BROTHERHOOD OF THE UNEMPLOYED

Pounce Upon the Capital for a Convention

NOTHING LIKE IT SINCE COXEY

James Eads How, The "Millionaire Hobo," Calls A Convention of The Unemployed to Meet at Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Aug. 31.—The balance of the migratory population of the United States has become seriously disturbed during the last few weeks and slowly, but persistently, its center has moved in the direction toward the national capital. Thanks to the favorable weather conditions walking was good on the roads leading to Washington and this fact, combined with the good humor and charitable disposition of the farmers, looking forward to bumper crops, enabled the thousands of self-constituted delegates to the big convention of the "Brotherhood of the Unemployed," which will open its session here tomorrow, to travel in comparative comfort. Many of the "delegates" who were too tired to walk or wished to study railroad conditions, traveled by rail, as the uninvited guests of the various railroad companies and every freight train arriving in the District of Columbia brought its contingent of the delegates.

Not since "General" Coxe led his army of unemployed to the national capital, years ago, has there been so big a gathering of this particular brand of men in Washington as is promised for the first four days of September which time the convention will be in session. The delegates who have already arrived or who are still on the way to this city in answer to the call issued by James Eads How of St. Louis, known throughout the country as the "millionaire hobo," are by no means all tramps. There are a great many among them who really want to work, but are at present unemployed. James Eads How, who is called the chairman of the national committee of the unemployed, is a humanitarian with strong sympathies for the "under-dog." Although his ideas and schemes for the betterment of the existence of fortune's neglected step-children are, in many respects, visionary and utopian, they have their practical and unquestionably serious aspects.

Chairman How takes himself and the movement at the head of which he stands, its methods and its aims with perfect seriousness. The national gathering, which will be formally opened tomorrow, is intended by him not only as a demonstration against existing labor conditions and economic faults of the industrial systems of the United States, but as a means for remedying these faulty conditions. Vice President Sherman and a number of United States senators and members of the house of representatives of congress have been invited to attend the sessions of the convention and to deliver addresses bearing upon the subjects to be considered by the gathering.

According to the plans of the organizer of the movement an effort will be made to strengthen the organization of the unemployed so as to give greater weight to their demands. It is expected that the convention will pass a series of resolutions demanding that congress pass, without delay, a number of laws. Among the measures to be demanded will be laws for the establishment of national employment bureaus; free transportation to the job; the shortening of the working hours; the establishment of a minimum wage, in order that the lives of the millions of the unemployed "may be sustained until the establishment of the industrial republic, in which all workers will receive the full product of their toil."

Although the majority of the delegates attending the gathering are men, there are also a few women among the ranks of the unemployed. Cora R. Harvey, of Chicago, known throughout the West as a slums and settlement worker, is the secretary of the national committee of the unemployed and Josephine Welston, of Milwaukee, is a prominent member of the same committee. Both are expected to deliver addresses before the convention.

REVIVAL AGAINST PIC NIC.

Caused Row Lasting Five Hours—Many Hurt.

WILSON.—A gentleman from the Bailey section, in Nash county, was in Wilson Saturday afternoon and told of a riot which occurred Friday last near Sandy Level church in Bailey's township. Religious worship was in progress at the negro Sandy Level church, and at a short distance from the church a picnic and dance was running at full swing. It is said that whiskey and hard cider flowed freely and that the disturbance caused by the dancers became such a nuisance that the parson and deacons went to remonstrate with the revelers, who told the "chosen ones" to return to their flock—that they were out for a time and proposed to have it, whether the Word was preached or not. It wasn't long before the whole bunch of picnickers and dancers and the congregation from the church was gathered around those who were endeavoring to have the obstreperous ones conduct their pleasures in an orderly manner. A boisterous big black boy poked his head in the preacher's face and demanded: "What's dat yer say, parson? Wants us ter stop dancin' eh. Now des listen ter me, parson, while Ah vosiffertes er littel; fer Ah wants yer ter hear my bazzoo when it toots. Ef you an' yo' little bunch doan' like de way we cullud ladies and gemmens cuts de pidgin wing, you des put wheels under yer little church and' roll it away—does yer follow me, parson?"

About this time knives, razors and pistols were brought into requisition and the battle was on. The writer's informant said the whole party, numbering about seventy-five fought from four o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock at night and that many were injured, but how had he knew not.

When the riot was at its height Deputy Sheriff Dan Bissett appeared on the scene and endeavored to quell the disturbance and arrest the ring-leaders. For his pains he was disarmed and made to make a hasty retreat back from whence he came.

A WORD

To The Tobacco Farmers of Pitt And Adjoining Counties.

Being a comparative stranger to the farmers of this section, I take this opportunity of extending to each and every one an invitation to visit me at the Gum warehouse and inspect my method of business. I want to sell your tobacco, and I shall so conduct my business as to merit your patronage. I shall endeavor to be careful not to make promises I can't fulfill. Having been a tobacco farmer myself, I fully realize and appreciate the influences that lead farmers to sell with the different warehouses. I know they sell where they think they can get the most for it. It is natural for them to do so.

My purpose and aim in the conduct of my business is to secure the very highest market price and so arrange my business as to win both the respect and confidence of the buyers and farmers. Feeling this way, I am in better position to secure the best prices.

I thank all my friends and patrons who have sold with me in the past and hope to have the pleasure of doing business with you again. If those who have not sold with me will give me a trial, I will endeavor to make them come again. My schedule of sales can be found elsewhere in this paper. Consult this. Select your own day and bring your tobacco. I will endeavor to please you.

TO DISCUSS PHASE OF CRIME.

The Convention Will Continue For Three Days.

The convention will continue for three days, closing Saturday. At the opening session today Governor Foss delivered an address of welcome, to which Mr. Nathan W. MacChesney, of Illinois, the president of the institute, replied. One of the features of the meeting will be a visit of the members to the various penal and correctional institutions of the city located in Boston and one on some of the islands of Boston harbor.

GOOD ADVICE TO THE FARMERS

ABOUT WINTER COVER CROPS.

Suggestions As To Which Are Best And How To Use Them.

The unprecedented drouth which prevails in some sections of the state is an object lesson as to the value of organic matter or humus in the soil, as it is a well known fact that in addition to other desirable qualities decaying organic matter or humus increases the water holding capacity of all soils.

For the protection of the soil and to provide against the disastrous effects of a possible drought next summer farmers should put in winter-cover crops. The best crops for this purpose are the clovers, vetches, and small grain crops. On land where the clovers and vetches will grow successfully they are better than rye or other small grain crops, but where they will not grow it will be advisable to sow rye.

For best results these crops should be put in as quickly as possible, especially in the western part of the state. Prepare the land by disking and harrowing and sow 15 pounds clean crimson clover seed per acre, and if convenient, sow also 300 pounds acid phosphate per acre, as that will help to insure a stand of clover. Some sow in addition to this one pound of turnip seed per acre, preferably the cowhorn variety, claiming that the turnip leaves protect the young clover plants in their early stages. It can do no harm to sow the turnip seed as these crops are intended to plow under next spring to improve the soil.

The seed should be covered with a cultivator or with a harrow about one inch deep. In the western part of the state these should be put in at once so as to make sufficient growth to withstand the winter. In the central part of the state they should be put in not later than the last of September, while in the eastern and warmer sections of the state they can be put in as late as the middle of October.

In the coastal plain section bur clover is also fine for a winter-cover crop. The seed of this is usually purchased in rough or bur and should be planted at the rate of from three to four bushels of the burs per acre, and covered about one inch deep. These should go in at once. Acid phosphate can be used with these to advantage.

Halfry vetch also makes a fine winter-cover crop, and will succeed in almost any part of the state on well drained land, especially where partridge of mountain peas grow. If sown alone sow at the rate of 30 pounds per acre, and if with rye or other small grain, one bushel of small grain and 20 pounds of vetch per acre. They should be sown at about the same time as crimson clover and covered from one to two inches deep.

Where none of these crops will grow successfully sow rye at the rate of one and a half bushels per acre. You want a heavy growth to protect the land and to add a great quantity of vegetable matter when turned under next spring.

Turn under two or three weeks before you wish to plant the crop which is to follow. Rye especially, should not be permitted to get woody before turning under. Better turn it under as soon as the heads begin to appear than to wait until it is grown. If it gets full grown and dry weather follows it would leave the land so open and loose that the crop following would suffer more than if no rye was put on the land.

All these crops should be disked well and thoroughly cut up before plowing under next spring. Good results may be expected only when they are well mixed with the soil before the crop is planted.

If any one doubts the benefits to be had from these winter-cover crops let him prepare one acre of average land and treat it as described above. Next spring plant another acre by the side of it that has had no winter-cover crop and cultivate both alike. One demonstration like this will usually convince a person of the value of winter-cover crops.

Seed for any of the above-mentioned crops can be had from almost any reputable seedman, but buy only the best and freest from impurities. The best are none too good.

"X. Y. Z." REPLIES TO MR. MANNING'S ARTICLE

MISUNDERSTANDS ROAD BILL.

Sand-Clay Roads A Success When Properly Cared For.

Editor Reflector:
Replying to the article by Mr. James T. Manning in regard to the application of the money derived from the road tax in Greenville township, I will say, that the bill provides for a levy and collection of the tax, and states how it shall be used on the roads in Greenville township. Section 15 of said bill says: "That no other road tax shall be levied and collected in Greenville township." This, it seems to me, is a complete answer to Mr. Manning.

This brings strongly to the attention of those interested in this discussion the fact that a study of the bill and the conditions will remove much misunderstanding.

There is one other question that is answered by the bill. It has been said that if Pitt county had a general road tax that although Greenville township had voted bonds for roads, it would have to pay in addition to its own bond that for the whole county. Read section 15 of the bill. If the legislature can make a separate district of Greenville township for one purpose can it not for another? If the legislature can separate the township from the county for a special tax, can it not separate it from the county for a general tax?

Mr. Manning complains of the sand-clay road. To me it is wonderful that anything could be of the service this piece of road has been without receiving more attention than it has. The United States government experts say that the sand-clay road is a success when properly constructed and kept up. This road has not even had the surface smoothed nor the drains opened since the time it went through the process of mixing, all of which is due to the fact that we have no system for road work. Give the road a fair chance.

Mr. Manning says somebody is trying to fool the farmers; the writer of this article is trying to do what he can to keep anybody from being fooled. This writer is standing on the facts to justify his cause, hoping to eliminate all personality by signing "X. Y. Z." I believe that all interested in the road question should study it from a business point of view, as was said in the first article.

Let us not be fooled by any one who says the other is trying to fool us, but study the conditions and the law.

X. Y. Z.

There is hardly a town where papers are delivered by carriers but what offenses of this kind occur. They happen here occasionally and those who steal the papers are running the risk of getting something like the Norfolk boy got.

Frenzied mobs of men and women thirsty for blood enjoy seeing human beings writhing in flames in communities where formerly law and order had constant abiding places. An audience of more or less cultured people are gathered together for amusements. One single word of alarm is uttered and instantly they become raving maniacs bent on the destruction of each other. Something seems to have gone wrong with the smoothly running machinery of nature. A wave of blighting, withering drought is sweeping over the entire world, leaving crop failure and famine in its wake. To the student of human affairs there are many things that defy solution. Why is it that crime and disaster almost always come in waves sweeping over the entire world at once? Why do such waves generally follow some unusual phenomenon of nature, such as a severe drought? Is the natural operation of cause and effect, or is there some deeper hidden connection of the mass of humanity with the powers of nature? If you recall the article you will remember that Mrs. Ben Spradley died of nervous fright because of the flogging given the boy and her husband. We call attention to that matter just to say that a day or two after the flogging and after the Holsteins who took part in it were safe in Aiken county jail that Columbus Spradley and the Holstein girl slipped off and were married. ## First Aid to The Farmer.

Somebody's always ready to advise the son of toil

Who wrests his daily living from the ground;

He's always being lectured on how to till the soil,

And scientific treatises abound.

He's scolded 'cause he doesn't carry with him in his coat

Professor Nix on cultivating corn.

His ear should be attuned to catch the scientific note,

Not strained to hear the distant dinner horn.

There's some one always ready to tell the man who farms

He never does a thing exactly right;

A magazine informs him he might enhance life's charms

If he'd only choose his furniture aright;

He should have a mission stable and a corner Gothic style;

His chicken coops should all be modern Swiss;

He should be at once artistic and a scientist the while,

And country life would be a dream of bliss.

There's some one always ready to advise the farmer chap—

He's the prey of all the men who talk and write—

But it's lucky for the rest of us he doesn't give a rap

And he never argues back nor starts a fight;

He goes his way in silence, and he reaps the crop he sows,

And the world lives on in comfort through his toil;

Nor praise nor blame shall matter, The only man the critics cannot spoil!

"THIS IS MY 75th BIRTHDAY." Bishop Randolph.

Bishop Alfred M. Randolph, of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Southern Virginia, was born in Winchester, Va., August 31, 1836. After completing the academic course at William and Mary College he began his theological studies at the Virginia Theological Seminary. Following his graduation from the seminary in 1858, he took orders as deacon of the Protestant Episcopal church, and two years later was ordained a priest by Bishop John. For nearly twenty-five years after he enter the ministry he was connected as rector with St. George's Church, Fredericksburg, Va., and Emmanuel church, Baltimore.

In 1883 he was made coadjutor bishop of Virginia and continued as such until 1892, when the diocese was divided and Bishop Randolph was elected as head of the diocese of Southern Virginia. In 1902 Bishop Randolph was selected as Paddock lecturer at the General Theological Seminary, New York City. He is the author of numerous sermons, addresses and pastorals.

GRAY HAIR MAKES YOU LOOK OLD

A Simple Remedy Brings Back The Natural Color—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

How often one hears the expression, "She is gray and beginning to look old." It is true that gray hair usually denotes age and is always associated with age. You never hear one referred to as having gray hair and looking young.

The hair is generally the index of age. If your hair is gray, you can't blame your friends for referring to you as looking old. You can't retain a youthful appearance if you allow your hair to grow gray. Many persons of middle age jeopardize their future simply by allowing the gray hair to become manifest. If your hair has become faded or gray, try Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation which a chemist by the name of Weyth devised a few years ago. It is simple, inexpensive and practical, and will banish the gray hairs in a few days. It is also guaranteed to remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

It is a pleasant dressing for the hair, and after using it a few days itching and dryness of the scalp entirely disappears.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, MOYE'S PHARMACY.

Mrs. Furney Gaskins has been visiting down in Stokestown this week.

RALEIGH 53 YEARS AGO.

Then Had Less Than Five Thousand People.

Mr. H. L. Coward has shown us some old newspaper clippings that were taken from an issue of the Raleigh Register, printed in 1858, fifty three years ago, which he found put away in an old family Bible coming down to him from his ancestors. One of these clippings that impressed us very much was about the population of Raleigh at that time, showing that away back in those days, even as now, there was contention over the number of people the towns had. This clipping stated that the commissioners of Raleigh had just had a census taken, and much to the surprise of everybody, the population was only 4,235, while it was thought to be between seven and eight thousand.

In those days when but few of the counties had newspapers, legal advertisements had to be sent to the Raleigh papers, and we noticed one from Pitt county among these clippings from the Register.

To The Good People of Greenville The report having been circulated in Greenville that I am a mulatto and that I have taken a negro in co-partnership with me, I take this method of telling the citizens it is their patronage. I am a full blooded all untrue and ask a continuance of German-Jew. Both of my parents are Hebrews, now living in Germany. I can prove my birth. As for taking a negro in co-partnership with me, I have done nothing of the kind. White labor from the north being too high to bring here for my patronage, and, as I had to have some help, I simply hired a negro to work for me on piece work basis. This is nothing more than a great many other people do and I am sorry to be so criticized and misrepresented.

Thanking you for the liberal patronage that you have given me, and asking a continuance of same, I am,

H. BENTLEY HARRISS

MADERO FOR PRESIDENT.

No Opposition to His Nomination—No Speech-making.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 31.—With no dissenting voice Francisco I. Madero yesterday received the nomination of the Progressive party for president but Dr. Francisco Vasquez Gomez, his old running-mate and erstwhile agent of the revolution at Washington, was grilled by partizans of three other candidates for the vice-presidency.

When the convention adjourned at night the candidacy of no other man for the vice-presidency than Vasquez Gomez and been considered. Jose Pino Squarz continued a favorite in the betting, with Alfredo Robles Dominguez as second choice.

Madero was the only candidate for the presidency whose name was placed before the convention. No speech was made. The chairman announced his candidacy, went through the formality of asking if there were others, and was greeted by a chorus of "noes." One delegate seated attempted to make a speech in Madero's support. The delegates shouted him down and called for a vote. It was unanimous.

JUDGE WHEDBEE.

Makes Favorable Impression On Cumberland People.

Cumberland Superior court for the trial of criminal cases convened Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock, with Judge H. W. Whedbee presiding and Solicitor N. A. Sinclair representing the state. Special interest attaches to this term of court because of the fact that it is Judge Whedbee's first term here and because of the reputation he has established in other counties and districts for swift and business-like despatch of matters coming before him. The people of other counties, notably Robeson, have been praising Judge Whedbee's management of conducting courts. His charge to the grand jury Monday made a very favorable impression.—Fayetteville Index.

MOSQUITO SAVED HIS LIFE.

Attacked Man's Nose as Hammer Fell, And Jerk Saved It.

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 31.—A mosquito saved the life of John Mahoney yesterday. He was passing a building in course of construction when a workman on the top floor accidentally dropped a heavy hammer.

At the same instant a mosquito tried to alight on Mahoney's nose, causing him to jerk his head backward. The hammer grazed his face and chipped a piece out of the stone pavement.

Had the hammer struck Mahoney on the head it would have crushed his skull. Mahoney declared this the mosquito's attack was so vicious that the pain had caused him to throw his head back, saving his life.

Advertisers' Opportunity.

Mr. Advertiser: The Reflector is giving you the opportunity to reach the people. If you fail to use it, you are the loser. This paper is now going daily into more than 2,200 homes, and you can safely say it is read by 10,000 people. These people are worth talking to in advertisements. They are going to spend money this fall, and the advertisers are the ones who will get most of it.

Ecuador's President Takes Office.

QUITO, Ecuador, Aug. 31.—Emilio Estrada, who recently defeated Gen. Flavio Alfaro in a bitter contest for the presidency, was inducted into office today. The inauguration was attended with the customary ceremonies conducted in the presence of the members of congress and other officials of the republic.

Suicided Successfully.

Charles Nickles, who lived near Santac, S. C., had been mentally unbalanced for some days and was very melancholy. One day last week he went into his father's barn, covered himself with fodder, struck a match and set fire to the fodder and in that manner committed suicide and destroyed the barn.

IMPORTANT COTTON NOTICE.

To All Cotton Buyers, Farmers And Ginners.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Norfolk, Va., July 19, 1911.—This exchange views with alarm the abuses that have grown up in preparing cotton for market and deem it our duty to protest against these abuses, to state what they are, and how they can be corrected.

The troubles have appeared in the last few years and have grown each year. The loss which primarily is paid by the ginner and producer of cotton, incidentally reaches the mill agents, exporters and mills. The abuses are these: First, the excessive use of bagging; second, weight of bagging used; and third, the weight of the bales.

Regarding the excessive use of bagging, each bale should be covered on the upper and lower sides, in the press box, and on the heads, and no more. The quality of covering considered sufficient to cover a bale is 22 pounds, which includes bagging and bands, and any excess over this will be deducted.

Second: As to the weight of the bagging used, it was only a few years ago when the bagging weighed 2 1-4 pounds, 2 pounds and 2 1-4 pounds to the yard, the heaviest being 2 1-4 pounds; now we hear of bagging weighing 3 and 4 pounds per yard. This is selling bagging and not cotton. We would strongly protest against anything heavier than 2 1-4 pounds, and in case where the bagging exceeds 2 1-2 pounds we advise the ginners that just claims and deductions will be made against such excessive weight.

Third: The weight bales have become more in evidence as the heavy weight bagging has increased. While there are rules against bales of cotton under 400 pounds, and as all sales made both for domestic and foreign shipment are required to weigh an average of 500 pounds per bale, it is urged that shipments destined to Norfolk shall average in weight as near 500 pounds per bale as possible, because on bales weighing 400 pounds or under a deduction may be made.

These suggestions are made purely with a view of saving the producer and ginner of cotton from further loss by correcting these abuses.

NORFOLK AND PORTSMOUTH COTTON EXCHANGE.

Greenville, N. C., Aug. 26, 1911.—

In co-operation with the late ruling of the cotton exchanges, regarding the excessive use of bagging, and light weight bales, we the undersigned as representative buyers for the mill and export trade, in this section, hereby agree to make proper deduction for any excess in weight over 22 pounds per bale, for the covering of cotton including bagging and ties and dock $1 per bale for any bale weighing under 400 pounds.

Six yards of bagging is all that is required to wrap a bale, and no bagging weighing over 2 1-2 pounds per yard will be accepted without proper deduction for excess weight, and every bale of cotton should weigh as near 500 pounds as possible.

A WORD TO SUBSCRIBERS.

For two or three months The Reflector has had nothing to say to subscribers about paying for their paper. We know it was the dullest time of the year when people had but little money, and we, like the rest, have been toughing it out as best we could. Now September will soon be here, the tobacco market will be open and cotton will be coming in, so the people ought to soon have some money. We hope they will look at the date after their name on the paper, and all who are in arrears, are urged to pay just as soon as they can. We have some large bills to meet during September and cannot do this unless you pay us. Do not wait for a statement to be sent, as the date on the paper shows how much each subscriber owes. We hope every one will respond promptly to this request.

To Mark Site of Frontier Fort.

ESTHERVILLE, Ia., Aug. 31.—A four days' patriotic celebration was begun here today under the auspices of the Daughters of the Revolution. The chief feature of the celebration is to be the dedication of a shaft to mark the site of the old Fort Defiance, a famous reminder of the pioneer days in Iowa.

A girl can't help feeling suspicious she's going to be kissed when she goes out on a dark porch with a man, even if it's her father.
