

WHY TAFT VETOED THE WOOLEN BILL

THEY WANT TO BE "LET ALONE."

How The Millionaires Keep Up Fat Dividends.

(By Clyde H. Tavenner.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Taft's veto of the wool bill means there will be no reduction this winter in the price of woollen clothing of any sort for men, women and children, nor in the prices of blankets nor any other forms of woollen manufacturers needed for warmth by the general public. And just so much as the public would have saved in cheaper woollens, together with the amount the farmers would have saved in cheaper agricultural implements had the president signed the free list bill, will be transferred unjustly to the coffers of the woollen trust and the harvester trust, two star contributors to the Republican campaign fund.

What is the president's defense for refusing to permit a reduction in the cost of living? Let us see: First, he makes the point the wool bill was unconsidered, when as a matter of fact the ways and means committee put in three months of sincere investigation and study before the bill was framed, which is twice the length of time given to the consideration of the woolen schedule of the Payne-Aldrich bill, and which document the president readily signed.

Second, the president asks that the people continue to pay exorbitant prices for woollens until he hears from his tariff board, which is packed with men who take the high-protection viewpoint, and whose chief agents and alleged "impartial" investigators abroad are writing back articles for American newspapers rediculing and belittling the crying demand of the consumers for tariff revision downward.

Mr. Taft's message against cheaper woollens will go down as a document of misrepresentation, false pretense and excuses. The real reason the president vetoed the various tariff bills was not stated in any of his messages. It was because he was under obligations to the beneficiaries of the Payne-Aldrich law to serve their interests instead of the public interest. Mr. Taft was elected president with a campaign fund contributed by special privilege. Then, having done this the great tariff trusts extended further aid (and placed Taft further in their debt) by frightening their employees into voting for Taft with the threat their factories and mills would be closed down unless he was elected. And, just as he was the candidate of special privilege, Mr. Taft is revealed in his veto message as also the president of special privilege.

Thus it is shown again how protection makes politics a business proposition. The trusts contribute campaign funds to the party of the high protection wall with the intention of not only receiving from the public the amount of such contributions in excessive prices, but stupendous dividends as profits. Mr. Taft proved an exceptionally good investment for the tariff trusts.

"Let Us Alone"

The trust officials who appeared before the various investigating committees of congress this summer, including G. W. Perkins, complained because the Democrats were too active inquiring into their business methods. "Let us alone" is their favorite wall whenever a move is made to determine in what manner they are exacting tribute from the people. "The tendency to distrust big corporations," said Mr. Perkins, "is hurting business. Business desires to go ahead unmolested."

The "let us alone" policy would suit the trusts exactly. Having cobbled everything in sight, naturally they resent interference. With the tariff so high that they have a monopoly on all the necessities of life, and the anti-trust law so interpreted that restraint of trade is not restraint so long as it is "reasonable," they are safe from competition, and immune from prosecution. Hence, their desire to be let alone.

In the meantime, how about prices? Ten years ago a pair of five pound woollen blankets could be bought for $3.75; today they cost $5.00. At that time the price of five yards of serge cloth fifty inches wide, was $3.75; the price now is $6.75. Ten years ago twenty yards of unbleached cotton cloth could be bought for

Mrs. Brown was a member of the Methodist church, an earnest Christian, devoted her life to good works, and was held in high esteem by a large circle of friends. She is survived by one sister Mrs. A. B. Gorham, of Washington; by four sons, Messrs. E. A. Brown, of Oriental; H. P. Brown, of Reidsville; R. W. and Z. W. Brown, of Greenville, and one daughter, Mrs. W. R. Ware, of Greensboro.

TOBACCO GROWERS SATISFIED WITH THEIR WORK

A SAFE FINANCING SCHEME.

Details of Arrangements Withheld From Public.

The convention of the tobacco growers from the tobacco district of North Carolina and Virginia came to a close yesterday at noon, after a further discussion of the pool which the growers on Friday decided to make of the crop of 1911. A speech was made yesterday morning by Dr. H. Q. Alexander, of Mecklenburg county, president of the North Carolina Farmers' Union. A bureau of information was established and the plans for close organization were perfected.

The farmers left for their homes yesterday afternoon, every train from noon till night carrying away its quota of the large number present. All left behind the feeling that they have accomplished a very long and necessary stride toward securing better times for themselves in the future. They express themselves as being reasonably assured that they will experience no serious difficulty in securing a price of not less than 15 cents per pound in any one section for their tobacco and 20 cents per pound for the bright leaf.

It is stated that the system they have adopted for their safety is as near perfect as could be expected, and the claim is made that mistakes in forming pools in Kentucky and Tennessee have been profited by. A member of the committee which formulated the plan was asked yesterday how it differed from that in those two states, and if it is similar thereto. "It is 10,000 miles ahead of both Kentucky and Tennessee." This man seemed to think the dry prizeries were the greatest advantage over the system in those two states.

The speech of Dr. Alexander urged the farmers to raise their home supplies, to control the tobacco situation and to realize true values for their crops. His address was very enthusiastically received.

A rollcall of counties was made and every tobacco county of importance in the combined districts of the two states was found to be represented by full delegations. A spirit of harmony was reported at every session.

Financial plans were put through which the farmers think equal to any financing scheme or system in existence today. What this system is could not be ascertained, the sessions at which it was discussed being secret, and those in position to talk refusing consistently to reveal the inner workings of the scheme.

Rev. T. B. Hill, of Virginia, chairman of the committee arranging the pool, said to a News reporter: "Upon a count being taken we felt confident in declaring a pool of our tobacco on the assurance that we controlled a majority of the tobacco new being grown. We have established a bureau of information composed of as good brains and business ability as is found anywhere. We are now organizing so that within a few hours we can call together every tobacco grower in the district.—Greensboro News.

POOLING TOBACCO CROP.

Last week a meeting was held in Greensboro purporting to be composed of representative tobacco growers of every bright tobacco producing county in Virginia and North Carolina. As the deliberations of the meeting were mainly in secret, the public is not advised as to what took place except in generalities. We give in another column one report of it taken from the Greensboro Daily News, that indicates that resolutions were adopted and plans set on foot to pool the tobacco crop. Another paper announced that the resolution declared for a pool to hold for 15 cents a pound for redried tobacco.

As the public is not apprised of the details of this meeting and the plans that were set on foot for a pool of the tobacco crop, or who is behind the movement or how far reaching its scope, it may be unwise to offer any comment on it. But we are going to suggest with the information at hand, that if a pool has been made setting the price at 15 cents for redried tobacco, we do not see any benefit from it to the man who really grows the tobacco. Everybody acquainted with the sale and handling of leaf tobacco, knows that there is a cost of something like 3 1-2 or 4 cents a pound between the time the farmer disposes of it on the warehouse floor and the redrying and getting it ready to turn over to the manufacturer, therefore 15 cents a pound for redried tobacco means something around 11 1-2 cents that the farmer will get on the warehouse floor.

There is hardly any one acquainted with tobacco crop conditions this year but who believes the farmers of Eastern Carolina are going to get a better price than this for their crop. The crop is very short, and if it does not sell well on the warehouse floors this season it is going to be contrary to expectations. We heard one man say he would not be afraid to risk offering an average of 12 cents a pound on the warehouse floor for every pound of sound tobacco that is sold in Pitt county of this season's crop.

WHY NO AMERICAN SHIPS?

To carry us and our freight overland in the United States, our railway system is the finest and most efficient transportation system in the world. When we sail on the ocean, we must go in a foreign ship, take second choice, and pay the highest prices.—Charlotte Observer.

Is this a hint that the government should step up with a subsidy to induce Americans to build ships? If so, let's argue it a little. Why does the United States have the finest and most efficient railway systems in the world? It is because capitalists came together and built them, and that without the aid of the government. If there are no great ships of commerce plying the ocean that float the American flag at their masthead, it is because American capitalists have not put their money in them. If Americans want to let foreigners monopolize this branch of commerce, that is their business; but it is no more business of the government to pay subsidies to capitalists for building ships than it is to pay subsidies to farmers to raise cotton and other crops.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT IS WEAK.

One has but to go around a criminal court and note the difficulty in convicting a defendant of selling whiskey, to be convinced that public sentiment is very weak for the enforcement of the prohibition law. It is with a feeling of shame for such sentiment that this must be admitted, but it is nevertheless true. The fault for failure to convict blind tigers is not with the judge nor the solicitor, but because the sentiment of so many who get in the jury box is against it. No correction of public sentiment is worse needed than along this line. It is a field in which a law and order league could do good work. Public sentiment ought to be made so strong that a man could not conscientiously sit on a jury and, contrary to the evidence, acquit a defendant of selling liquor for no other reason than that he, the juror was opposed to prohibition. Such verdicts show a dangerous spirit of disrespect for the law. Public sentiment is not sufficiently strong against blind tigers.

Like a Fable.

Once upon a time there was a fair kingdom ruled over by a bachelor king named Cotton. His people worked hard and had to sell their cotton for five cents a pound. Then the king married Miss Cotton Mills and she brought to the palace with her a spinning wheel and a loom, she made the cotton into cloth, worth 50 cents a pound. She sent for the women to come from the cotton fields, and said to them, "Quit that hard farm work raising cotton at five cents, and help me spin it into cloth worth fifty cents a pound." They came and the Queen prospered in her new enterprise. So many young women quit raising cotton, spinning and weaving it instead, that clothes became cheaper and the price of cotton went to fifteen cents. Then King Cotton said to his Queen and her maids, "You young women are making too much money. I am going to get a divorce and live like I did when I was a bachelor." He did and then the price of cotton started back towards five cents, and the Queen and her girls had to loaf or go back to the farm to compete again in cotton production.

Moral: We need the cotton mills.—Charlotte Chronicle.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Charles W. Allen entertained at 1:30 o'clock Thursday with one of the most beautiful and elaborate luncheons ever given in Greenville to compliment Miss Lucy Royce Brown. The floral decorations throughout the home were beautiful and in the dining room the decorations were especially effective. The mantel, sideboard and cabinets were banked with ferns and large bouquets of pink roses tied with tulle. From the chandelier was a shower effect of tiny gold bells suspended from pink and white ribbons. In the center of the exquisite table which was covered with cluene lace over pink was a white slipper prettily decorated with pink roses and resting on a round plateau. The slipper held favors each being led to its place with alternating pink and white ribbons. Surrounding this were four crystal candle-stands tied with fluffy white maline bows caught with pink roses and burning white tapers with pink filigree shades. At either end of the table were large cut glass bowls of pink roses and ferns. The name cards were decorated with brides and grooms done in water colors. The souvenirs were tiny white slippers holding dainty candies. The chosen colors of pink and white were prettily featured in each of the six courses served. The ices were pink roses on which were perched small bisque cupids. On the heart-shaped cakes were white doves each bearing tiny cards announcing the engagement of the honoree, Miss Lucy Royce Brown, to Mr. James Burton James, of Greenville, N. C. On the reverse side was given the date of their approaching marriage which will be October the eleventh. This announcement was a fitting climax of the happy occasion and was greeted with cheers from the guests, who showered the bride-elect with confetti from white heart-shaped satin boxes embossed in gold letters "B-J." Just here strains of the Lohengrin wedding march came floating in through the large folding doors. At this time, too, a telegram was received by the hostess from Mr. James.

Each guest joined in with a beautiful toast, to all of which Miss Brown responded.

The announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Brown to Mr. James will be received with interest by their many friends throughout East Tennessee and in North Carolina. It was while Miss Brown was a student in Salem College, at Winston-Salem, N. C., that this romance began. She is one of the most talented and popular members of Greenville's social set and will be missed in church, musical and social circles. Mr. James is a brilliant young attorney, being a member of the well known law firm of F. G. James & Son, of Greenville, N. C. And his marriage to Miss Brown will unite one of the oldest and most prominent families of Tennessee with one of like rank in the Old North State.

Mrs. Allen was becomingly gowned in a hand embroidered pongee. Miss Brown was beautifully costumed in a white lingerie over pink satin.

After his graduation in 1873 he went to the Argentine Republic and for three years was astronomer at the famous Cordoba Observatory. While in South America he took part in Dr. B. A. Gould's exploration of the Southern Heavens. Upon his return from Argentine Dr. Bigelow took a course in theology at the Cambridge Theological Seminary. From 1884 to 1889 he was professor of mathematics at Racine College, which position he resigned to join the United States Eclipse Expedition to Western Africa. A WORD TO SUBSCRIBERS.

For two or three months The Reflector has had nothing to say to subscribers about paying for their paper. We know it was the dullest time of the year when people had but little money, and we, like the rest, have been tugging it out as best we could. Now September will soon be here, the tobacco market will be open and cotton will be coming in, so the people ought to soon have some money. We hope they will look at the date after their name on the paper, and all who are in arrears, are urged to pay just as soon as they can. We have some large bills to meet during September and cannot do this unless you pay us. Do not wait for a statement to be sent, as the date on the paper shows how much each subscriber owes. We hope every one will respond promptly to this request.

WELDON POST OFFICE.

Moves Into Handsome New Quarters.

The last issue of The Weldon News contains an account of the post office in that town moving into new quarters that had been handsomely furnished for it. The part about this that interests Greenville folks most, is that after describing the office, The News says:

"David M. Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Clark, who fitted up the office for the government, deserves the thanks of the patrons of the office for the elegant equipment he put in."

That's "Reddy," and his friends down here congratulate him.

Light Demand For Anthracite.

Demand for anthracite is light, but no more so than it usually is in August, and some producers report a tendency to improved conditions and others look for an earlier resumption of activity in the fall than last year in 1909. Some business is expected up to the close of the month to get the advantage of the 10c discount allowed on prepared sizes for August shipment. Shipments of coal to the Far West which have been made to increase stocks are to be less for a time. Stocks of coal at interior points are not large, and, as they are to be increased in the next few months, the shipments will afford an ample outlet for surplus coal during the balance of the coal year. Production the first half of this month is ahead of the shipments of last year and the monthly report will likely show an increase over the August shipments of last year, which were just under 5,000,000 tons. The record for the month is 5,716,000 tons in 1907. Shipments to the head of the Great Lakes have been larger this year than last and were especially heavy in July. For the rest of the season a feebly large tonnage is expected.—Scranton Times.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty-one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrelson, S. C. "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure." Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds, and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free at all druggists.

NORTH CAROLINA HAPPENINGS

GATHERED FROM EXCHANGES.

And Briefly Told for The Reflector's Busy Readers.

RALEIGH.—Mrs. A. M. Frye, of Swain county, the wife of a prominent lawyer, will stand the examination given by the Supreme court to those desiring to practice the profession in North Carolina. Mrs. Frye is the second woman to take the examination, a Miss Holton, of Yadkin county, passing in 1878. At this time the court held that a woman has as much right to practice as a man, and there are no constitutional grounds why a woman should not plead in court. Miss Holton was a sister of District Attorney A. E. Holton, of Winston-Salem. She has since died.

WASHINGTON.—Captain Landers, commandant at Fort Caswell, will be courtmartialled for his treatment of A. W. Moore, a trucker. Landers had Moore arrested and locked up for selling melons for more than he told him that he could sell them for on the fort property. Mr. Moore complained to Senator Overman through his attorney, and Mr. Overman took the matter up with the war department. The courtmartial will take place some time in the near future.

ROCKY MOUNT.—Fire, which broke out in the planing mill of the Rocky Mount Sash and Blind Company plant here destroyed the entire plant, entailing a loss of about $45,000. Insurance of $12,000 was carried. The plant was valued at $25,000 and there was sufficient material and stock on hand to bring the total up to about the figure first named. The plant covered three acres of ground.

DON'T LIKE SAND-CLAY ROADS.

One Man Who Says They Are Not A Success.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 28, 1911. Editor Reflector:

Please allow me space to express my opinion on "bond issue to build sand-clay roads." If it be true that the money that "X. Y. Z." had reference to goes to pay Greenville township's part of the taxes necessary to maintain Pitt county convicts, how are we going to pay interest, etc., on bonds with it, and how are we going to escape paying our part of the convicts expenses? Isn't it absolutely impossible to pay two debts with the same money?

And after all, what have we got when we have sand-clay roads? I live on the Wilson-Greenville road, which has two miles of sand-clay on it, and to my personal knowledge the sand-clay is not a success. It is true that during a dry period they are hard. But, my, let it rain and freeze and they are terrible. Mr. Editor, if you had to walk on it as I did one stormy night last winter when you would mire 2 or 3 inches every step, you would have cursed the sand-clay road as much as I did. It was the worst road that I have ever seen. It is also true that during a wet period farmers do their most hauling. When it is too wet to do farm work, every farmer is on the road and during a wet period the sand-clay roads is worse than the old road. So what is the use of spending $50,000 on something that will not benefit the farmers? It will only benefit a few joy riders. We farmers had just as soon drive through sand as clay. If we are going to have improved roads let's have them good out of season as well as in season.

It used to be that the farmers were easily fooled, but that time died with the old "clod hoppers" that didn't know what a newspaper was. The farmers of today have too much intelligence to be led astray by a few schemers.

JAMES T. MANNING.

[If Mr. Manning will take the trouble to read the proposed township road bill, and also watch sand-clay roads awhile, he will find all he says above fully answered.—Ed.]

Stage Society.

Walter Pritchard Eaton, the dramatic critic, believes modern dramas are too elaborately staged. In "The Question of Scenery" in the American Magazine he says:

"After all, it was not the Elizabethans who were stupid because they could enjoy the drama on a bare stage. It is we who are stupid because we cannot enjoy the drama unless the stage is littered with 'realistic' scenery. We have no faith in our own imaginative powers. It would be a good thing for the drama if all scenery were abolished for the next ten years. Having learned to get along without it, we would perhaps keep it in its proper place for awhile after it returned. Its proper place is as a pictorial and suggestive background to the actors and the play and nothing but a background."

Bust Trusts or Boss 'Em?

Beginnig next November 15 a sub-committee of the senate committee on interstate commerce will hold hearings in Washington on the subject of anti-trust legislation. George W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Elbert W. Gray and others who maintain that combinations are for the best interests of the people will be heard on one side; then those who condemn all restraint of trade will be heard in turn. Capitalists and labor leaders will both be asked for their views. Senator Cummins, chairman of the sub-committee, expresses the belief that "out of it all will come, probably, as dispassionate and helpful a discussion of this very vital subject as we have ever had."

Just such a discussion on this subject is beyond question very much needed now. Recently we were threatened with serious wreckage because we had a law banning all restraint of trade and at the same time restraint of trade was an almost universal practice in our commercial life. Some said that competition could be and should be everywhere enforced, as this law decreed. Others said that the country had passed through a stage of economic evolution and could not without disaster even attempt to turn back. By the second class it was freely admitted that if competition were thus abandoned, if this familiar safeguard to the consumer were lost, government regulation of large corporations must become much more close. The Supreme court averted or postponed what would otherwise have been a grave crisis by declaring that the words "restraint of trade" are to be reasonably construed. This was virtually a victory for the advocates of regulation, while at the same time forging keener weapons for the advocates of destruction to use if their policy should prevail. The whole matter therefore, remains unsettled still. That it be settled—settled permanently, if possible, but settled somehow at all events—is the greatest public need of the age. In hearing all sorts of persons and considering all sorts of legislative recommendations the Cummins sub-committee will constitute a forum whose proceedings no intelligent American should pass by.—Charlotte Observer.

Democratic Prospects.

If the Hon. William Jennings Bryan can be prevented from further interference with the affairs of the national Democratic party, hope burns like a beacon that Mr. Taft will be succeeded by a Democrat. It will depend, though, on the Democratic attitude toward Bryan. If the colonel is to be permitted to manage things, then the party is in for another lost election. But however that, there is a reasonable hope of the capture of the senate. The situation is this, as reviewed by the Washington Herald: "If, as now seems to be conceded, Arizona elects two Democratic senators and New Mexico two Republican senators, the admission of these two new states will not affect the political complexion of the senate. When, however, the seat of the late Senator Frye is filled by a Democrat, and Colorado, as is most likely, sends a Democratic colleague for Mr. Guggenheim, the Republican majority in the senate will be reduced to eight. That's close. The future is speculatively interesting. The Herald says that "if the Democrats carry the country in 1912 they will have control of both branches of the national legislature. This happened in 1893, when Cleveland entered upon his second term, but the Democratic majority in the senate was so narrow that Democratic leaders were greatly embarrassed when they came to consider the tariff bill. Every diverse interest had to be satisfied, as the defection of one or two senators menaced the passage of the measure. This condition will not prevail in the senate in 1913, provided the Democrats elect their presidential candidate because a Democratic victory will probably displace Briggs, of New Jersey; Richardson, of Delaware; Dixon, of Montana; Guggenheim, of Colorado; Borah, of Idaho, and Brown, of Nebraska. These changes would give the Democrats a clear working majority." It would look mighty good if we could only forget Colonel Bryan.—Charlotte Chronicle.

To Discuss Negro's Rights.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 28.—With an attendance, larger than any of its predecessors, the fourth annual convention of the National Independent Political League opened its three days' session here today. The league is an organization of colored men who believe they should use their votes for the general betterment of the race, rather than to procure political offices and that the American negro should not give his support to any particular political party. The convention will close with a large meeting at Faneuil Hall on Wednesday evening. Dr. Milton Waldron, J. R. Clifford, of Martinsburg, W. Va., who is president of the league and other noted leaders of the colored race will deliver addresses. It is expected that the attitude of the convention will vitally influence the political attitude of the negroes in the presidential campaign of 1912. It is pointed out as a significant fact that while the lower house of congress is overwhelmingly Democratic, it has, so far, shown no inclination to attack the political rights of the negro.

All Went Clear.

The bunch of colored men who were arrested Friday on the charge of being gambling in the old Flanagan Buggy Company building and being the cause of starting the big fire that destroyed the old court house and jail, were given their liberty by the court Saturday, the evidence of the man who informed against them not being deemed by the court as sufficient to convict.

IMPORTANT COTTON NOTICE.

To All Cotton Buyers, Farmers And Ginners.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Norfolk, Va., July 19, 1911.—This exchange views with alarm the abuses that have grown up in preparing cotton for market and deem it our duty to protest against these abuses, to state what they are, and how they can be corrected.

The troubles have appeared in the last few years and have grown each year. The loss which primarily is paid by the ginner and producer of cotton, incidentally reaches the mill agents, exporters and mills. The abuses are these: First, the excessive use of bagging; second, weight of bagging used; and third, the weight of the bales.

Regarding the excessive use of bagging, each bale should be covered on the upper and lower sides, in the press box, and on the heads, and no more. The quality of covering considered sufficient to cover a bale is 22 pounds, which includes bagging and bands, and any excess over this will be deducted.

Second: As to the weight of the bagging used, it was only a few years ago when the bagging weighed 2-4 pounds, 2 pounds and 2 1-4 pounds to the yard, the heaviest being 2-4 pounds; now we hear of bagging weighing 3 and 4 pounds per yard. This is selling bagging and not cotton. We would strongly protest against anything heavier than 2-4 pounds, and in case where the bagging exceeds 2-2 pounds we advise the ginners that just claims and deductions will be made against such excessive weight.

Third: The weight bales have become more in evidence, as the heavy weight bagging has increased. While there are rules against bales of cotton under 400 pounds, and as all sales made both for domestic and foreign shipment are required to weigh an average of 500 pounds per bale, it is urged that shipments destined to Norfolk shall average in weight as near 500 pounds per bale as possible, because on bales weighing 400 pounds or under a deduction may be made.

These suggestions are made purely with a view of saving the producer and ginner of cotton from further loss by correcting these bales.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 26, 1911.—In co-operation with the late ruling of the cotton exchanges, regarding the excessive use of bagging, and light weight bales, we the undersigned as representative buyers for the mill and export trade, in this section, hereby agree to make proper deduction for any excess in weight over 22 pounds per bale, for the covering of cotton including bagging and ties and dock $1 per bale for any bale weighing under 400 pounds.

Six yards of bagging is all that is required to wrap a bale, and no bagging weighing over 2 1-2 pounds per yard will be accepted without proper deduction for excess weight, and every bale of cotton should weigh as near 500 pounds as possible.
