INSURANCE CO. AGAIN TRIES TO PROVE IDENTITY

TRIAL OF THE KIMMEL CASE.

"The man of mystery" is to have an airing in the courts.

ST LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 4.—The celebrated case of George A. Kimmel, "the man of mystery," is to have an airing in the courts again this week. In the federal court here today the suit brought by Kimmel's heirs and other interested parties to recover the amount of a policy held by the missing man in the New York Life Insurance Company was called for trial. This will be the second trial of the case. In the first trial the jury disagreed, being unable to determine to their own satisfaction whether Kimmel was dead or alive. Since the first trial there have been some new and interesting developments and it is believed that the present trial may solve the mystery that has puzzled the people of half a dozen states for nearly fifteen years.

The Kimmel case is among the most singular in this country, involving the identity of a man supposed to be dead. George A. Kimmel was born in Niles, Mich., in 1867. After receiving his education in the public schools he entered the employ of his uncle, Charles A. Johnson as a bank clerk. Later he entered the real estate and investments in Omaha and still later he became cashier of the Farmers' State Bank at Kansas City, Kas. He was president of various corporations which owed money to his uncle's bank and other banking institutions.

In July, 1898, while cashier at Arkansas City, Kimmel went to Topeka to have some bonds redeemed. From Topeka he went to Kansas City. Realizing he could not reach Kansas City before the close of banking hours, he telephoned his bank correspondent to have $530.20 brought over to the Midland Hotel. He arrived at the hotel and the cashier handed him the currency. Immediately after that hour he has never been seen alive, according to the declaration of his relatives and intimate acquaintances.

The Kimmel family attempted to collect insurance after the seven-year period, after which a missing man is presumed to be dead. Kimmel, three months before his disappearance, had taken out insurance to the value of about $25,000. At the time of his disappearance, according to evidence introduced at the first trial of the insurance suit, Kimmel owed nearly $45,000, which has since been made good.

In the meantime the insurance company discovered a man in the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan, N. Y., who claimed to be Kimmel. He bore the name of Andrew J. White. In the course of interviews the man gave a number of startling facts about himself purporting to prove that he was Kimmel. According to his original story he had been assaulted by footpads in Kansas City and the attack had left him mentally irresponsible and for a long time he was unaware of his own identity. While in this condition he declared that he had committed crimes which led to his imprisonment.

Several years ago the insurance company proceeded in earnest to try to legally establish the man's identity by inducing friends and relatives to visit the convict at Matteawan. Many of these witnesses declared the convict was the George A. Kimmel whom they had known intimately. Mrs. Julia Estelle Kimmel, the mother and Mrs. Edna K. Bonsett, the sister, after studying the convict carefully, denounced the man as an imposter.

When the convict was released from prison last summer he immediately went to Kimmel's old home in Niles, Mich., where he endeavored to prove that he was the missing bank cashier. The mother and other relatives of Kimmel again denounced the man as an imposter. But other residents of Niles who had known Kimmel intimately declared their belief that the man from Matteawan was the former bank cashier. A cousin and uncle of Kimmel, his Bacon knew him from boyhood and former Sunday school teacher and a number of business men in good standing held interviews with the claimant. Afterward they related incidents which "the man of mystery" brought to their mind, or they to him, that confirmed their belief, they said, mel.

SIXTY-THIRD CONGRESS ASSEMBLES TODAY

CAPITOL CENTRE OF ACTIVITIES.

President's Message To Be Read In Both Houses Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 4.—The first regular session of the sixty-third congress will assemble today at noon. The president's message will be read in both houses Tuesday and then the lawmakers will be ready to take up the appropriation measures and the bills dealing with the tariff, the trusts and other big issues, the consideration of which promises to make the session one of extraordinary importance.

When the Supreme court of the United States re-convenes today, following its recess of two weeks, counsel for the Chicago packers who are under indictment for alleged violation of criminal provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law will present a motion for a stay, in the form of a supersedeas, in an effort to further delay the trial of the packers, which is scheduled to begin Wednesday in the United States district court of Chicago.

The United States Steel corporation's first step in the legal battle with the government for its existence will be taken up today. The several defendants, through counsel will enter their appearances in the United States circuit court at Trenton, N. J., in which the government's suit to dissolve the steel trust has been brought.

The final hearings on the suits brought by the government to dissolve the so-called sugar and steamship trusts are to be held in the United States circuit court at New York. As a result of those hearings the case will go direct to the Supreme court of the United States.

The United States senate committee, which has been investigating the charges of corruption in the election of Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, will resume its hearings Tuesday in Washington.

Of interest to the politicians will be the mayoralty election in Los Angeles Tuesday. The contest is between George Alexander, good government incumbent, and Job Harriman, the Labor Union Socialist candidate, who led all his competitors at the recent primary. Interest in the contest is increased by the fact that women will exercise the right of suffrage for the first time and their vote is likely to be the deciding factor.

The western governors who are making a "get-together" tour of the eastern cities are due to reach Washington Thursday. On the evening of that day they are to be entertained at dinner by the president.

The successor of Hoke Smith as governor of Georgia will be named at a Democratic state-wide primary on Thursday. The candidates contesting for the nomination are ex-Governor Joseph M. Brown, Judge Richard D. Russell, of the court of appeals, and Col. J. Pope Brown, former state treasurer.

The prohibition national committee will meet in Chicago Wednesday to select the time and place for holding the party's convention to nominate a candidate for president. Among the cities that desire to entertain the convention are Milwaukee, Boston, Detroit, Los Angeles, Seattle and Portland, Ore.

King George and Queen Mary are due to make their state entry into Delhi on Thursday. Their arrival will be followed by five days of public receptions and ceremonies, concluding with the great Imperial Durbar on December 12.

Probably a young man would enjoy kissing a girl even if it was compulsory.

that he is the real Kimmel they knew years ago.

An interesting feature in connection with the trial is the fact that both Attorney F. N. Bacon, who has fought for the Kimmel interests for years and Attorney Edward H. O'Brien of Chicago, who represents the insurance company in the case, knew the real George A. Kimmel. Mr. Bacon knew him from boyhood and he stoutly declares he cannot be mistaken in the ex-convict, whom he says is not the real Kimmel, while Attorney O'Brien with equal positiveness declares the former convict is the man whom he knew as Kimmel.

End of Contest is Only Six Days off From To-day

9 o'clock Next Saturday Night Closing Time of great Voting Period

If You Give up Right Now Don't Look for Your Name Amongst List of Winners

Up to Date Every Contestant Stands Equal Chance to be Called a Winner--But Activities Must be Continued Right up To The Very Finish

A WEEK FROM TODAY YOUR NAME MIGHT BE AMONGST THE LIST OF PRIZE WINNERS THAT WILL BE PUBLISHED IN THE REFLECTOR--IT IS ENTIRELY UP TO YOU TO WIN YOUR PLACE THERE.

As the end draws near, don't give up, but rather redouble your efforts and make sure your name will be amongst the list of winners which will be published next Monday in the Daily Reflector. Whatever you do, do not be a "waiter." This is the very time to do things. It is just relaxation now that will rob you of the prize you are so near to.

The Daily Reflector's big contest of energy inaugurated six weeks ago enters today into the last lap and next Saturday night at 9 p. m., it will close. Judges chosen from amongst some of Greenville's business men and whose names will be published some time before next Friday, will make the final count and a week from today the Reflector will publish the list of winners.

To those contestants that are still doing things, and this is the case with the majority of them, the remaining six days will be full of activity and vim. A great deal of work can be crowded into six days; the kind of work that may surprise some of the "I-told-you-so-kind." We want to say right here that in a contest of this kind there is no such a thing as "we all knew that she would win." In fact, with only six days to the finish, we might as well really be 600 as far as naming the winners is concerned. In every district all contestants are doing their level best to win and naturally the advantage enjoyed by some is simply momentary as soon as some other candidate outshines the previous leader. And besides there are so many contestants that have been laying up a good reserve force that will count big next Saturday night, and is bound to surprise some of the "sure" ones.

No More Free Votes In This Contest.
As previously announced there will be no more free vote offers made before the close of the contest. As a matter of fact, if all of the contestants had done just exactly as advised daily from the columns of The Reflector some of them would now be a few thousand more votes to the good. To be sure some of them profited by the sound advice given, but on the other hand some "knew better" and went their way, thereby losing a mighty good number of votes. But, that can still be remedied in the remaining days, by hard and effective work.

Much Can Still Be Accomplished.
To those contestants that say that this one or that other one territory has been worked so hard, we would like to say that there is yet opportunity galore to get out and do things. We are in the very best position to say that there are still many subscriptions to be gathered as daily people step to the Reflector office and unbud by any candidate they pay their subscriptions and go away without casting their votes, for the very simple reason that no contestant thought of asking for their subscription. The field is big and the only way to know that a contestant has reached the limit of her possibilities is for her to simply start a systematic canvass of her neighborhood. It will surprise contestants who try, to find out how many they had overlooked in their previous and hurried canvass.

Send Subscriptions In As Fast As You Get Them.
In these remaining days, activity on the part of every contestant will be the password. Therefore to avoid the great rush that will take place at the finish, we would ask all contestants to bring in, or mail, as soon as they get them, every subscription that they secure. This will simplify matters as the end draws near. Please bear in mind that you will not gain anything by holding your subscriptions back until the very last minute, as the schedule will remain the same from now right up to the close of the contest next Saturday night, at 9 p. m. If you are a country contestant mail yours as fast as you get them. Experience will tell you that you will receive the very same prompt attention as if you were a resident of Greenville. So do not delay.

As The End Draws Near.
As we are nearing the finish do not sit back and just wait for the published list of winners. You will get nothing by just waiting. But rather redouble your energy and when all is over your friends will feel sure that their help was not only beneficial to you, but they will feel sure that they did not make a mistake when they chose you for their candidate and they did everything in their power to help you win. A good start, to be sure, means a great deal in a contest of this nature, but a good finish is essential if you mean to have your name along with the list of winners that will be published in The Daily Reflector a week from today.

You will have six days in which to prove yourself worthy of the favors bestowed upon you by your friends. You owe it to them. You owe it to yourself.

Owing to the pressing want of space we were forced to leave the "Who's Who" list out from today's issue. It will be in tomorrow's issue, however, and we can say that the changes that have taken place since last Saturday, will cause a great surprise.

Look At The Date.
Your address printing on this paper carries with it the date to which your subscription is paid. Have you noticed your date? If it indicates that you are in arrears we would be more than glad for you to look after it at once and get a receipt. Do not let it be necessary to write you or send a statement, when the date after your name will let you know how long you owe for. We had rather not have to call the attention of subscribers to this, and would not do so if they would pay promptly.

The average man hasn't very much use for a woman who attempts to convince him that he is wrong—and succeeds in doing it.

MISSIONARY IN MEXICO SENDS LETTER HOME

TELLS OF WORK ON THE FIELD.

Pitt County Woman Enlisted In The Noble Cause.

APARTADO, Guaymas, Mexico.
My dear old Reflector:
Will you allow me a little space to tell a bit of news tonight? I'm taking it for granted that you have already said "yes," so I'm writing.

My experiences have been so many since the last time I wrote you, guess I'll have to give you just a few this time for fear you will get tired and will not finish my letter, but throw it in the waste basket.

Last July Mr. Marrs, Miss Bowden, and I boarded the train for Torreón to attend a mission meeting of the North Mexico missionaries. After traveling for 3 days and nights we came to the end of our journey tired and almost as smutty and dirty as the fireman on the train. We were met by a brother missionary who gave us a most cordial welcome in his home. I attended two sessions of the meeting, but because of fever could not go any more. I had planned to visit all the mission stations in North Mexico. I possibly could during my vacation, but on account of my illness thought it best to come back to Texas. I did so and spent the months of August and September at the Y. W. C. A. (the Adamless Eden of El Paso). I left there for Nogales (the border towns) the 28th of September, arriving there that night. I spent a day and night there, taking in the missionary work, etc. Left there the night of the 29th and arrived in this dear old Mexican town the following day. Tired, why, of course, but glad to get back.

Our school opened the 2nd of October and on the a. m. of the 4th when I waked I saw signs of an approaching storm—it came and it was terrible. The rain poured in torrents from twelve in the day till almost twelve that night and the wind was terrific till almost three next morning. Many of the old inhabitants of the place say they have never witnessed such a night as that.

Our house is a stone building—American style—so of course we have a shingled roof. In many places the shingles were gone. I expected the whole roof to go at any moment. The rain came in some of the rooms in streams. I stood with my broom in my hand for nearly two hours sweeping the water out of my room. I sat by my window and listened to houses go down till it seemed to me I'd go almost frantic. God was in the storm and while much damage was done, few lives were lost. Next morning I was trying to save the plastering of my room and fell, the result, of course, was a sprained ankle. We were cut off from the States for days and days. The railroad was destroyed for miles and miles between Guaymas and Nogales. We have had a train about eight or ten days. It has to crawl almost in some places, but it is much better than no train.

Just as soon as I was able to get out Mr. and Mrs. Marrs took me out in a little row boat to try my hand catching fish. They had Mr. Marr's mother with them and a Mexican boy to help row. We caught forty-four and decided we'd have a fish fry on one of the beautiful islands. My, such treat was that. It's work, work, work, in the school and it does one so much good to get away once in awhile.

The school work is more advanced this year. I have one girl in the 6th grade. She is a bright, intelligent girl, with an intellect equal to any of our American girls, speaking English fluently. She is my Spanish teacher this year; how I wish you could see how eagerly she reads the New Testament with me. We finished Matthew this afternoon and while I read aloud to her I could hear her in a very soft whisper reading and seemingly drinking in the whole. She is the same girl that asked me last year to tell her who Jesus Christ was. I know she is not an enemy to Protestantism now.

We have just closed a series of meetings in our little mission. We can't expect to see results like we have in the home land, but oftentimes what we do see is very gratifying for usually they stand firm, even though their very best friends forsake them. We had three men to unite with us. I sometimes think if our people could hear these as they give their experiences of how they groped so long in

FAREWELL SERMON AT METHODIST CHURCH

OF REV. J. H. SHORE'S PASTORATE

All The Churches Show Their Appreciation In Worshipping Together.

There was a large congregation in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, Sunday night, to hear the farewell sermon of Rev. J. H. Shore, who for three years has been the faithful pastor of this church and was appointed to the church at Dunn by the recent conference. The other churches were closed and all the congregations worshipped together in this service to show their appreciation of the retiring pastor.

Mr. Shore preached a strong and inspiring sermon on "Brotherhood of the Christian Religion." Taking the vision of Isaiah of the coming of Christ's kingdom, he pointed out how this prophecy is now being fulfilled by the establishment of Christ's kingdom in the hearts of men.

After the sermon Mr. Shore said he could not depart without saying a few words of appreciation to the people of Greenville yet he could not attempt to say all his heart prompted. He said he had learned to love this people, and the attachments formed here made him regret to leave, but the call of the Master must be obeyed.

The people here have a great admiration for Mr. Shore, and the good work done during his pastorate will be long felt. His family will leave Tuesday and he will go Wednesday to his new charge.

Rev. E. M. Hoyle, the new pastor appointed for the church here, will come to hold the services next Sunday.

The harvest truly is great, but where are the reapers? I know many of you are not called to come here or go to other fields, but we need not only your money, but your prayers. You know not how lonely and discouraged we get at times, but when we get a message from some loved one saying "I am praying for you," how happy it makes us feel. I know I'm blessed differently in many ways from a goodly number of workers for God has given me such a dear family to whom I can go at any time for advice and feel sure of getting it every time. I shall never cease thanking my Master for placing me on the same field with Mr. and Mrs. Marrs. Its such an inspiration to me to have them near. I have never known more consecrated Christians.

I met most of the workers of North Mexico at Torreón, so I did not feel so much like a stranger. There are many other things I could tell, but guess I'll stop for this time lest I weary you. Please notice that my address has been changed. I am always glad to hear these as they give their experiences of how they groped so long in

Progress in The Hookworm Campaign

Reports from the physicians of the state and from the physicians conducting the state and county free dispensaries for hookworm disease, show that since the work began twenty-one months ago upwards of forty-five thousand people have been treated. Nearly half of this number have been treated in the free dispensaries of thirteen counties since July 1st. In the state there are 1,800 physicians, and 1,500 of them are active practitioners, 1,200 of them have sent in written accounts of their experience with the disease, and 800 of them, representing all sections of the state, have been actively engaged in treating the disease. Twenty-five counties have already made provision for the dispensaries, besides those appropriating for the dispensaries the first Monday in December.

Thirty-six thousand people have been microscopically examined for hookworm disease. A large number of those treated had such heavy infection that the microscopic examination was not necessary. There is found now little difficulty in securing co-operation on the part of the people and county commissioners, where good results of the work can be seen or heard of.

Mrs. Fannie Moore, 214 Pitt street, Greenville, N. C., says, "I feel very grateful for the relief I have received from Doan's Kidney Pills, which I obtained from the John L. Wooten Drug Company. Backache annoyed me and there was much lameness and weakness through my loins. My kidneys did not do their work as they should and the kidney secretions bothered me. Aside from the betterment to the industrial world from the introduction of standardized and more economical methods, it is expected that this movement will aid greatly in bringing the engineering profession into a share of that prominence and leadership now largely held by men in other walks of life. The sessions of the meeting will begin tomorrow and continue until Saturday.

ENDS BITTER FIGHT.

Amid Oratorical Pyrotechnics and Political Rallies.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 4.—Amid a blaze of oratorical pyrotechnics and political rallies, the bitterest municipal campaign in the history of Los Angeles came to an end today. Tomorrow the voters of the city, among them 75,000 women to whom the right of suffrage has been given by the recent amendment of the State constitution, will elect a mayor, members of the city council and other city officials. Public interest centers chiefly in the contest for the mayoralty between George Alexander, the present mayor and the choice of the good government forces for re-election, and Job Harriman, the candidate of the socialists and the labor union. In the primaries Harriman polled a larger vote than any other candidate, which has led his supporters to predict his election tomorrow. The women vote, however, is an unknown quantity and the campaign managers on both sides admit that it will decide the election.

DR. HENRY L. SMITH.

Each member of the club has the privilege of inviting two citizens to attend this meeting and hear Dr. Smith. An important communication from Secretary of State J. Bryan Grimes will also be read at this meeting.

Members of the club are requested to meet at 7:30 o'clock to transact business before the address, which is open to visitors at 8:45.

WOLTER APPEAL.

Comes up for Argument before the Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 4.—The appeal of Albert W. Wolter from his conviction of murder in the first degree of Ruth Wheeler in New York came up for argument before the court of appeals today. Wolter has been an inmate of the death house at Sing Sing prison the past eighteen months. His crime, which was committed on March 23, 1910, was of an unusually brutal and feindish nature and created a great sensation at the time. According to the evidence given at the trial, he lured his victim, a girl of 15 years, to his rooms on the pretext that he wanted to hire her as a stenographer. After making a criminal attack on the young girl he is alleged to have strangled her to death and then dismembered and partly burned her body, which was later discovered in fireplace.

"THIS IS MY 23rd BIRTHDAY."

Crown Prince of Servia.
Crown Prince Alexander, of Servia, who, it is reported, would be glad to marry a great American heiress, was born December 4, 1888. He became heir to the throne occupied by his father last year when his elder brother, Prince George, was forced by public sentiment to abdicate in favor of Alexander. The career of Prince George up to that time had been a scandal throughout Europe. Prince Alexander, unlike his brother, is said to be a steady and serious young man. Educated at a German university, he is the most unassuming of European princes, not over endowed with brilliant gifts, but one in whom the domestic virtues are believed to dominate. He excels as a musician and is also an accomplished linguist.

You may work your destiny or it may work out itself, but the results are likely to be somewhat different.

PORK AS FOOD.

Scandinavians Believe It is Eaten Even in Heaven.

In the sacred books of the Scandinavians pork is represented as the principal food even in heaven. It was the chief food of the Irish in the twelfth century and also of the Anglo-Saxons at an earlier period.

In France it was equally common, and Charlemagne kept in his forests immense droves of pigs. Late in the sixteenth century there was a particular disease said to be caused by the quantity of pork eaten in Hungary, and even at present the barbarous Letos are passionately fond of it. In the middle of the sixteenth century Phillip II. when in England generally dined on bacca, of which he ate so much as frequently to make himself very ill.

By a singular contradiction the African Mohammedans now "believe that a great enmity exists between hogs and Christians" (Mungo Park). Many medical authors have supposed that pork is particularly unwholesome in hot countries, but this requires confirmation, and it is certain that it is recommended by Arabian physicians and is more generally eaten both in Asia and Africa than is usually believed.

The North American Indians are said to have "a disgust for pork." Dobell believes there is more pork eaten in China than all the rest of the world put together.—Buckle's "History of Civilisation."

REFORM MAYOR.

"War Horse of Reform" Installed as Mayor.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 4.—Rudolph Blankenburg, "the war horse of Reform," was installed as mayor of Philadelphia today. The ceremony took place in the Common Council chamber and was witnessed by a throng as large as the chamber would hold. Coincidentally the other city officials elected last month assumed their duties.

With the outgoing of John E. Reburn and the assumption of office by Mayor Blankenburg, a new regime in the city governmental affairs in the Quaker City was inaugurated. The election last month was the culmination of years of persistent effort on the part of the fusion reform forces to overthrow the Republican organization that has controlled all the city officers and managed municipal affairs in a manner to invite not only adverse criticism but open charges of inefficiency and graft.

Curtailling of the city's expenses by saving in salaries and abolition of certain bureaus is expected to be one of the first moves by Mayor Blankenburg. It is declared by experts that nearly $1,000,000 a year can be saved.

HAD EYES, BUT SAW NOT.

Then She Realized What It Really Meant to Be Blind.

"Were you ever blind for an entire evening of your life—blind in the midst of a jolly company who were sewing and chatting and didn't in the least realize your plight?" asked a social worker recently. "That was what happened to me not long ago, and I must say it was a most uncomfortable experience. I sympathize with persons who have lost their sight now as I never did before.

"You see, I went to call upon a young girl from my home town who is being educated in a private institution for the blind near here. I had been to see her before, and so I was prepared for the way her companions crowded about me, felt my clothes, my hands and my face and remarked everything I had on, saying, 'How becoming her hat is—how pretty she looks!' and so on. Nor was I surprised when my friend conducted me through the classrooms, pointing out the new work and displaying some fine lace work she had started that morning, quite as though she could see it all.

"But on this visit, for the first time, I was invited to stay for supper and spend the evening with the girls. I was delighted to accept the invitation and enjoyed the meal, which was served by sighted waitresses in a well lighted dining room. But after that my experience came. We walked from the dining room into dim halls, and as we mounted the stairs to the sitting room we walked into utter darkness. I began to envy my friend, who tripped lightly by my side, while I could only grope my way awkwardly. Once in the sitting room I felt for a chair and dropped into it, waiting for the lights to be turned on. But the laughter and the chatter went on unconcerned about me, and after a few minutes it dawned upon me that lights were not necessary in an institution for the blind at night; that the sitting room was no darker for those girls than it had been all through the beautiful, sunny day I had enjoyed so much. As my eyes grew a bit accustomed to the darkness I could perceive that the girls had drawn their chairs up around mine and were busy with embroidery and lace making as they talked.

"And for the rest of the evening I sat there trying not to let my blindness fret me, not to appear stupid when the girls, forgetful of my affliction, held up their work for my inspection. That was the time I realized what it really is to be blind."—New York Press.

Civilization!

A Japanese diplomatist is said to have exclaimed: "For 2,000 years we kept peace with the rest of the world and were known to it but by the marvels of our delicate ethereal art and the finely wrought productions of our ingenious handicrafts, and we were accounted barbarians! But from the day on which we made war on other nations and killed many thousands of our adversaries you at once admit our claim to rank among civilized nations." On reading the foregoing in the Java Times we are reminded of Professor Kennen's story of the shipwrecked mariner who at dawn came across a gibbet and exclaimed, "Thank God, here is a sign of civilization!"—London Globe.

Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chance of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not of Electric Bitters be used as Robert Madsen, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and pellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50 cents at all druggists.

Here Is Where The Draft Enters

The most perfect draft ever discovered is the patent Hot Blast Down Draft of the Wilson Heater. The only draft that secures perfect combustion and prevents waste. This draft is found only in the

Wilson

HOT BLAST

Heater

The air enters at the top, drives the combustible gases into the fire where they are burned—prevents the escape of heat up the chimney—doubles the heating power of the fuel.

In other words, only half the amount of fuel used in ordinary heaters is necessary. The Wilson is air-tight, making perfect combustion possible and a fire can be held 36 hours.

We sell Wilson Hot Blast Heaters for either wood or coal.
