EXPERIMENTAL FARM WORK THROUGHOUT STATE

EIGHTY PER CENT OF COUNTIES.

This Work of Much Benefit To The Farmers.

RALEIGH, July 22, 1911.
Editor Reflector:

Some days ago we called the attention of your people to the local experimental farm work we are doing in the different counties of the state. Not all of the counties have these farms yet, but we confidentially expect to get the work in at least 80 per cent. of the counties this year.

The work done on these farms is such as will interest every man who tills the soil. Some of them have fertilizer experiments; some cultural methods experiments; some variety tests; some testing the relative value of fall as against spring spreading of manure, etc., in all of which the farmer has a vital interest. Large signs are erected in front of these stations and the details of the work are carefully labelled with large letters on painted boards so that all who pass by may see and understand the work in operation.

There may be a few cases where from one cause or another, such as failure to get a stand, unusually dry weather, forced inattention to the work on the part of the farmer, etc., the experiment in question may not show what it is expected to show, but we will have to ask you to wait till the following experiment is placed on the road as the results may be interesting.

You will generally find two experiments on your road each year—one during the summer and during the winter and spring. The nature of the experiment can always be understood from the signs in front of it.

We have to grapple with weather conditions just like you do, but we are very much gratified to be able to say that our work this year is doing extraordinarily well in all the counties considering the untoward conditions under which our local experimenters have had to work. Much credit is due them for the interest and determination shown in carrying out the instructions.

While the department furnishes all the fertilizers, and all the seed, when necessary, for the protection of this experimental work, the farmer does not get anything extra for his work. The work is so planned that the extra time given to the experimental side of the work just balances the extra fertilizer used on that part of the acre under experiment. It will be seen, therefore, that these men are engaged in a patriotic service to the state. The most important return is their increased knowledge of their own local conditions.

Next week we expect to begin a series of articles on organic matter in the soil and will emphasize the use of green manuring crops as the best and easiest means of putting humous in the soil which is the basis of all soil fertility.

WATER WITH MEALS.

Illinois Professor's Experiments Upset An Old Principal.

When men and horses fall from the heat there appears to be a double point to the consideration of a new theory which favors the drinking of water in large quantities with meals. Prof. P. B. Hawk, physiological chemist of the University of Illinois, is the first advocate of water at meal time. The relation of this to sunstroke is inferred here because nearly all other medical men discountenance the use of water at meals and again they agree that the principal cause of sunstroke is an overheated skin, which is in turn, most frequently due to an insufficient absorption of water.

Prof. Hawk doesn't consider any of the effects of not drinking water, but simply gives the result of his experiments on water drinking at meal-time and between meals. These experiments made in the laboratory of the University of Illinois, have just been made known, and the result is said to revolutionize ideas that can have obtained longer than anyone can remember. The relation of this new thought to heat prostration may be found in the prejudice most people have against drinking water while eating, owing to insistent teaching of the deleterious effects of the habit, and because it is notable that many cases of prostration follow the reception of a hearty meal.

"The medical profession", the report of Prof. Hawk says, "almost unanimously advise strongly against the drinking of large amounts of water taken at mealtime. The desirable features following the liberal use of water taken at the proper time, are thoroughly appreciated, but any suggestion as to the taking of water in large quantity with meals is strongly antagonized."

The principal objection to the copious ingestion of the fluid is based on the supposition that the excess water dilutes the gastric juice, gree the normal rhythm of the digestive functions.

Then he gives his experiment and the result of it. The subject was a man 22 years old. He was 'placed on normal and constant diet' for thirteen days analysis, being made of his food before the experiment began.

Water was given sparingly at first, only half a glass being allowed at each meal—breakfast at 7.30, lunch noon, and dinner, 6.15. The supply was increased, with beneficial effect, until the subject was drinking three pints of water at each meal, and his usual pint between breakfast and lunch and dinner and between dinner and bed time. This made six quarts a day.

Every day the subject was weighed before breakfast, and he gained steadily in weight and healthy tissue. All his physical processes improved. He looked better and felt better as the days wore on, and it was found that the bodily activities were stimulated so that separation and distribution of foods were improved and the system kept free of toxic poisons. The effect was an increased storage capacity for nitrogen in the body and the projectile constituents of the diet were more economically utilized during the period of extra water ingestion.—New York Times.

ROCKY MOUNT.—Shortly after 4 o'clock Friday morning there was considerable excitement at the home of W. N. Shine, on Hill street, when a negro man, evidently a burglar, crawled into the window of a room where two of the young ladies of the home were asleep. The young ladies screamed and the negro fled through the window through which he had entered, but a sister of the young ladies, frightened, hurried to the scene with a pistol and fired one time at the fleeing figure, but the shot missed its mark, it is believed.

The lightning during the storm last Thursday night struck the chimney of Ulus Allen, a colored man living on Green street, and split it open, left an opening at top about a foot wide and narrowed down to about middle way. There were nine people in the hall but no damage to them was done save being badly scared.—Louisburg Times.

He was bound for this port and arrived here at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with the body. Coroner J. L. Nicholson made an examination, but decomposition had so far set in that it was impossible to say whether any violence had been used or not. The remains showed that he was a white man some twenty or twenty-five years of age.—Washington Progress.

THE BEATTY WIFE MURDERER.

Detectives Charge He Paid $1,000 To Assassin—Late Developments.

RICHMOND, Va.—That Harry C. Beattie's wife was murdered in his sight by a hired man for $1,000, the detectives now declare. This person took the gun bought by Paul Beattie and went to the scene of the crime several hours before. Mrs. Beattie was out of the machine when she was shot. Officers further believe the man helped Beattie put his wife back into the machine and rode with them half a mile, then got out and walked the railroad where he dropped the gun and then took a car for Richmond. The person who did the shooting was a close friend of Beattie's for a number of years.

Good Farming.

Mr. Frank Newell is one of the farmers of the county who has made an excellent wheat crop. He sowed eleven bushels and harvested two hundred and ten and a half. Mr. Newell tells us that much of this wheat land would not produce seven hundred pounds of seed cotton to the acre. That he accounts for the good yield from the fact that he broke the land eight inches deep and thoroughly prepared the soil before sowing the wheat.—Warrenton Record.

PITT COUNTY FAIR.

Premium lists of the Pitt county fair to be held in Greenville November 2 and 3, are now being sent out. As the fair is not a money-making enterprise but free to everybody, and voluntary donations the only dependence for premiums, of course they had to be small, but the money value won is not the highest thing to consider. The fair is going to accomplish much good, in that it will bring a large number of people together to exchange ideas and to compare each other's products, and to explain methods of making better yields and raising finer stock. The progressive spirit is becoming more and more prominent in Pitt county, and the farmers are in friendly rivalry to see which can succeed best. Those who win premiums at the fair will certainly have cause to feel proud. From the number who are planning to make exhibits at the fair, there is every prospect of it being a great success.

LET'S GO FORWARD.

When Pitt county gets to raising all her own supplies, something she will come nearer to this year than ever before, and gets to manufacturing her own raw material into usable products, we will have an ideal county. The farmers ought to and can easily raise all the corn, wheat, meat and hay used in the county, and there ought to be mills for grinding the corn and wheat into meal and flour. Enough cotton is already raised here to more than clothe the county, and we ought to have mills to manufacture this into cloth and yarns. These things will come some day.

It is to be hoped that nothing will come to mar the prospects of good crops that now prevail throughout the county. Ask almost any farmer you meet about his crops and he will tell you they are fine. With the continuation of favorable conditions through to the harvest there will be such a reaping as will make thousands of hearts glad.

Though the price of cotton has come down considerably from its high level, we believe it will sell at a good price this fall, even in the face of predictions of a fourteen million bale crop.

The chamber of commerce of Hickory has raised $200,000 as a fund to guarantee the location of factories there. The town that goes after factories in that way will get them.

CHILDREN WHO ARE SICKLY.
Mothers who value their own comfort and feel the welfare of their children, should never be without a box of Mother Gray's Sweet Powders for children, for use throughout the season. A Chicago woman steals in her sleep. It so happens that the persons from whom she steals are also asleep. Her mania runs to rifling pockets.

Wilmington has a "Black Hand" letter writer. One wrote a letter to the city superintendent of health warning him to resign if he valued his life.

The Greenville post office will become a government postal savings bank on August 19th. This puts Greenville in the class with larger towns.

Greenville has the opportunity and the location, with raw material available for manufacturing enterprises. They should be brought together.

Possibly the fellows who are opposed to good roads have an idea that when airships get in use there will be needed for the roads.

Even the newspapers have no business trying to elect a United States senator. Let the people do that for themselves.

When Greenville gets busy with manufacturing enterprises she will come to her own.

Greenville has opportunities a plenty, but they must be used to keep the town growing.

Possibly the trouble with the New Yorkers is that they are over feeling.

Swatting flies and running politics at the same time is keeping Raleigh busy.

Senator Heyburn is really getting more attention than he deserves.

It is not the best citizen whom you hear knocking his town.

Railroad Won.

People who buy mileage books ought to be familiar with the requirements. A citizen of Hickory got on a train with a new and "unpulled" mileage book. There was a rucus. The conductor finally proceeded with the ejectment process, when the holder of the mileage concluded to pay fare to a station where his mileage could be pulled according to regulations. He sued the company for $2,000 for humiliation to his feelings. The suit was heard in Newton and the jury returned a verdict in favor of the railroad. The purchaser of railroad mileage enters into a contract. Conductors have no discretion and in cases where their duty is put up to them, the sympathy is generally on their side.—Charlotte Chronicle.

HER FRIEND'S GOOD ADVICE

The Results Made This Newburg Lady Glad She Followed Suggestion.

Newburg, Ala.—"For more than a year," writes Myrtle Cothrum, of this place, "I suffered with terrible pains in my back and head. I had a sallow complexion, and my face was covered with pimples. Our family doctor only gave me temporary relief. A friend of mine advised me to try Cardui, so I began taking it, at once, and with the best results, for I was cured after taking two bottles. My mother and my aunt have also used Cardui and were greatly benefited. I shall always praise Cardui to sick and suffering women." Cardui is a purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, tonic remedy for women, and will benefit young and old. Its ingredients are mild herbs, having a gentle, tonic effect, on the womanly constitution. Public Office and the Poor Man.

It seems to us that if the senate really desired to do something toward raising the standard of its personnel it might have passed a law forbidding the expenditure of any so-called campaign money by candidates, instead of throwing out an insult to the American electorate by placing a price of ten cents per head on the voters of the country. Beyond the expenditure of a small amount for traveling expenses, no candidate for the high office of representative in either branch of congress should be allowed to make any expenditure toward securing the office. Any money spent beyond this is money spent in buying the office. When the office is allowed to be purchased, then it is only a short time until it goes to the highest bidder. That is exactly what has been happening in all parts of the country. As a result, the national law making body has been filled with men who have more money than brains and care for the welfare of the people. Until conditions are made such that the election of men to public office depends upon their fitness for the office and their personality, rather than upon the size of the advertising campaign that they are able to carry on; the country will continue to be shocked by such scandals as the Lorimer muddle and we shall continue to be open to the charge that a poor man cannot run for office.—Durham Sun.

The Town That Really Grows.

Says the Asheboro Courier: The town that really grows is the town that has live people in it who do their best to help each other and to help the town grow.

Everybody can help a town grow by trading and buying as much as possible at home. Money spent at home circulates in reach.

The Wilmington Star speaks sensibly in an editorial under this head: "The merchant who sends away a dollar for supplies which can be bought in his own town, who doesn't throw something in the way of home industries, and who doesn't patronize the home architects, the home contractors, the home plumbers, the home dealers in building supplies, the home printers, etc., is contributing a large share toward having a hoot-owl town. They ought to be doing business in Dead Man's Gulch for what there's in it.

"If you've got a dollar to spend for anything put it in the palm of a home man. Plank down your dollar where it will come back to you through the channels of business, and quit playing "heads and tails" with yourself. Blow in your money on Winsome, Worthwhile Wilmington, and it will be blown in on you in return when the high tide of prosperity begins to roll."

A George, Jr., Republic for N. C.

Mr. J. W. Bailey, who has just returned from Jackson Springs, told about a George Junior Republic in North Carolina, the organization of which is now being perfected. It will be located at Mt. Gilead, in Montgomery county.

This has been made possible by a gift of seven hundred acres of land—the greater part of the donor's estate—by Rev. Dr. Oscar Haywood, in memory of his father, Dr. Haywood is a North Carolinian, now residing in New York. An endowment is also being raised, a number of philanthropists in the North taking part.

The George Junior Republic in Montgomery county will be associated with the other republics in the United States, and, like them, will be self-governing community, where the boys in residence will learn industry, self-control, and a social way of living. When the cottage dormitories now being arranged for are ready, the founder of the republic, Mr. George, will assign a hundred boys, all of them under sixteen.

Among the trustees are Martin W. Littleton, the celebrated New York lawyer, and President W. L. Poteat, of Wake Forest College.—News and Observer.

In the year 1626 Peter Minuit bought the whole island on which New York City—now worth four thousand million dollars is built. He paid $24 for the island. Had he put out that $24 at 4 per cent compound interest in 1626 it would now amount to as much as the present value of New York City.

Child Killed.

STATESVILLE. — Brown Fesperman, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Fesperman, of Statesville, was run over by a threshing machine late this afternoon and almost instantly killed. The distressing accident occurred at the home of the little girl's grandfather, Mr. J. C. Brown, six miles from Statesville, where she was visiting. The threshing machine outfit was passing along the road, and the little girl ran out and jumped on the tongue of the machine, just in the rear of the traction engine, to ride. She fell just in front of a wheel, which ran over her head causing almost instant death.

The Wine Law.

RALEIGH, N. C.—So many farmers are making inquiries in regard to the manufacture and sale of wine that Deputy Sheriff Crocker today asked that it be stated any person may make wine from his own fruit and sell the wine on his place in sealed packages of 2 1-2 gallons or more. The prohibition law does not prohibit the farmer from making wine provided he does not carry the stuff from his premises to sell it or put it up in packages of less than two gallons and a half.

As Others See Us.

The "Old North State," so dear to the hearts of the "down homer" has its admirers wherever splendid patriotism is appreciated, and the lavishness of natural resources recognized. The Times-Dispatch culls from recent statistics some figures that show what a wonderful empire lies within the borders of North Carolina. It says:

"The story of the last United States Census is coming out, and it shows that North Carolina is well along towards the front of the procession. The value of the farming lands in that State in the last decade has increased from $194,656,000 in 1900 to $455,715,000 in 1910 or 154 per cent. The average value of land increased from $6.24 the acre in 1900 to $15.29 in 1910. The increase in the use of commercial fertilizers amounted to 173 per cent, with the result that during the last two seasons North Carolina has produced more cotton to the acre than any other State, surpassing even the great big blustering State of Texas by 94 pounds of lint cotton to the acre. It is suggested that as the cotton production is falling off in Texas, there is a great opportunity for the large cultivation of the staple in the more northern of the Southern States, and that there is the opportunity for a largely increased cotton acreage in North Carolina.

"Not only is the Old North State doing wonderful things with cotton, but it is also making a great deal of corn and oats, and could supply every man, woman and child in its borders with a loaf of wheat bread every day in the year, and three times a day, if any proper care should be given to the cultivation of wheat. Last year North Carolina produced 50,000,000 bushels of corn and about 10,000,000 bushels of wheat and oats. Where so much grain is grown, naturally there has been a most encouraging increase in the growing of cattle for the market and great development of the dairying industry. With abundant pastures in every valley and on every hilltop, there is practically no limit that can be placed on the development of this industry.

"Great as it is in agriculture, North Carolina is even greater in its manufacturing industries, the capital invested in these industries aggregating, according to the latest figures we have at hand, $141,000,639, and to the $5,329 wage-earners is paid out annually $21,375,294. The value of the products of these establishments amounts to $142,520,776. This is only touching the State in the high places. There are riches contained in its soil and mines and forests and rivers that have not been dreamed of even by the most progressive and active of its people."—Ledger-Dispatch.

Wilmington Gets Dose of Recall.
WILMINGTON.—The political atmosphere in Wilmington has been at fever heat today owing to the circulation of 12 petitions for the recall of all councilmen elected last May under the new commission form of government, and was stated tonight that something over 700 names has been secured, the law requiring 35 per cent of the vote cast in the last general municipal primary election for all candidates running for the office of mayor.

The petition gives as reason for recalling the councilmen the following: "Not allowing merchants to use any part of sidewalks in displaying goods; passage of ordinance not allowing cows to be kept within 50 feet of dwellings and then on cement floors; not allowing hogs to be kept in any part of the city (formerly allowed to keep hogs in outskirts); election of two city attorneys at good salary and creation of job of confidential adviser to the mayor; members of council voting themselves full salary allowed, $1,900, and some of the members giving but little of their time to the office; importing civil engineer and employing a superintendent of health who is a stranger in Wilmington. The petition asks for the recall of Mayor Joseph D. Smith, Councilman B. C. Moore, W. E. Perdew, P. Q. Moore and M. G. Tiencken.

Where Is The Money?

TARBORO.—A few weeks ago a man came here hunting for one Starling, alias Nelson, but lost his trail. Friday morning a detective from Quitman, Ga., went to the court house, saw a justice of the peace and the sheriff. Later Jesse Thomas, deputy sheriff, took the detective, who was disguised to Speed. There they found the man and arrested him. He is a small man about thirty years old. He made no resistance when arrested. The detective says the man is wanted for forging checks enough to get from thirty to fifty thousand dollars. He made no resistance when arrested and returned here with the officers. He has been away some eight months, and for three months has been working at Speed. The arrested man claims he is a native of this state. He is now in jail here.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS AROUND WINTERVILLE

SOME GOOD ADVICE TO FARMERS.

Personal Mention And News Notes Around That Town.

WINTERVILLE, N. C.—Mr. O. W. Rollins came over from Ayden Wednesday.

Prof. F. C. Nye returned Wednesday from a trip through Onslow county in the interest of the school.

We wish to call the farmers attention again to the fact that they should take every advantage possible in housing their tobacco crop this season. The tobacco properly housed this season will sell high. To let your tobacco be bruised or broken up, is like tearing up paper dollars. The surest and best way, and the way to save money is to use the "Handy truck," manufactured by the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co.

Mr. J. W. Harper spent several days here this week in and around Black Jack.

Trunks, suit cases and telescopes, at A. W. Ange & Co's.

Mrs. J. L. Rollins, who spent several days with her parents near Kinston, returned home Wednesday.

Tobacco twine, thermometers and lanterns. Harrington, Barber & Co's. Mr. C. T. Cox and Miss Isabelle Williams drove over to Ayden Thursday evening.

We have a new lot of pants on hand. Come and take your pick. A. W. Ange & Co.

Several of our young men attended the ball game at Ayden yesterday.

Harrington, Barber & Co. are selling their stock of slippers now at cost. Good time to buy.

Prof. F. C. Nye left Friday for a trip over the river in the interest of the school.

Along with the nice arrangements for buggies, the A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co. will be in much better shape to furnish coffins and caskets. They also offer excellent horse service.

Messrs. Heber McLawhorn and R. L. Abbott attended the ball game at Greenville yesterday.

Fire, as all of us know, is a most dangerous enemy when not under control. You must ever handle it carefully, or all your toils and savings will be consumed by this demon. In spite of the knowledge the farmer has of this truth, and in spite of the fact that so many barns of tobacco have been burned because of the owner not having safe flues in the barn, they content themselves by saying, "I will get new flues next year. Maybe they will last me this season." In most cases he waits one year too late. The only way to prevent fire is to remove all possibilities of a cause. The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Co., of Winterville, have the tobacco flues made for you, and you had better examine your flues carefully with an impartial eye before you decide not to buy from them this season.

Mrs. Marion Crawford went to Ayden last night to spend a few days with her mother.

Get your repair work done at Harrington, Barber & Co's shop. Repairing of all kinds, at any time.

Rev. Chas. E. Lee, of Bunyon, spent last night with Mr. A. W. Ange on his way to Rountrees.

The best molasses and pure apple cider vinegar at Harrington, Barber & Co's.

Several of our young people attended a party at Miss Lizzie Cox's, near Cox's Mill last night. They report a good time, and we must think they did by the time they were returning this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Cox, who for some time have been in the western part of the state recuperating, returned home last night.

"Laughing" Theodore went over to Ayden yesterday evening.

Notice.

We wish to announce that our land is posted and to warn people not to hunt on it. We have stock in the grounds and have had several cattle shot, supposed to have been shot by stray bullets fired by people shooting at marks. Unless this shooting on our property is stopped, we shall have to indict all persons we can catch on it carrying or using fire arms.

What Some Others Produce.

Robeson county is the greatest cotton producing county in North Carolina its 1910 crop having amounted to 62,944 bales. Johnson is next with 36,254 bales and Mecklenburg 1st bird with 33,669 bales. The production in the big eastern counties is surprisingly small in comparison. For instance, Halifax raised only 23,315 bales and Northampton still less—11,559. Sampson's production amounted to 16,091 bales against 25,819 for the little county of Scotland. Wayne county comes along with 26,315 and Wilson with 24,309. Coming nearer home, Rowan county does not seem to be awake to the possibilities of cotton growing, its production being 9,826 bales. Stanly is even poorer, with 8,514. Flanking these counties, Union grows 23,355 bales and Cabarrus 12,147. Anson produces 24,371 bales. Catawba, could it spare the wheat and potato land, could easily grow four times 7,887 than 14,852. That county and Rich-bales. Gaston ought to do better mond are almost a tie as cotton producers, Richmond's figures being 14,539. Guilford county, where cotton melts into tobacco raised 310 bales last year. North Carolina's entire cotton crop last year amounted to 774,752 bales, valued at a fraction under sixty million dollars.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Pitt county's average is over 20,000 bales. Even last year, with its short crops, Pitt produced over 18,000 bales. And, too, Pitt raises more tobacco than any county in the state. And it raises any crop grown in Eastern Carolina.
