FIRST SKY AMBULANCE

AVIATOR HURRIED TO HOSPITAL SKY ROUTE

BEATTY ACCOMPLISHES FEAT

Severe Real Test of Aeroplane Use Put on as Aviator Falls

NEW YORK, April 1.—For the first time in the history of aviation, an aeroplane was used as an ambulance to carry an injured flyer from the Nassau Boulevard aviation field on Long Island to a hospital.

Oliver B. Sherwood, who has yet to cut all his pinfeathers, started out yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock to make fancy figures in the air. He flew as far as Belmont Park. On the way back his gasoline gave out just as he was making a dip. The machine plunged into a hole in the field, pinning Sherwood underneath. Fortunately he had not far to fall.

George W. Beatty who has an aviation school at the Nassau field saw the accident from his hangar a mile away. Beatty jumped into his aeroplane, rose and flew to the spot. He found Sherwood dazed and weak and so tangled in a mass of wires, poles and cloth that he could not move. With the help of several persons he was got out and placed on the spare seat of Beatty's biplane.

Beatty then started for the Nassau Hospital, several miles away. The flight through the air cleared Sherwood's head and by the time the hospital was reached he decided he was not in immediate need of medical attention. So Beatty drove him back to his hangar.

Horrible Discovery in Fayetteville

Body of Young Man With Head Severed Is Discovered. Theory that he Was a Victim of the Railroad—Was Employee of Samson Lumber Co.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., April 2.—The headless body of a young man with the head lying near by was discovered beside the Atlantic Coast Line railway at Hayne, Sampson county, early this morning by two travelers E. M. Bullard and Frances Parker, who were riding in a vehicle towards this place. The victim was apparently about 20 years old, clean shaven, with sandy hair and rather good looking. Messrs. Bullard and Parker reported the matter by telephone to the Sampson Lumber company, where it was said that the description answered that of a young man employed at their plant near Hayne, though a special telegram sent this morning from Hayne describes the victim as a stranger. It is supposed, in the absence of any positive information, that the ill-fated young man whose body was still warm when found, had been run over by a westbound freight train which passed that point about 1 o'clock this morning. The special referred to said that the body was being guarded by a section force pending the arrival of the coroner of Sampson county.

Bridge Question.

The county commissioners were in session today to consider the matter of building a bridge across Tar river at either Boyds Ferry or Pactolus. A large delegation from both sections were here to present their respective claims before the commissioners. The meeting was not in time for the result to be given in today's paper.

BLOOD HOUNDS A FAILURE

CANNOT TRACK SIDNA ALLEN

RECENT RAINS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR FAILURE OF DOGS IN MAN-HUNT

HILLSVILLE, Va., April 1.—Two bloodhounds today were set upon the trail of Sidna Allen and his nephew Wesley Edwards, the two remaining fugitives of the Allen clan. Though given what the detectives considered was the best trail they had found thus far, a heavy rain is thought to have washed away the scent and at nightfall the posse had met with no success. The trail given to the dogs began at the Natural Cave where on Saturday a supply of rations and blankets were abandoned by the outlaws in a sudden flight caused by the close approach of the posse.

The detectives have secured information which tomorrow will set the dogs upon a new track.

Scipio Gray, who lives in the Fancy Gap section, reported that the two outlaws had appeared near his home yesterday. Gray knows the Allens very well and his clue is considered reliable. It is believed from Gray's information that the two are moving back and forth between two bases of food supply, about ten miles apart.

TO AIR BIG EVERGLADES SCANDAL

Federal Grand Jury Returns Indictments Against Elliott Morehouse, Singleton and Teale

The Former Government Employees Charged With Presenting False Vouchers

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—Indictments growing out of the Florida everglades investigation in the department of agriculture were returned by the federal grand jury here today against C. G. Elliott, Allanson D. Morehouse, Ray P. Eeels and F. E. Singleton. The defendants are charged individually with having approved or presented false vouchers against the government. Elliott and Morehouse have asserted that the charges of technical violation of the law against them and their dismissal from the department were brought about by their opposition to everglades land promoters.

Elliott formerly was chief of drainage investigations in the department of agriculture; Morehouse was assistant chief; Teale formerly was an assistant chief of irrigation investigations and Singleton an accountant.

The charges were Marcher

The charges against Elliott and the others were made to Secretary Wilson by J. O. Wright, formerly an assistant to Elliott in the department, but now chief drainage engineer of the state of Florida. Wright, according to testimony at the recent congressional investigation, made a very favorable report of the Florida everglades. Elliott did not approve it. Wright resigned and went to Florida and the report amended by Elliott, eventually was suppressed by order of Secretary Wilson. The secretary also suppressed a circular letter prepared by Elliott in which some facts relating to the everglades lands were presented in answer to the letters of inquiry from thousands of investors in the various land schemes. Elliott testified recently that two land agents had threatened him in his office and in the presence of other officials if he insisted in taking an unfavorable view of the everglades. They also threatened to take the matter "higher up".

"Dr. Broughton's discourse was a powerful one treating line of special work that he believes the church assume. "I hold," he declared, "that the church must do one of two things, tone down its teachings or tone up its living. The church must be more sincere or go out of business." He declared that the crying demand of the world today is for a workable religion, it is surprising, he said, to know the changes that are taking place in religious life and thought the world over.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—Robert Love Taylor, senior United States Senator from Tennessee—"Fiddling Bob," to all the south—died here yesterday, unable to withstand the shock of an operation for gall stones, performed last Thursday.

Early yesterday morning the senator began to fail to respond to stimulants. Mrs. Taylor, worn out by a day and night vigil had gone to her apartments. At 3 o'clock yesterday morning the senator began to sink so rapidly that she was sent for. She was at his side when the end came at 9:45 o'clock.

"Fiddling Bob" Taylor so known because he played his way into the hearts of his audiences, carrying his violin wherever he campaigned, was 61 years old. ## ASK GOVERNMENTS' AID

LOUISIANA ASKS FOR A $350,000 APPROPRIATION

GREAT DAMAGE BY FLOODS

Rising Waters Are Reported and Unless Helped Engineers Will Fail

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 1.—To relieve flood conditions in the Mississippi valley Representative Randsell of Louisiana, today introduced a bill to make an emergency appropriation of $350,000. The money would be made available immediately and utilized in reconstruction and maintenance of government levees on the river.

After consultation today with Colonel Townsend, president of the Mississippi river commission, the chief engineers, General Bixby, declared that unless something was done by Congress immediately to enable the engineers to handle the situation a disastrous flood of the country along the lower Mississippi would be inevitable.

At Cairo, the waters are higher than ever recorded; they are rising one foot an hour and will soon mark the 53 foot level. This is brought through the very unusual combination of floods simultaneously in the Mississippi, Missouri and Ohio rivers above Cairo. Heretofore there has always been low water in one or the other of these branches when the other streams were flooding.

Colored Men Want to Figure

Negro Republicans of North Carolina Hold Meeting in Capital City—Want to be Recognized as Voters—Will Hold Convention Also.

RALEIGH, April 1.—The executive committee of the Negro Republicans of North Carolina held a meeting in this city today, which was largely attended by representatives from many sections of the state. H. H. Taylor of Warrenton was chairman, and C. N. Hunter of Raleigh was secretary.

It was decided to hold their convention in Raleigh, May 15, that date being the same as the state convention of the white Republicans. In the speeches by different negroes much dissatisfaction was expressed over the treatment of the race from the hands of the organization in this and other states in the south. It was voted that the negro Republican voters of the state meet all the requirements of the present plan of organization of the party; that they attend the precinct primaries and, where possible, elect some of their number as representatives to the various conventions. Much stress was laid in what was termed the un-American and unfair method to make the negro a political outcast. No choice as to the Republican presidential nominee was expressed.

A SUGGESTION.

Most mothers begin the story "There was once a fairy prince"—We usually say, "We met a man down the street and he told us". Now, about the prince it is always a story; about the "down the street men" is not always a story.

Yesterday we met the down-the-street man and he had a suggestion to offer. The suggestion was so good and the man who made it so reliably honest in his purpose that we readily agreed to present it to our readers.

For the past few months Greenville has been undergoing a change for the better. It is progressing "forward" and many good moves have been slowly started and helped along until they gathered the necessary momentum to keep them going to a successful end. By the middle of next year at the very latest we are to have another brace of representative buildings. By then it is probable journeys to the post office will only be imperative one rare occasions and we will assume the air becoming a town that "has done things".

Taking all these things into account there is yet something which we should and certainly could have and maintain.

There are in Greenville, practically five thousand inhabitants. These five thousand people are liable to sickness and a great majority of them are not prepared to have illness thrust upon them in their homes. For this reason a hospital suggests itself. Our neighboring towns of any importance all have hospitals which have proved of great benefit to the people living in those towns, not to mention the ones of our community who have had to seek in those hospitals commodities that Greenville could not offer them. We have, to be sure, a number of most competent physicians in this town. But even they are sometimes handicapped in treating diseases amongst surroundings that were not in their favor or that of their patients.

Very often the services of a trained nurse are required. We have to send for her. Despite the magnificent equipment of some of our physicians' offices, nobody can deny that certain operations could be performed to better advantage and with better results in a place that was especially fitted for them.

In fact, from many points of view does the advantage of a hospital in Greenville suggest itself.

The particular business man who talked to us about it was very enthusiastic. Enthusiastic enough to pledge $500.00 if the project could be made to materialize. That is the kind of enthusiasm that helps do things and now that we have explained it, will other civic spirited business men of Greenville come forward and befriend the suggestion?

If there is anything worthy of attention it seems that this hospital question is "the thing".

OSCAR UNDERWOOD.

People in the south are remarking with surprise as to the strength of the Underwood boom. In looking for a reason for the strength of this boom we have to hand it to the managers of his campaign.

The astute gentlemen who have been entrusted with the "greasing of the ways" for the Underwood launching have been "up to date".

Within a certain period of time these gentlemen contrived to have practically every southerner to read about Underwood. To see his picture. To see photos and snapshots that depict the Alabaman in the discharge of public duties. Neither did the clever managers forget to let the cavalier-like southerners see a picture of charming Mrs. Underwood.

The south was flooded within a few days of the kind of literature that appeals and gets there. Dailies and weeklies were supplied with supplements devoted to Underwood. These supplements were made attractive enough to have the people look at them. And what is more, these supplements were preceded by a cheque, according to circulation, which made the newspaper editors think it worth their time to fold the supplements and incorporate them with their publications. A mere matter of business conducted in a business-like way. And both Underwood and the publishers made to be "ahead of the game".

That's what a New Yorker would call "some managers".

Dr. H. O. Hyatt of Kinston, has recently been contributing some very timely articles to the Free Press in regard to county hospitals. Every county in the state should have such an institution and none needs one worse than Pitt. Maybe our people will wake up to this important need at no far distant day.

The Greensboro Daily News has joined the company of seven days to the week paper and issues a Monday morning edition. The News never comes oftener than we want to see it, for every issue has pie in it.

Some folks say they would have a better show at gardening if it was not for the neighbors' chickens.

When the new hotel is built it is going to be followed by many more good things for Greenville.

Mr. Roosevelt is discovering that he is not altogether as popular as he thought.

Are you in the ranks of the cleaners?

Foolish Women

After being sentenced to four month's imprisonment with hard labor Mrs. Alice Green, one of the famous London window smashers, said to the judge: "I have given up my home, my husband and my child to go into this movement, and I will not go back until women get the vote." At the rate of progress which the English suffrage are making it would seem that Mrs. Green is destined to a long separation from all that she ought to hold dear. Fast is that in whatever light we may regard the suffragette movement, the women of England have adopted the wrong methods to bring about their hearts' desire. They have unmistakably shown to the world that the ballot in their hands would be a dangerous weapon; they have given evidence that they are the creatures to impulse and are not to be entrusted with the privilege of franchise.

We are, of course, speaking of that element which indulges in riot and disorder, not of the wiser women who, if fate and the future should so desire it, would vote on their country's affairs with the dignity and good sense with which they now govern their domestic affairs. For, as recently stated in these columns, this class of womanhood would not upset the existing order of things but would be largely governed by the political views of their husbands.

Happily, in this country there is a still greater majority of home loving, faithful wives who do not seek or desire the rights of franchise; women who believe that in the existing order of things the men who have heretofore been voting can bear the burnt of political battles. These women look across the waste of waters and seek the strife and discord which constitute the lot of their English cousins, and they shoulder when contemplating scenes from which respectable womanhood recoils. Clubbed and beated by heartless policemen, hooted and jeered at by the mob, there is no lure in the call of the ballot of the American woman. She knows that under one political regime or another her government and country move on—ever advancing to awaiting greatness.—Ashville Citizen.

Women in Journalism

Admission of women students to the School of Journalism at Columbia is announced to be still under advisement by the directors. It would seem a clear case, if the course is to be as inclusive as planned. Many women are engaged in newspaper work and doubtless many more will be as time goes on. All the professions are now open to women, and whatever the Fourth Estate is or is not to be reckoned as a profession, it is at least a calling in which the best training that can be acquired is highly desirable. It may not be possible to say in advance how many women would seek to avail themselves of the privilege of the School of Journalism, but the door should not be closed to those who apply even if at first they be few in number. If journalism is still to mean a career open to talent, it cannot attempt to set up a limitation of that talent by sex.—New York Evening Post.

Senator Overman

The Post finds special pleasure in calling attention to the good work of Senator Overman. As stated in the dispatches of Monday he succeeded in getting a favorable report on his bill to increase the limit of cost for the customs houses at Wilmington from $300,000 to $650,000, which means that the entire State of North Carolina will be greatly benefitted by the improvements of the port there. The Senator is a man that does things. When he goes after an appropriation for anything else he generally wins. He asked for a public building for Salisbury and got the finest in the state. He has invariably cast his vote in accord with the wishes of the masses and has proven himself in every way worthy of trust. No other man who has ever been senator from North Carolina has wielded a greater influence with the administrations in power at the time than Senator Overman. A gentleman of charming address, of splendid physique and of attractive personality, he won his way into the Roosevelt administration and has done the same with the Taft administration. Senator Overman is an honor to the country—he stands easily head and shoulders above the majority of the members of the senate and the people of North Carolina are proud of him.—Salisbury Post.

The Closed Door.
Love knocked: Youth heard and listened, but
Was busy with his gold that day:
She knocked again, the door was shut,
Then sadly turned away.

Love knocked once more in after years,
But fame was calling up the height:
With broken heart she left in tears
For it was almost night.

Time bore the Youth to green old age;
She gave him wealth and fame and more,
But somehow life was like a cage
For love had closed the door.

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE TRAINING SCHOOL.

Members of the One Year Class Entertain and Receive in Honor of New Students.

One the evening of "All Fools Day" the faculty and students of the Training school were highly entertained by the members of the one year class. The class presented the comedy: "As You Like It," or "You Never Can Tell".

In honor of the occasion the stage was decorated with such signs as: "Lord, What Fools These Mortals Be," "A Ship of Fools" and "Motive's The Only Wear". In keeping with the last there were four "fools"—Misses Markham, Fleetwood, Chauncey and Meade—who were dressed as jesters and who imitated the jesters of Shakespeare. These remained on the stage throughout the play while the typical fools of humanity, or "hobbyists" came before the audience for short periods only.

First came a body of women suffragists advocating "Votes for Women" and "Woman's Rights". Then followed the professions represented by an actress, a novelist, a musician, an athlete, a grafter and a teacher. Next in order came the chronic grumblers and grumbles, the love-makers and those afflicted with the modern disease "Americontic". The interest in the play was heightened by a number of songs that were taken from Shakespeare's plays.

After the play the class gave a reception to the new students and faculty in the Y. W. C. A. room. The entire room was beautifully decorated in yellow and gray, the class colors, and refreshments were found by removing the souvenir dunce caps from the table.

The evening was one of fun and merriment from beginning to end and the class should feel amply rewarded for the efforts put forth. The entertainment was under the supervision of Miss Jenkins, the advisor of the one year class.

Robin Hood and Guy of Gisbourne

The sheriff of Nottingham had set an enormous price upon the head of Robin Hood. One Guy of Gisborne, a skilful archer, determined to win the prize and betook himself to Sherwood Forest. Little John and Robin caught sight of the stranger and knew instinctively that he had come on some definite errand which it would be well for them to find out. Little John proposed that he should go alone to sound the stranger. Robin was unwilling to entrust the delicate matter and Little John left in a huff.

Robin had some pleasant words with the intruder, promised that he would lead him to Robin Hood and did lead him into the heart of the forest. He proposed some archery feats to while away the time. They had some merry sport together and each admired the other's masterful use of the long-bow. Robin at length revealed his identity and Guy his errand. They agreed to fight till the death of one or the other and there began as wonderful an exhibition of heroic combat as history records. Robin lost his footing and Guy was about to take possession of his helpless body, but impetuous prayer to the Virgin was heard and he got on his feet again. He soon had vanquished his opponent. With a heartfelt note of compassion for the dead man and a grim jest over the necessity of putting the worst cloth on the best man, he exchanged clothes with Guy and then disfigured the dead face beyond recognition. Mounting a good horse he hastened to the sheriff and announced himself as Guy of Gisborne, the slayer of Robin Hood. The exultant sheriff would have rewarded him with money, but the hero declared that the slaying of that vile outlaw, Robin Hood, was reward enough and hurried away.

In a few moments he saw Will Scarlett fleeing from the sheriff's soldiers and he rescued him. Then he came upon Little John tied hand and foot, expecting to be hanged. He rescued him. Then safely arriving in his forest home, he resumed his own clothing and impersonated Guy of Gisborne no more.
Guy of Gisborne will March in the procession on May 18th at the State Normal College at Greensboro.

Jews Observe The Passover.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The one million Jews of Greater New York, in common with their brethren the world over, today celebrated the Feast of the Passover, or Pesach. It is the spring festival of the Jews and in ancient times was the first of the three great pilgrim features, when the people of Israel gathered from the remotest sections of the Holy Land and went up to Jerusalem to offer their thanks in the Temple. The festival was ordered to commemorate the redemption of the children of Israel from their bondage in the land of Egypt where they had been held as slaves more than 400 years.
During the eight days of the celebration the place of bread in every Jewish household is taken by a specially prepared and baked cake known as "Matzos," consisting of flour and water only, without any leavening ingredient. It is estimated that more than 100,000 barrels of flour are used in New York alone making the "Matzos" for the annual festival.

INCIDENT OF WAR.

Kindly Deed of Chief Justice Clark In days When He Was Young Confederate Officer.
To the Editor: If you will allow me a little space in your paper to relate to my old comrades an incident that occurred during the civil war, I will appreciate same very much.
I was a private soldier in Company A, First Regiment North Carolina Junior Reserves. When it was reported that the enemy, in the fall of 1864, were advancing for the capture of Plymouth our regiment was hurried by a forced march from Tarboro. The marching was very rapid and just before reaching Williamston I was forced through sickness and weariness to drop out. The captain in charge of the rear guard roughly ordered me back in line, but finally seeing that I could not go, left me to struggle along the best I could. Just about that time the major of my regiment rode up and asked what the trouble was. Finding that my condition was sick and worn out, he first told me to try to get up to camp as we were not going much further, but after riding a few steps he dismounted and made me get on his horse, and he himself marched on foot the remaining five miles to Williamston. I was very grateful to him then and though I have never met him since I have not forgotten his kindness and I think that my old comrades and fellow citizens should know who he was. He is now a candidate for the United States senate and I write this letter without his knowledge. His name is Walter Clark. He was then though only a boy of 17 or 18 years, major of my regiment and the same kindness for the rank and file and sympathy for those who needed assistance which he showed then has marked his career through all his subsequent life. Knowing him as a young soldier, I have naturally observed his public career and his record shows that he has always stood for the people and the protection of the weak.
Yours truly,
(Signed) WILLIAM H. RENFREW.

STATE AND COUNTY NEWS

The first corn growers' meeting among the colored farmers of Eastern North Carolina was held at the Parmele Industrial Institute, Parmele, N. C., Thursday, April 28th. The speakers representing the United States Department of Agriculture were Mr. McLean of Carthage, Moore county and Prof. T. E. Brown of Ahoskie. Both are district agents for the Farmers Co-operative Demonstration Work. Quite a number of colored farmeres met, each bringing a variety of corn grown on his farm, believing that his was as good or better than his neighbor's. It was an inspiring scene to see so many jolly, good natured farmers coming, some with sacks, others with packages, others with suit cases containing samples of corn grown on their farms. It was easily seen from the beginning that Oak City was far in the lead of any other community in point of number and quantity of corn.

At 1:30, p. m. Pres. W. C. Chance, who is responsible for the work having been started among the colored farmers at this point, in a happy frame of mind, called the meeting to order and after a few pointed remarks of welcome to the farmers, setting forth the object of the meeting, presented Prof. Chas. S. Mitchell, the special instructor in agriculture who introduced Prof. T. E. Brown. Mr. McLean spoke upon the necessity of better drainage and the selection of good seed corn.

Prof. Brown delivered a strong address on the importance of becoming better farmers and raising a sufficient amount of produce for home consumption. He showed clearly that while the people differ and in many respects are separated, their agricultural interests are in common and that the future of this great nation cannot be secure unless all the farmers are taught new and better methods of cultivating their soils.

The farmers were aroused to a higher sense of their duty and returned to their homes determined to harness the forces of nature and bid it grow two ears of corn where only one has grown before.

Neutral in Delaware.

DOVER, Del., April 2.—Members of the Democratic State Committee of Delaware assembled here today to decide upon the date and make other arrangements for the State convention, at which delegates to Baltimore will be selected. It is understood that the delegates will go to the national convention without instructions. This is due to the fact that the prominent party leaders in Delaware are just about evenly divided in their choice between Harmon and Wilson.

SAM WHITE PIANO CO.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—When a woman purchases $10 worth of woolens dress goods, $4.87 of that $10 represents the value of the goods and the remaining $5.13 of the $10, the amount of the tariff. In other words, should the purchase be made in England where there is not tariff on the woollens, the woman would receive the same amount and quality of dress goods for $4.87 that she pays $10 for in this country.

This is because of the Payne-Al-dritch ad valorem tariff rate of 105 per cent. When the Democrats came into power in the House of Representatives they framed a bill which would reduce the tax on woollens nearly 40 per cent. The Senate passed a similar bill. President Taft vetoed the bill which prevented cheaper and better woollens to American consumers. The Democratic majority of the House now presents the bill again.
President Taft will have less excuse to veto the bill than before. He declared on the first occasion that a certain tariff board had not made its report and that to permit a reduction of the duties might make it impossible for the woollen manufacturers to "protect" their workmen.

The tariff board report justifies a downward revision of the woollen schedule. Then since the President vetoed the wool bill there has been a strike of the textile workers at Lawrence, Mass., which has revealed beyond argument and beyond contradiction that the woollen trust magnates have been fooling and cheating the public all the time. The strike of the $6 $7 and $8 a week men, women and children in the woollen mills brought to light the fact that while the mill owners have been declaring they were protecting their workers with fair wages and decent working conditions, they have been paying them starvation wages and treating them, almost like animals.
