declaring that such inspection should be made by one who has medical skill and is sufficiently acquainted with conditions to correct all evils that are found.

Dr. John A. Ferrall, of Raleigh, gave a lecture on hookworms. This was illustrated with stereopticon views, showing the beginning, progress and development of this disease that saps the energy and life of so many people. The campaign in North Carolina against the hookworm is new, yet with the aid of the press, the pulpit and the school, in co-operation with the medical profession, the progress has been wonderful, and much is being done to check the disease in its incipency and eradicate it.

Three more helpful lectures than these have not been given during the present summer term of the Training school.

MEN'S PRAYER LEAGUE.

Prayer Is The Subject For Next Sunday.

There was a smaller attendance than usual at the meeting of the Men's Prayer League, which was held in the Christian church Sunday afternoon, owing to other circumstances, but the meeting was nevertheless a good one. It so happened their neither of the appointed leaders were present, but others took their places and there were several good talks.

Next Sunday afternoon the meeting will be held in the Baptist church. The subject for that day is "Prayer—What It Means to Us." Text, Luke 11:1. References, Matthew 6:9-13; Psalm 143:1; John 14:13-14; James 5:13-16. Leaders, Messrs. Adrian Brown, E. H. Thomas and F. R. Stretch.

GAIETY THEATRE

Exhibited Excellent Pictures to A Crowded House.

Those who witnessed last night's performance in motion pictures at the Gaiety Theatre speak in the very highest terms of their pictures, the story of each film is well told and exhibited without a flicker.

The management is making every effort to please his patrons in this respect and we believe if they continue in the future as they have in the past, it will only be a short time before they will have to make other arrangements for a larger building.

The class of films they are exhibiting are very instructive and can be looked upon as an educational factor, nothing more impressive upon the mind than a picture well mapped out, therefore, it is reasonable that motion pictures are more easily grasped than books, and from this view, we contend that refined pictures are educational.

Threatened Civil War In Mexico.
By Cable to The Reflector.

Mexico City, July 18.—Civil war is imminent as the result of the outbreak between General Madero and President De La Barra. General Madero's proclamation charges President De La Barra with being responsible for the Pueblo fighting and orders the dismissal of office of every sympathizer with the cientifico society. Thousands of Maderist troops are reported revolting in San Luis, Potosi.

Italy Denies Cholera Rumors.
By Cable to The Reflector.

Rome, July 18.—Angered by the reports printed abroad and the cholera situation, the Italian government has issued a denial of the rumors that thousands have perished from that disease, and also the statement that two thousand and three hundred have died at Palermo is branded "ridiculous."

Farmers Feeling Fine.

Nearly every farmer wears a smile. The rains have descended and though the grass grows, his corn, cotton and tobacco are fine.

One only farmer has complained of being too wet to plow.

The estimate of the tobacco crop is getting larger, some saying there will be 75 per cent of a crop.

NEWS THAT IS OF INTEREST TO TAR HEELS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Told For The Reflector's Busy Readers.

Twenty wagon loads of blackberries were counted on the streets of Mt. Airy in one day last week.

Mr. Charlie Bagby has succeeded in reaching water, and gets an overflow at the depth of 235 feet, at his residence in North Kinston. The flow is now some 15 gallons a minute.—Kinston Free Press.

Word comes from Washington, D. C., that this city has been designated for the establishment of a postal savings bank. This will be ready for business on August 14.—New Bern Journal.

A youth carrying under his arm a red fox attracted considerable attention on the street yesterday. This now rare animal was shot near Waco, and having been stuffed, was brought to Charlotte for sale.—Charlotte News.

Sanford, July 16.—The entire business block on the east side of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway between Main and Trade streets in the town of Jonesboro except one brick building was consumed by fire at 3 o'clock this morning with two other buildings on the opposite side of Trade street.

Shortly after 8:30 o'clock Thursday night fire was discovered in the tool room at the John L. Roper Lumber Co.'s plant in this city. Quick work on the part of the watchmen soon extinguished the blaze with but little damage done. The blaze originated in an old pair of overalls that had been thrown in the building.—New Bern Journal, 15th.

There was a little excitement yesterday among a crowd of ladies and children who were crabbing on the old wharf by Pickles' mill, when little Harry Lincoln slipped overboard. Some of them were so dumbfounded that they did not know what to do when one of the ladies came to her right mind and pushed a fishing pole out to the boy who grasped eagerly. He was soon ashore safe and sound.—Bayboro Sentinel.

At a called meeting yesterday morning of the Buncombe county branch of the Farmers' Co-Operative and Educational union of America at the county court house to consider the question of establishing a large warehouse in Asheville to serve as a medium between the farmers of the county and purchasers of their goods as well as those selling to the agriculturists of this county, $2,000 of the desired $3,000 was raised among representatives from only about half of the local unions in the county.—Asheville Citizen.

While engaged in sweeping up the backyard yesterday morning a daughter of Mr. J. R. Ball, who resides at No. 63 Craven street, unearthed a finger ring that doubtless has a history and that would be highly valued by the owner. The ring formerly contained a setting, supposedly a diamond, but this was missing. The sides were heavily engraved with a design of leaves. Inside the band was the following inscription: "E. F. R. to H. W., May 3, 1877." The ring was evidently someone's engagement ring, and Mr. Ball will be glad to return it to the owner.—New Bern Journal.

Mr. D. P. Street, of this city, while at Street's Ferry last Saturday, ran upon a large rattle snake lying across a bridge that he was crossing. Fortunately the traveler had a weapon on his person with which he soon beheaded the reptile. This very poisonous snake was brought to New Bern where its measurement was taken, and it was as follows: 5 1-2 feet long, 9 inches in circumference, and this well grown dangerous reptile had 12 rattles and 2 buttons, which is a mark of age, and those who are acquainted with these snakes say this one was 14 years old.

Chicago.—Miss Rose Boersma, known as the typhoid girl, is being guarded by a city detective on a dairy farm south of Chicago and may be quarantined for life, according to health department officials.

Although enjoying perfect health, she is said to be carrier of the disease germs and directly responsible for three deaths and fifty cases of fever in the south division of the city. She has been under quarantine for more than a month.

A FARMER WHO STAYS HOME AND WORKS

SEN. SIMMONS TELLS THE TRUTH

Raise Everything Needed And Be An Honor To Your Calling.

Ayden, N. C., July 18, 1911.

Good Morning, Mr. Editor:

Haven't been to see you for some time. Hope you are feeling fine this beautiful day since having such splendid rains for the last two or three days. By the way, we had a gully washer the 15th and judging from the looks of the cloud fear our neighbors to the west of us had a storm.

The outlook for corn and cotton is most auspicious. Tobacco is doing well, but is too late and irregular for good results. We have not been as dry as in some other sections; notably, around Ormondsville, Ayden and Greenville. Our cotton has not had any yellow leaves at the bottom like it has in other sections mentioned.

It makes us feel good some times to think we are a farmer, to have such bouquets thrown at us—I mean not myself only, but all farmers—are those thrown us by Senator Simmons in his speech of June 23, 1911, on "Government aid for improvement and maintenance of Postal Banks." On page 5 of his speech he says: "It is they, who through the hardships and trials of pioneer life, subdued and made habitable the vast wilderness stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific; it is they who have borne the burden of those tariff laws that have contributed so largely to the development of our manufacturing; it is they who have chiefly furnished the traffic that has made railroading profitable and the gratuities which have so largely stimulated their construction; it is they who have sustained the balance of world trade in our favor and brought to our shore a constant stream of gold; it is they who have contributed most largely to the production of national wealth; and it is they who have been our main dependence in peace and our bulwark of safety in war."

He says more along the same line, but these quotations suffice for their time. These would be a fitting oration in a speech made in praise of the farmer at some grand agricultural rally. Young man, read and ponder, and cast your lot with us. All that was said above is true, but some one will be ready to say, oh, he wanted to tickle the farmers just now. We are not writing in this strain to tickle Senator Simmons for we do not know that we shall support him in the senatorial contest, but rather think we will not.

Hold up your head, brother farmer, don't be ashamed of your calling nor your clothes, either. Just pay your honest debts, make your land produce much of everything you use on your table as you can and your stock, and a little to spare, and then you will be an honor to your calling. Stay away from town and the country store unless you have real business, for Uncle Sam brings your mail to your door so you do not need to go for that. Help the madam, improve your farm buildings, patch the old rickety gate and make everything around the kitchen and yard as convenient as your circumstances will allow.

Here's how we celebrated the 4th of July. Hung and adjusted four wire doors while the boys were gone to the base ball game and the negroes were gone on an excursion and loading up with whiskey. The best thing that can happen to any man is to be engaged in some legitimate business most of his time. Idleness breeds mischief and extravagance.

CHANGE AT GUM WAREHOUSE.

Mr. J. J. Gentry to Have Charge The Coming Season.

Mr. J. J. Gentry, formerly of Winston-Salem, who last season managed a tobacco warehouse in Ayden, has been engaged by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company to conduct the Gum Warehouse in Greenville the coming season. Mr. Gentry is already here and at work among the farmers. He has had seventeen years experience as a warehouseman and is a valuable addition to this market. He is cordially welcomed here.

MR. PHELPS HURT.

Horses Scared By Automobile—Mr. Phelps Thrown Out of Wagon.

This morning when Mr. E. S. Phelps was coming down Dickinson avenue with a wagon heavily loaded with lumber, his horses were frightened by an automobile near the Norfolk Southern depot and ran away down the avenue to the Presbyterian church, where Mr. Phelps turned them into Greene street. In making the turn Mr. Phelps was thrown out, falling under the wheels of the wagon, one of which ran over him. The wheel struck him on the left hip and passed over his body to the left shoulder, hurting him very seriously. He held on to the reins and stopped the horses, with the wagon wheel on him.

He was taken to his home and Dr. Hassell attended to his injuries, and while finding no bones broken, he found that Mr. Phelps was very seriously injured. It will be some time before he recovers. He received several bruises and hurts on his face and one ear was badly hurt.

Mr. Phelps is seventy-two years old, which makes his injuries so much slier to get well.

TODAY'S EVENTS IN NATIONAL CAPITOL

SEARCH FOR MRS. WOODWARD.

Dr. Wiley Sends Answer to Charges Made Against Him.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Washington, July 18.—Donald M. Frame, the first witness before the Lorimer investigating committee, testifies that he heard Hines, the lumber king say, "I elected Lorimer," to H. P. Hetter, a friend, thereby corroborating Hetter's testimony, which was denied by Hines.

Secretary Wilson, of the agricultural department, submitted Dr. Wiley's answer today to the charges to President Taft and his cabinet. A decision is expected in thirty-six hours.

The house committee now investigating. Controller Bay heard the testimony of Charles Drayton, attorney, representing the Humboldt Steamship line. He told of the discrimination against the line by the Guggenheims.

The search for Mrs. Evatoria Woodward, of Richmond, Virginia, has led detectives to Philadelphia. She has been missing since Friday.

Center of Population.

Washington.—The center of population of the United States is four and a quarter miles south of Unionville, Monroe county, Ind., according to a census bureau announcement today. Since 1900, when it was six miles southeast of Columbia, Ind., it has moved 31 miles westward and seven-tenths of a miles northward.

The Cholera Situation.

By Wire to The Reflector.
New York, July 18.—Assistant United States Surgeon General L. E. Cofer, a Pacific coast cholera expert, has been sent here by Surgeon General Wayman to aid the health officer, Alvah H. Dotey, in battling with the cholera situation. Every resource is being used to prevent its spread. Dotey insisted today that there was no fear of a general epidemic. There are now eight cases of Asiatic cholera at Swinburn Island, all of whom will probably die.

When John Chinaman Dies.

For the Chinaman, however unimportant in actual life, becomes a man of importance as soon as he dies, and his grave must be carefully looked after. The finest place I saw in Canton was the Mortuary where the dead bodies of wealthy Chinamen are kept until burial. The handsomer coffins I saw ranged in value from $1,400 to $2,700 Mexican, or half amounts American money. The lacquered surfacing accounts for the high cost.

Nor are these departed Celestials kept here for a few days only. Sometimes it is a matter of several years, my guide told me, the geomancers or fortune-tellers being employed all this time in finding a suitable site for a grave. These miserable scoundrels pretend that the soul of the dead man will not rest unless he is buried in just the right spot and in the right kind of soil. Perhaps no professional man earns as much as these fakirs. Sometimes it happens that after a man has been dead two or three years, his family suffers a series of misfortunes. A frequent explanation in such cases is that the wrong site has been chosen for the dead man's burial place. Another geomancer is then hired and told to find a new grave where the soul will rest in peace. Of course, he charges a heavy fee.—Clarence Poe, in Progressive Farmer.

TUESDAY, JULY 18, 1911.

In politics this is the age of writing letters.

We see an item about a railroad being leased for 999 years. Wonder if the lessees think they are going to need it that long?

Right now following the rain is the time the sand-clay streets need a little attention. Work done properly accomplishes much more good than if delayed.

No one thing is likely to cost Mr. Simmons more votes in the primary than the active support Republican papers are giving him. They should attend their own side of the fence.

The Misenheimer and Lockhart letters showing Governor Kitchin's "trust busting" record before and after election may keep him and Brother Claude both busy for a time, as things in those letters need answering.

Governor Blease, of South Carolina, must be suffering mentally under the spell of hot weather. At any rate it does not look like a sane man would give expression to such utterances as are credited to him by the Spartanburg Herald.

Some of the cartoonists had Governor Kitchin a very interested spectator peeping over the fence at the timber tariff circular discussion between Chairman Eller, Clerk Maxwell and Senator Simmons. But the "before and after trust busting" clouds that Mr. Misenheimer and State Senator Lockhart have thrown at the governor will put interest on the other side watching him duck his head.

In a communication to the Charlotte Observer, Mr. Jonathan Peele takes up the question of putting solicitors on salary, a matter that has been given much attention by legislators in recent years, yet without definite action being taken. Mr. Peele goes fully into this, showing the objections that have been raised whenever an effort was made to get a solicitors' bill passed, how the solicitors themselves opposed it and through their opposition in preventing the diminishing of their own districts had been an obstacle to redistricting the state so that there might be more superior court judges; and further that the salary system might result in inefficient service. After summing up all of these, he says: "Then what is the remedy? How can we do away with the fee system, remove the solicitors as obstacles

In the way of redistricting the state and at the same time efficiently prosecute our criminal dockets? Simply amend the state constitution by abolishing the office of solicitor and creating the office of county attorney, whose duty it shall be to prosecute the criminal docket of his county and be legal adviser to the county in the transaction of its business affairs, his salary to be fixed by the county commissioners and paid out of the county treasury, all the fees that the solicitor would receive under the present system being covered into the county treasury. It is evident at a glance that the aforesaid objections are at once obliterated by this act, and investigation proves this plan both feasible and economical. The county attorney would have the advantage over the solicitor, in that he would be on the ground, know the temper and feelings of the people, be better able to select his jury with discrimination, know the general lay of the land, and thus be in a much better position to successfully prosecute the docket. If this be not correct, why do so many people employ local counsel to aid the solicitor in prosecuting cases in which they are peculiarly inserted? Again, all the counties now have attorneys, paying them salaries, and this would only increase their burdens with such increased pay as the county commissioners in their discretion allow them. Several of our recorder courts now have prosecuting attorneys, and many of our states have successfully adopted the county system of prosecution, and if the system is successful elsewhere surely it ought to be successful in this state. In nearly every instance the fees covered into the county treasury will, with the salary now allowed a county attorney, pay the salary of the proposed county attorney, and the state will be saved from any loss on account of the change, and equally as able prosecutions of the criminal docket be assured."

The Hot Spell in South Carolina.
Governor Cole L. Blease yesterday addressed two immense and enthusiastic audiences of cotton mill workers in Spartanburg county, at Cowpens in the morning and at Drayton mills in the afternoon. Both addresses were said by those familiar with the governor to be characteristic of the man. At Drayton he denounced negroes, whom he called "apes and baboons," and for whom he said the most effective remedy was "a little gunpowder and a few buckshot," openly gave his approval to lynching; sneered at prohibition; condoned manslaughter committed in the heat of passion; defended his pardoning of convicts and justified his other acts which have evoked criticism; slurred northerners; denounced newspapers, especially the Columbia State and the Spartanburg Herald; spoke contemptuously of the University of South Carolina and Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of the university; denied that he had sold pardons and declared that if he should be impeached he would go to the United States senate as the successor of Senator B. R. Tillman.—Spartanburg Herald.

Another Stumbling Block.
During a running debate on the wool tariff in the house recently Mr. Underwood, the Democratic floor-leader, was asked concerning the Democratic position generally in the matter of tariff revision. He replied: "We have announced that we intended to revise this tariff from top to bottom. The only thing that will stop us from revising it from top to bottom is the Republican senators and the Republican President. If they stop it, we will make an appeal to the country."

As a general proposition, this is a correct and encouraging statement. If the Democrats in the house will, as they have so far done, pass the right kind of revision bills and a Republican senator and a Republican President prevents them from becoming laws, the people will know where to place the blame, nor will they hesitate to put it where it belongs. In representatives like Bailey, of Texas, and Simmons, of North Carolina, the Democracy has within its own ranks stumbling-blocks likely to bar the way to genuine tariff revision only less effectively than a Republican senator and a Republican President. They, too, should be held to account by their respective constituencies, and, doubtless, will be—Virginia Pilot.

Horrors Of The Forest Fires.
Porcupine, Ont., July 14.—E. P. Ashmore, manager of the Philadelphia mine, who lies terribly burned in an imprudent hospital, thus describes the fire: "Dante never imagined anything so horrible. The wind drove the flames toward us with hurricane velocity. Most of our men began to run through the woods, but I darted for the pond with C. E. Adams, our cook. It was a terrible race. Adam's heart gave out and I had to carry him. In the pond we were safe, but I had to keep Adams on my shoulder, and soon he died. For over half an hour I had to stand with the dead man on my shoulder before the flames had passed and I was able to reach land again. "I left Adam's body by the side of the pond and began my long walk to South Porcupine. Charred bodies lay all around me as I walked, frequently stumbling over a dead body, and recognizing it as that of some friend. Finally I reached what remained of South Porcupine and fell exhausted."

Snake And Rabbit Story.
Cumberland, Md., July 14.—A snake and rabbit story worthy of the season and the weather comes from Knolly Mountain, near this place. The story goes that while Harry L. Welch was cutting wheat in N. R. Taylor's field he observed a rabbit apparently engaged in a struggle with a large black snake that had invaded her home. The snake had swallowed two of bunny's little ones and was dispatching the third. Mr. Welch struck the snake a stunning blow, rescued alive the third rabbit, cut the reptile open about eight inches and removed the two bunnies that had been swallowed. About an hour later he returned and found that the snake was again swallowing the third little rabbit. It did so repeatedly, but each time the little animal came out of the slit cut in the reptile's anatomy.

One Of Bishop William's Stories.
The late Bishop Williams, of Connecticut, was very fond of children, and it was always a joy to us youngsters when he came for his visit to my father's parish. His anecdotes and stories enlivened the entire household. Once, when he was staying with us, he told the following story: "One Sunday morning, just after breakfast, I reported to the rector's study, where I was soon followed by his little four-year-old son, who climbed up on my knee and began to talk. Suddenly the little fellow looked up into my face and said: 'Bissop, do 'oo want to see my piggy book?' "Yes, indeed," said I. So the child slid down and started to get the book. When halfway across the room a sudden idea seemed to strike him, and running back and putting one hand on my knee he looked up in my face and shook his little forefinger at me, whispering, 'Bissop, it's Sunday. We must do zis on ze sly.'"—Harper's Magazine.

Everybody offers explanations but few people believe them.

HIS TROUBLE NOT OF HEART
Real Facts in Regard To F. R. Huffman's Illness. Relief Obtained By Curing His Stomach Ailments.

Waynesville, N. C.—Mr. F. R. Huffman, of this city, says: "I suffered dreadfully with what I thought was heart trouble, and tried various medicines in vain. After other remedies had failed, Theford's Black-Draught restored me to health. I would not feel safe without Black-Draught in the house. I consider it worth its weight in gold. It cured my indigestion, and by this means I was restored to health. I can not express my gratitude for its benefits." Good health depends on the condition of your digestion. Poor digestion and good health do not go together. Theford's Black-Draught will thoroughly cleanse and set in order your digestive system. A Summer Storm.

Last night a storm fell on the world from heights of drought and heat. The surly clouds for weeks were furling. The air could only sway and beat.

The beetles clattered at the blind. The hawks fell twanging from the sky. The West unrolled a feathery wind. And night fell suddenly.

The storm leaped roaring from its lair Like the shadow of doom, The poignant lightning searched the air, The thunder ripped the shattered gloom. The rain came down with a roar like fire, Full voiced and clamorous and deep; The weary world had its heart's desire, And fell asleep.

The Way To Stop It.

At the term of the Superior court of Stanley county, just adjourned, Judge Daniels fined four men $500 each for selling beer unlawfully while running a social club in Albemarle. The judge at first sentenced them to six months on the county chain gang, but later changed it to a fine on the earnest pleadings of attorneys and some citizens.—Concord Tribune.

'PICKED AN' ODD NAME.

An Author's Long Search and a Subsequent Surprise.

When Alblon W. Tourgee wrote "A Fool's Errand" he named one of his leading characters Theron Pardee. An early copy of the book fell into the hands of the Rev. Luther Pardee, an Episcopal clergyman of Chicago, whose father was named Theron Pardee. The name is such an unusual combination that in amazement the rector showed the book to his father, and they were both puzzled by the coincidence. They decided to write Judge Tourgee and ask him what had led him to use the name. He replied, in equal amazement, that he had not supposed there was such a man living as a Theron Pardee. Then he stated that he had a prolonged search for a suitable name for the character of his story—one that would express just what he imagined this character to be. In the course of the hunt an old copy of the curriculum of Union college had fallen into his hands. It was dated 1825, or something as far back, and among the names of the students was one Theron Pardee. The judge said it had impressed him as being one of the richest, most solid and most satisfying names he ever had heard, so he decided to adopt it for his character. The curriculum was so old that he had no hesitation in using the name, and he was astonished to learn that the rightful owner of it was living. His explanation was accepted and the resulting acquaintance was pleasing all around.—New York Press.

Maine's First Hotel.

Maine's first public hotel was built in 1654. Waddock's Ordinary, erected near Old Orchard, according to a Saco historian, is entitled to the distinction. The old tavern was erected by Henry Waddock and stood almost within sight of the large summer hostels which fringe the crescent shaped beach at Old Orchard.—Kennebec Journal.

The Doctor's Boy.

"Mamma, the doctor's boy next door made faces at me."
"And what did you do?"
"I stuck out my tongue at him."
"Dear, dear! And what did the bad boy do then?"
"He just said it was badly coated."
—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Near Nature Return.

"You must quit spending so much time in ratshkellers and get back to nature more."
"All right, doc. I'd just as soon sit in the palm room."
—Pittsburg Post.

Helping Things Along.

"The family in the next flat has three phonographs and four boys with toy express wagons," said Mr. Growber's wife. "What on earth shall we do?"
"Send for the piano tuner and ask him how much he'll take to work by the day."
—Washington Star.

Good News.

"My dear, our landlord says he's going to raise our rent."
"Glad to hear he can do it. I can't."

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly removes dandruff, leaves the scalp clean and healthy, promotes the growth of the hair and restores the natural color of the hair which has become faded or gray. FROM DIVORCE TO MATRIMONY.

Went From Court Room to The Minister.

Granted a divorce this morning at 10:30 o'clock in Mecklenburg Civil court from her husband, James Stockton, Mrs. Lula Grant, alias James Yates, walked down stairs with J. J. Owen, where they obtained a marriage license from Register of Deeds W. M. Moore and announced their intention of going to Rev. Dr. H. H. Hulton, of the First Baptist church, to be married at once.

Mrs. Grant was married a few months ago to a man who gave his name as James Yates. The ceremony was performed by Squire S. H. Hilton at his office at the court house. It developed in a few days that Yates' real name was Stockton and that he already had a wife in King's Mountain. He left for parts unknown a few days after the marriage before Squire Hilton and has not been heard of since.

The court granted the divorce this morning in a few minutes after hearing the case. J. J. Owen has been a boarder at the home of Mrs. Grant on South Brevard for some time. He was present in the court room this morning when the verdict was rendered by the jury. The couple walked at once down stairs to the register of deeds office and license to marry was granted them.—Charlotte News, 17th.

Snakes And Cows.

We know very little about snakes biting cows or their fear of cows. But it is generally known that snakes especially black snakes, are very fond of milk and never miss the opportunity to get it when they can.

Finding a cow lying down the snake proceeds to do the nursing act and the cow remains as still as a statue while the snake drinks to its fill. The evidence the milkmaid finds of this is that when she goes to milk that cow she finds the milk bloody and then it is best to not use her milk for a few days.

It is also said that cat fish are fond of cow's milk and that sometimes when a cow wades into water and stops to cool, if she is in deep water, if some cat fish finds her, he hastens to do the milking act to perfection.

Fly Killing Contest.

The Raleigh Health League, with the co-operation of the News and Observer and the Raleigh Evening Times, is offering $100 in prizes to any girl or boy, under eighteen years of age, in Raleigh township, for the largest number of dry, dead flies, caught in the township and brought in during a three weeks' contest, to begin Monday, July 17th. The first prize is $25, the second $15, the third $10. There are three prizes of $5 each, five of $2 each, and twenty-five of $1 each. There are thirty-six prizes in all.—News and Observer.

MAN INFECTED BY COWS.

Consulsions of British Commission After Tuberculosis Investigation.

After investigations extending over ten years, the Royal Commission on Tuberculosis, appointed in the first year of King Edward's reign, today issued its final report, which shows that contrary to the theory of Koch, who declared in 1901 that tuberculosis in human beings and in cows was not the same disease and therefore not communicable from one to another, both forms of the malady are for all practical purposes identical.

There may be minute differences in the bacilli, but the Royal commission pronounces decisively that children can be and are infected by milk from diseased cows.

While Dr. Konch's views never met with general acceptance, it has been held by a large number of physicians to be partly correct in that the infection was only one sided. The Royal Commission decides that the mammals and man can infect each other either way.

After investigation of the cases of 128 persons suffering from tuberculosis the commission declares that the disease germ in adult consumptives, especially in lung cases, is nearly always the human germ, and not that from cattle, but with children the case is very different. Among young children who died from the wasting of the intestine the germ from the cow was the cause in nearly half the cases. Further, a large proportion of cases of diseased neck glands in both children and adults were the result of the same cause.

Fatal results in children do not always follow, though all the intestinal cases examined were fatal. In adults the experiments "might tend to discount the extent of the danger not only of the milk of tuberculosis cows but also of their flesh.

"But," adds the report, "we have found cases of tuberculosis in adult man sufficiently extensive to incapacitate the patient for the ordinary duties of life, and in two instances ending fatally, in which we were able to attribute the disease solely to the effects of the bovine tuberculosis bacillus."

The commission urges a variety of measures to guard against infection from tuberculosis.

Notice.

We wish to announce that our land is posted and to warn people not to hunt on it. We have stock in the grounds and have had several cattle shot, supposed to have been shot by stray bullets fired by people shooting at marks. Unless this shooting on our property is stopped, we shall have to indict all persons we can catch on it carrying or using fire arms.

Another Plague.

A most peculiar plague, which is leaving death in its wake and is assuming alarming proportions, is reported in Mitchell county.

Clerk W. S. Hyams, of the United States court, stated to a Citizen representative that he had recently talked with citizens of Mitchell county who are greatly alarmed at the rapidly spreading epidemic in their midst. Mr. Hyams stated that to his knowledge, Dr. F. P. Sagle had succumbed to the disease and that Dr. Charles Buchanan is now under medical attention at Johnson City, Tenn., as a result of the malady.

It is stated that several have died in the last few weeks and that the number afflicted with the deadly disease is increasing regularly.

It is said that the trouble is first discovered by one or more fingers becoming blood-shot, without the slightest puncture or abrasion of the skin. The effects pass through the arm to the body, at which time death follows. So far it is said no relief has been found for those suffering from the disease, and that the nature of the malady has been here-fore unknown to medical science as far as investigations of the present trouble has disclosed.

The plague has been spreading for about three weeks in Mitchell county, it is reported.—Asheville Citizen.

Poe Victim of Thief!

Morganton, W. Va.—"Edgar Allen Poe was not killed by excessive drinking, but was the victim of a thief, who drugged the poet in order to get possession of a purse of $1,500, which he was carrying at the time of his death in Baltimore.

This is the declaration of Dr. Charles W. Kent, professor of English literature at the University of Virginia, who is delivering a series of lectures on the literature of the south here.
