BIRTH OF ORPHANAGES IN NORTH CAROLINA

MILLS HEARS AN ORPHAN STORY

And Begins Greatest Work the State Has Ever Known.

HANRAHAN, N. C., Aug. 7.—Since the time that Andrew found Peter, and that degraded woman at the well found Christ, every one who really finds the Christ wants to lead the way for others to find Him. Even so it is with those who have been afflicted with that which is depressing to body and spirit and finds a remedy. They want to tell it to others. This accounts for so much free advice along medical lines among the laity. Many ailments will get well anyway. So each fellow that you meet has a panacea for every ache and pain that the body is heir to, and by the time the stomach takes them all in, then, indeed and in truth, they need a physician that knows how to give some prescription that will alleviate the stomach and rest it for a while. Here, too, the mental part needs stimulating and needs to be detracted from self and directed to other things. And here the science of mental suggestion plays a wonderful part. Let a horse get sick and every fellow in the community has a never-failing remedy, and generally they are all given. So the horse is soon dead from too much doctoring. More horses in the country are killed by too much doctoring than die from disease.

Then you will pardon me for telling how, when and where I found vigor, strength and new life, when the world only looked dark and gloomy because my very mental was sucked to death by hook worm. On the appointed day after our meeting at the old church, I met Eugene at the place that we had designated, and he told me he had trimmed out a small path to the seven springs that he had found, and said he thought he could guide me to them without my getting hurt. (I have a lame lower limb, so I have to be careful how and where I walk). He did lead me to the springs where we securely hid, and did drink and talk and plan for future things.

While there he told me he felt sure in two weeks more that he would be entirely well and then he should make his way for parts unknown to him, but that he should take a sunset course and travel by night and would be guided by the stars, for he had watched them intently during his lonely stay. He said after he was out of reach then he would travel by day, but while he stayed in hiding it would not do for us to meet often, and if I was sure that I could find the springs he would not meet me again until the day before he expected to depart at night. Though it was a blind path I told him I felt sure I could find them, but I must needs visit them seldom until his departure, for fear some one might detect and betray him.

Two weeks from then we met again and he was well and strong, and that night he took his departure. For several nights he traveled in a westerly direction until he knew that he was out of reach of his master or those who might be looking for him. So then he took the daylight to travel in. One day when the sun was bending low and only the reflections of his rays could be seen as they climbed over the western hills, Eugene was worn, weary, hungry and faint. When he came to a home, cheerful looking it was, on the veranda near the wayside he saw a young man whose face glowed with the shekinah of God's love. His eyes gave him an inviting look and a kind word burst from his lips. "You look worn and haggard, my boy. Suppose you tarry a while and tell me something of your troubles." Then Eugene read in this man love and good will. So he stopped. "You are worn and hungry, are you not?" "Yes, sir." "Well, be seated here until I can have some food prepared for you, and when you are rested and have eaten I want to know something of your life and your purpose."

After that big-hearted soul returned, Eugene told him the sad story of his life. Jack Mills had thought of the hardships of orphans before, but never had he seen their lives so fully demonstrated. As Eugene told his story of privation, sickness, and want of a kind word or gentle acts, the tears of heart-felt sympathy streamed down Jack Mills' face and his love for such was made stronger, his determination increased and his will

LABOR AND TRADE BODIES.

To Have Big Annual Gathering This Week.

CALGARY, Alta., August 7.—The preparations for the twenty-seventh annual session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which will convene in this city on Friday of this week, are nearly completed. The local body in charge of the arrangements for the convention is in receipt of advices which indicate a large and thoroughly representative attendance by delegates representing every Trades and Labor council in the Dominion of Canada.

The coming gathering promises to be of exceptional importance and interest to the organized labor bodies of Canada, owing to the large number of important matters that will come up for consideration. Among the subjects to be discussed are the following: Dominion and provincial legislation in its bearing upon organized labor; the immigration laws; the 8-hour bill; fortnightly payment of wages on railways; the Winnipeg street railway strike; the western coal miners' difficulty, as well as the strikes in Nova Scotia; the work of the provincial federations, notably that of British Columbia; abolition of Chinese tax and substitution of agreement or understanding, as with Japan "imperial" labor exchanges; the arrest of McNamara; non-observance of municipal fair-wage clauses; the attempt on the part of Russia to secure the surrender of Federenko; the judgment of the United States Supreme court in the Gompers case and many other matters of vital interest to the workers.

GATHERING OF SHERIFFS

National Convention Meets Today In Omaha.

OMAHA, August 7.—This city can boast of an annual plethora of sheriffs today, there being nearly four hundred of these officials in the city. More than 300 of them representing various sections of the United States are attending the national sheriffs' convention, which opened here today, while the rest are members of the Nebraska Sheriffs' Association, which opened its annual convention at the same time. The two conventions will have three business sessions, but the greater part of the three days of the gathering will be devoted to recreation and sightseeing.

guided zeal fired as nothing else could have done it. So he, Jack Mills, determined by implicit faith in God and confidence in his fellow man, to do something to lift up and fit such children for life's duties.

What could be done? Not only his branch of the Christian church, but almost all branches, at this time, seemed to be sleeping along these lines, and seemed to think that salvation must come to man through some great power of God unaided by man. 'Tis true our land was devastated and poverty-stricken by the effects of that recent war, and, too, it is true that the churches of that time did not have that implicit faith in God that looks up, gets up, and does things; but that inactive faith that stands as the great steam engine without the throttle being turned on that puts it in motion and does something. The wind that is still only gives us air to breathe, but when put in motion moves our majestic ships and uproots gigantic trees. So faith that is not applied by action does but little here below.

Jack Mills, finding the church in too much lethargy to do anything towards building a home and caring for children of this kind, he must needs at this time look to some other source. But determined he was to take no denial, so to the Grand Lodge of Masons he appealed for help. There, too, he found men who could not see as he did, but there was a spark of faith among this body, and his pleading was so earnest that they could not resist. So they laid their heads together and formulated a plan to build a nucleus around which one of the greatest institutions that grace our state was erected. From this Oxford Orphan Asylum has set in motion that faith that has caused homes for those children to be built by all the progressive orders and churches.

The active faith of Jack Mills fired by the sad story of Eugene started in motion that faith and zeal that has done so much for humanity. The world is growing better.

G. Cloer, met instant death while trying to jump off the moving train. The boy, it is reported, undertook to ride the train a little way down the road, and, in the attempt to jump from the fast moving car which he was swinging onto, in some way his neck fell across the rail and in an instant his head was completely severed from the body, both being picked up some feet apart.

GOOD MEETING SUNDAY.

Though the Attendance Was Smaller Than Usual.

Owing to the threatening weather the Men's Prayer League, which met in the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon, had a smaller attendance than usual, but those present found it well worth while to be there. Mr. J. L. Little was the only one of the appointed leaders for that day who was present, and after a good talk by him on the subject, "Reward of Well Doing," several others followed him with impromptu remarks that made the meeting an interesting and helpful one.

Next Sunday the meeting will be held in the Christian church when the subject will be the "Sufficiency of Grace." Text, 2 Cor. 12:9. Leaders, Messrs. W. A. Bowen, Wiley Broyn and R. H. Wright.

The Charlotte Observer does not take much stock in the "back home" movement and gives good argument to back up its position. It says increased population and desirable citizens are not to be had that way.

A Parable on Boys.

The following trite article was written by Editor Ernest Camp in the Walton Tribune.

"Verily in this day and generation, the father raiseth up his son on the street and sidewalks. He layeth around the soda founts and mbibeth slop and hookworms. He groweth in knowledge of nothing except cigarettes and cuss words.

"When he attaineth the age of 16 he acquired a suit of clothes turned up at the bottom two furlongs above his feet. He displayed a pair of noisy sox, with purple background and violets to the front. He wearth low cut shoes and a green tie. He looketh like a banana merchant on the streets of Cairo.

"The inside of his head resembles the inside of a pumpkin.

"He falleth in love with a spindle ankle girl with pink ribbons in her hair, and he craveth for an automobile that he may ride her forth in the springtime. He thinketh work is sinful. He scattereth his mother's pin money like a cyclone scattereth a rail fence. He sitteth up at night to prite poetry, and giveth no thought to the multiplication table. His mind turneth to the vanities of life, and not the high cost of corn bread.

"Verily, verily! he needeth a board applied vigorously to the southwest corner of the anatomy.

He thinketh his father a plodder and his mother a back number. He pictureth to himself great riches suddenly acquired. He dreameth of steam yachts and private cars. "Yes, he thinketh himself the real stuff. He butteth where he is not wanted; he criticiseth his elders; he purchaseth cheap perfume and smell-eth louder than a billy goat.

"When he groweth up he getteth a job as clerk in a store at $1.00 a day and swipeth extra from his boss until he is caught."—Exchange.

Delaying the Mails.

Postmaster Wright gives a timely warning to the business men of the city that if they do not get their mail, and the letters of others, delayed they should send them to the postoffice earlier in the day.

He states truly that many of the large concerns having an enormous mail will allow it all to accumulate in their offices during the day and then send it all over at once just before the hours for closing the mails. It is easy to see how certainly such conditions insure delays in the mails, and the men who are responsible for it are the ones who suffer.

By sending mail to the postoffice several times during the day the possible delays would be avoided and the work for the clerks in the postoffice more evenly distributed during the day.

The merchants should take note of the postmaster's warning and not contribute to the delay of their own

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the danger of dropsy, and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills are endorsed by thousands. Here's Greenville proof:

James Long, Dickinson Ave., Greenville, N. C., says, "I am certain that Doan's Kidney Pills are a remedy of merit and I do not hesitate to recommend them. When I was suffering from backache, pains in my kidneys and other symptoms of kidney and bladder trouble, I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills from the John L. Wooten Drug Company. It did not take them long to bring me relief."

A BANK ACCOUNT IS A BEACON LIGHT T'WILL GUIDE YOU THROUGH FINANCIAL STORMS

In the year 1626 Peter Minuit bought the whole island on which New York City—now worth four thousand million dollars is built. He paid $24 for the island. Had he put out that $24 at 4 per cent. compound interest in 1626 it would now amount to as much as the present value of New York City.

Maryland Leads.

Elsewhere in this paper is published a statement, taken from the insurance commissioner's report, of premiums received by casualty companies doing business in North Carolina, showing that the Maryland Casualty Company leads them all, with premiums more than twice as large as the next highest. This means that it is the best. H. A. White represents the Maryland.

FREE CLINIC FOR HOOKWORM.

Dr. Hyatt Will Set Aside Every Sunday for Treating Those Unable to Pay for It—A Much-Needed Cooperation With Commission.

Nothing but the physicians can form an adequate conception of the service that is being rendered North Carolina by the hookworm commission. Had it not been for Dr. Stiles, we would never have known of these terrible little pests that are sapping the blood of our country-raised children, and had it not been for Rockefeller's money and that wonderful business head of his, there never would have been instituted the best-planned and most successful crusade in all history against health-destroyers and for the sanitary betterment of our state. The wisdom of enlisting the educational forces in the campaign is bearing fruit. Everybody knows of hookworms. While the teachers often and parents who strenuously deny that their petted little sap-headed children are dull because they have hookworms, the majority are alive to the situation and are sending their children to physicians to be treated.

Health is the country's greatest asset, and he is the greatest conservator of our resources who does the most to make good health the common heritage.

Hookworm infection being generally consequent upon foot-and-ground-itch, it naturally follows that poorer children who are compelled to go barefooted among unsanitary surroundings, should be the ones who most often become victims to these remorseless little blood-suckers. With a thin blood supply, their young brains cannot respond to teaching, and their consequent feeling of lassitude causes them to get in the habit of doing nothing, they grow up ignorant idlers, and in the past, as "poor white trash," were a reproach to southern civilization.

Thanks to John Rockefeller and Dr. Stiles, if this campaign against ignorance and shiftlessness he presumed as vigorously for the next ten years as it has been in the past one, North Carolina will have a healthy and ruddy manhood that will equal any in the world.

The writer well remembers the time when he was a barefooted boy and had wrestled all summer with the footitch, how terribly hard it was for him to keep up with his classes in the fall and winter. It was especially so as most of the boys parents were rich and proud enough not to let their children go barefooted. They came to the school ruddy and strong, while he was pale and anaemic. His lessons were hard, while to them they were easy.

This is the reason he and his son, Dr. A. L. Hyatt, in last July opened a free clinic every Sunday for the treatment of all hookwormy children who were unable to pay a fee, or had even the small price to pay for the medicine. This free clinic will continue every Sunday as long as there are any very poor children to be treated. While Dr. Stiles' scientific work and John Rockefeller's money is doing so much for the future men and women of our state, it is our sincere hope that other physicians will take up the same kind of work. Mr. Rockefeller has the money to do his part, and is doing it well. We physicians have as much spare time as Mr. Rockefeller has, which we might as well spend in doing for the poor as to waste in idleness.

Just as soon as a man sets out not to get married some woman seals his fate by setting out to marry him.

By buying at wholesale and in quantities, we are enabled to treat each case at an expense considerably under 10 cents. The consciousness of having rid a child of worms that brings to us many times more joy than we have ever gotten out of any other investment of like amount.

We hesitated some time before opening our free clinic, because we knew that some other physicians chums and declare that we were do-would "chew the rag" with their ing this work not out of charity of heart, but for purposes of advertising.

To those who feel like utilizing their waste time in helping the helpless, let me say, don't let any adverse criticism from any source deter you. You have just as much right to do good deeds as any one.—H. O. Hyatt, in Kinston Free Press.

Too Small at The Start.

The success of the East Carolina Teachers Training school, at Greenville, has been gratifying. This school passed its second year on July 23, with an enrollment of 528 students, though the dormitories could only accommodate 200. During the summer term 301 students were enrolled during the eight weeks, indicating the success of this part of the year. This is a fine record. Commenting on it, The New Bern Journal says: "Greenville has gained by securing this school, though there were prophets willing to stake their reputation that Greenville would be sorry. Most of all the cause of education has been greatly advanced through the training of teachers at this school. Only one mistake was made, that of underestimating the possible attendance at the school and the state not appropriating money for 600 instead of 200 students." This mistake is usually made in the beginning of state enterprises. It was notably the case in the Agricultural and Mechanical College. But this training school at Greenville having scored such a success from the start can go before the next legislature with a just cause for aid.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free at all druggists.

EQUALITY.

Whether I be the grandest genius or earth's single thing, and that single thing earthy, or the poor peasant who, behind his plow, whistles for want of thought, I strongly suspect it will be all one when I pass to the competitive examination yonder! On the other side of the grave a Raphael's occupation may be gone as well as a plowman's.—Bulwer-Lytton.
