ESCAPES FROM HIS CRUEL MASTER

HE STARTS OUT IN THE WORLD.

To Find The Fame Pictured in Dream Visit From His Mother.

Hanrahan, N. C., July 20.—Eugene slept the remainder of the night after his enchanting dream, for the quaff that he had taken from his angelic mother's hand seemed to him as real as did the life-giving fluid of infancy that he had so often imbibed from her breast as he lay in her arms, unconsciously clewed at her dress front and cunningly smiled into her sweet face, before any thought of sorrow or fear of storms had crossed his mind. But the crowing of the cocks, and the neighing of the horses that he at break of day must feed, aroused him and he raised from his reclining place to realize that what he had seen was only a dream. But surely it must not be deception. Yes, it was a messenger, an omen. Call it what you may, to him it was a signal that pointed him to what he deemed his only hope. So all that day he tried to work while he planned for his escape from his master. Near the close of the day, as he stood on the bank of the Neuse (his work was near by this river) he saw near the edge a canoe floating down the stream. With a pole he pulled it to the bank and moored it with a grape vine in a place he was sure he could find in the darkness of the night. At night fall he took the horse to the house, and with his daily routine finished he tried to seem cheerful in order to cover any suspicion of his intention to make his escape. He made his shuck pallet in the porch as was his custom, and threw himself on it until all was quiet within and then with no light save the stars twinkling above, he stole his way to the river, and to the spot where he had fastened his little boat. Carrying only a cross-bow that his father had made him, and a hatchet that his mother had given him, alone with the darkness and weary he unfastened his boat. With no pillow, save a square block of wood, he stretched out his exhausted form on the bottom of the boat as she drifted on the bosom of that somewhat swollen river. The night passed, he knew not how. Morning came and he found himself lodged on the upper side of that horse-shoe bend that the Neuse makes several miles above Goldsboro. So hungry and no supply of food to draw from, he must in some way replenish the inner man. Dire necessity, and especially when hunger is gnawing at our inmost vitals, will cause one to create thoughts and investigate plans that would have never been reached or thought of under different conditions. So he remembered his cross-bow which was stringless, but young birch trees stood thick on the peninsular against which his boat was lodged. With his hatchet he secured some of the strong bark and made from this a string for his bow. Thus armed he went in search of food. He had gone but a few stones' throw before he had crossed the narrow neck of land and had reached the river again, though the distance by the channel is perhaps 20 miles. Here he found some boatmen camping, but was afraid to approach them. So he stood in ambush and watched them eat their morning meal and when finished, they hastened to this raves of tar, leaving on the ground a pone of corn bread, some "hard tack" crackers and a hand full of salt in a little cloth sack. With eagerness he seized these and an oak chunk with a live coal on one end. Then he made his way back to his boat. He had not long to stay there before a squirrel crept out of a low hollow and was playing on the ground. A beautiful sight it was, but hunger forced Eugene to offer this innocent beauty as a sacrifice on his altar. So with his bow he shot an arrow that pierced its playful heart. He dressed and broiled it, and with part of this and the bread he broke his fast. After gathering up the fragments he loosed his boat from her mooring and again started down the river. Ere this strict search was being made by the cruel master that he had left. Men were employed by him and sent east, west, north and south, with the strict injunction that if Eugene could any where be found that he be bound hand and foot and returned to him. Strict search was made, even among the rubbish of the cow shed, and sheep fold, but no tidings of the missing boy. His foot-prints had been traced part of the way to the river and then were lost because of the hard soil. The disappointed master made a trip of 40 miles to the neighborhood of Eugene's old home, and then offered a reward for the capture and return of the boy. But Eugene had apprehended this effort to capture him and he was ever on the alert, though he longed to get one glance at the scenery of his earlier days. Some chapters in any book must necessarily be dull, but these lead up to where the first rung of the ladder that reaches to fame and usefulness is reached. So here we leave our hero floating down the river, but we'll meet him again in a more beautiful and healthful place in our next. (To Be Continued.)

TODAY'S EVENTS IN NATIONAL CAPITOL

AT WORK ON COTTON SCHEDULE

Ex-Senator Aldrich A Witness—Another Investigation.

Washington, July 20.—Ex-Senator Aldrich was a witness before the Lorimer committee commissioner on corporations. Herbert Knox Smith declined to give the details of his investigation of the steel trust before the Stanley steel investigating committee.
The senate committee on privileges and elections considered the corporation charges in the election of Senator Stephenson. It was decided that Chairman Dillingham should appoint a sub-committee of five which he will probably do next week. Probably no action will be taken this session because of an early adjournment.
The ways and means committee is again at work on the cotton schedule.
The Mobile chamber of commerce petitioned the interstate commerce commission to take over the docks now owned by the railroads, alleging that the roads discriminate against independent docks.

Hall, How Big!

Salisbury.—Reports of one of the worst hail storms known to this section of North Carolina comes to Spencer, it being stated that on last Saturday afternoon the farms of the northern section of Davidson county were badly damaged by hail. In one particular locality a farm of Ms. J. L. Smith was ruined, the cotton, corn and other vegetation being demolished. So heavy was the hail that it lay on the ground to a depth of one foot and twenty-four hours after it fell it could be raked up in great quantities. At the same time a heavy rain fell in Spencer and during the storm a valuable horse belonging to Jim Porter was killed by lightning while hitched at a blacksmith shop.

New Treatment for Pellagra.

The experiment now being made in the city by several well known physicians in using "salvarsin," or "606" in the treatment for pellagra will be watched with the keenest interest.
The discovery of "606" by Dr. Ehrlich was one of the greatest achievements of medical science ever recorded.
It is claimed that it is an absolute cure for one of the worst diseases ever known to mankind.
That it may effect a remedy in cases of pellagra is confidently believed by leading physicians and it is said that the tests made here so far have been gratifying. To date no positive cure has been discovered for the new disease in this county known as "pellagra."
The rapid spread of this malady has caused the medical fraternity to join in an effort to find some treatment which will prove effective.—Charlotte News.

NEWS THAT IS OF INTEREST TO TAR HEELS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Told for The Reflector's Busy Readers.

A part of Melville and Haw River township held an election a few days ago to vote on a special tax for a school at Woodland. Every vote was in favor of the proposition and not a single vote opposed.—Mebane eader.

The town has bought eight thousand gallons of oil to be used on the streets. It is figured that this will cover the streets of the business portion of the town and that it will keep the dust down for about a year. The total cost is about six cents a gallon. It will be put down at once.—Monroe Journal.

Wilmington.—Manifesting in a most substantial way its confidence in the future of Wilmington, the directors of the Seaboard Air Line, at a recent meeting in New York, authorized an expenditure of $200,000 for still further improvements at Wilmington, the amount being immediately available. All told this will make about $400,000 spent by the Seaboard in the enlargement and improvement of its terminals at this port within the past three years.

The splendid new steel bridge of the Atlantic Coast Line across Roanoke river has been completed and the work on the entire new route is about completed. Freight trains will begin to run over the new bridge by August 1st. Work is now progressing on the new passenger station and before September 1st it is expected that passenger trains will be running regularly over the new route. The building of this new route through Weldon for the Atlantic Coast Line has been a great piece of work and has cost over $1,000,000, including the fine new bridge and viaducts.

Mrs. Crawford Tablock of Marshville died from the effects of chloroform last Friday while being prepared for an operation by physicians. The case is an unusual one, but just such as sometimes occurs in the history of anesthesia. Drs. Blair of Marshville and Nance of Monroe had been called in to perform a minor operation, and it was when the chloroform for this purpose was administered that the fatal results occurred. Dr. Nance was giving the drug very slowly and carefully and the patient seemed to be receiving its effects beautifully, when suddenly the heart gave away, and without warning, the physicians saw that Mrs. Tablock's condition had become alarming. They began at once to apply restorative measures and kept up artificial respiration for an hour, but to no avail.—Monroe Journal.

Fire At Goldsboro.

Goldsboro, July 19.—This city was visited by a bad fire this morning at 2 o'clock which destroyed a two-story brick building, occupied as a clothing store by George Mansour, on Walnut street.
The entire stock of goods, valued at $5,000, was destroyed, and was insured for $2,000.
By excellent work the fire department saved adjoining buildings, which were for awhile also threatened by the above conflagration.

Monument to Gen. Greene.

A deed of transfer of a plot of land in Guilford Battle Ground from the Battle Ground Company of the United States of America was filed in the office of the register of deeds of Guilford county today for recording. The ground was selected by the War Department as the site for the erection of the $20,000 General Greene monument which was authorized by Congress in February.—Greensboro Record.

Caught Trout and Bear.

Sheridan, Wyo.—City Clerk James J. Whitrow, while on a fishing trip with a companion last week, hooked but didn't land a monster bear.
He cast his fly into a mountain pool and immediately a big trout "struck" and headed downstream, rounding a big boulder. There was a sudden tug at the line. The reel sang and the pole almost bent double. Then the line suddenly slackened.
Whitrow started downstream to investigate. Just back of the boulder sat a huge bear calmly eating the trout, the line dangling from his mouth.

MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

Pitt Lumber and Manufacturing Co. Elect Officers and Declare Dividend.

The second annual meeting of the stockholders of the Pitt Lumber and Manufacturing Company was held in the office of the company yesterday, the attendance being large. Business has been good and a dividend of 8 per cent. was declared and a good amount carried to the surplus fund. During the year many additions and improvements have been made, costing a neat sum. Otherwise the dividend would have been much larger. This was the first dividend declared by the company. About thirty men are employed and the company does an extensive business.

Officers elected at this meeting for the ensuing year, are:
E. A. Moye, Sr., president.
F. J. Forbes, vice-president.
T. W. Whitehurst, secretary and treasurer.

Drowns With His Children.

St. Louis, Mo., July 19.—Frank Duclerville, 41 years old, was drowned Sunday with his son and daughter, Thomas and Mary, 3 and 13 years old, respectively, while a crowd on the Mississippi river bank restrained the wife and mother, who tried to leap in after the struggling trio.
While the parents partook of luncheon on the river bank the children were allowed to sit in a skiff. The boy stood up in the boat and overturned it. The father dived in where the children sank and reappeared for an instant with a child in either arm. Thus handicapped, he was unable to swim, and all were drowned.

Strike Threatened.

By Wire to The Reflector.
Richmond, Va., July 20.—The difference between machinists, boiler-makers and the trades union and the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway are not yet settled. Twenty-five hundred men are out along line.
The entire line from Newport News to Chicago is involved. They demand an increase of four cents per hour. A general strike is very likely.

Five Trainmen Killed.

Cunningham, Connellsville, Pa.; Joseph O'Donnell, Johnstown, Pa.; Charles Iverson, Chicago; Matthew O'Neill, Sharon, Pa.; Sam Mattingdy, Pittsburg, Pa.

Cause For Thanks.

Rev. A. D. Betts, who is familiarly and lovingly known as "Uncle Betts," has written this pointed reference to a cause that lies close to the heart of every right thinking man:
"The 2,600 orphans that have been cared for in the Oxford orphanage were born in hundreds of different homes. Take an average of two to the home. That would give us 1,300 mothers and 1,300 fathers praising God for the kindness shown to their children. John H. Mills, the man who started the first orphanage in our state, surely is meeting many who love him for his work's sake.
We now have about 1,700 children in the different orphan homes of North Carolina. God bless the men and women, officers and teachers, who are working for those children."
There is no nobler work than caring for helpless orphans, and the prayer of Uncle Betts will be answered in large measure.—Greensboro News.

Chief Justice Walter A. Clark of the North Carolina Supreme Court in a recent address prophesied that North Carolina women would be exercising within a few years the full right of suffrage.

THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1911.

There are some who prefer knocking to boosting.

Dr. Wiley is to hold his job and only get rebuke.

One good boost helps a town more than a hundred knocks.

The man who has it in for everybody usually knocks everything.

The reports of new buildings planned for Raleigh indicate that the city has "woken herself up."

When congress gets through with it, if there is any vote buying hereafter it may come cheaper.

It is a dull day around Washington that does not start a new investigation. They have found some hundred thousand dollar fees for doing a little special accounting.

There is not a discordant tone in the clinking of the ice in the pitcher.—Greensboro News.

But the discordant clank comes with the bill from the ice man.

It is none of our business, of course, but we do know that the Southern Tobacco Journal, of Winston-Salem, is running advertisements of firms that have been long out of existence.

If you only pick out the bad traits in a man to talk about, you will down that man. Likewise if you can see nothing but bad in your town to talk about, you knock your town every time you talk.

The business men may think they are saving a few dollars in not spending anything to extend the trade limits of Greenville, but while they are holding back, other towns are stepping in and getting the business that would come to Greenville if proper effort was made to get it.

While Mr. Bryan could not be president himself, though he made several unsuccessful efforts to be, he still assumes to be dictator of the party and wants to say who shall receive the nomination. His latest movement in that direction is to prepare a list of questions which he says every aspirant to the nomination must answer. It is inferred from this that those who do not answer the questions satisfactorily to Mr. Bryan are to have his opposition.

Industrial Schools.
Long, long years ago, immediately following the reconstruction period, with which the south was harrassed after the civil war, we began to hear now and again, from some man here, and another there, the suggestion that education in the south ought to be more industrial. The thought has made great headway, but even yet there are people who do not know what is meant by an industrial school.

Before the war every southern boy was brought up on a plantation or farm. He learned every operation that was done on the plantation, by doing it himself until he could do it well. He would sometimes try his hand at blacksmithing, sometimes at carpentering, sometimes at plowing and sometimes at hoeing. He would ride the horses and mules, and would drive a wagon until he could handle easily a six-mule team with one line. He learned by force of circumstances to do every operation on the plantation. About the time he got all the plantation occupations accomplished and behind him, some would then go to college, and there take on a proportionate amount of scholastic training.

What is now meant by an industrial school we conceive to be one which makes it a business to teach exactly what the boy found out for himself on the plantation. He didn't exactly find it out for himself, either, for the slaves were the best sort of teachers of practical, manual equipment, that went so far in the old days to make the southern man a well equipped man to run a plantation, or to deal with statesmen in the halls of congress. The new conditions which now surround us do not train the boy automatically to the practical things in life. Therefore, it becomes necessary to establish schools to give this supplementary to the youth of the modern, growing city, and other youths as well. The industrial school equips the youth practically in such a way that he can run a machine shop, a cotton mill, gas works, trolley line, or any other of these things which modern civilization has fallen heir to. It is a school which, besides giving a scholastic education, also gives to a boy the equipments to make him feel at home in the new surroundings of modern industrial life. It helps him to make a living and more. It gives him a knowledge and training of work—work which is advantageous to humanity.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Storm Does Great Damage.

Reports reached Raleigh yesterday morning of a severe hail, rain and wind storm, which visited the vicinity of Apex, late Tuesday afternoon, damaging the crops to the extent of $40,000 or $50,000. Much tobacco was totally ruined, being cut to pieces by the large hail stones which fell with great force.

The area suffering from the storm was about seven miles long and four miles wide. Within this territory of which Apex is the center, more than one hundred acres of tobacco was ruined, the hail completely stripping the stalks. Cotton and corn were also greatly damaged. Many of the farmers are preparing to plant peas on the ground where the tobacco grew before the storm.—New and Observer.

There's no fun in loafing if you can't bother some person who is busy.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer.

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I don't feel any pains.

Cardui worked like a charm." There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles.

ALABAMA NOT AHEAD

Iredell's Lady Deputy Sheriff is All That Alabama's Is and Then Some More.

A Birmingham correspondent of the Memphis Commercial Appeal says that Sheriff Brooks, of Calhoun county, Alabama, has appointed Miss Gertrude Hendricks, of Anniston, Ala. a deputy sheriff and boasts that she is the only young woman occupying the position of deputy sheriff in the South, all of which might be true if Iredell county was not a part of the South. This county has had a lady deputy sheriff ever since last November, when Miss McBride Jenkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Jenkins, of Statesville, was duly sworn in as such. She has all the authority of the deputies of the other sex, but she has not come into the public eye because she has not made any arrests. Neither has Miss Hendricks made an arrest.

Like Miss Hendricks, of Alabama, Miss Jenkins' principal duties are in the office of the sheriff. Here it is that she "keeps shop" and keeps order, and transacts the business of the office just about as well as anybody could do. She does not carry a revolver, as does the Alabama lady, but she keeps one handy in the office and has on occasions guarded prisoners in the office. And further, she has several times done what is claimed for the Alabama lady, viz: She has guarded booze which was seized by the officers and placed in the sheriff's office for safe keeping. Sheriff Deaton never has any fear of the booze being "re-seized" when left with the lady deputy, but this can't always be said of the deputies of the male persuasion, who are more given to yielding to temptation. While she has never made an arrest, Deputy Jenkins went with Sheriff Deaton and other officers to north Iredell after a bad blockader. The trip was made in the sheriff's auto, and with a lady in the machine the party did not attract attention, the natives not suspecting that it was a party of officers, and friends of the violators of the law didn't get alarmed.

The correspondent writing of the Alabama deputy says she is "studying the necessities of statutes in their application to bridge parties and to spiked punch at afternoon teas. She will also visit theaters and picture shows in the capacity of censor to suppress things when they get too broad, and she says she will see that proper limits are strictly observed by both and especially in chorus features." Miss Jenkins has not yet been assigned to any work of this kind, but there's no reason why she should not be, and the bridge players and theater. And because she has not done so in the past is no reason why Miss Jenkins is not going to carry a revolver and a pair of handcuffs in the future, and she has nerve enough to put them into use should it be necessary.

Other claims for the Alabama deputy are that she is good looking and has a musical, Southern voice. People who frequent the sheriff's office, and especially some of the "court house ring," are free in saying that they are ready to compare "our lady deputy in these particulars and are sure that she would not be found lacking.—Statesville Landmark.

The Raleigh News and Observer says the American Tobacco Company has advanced the price of cigarettes to Raleigh jobbers and it is charged that the company is trying to make good the expense of the Ware-Kramer damage suit.

Gold and Gray.

They whisper of true love,
Fair youth and bride,
They sing of their new love,
And age deride;
But I to my old love write this rhyme—
To my old love, safe from the traitor Time!

Our hair is all gray, dear,
While theirs is gold;
They dance through their May, dear,
While we are old!
They live for tomorrow, it's joy—or defeat—
But we have our yesterdays, mellow and sweet!

They burn in the beauty
Of ardent spring,
Nor vision the duty
Of harvesting!
To them age is failure, the breath of decay,
Yet we in December remember our May!
—Elizabeth Newport Hepburn.

Runaway Marriage.

For some time Mr. J. H. Melton, engineer at the electric light plant and boarding with Mrs. Lucy Rives, had been paying attention to her daughter, Miss Louise. There seems to have been some objection to the match so yesterday Mr. Melton and Miss Rives took a little trip to Washington and returned on the 3:25 train this morning as man and wife, having been married at Washington, and are receiving congratulations from their friends who were greatly surprised this morning.

And it's difficult for some girls to live down their relations.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Pick Ups and Hand-me-Downs.

It just did rain yesterday, only a few drops following. Flies continue to thrive and grow fat in Greenville. The rains made a little rise in the river, but it yet looks about twenty feet of being up to the flood of November 1887.

A SPLENDID ACHIEVEMENT.

Special Edition of The Charlotte Observer on 26th.

With its usual spirit of enterprise, the Charlotte Observer will issue Wednesday, July 26th, a special edition of about 100 pages, telling the story of the present condition and future possibilities of the territory of the two Carolinas between Greenwood, S. C., and Durham, N. C. It is the story of staff correspondent and illustrated and will be executed in the best mechanical style. This paper will be sold by all news dealers and regular agents of the Observer at the regular price of 5 cents. Wrapped copies will be sent by mail post-paid from the Observer office in Charlotte to any address in the world for 10 cents each. News dealers and agents should send their orders early. No matter where your friends live order copies of this edition sent to them. The Happenings Down in Cleod Township.

We had a large crowd-out to our Sunday school Sunday evening.

Some of our boys were all smiles Sunday because they saw their best girl.

Mr. J. W. Harper, of Winterville, was out here Sunday.

Kitchin and The Extremists.

It has been the pleasure of certain politicians in the state to set running some insinuations as to the unfaithfulness of Governor Kitchin to his ante-election pledges to slay the trusts. Now the charges has been openly made by two correspondents in the News and Observer and backed by the editor of that paper, that Governor Kitchin is a recreant, or worse. That North Carolina has failed to drive capital from its borders in a fashion to suit these anti-trust warriors is a matter for which an intelligent legislature is to blame. That Governor Kitchin did not find it necessary to meddle with the business of this legislature, or impugn its intelligence, is a fact that should be written to his credit. Governor Kitchin's conversatism has galled a certain faction of the party, while it has pleased another and larger faction. That the extremists have not been able to bend him to their will has always been a sore disappointment to them. We believe that in this matter Governor Kitchin will be able to make a good defense. We are perfectly willing to await his pleasure in doing so.—Charlotte Chronicle.

QUALIFICATION FOR CANDIDATES

If You Don't Measure Up, What Then?

Lincoln, Neb.—That every candidate for the Democratic nomination for President may be put on record, William J. Bryan is starting a crusade to mold public opinion to demand that every candidate shall state his exact position. Mr. Bryan will, in the Commoner this week, start the movement by printing a list of questions which each candidate is asked to answer. Every Democratic newspaper and especially the country press in the entire country is to be asked to reproduce these questions and demand of aspirants to the Presidency that they answer each one without equivocation. The questions follow: Do you favor tariff for revenue only?

Do you favor free raw material and the placing of a revenue duty on only manufactured goods?

Do you believe that in the revision of the tariff the element of protection should be given consideration?

Do you approve of the recent Standard Oil decision, wherein the Supreme Court "legislated" the word "unreasonable" into the Sherman Anti-Trust law?

Do you favor the repeal of the criminal clause of the Anti-Trust law or believe congress should make it clear that all restraint of trade is unreasonable?

Do you favor the income tax?

Do you believe it is the duty of the American people to promise independence to the Philippine Islands immediately and give it to them in the same way it was given to the Cubans?

Do you believe in publicity of campaign contributions?

Do you indorse the labor planks of the 1908, strict regulation of railroads, the Alrich currency scheme, asset currency in any form, establishment of a central bank and a law compelling banks to insure deposits?

Democrats Can Win.

Milwaukee, July 19.—Before leaving for his summer home in northern Wisconsin, after getting his party followers, at the solid Democratic picnic Congressman Berger fully discussed Washington politics, in the course of which discussion he predicted a Democratic victory in the next election, though he expects to see still more Socialists elected to Congress. "The Democrats never had a better chance for success," he said. "They will not have much to do to win. President Taft has a positive talent for making mistakes and always getting himself into trouble." He said he did not know how to account for this.

The Bee Hives of Industry.

The liveliest and most prosperous towns we have in this state are those wholly devoted to manufacturing. The dreariest towns, where dry-rot is visible on every hand, are those where no workshops are found. The typical manufacturing towns in this state are to be found on the Southern Railway between Raleigh and Charlotte. It is invigorating to the mind as well as the eye to travel through these towns, which may justly be termed "bee hives of industry." An air of thrift and enterprise is everywhere displayed.—Sanford Express.

Tickled Pomerene.

Senator Atlee Pomerene of Ohio refuses to become interested in Mr. Bryan's suggestion that he would make a good running mate on a presidential ticket with Judge Walter Clark, of North Carolina. The names of Clark and Pomerene were on the now famous list published recently in The Commoner as men who would be satisfactory to Mr. Bryan.—Concord Tribune.

Fast Train, Sure.

A fast mail train on the New York Central road, a few days ago, drawing seven all steel cars and two Pullmans, ran three miles in one minute and 51 seconds. The first mile was made in 38 seconds, the second in 37 and the third in 36, the fastest time ever made in the world on a steam railroad.

Another Tale of Woe.

Washington.—That Louisiana sugar planters and independent refiners fear the American Sugar Refining company was declared today by J. E. Burgaleres, president of the Louisiana Planters' Association, before the house would ruin the Louisiana sugar insular trust committee. He testified that reduction of the sugar tariff dustry.

Tobacco Sales.

The total tobacco sales on all markets in North Carolina for the 11 months ending with June, 1911, amounted to 120,922,812, as contrasted with 156,743,604 for the corresponding period last year. This is a decrease of 35,820,792 pounds.

Learning to Live at Home.

The Charleston Post, quoting from government figures, states that within a twelvemonth the people of South Carolina have sent out of the state for horses and mules $11,550,000; for bacon, $13,000,000; for dairy products, $12,000,000; for flour, $20,000,000 and for commercial foodstuffs, including hay, $4,000,000. The post correctly deems these statistics disheartening. But there is very good ground for encouragement none the less. It is not at all probable that South Carolina will ever again send out quite as much for these particular products. The corn-club movement, the girls' tomato clubs, the excellent pig club idea which is destined to spread from Greenville county to many others are all unmistakable indications that the farmer is beginning to apply what he is learning about the advantage of making his living on his own ground instead of raising cotton enough to purchase it from the nearest store. There is not a single item in the above list that a farmer in either Carolina cannot raise cheaper than he can buy, provided only that he use intelligently about the raising. If all the necessary data were at hand we believe that it would be found that the entire demand in both Carolinas for the commodities listed could be satisfied with home-grown products without at all eliminating cotton from the fields.—Charlotte Observer.

Auto Accident—Narrow Escape.

The machine of Mr. J. E. Staggs turned turtle Monday afternoon while the party was touring the country in the vicinity of Smithfield, in Johnson county. Several members of the family of Mr. Staggs were in the machine and the whole party had a very narrow escape from instant death. They were all caught under the machine, which had to be jacked up in order to free them. Miss Mary Washington Staggs suffered a severe injury of her shoulder, though no bones were broken. The other members of the party suffered severe bruises and cuts, but no one was seriously injured. All are doing well this morning.

The accident occurred on a very steep incline that had been made slippery by a recent rain. As the chauffeur started to turn the car across the hill, the wheels began to skid and turned turtle in a large ditch, pinning the whole party under the machine.—Durham Sun.

Grain.
Chicago, July 20.—The opening of the grain market was as follows:
September wheat 87 1-8
July corn 62 3-8
September 63 3-8

Stocks.
New York, July 20.—The stock market opened weak today, with Canadian Pacific off 1 1-8; Steel, common, American Smelting, Southern Pacific 1-8; Amalgamated copper, Erie, common, Union Pacific 3-8; Erie preferred, 1-2; Southern 1-4; Curb trading was irregular.

Another Trick.
It now develops that certain whiskey manufacturers have been taking the bottles stamped and labeled by the government and boring a small hole in the bottom through which the standard brand was taken out and an inferior grade substituted. The matter has just come to the attention of the authorities and it is said an investigation will follow.—Charlotte News.

Government Tobacco Report.
According to the crop reporting board of the bureau of statistics, United States department of agriculture, under date of July 10th, the total tobacco acreage for 1911 is 72.4 of that of 1910, and amounts to 893,200 acres.
The general average growing condition of July 1st was 72.6, or 12.7 inferior to the condition prevailing on the corresponding date last year, or 11.8 less than the average for the past ten years.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

To Catch a Glimpse of It Just Get Delirium Tremens.

The majority of us are like brutes. We believe but in the reality of things. Science, more hospitable, acknowledges the fourth dimension and with it the constant parade before our eyes of things and events ordinarily unseen. The phenomena of delirium tremens forms a case in point. The shapes which the layman believes the patient only imagines are really seen and are rendered visible through the excitation of the pineal gland, which now is the rudimentary organ of what once was psychic vision. Alcohol stimulates this gland. The drunkard in his afterpangs sees with it the hideousness of shapes which his own hideousness has attracted to him. For they are there, or, rather, they are here, about us in the fourth dimension, precisely as there are other shapes as gracious as these are revolting. Only ordinarily we do not see them. There are, though, those who can and do, and without being drunkards either.

Thinkers as sober as Jevons and Babbage go a bit further. They will, if you let them, tell you that whatever occurs in the privacy of a room remains photographed in it. A mere extension of this enables oculists to say that nothing has ever occurred anywhere which is not also photographed; that in the ether above us is the great picture gallery of the world.

In India, at Adyar, the chief lieu of theosophy, this gallery is constantly being studied. The results, occasionally bizarre, are sometimes trivial. It has been found that Herbert Spencer was Aristotle; Gladstone, Cicero; Tennyson, Ovid.—Edgar Saltus in Forum.

Notice.
We wish to announce that our land is posted and to warn people not to hunt on it. We have stock in the grounds and have had several cattle shot, supposed to have been shot by stray bullets fired by people shooting at marks. Unless this shooting on our property is stopped, we shall have to indict all persons we can catch on it carrying or using fire arms.

The Unexpected.
Joseph Kinward, of Tarrytown, N. Y., was in a swing painting the water tower there late Saturday when the rope broke. He dropped 150 feet, struck a guard wire, turned a complete somersault and landed on his feet. He smiled and said: "I did not expect to come down this way, but I'm all right."
