TWO CENT FARE LAWS THE BASE

According To The Oklahoma Corporation Commission And Others He Failed To Enforce The 2-Cent Law. The Minnesota Railroad Also Against Him With Gov. Aldrich.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—President Taft has received protests from the Oklahoma corporation commission, the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission, and from Governor Aldrich, of Nebraska, opposing the appointment of United States Circuit Judge Hook as an associate justice of the Supreme court to succeed the late Justice Harlan.

These protests are based upon the fact that Judge Hook enjoined the authorities of Oklahoma from enforcing an order for a 2-cent rate law. The Minnesota protest involves the same question, but relates particularly to the fact that Judge Hook concurred in the decision written by Judge Sanborn, of the circuit court of appeals for the eighth circuit, enjoining the Minnesota authorities from putting into force a 2-cent rate law. Gov. Aldrich, who has added his protest on behalf of Nebraska, finds fault with Judge Hook for the general attitude he has taken on the bench on this question.

Ohio May Join Protest.

It is understood that the Ohio authorities may join in the protest. This would not be surprising, because Gov. Harmon at the conference of government officials.

LETTER CARRIERS AND POLITICS

PRES. BARRS THEM FROM POLITICS

President Signs Document Barring Thousands Of Letter Carriers From Engaging In Political Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Ten thousand rural free delivery letter carriers, are barred from active participation in politics by an executive order signed by President Taft yesterday.

The order will be issued today. It forbids the rural letter carriers from pernicious activity in politics, and empowers the civil service commission to dismiss any of them found to be so engaged.

The rural carriers, like all mail clerks and other post office employees, are not to be denied the right of political belief, and discussion of political candidates and issues, but their active participation in political affairs will be stopped.

The term "pernicious activity in politics" is an elastic one, and it in the past has worked on other classes of Federal employes as an effective bar from politics.

Changes Method Of Appointment.

The executive order issued by the president provides that in the future in the case of all rural free delivery appointments three eligibles shall be certified in each instance to the appointing office instead of one as in the past. The certifying of but one candidate left the appointing officer without any possibility of selection, and practically conferred the appointing power upon the civil service commission. It opened the way for politics to enter the rural free delivery field.

In the event of a violation of the order to abstain from politics, a rural carrier may be removed from office or disciplined by the civil service commission. The president leaves it discretionary with the civil service commission in determining whether the rule has been violated.

Washington Republicans regard the order as impressive evidence of Mr. Taft's desire to take the post office department out of politics.

CANADA NOW READY TO ARBITRATE

International Board to Take Up The Dispute

PURELY A PEACE CONFERENCE

Streams And Lakes In Northern Boundary Of States To Take Attention Of Special Board To Meet In Washington January 10—Numerous Differences In The North.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—While the pending arbitration treaties are the subject of a crimious dispute, plans have been quietly perfected for the first meeting and organization on January 10 of the joint international commission, created under the treaty of 1908 between the United States and Canada. It is little realized that his commission has far-reaching powers for investigation, adjudication, and settlement of disputes between the United States and Canada. As most of the serious differences between the United States and Great Britain in recent years have arisen over Canada, the commission really is the chief custodian of the good relations of the two governments.

James A. Tawney, chairman of the American section of the commission, has received a telegram from T. C. Casgrain, of Montreal, chairman of the Canadian section, stating that the Canadian members will be in Washington on January 10 for the first meeting. The other Canadian members are Charles A. Magrath, of Medicine Hat, Assiniboia, and W. F. Powell, of St. John, New Brunswick. The American members, besides Mr. Tawney, are Frank H. Streeter, of New Hampshire, and former Senator Geo. Turner, of Spokane, Wash.

The treaty of 1908 provides that in addition to those authorized by the treaty, no diversion of boundary waters for any purpose shall be made which will affect the natural level or flow on the other side of the line without the authority of the United States.

Brawl of Japanese and Chinese Imperial Soldiers in Peking, results in Several Deaths and Scape of Imperial Family.. Imperialists Seem to Seek Delay in Peace.

LONDON, Jan. 1.—The Peking correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that another meeting was held Sunday in the palace and that abdication is mooted. It is semi-officially announced that the emperor "ceased his studies" on December 28, which probably means that his father has removed him.

It is stated that the empress-dowager, with the members of the court, will proceed to Jehol, while Prince Chun and the emperor, with his section of the imperial clan, will go to Mukden palace. This last move, says the correspondent, would likely prove a fruitful source of complications and Korean history may be repeated in southern Manchuria.

Negotiations Drag Along.

PEKING, Dec. 31.—Negotiations between Shanghai and Peking continue, but apparently there has been no development in the situation during the past 24 hours. The imperialists are endeavoring to delay matters, hoping that time will favor them. The rebels seem desirous of forcing the issue, but neither side is willing to terminate negotiations.

Soldiers from the Japanese legation came into conflict yesterday, and also today with Yuan Shi Kai's bodyguard. Bayonets and swords were used, and six or more Japanese were wounded. It is reported that more

NEGRO CELEBRATES THE NEW YEAR

Oklahoma Colored Man Starts To Celebrate New Year—Attacks Farmer's Wife And Is Lynched—Whiskey His Motive Power—Last Lynching Of Year Attended By Great Mob.

MILDROW, Okla., Jan. 2.—Sam Turner, a negro, started to celebrate New Year's day ahead of time. He stole an engine, killed a farmer, attacked a farmer's wife, got drunk on whiskey, and wound up by being lynched.

Turner was lynched near here after killing George Cason and attacking Mrs. Cason. His crime was committed after 12 o'clock last night, and after the farmer had opened his door to the negro and made a fire for him so that he could get warm. The fact that Turner fell asleep from the effects of the whiskey probably saved the life of the woman and her five children. He was asleep at the house when taken by citizens of Mildrow, who had been notified from a neighbor's house where Mrs. Cason had been in her night clothing, after the negro had fallen asleep.

Shortly before midnight railroad men in the Iron Mountain yards at Vanburen, Ark., saw a switch engine going west at a rapid rate. On investigation the fact that the engine had been taken out of the round house by some unknown man was disclosed.

The agent at Mildrow was ordered to stop No. 105, a passenger train from Kansas City, and to sidetrack the locomotive. This avoided a serious railroad wreck. In a few minutes the engine was seen approaching Mildrow, running slowly, but when two men tried to board it, the person at the throttle threw it wide open, and

Report Of Examining Physicians To President Taft, Does Not Guarantee The Freedom Of Convicted Banker—President "Has No Warrant To Interfere"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—It was announced at the White House last night that the report of the army medical officers who have examined Charles W. Morse, convicted New York banker, serving sentence in the Atlanta, Ga., Federal penitentiary, does not warrant immediate interference by the president, and the pardon will not be granted at this time.

The physicians made a physical examination of Morse in the military hospital at Fort McPherson, where the banker is being treated, under guard. They also studied his mental condition, and transmitted their findings to President Taft through Surgeon General Torney.

Find No Paralysis.

The physicians find that Morse is suffering from arterio sclerosis, valvular trouble of the heart, Bright's disease, and has but recently suffered from an acute attack of congestion of the kidneys. They found no paralysis.

The doctors pronounce Morse's condition necessarily incurable, but do not anticipate immediate death. Their recommendations are such that President Taft found no reason to depart from the attitude he has assumed in the Morse case.

It is generally understood that President Taft is unwilling that Morse die a prisoner, but he does not intend to grant the pardon until he is convinced that the prisoner is in a dying condition.

Representative Rowland, of California, In Favor Of Free Passage For American Ships—Gen. Goethals, Canal Builder, Disfavors Plan Of Government's Reimbursement.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Members of the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house, who returned to Washington yesterday from the Panama Canal, expressed themselves as favoring toll rates for the canal, when completed, varying from 50 cents to $1 per ton. It is the consensus of opinion among the representatives, and this is shared by the canal commissioners and the officials of the zone, that whatever rates are finally determined upon, they should not be lower than the first figure nor higher than the second. Furthermore, a strong sentiment prevails throughout the membership of the committee in favor of the proposition, already presented in a bill introduced by Representative Knowland, of California, for free passage through the "big ditch" of American coastwise vessels.

Individual members would not go on record yesterday as approving any definite toll rates. They consider this question the most important which now presents itself in connection with the future administration of the canal.

BURGLAR IS A YOUNG GIRL

Sunday School Pupil In Male Garb Taken By Police In A Factory—Male Companion Is With Her When Apprehended.

NYACK, N. Y., Jan. 2.—Still garbed in the suit of boy's clothing she wore when captured, Miss Estelle McElroy, 18 years old, is a prisoner today in the Hillburn jail. The girl was arrested in the search for the leader of a band for whom the police have been looking for months. A charge of attempted burglary is made against her.

The prisoner was born and lived all her life in Hillburn. She was a Sunday school pupil, and was one of the most respected young women in that town. She was active in church work and a member of the local temperance union.

For months the police of all villages in Rockland county have been looking for a band of burglars who robbed factories, private houses, and post offices. The robberies were evidently the work of skilled thieves, but not once was any clew left on which the detective could start their work.

Many Villages Suffer.

Hillburn, Nyack, Suffren, and other villages were visited by the band, and once the robbers stole several thousand dollars' worth of goods from a store in New City, within a stone's throw of the county jail.

As a result of the many burglaries the villages doubled their police forces but this failed to result in any let-up in the number of robberies. Houses and factories that were passed hourly were robbed by the thieves and no clew left by any of the band.

Just before midnight today, Constables Slavin and Sibley, of Hillburn, noticed two figures loitering near the factory of the Hillburn Bronze Metal Works. The policemen had not been seen by the two, and they hid under a hedge.

The two whom they watched made a round of the building, and then the smaller one was seen, the police declare, to pick up a stone and break one of the factory's windows. Both entered the building and the constables followed them.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1912.

COL. WATTERSON AND PEACE.

At a dinner in Charlotte the other night, Col. Watterson, the famous editor of the St. Louis Courier, spoke of his favorite subject, peace. He made a masterful address. In fact, when we say that Col. Watterson spoke on peace we have about said all that could be said. For Col. Watterson is to peace in the world of letters what Carnegie is in the world of millions. The genial Scotchman gives his money and the famous editor gives his word. And it would not be too much to say that in this case the word is rather better than the money.

To illustrate what can be accomplished peacefully, Col. Watterson made a parallel of perhaps the two greatest Frenchmen that were ever born. That is contemporary Frenchmen. In Napoleon he introduced the greatest figure of a successful fighter. In Taylorland, the greatest diplomat, statistician, and financier. Napoleon, who set out to conquer and did conquer; who placed practically every member of his family on a throne; who placed an imperial crown upon his head with his own hands at Rheims; who ascended as high as mortal can and who finally had to borrow enough ground to rest in death. Taylorland on the other hand who set out to conquer and did conquer; who attained the highest place a statesman can attain; whose financial genius guided his country through times of the greatest strain and who finally died in the midst of power, himself a very wealthy man. And the difference between these two men lies the means applied by them to reach their goal. Napoleon, with sword and cannon in bloody fields; Taylorland, with the pen and paper in well appointed offices. Napoleon with unbound courage. Taylorland with unlimited diplomacy. And in the end peaceful means meant victory for the diplomat and statesman.

It seems that this is as forceful an argument as could be put forward for the cause of peace. A highly successful fighter against a highly successful diplomat and the diplomat wins.

And still the dynamiting indictments are going on. Such a business. Little do the McNamoras know what they started when they blew up the Los Angeles "Times." Convicts On Roads.

North Carolina was the first Southern state to utilize convict labor in road building on an extensive scale. The fine macadam roads around Charlotte were built by Mecklenburg county prisoners, and one county after another has adopted the plan with success. Prisoners from the state penitentiary have been furnished to build a long pike through the mountains. There this is regarded as a field for the employment of convicts where they do not come in competition with free labor.

Georgia has secured excellent results in utilizing its prisoners in road-making. The Atlanta Constitution reports that the convicts are to be credited "with more than ten miles of substantially constructed road for every day of the year." "That amount to a total of more than 3,500 miles of road," comments the Louisville Courier-Journal, and any state which is building that much first-class highway in the space of one year is making an enviable record and is approaching a solution of the road question at a most gratifying rate of progress.

Maryland has entered upon an extensive program of road improvement that will extend over a series of years. Millions are being spent, and if we secure a system of first-class highways covering every section the investment will be worth all its costs. But we want to get our new roads built at the lowest possible cost without sacrificing quality. If we could utilize convicts from the penitentiary, and county prisoners, a large sum might be saved. The Maryland commissioners should look into the Georgia system and the results in other states. This might aid them in the solution of our own road problem.—Baltimore Sun.

It comes to light now, that previous to the New York peace dinner Taft received a wire warning him of a riot to take place at the peace gathering. Therefore the 60 Murphys trotted out by Waldo. 'Tis sad when you can't get together for a little peace talk without having somebody remind you that you have a black eye coming your way.

Here's a black eye for Berlin, considered to be one of the best governed capitals in the world. Eating infected food caused the death of sixty seven men and the illness of over one hundred in a municipal lodging house. It is bad enough to be driven to a municipal lodging house, but it is a great deal sadder to go there and be fed with poisoned food.

One has only to look in a while on the session of a board of commissioners of a large county like Pitt, to be convinced that they are about the poorest paid officials, for the amount of work done, that can be found in the state. Such men, who perform their duties well, earn several times the pay they get.

proaching a solution of the road question at a most gratifying rate of progress." The convicts are apportioned to the counties in proportion to population, and in some the results have not been what was expected, but this is regarded as due to mismanagement on the part of the county authorities. HOW ONE WOMAN WON

Her Health and Strength Back Again by The Use of Cardui.

Tampa, Fla.—In a letter from this city, Mrs. E. C. Corum writes: "I was all weakened and worn out with womanly troubles. My husband brought me some Cardui as a tonic, and, from the first day, it seemed to help."

I had almost lost my reason, but thanks to Cardui, I did not. Soon, I felt and looked like a new woman. I think the remedy is wonderful. I recommend it to my friends, for I have received great benefit from it."

Cardui acts specifically on the weakened womanly organs, strengthening the muscles and nerves, and building them up to health.

It helps to refresh the worn-out nervous system and relieves the effects of overwork, both mental and physical. Fifty years' successful use fully prove the merit of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

In every community, there live some who have been benefited by Cardui. The beneficial effects of this time tested woman's remedy, soon show themselves in many different ways. Try it.

NEGRO IS LYNCHED.

It went into the side track at high speed, where it was derailed and turned over on its side.

Killed Man Who Sheltered Him.

Turner leaped from the engine and escaped. When he reached the farmhouse of George Cason he told Cason that he was nearly frozen and asked that he might stop long enough to get warm. The farmer let him into the single room of the house and built a fire for him. Cason then went back to bed and left the negro by the fire.

Turner found an axe, and, drawing a gun at the same time, ordered both man and his wife to cover up their heads or he would kill them. Both did so, Cason at the same time telling the negro where his money was. Without warning, the negro swung the ax at Cason's head, the flat part of it striking him on the left temple. He died almost immediately.

The negro then demanded whiskey from the woman, which she procured for him. He commanded her to drink with him; but each time she only pretended to drink, while he drank freely. When he learned she had not been drinking he attacked her. He fell asleep, and Mrs. Cason ran, in her night clothing, through the light snow, to the home of a neighbor, Jasper Owne, and telephoned to Mildrow to George Rogers, a brother, and Oliver Matthews.

They went to the Cason home and found the negro still asleep. They covered him with revolvers, bound him, and took him to town, where he was lodged in the city jail.

The news had spread over the country near Mildrow by 8 o'clock, and the plans for lynching the negro were made. In the mob were less than 50 men. They reached the jail at 9 o'clock. The negro, in the meantime had picked the lock of his cell, and was in the corridor of the jail.

As the men opened the door he rushed out and struggled with the mob. A blow on the head with a hammer stopped his struggles, and he was hanged to a tree near the jail. The entire affair took only a few minutes.

The body was left hanging to the tree until shortly before noon, when Sheriff Johnson and a hundred men arrived on the train from Mildrow. The sheriff ordered the body cut down, and took possession of it.

While the negro was in the cell he wrote a note to his wife at Eufaula, asking her to care for the baby and never marry.

SUCCESSOR OF HARLAN

nors at Spring Lake, N. J., several months ago, took the initiative that led to the passage of the resolution that the states co-operate in bringing the question before the United States Supreme court as to the right of the Federal courts to enjoin the states in the matter of fixing intrastate rates for carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

President Taft is not likely to be unduly influenced by these protests. He referred them in the usual course to the department of justice. He received similar protests from the state of New York at the time the name of Gov. Hughes was under consideration for the Supreme court. Certain people in New York objected to Gov. Hughes' veto of the 2-cent rate bill but the president appointed him, in spite of the protests.

CANADA NOW

States or Canada, with the approval of the international joint commission.

A dozen or more powers, irrigation, and sanitary canal projects are awaiting the judgment of the commission. A Canadian company is anxious to utilize the waters of the St. Johns river, which separates Maine from New Brunswick for power purposes. Objection to this is made by both Canadian and American lumber interests, which protest that the building of a dam, such is necessary for the newer project, will detrimentally affect the water level of the river and interfere with their logging operations.

Another Canadian company desires to develop water power and canalize a waterway from Lake Champlain to the St. Lawrence river by way of Richelieu river. This raises a question whether the plan would not lower the level of the connected waterways on the American side of the line.

American Interests Complain.

The Minnesota Canal and Power Company, an American corporation, desires to divert water from Birch Lake, Minn., through the St. Louis river, which empties into Lake Superior, near Duluth. The Birch Lake basin is connected with the basin of the Rainy river and the Lake of the Woods, which lie partly in Canadian territory, and from which Canadian industries derive their power. The commission must determine whether the proposed diversion would affect established rights.

Two sets of complaints have been received from American interests at the Lake of the Woods. One party claims that the Canadians do not keep up their dams, and the other party claims they keep them too high, with the result that American land is flooded.

Another problem of the commission is to assure the equitable apportionment within the terms of the treaty of the waters of Milk and St. Mary rivers, in northern Montana and southern Alberta.

Would Build Larger Dam.

Still another subject coming within the purview of the board's work is the desire of interests subsidiary to the Aluminum Company of America to build a large dam for power purposes at the Long Sault rapids in the St. Lawrence river, at Cornell, Ontario.

These interests failed to pass through congress a bill authorizing the project on the American side. It is not known what move they will make next. Their proposal encountered great hostility in Canada. Several projects regarding the Rainy river, which marks the boundary between Minnesota and Ontario, also are pending.

The members of the Canadian section of the commission are all newly appointed by the Borden government, which turned out the members previously named by the Laurier government.

than that number of Chinese were injured. The Japanese, as well as the Chinese, soldiers were off duty at the time of the clashes, but the Japanese legation sent out a company with officers to rescue its men. The incidents are not believed to have any significance politically.

A dispatch from Hankow says that three soldiers have been court-martialed and beheaded because they were suspected of an attempt to assassinate Gen. Li Yuen Heng, the commander of the revolutionists.

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 31.—A dispatch from Hankow says that the republicans today opened fire from Wu Chang on Hanyang, which is held by the imperialists. They seem to be of the opinion that the armistice has expired.

Mild Accident.

Mr. R. A. Tucker was out yesterday in a buggy to which was hitched a handsome, though highly spirited horse. What caused him to take offense and start something is unknown, but in coming down Evans street he gathered a speed and performed such capers that the colored man driving with Mr. Tucker must have thought the seat in the buggy was not exactly the safest place in Greenville. Calling forth all the gymnastics he ever knew he tried to desert his post as the horse was performing its best. In jumping the buggy the colored man got entangled with the reins and somehow or other his home came into a severe bump against a post in the corner of Fourth and Evans streets. The impact would have been enough to disable most of us. But not so with the "colored gentleman." He gathered himself together and after Mr. Tucker had pacified the horse, took up his seat again in the buggy and continued driving. The post is a little better this morning.

Governor Judson Harmon will open his campaign for the presidential nomination in Illinois in East St. Louis, January 12.

BURGLAR WAS A GIRL.

The two suspected persons heard the policemen entering the place and tried to hide, but the larger of the two was found under a desk and made a prisoner. While he was being subdued the other one ran out, and Slavin started after the fugitive. For more than a mile the chase kept up, and then the policeman overtook the supposed robber. Much to his surprise, he found that instead of a man his prisoner was a girl, and that she was crying.

She made no attempt at resistance, and it was not until a lamppost was reached that the constable recognized her as a girl he had known for years. She refused to make any statement further than to say she was Estelle McElroy, and that she lived in Hillburn.

Prisoner Laughs At Police.

The man who had been captured by Sibley gave his name as Frederick Monroe, and refused to say anything about himself. He laughed at the police when they asked him about other robberies that have been reported in the vicinity.

The McElroy girl had her hair tightly braided and the braids concealed under a cap. The only feminine article about her clothing was the hat-pin she used to keep the cap from falling off.

When the girl was locked up she became hysterical for a time, but all efforts to get any information from her regarding the other robberies in Rockland county during the past few months prove futile. She would neither affirm nor deny the charge that she had planned the work of the band for whom the police have been searching. The girl and her companion will be arraigned tomorrow before a justice of the peace.

Monroe is said to be married and to have three children, but the whereabouts of his family has not yet been learned.

DIVORCE CASE.

Sensational Divorce Suit in Wilmington, Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Del., Jan. 2.—The suit of John Bancroft, the second son of John Bancroft, wealthy secretary of the Joseph Bancroft and Sons Company, textile manufacturers of Wilmington, for a divorce from his wife, Madeleine du Pont Bancroft and the counter suit of the wife for divorce will come up for trial in the superior court here this month.

When the young husband filed suit against his wife last summer it created the greatest stir that has occurred in Delaware in years. Mrs. Bancroft, who is only twenty-three years old is a member of the du Pont family, the millionaire powder manufacturers.

In his suit the husband named Max Heibler of Munich, a friend of the couple, as correspondent. He called the infant son of his wife, born last April, Max Heibler, Jr. He also made the child, which was born here, a codefendant with the mother. He denied the paternity of the infant.

Subsequently the wife began counter suit for divorce on the same general grounds. She also alleges extreme cruelty. The city of Munich figures in the action, for the reason that the couple lived abroad for three years, following their elopement in 1907. They were married at Washington, D. C., the bridegroom not being quite of age. He was a student at Princeton. The youthful couple were sent abroad in order that the husband could complete his studies at Heidelberg University.

The double action will be heard in open court, as is the requirement in Delaware.

CONFIDENCE ON BOTH SIDES.

With the Leaders of the Election in Prince Edward Island.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Jan. 2.—On the eve of the general election in Prince Edward Island, which will take place tomorrow, the leaders on both sides express confidence in the outcome. If the political history of the Providence during the past few years is any indication of the future, whichever side wins, the victory is pretty certain to be won by a narrow margin. For a good many years the electorate has been almost evenly divided between the Liberals and the Conservatives. The Providential assembly had a Liberal majority of two until the recent bye-elections transferred that majority to the Conservative side.

The recent defeat of the Laurier Government and the downfall of the Palmer administration depressed the Liberal forces for the time being and proportionately advanced the hopes and confidence of the Conservatives. The latter appear confident that the election will result in a substantial victory for Premier Mathieson and his colleagues. On the other hand, the Liberals under the able leadership of the Hon. John Richards, ex-commissioner of agriculture, have waged a vigorous campaign and they are not at all inclined to concede the victory to the Conservatives.

HIGH TOLLS FOR THE PANAMA CANAL.

on the Isthmus, and are loaded down with information and figures, they will reserve final determination until a report is received from Prof. Emory Johnson, eminent economist and statistician, who is at work on a proposed system of tolls.

Prof. Johnson formerly was a member of the Isthmian canal commission, and is thoroughly posted regarding canal affairs.

The party which arrived here yesterday, by the way of Charleston, S. C., included Chairman Adamson, of the interstate and foreign commerce committee, and Representative Sims, Hamlin, Sabath, Martin, of Colorado, Covington, Gould, Roremus, Stevens, Esch, Knowland, Hamilton, and Driscoll, all members of the committee, and also Representatives Borland, or who is familiar with it are in accord in the belief that the canal should be in charge of one man when it is completed, and that this man should have absolute control, being, of course, under the jurisdiction of the president. Col. Goethals, chairman of the Isthmian canal commission who is in direct charge of the canal informed the members of the committee that nothing had happened to change his statement, made six months ago, to the effect that by the fall of 1913 the canal will be ready for the passage of ships. The formal opening, however, to the commerce of the world, will not take place until about January 1, 1915.

Would Make Coast Artillery.

Col. Goethals told the committee that the day the canal is finished the amount of the cost of the canal should be charged to the military establishment of the United States, which means that he would favor no plan Stephens, of California, Bowman, Tribble, Miller, of Minnesota, and Hardwick.

One visit to the canal of the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house is regarded as important, because this body, together with the senate committee on inter-oceanic canals, will have everything to do with recommending to congress the laws for the future government of the canal and the Canal Zone.

Date For Opening Stands.

The party left Washington December 12, and immediately on their arrival at Panama, began a series of hearings and investigations that touched upon every feature of the work there, including plans for a proper governmental organization when the channel is completed and ready for traffic.

Practically every person on the zone who is connected with the work which would involve a reimbursement to the government, through toll charges or otherwise, of the cost of building the canal. The amount of tolls, he believes, should approximate annually the mere cost of maintenance, exclusively of the amounts expended for sanitation and civil government. The cost of maintenance of the canal proper, according to the best estimates, will be about $3,500,000 and it is believed by the experts that the collection of tolls ranging from 50c to $1 a ton would be sufficient to raise this sum. It should be decided to raise the entire expense of the canal by means of tolls, it would be necessary to impose a rate of at least $4 a ton, which would be prohibitory.

Pasadena's Tournament of Roses.

PASADENA, Cal., Jan. 1.—The tournament of Roses, which has been given in Pasadena regularly at the mid-winter season for close on to a quarter of a century, took place today in the present of a record-breaking crowd of spectators. Thousands of visitors from many sections of the county joined in the festivities. The tournament procession, composed of automobiles, wagons, floats, carriages on other styles of vehicles literally covered with riotous bloom of every form and hue, moved through the gaily decorated avenues of the city, and at the end of the parade those which excelled in the various divisions were awarded handsome prizes. The most novel feature of the tournament, however, was a flight by aeroplane in the course of which the aviator scattered thousands of rose blossoms upon the crowds assembled below.

Farmers Attend School.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 2.—Scores of progressive farmers and stock raisers left their homes in various parts of the state today, with Lexington as their destination, and at noon they began to arrive on every train, all prepared to attend the annual institute at the State College of Agriculture, one of the principal events of the year in Kentucky agricultural circles. During the week there will be conventions of breeders of dairy and beef cattle, swine, sheep and horses, together with exhibitions and daily lectures of special interest to the corn growers, dairymen and horticulturists.

George P. Jones has announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor of North Dakota.

AUTOMOBILE SALON.

Practically Every Well Known Foreign Car Included in the Exhibits.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Seventeen different makes of foreign-built automobiles were displayed in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Astor today at the opening of the annual Importers' Automobile Salon. Practically every well known foreign car which has achieved distinction either here or abroad is included in the exhibits. As the name implies, the exhibition is strictly a drawing room affair and not an industrial show. Commercial vehicles are included and a leading feature is the magnificent bodies, mounted on the various cars, which exemplify the latest productions of the famous coach builders of Europe and America.
