MORNING TALKS AT TRAINING SCHOOL

By President Robt. H. Wright to the Students

THE STATES EDUCATIONAL PROBLEM

How to Provide Efficient Teachers For Her Public Schools—Money And Houses Do Not Make Schools—The Teacher Must Be Prepared.

The purpose of this school and the purpose of your stay here are one and the same. It may be of some service to all of you and of much service to some of you, to know why the state has established this school, why the tax-payers of North Carolina are called upon to contribute each year to its maintenance. It may help you to clarify your promise for me to give you an outline of the educational development in North Carolina.

WHY IS THIS SCHOOL? To answer this question it is necessary to give you a brief history of public education. I am not going to give you enough to hurt you, but just enough to state our problem.

For many years we have had set aside a part of the taxes levied each year for "Free School" purposes. These schools in the more progressive communities were sandwiched in between two terms of subscription school. But the free school was taught by the teacher employed for the subscription school. During the public school term almost all of the children of the community went to school, and during the subscription term only the children of those parents who helped pay the teacher's salary, attended the school. As a result some of the children in the neighborhood advanced more rapidly than others. It was not right to the child that he should be handicapped in life, simply because his father could not, or would not, provide for his education. It was not long before people saw that educated youths were worth more to the community than unlettered. It, therefore, soon became apparent to all that the state owes an elementary education to each boy and girl in its borders; also that it will pay to give them this education. Put this down as the first point this morning—North Carolina has realized that an elementary education should be offered to each boy and girl in the state, and that this education should be provided for by taxation.

I shall not always select a passage of Scripture because of what I wish to talk about; but I have done that this morning.

"If thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee: it is better for thee to enter life halt or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into everlasting fire.

"And if thine eye offend thee, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: it is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, rather than having two eyes to be cast into hell fire."

I wish to give this passage of Scripture an interpretation that applies to our every day life in this school, as well as the interpretation for which it was intended. For the Bible being the great book gives us not only spiritual guidance, but guide for every day affairs. Let me interpret this Scripture as meaning: remove all hindrances from your purpose. You are here for a definite purpose. You are spending your money to attend school for some definite end. Do not let anything, hand, foot, eye, dress, school-mates, society—no, not anything divert that purpose. Become as little children in that you give yourselves over entirely with all of your faith, all of your hope, all of your mind; yes, all of your faculties, in the purpose for which you are attending school.

In bringing this about, three men stand out clearly above the others, viz.: Charles Duncan McIver, first president of the State Normal and Industrial school at Greensboro; Edward Anderson Alderman, the first president of the University of Virginia, and James Yadin Joyner, our State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The next movement in our state was for better school houses. This began several years ago. Those of you who were with us last year re-

BELIEVED TO BE ALIVE.

It is Possible That Myrtle Hawkins Is Still Alive.

A theory which has been advanced in regard to the Myrtle Hawkins mystery at Hendersonville, by many people of this city who have watched the case closely, is that the young lady is alive today and that the body which was found in Lake Osceola on which were found her clothes and jewels had been placed there by some one other than a "murderer." Many reasons are advanced for this belief among them being that Myrtle never wore the cloak in which the body supposed to be hers was found and that it was used on this occasion for a "bluff." Another is the one expressed by a local physician to the effect that the body would not be so decomposed as to be unrecognizable in the space of three days, as the body which is said to be hers was. It is believed by the gentleman who expressed this opinion yesterday that the body which was found in the lake on which was found her clothes and jewelry, was an exhumed one which had been placed there for a "bluff." The body was identified only by the clothing and jewelry, it will be recalled.—Asheville Citizen.

NORTHWESTERN UNDERWRITERS

An Important Gathering of Insurance Men.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 4.—An important gathering of insurance men—the annual meeting of the Fire Underwriters' Association of the northwest—convened at the Hotel LaSalle today with a large attendance of members, in addition to a considerable number of prominent fire insurance officials from eastern cities. J. D. Browne, president of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company, delivered the annual address. The programme extends over tomorrow and provides for numerous papers and addresses from representatives of the various branches of the fire insurance business and commercial interests as well.

INVESTIGATE PIECE SYSTEM.

The System Has Met With Bitter Opposition.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 4.—The house labor committee, of which representative W. B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, is chairman, came to Boston today to begin an investigation of the workings of the Taylor piece system which the government has proposed to install in all of the United States navy yards and arsenals. The system has met with the bitter opposition of the labor unions and its installation at the Watertown arsenal recently resulted in a general strike of the machinists employed there.

MEETING POSTPONED.

Carolina Club Will Meet Tuesday Night of Next Week.

There was a meeting of Carolina club Tuesday night, called for the purpose of considering the question of having lockers in the club. As there were only about twenty members present, the meeting was postponed until Tuesday night of next week, at which time those members who cannot attend may be represented by proxy if they so desire.

Ecumenical Conference in Toronto.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 4.—What is considered by the leading bishops and lay delegates as the most important convocation of Methodists ever held in the Western World began in this city today with the formal opening of the Fourth Methodist Ecumenical Conference. The attendance includes 500 delegates representing England, Ireland, Australia, India, Canada and the United States. The sessions will continue for two weeks, during which time, men of international prominence, including public officials, labor leaders, financiers and business men, in addition to churchmen of wide reputation, will discuss the tasks of Methodists in aid of temperance, missions, social service, the settlement of theological disputes, Church unity, world peace and better government, child welfare, literature and education, and the methods by which laymen and women may help all these causes in the largest ways.

REVIVAL SERVICES AT THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

SUBJECT, "UNPARDONABLE SIN."

The Audience Very Large Tuesday Night.

Mr. H. C. Boblitt preached to an audience at the Christian church last night that almost filled the house. They listened very attentively while he discussed, in a most instructive and interesting way, "The Unpardonable Sin." He is quite proficient as song leader, and there was evidently much improvement in the singing and tested by the audience by leaving it sing in sections.

Mrs. C. C. Ware sang most acceptably "Eternity," a beautiful solo, well adapted to the occasion.

The sermon was well prepared and well delivered. He said that some people thought that the unpardonable sin was the single rejection of Jesus Christ when under the conviction of sin, but showed that one might reject Christ many times and yet be saved if they did not continue in their stubbornness and disbelief. Again he said that others thought that the unpardonable sin was suicide, but stated that the Bible did not so declare. Others think it is drunkenness, etc. But the Bible expressly says that the unpardonable sin is the sins against the Holy Spirit. Then the evangelist explained that there had been three dispensations in the world's history, the Patriarchal, the Jewish, and the Christian, and that in the Patriarchal and Jewish dispensations until the birth of Christ the world had messages of pardon from God only, that after the birth of Christ to Pentecost they had these messages from God and Christ, and that after Pentecost we have had these messages from God, Christ and the Holy Spirit, and that the Bible, which rules and guides us today, is distinctly the expression of the Holy Spirit. Hence to reject the Holy Spirit which is the last messenger bearing pardon, the last that shall ever be, is to sin against the Holy Spirit, and reject God's entire plan for the redemption of man. And to continually reject the offers of the Holy Spirit is the unpardonable sin, for in the nature of the case it is unpardonable. The speaker then vividly illustrated this truth by a word picture of the cold-blooded murderer, apprehended, convicted, sentenced to hang, led to the scaffold, and being handed a paron, as he is about to be executed, tears it to pieces sullenly and scornfully, and goes on to his death.

In conclusion a stirring exhortation was given to hear the good tidings of the Holy Spirit, which has been the "power of God unto salvation" to so many.

The meeting last night showed a very marked interest in the work being done in this evangelistic campaign, and on every hand were heard expressions of the evangelist's ability and consecration.

The meeting is to continue throughout this week, and most, probably all, of next week. There will be special music each evening. The prospects are fine for a real revival. Every one who will attend, is assured of a warm welcome from the members of this comparatively small, but prosperous church.

PITT COUNTY FAIR.

Premium List And Rules Governing Exhibits.

Elsewhere in this paper is published the revised premium list of the Pitt county fair to be held in Greenville on Thursday and Friday, November 2nd and 3rd, together with some information concerning exhibits. From this list it will be seen that the North Carolina Department of Agriculture will pay half of the general premiums, and also $50 in premiums to the women's department. In addition to these the Pitt County Fair Association offers some special premiums. These premiums ought to insure a large and creditable exhibit of the products of the county. Read the list through and also see the large advertisement on another page. Everybody come to the fair.

Texas W. C. T. U. Meeting.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 4.—Delegates representing the branches of the W. C. T. U. throughout Texas have assembled in this city for the annual state convention of the organization. The sessions were formally opened today and will continue over Thursday and Friday.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS

Of The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company.

There is published elsewhere in this paper today a statement of the September sales of tobacco on the Greenville market. This statement is published like all other statements that have been given the public since the organization of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company, for the purpose of appealing to and reaching the enlightened intelligence of the tobacco growers. Our purpose and policy has always been to so conduct our business as to be able to truthfully say we had the best and could do the best by our patrons, and I firmly and conscientiously believe that under our system of business, our patrons get better service, else why should the monthly and yearly average of our sales rule higher than other houses. Not being able to meet our competition subterfuges and various pretexts have been resorted to, to deceive and mislead the tobacco farmers. This kind of competition we could not meet, and we have not tried. We have had to contend with the world, the flesh and the devil, but at all times, we have endeavored to so conduct our business as to command the confidence and inspire the respect of the public, and I believe today a very large per cent of the tobacco growers of the county realize that the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company has lived down and proven false every charge ever made to injure it.

To the stockholders, I want to say, the company is in the very best and strongest position both financially and its power and opportunity to advance the interest of the farmers that it has ever been since the organization. There is coming a time before very long when you will need organization. Let me, therefore, appeal to you to give aid to this company; foster it; encourage it; give it your influence and support; and let it be known that you are a Farmers Consolidated man, and endeavor to get every tobacco farmer in your community to also become a Farmers Consolidated man. As the tobacco farmers have studied out and reasoned on the motives and purposes that have actuated and inspired most of the opposition to this company, the true cause of such opposition has become clearer and clearer, until today the man who has no other argument in soliciting trade than to go about abusing the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company will find a very scant welcome in the tobacco-growing districts of this section.

"THE COOK'S BASKET"

Why Not Enforce The Vagrancy Law?

Editor Reflector: We notice in your paper of October 2nd a most timely article entitled "The Cook's Basket," taken from the Charleston News and Courier.

We agree with the writer that it is a disgusting thing to think of idle negroes loafing around the streets and dives, and stations, when every one knows they are being fed from some white person's kitchen by the cooks. We are told there is a law against vagrancy; is it utterly impossible to enforce that law? If so, then why don't the law-makers repeal it? If it can be enforced (and we all know it should be), then why not enforce it? That would go far toward solving the labor problem and high prices when we would have more producers and fewer parasites.

We have heard that there is a Civic League in Greenville, composed of its good women, and suffer us to say we believe there are none better on God's earth. Would it be amiss to suggest to the ladies while they are planning and talking civics and home economics to include in their plans a discussion of "The Cook's Basket" or pan as the case may be?

In our opinion if one woman sets her head on doing a thing she usually does it. If several are united, it is bound to be done.

Ladies, does the problem of the "Cook's Basket" appeal to you?

THE COTTON MARKET AND THE SOUTH

ESTIMATE BY THEO. H. PRICE.

Yield No Larger This Year Than Last—Financial Suicide of Farmers.

Having spent September, 1910, and September, 1911, in the cotton fields of Texas, and having in the interval traveled extensively in the cotton manufacturing districts of both Europe and America, I am moved to put before the cotton producers of the South my impression with regard to the present situation of the cotton market. Last year at this time the market was advancing rapidly, and although the crop was a short one, the farmers were receiving a reasonably generous reward for their arduous labor.

I am greatly impressed with the contrast between this year and last. I have been through literally hundreds of cotton fields in both North and South Texas in the past thirty days. Making due allowance for the increase in acreage, I am strongly impressed with the fact that the yield per acre will not be any larger this year than it was last.

Yet, owing to an apparent misconception regarding the size of the crop, the farmers of the South are engaged in a deplorable competition as to who shall sell their cotton cheapest. The fact that the crop has prematurely opened all at once, and is, far as possible, all being marketed in a few weeks, adds to the demoralization of a situation which will become acute unless balanced by self-control.

The world needs all and more than all the cotton that the South can this year produce. On the average it takes one pound of cotton to make five yards of cloth. An advance of 5c a pound on cotton, therefore, results in an advance of 1c a yard in the cloth, which is consumed by a world population of nearly one thousand million people.

On the other hand, an advance of 5c a pound in cotton means $25.00 a bale, or something over $300,000,000, which would be distributed among the eighteen million people resident in the cotton states.

I call upon the farmers of the South to pause in the financial suicide in which they are now engaged. There is no necessity for it. It means great distress and serious loss to many defenseless men and women.

Deliberation, investigation and intelligent action by the individual will result in averting an enormous loss to the people of the cotton states.

I wonder if it is generally known in the South that seed cotton held after picking for two or three months before ginning seems to continue to develop—the staple growing longer and the seed heavier. If I have opportunity later on I shall say something on this subject.

AIM AT MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT

Annual Meeting of the League of American Municipalities.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 4.—The annual meeting of the League of American Municipalities began here today with a good attendance of mayors and other officials representing many of the leading cities of the United States and Canada. At the initial session Mayor Winn, of Atlanta, delivered an address of welcome and Mayor Brown, of Kansas City, responded for the visitors and delivered his presidential address. The convention will continue over tomorrow and Friday. The subject of city government by commission will be exhaustively discussed. Law enforcement, municipal insurance bonds, the standardization of municipal business and numerous other matters pertaining to the needs and requirements of municipal government will receive attention.

CONSOLIDATED HOUSES LEAD.

A Great Benefit to Farmers Co-operating With Us.

The page advertisement of the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company in this issue calls attention to some facts that every tobacco farmer should consider. The warehouses of the market are required to make a statement of sales each month and the amount paid for tobacco. This statement is made to the secretary of the tobacco board of trade and also to the state agricultural department. A few days ago The Reflector published the aggregate figures for September as furnished by the secretary of the board of trade. An analysis of the figures brings out the fact that in prices paid for tobacco the warehouses operated by the Farmers Consolidated Tobacco company led the market by 85 cents on the hundred pounds. Thus it will be seen that the farmers selling at these warehouses get more money for their tobacco, and those who are stockholders in the business, as many of them are, profit still further in the dividends the company pays. It is also showing the success of a business conducted by farmers in their own interest.

EPISCOPALIANS OF FOUR STATES

A Holy Communion of All Saints' Cathedral Preceded Opening.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 4.—The third annual council of the fifth missionary department of the Episcopal churches of the United States has attracted to this city a host of bishops, clergy and laity from Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin, the four states embraced in the department. A holy communion service in All Saints' Cathedral preceded the opening of the convention this morning. Bishop Webb delivered an address of welcome at the initial business session and among the other notable participants were Bishop Vincent, of southern Ohio, Bishop Williams, of Michigan, Bishop Anderson, of Chicago, and Bishop Weller, of Fond du Lac.

Same Opponent for Pothier.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 4.—The Democratic State convention of Rhode Island met in this city today and named candidates for the State offices to be filled at the November election. Lewis A. Waterman was placed at the head of the ticket as the candidate for Governor. Mr. Waterman was the Democratic opponent of Governor Pothier last year and was defeated by a small vote.

PETRIFIED TREES.

The "Stone Forest" One of California's Natural Wonders.
California, among many other natural wonders, contains a "stone forest." This is located in Sonoma county, only a few miles from the little resort of Callisto Springs. This "forest" consists of a great many petrified trees, all of which are prostrate.
In respect to the great number of petrified trees and their immense size, the California "stone forest" surpasses that of Arizona. Strange to say, very little is known about these wonderful Sonoma county petrifications—so far as the general public is concerned. Many of these trees are of enormous size. The famous "Queen of the Forest" is a prehistoric redwood about eighty feet long and nearly twelve feet in diameter. It has been broken in several places, and these breaks are as clean as if cut off with a saw. A tree has grown up through one of the breaks and has attained quite a large size. Another giant tree known as the "Monarch" lies near by, which is almost ninety feet long and is without a break. This tree is a fir, and averages ten feet in diameter. Not far away is another giant son of the forest—a redwood that is about sixty feet long and nine feet in diameter. This tree is broken into many hundreds of pieces, yet it retains its shape almost perfectly. Scattered about for the area of several acres are many other pieces of petrification. So perfect has been the transmutation into stone that the grain of the wood still remains very clear, and the variety of the tree may be easily determined.—Scientific American.

THE OLD LIBERTY BELL.

History of This Relic of the Revolutionary Patriots.
Overvigorous ringing of the old Liberty bell many years ago on the occasion of the celebration of the Declaration of Independence was what put the crack in it and forever destroyed its resonant tone. It was cast by Pass & Stow in Philadelphia and hung in the belfry of the now historic statehouse in lower Chestnut street early in June, 1753. It contains 2,080 pounds of metal.
Near the top of the bell were cast the words "Proclaim Liberty Throughout All the Land Unto All the Inhabitants Thereof." Prophetic of its destiny, this gave it the name Liberty bell.
When the British army marched on Philadelphia in 1777 the bell was taken down by patriots and carried off in the night to Allentown in order that it might not fall into the hands of the enemy. In 1781 it was returned to the tower of the statehouse.
For more than half a hundred years thereafter the bell was rung and honored on Independence day every year before the crack appeared in it. An effort was made to restore its tone by sawing the crack wider, but this proved of no avail. The bell was finally removed from the tower to a lower story of the statehouse and used only on extraordinary occasions. Subsequently it was rigged up on its original timbers in the vestibule. In 1893 it was exhibited at the Columbian exposition in Chicago.

Shakespeare as an Actor.

Shakespeare once played the ghost in his own "Hamlet." A younger brother of the dramatist in describing the event said that he wore "a long beard and appeared so weak and drooping and unable to walk that he was forced to be supported and carried by another person to a table, at which he was seated among some company."

In "As You Like It" Aron's bard assumed the role of Adam, the old servant, in whom was represented "the constant service of the antique world" and who was "not for the fashions of these times."

Famous Greta Green.

Greta Green, Scotland, became famous for its celebration of irregular marriages. For many years the average number was 500. The ceremony consisted only of an admission, before witness, by the couple that they were husband and wife, this being sufficient to constitute a valid marriage. After this the officiating functionary (for many years a blacksmith, together with two witnesses, signed the marriage certificate.

What He Wanted.

The doctor stood at the bedside and looked gravely down at the invalid. "I cannot hide from you the fact that you are very ill," he said. "Is there any one you would like to see?"
"Yes," said the sufferer faintly.
"Who is it?"
"Another doctor."

No Obstruction.

In the course of a trial at Waterbury, Conn., the examiner was trying to get the topography of the country and the relative situation of objects. The witness was asked, "Which way does the road run past your house?" The reply was, "Both ways, your honor, up and down."—Case and Comment.

Acts of Kindness.

If every one did an act of daily kindness to his neighbor and refused to do any unkindness half the sorrow of this world would be lifted and disappear.—Jan Maclaren.

HUNTED BY A WALRUS.

The Big Bull Got Quite Sociable Before He Was Dorned For.
In George Borup's "A Tenderfoot With Peary" appears an exciting incident of walrus hunting. During a raid upon a herd of fifty walrus asleep on a pan "it was blowing some, and the choppy waves made the shooting look as if the guns had spiral barrels." The ineffective target practice produced these hair raising developments a few seconds later: "Suddenly a giant bull rose out of the water just along side of Wesharkoupsi. He threw his harpoon, but as the barb came off he might as well have heaved a lead pencil. The walrus gave a derisive grunt, divided, and a second later shot out of the water on the other side, deluged us with liquid and came down slap bang on the gunwale of the boat opposite me."
"By this time Wesharkoupsi was high in the air and out for an altitude record. Instead of throwing his harpoon he threw his soul into his yells and just spat in the brute's face. The other huskies were trying to back water or hit him over the head with the oars, nearly sideswiping me and incidentally short circuiting their cussing at Wesharkoupsi, the walrus and everything is general."
"All this time the walrus was sitting alongside of me, asking if there were any more at home like Wesharkoupsi. It was easier to pull his whiskers or smash his mug with my fist than shoot. If I held the gun to my shoulder the muzzle would stick beyond his head, so, firing from the hip, I gave him the entente cordiale."

GETTING THE FACTS.

His Second Story Probably Differed From the First One.
Long experience as a consulting attorney has given Mr. Mooney a judicial habit of mind. He never accepts the facts at par value, but always leads those facts into the rear office and drops acid in their eyes. The other day a friend rushed in, warm and red.
"Mooney," said the friend excitedly, "I've been insulted. Hinks just met me and called me all sorts of names. We've had trouble over that partition matter, you know. He said I was a pettifogger and a thief and a scoundrel and a perjurer and a wire haired thug."
"Um!" said Mr. Mooney, sitting farther down in his chair and looking at the speaker over his glasses. "Um! And what do you propose to do about it?"
"What do I propose to do about it? Why, I was so astounded at the moment that I could make no reply at all. But now that I have somewhat recovered myself, I have determined to go down to Hinks' office and knock his block off. I'll beat him to a quivering froth."
"Um!" said Mr. Mooney, slipping down a notch. "Um! So would I if any one called me the names that Hinks called you. But before you go suppose you sit down with me for a moment."
The indignant friend took a chair.
"Now," said Mooney, dangling his eyeglasses, "what are the facts in the case?"—Cincinnati Times-Star.

No Caste in Snorers.

The cause and cure of snoring concern all classes, says the London Chronicle. We have record that both the house of lords and the workhouse have suffered from it. There was a former Duke of Norfolk who fell into the habit of sleeping audibly in the lords, and it happened that he was hard at it on one occasion when a bill concerning the parish of Great Snoring, in Norfolk, came before the house. The roar of laughter with which the bill's title was greeted awakened the duke and relieved his fellow peers. At the other end of the social scale we have the poor law commission minority's commendation of the ingenious workhouse master who divided the old men at night so that the snorers and the deaf men slept in one ward and the rest in another.

Johnnie Knew.

A teacher in an uptown school was giving her small charges a lesson in politeness the other day.
"Now, when," said she, "should you say 'Excuse me, please?'"
There was a moment's silence, then a very small boy put up his hand.
"Well, Johnnie?"
"Please, ma'am, you should say 'Excuse me, please,' when you sneeze at the table and don't turn away your head quick enough."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Fish and Brain.

The saying that fish is the best brain food comes of an old long tongue windbag years ago saying: "Thought is impossible without phosphorous." So a Swiss chemist, knowing that fish contained phosphorous, put two and two together, and brought forth a saying that will never die.

She Knew All Right.

"You don't know what that's a picture of, Johnny?" said Mrs. Lapsing in a tone of reproof. "You ought to read your ancient history more. That is the temple of Dinah at Emphasis."—Chicago Tribune.

SWITCHED THEIR VOTES.

The Incident That Won Tom Corwin's First Fight For Congress.

"When I saw the oil painting of Tom Corwin in the treasury," said an Ohio man, "I could not but recall the story told in Corwin's old home of Lebanon of how he won his first election to congress. He was a young man and already noted as an orator, but he had a hard district and little encouragement for election. He was making his tour of the counties and one night stopped at the double cabin of a farmer known to be a very fervent advocate of political policies of the opposition. Corwin talked politics carefully with the old man and his sons before bedtime, but had little hope of winning a single vote in the household. In the morning the old man took Corwin outside and announced that every voter in the family would be for him on election day. This astonished and delighted Corwin, who could not help but ask why the sudden change of heart.
"The old man told how the opposition candidate had stopped at his house one night the week before and how the host and wife had watched the candidate go to bed. To their disgust, he actually put on a nightgown like those worn by a woman. This disgusted the rugged old pioneer. Then Corwin was told how the old farmer and his wife had watched him go to bed, and as he had not bothered about a nightie they determined he was not taken to frills. Corwin could see the humor of the incident, and in every succeeding speech he told that night-shirt story on the other candidate, holding him up to scorn. The result was a victory for Corwin, and he owed it all to that story of a shirt."—Washington Post.

Caught Her Secret.

Old Podkins lay back in his chair in calm content, and though his wife was quite near him, he was happy, for she had not broken the silence for nearly five minutes.
He had been married for five and twenty long years, and Mrs. Podkins almost daily during twenty-four of them had disturbed the domestic peace by a too full exercise of her tongue.
"My dear," broke in Mrs. P., thinking it time she said something to interrupt the quiet, "I see by the papers that a petrified jaw two yards long has been found in Cornwall."
"What!" cried Podkins, starting up. "Now I know your secret. But you never told me your ancestors came from that part of the world!"—Dundee.

Suspicious.

Bank President—What's the matter? Bank Vice President—I was just thinking. I sat next to our cashier in church yesterday, and I don't quite like the way he sings "Will they miss me when I'm gone?"—Puck.

Seizing the Opportunity.

Crabshaw—If you insist on this new gown I'll have to get it on credit. Mrs. Crabshaw—As long as it's going to be charged, dear, I may as well get a more expensive one.—Life.

CORE OF THE EARTH.

It May Be a Mass of Steel Some 5,580 Miles in Diameter.

Various conjectures have been made from time to time by geologists as to the possible condition of the center of the earth. One of the most popular impressions seems to be that the earth's center, or core, is a flaming furnace. At a meeting of the Seismological association at The Hague Professor Welchert asserted that his studies of the varying velocity of earthquake tremors passing through the interior of the globe have led him to the conclusion that the earth consists of a central core of iron or steel, about 5,580 miles in diameter, surrounded with a stony shell 980 miles in thickness. Between the outer solid rind and the inner layer of rock, covering the metallic core, he thinks there is a layer of liquid or plastic material, lying a little less than twenty miles below the surface of the earth.

Men sometimes dream of enormous wealth stored deep in the earth below the reach of miners, but experts now aver that there is little or no ground to believe that any valuable metallic deposits lie very deep in the earth's crust regardless of Professor Welchert's beliefs to the contrary. Such deposits, it is said, are made by underground waters, and owing to the pressure on the rocks at great depths the waters are confined to a shell near the surface. With few exceptions ore deposits become too lean to repay working below 3,000 feet. Nine mines in ten, taking the world as a whole, are poorer in the second thousand feet than in the first thousand, and poorer yet in the third thousand than in the second.—New York World.

To Stop Hiccoughs.

Simple cases of hiccough are often relieved by such measures as sucking ice or taking salt and vinegar, says the New York Medical Journal. Pulling the tongue forward and holding it for some time is an effective procedure. Sometimes obstinate hiccough is relieved when the patient is strong by having him hang with the arms extended and grasping some beam or pole, so that his feet do not touch the floor. With all the abdominal muscles tense, have him hold his breath as long as possible. Sneezing is very efficient in certain cases, since it is the exact opposite to hiccough, being a sudden expiratory act.

Chemical Experiment.

When the genial Quaker, Isaac T. Hopper, met a boy with a dirty face or hands he would stop him and inquire if he ever studied chemistry. The boy, with a wondering stare, would answer, "No."
"Well, then, I will teach thee how to perform a curious chemical experiment," said Friend Hopper. "Go home, take a piece of soap, put it in water and rub it briskly on thy hands and face. Thou hast no idea what a beautiful froth it will make and how much whiter thy skin will be. That's a chemical experiment. I advise thee to try it!"—Life of Isaac T. Hopper.

SOUTH SEA FASHIONS.

The Dusky Native Belles Have Queer Ideas About Dress.

It would be hard to find a spot where the subject of dress does not sway the feminine mind. To the world at large its observance causes either a great deal of pleasure or a good store of amusement. In the category of amusement may be placed the proceedings of the dusky belles described by Beatrice Grimshaw in her book, "In the Strange South Seas."
A lace trimmed garment of mine, usually worn at night under the shelter of sheets and quilts, went to a Sunday morning church as a best dress in full daylight on the person of the laundress entrusted with my wash. The funny dress was so conspicuous that she never got the reproof she deserved.
A certain flower toque made of poppies, a bloom unknown in the Pacific, first drove the women of the island half distracted with excitement, then led thirty-six native ladies to appear simultaneously at a dance wearing excellent copies of my Paris model done in double scarlet hibiscus from the bush.
A wedding from which unfortunately I was absent furnished the finest display of native dress that took place that year. The bride wore fourteen silk dresses, not all at once, but one after another, changing her dress again and again during the reception until the white spectators were fairly giddy.

Belief.
"Do you believe in a hereafter?"
"You bet. I have several enemies who are too strong for me to punish myself."—Chicago Record-Herald.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1911.

For a man who just don't care how soon he is gone, the airship is about as good a route as any other.

About the first headline that meets the eye upon picking up a paper is "another aviator falls to death," or some similar expression. That branch of science is certainly levying a large death toll.

In Greenville there are not a few men who can drop back to the kitchen and kiss the cook before leaving home, without the least fear of raising a row in the family or getting their heads combed with a rolling pin.

Interest in Carolina club should be increased, and more of the business men of the town ought to be members and give the club their influence. But we do not believe the way to accomplish this will be through the establishment of lockers.

An example of the difficulty in getting the business men of Greenville interested in matters pertaining to the welfare of the town, was shown Tuesday night. A meeting of the chamber of commerce was called to consider an important matter, and there were exactly five men in attendance.

Unless a man is doing all the business he wants to do, he should endeavor to get more. We do not believe there are any in Greenville who have all the business they want. There is no better way to get more business than by advertising, and there is no more effective advertising medium in this section than The Reflector.

The people themselves are largely responsible for the enforcement of the prohibition law of the state. While it is directly the duty of the officers to see that the law is enforced, they are hampered in their duty unless public sentiment is behind them and they have the moral support of the people. When one community is diligent in seeing the law enforced and neighboring communities are negligent in that matter, it makes it all the harder on those people who are law abiding to check violations. It is said that in some sections of Pitt county liquor is being sold openly and without restraint, the people taking little or no interest in having it stopped. These sales can be stopped if the people demand it, for such things are largely controlled by public sentiment.

Today we print another of the talks made by President Wright at the morning chapel, exercises of the Training school. We have made arrangements to give to our readers two of these talks each week. We have done this because we believe it is worth while that our people shall know and see for themselves that not only are all recitation periods used to give their boys and girls in the school the very best teaching, but that the opening exercises are utilized by the president to give the student body those things which are as absolutely necessary for a successful life as any thing they may get from their textbooks. To see that this is done our readers have only to read each and every one of these sensible, lectures that are given from day to day. Former students of this institution who have had the opportunity of hearing President Wright will evidently appreciate this opportunity we are giving them.

AN APPEAL

To Pitt Countians To Work For The County Fair.

My attention has been called by the president of the Pitt County Fair Association, Mr. John L. Wooten, to the fact that premiums are offered by that association for almost everything grown on the farm, especially tobacco. I have seen the premium list of the county fair, and, although it was incomplete at that time, it was a most creditable one and every citizen of the county ought to feel a pride and take an interest in this laudable undertaking. Every farmer in the county who is so fortunate as to have a good crop of tobacco ought, by all means, prepare an exhibit for the county fair, which will be held here early in November. Those who contemplate making an exhibit at the state fair can at the same time prepare an exhibit for their county fair.

The officers, board of governors and committees of the Pitt County Fair Association are entitled to the cooperation and support of every citizen in the county. These men and women are devoting their time and attention to this movement purely from patriotic motives. There is no financial reward attached to these offices, and these citizens are going about the work to make it a success for the honor and credit of Pitt county.

The citizenship certainly cannot do less than co-operate by making exhibits of the best they have. When this is done it will be found that where Pitt county sits is the head of the table in the state's family of counties.

REAPING BENEFIT.

From The Experience of Greenville People.

We are fortunate indeed to be able to profit by the experience of our neighbors. The public utterances of Greenville residents on the following subject will interest and benefit thousands of our readers. Read this statement. No better proof can be had. Mrs. Jane L. Godwin, 416 Dickinson avenue, Greenville, N. C., says: "I feel justified in recommending Doan's Kidney Pills in return for the benefit I received from them. For a long time my back ached and I had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions also annoyed me and I had pains through my loins. When I read of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box from the John L. Wooten Drug Company, and their use as directed relieved me. I can now rest much better at night and my condition has improved in every way."

Women and Work.

There was a great deal of sense in what Madame Simone, French actress, said the other day to the New York reporters. They asked her if marriage was a detriment to the art of an actress. She said no; that an actress must have "heart contentment" to be at her best in art, and should be surrounded with the calm and contentment that comes from the knowledge that she is happy in her personal environment. And about women's work, she said: "I find myself ill at ease whenever I am idle and then my husband tells me I should play a tour of the provinces—and he is right. Idleness is worse than a real ailment. Work—objective work—is the salvation of woman, whether it be running a house, keeping books, rearing children, or acting. It doesn't matter what a person does so long as it is pleasing and is employment of some kind."

The French seem to meet the problem of women's work more successfully than we do. It is the pith of the woman question. Whether women shall vote or not is much less important than to secure for them their share in the world's work and their due reward for doing it.—Harpers' Weekly.

A Little Comedy in Supreme Court.

An amusing incident occurred in the Supreme court today during the argument of an appeal from Goldsboro in the case of a woman sentenced to eight months in jail for selling liquor. The trial judge told the woman that if she would leave the county in fifteen days the jail sentence would not be enforced. She left Goldsboro and went to Wilson, returning however, after the expiration of eight months. The prosecution contended that she had violated the conditions by returning. Judge W. S. O'B. Robinson, who appeared for the woman, contended that the state has no right to make the woman serve a sentence after it had expired. Attorney General Bickett asked in his humorous way if Judge Robinson meant to infer that a residence of eight months in Wilson county was equivalent to spending eight months in the Wayne county jail. Everybody laughed.—Raleigh Times.

"THIS IS MY 63rd BIRTHDAY."

Bishop Thorneloe.

Rt. Rev. George Thorneloe, bishop of Algoma and one of the foremost prelates of the Church of England in Canada, was born in Coventry, England, October 4, 1848. At the age of ten he accompanied his parents to Canada. His education was received principally at Bishops College, Lennoxville, Quebec. He was ordained in 1874 and the same year became rector of a church at Stanstead, Quebec, where he remained eleven years. During the next twelve years he occupied a pulpit in Sherbrooke, Quebec, where he established a reputation as a forceful preacher and an ardent worker in the cause of missions, education and other activities of the church. In 1897 he was chosen bishop of Algoma, of which Sault Ste. Marie is the see city.

Roswell Has Exposition.

ROSWELL, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Visitors from far and near flocked to Roswell today for the opening of the New Mexico Products Exposition, for which preparations have been making for several months. The exposition will continue until the end of the week. In addition to an elaborate display of minerals, live stock and agricultural products, the management has provided for numerous entertainment features, such as a broncho busting tournament, floral and civic pageants, Wild West show, baseball carnival, shooting tournament and aeroplane flights.

The President in Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Oct. 4.—This was Taft day in Wyoming, and at every stopping place on the President's itinerary it was observed in Fourth of July fashion. The nation's chief executive was the guest of the city of Cheyenne for several hours, and the people regardless of political affiliations, greeted him with warmth and heariness of welcome not exceeded on his trans-continental tour. A reception committee headed by Governor Carey met the distinguished visitor at the station and escorted him to the State Capitol. The city's ordinary population, with hundreds of visitors from the other parts of the State, was massed along the streets of the line of march.

Barnard Groups Unveiled.

HARRISONBURG, Pa., Oct. 4.—The much-discussed Barnard statues, embellishing the facade of the Pennsylvania State Capitol, were unveiled today with interesting ceremonies conducted in the presence of an immense crowd of spectators. George Grey Barnard, the designer of the statues was among those present. The programme of exercises included an invocation by Rev. Joseph H. Barnard, father of the sculptor; an address of presentation by former Governor William A. Stone, and an address of acceptance by Governor Tener. A chorus of 400 school children of Harrisburg sang several songs especially written for the occasion and the exercises concluded with an oration by Attorney General John C. Bell.

Is The World Growing Better?

Many things go to prove that it is. The way thousands are trying to help others is proof. Among them is Mrs. W. W. Gold, of Pittsfield, N. H. Finding good health by taking Electric Bitters, she now advises other sufferers, everywhere, to take them. "For years I suffered with stomach and kidney trouble," she writes. "Every medicine I used failed till I took Electric Bitters. But this great remedy helped me wonderfully. They'll help any woman. They're the best tonic and finest liver and kidney remedy that's made. Try them. You'll see. 50 cents at all druggists."

member there stood a building where they are now making an excavation for a new building on Fifth street, between here and town, a little wooden structure used as a plunder house. This house ten years ago was the best public school building in Pitt county. It has been destroyed to give place to a larger, more commodious building for commercial purposes. Where this building last stood for school purposes, is now erected a large, commodious brick structure that cost about $20,000.00. Ten years ago the public school property of Pitt county was worth not to exceed $15,000.00. Today it is worth over $300,000.00. What is true of Pitt county is proportionately true of each other county in North Carolina.

Men began to realize that if their children were to attend school they must provide good buildings, well lighted and furnished. The school, if it is to add to the efficiency of our youths, must take care of the physical man as well as the mental man. As a result of this movement for the past five years we have averaged over one new building per day for each day in each year. The State Department of Education has drawn up plans and specifications for these new buildings. The work in school house construction is one of the most important public enterprises ever undertaken by our people. In this movement, former Governors Charles B. Aycock and R. B. Glenn and Supt. J. Y. Joyner stand out pre-eminently. The Woman's Betterment Association too has done a wonderful work along the lines of better houses, inside and out, better grounds, etc., etc.

Third and last comes our problem: 1st. The state realizes that it should provide the means for an elementary education for all the youths within its borders.

2nd. To do this better houses must be provided.

3rd. The state, people everywhere, are realizing that money and houses do not make schools. To accomplish the end toward which we are striving, the state must see to it that each improved house has in it one or more efficient teachers. This is North Carolina's educational problem today: How to provide efficient teachers for her public schools.

I have said our problem is to secure money to pay efficient teachers, but I think that statement is wrong. If we can put enough well-trained teachers into our public schools to make our people realize the true worth of a good teacher, then the people will provide the money necessary to secure the services of the efficient. All over our state, school trustees are asking about voting special taxes for better salaries and longer terms. The quickest way to vote a special tax is to put a good teacher in the school.

Why is this school? Do you see the answer to this question? Our state realized that all the money spent on public education was failing to bring just returns unless more money was spent to train teachers. Other schools were doing all they could but they were not doing enough; so the state planted this school here to do this one thing: train young white men and women to teach in the public schools. This is the only state school in North Carolina with this purpose. Do not misunderstand me. I would not discredit the noble work done by our state colleges, and our denominational colleges. But let me reiterate what I have said, this is the only school established by our state for the sole purpose—training teachers—and it is the direct result of the movement for more efficient teachers for our public schools. Many people helped in this work, but there are two men who tower above others in this movement; Hon. Thos. J. Joyner and Supt. W. H. Ragsdale.

Do you see your problem more clearly fellow teachers? This school is here to help you prepare to meet this last great movement in our state's educational problem. Your individual problem is to make an efficient teacher. "If thy hand or thy foot offend thee, cut them off, and cast them from thee." Remove all obstacles and press on to the completion of your purpose and children yet unborn will come forth to bless you.

It requires nothing more than a little study to evolve new and valuable ideas for your store.

Colonel Newcomb Retires.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 4.—After more than 33 years' service, Col. Warren P. Newcomb of the Coast Artillery Corps, was placed on the retired list today on his own application. Col. Newcomb is from Connecticut and was graduated from West Point in 1882. His entire service has been in the artillery, in which branch he reached the grade of colonel last March. His last command was that of the artillery district of the Columbia with headquarters at Fort Stevens, Ore.

Utah Ready to Welcome Taft.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 4.—The Utah Metropolis is rapidly getting into its gala attire for the reception and entertainment tomorrow of President Taft. All public buildings, many business houses and residences are being profusely decorated.

The people of Salt Lake City will celebrate the president's visit as a semi-holiday, and it is expected thousands will come in from the surrounding country for the occasion.

Canadian Ticket Agents.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 4.—Upwards of 200 members of the Canadian Ticket Agents' Association were present here today at the opening of the association's twenty-fifth annual meeting. The sessions will continue three days, with President Joseph F. Dolan, of Montreal, presiding.

BULLIED THE CLUB

A London Duelist Who Forced His Way into Brooks'.

VETOED HIS OWN REJECTION.

After Having Been Balloted For and Unanimously Blackballed He Made Every Member Deny His Vote and Then Declared Himself Elected.

It was a witty bishop who once defined a club as a place "where women cease from troubling and the weary are at rest." Another amusing definition was that given by George Augustus Sala. "A club," said he, "is a weapon used by savages to keep the white woman at a distance."

Perhaps the most striking story which Mr. Nevill tells regarding Brooks' club is that concerning the famous duelist, George Robert Fitzgerald, who was executed for murder in 1786.

Accordingly the duelist went with the admiral on the day of the election to the clubhouse and waited downstairs while the ballot was in progress.

The result, a foregone conclusion, was unfavorable to the candidate, not even one white ball being among the black, the admiral having been among the first to deposit his.

"So, my dear admiral, Mr. Brooks informs me that I have been elected three times."

After this nothing more was said by the members, who determined to ignore the presence of their dangerous visitor, who drank three bottles of champagne in enforced silence.

When he had finished his investigations he thus addressed the whole body: "You see, gentlemen, that as none of you have blackballed me I must be elected. It is Mr. Brooks who has made the mistake."

The fair will be held in the building and yards of the Star warehouse, in the town of Greenville.

TOMB IN A TOWER.

Remarkable Edifice, the Whim of a Wealthy Tea Planter.

Near the well known seaport of Southampton, England, there is a remarkable edifice known as Petersen's tower. The erection is all the more singular because it marks the burying place of a certain John Petersen, a wealthy tea planter.

The man appears to have been rather an eccentric individual, and in order to prove to the world his belief in concrete as a building material set about the construction of this great tower.

As has been indicated, Petersen left instructions that his body should be placed under the tower, and this was accordingly carried out.

"Pachua is hereby charged with having on the 11th of January followed the court on its rising and while said court was in the act of mounting into its buggy came from behind and, seizing the court's dangling leg, the other foot being on the step, forcibly pulled back the court, frightened the horse and nearly caused an accident.

Berne and Its Bears. Berne is surrounded by the blue green river Aare, and seven bridges cross into the picturesque suburbs; the view of the Alps is one of the finest to be had.

When the advent of the English guitar in the eighteenth century caused the disappearance of bandores, dulcimers and similar wire strung instruments, or rather, it supplanted them, for, owing to the use of fingers, the English guitar, though smaller, could be used for accompanying the voice as well as for solo performances.

There are two popular delusions about fish—one that they cannot live out of water and the other that they can live in any pure water, the food supply taking care of itself.

Very suspicious man, they say. "Very. Bought a dictionary last week, and now he's counting the words to see if it contains as many as the publishers claim."

True courage has so little to do with anger that there lies always the strongest suspicion against it where this passion is highest.

"She's of a very cheerful disposition, isn't she?" "Yes, indeed. She even sings while washing dishes."—Detroit Free Press.

There are few things reason can discover with so much certainty and ease as its own insufficiency.—Collier.

LAUGHTER.

How It Has Been Defined and Some Folks Who Never Tried It.

What is laughter? An American humorist has called it "an undignified widening of the human mouth, accompanied by a noise resembling a cough in the effort to avoid swallowing a chestnut."

"Laughter," says Professor Sir Charles Bell, "is a convulsive action of the diaphragm. In this state the person draws a full breath and throws it out in interrupted short and audible expirations. This convulsion of the diaphragm is the principal part of the physical manifestation of laughter."

There are some people who cannot laugh, who are wholly unable to enjoy either the physical or the mental luxury of a laugh. Thus it was said of William III. that he was utterly at a loss to understand what could be got out of laughter except loss of dignity.

"The late Thomas Wentworth Higginson," said a Harvard instructor, "loved music, but not the extremely technical music of Richard Strauss, Ravel and others of that type."

"Where, though, was Strauss?" "Three friends set out in alarm to look for him. They feared that in the wild chaos of the storm he had fallen down a precipice. After a long while they found him. They found him doing—what do you suppose?"

Some curious letters passed between Garrick and a man named Stone. The latter was employed to get recruits for the low parts of the drama, and one night he wrote to Garrick, "Sir, the bishop of Winchester is getting drunk at the Bear and swears he will not play tonight."

On another occasion Garrick wrote to Stone: "If you can get me two good murderers I will pay you handsomely, particularly the spouting fellow who keeps the apple stall on Tower hill. The cut in his face is just the thing. Pick me up an alderman or two for 'Richard' if you can, and I have no objection to treat with you for a comely mayor."

"Is your father in?" the man with the valise asked. "No," the boy at the front door said, "he's away somewhere breakin' a year lin' colt."

"What a strangely interesting face your friend the poet has," gurgled the maiden of forty. "It seems to possess all the elements of happiness and sorrow, each struggling for supremacy."

"I'd give anything almost if I had Mrs. Toner's savoir faire." "I think it much more patriotic to own an American made car."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"Love thy neighbor as thyself" and also stop talking about yourself now and then and say a few kind words about him.—Norfolk Ledger Dispatch.

"The man who makes such an allegation against me is a reptile." "Well, naturally he is an allegator."—Baltimore American.

CHEROKEE BALL GAME.

Preceded by Songs and Dances Which Last All Night.

The ball game as played by the Cherokees is as important to them as football or any other popular game is to other people.

The neighborhood in which I live, writes an Indian girl in the Red Man, is divided into four main sections—namely, Yellow Hill, Soco, Big Cove and Birdtoys.

The evening before the game the Indians, the women included, hold a dance in their respective sections of the country.

The following day the people from the different sections gather at the appointed place to witness the game. They either sit or stand around the edge of the field.

How Infant Classes in Some Foreign Countries Are Handled. The man in the club had been talking politics with the school inspector until that gentleman declined to discuss the subject any more.

"We'll talk about the youngsters themselves for a change," he said. "Do you know that both in France and Belgium reading, writing and arithmetic are being omitted from the subjects taught in infant schools?"

"In Finland the tiniest children are taught to wash dolls, dust, sweep, look after flowers, and so on, and in some Japanese schools a resting room, with a bed, is provided, so that overtired children may have a nap!"—London Answers.

Consumption

Checked and in Early Stages, Cured by MILAM the great Reconstructive tonic and blood renovator

We do not set forth MILAM as a cure for consumption, but it has proven so beneficial to such patients that we believe, and are supported in our belief by a practicing physician, that MILAM will arrest incipient tuberculosis or consumption in its early stages.

Read the following Scrofulitic Consumption City of Danville, State of Virginia—To-wit: I, Edmund B. Meade, Notary Public in and for the City of Danville, State of Virginia, do hereby certify that Abram Word, of Danville, Va., to me well known, did appear before me, and being duly sworn, depose and says as follows:

In August, 1909, I began taking Milam, and am now able to do my work without difficulty, my appetite is good, and I can eat and digest any food.

A COMPARISON of the Sales of TOBACCO Made by the Farmers' Consolidated To- bacco Co., with the other Houses On the Greenville Market

According to the statement made by the Secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, there was sold on the Greenville market during the month of September 2,253,321 pounds of tobacco for $256,565.20, or an average of $11.38. Of this amount, the Farmer's Consolidated Tobacco Company sold 1,030,051 pounds for $122,025.51, or an average of $11.84.

Now we invite the intelligent attention of farmers who have tobacco to sell, to do a little figuring with us. Let's deduct the sales made by our two houses, the Star and the Gum, from the total sales of the market, and we find after deducting the Consolidated sales, that the other warehouses on this market sold 1,223,270 pounds for $134,539.69, an average of $10.99 for the other houses. This average, taken from the consolidated average, leaves a difference of 85c on every one hundred pounds of tobacco sold.

Our Customers therefore received in actual dollars and cents the sum of $8,755.43 MORE for their tobacco than it would have brought at the average of the other houses, according to the above statement. The tobacco sold on the other floors, according to the above figures brought the sum of $10,397.79 LESS than it would have brought at the average price made by the Consolidated during this month.

THERE IS NO HOT AIR IN THE ABOVE STATEMENT--THERE IS NO GROUNDLESS CLAIM OF LEADING IN POUNDS AND HIGH PRICES--IT IS A COLD-BLOODED FACT, PROVEN BY THE TEST OF FIGURES, $8.50 ON EVERY THOUSAND POUNDS OF TOBACCO SOLD IS WORTH CONSIDERING, AND IT IS WORTH SAVING. Do you know how and why we sell tobacco for more money than other houses? That is easy! The men in charge of our warehouses "know their business," and with a better organization, better facilities, a better working force, and with PLENTY OF MONEY TO BACK THEM, there is just one thing, and only one thing for them to do, and that is to sell their customers' tobacco for more money than their competitors. This they have done, as our published facts and figures, covering a period of several years have never been successfully challenged. With nearly ten years of unequalled and unmatched record behind us, we appeal to the tobacco farmers, and ask you to answer the question:- Has not the Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co., in all this time proven itself worthy of your confidence, and entitled to your support and patronage?

Farmers' Consolidated Tobacco Co.

W. H. DAIL, Jr., Secretary

W. H. Dail, Jr., being duly sworn, says that he is the Secretary of The Farmers Consolidated Tobacco Company, and that the above statement and figures are true of his own knowledge, taken from his own records and the statement of Mr. E. H. Thomas the Secretary of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Sworn and subscribed to before me, this October 2, 1911.

My Commission Expires March 31, 1913.

Toledo's First Bishop Installed.
TOLEDO, O., Oct. 4.—In the presence of high dignitaries of the church and practically all the clergy in the diocese, the Rt. Rev. Joseph Schrembs was today installed as first bishop of the new Roman Catholic diocese of Toledo. The ceremony was held in St. Francis de Sales' church, which was filled to overflowing with interested spectators. Bishop Richter of Grand Rapids preached the installation sermon. The new bishop was born in Bavaria and came to America in 1877. For some time past he has filled the position of auxiliary bishop of the diocese of Grand Rapids.

Lot Sale at Vanceboro.
A large advertisement in this paper calls attention to an auction sale of lots at Vanceboro, to be conducted by the Atlantic Coast Realty company, on Saturday, October 7. Vanceboro is a thriving town just across the border in Craven county, is directly on the Norfolk Southern railroad, and was the first place in the state to locate a farm life school. The purchase of a lot there will be a good investment.

Creator of "Lady Audley's Secret."
LONDON, Oct. 4.—Receiving congratulations from several generations of women and girls who have wept over the sorrows of the misguided heroine of "Lady Audley's Secret," the famous novelist, Miss Braddon (Mrs. John Maxwell), today observed her seventy-fifth birthday anniversary at her home at Richmond, one of the loveliest spots on the River Thames. Since she first began writing in 1850 a total of seventy novels besides a large number of short stories and several dramas, have come from Miss Braddon's pen. The table on which she writes is one on which Wellington wrote his dispatch describing the battle of Waterloo.
