NORTH CAROLINA STATE FARMER' CONVENTION

VERITABLE RALEIGH RALLY.

Three Days Gathering That No Farmer Should Miss.

The farming and live stock interest of North Carolina will be greatly benefited by the three days' convention that is to be held in Raleigh, beginning August 29th.

The gathering is in the nature of a round-up State Farmers' Institute, the gathering of the hosts of agriculture, teachers and those seeking agricultural knowledge.

The session will be held in the convention hall of the A. and M. College near the state fair grounds, and for the entire three days an interesting program of addresses and discussions has been arranged.

On the afternoon of the second day there will be a Berkshire Breeders' association, a sale of thoroughbred stock held on the state fair grounds, beginning at 1:00 p. m. This sale will be held under the auspices of the North Carolina Berkshire Breeders' Association and a large and valuable assortment of pure breeding stock will be offered.

Wednesday forenoon will be devoted to stock judging, lectures on growing hogs and cattle and an address on the feeding of farm animals.

Every farmer in North Carolina who is interested in livestock, and especially hog raising, will miss a valuable opportunity if he is not present at the convention and proceedings on Wednesday.

A summary of the program for the three days will cover talks by Governor W. W. Kitchin; W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture; President D. H. Hill, of the A. and M. College; Clarence H. Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer; Frank Shields, president of the convention and Franklin Sherman, Jr., of the state department of agriculture; Dr. B. W. Kilgore, state chemist; C. B. Williams, director of the experiment station; J. C. McNutt, of the A. and M. College and C. R. Hudson, of the state department, will give practical talks on "Soil," "Seed Corn Selection," "Feeding Animals," and "State Demonstration Work." W. W. Gardner, of the U. S. department of agriculture, will give an address on "Tobacco Curing;" W. H. Merrimam, a practical stock breeder, of Illinois, will talk on "My Experience With Hogs;" W. H. Caldwell, secretary of the American Guernsey Club, will tell about dairying and the Guernsey cow; A. M. Swinnerton, of Pinehurst farm, will tell about the "Handling of Sandy Land;" Ernest Starnes, of Hickory, N. C., will explain, "How I raised 146 bushels of corn on one acre;" and O. B. Martin, of Washington, D. C., will give an illustrated talk on "Boys and Girls Clubs in the South."

All the sessions will be interspersed with discussions on the various papers and several meetings of the breeders' association, farmers' conventions and other organizations will take place during the three-days gathering.

The stock judging contest will be of particular value and interest and should be attended by all.

The college will furnish rooms free, the only expense of those attending will be 25 cents a meal. Those intending to stay at the college will please bring sheets, and a pillow, if they desire a pillow.

The Norfolk Southern Railroad will have special fares to Raleigh from all points in the state of North Carolina on its line, except from points located between New Bern and Goldsboro and New Bern and Beaufort, the one fare for the round trip. This rate will be applied from Columbia, Behaven, Oriental and all intermediate points via the Norfolk Southern, but will not be good for tickets via Goldsboro. From the points not mentioned the fare will be on the certificate plan, namely: one and one-half (1½) fares, plus 50 cents.

From all stations between Raleigh and Washington and all stations on the Goldsboro division a rate of one and one-third (1-1/3) fare is authorized.

With these special low rates in effect no farmer in Eastern North Carolina can afford to miss the great three-days convention, breeders' association, stock judging and stock sales that are to be held in Raleigh. The occasion will be a veritable farmers' "Raleigh Rally."

It is hoped to hereafter make this state farmers' rally an annual event.

EX-GOVERNOR AYCOCK AT OAK CITY THURSDAY

LARGE CROWD HEAR HIM SPEAK

Oak City Is A Prosperous, Progressive Town.

Several went from here to Oak City over in Martin county, Thursday to hear Governor Aycock and enjoy the barbecue and other good things prepared by the people of that progressive community.

Oak City is what was formally Goose Nest, in the center of Goose Nest township, which is the banner Democratic township of Martin county and has more than once saved the county for the party. As a town, it has a depot, a bank six stores, two others in course of erection, two saw and shingle mills, a grist mill and a large ginney, a population of about 350, and a brass band. A recital of stores, bank, etc., does not convey an idea of what Oak City is to a man visiting the place on such an occasion as this, to see and mingle with the people and see the evidences of culture progress and prosperity. It is the center of a prosperous farming section. The crowd was variously estimated at between 600 and 800, a number of people from adjoining counties also being present.

It was to such a crowd that Mr. R. O. Everett, of Durham, introduced the speaker. Mr. Everett came down for the speaking and to spend the day with his home people, he being, as Mr. J. J. Long, chairman of the school board, said in introducing him, "home grown" (Oscar, as they knew him, weighs 225). Mr. Everett spoke of his pleasure in being present and seeing such marked signs of prosperity. No community, he said, had more marked evidences of progress, and that the natural possibilities had always been great, this community had felt and been advanced by the great educational wave that had swept the state. That he was proud to be here with one of the factors in creating and advancing that movement to the overflowing of this old commonwealth.

This educational wave had remade North Carolina and that no better proof could be produced than to ask the older people to reflect on the conditions. He said that Governor Aycock and his co-laborers had not only increased the progress and prosperity of the state, but had created a state of mind, a spirit which pervaded the whole people and moves forward for their uplift. This spirit, he denominated "the Aycock spirit."

After the introductory speech, the band played "Dixie" and Governor Aycock began a matchless educational address. Governor Aycock said he had done what he could, but conditions and the teachers of the state had made this stride and that he had only been a worker among them. His description of the application of education to agriculture was most apt and appropriate. The application of the principle of contest and competition as a means of development was illustrated by examples from every day life. Further, that it takes education to appreciate education, every phase of life being elevated by this principle. There was no reference to politics or anything that could be construed politically throughout the entire address.

Governor Aycock was in fine trim and spoke with old time power and effect. It was interesting at the close of the address and throughout the day to hear the older men tell of his speech at Williamston, seventeen years ago, when he debated the issues of the day with ex-Senator Butler. One enthusiastic Aycock admirer said that Senator Butler spoke first and that when his speech was finished he was a Populist, and happy with it because his mind was made up. But said he, Governor Aycock, began his speech calmly and had not gone far before Butler's speech was answered and at the close of the governor's speech he was back home, and that was the only time he had ever wavered in his devotion to the Democratic party. There was no doubt that "the Aycock spirit" pervaded the crowd Thursday. One of the strongest leaders in the county said that Aycock was North Carolina's second Vance.

Governor Aycock was the guest of Mr. Justus Everett Wednesday night and of Dr. B. L. Long, of Hamilton, for an automobile drive Thursday morning.

THE BIGGEST BATTLESHIP LAUNCHED TODAY

DECLARED TO HAVE NO EQUAL.

Thousands Cheered and Waved Their Hats.

QUINCY, Mass., Aug. 26.—Declared to have no equal afloat as a first-class fighting machine, the dreadnought Rivadavia, the largest ship of war now building or under design and the first battleship ever built in the United States for a foreign power, was successfully launched from the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company shortly after noon today. The Rivadavia is being built for the Argentine Republic A sister ship, the Moreno, is under construction at Camden, N. J., and will soon be ready for launching.

As the big hull started down the ways with the golden sunburst on a field of blue and white, the colors of the republic of Argentina, flying from the stern, Senora de Naon, wife of the Argentine minister to the United States, broke a gayly be-ribboned bottle of champagne against the keel of the great ship and spoke words that gave the vessel its name. In performing the christening ceremony Senora de Naon acted as proxy for Senora Rosa Saenz Pena, wife of the president of Argentine Republic.

Thousands cheered and waved their hats as the giant hull rushed into the water. Among those who witnessed the spectacle were a number of the South American diplomats who are spending the summer in New England, together with numerous naval officers from Charlestown, Brooklyn and elsewhere and experts from the naval department and various shipbuilding companies, all of whom have been greatly interested in the construction of the Rivadavia, which is of a type which has come to be known among shipbuilding men as a superb dreadnought.

Description of the Rivadavia.
Externally the Rivadavia closely resembles the British battleship Lion and the Arkansas and Wyoming of the United States navy. In height she agrees with several of the latest English and American dreadnoughts. Her displacement, however, exceeds that of even the greatest of the English and American battleships.

Her displacement of 26,500 tons is expected to make her very seaworthy and insures a high offensive and defensive efficiency. Her length is 585 feet, beam 98 feet and normal draught 27 feet 6 inches. Her height above the normal water line at the fore-castle will be 25 feet 6 inches, amidships 22 feet 8 inches and astern 17 feet 1 inch. The superstructure of the upper deck will be completely suppressed to avoid obstruction of the arc of fire of the main guns.

The main armor belt has a uniform thickness of 12 inches and is 200 feet long, extending 4 feet 9 inches above and 3 feet 4 inches below the normal water line. In general the arrangement of armor follows English, American and Japanese ideas, but as regards thickness and distribution it resembles what has been adopted on the Japanese ships now building. The vessel is divided into numerous watertight compartments, fitted with electrically driven centrifugal pumps, which can be operated even when the compartment is completely flooded.

The motive power is steam turbines and the coal bunkers have a capacity of 4000 tons. The main turbines can develop 39,500 horse power with one inch of air in the fire-rooms. The ship must make a speed record of 22 1-2 knots an hour for eight hours with a displacement of 27,000 tons.

The main battery of the Rivadavia will consist of twelve 12-inch guns, mounted in pairs in turrets so that they can be fired at once. In addition to the 12-inch guns her armament will include twelve 6-inch and twelve 4-inch guns, besides smaller field and saluting guns. She also has two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes. A new feature is placing the axis of the 6-inch guns at 19 feet 6 inches above the normal water-line in order to avoid the necessity of closing the ports in rough weather and rendering the guns practically useless.

There are two conning towers, one forward of 12-inch armor, and the other aft of 9-inch armor. The fire control towers are located one on the auxiliary mast, one above each conning tower, one auxiliary station on each side of the ship on small independent armored turrets, and one main control station within the casement under the protective deck. The electric power will be supplied by two main stations in duplicate, and there will be a third auxiliary station for illuminating the ship and handling the turrets in practice.

SPECIAL EXCURSION TO NIAGARA FALLS

BY NORFOLK SOUTHERN R. R.

A Delightful Trip Covering Sixteen Days.

On August 29th, next Wednesday, the Norfolk Southern Railroad will run one of these popular excursions to Niagara Falls, that have been so popular in past years. To take advantage of this excursion at the special rate for the round trip—covering sixteen days, including the day of departure, from each town, the traveler must leave in time to reach Norfolk for the six o'clock boats, that connect at Baltimore, Washington and Philadelphia with the Pennsylvania Railroad, and thence up to Niagara.

All details as to rate, choice of route going and returning, and side trips can be had from the local ticket agents of the Norfolk Southern. There are many attractive features of this excursion, and a whole lot can be seen in the sixteen days covered. Liberal stop overs are allowed in Baltimore and Washington as well as Buffalo. Side trips to Toronto and Thousand Islands are allowed all to come within the final limit of the ticket, as validated at Niagara Falls by the agent at that point.

If we take the trip in imagination, it will be about as follows: Leaving the home town or city along the Norfolk Southern in time to reach Norfolk before six P. M., on the 29th, we take one of the four boat lines leaving that city for either Washington, Baltimore or Philadelphia—take your choice as to this route going or coming, without any stop-over, special trains are taken at either of these cities, which later unite at Harrisburg, forming one long special to Buffalo and Niagara Falls. These trains will be provided with luxurious Pullman coaches, and dining cars that serve table d'hote meals at a uniform price of seventy-five cents per meal, thus insuring a comfortable journey without meal stops.

If connection is made at Baltimore or Washington, the ride is through the lowlands of the Chesapeake Bay region, through the hills of Maryland to Harrisburg. From Philadelphia, the road is through the pleasant valleys of Eastern Pennsylvania; Lancaster county and the Chester valley, Susquehanna river is followed through mountain gaps and peaceful valleys for one hundred and fifty miles. Olean, one of the centers of the oil industry, is passed, as is also East Aurora, home of the Roy-critters. From Buffalo to Niagara is but a step, as it were, along the river of that name to the falls.

To attempt any description of Niagara, the wonderful, is, of course, useless. The falls must be seen—that is all. Put the little points of interest compared to the falls itself—the Cave of the Winds, Goat Island—and the Gorge, which in itself is worth the trip, could be detailed if space permitted. The famous whirlpool rapids, and the whirlpool itself are a part of the gorge trip.

By taking the boat at Lewiston on the American side, it is but a few hours' trip across Lake Erie to Toronto, the American-English city of Canada.

Tickets, stateroom and berth reservations, etc., can be secured from any of the ticket agents of the Norfolk Southern.

Notes on Commission Plan.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 26.—A special election was held in Knoxville today to decide the question of the proposed amendment of the city charter so as to provide for the commission plan of government. Advocates of the commission plan, including nearly all the business men of the city, have waged a vigorous campaign in its behalf and are confident that the final results of the balloting will show a substantial majority in favor of the charter amendment.

To Nominate Madero.

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 26.—The national convention of the Progressives will convene here tomorrow to adopt resolutions and to formally nominate Francisco Madero for the presidency of the republic.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES AND A MORAL

ONE ADVANCES, ONE DECLINES.

Effect of Cheap Transportation On Progress.

Recent consular reports reveal a startling contrast in the present conditions and the future prospects of two of the chief manufacturing cities of England. They lie but 70 miles apart, but the industries of the one the steadily expanding while those of the other are falling into decay.

No one knows how long ago the smelting of ores and working of metals began at Birmingham, but years before our Declaration of Independence was signed her metal work was known throughout the world. Today Birmingham has a population of more than 600,000, and it would be natural to conclude that her industrial position had been established beyond the possibility of overthrow.

On the contrary there is a serious crisis in the heavy branches of the iron and steel trade of Birmingham and the surrounding country. A number of great iron plants have moved to the seaboard, others are preparing to follow, and still others have failed. One such property was recently put up at auction. The plant was as complete as any in the country, but the highest bid was less than one-third the estimated value. Naturally the people of Birmingham are looking for the cause and seeking for a remedy. The iron and steel industry is the very foundation of their prosperity, and the loss of the foundation always means the fall of the superstructure.

Conditions are far different in Manchester, although it is not all sunshine even there. Most of the cotton mills had to run on short time last year, but that was due solely to the shortage in the cotton crop of the world. The significant thing is the steady increase in the number and (Continued on 4th Page.)

The Girls of Today.

Mr. D. P. McEachern who edits one of the departments of the Red Springs Citizen, made some sober and timely remarks recently upon the difference in the training of the girls of today and those of a generation ago. He referred to the uselessness and helplessness of the average girl in our towns as contrasted with the vigor and domestic intelligence of those of the earlier period. His observations are too true to be pleasant. Many a mother, well versed in the important duties of the household, is failing to impart to her daughters the knowledge that has been so large a factor in the comfort and happiness of the family, and when the girl is separated from her mother and is obliged to do her mother's part in the world's work, she will find herself overwhelmed and unready. In our Southern social life it is more important than ever before that our girls should be trained housekeepers for domestic service is constantly becoming harder to control and more unsatisfactory and inefficient. Besides, girls, like boys, growing up in idleness and living aimless lives, cannot measure up to what they would have been with better training. Everybody ought to have definite systematic work to do. It is exactly as essential for a girl as it is for a boy. To dress, and dawdle, and yawn, and parade the streets without a thought or care of how things and emptiest life in the world, and are going at home is the poorest the worst possible preparation for the coming time when these same girls must buckle down to honest work. For the most of us are not able, even if we are inclined, to dream the hours away. We will wake up some time, somewhere to the realities around us, and it is a pitiful thing to reach this period unprepared. Mothers ought to remember these things, and not allow themselves to become the slaves of their children in order that they may have "a good time."—Charity and Children.

PHYSICIANS AND FEES.

A Medical View of the Doctor's Charge For His Services.
Those who discuss the physician's fee frequently miss the essence of it. As a matter of fact, under present social conditions the charge made to the wealthy and well to do is the normal and proper fee; the lowered charges made to those less fortunate are concessions. The tremendous field of the physician's charity is therefore usually underestimated, for it extends to a great majority of his patients. In olden times, when medicine was nearly all art and but little science, the fee was unknown. Like other artists, the leech received an honorarium, the weight of which depended naturally upon the resources of the patient. The popular impression that physicians make the rich pay for the poor is incorrect. They extend their services to all alike, and all are supposed to pay as much as they can afford for services really priceless and impossible to represent adequately in money values. Any attempt made to establish standard fees by law is sure to work injustice to the physician. The "standard" fee would have to be much higher than the average fee at present and there would have to be some method of enforcing its sure payment. Only with the standard fixed, as now, by the ability of the wealthy is it possible for the poor to receive the benefits of the highest professional skill without losing their self respect.—New York Medical Journal.

POWER OF MUSIC.

The Awakening That Came to Stephenson on Hearing Ole Bull.
Ole Bornemann Bull, who was one of the famous wizards of the violin in the nineteenth century, had little difficulty in swaying an audience by the magic of his wonderful performance on his favorite instrument. The great violinist was greatly admired by Stephenson, the inventor of the locomotive, although the latter had little appreciation of music in his soul. A call of some nature one day took Stephenson to Ole Bull's home. After the business on hand had been transacted the inventor arose to go, whereupon the master pressed him to remain and hear the tones of a famous violin which had lately come into his possession. Ole Bull began to explain the marvelous construction of the violin, the perfect exactness required in each minutest part. The inventor became interested in the subject. Finally Ole Bull explained how the sound waves were produced and the relation of the different parts to their production. Then, still explaining, he drew his magic bow across the strings in a burst of exquisite music. Stephenson listened, spellbound. Ole Bull played on. When the music finally died away Stephenson burst into tears and sobbed. "There has been something in my life that was lacking, and at last I've found out what it is."

MRS. LARAMORE TELLS TROUBLES

Lady in Goodwater Describes Her Distressing Experience and Tells How She Was Finally Relieved.
Goodwater, Mo.—"Ever since I was a little girl," says Mrs. Riley Laramore, "I was a great sufferer from dyspepsia. I suffered misery after eating, and had terrible heartburn. I thought I had to suffer this way as long as I lived, but when I began to take Theodor's Black-Draught, in small doses, every night, the heartburn was all gone in a few days, and I could eat without distress. I took two small packages in all, and although that was some time ago, the dyspepsia has not returned. I speak a good word for Theodor's Black-Draught whenever I have the opportunity." If eating causes distress, we urge you to try Theodor's Black-Draught. It cleanses the system, helps the stomach to digest its food, regulates the bowels, and stimulates the liver. It acts gently and is without bad after-effects. Try it. Price 25c.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.
"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place," is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray. When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grand parents used. The best preparation of this kind is Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts. Weyth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color. This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special agent, Moye's Pharmacy.

Mrs. E. F. Tucker left yesterday for Baltimore to buy a full and complete line of up-to-date millinery for her fall trade. She was accompanied by Miss Evelyn Sutton.

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company had a solid car of the finest pitch pine blocks to come yesterday we most ever saw. They turn the hubs of the famous "Tar Heel" wheels from these blocks and it looks like they will be in position to build all the carts and wagons you are looking for this season.

Misses Eleanor Worthington and Louise Mewborn, of Grifton, spent Friday evening with Miss Clyde Chapman.

The A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company is receiving some nice orders for school desks. Yesterday they booked an order for two hundred and fifty to furnish a new school building in Columbus county.

Messrs. J. F. Harrington, J. W. Harper and A. W. Ange, who left Monday for the northern markets to buy goods, are expected back today. Watch the columns of the Winterville news for what they have to say and the bargains they have for you.

Mr. Farmer: Right now is the time for you to drop in and put us to work on that Tar Heel wagon or cart. You are going to need it about housing your crop and then all that heavy hauling this fall and winter. We are prepared to serve you. A. G. Cox Manufacturing Company.

Mr. M. B. Bryan returned to Raleigh yesterday, after spending several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Bryan.

It matters not how scrupulous you are, A. W. Ange & Co. can satisfy the most fastidious. Visit their store and be convinced.

Winterville High School is looking for one of the finest openings Monday they have had. Some of the teachers and pupils will come in today.

The Hunsucker buggy, manufactured by the A. G. Cox Mfg. Co., is a good riding vehicle. It is made of the very best material, the workmanship is the most skilled, its finished appearance is hard to beat, and the best of all, purchase one and you will be their life long customer.

Miss Cox Entertains.

The hospitable home of Dr. B. T. Cox was the scene of much merriment on Friday night while Miss Venetia Cox, the hostess, entertained a large number of her friends at progressive games. Seven tables were arranged with place cards representing striking Dutch scenes, and at each table each of the following couples amused in the order which their skill in playing permitted were put in names.

At a tap of the bell, the hostess started the games going, and at the same signal, a halt was called to find who merited a promotion.

Every couple who won had their cards punched, consequently they who came through with a whole card won the booby.

Mr. C. T. Cox and Miss Annie Carroll carried off the prize, the booby fell to the lot of Mr. Deremus Mc-

Growing Greenbacks.

Talk about going off to Alaska or South Africa to dig gold, what is the matter with growing greenbacks on the fertile lands of Eastern North Carolina? The Star has said a great deal about the possibilities of farming, trucking and fruit growing in the Nation's Garden Spot, but the half hasn't been told.

We propose to keep right on making revelations concerning the splendid opportunities for agriculture in Eastern North Carolina, but we must admit that it is a big job. It is also a story that can be continued indefinitely, but in this instance we will give a short one concerning what a boy can do on one acre of garden spot land at Warsaw.

The boy in question is a youth named Atkins, a 14-year-old hustler, who, the present season, from just one acre of land has already netted $167 from a crop of green peppers which he marketed in the northern markets. Following his pepper crop he planted corn and will make 100 bushels on the acre. Young Atkins has already pocketed $167 in addition to paying his fertilizer and rent expense, and the value of his corn crop will add nearly another $100 to his profit, including remuneration for his labor. When a stip of land can do this, it is not difficult to realize why it is easier to make a living in this section than in any other part of the country.

Why not grow greenbacks in Eastern North Carolina?—Wilmington Star.

Universal Language.

He spoke his love in German—she answered not a word. In French he tried to woo her—the maiden never heard. He tried his luck in English, in Irish—all in vain; in Turkish, Greek and Latin, and in the tongue of Spain.

And then an inspiration came to the anguished youth. "The universal language," he cried. "I'll try, forsooth!" He kissed the demure maiden and pressed her to his breast. She understood that language, and you can guess the rest.—Pearson's.

Lawhorn and Miss Helen Adams.

Dominoes, hearts, dice, carroms and other delightful games gave plenty of amusement, with spare time for fun and music between.

Just after ten each table was presented with a dish of delicious fudge, to help along the fun.

Ice cream and cake were served in their turn, but the most interesting features of the entertainment was the dainty decoration noticeable in the front hall and parlor.

The portieres showed a dainty sprinkling of blooming clematis and this modest vine added a great deal to the attractiveness of the mantles and tables also.

The front and side porches were softly illumined with Papanese lanterns, which gave a festive setting to the party as it "came and went."

At the close of the evening all who were present voted it a happy occasion, one that reflected credit on the genial hostess.

Those attending were: Mr. F. F. Cox with Miss Myrtle McLawhorn.

Mr. C. T. Cox with Miss Annie Carroll.

Mr. Herman McLawhorn with Miss Mamie Chapman.

Mr. S. C. Carroll with Miss Rosa Causey.

Mr. H. J. Langston with Miss Jeannette Cox.

Mr. A. D. McLawhorn with Miss Helen Adams.

Mr. Roy T. Cox with Miss Clyde Chapman.

IMPORTANT COTTON NOTICE.

To All Cotton Buyers, Farmers and Ginner.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Norfolk, Va., July 19, 1911.—This exchange views with alarm the abuses that have grown up in preparing cotton for market and deem it our duty to protest against these abuses, to state what they are, and how they can be corrected.

The troubles have appeared in the last few years and have grown each year. The loss which primarily is paid by the ginner and producer of cotton, incidentally reaches the mill agents, exporters and mills. The abuses are these: First, the excessive use of bagging; second, weight of bagging used; and third, the weight of the bales.

Regarding the excessive use of bagging, each bale should be covered on the upper and lower sides, in the press box, and on the heads, and no more. The quality of covering considered sufficient to cover a bale is 22 pounds, which includes bagging and bands, and any excess over this will be deducted.

Second: As to the weight of the bagging used, it was only a few years ago when the bagging weighed 2-4 pounds, 2 pounds and 2 1-4 pounds to the yard, the heaviest being 2 1-4 pounds; now we hear of bagging weighing 3 and 4 pounds per yard. This is selling bagging and not cotton. We would strongly protest against anything heavier than 2 1-4 pounds, and in case where the bagging exceeds 2 1-2 pounds we advise the ginner that just claims and deductions will be made against such excessive weight.

Third: The weight bales have become more in evidence as the heavy weight bagging has increased. While there are rules against bales of cotton under 400 pounds, and as all sales made both for domestic and foreign shipment are required to weigh an average of 500 pounds per bale, it is urged that shipments destined to Norfolk shall average in weight as near 500 pounds per bale as possible, because on bales weighing 400 pounds or under a deduction may be made.

These suggestions are made purely with a view of saving the producer and ginner of cotton from further loss by correcting these bales.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 26, 1911.—In co-operation with the late ruling of the cotton exchanges, regarding the excessive use of bagging, and light weight bales, we the undersigned as representative buyers for the mill and export trade, in this section, hereby agree to make proper deduction for any excess in weight over 22 pounds per bale, for the covering of cotton including bagging and ties and dock $1 per bale for any bale weighing under 400 pounds.

Six yards of bagging is all that is required to wrap a bale, and no bagging weighing over 2 1-2 pounds per yard will be accepted without proper deduction for excess weight, and every bale of cotton should weigh as near 500 pounds as possible.

with an idea of centering the interest of our farmers and breeders' organizations into this one great feast of reason. The interest in agriculture and stock breeding in North Carolina is taking rapid strides forward and nothing will give the work a greater impetus than to attend and help "boost" these annual farmers' conventions.

A great and valuable session is anticipated, and every farmer in the state who is not present will be a loser, both intellectually and financially.

TO FLY FOR $50,000 IN PRIZES.

Meet to be Conducted by Harvard Aviation Society.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 26.—Attracted by a prize list totalling nearly $50,000 in cash, some two-score of the most noted aviators of America and Europe have gathered here to take part in the second big flying meet to be conducted under the auspices of the Harvard Aviation Society. The meet was formally inaugurated on the aviation field at Atlantic today and will continue for an entire week. One of the big events of the programme will be a cross-country flight of 160 miles, for which a cash prize of $10,000 has been offered by a Boston newspaper. The route of the contest is to be from Boston to Nashau, N. H.; from Nashau to Worcester, Mass.; from Worcester to Providence, R. I., and from Providence to Boston.

California State Fair.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 26.—The California state fair was formally opened this morning under auspicious conditions. The management has been working hard to make the exhibits of more than ordinary interest this year and the result has been the largest and the best in the way of collection of agricultural, horticultural and live stock exhibits ever shown here. The entertainment features also are of an unusually high class.

A CRUSHING RETORT.

Mme. Songbird Paid Her Haughty Society Patron in Full.

Last year a prominent Boston society leader, in arranging a musical surprise at an elaborate dinner given to the town's elite, called on a singer of renown to engage her services for that event. It chanced that the singer was naturally independent. On the other hand, the caller was notoriously haughty. As a result this was what transpired between them:

After the visitor had announced the import of her coming, the singer succinctly said she would sing one number for $200, and that it would be a Wagnerian selection.

"The price we will not haggle over," said the visitor, "but instead of that grand opera selection I want you to render one of the light and popular ditties of the day!"

"For the Wagnerian song, $200; for the popular ditty, $300," was the firm reply.

"But, madame," expostulated the society leader, "your classical song is much more exacting on your powers, so why should you charge more for the lighter and easier song?"

"Ah," replied the independent one, "the harder song is all fun to me; the easier one all work!"

So the price was fixed at $300. Just as the haughty visitor was about to depart, she turned to the artist and said:

"Of course, I shall not expect you to mingle with my guests."

"Ah," was the biting retort, "I shall throw off $50."—Life.

Extremely Polite.

The forms of Mexican politeness to the stranger are sometimes embarrassing. Miss Mary Barton, who visited the country to paint landscapes and tells her experience in "Impressions of Mexico," says that "people seemed anxious to help me in all possible ways, from the railway conductor, who invited me to dine with him, to the very smart young man that I met in the postoffice when I had a number of invitations in my hand and who offered to lick the stamps for me."

Shutting Him Off.

The Dad—My son, I want to tell you that the secret of my success, as it must be of any man's, is hard work. I—The Son—Sh, dad! I don't care to hear other people's secrets, and I am too much of a gentleman to take advantage of information gained in that way. Say no more.—Toledo Blade.

Tasty Poison.

Customer—The poison may be excellent, but the rats won't take it. You'll have to make it more tasty. Druggist—I've tried that already, but the apprentice boys eat it.—Fliegende Blätter.

Plurals.

There is considerably less reason why the plural of mouse should be mice than why the plural of spouse should be spice. Any bigamist will admit as much.—Puck.

variety of new industries. On one great tract of land, called the Trafford Park estate, no less than 73 firms or corporations have secured sites in recent years for the establishment of industries, many of them of immense size. Similar developments are taking place on other tracts of land in and around Manchester. Most significant of all, especially to Birmingham, is the purchase of 90 acres of ground on which the erection of a great iron and steel works has already begun. The addition of great industries means growth in population and when the pending annexation of the adjoining town of Salford has been carried out, Manchester will have a population of more than 1,000,000 souls.

The disastrous conditions in Birmingham are due not to a general depression in the iron and steel trade, for that did not exist, but to high freight rates. Birmingham is only 70 miles from Bristol and 85 to 90 miles from Liverpool, but it is "not mileage but cost of transportation that constitutes the true commercial measure of distance." Repeated efforts to secure a reduction of railway rates having failed, it is now recognized that the only real remedy lies in a radical improvement of the waterways leading to the seaboard. It has already been proposed that the towns interested shall advance $5,000,000, without interest, to aid in the construction of a big canal.

The history of Manchester shows that Birmingham could well afford to advance much more than that. Thirty years ago the condition of Manchester was far worse than that of Birmingham today. The building of the Manchester ship canal was not undertaken as a diversion; it was a case of life or death, and Manchester chose to live. The total amount spent up to December 31, 1910, in the construction of the canal and the creation of port facilities, amounted to almost $82,000,000, of which the city of Manchester subscribed $25,000,000. Manchester, which up to seventeen years ago was an inland city, is now the fourth port in the United Kingdom, with a foreign commerce greater than that of any port in the United States except New York City.

What Birmingham will do is for Birmingham to say, but the moral of this Tale of Two Cities is not hard to see. More than natural resources, more than the combination of capital and skill in manufactures, more than prestige of centuries of success, more than all other factor, more, sometimes, than all other factors, more sometimes cost of transportation determines the success or the failure, the prosperity or the decay of industries and cities.

It is costly transportation that, like a hidden cancer, is eating out the industrial life of Birmingham; it is cheap transportation, that, like a mighty magnet, is drawing industries and population to Manchester; and the cheapest of all transportation is water transportation.

Campaign in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 26.—The political campaign in Maryland virtually closed today. The primaries will be held next Tuesday, when both parties will select candidates for governor and other state offices to be elected this fall. Interest centers chiefly in the contest between Arthur P. Gorman and Blair Lee for the Democratic nomination for governor.
