AGED PRISONER TO ASK PARDON

In Wethersfield, Connecticut, Prison
Since 1859

HE ENJOYS UNUSUAL PRIVILEGES

Convicted Wife Murderer Has Spent
Fifty-Two Years Of His Life In Wethersfield Prison—Will Ask For Pardon When The Next Board Of Pardons Meet.

HARTFORD, Conn., Dec. 7.—Among the thirty-six convicts at the state prison at Wethersfield, whose applications for parole pardon will be considered by the state board of pardons when that board meets here next Tuesday, is John Warren, the oldest inmate of the prison, who has spent fifty-two years of his life in that penal institution. In the fall of 1859 John Warren was convicted of the murder of his wife and sentenced to prison for life. He entered the state prison at Wethersfield November 14, 1859, and has remained isolated from the outside world ever since. Several times he has appealed to the board of pardons for his release, but every case his application was denied. This year he has again petitioned for a pardon and his friends confidently expect that this time the board of pardons will be less obdurate.

The history of Warren's crime is rather unusual. In the early summer of 1859 John P. Warren, then only twenty-one years old, and his 18-year-old wife lived on a small farm in Willington, a little town in Tolland county, in the northeastern part of Connecticut. It was hot and when they came to a brook not far from their farm, Warren proposed that they take off their shoes and stockings and bathe their feet in the cool waters of the brook. His wife consented, and, having taken off her shoes and stockings, waded into the brook.

Warren sprang at her, threw her down and held her under the water until his wife was dead. Just what fury or passion animated Warren and prompted him to commit the cold-blooded and apparently unprovoked crime, has never been ascertained. Warren himself, although he confessed the crime, has never given any explanation of his action or the motive of the deed. He secreted the body of his wife in the woods, where it was soon found. Warren was arrested and put through the third degree. He confessed his crime, but refused to make any explanatory statement.

After a preliminary hearing Warren's case was set for the September term of the Tolland county Superior court. On the night of Wednesday, August 10, of that year, while confined in the Tolland county jail, Warren managed to obtain possession of a big butcher knife, with which he attacked jailer Griggs. Warren managed to escape, but was caught shortly afterward in Eastford, near Willimantic.

The trial of Warren was short. The prisoner pleaded guilty and his attorney confined himself to a strong appeal for the life of his client. The appeal was successful and Warren was sentenced to imprisonment for life. From the very beginning of his term in the state prison at Wethersfield Warren was a model prisoner. He obeyed the prison rules strictly, gave no trouble to the warden and the other officials of the prison and tried to make himself as useful as possible under the conditions.

After a number of years the warden, who placed unusual trust in Warren, relaxed the rigor of the prison rules to a great extent so far as Warren was concerned. The prisoner was made gardener and for many years he took excellent care of the flower garden of the prison and the grounds surrounding the official residence of the warden. When the present warden, Garvin, came to Wethersfield prison about fourteen years ago, he continued to allow to Warren the privileges which the former warden had granted him and not only retained him as gardener, but placed him in charge of the furnace of the warden's residence and made him a sort of a general helper about the house.

For many years Warren had the privilege of passing through the prison gates and frequently he spends all day outside of the prison in the pursuance of his garden work, but

THE LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Law as to County Boards of Health
Void, Says Judge Peebles.

In a decision which is far-reaching, and which, if upheld by the Supreme court of North Carolina, will throw out of office every superintendent of health and county board of health, Judge Peebles has decided that Dr. J. J. L. McCullers is not the county superintendent of health of Wake county, and that section 9, chapter 62, of the acts of the legislature of 1911, is unconstitutional and void, says the Raleigh News and Observer.

Section 9, chapter 62, provides that the county board of health shall be composed of the chairman of the board of county commissioners, the mayor of the county town, and in county towns where there is no mayor, the clerk of the Superior court and the county superintendent of schools, with two physicians of the county, elected by them, this board of health to elect a county superintendent of health, all the expenditures to be approved by the board of county commissioners before they are paid. It is this that Judge Peebles decides is unconstitutional and void, as it gives two offices to one man at the same time, which is prohibited by section 7, article 14, of the constitution of North Carolina.

In his decision Judge Peebles holds also that Dr. W. S. Rankin, secretary of the State Board of Health, had no authority to appoint Dr. McCullers superintendent of health, as the contingency provided for by act creating a board of health did not arise, as it had elected a health superintendent as required, the resignation of Dr. McCullers not affecting this, and that his appointment is null and void. He also decides that the schedule of fees fixed by Dr. Rankin is not in accordance with the law and that the provision authorizing the secretary of the State Board of Health to appoint a county superintendent under certain conditions is null and void.

An Entire Change Of Program Takes Place.

An entire change of program takes place at the Gaiety tonight. Heralded by a reputation enviable for its merits, Raymond and Hess, come to the Gaiety tonight to amuse Greenville. We have heard enough from this couple to be able to tell our readers that they are more than worth the trouble of visiting Greenville's popular amusement resort. We all had a good time the first three days of this week and it will be our privilege to keep on laughing if we will just keep on going to the Gaiety.

We are not in the least afraid to say that Raymond and Hess will get a laugh out of you—if there is one in you—and we believe there is.

Mr. Armstrong will sing again tonight some new songs. A big house is looked for at the Gaiety.

Note This, Please.

Again we ask our subscribers to please note the date after their name on the paper, and if it indicates that they are in arrears send or bring in the money. It is a matter of business to do this, for surely you should pay for your paper as soon as it is due.

never did he make an attempt to escape or to violate in any way the confidence which the warden of the institution had placed in him. The comparative freedom which he enjoyed, had a beneficial effect upon Warren's physical and mental condition. Although he is now more than seventy-two years of age, he is still active and energetic and looks scarcely more than fifty. His hair is turning gray, but he stoops but little and his step is still elastic.

In the case the board of pardons should release Warren, his two younger brothers of Willimantic and his nephews and cousins, all people of excellent standing in their respective communities, are prepared to take care of the old man, who, unless his health should unexpectedly fall, seems fully able to take care of himself for many years to come.

THREE DAYS LEFT IN WHICH TO BE RETURNED A WINNER

If You Would be returned a Winner You Must Continue Your Good Work to the Very end—"That" Subscription
May Help You to Win

Narrow Margin Of Votes Will Decide
The Winner—Vote Polling Heavy
As The End Of Contest Approaches
—All Contestants Working Very Hard.

With only three short days before the close of the contest, the office of the Contest Manager is being rushed to the limit by earnest contestants that have not made the fatal mistake of "letting up" just because we were so near to the finish. Those energetic candidates who took our tip and "are keeping everlastingly at it" will see their efforts rewarded in the course of a few days. Hours we could almost say. Some contestants are also making a mistake, that may mean disappointment and defeat when the judges make the final count next Saturday night. They are wading into their reserve force in an effort to be at the head of the daily list. The Contest Manager does not really know how many votes each contestant has because in the majority of cases each contestant has chosen to keep her own votes to the finish. But, he realizes that using up the reserve force at this stage of the contest can not but prove harmful to the contestant doing it. There is a much better way to accomplish the purpose of leading the list. And this simply is to get out and secure more subscriptions. Keep adding to your total instead of decreasing it by constant use of your vote coupons.

Many Still Can be Had.

We can tell, from the daily receipt of subscriptions from the contestants that "are really trying" that there are still a great number of subscriptions to be had. It is simply a matter of going out and asking for them. That's all. Every day those earnest contestants are adding thousands of votes to their credit and no surprise should be felt when they are returned winners, as it is simply relentless work that wins in a contest of the nature of the present one. Sometimes we hear from a contestant in a certain district that she can no longer obtain any more subscriptions in her neighborhood and almost immediately some subscriber from that same neighborhood will step up to the office and pay for his subscriptions. This simply means that the canvass in that particular district has been anything but thorough and the votes that the same candidate could have had for the asking go to waste just because she probably forgot that such a party lived in the district. That is just the reason why we always advise contestants to make a thorough and systematic canvass. There are still three days in the contest. Each candidate should start right away and see that not a single possibility has been escaped.

A Difference of 100 Votes may Win.

When you realize that probably a margin of but one hundred votes may win the Gordon and Son Piano or any of the other valuable prizes, would it not make you mad to think that you might have had that winning margin to your credit had you done the right thing? Although we do not know exactly how many votes each candidate has to her credit, we have a general idea and can tell right now, that the count next Saturday is going to be a close one in all districts. Therefore our best advice to all contestants that have any mind to be returned winners is to leave no stone unturned, whereby they can secure one more subscription. That one more vote coupon may turn the winning tide your way and make you happy in the possession of a handsome piano, a magnificent Victor victrola, or a pretty gold Waltham watch. The beauty and value of the prizes hanging in the balance fully deserve all the attention that we ask you to pay them.

When you think that you have seen all of your friends just go over your list of them carefully and wherever you find a name that suggests a possibility of a subscription just make up your mind to get it and once your mind made up the rest will be easy. No friend will see you lose by the narrow margin of one subscription, and that is just possibly the one that will help you win. Every hour is of the outmost value as the contest nears its end. Therefore be sure to profit by every opportunity that may suggest to you.

All subscriptions and votes must reach the Contest Manager no later than 9:00 p. m., Saturday night, December 9th. Bring or send your votes to the Contest Manager no later than then. Place your vote coupons in an envelope, neatly pinned together. Country contestants, be sure to mail your votes and subscriptions so that they will reach here in time to be counted. If anything should happen to prevent your doing so, call the Contest Manager and he will see that proper care is taken of your particular case.

STRUCK IN THE EYE.

With Misspent Shot From An Air
Rifle.

Late Tuesday afternoon as he was going out the back door at his home in West Greenville, Mr. J. B. Cherry was struck in the eye with a shot from an air rifle. Fortunately the force of the shot was nearly spent, or the injury to his eye might have been serious. As it was he suffered much pain from being struck in the eye with the shot. There is too much shooting of air and flobert rifles by boys around town, and it would not be a bad step to prohibit their use altogether.

ASSAULT ON YOUNG FARMER.

Will Winstead, of Person County,
Probably Fatally Wounded.

BOXBORO, Dec. 7.—A brutal and probably fatal assault was made on Mr. Will Winstead, a well connected young farmer, of Olive Hill township, Saturday night. Sunday morning about 9 o'clock groans were heard by passers-by coming from the vicinity of a straw stack about a mile from the unfortunate man's home.

Upon investigation Mr. Winstead was found there covered with straw, his left wrist broken and a bullet wound in the left chest above the region of the heart and many other bruises and lacerations of more, or less serious nature. He was in an unconscious condition and there was every evidence that he had been hidden away as dead. After receiving medical attention he regained consciousness, but was unable to throw much light on the crime.

Mr. Winstead was not by himself when last seen, and was then in company with Tom Watson and Umstead Solomon, two characters of the same neighborhood. Suspicion points to them as the guilty parties and both are now in jail.

Watson had taken Mr. Winstead in charge to carry him home, so he claimed. Winstead's condition is now very serious and his recovery doubtful.

He comes from a numerous and favorably known family of this county among which are many of our best and most substantial citizens.

The evidence against Watson and Solomon is said to be very strong.

Mr. Winstead is a brother of Mrs. J. H. Shore, recently of Greenville, who left here only two days ago to visit relatives at Roxboro before going to her new home in Dunn. At the time of leaving she knew nothing of this tragedy involving her brother.

PRESIDENT OF UNIVERSITY.

Dr. Venable At The Training School
This Morning.

Dr. F. P. Venable, president of the University, conducted the morning exercises at assembly at the Training school. This is his first visit to the school, hence he was greeted with peculiar pleasure.

He made a short, pointed talk that harmonized well with the spirit of the institution.

He sketched briefly the condition of the University when he entered it thirty years ago, when the whole University was the same value as the library today. Then the people of the state boasted of climate, water power, variety of minerals and soils; now they boast of the youth of the state as its chief asset. He asserted that the people did not put their money into schools so that certain ones might have a chance to get ahead of others, but that the state may get full return in service from those helped by the schools. The debt can be paid only in love, gratitude and service.

He closed with a pleasing reference to the days when he knew Prof. Wright as "Capt. Bob."

MUST DISBAND

Postal Employees Must Disband
Organization.

What employees of the United States mail service term an attack on their union organization is a general order from C. P. Grandfield, first assistant postmaster general, calling on all secret organizations in the service immediately to disband. The order is aimed, the men say, at the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, an affiliation of the American Federation of Labor, to which many of the men belong.

The order does not affect any employee who belongs to fraternal secret organizations outside the postal service. Membership in secret organizations was termed "inimical to the interests of good government," as being incompatible with the employees' oath of service.

HON. J. BRYAN GRIMES' LETTER

Read Before Carolina Club Monday Night—Congratulates Club On Its
New Step And Makes Valuable Suggestions For Advancement Of This Section.

REALEIGH, Dec. 2, 1911.
Mr. J. Benjamin Higgs,
Carolina Club,
Greenville, N. C.

Dear Sir: I thank you for the compliment of inviting me to address your club Monday night upon the deepening of Tar river.

It is just at the close of our fiscal year, and the many matters requiring my personal attention just at this time, makes it impractical for me to accept your invitation.

I congratulate you upon the revival of the Carolina club into a virile business association, as well as a social organization. It should mean the infusion of new life into the enterprises of your town, and be an effective forceful agency for the expression of, and development of the latent economic energies of our business men. It should induce co-operative effort that could be aroused and wakened so successfully in no other way. It has always seemed to me, that Greenville suffered from a want of mutual sympathy and helpfulness between your business people.

The development of business, and the growth of your town and general industries, would be the natural sequence of conjoint work or "pulling together."

The Training school is the first great fruit of the co-operation of the people of Pitt county, and is a lasting monument to that spirit. Its value as an object lesson of the results of unselfish joint-effort of our people is not the least of its blessings.

The four great pillars of our prosperity are agriculture, transportation, education and manufactures.

The agricultural development of the county in the past decade has been phenomenal, and cannot be touched upon in a short letter.

The educational growth of the county has been most remarkable. The question of transportation is one which is vital to the future prosperity of the county. The progress and prosperity of the farmer, and the value of his lands, and the success of the merchant and business man is based largely upon transportation facilities.

The time is not far distant when the cost of bad roads and the need of better roads will be so apparent to every citizen of Pitt county, that they will not tolerate further delay in the coming of good roads. But it is of water transportation that I will write.

For more than one hundred years, our chief avenue of transportation has been Tar river. Since our earliest history, and until the advent of railroads a few years ago, practically all the produce of the county, and all the merchandise handled in the county, were freighted on Tar-Moccasin and Roanoke rivers. The early business men and farmers of the county made strenuous efforts to improve the navigation of Tar river. For years, just before and a while after the war, the river was neglected, but the general government in 1879 began to help us.

In 1879 government engineers reported the cost of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for removing obstructions, such as sunken logs, plies, wrecks, stumps, snags and trees in the channel of Tar river, between Washington and Tarboro.

Three thousand dollars ($3,000) were appropriated for this purpose, not quite all of which was used, and we secured three (3) feet of water from Washington to Tarboro for eight months of the year. The government projects (1879, 1889 and 1907) provided for a channel sixty (60) feet wide, and four (4) feet deep at low water from Washington to Greenville, a distance of twenty-two (22) miles. This is now finished. Of course, most of the season, a boat drawing as much (Continued on Third Page).

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1911.

James McNamara will have plenty of time to think about it during his life sentence.

Those who were looking for cotton are looking yet. All the same we believe it will go up after a while.

There is some doubt as to the president's earnestness in all the abundance of anti-trust talk in his message.

This has been practically an uninteresting season to the speculators in cotton futures. The price has remained pretty close about the same figure.

One Pitt county boy raised 109 bushels of corn on one acre this year. We have noticed the records in a number of counties that come far short of this.

Wilmington is having another epidemic of burglaries. Must be lots to attract the "profession" down there. Possibly they think the folks of a seaside resort have plenty of money after a summer season closes.

Rudyard Kipling certainly attracted attention by the publication of his poem, "The Female of the Species." We think "A Male of the Species" could have displayed more wisdom by letting "it" alone if what he says about the female is true.

You seldom see a rabbit offered for sale on the Greenville market, but in some towns in the state they are numerous and regarded as a great dish. Perhaps Pitt is not as much of a rabbit county as some of the others.

The government objects to labor organizations among its own employees, but says nothing about their existence on the outside. Could this be termed inconsistency? At the same time it looks like people, even if they are employed by the government, should have the right to organize for their own benefit if they want to, so long as they do not use the organization wrongfully.

Arrangements have been made by the associated railways of Virginia and the Carolinas for reduced rates from all points in North Carolina to New Bern, on account of the Fish and Oyster convention which is to be held under the auspices of the fish commission, the oyster commission, and the North Carolina geological and economical survey. These excursion tickets will be on sale beginning December 12 and 13, and the tickets will be limited to reach the original starting point not later than midnight of December 16th.

The pictorial industrial edition of The Reflector soon to be issued, is an honest effort to advertise Greenville and Pitt county. It will be 16 pages printed on book paper and will contain between 50 and 75 pictures of Greenville and vicinity. There will be 3,000 copies of this edition, and at least 1,000 of these will be sent to prospective citizens in other states through the Norfolk Southern railroad's mailing list. The cost of getting out such an edition is considerable, and The Reflector has undertaken it with faith in the community for a hearty support which we believe will be forthcoming. Those business men already approached are responding readily, and we trust that the community as a community will also lend its aid. Every citizen will feel proud of the efforts of the paper after seeing this issue.

LARGE GAINS DURING YEAR.

Mr. Middleton's Report Shows Progress of Baptist Church in State.

Mr. E. L. Middleton, the statistical secretary of the Baptist State convention, is closing up his annual report for the convention annual. He has heard from 54 of the 62 associations in the convention. To prepare this report is a tremendous task. Last year there were 48 pages of closely printed statistics, besides a list of 1,100 ministers and 1,700 Sunday school superintendents. Both these latter lists have to be carefully corrected and verified every year.

The year closing is one of the most successful in the history of the denomination. Using the 54 reports for 1911, and reports for 1910, for the other eight associations, Secretary Middleton is now able to report 1,950 churches with a membership of 20,322. This is a gain of 45 churches and 9,000 members. The remaining 8 associations will probably give a slight increase in both these items. During the past year there have been 12,950 baptisms. Many were not reported and there will surely be gains when the report is complete. It is perfectly safe to say there were 13,500 baptized into the churches of this denomination. The 13,000 mark has never been reached by the denomination, but once before in the history of North Carolina.

The year has been a splendid one in Sunday school work. A year ago there were reported 1,809 Sunday schools, with an enrollment of 166,638. The data to date gives 1,857 Sunday schools, with 173,600 pupils. During the year more than a hundred new Sunday schools have been organized through Secretary Middleton's office. There seems not to have been a net gain of more than 40. This is accounted for from the fact that 30 fewer branch schools are reported this year than last. The secretary is practically positive that there has been no decrease at this point, but that the churches have failed to report these schools in their church letters. In the state there are more than 500 Sunday schools with a membership larger than the church membership. If all the churches could be brought to this standard, the denomination would increase its Sunday school membership by nearly 60,000 at once. This is an ideal before the workers to reach this standard.

In finances the denomination is closing with a splendid success. The reports are taken from the minutes of the associations. These meet from May to November, so that the figures will never exactly agree with those sent out by the state convention from November 30th to November 30th. The aggregate to the convention objects, state missions, home missions, foreign missions, Sunday school missions, orphanage, ministerial education, ministerial relief, is about $150,000. It is evident that during the coming year these funds will be large increased because of evidences of increases already available.—Raleigh Evening Times.

FOUR GREAT PILLARS

OF OUR PROSPERITY

as eight or nine feet can come as far up as Boyd's Ferry.

The difficulty of collecting accurate information as to the water borne commerce on Tar river makes the tables at hand of little value. Since the incoming of the railroads, of course most of the freight is carried by them, and the boats on the river were either bought up or absorbed by the railroad companies, or patronized to such a limited extent by the merchants, as to discourage their operation.

There seems to have been little, very little interest shown by the people of Washington and Greenville in the improvements for Tar river.

Congressman Small informs me that the report of government engineers, which report will be available sometime this month, recommends a depth of ten (10) feet from the town of Washington to the Sound, with a channel two hundred (200) feet wide at an estimated cost of fifty-five thousand dollars ($55,000). From Washington to Greenville, the report recommends a depth of six (6) feet with a channel of seventy-five (75) feet wide at a cost of thirty-four thousand dollars ($34,000).

I would like to see this depth increased to eight (8) feet to Greenville, with turning basins at Boyd's Ferry and Greenville. But would the people on Tar river manifest sufficient interest in such a project to impress the government that it is needed, and would they utilize it if given them? They have shown little interest in it in the past, and a feeble disposition to patronize boat lines.

A water route from Greenville would markedly lower freight rates. If the boat lines were established, would they be patronized?

In the past, it seems to have been the policy of transportation companies to choke down boat lines, and put up freight again as soon as competition was strangled.

A comparison of freight rates to Greenville now, with the rates that were obtained when the Clyde and Old Dominion boats plied to that point, would make interesting and illuminating reading. Greenville, at present, on a navigable river, has no advantage of water rates. A comparative schedule of freight rates to Washington and Greenville, will show rates very much in favor of Washington.

The establishment of a boat line from Greenville to Norfolk, would inure greatly to the profit of the business men of Greenville.

The town of Greenville should now secure and preserve for its future protection and transportation development, abundant wharfage and landing places. In most places terminals have been taken up by the railroads and competitive boat lines or tramp boats (meaning low rates) find it difficult to secure wharfage or terminal facilities.

With eight feet of water to Greenville, fertilizers and heavy bulk goods could be delivered at probably half the present freight charges on same. A local boat line would help some, but a through line to Norfolk is needed.

Freight would be even much cheaper with a free canal water-way. As strange as it may seem, we have quietly submitted to the bottling up of the waters of Eastern North Carolina by a private monopoly that extracts tribute or a water tariff on every pound of freight that floats by the way. To the north of us, are the Dismal Swamp and Albemarle and Chesapeake canals owned by private corporations.

The making free of either of these canals means the re-establishment of boat lines that may have been bought up or strangled by the railroad companies; it means that about twenty-five counties in Eastern North Carolina will get much lower freight rates, as Norfolk is a great basing point for making rates and is the great distributing gate-way for the counties of North Carolina watered by the Pasquotank, Perquimans, Little Chowan, Blackwater, Meherrin, Roanoke, Cashie, Scuppernon, Alligator, Pamlico, Tar, Neuse and Trent rivers, and Currituck, Albemarle and Pasquo sounds.

In a letter received by me about a year ago from a leading business man of Eastern North Carolina, he said:

"The figures have been carefully estimated covering the questions you have asked, but in doing so, both the Albemarle and Chesapeake and the Dismal Swamp canal were taken into consideration, and as a matter of fact, the figures represented over six hundred thousand dollars per year. You, of course, understand if this canal was made free, that the water-bound commerce would be increased very much, possibly double. You are aware of the fact that the present canals permit the boats to pass through them loaded not to exceed nine feet. If, as suggested, either of the canals should be purchased by the government and made free and cut made deep enough to permit boats loaded to twelve feet, there would be a marked increase in business and a decrease in the freight rates, and when you take into consideration the fact that the Eastern coast of North Carolina has twenty-six hundred miles of water front, bottled up, subject to toll canals, I am inclined to say that I would be modest in suggesting that a savings of at least a million and a half dollars per year might be made by the people of Eastern North Carolina."

As anxious as the people of Eastern North Carolina are for an inland water way, which has been the hope of that section for a hundred years, there are many who believe the making of a free water way from the Chesapeake to Albemarle sound would give that section almost as much benefit as the more extended water way. They would be enjoying immediate relief while the extended inland water way is continued to be talked about. There is a bill before congress now, which authorizes the secretary of the navy to contract for the purchase of a canal, subject to the approval of congress. The government engineers are to recommend which canal is to be selected and there is strong probability of the recommendation of the Albemarle and Chesapeake canal.

This canal, I am informed, is now offered to the United States government for five hundred thousand dollars. More than this amount would be saved to us every year in reduced freight rates, if it were a free canal.

A free water way has been talked for years, and frequent, feeble and desultory efforts have been made in this direction. It is now time for the people of Eastern North Carolina to get together in earnest and not allow special interests to longer block relief that our people are clearly entitled to. We appreciate the efforts of our representatives in congress, and should urge them to continue to make an aggressive fight to unblock traffic on our sounds and rivers. Every pressure should be brought to bear for immediate and favorable action for a free water way.

There is no town that would be benefitted by water competition more than Greenville. Now is an opportune time to get together for deepening Tar river, and for a free canal, and there is no greater work to which your club can bend its best energies.

With best wishes for you individually and collectively, I am,

Sincerely,
J. BRYAN GRIMES.

Wilson HOT BLAST Heater

The air enters at the top, drives the combustible gases into the fire where they are burned—prevents the escape of heat up the chimney—doubles the heating power of the fuel.

In other words, only half the amount of fuel used in ordinary heaters is necessary. The Wilson is air-tight, making perfect combustion possible and a fire can be held 36 hours.

We sell Wilson Hot Blast Heaters for either wood or coal.

HAVING A GAME IN JAIL.

Light Betrayed Players And Broke Them Up.

There was just a little excitement around the county jail about 9 o'clock Wednesday night. Persons coming down Third street saw through the northwest window of the jail a light on the inside that was doing more flashing than seemed good. After watching the light a few moments the matter was reported to officers and Deputy Sheriff T. R. Moore was telephoned to bring the keys and go in the jail.

In the meantime others came along and saw the light, and thinking something was burning inside the jail went after a hose reel with the intention of turning in a stream of water. The prisoners hearing a conversation outside put the light out and all was dark again. By the time Deputy Sheriff Moore arrived with the keys quite a crowd had gathered. When the jail was opened for investigation the prisoners on that side of the jail were all snugly tucked in pallets in the exercising corridor as if they had never done a thing but sleep. One of them said they had been playing cards over there in the corridor and had the light in a pan to see how to play. They had been putting fat meat on the light to keep it burning and this caused the flashing.

The prisoners were ordered in the cells and the cages closed on them.

If the temper of an auburn-haired woman is missing it's a safe bet that the color isn't natural.

Because you are satisfied with your own opinion it doesn't follow that it is better than the other fellow's.

Foes of Liquor in Session. WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 7.—

"King Booze" is due to receive a good many hard thumps from notable speakers to be heard here during the next week or ten days. Preceding the biennial convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, to be held in this city the coming week, the superintendents and workers are now engaged in a series of conferences in the Metropolitan M. E. church. The convention proper will open next Monday evening with a mass meeting in the Cavalry Baptist church. The sessions of the convention will last four days and will be followed by a national conference to consider the question of interstate liquor traffic.

Suffrage Baby Show in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 7.—The Illinois Equal Suffrage association opened a three days' fair at the Hotel LaSalle today to refute the time-honored assertions that the women suffragist does not make a good wife and mother. To prove they can raise children there is a large gallery of photographs showing suffragists with large families, and to show their powers as cooks, advocates of woman's right to the ballot may be seen roasting turkeys, mixing salads and baking pies and cakes. As a result of man's curiosity to see the sights of the fair the association expects to raise $20,000 to aid the suffrage cause.

Those who oppose good roads because they cost too much use about the same sort of argument as a fellow who can not afford to buy a new oil can when the old one leaks the cost of a new one in a day.—Charlotte Observer.
