NOTABLES AT AYCOCK MEMORIAL

"Love and Service" Dominated His Life Says Ex-Governor Jarvis of This City.

WILL ERECT MONUMENT

The greatest living man in North Carolina and oldest ex-governor of the state is Hon. Thos. J. Jarvis, of Greenville and it was most fitting that the committee of arrangements for the Aycock memorial meeting in Raleigh, Friday night, should select him to preside over the meeting. Mayor John called the meeting to order and in naming ex-Governor Jarvis as chairman referred to him as the "Grand Old Man".

The occasion was one that showed North Carolina's great love for her lamented son, ex-Gov. C. B. Aycock, who passed tragically away a few days ago. Raleigh's handsome auditorium held thousands of people who gathered to hear the beautiful tributes of the distinguished men who had been selected to speak of their dead friend. These were men who had been in close touch with him and their words from the heart were eloquent tribute to North Carolina's dead idol.

In taking charge as chairman of the meeting Governor Jarvis gave this splendid estimate of Governor Aycock:

Forgetting all differences in our religious and political creed, and remembering only Charles B. Aycock's great services to his state and his passionate love for the children, we assemble tonight to give expression to our gratitude for his noble life and our sorrow over his untimely death, and to complete an organization statewide in its scope, through which all the people may have the privilege of taking part in the erection of a monument, which shall tell unborn generations (Continued on 3rd page)

Outlaws Make Quick Change

Are Willing to be Tried in Hillsville and Not Somewhere Else as at First Requested. Trial May Last Over Thirty Days.

BRISTOL, Va., April 12.—Although a petition for change of venue was filed some weeks ago by members of the Allen gang, now in jail for shooting up the courthouse at Hillsville, they have decided that they wish to be tried at Hillsville, according to Judge N. P. Oglesby, former judge of the Circuit court of Carroll county, and now attorney for the members of the clan in the Roanoke jail. Judge Oglesby says that he advised them to be tried in their home county and that they decided that it would be best. Judge Staples has not yet acted on petition for change of venue. Judge Oglesby estimates that the trial, which begins April 23, will last 30 days.

Daring Bank Robbery Committed at Hillsboro

North Carolina Institution Victimized by Professional Desperadoes to the Extent of $5,000. Take Their Leave While the Citizens Quietly Sleep.

Yeggmen Successfully Handle Nitro-Glycerine

HILLSBORO, N. C., April 12.—One of the boldest bank robberies that has occurred in North Carolina in many a day was enacted here some time last night or early this morning when the yeggmen slipped into town, forced an entrance to the Bank of Orange and with nitro-glycerine blew the vault and inner doors and took from the institution between $4,000 and $5,000 in gold and currency. The bank vault was swept practically clean, of money, the robbers leaving behind only a few $20 bills and some small silver. Bank papers were not disturbed.

The first intimation that Hillsboro had been visited during the night by yeggmen came when the janitor of the building went to the bank at 6:30 this morning to clean up. He found the door open and the vault door blown from its hinges. He promptly notified Cashier P. C. Collins, who hurried to the bank and found that the vault had been robbed of its valuables. The bank carried burglar insurance and the companies were promptly notified. An agent is expected here at once to make an examination and until that

MANY PEOPLE ARE KILLED

SUDDEN ERUPTION OF VOLCANOE

WHOLE VILLAGES ARE SWEEPED AS VOLCANOE THROWS STREAMS OF ROCKS AND LAVA

MOBILE, Ala., April 12.—Thousands of persons have been killed and whole Indian villages swept away by the eruption of Chiriqui Peak, near Bocas Del Torro, in Honduras, according to the story of Captain Olsvik, of the United Fruit steamer Fort Morgan, which arrived here today.

This is the first time this mountain ever was known to be active. The flames shot very high and the smoke and ashes were blown far out to sea. The property loss is reported to be heavy.

Captain Olsvik, of the Fort Morgan, in describing the scene, says that it was the most terrifying imaginable. The sea was torn up and islands thrown up where once there had been deep water.

It is reported that the shock of the eruption is being felt at Culebra Cut, Panama Canal, and men on the Fort Morgan say that the water in the cut, according to reports reaching Bocas, has risen two feet within the past few days. This is attributed, they say, to the volcanic action.

Boston to Weigh Its Beans.

BOSTON, Mass., April 13.—Fifty thousand dry measures used by retail grocers and provision dealers throughout Massachusetts were thrown into discard today as a result of the new State law coming into operation which requires that all vegetables, nuts and fruit must either be sold at retail by weight or numerical count. The law further stipulates the number of pounds to the bushel of the various commodities, ranging from beans to peanuts. The state weights and measures department is arranging for a strict enforcement of the law.

A Historic Baseball Park.

BOSTON, Mass., April 13.—The opening of the National League season in Boston this week ushered in the forty-fifth consecutive season on the historic South End grounds. The National League plant in this city is the oldest professional baseball park in the world. Championships were won there in 1872, 1873, 1874, and 1875. Not a game was lost on the grounds in 1875, a record never paralleled in the history of the game. Pennants were also won in 1877, 1878, 1891, 1892, 1893, 1897 and 1898.

Bishop Harkin's Jubilee.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 13.—Bishop Harkin's twenty-fifth anniversary as head of the Providence diocese will occur tomorrow, and arrangements are being made to celebrate the event with elaborate services in the Cathedral of St. Peter and Paul. The religious observance will be followed on Monday by a celebration of the laity. Bishop Harkin's is in receipt of a congratulatory message from Pope Pius, V., conveying the papal blessing to the bishop, his clergy and his people.

Political Headquarters In Raleigh

Headquarters for all Three Senatorial Aspirants Will be Located in Raleigh. Chief Justice Clark has Not yet Announced His Manager.

Governor Kitchin's campaign headquarters, starting from today, will be in the Yarrowood Hotel, Mr. Frank R. McNinch having moved his force here. Those assisting Mr. McNinch will be Messrs. Alex Stronach and James Keelin.

Senator Simmons will have his headquarters in Raleigh and they will be in charge temporarily of Mr. A. D. Watts, who is en route here from Washington.

The headquarters of Chief Justice Clark are also in Raleigh. A campaign manager has not been chosen yet.

With three managerial bureaus going at one time there should be no lack of politics in the capital this summer.

Two Irresistible Measures

The bill repelling the tax on sugar, which will reduce the price to the consumer two cents a pound if the measure is enacted into law and the bill to place a tax on all incomes in excess of $5,000 a year, are two of the most important measures passed by the House of Representatives in the last 25 years.

These sister bills, conceived and framed by Democratic committees, were so good, in fact, that 80 Republicans were forced to vote for them. "Forced to vote for them" is the correct expression, because the Republicans refused steadfastly when in power to pass such legislation, or even to consider it, but when the Democrats forced them to vote one way or the other, they were afraid to vote against either bill lest their constituents retire them to private life.

STRAIGHT FROM THE CAPITOL

Reflectors' Weekly Special Letter on Politics and Other Matters of Interest.

TARIFF IS DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The impression is steadily gaining ground that the Democratic excise-income tax which proposes to place upon wealth a part of the burden of sustaining the government, will pass the Senate and the White House. Senator Penrose who pretends to be the leader of the Standpatters in the Senate, has made the statement that none of the Democratic bills would be allowed to pass the senate, but it is becoming more and more apparent that Senator Penrose and those who believe as he does no longer have the power to allow certain measures to pass, or prevent others from passing.

The truth is, a great many of the senators, on both sides of the chamber either because they are at last frightened by the wave of protest against the high tariff injustice, or because they believe in the inherent justice of the income tax measure have come to look favorably on the measure. At last there has been a cessation of the talk about the unconstitutionality of the bill and since this has always been the standpat way of opposing all logical measures, the sign is considered a good one. Nobody pretends to know, of course, what President Taft will do in the event the bill passes the senate and reaches him, but from the amount of popular approval that has been accorded the measure, it is admitted by even the friends of the president that a veto for his measure will mean political suicide for him.

The present tariff law raises about $330,000,000 a year in government revenue (Continued on Page 4).

Initial Interstate Ball Game

First of Interstate Struggles Takes Place today Between N. C. and Va. Fight on Between Chapel Hill and Charlottesville Universities.

GREENSBORO, April 12.—The eve of the first of the annual spring baseball series between the rival universities of North Carolina and Virginia brought an unusually large advance guard of alumni and rooters of the two universities. Tonight the city is in the hands of the joyous and expectant collegians, while older graduates are stimulating enthusiasm by attendance upon a banquet to visiting alumni, given by former students of the two universities, who make their home here.

The university of Virginia team arrived tonight and the Chapel Hill boys will come early tomorrow. Added interest was given the game tonight by the announcement that Lee would oppose Rixey, the two meeting last year, Lee getting 1 to 0 victories over the Virginian in each instance.

Indications are that all attendance records for a baseball game in this state will be broken. The North Carolina University team will bring 600 rooters from Chapel Hill.

TELL ME WHO YOU WALK WITH AND I'LL TELL YOU WHO YOU ARE.

The wisdom of some of the old proverbs is as long as their age. Take the one we are using for a heading to this article. "Tell me who you walk with and I'll tell you who you are." Nothing puzzling about it. It suggests none of the wisdom derived from magic. In fact it is so simple in its meaning that many is the fond father or mother who has used it after reprimanding a son upon his entering the home with torn trousers and confessing that he did "it" climbing trees with Johnny Smith. Said Johnny Smith being well known is his neighborhood for his propensities to do most things well brought up little fellows will refrain from doing.

This proverb once heard grows with us and keeps us good company through life. It acts like a porous plaster that once applied begins doing good work and which sticks to us for "further orders" as the saying goes. Its effectiveness is miraculous. Haven't you often felt sorry for the young man who approached the toboggan of society as he persisted in keeping company with youths whose principles were not of the law abiding nature? Of course you have; if your heart was in the right place, of course. You may have known the young man in his home, surrounded by parental care and righteous environment. Is it not too bad that all the good preached at home should be neutralized and vanquished by outside influence? For if he would walk with those that may infect him he cannot retain the good derived at home.

Walking is a very healthy form of exercise. Only it may be dangerous by mixing with unfit company.

Lately we have been eagerly and repeatedly invited to walk with someone, but, giving the nature of the company we must refuse the invitation as we feel that walking in that company would not be becoming. Not that we are not democratic enough and broad minded enough to walk with "most anybody, but we must draw the line. Not the color line, though, just simple the "horse-sense" line.

We haven't as yet, forgotten the popularity of the little ballad "For when I walk, I always walk with Billy" but we must keep up with the speedy times and for this reason more recent songs like "Everybody is doing it, doing it!" etc. etc., are up for our attention.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

(From 20 years old up).

"And once upon a time, my dear children, there was a frog who wandered away from the muddy and stinky pond that had been his home. This being a wise frog (at least he thought so himself) on starting on his journey he reared up on his hind legs and undertook to walking man-fashion. He had sometime or another seen this mode of travel and he was not to be mistaken for a lowly creature.

He hopped and hopped and then some. All that hopping brought him to a field of green grass where several cows were grazing. Another hop or two and the frog was directly under one of the quiet bovines.

Now here was something bigger than the frog had ever seen. Why! It was even bigger than a man. The frog decided he no longer wanted to travel or be anything else smaller than the unconsciously admired cow. But how was he to accomplish the metamorphose? Our friend, as we mentioned before was wise (or at least thought himself so) and the idea of blowing suggested itself to him. Well, my children, he blew, blew and continued to blow. For a while he succeeded. He was growing larger. Again he blew harder and harder until he busted. "Is that all? May ask the children. Isn't it enough?"

Not one word would The Reflector utter in disparagement of any of the speeches at the Aycock Memorial meeting in Raleigh Friday night, for they were all seemingly matchless and worthy the great men who delivered them, but it is not amiss to say that the speech of Col. Harry Skinner was the gem of the ocean. Colonel Skinner held different political views from those of ex-Governor Aycock and they had met and crossed swords on the hustings, yet their admiration each for the other was steadfast. In his tribute Colonel Skinner beautifully portrayed the dominant characteristics that made the lamented Aycock the great man that he was and that caused the people of the state to love him so devotedly. We will give his speech to our readers in an early issue of this paper.

In Raleigh Friday afternoon we dropped into the office of the News and Observer and were glad to find Editor Josephus Daniels back at his desk again, after having been in a hospital several weeks for an operation. His legion of friends rejoice that he is getting his health back.

It was with a feeling of keen pride that those of his home people who were present beheld the expressions of love and veneration from the people from all sections of the state for ex-Gov. T. J. Jarvis as he presided over the Aycock memorial meeting in Raleigh Friday night. He is truly the greatest citizen and everybody regards "the grand old man" with a heart full of love.

Even a love match may have its flareups.

Never exaggerate your faults; your friends will do that.

Many an indolent lawyer is only too glad to work with a will.

The man who hesitates may win by watching others lose.

Many a leading man has a large following—all bill collectors.

If G. Washington was never asked by a fond mother what he thought of her cute baby, then it may be true that he never told a lie.

The number of persons employed in the coal mines of the United Kingdom is 1,067,213, while the output of coal for 1911 was 271,878,224 tons, as compared with 417,588 tons in 1910. The number of underground workers in Great Britain is 863, 512 including 112,200 in Scotland.

Reclaim The Swamp Land

The National Drainage Congress, which opens Wednesday at New Orleans, is of interest to the entire country and practically, to Georgia and the South, for it is farmers and the property holders of this section who will be most directly benefitted when the Congress achieves its purpose.

Scattered through the South, and in other parts of the Union as well, are millions of acres of land now practically worthless to the state in which they lie and their individual owners. They are either swamps or subject to frequent overflows from adjacent rivers. They are not valueless, but in most instances they are a positive menace to the health of the surrounding community.

It is the object of the Drainage Congress to reclaim such lands and through the use of methods known to engineering science and thoroughly proved to convert them into inhabitable and productive farms. When this is done, lands that today are worthless will be among the most desirable in all the country and what is now a heavy liability to the state and the people will become a golden asset.

Swamp and overflow lands are naturally the most fertile to be found. They are the treasuries of long ages of rich deposits. The rivers and the drying forests have bequeathed to this soil their fattest bounties. It needs only to be made arable to become wondrously productive.

The work of reclaiming swamps and overflow lands, however, is not to be lightly undertaken. True, the individual county or district can accomplish much through its own energy and resources. But this task, if pressed to its due proportion, requires the aid of the federal government. To secure such aid is one of the chief purposes of the Congress now in session at New Orleans. Assembled at that convention are delegates from every quarter of the South and the United States. Each of them will return home to work, under a cooperative plan, first to arouse popular interest in the cause of drainage itself, and then to organize this interest toward the benefit end of securing state and national appropriations. In this way, the reclamation movement will become specific in its methods as well as far-reaching in its design.

Georgia is ably represented at the Congress by a number of public-spirited men, headed by State Geologist McCallie and Mr. L. P. Akin, president of the state Drainage association. No commonwealth of the Union has greater cause to be interested in the success of the movement, for, with the single exception of Florida, Georgia has a larger area of Swamp land than any other state on the Atlantic coast. It is much to be hoped that through the New Orleans meeting liberal appropriations may be obtained both from the national and the state governments.—Atlanta Journal.

INTERESTING MURDER TRIAL.

Woman to be Tried for the Murder of Her Husband.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 13.—The case of Mrs. Jane Quinn, which is scheduled to be called for trial at the Cook county criminal court, Monday, is attracting more than ordinary interest owing to th many peculiar features it presents. Mrs. Quinn is charged with the murder of her third husband, John M. Quinn, who was killed by a pistol shot while in bed on the morning of November 2, 1911. Since the arrest on suspicion of Mrs. Quinn, a short-time after the death of her husband, the authorities have collected a great mass of evidence concerning not only the present case against the woman but the whole past history of the accused, which contains many points of sinister aspect.

John M. Quinn was a street railway employe in Kalamazoo, Mich., when he met and shortly after married the woman now charged with his murder. Her former, second, husband, Warren Thorpe, a wealthy farmer near Jackson, Mich., according to her statement, had committed suicide by shooting himself in June, 1903. After her marriage to Quinn she kept a boarding house in Kalamazoo for a while, but soon she removed with her husband to Chicago, where they located in the Kensington district on South Michigan avenue, near 110th street. On the morning of Quinn's death Mrs. Quinn reported to the police that he had been robbed and killed by a burglar, with whom she alleged to have had an encounter.

Detectives visited and searched the house shortly after the murder and found hidden behind the bath tub and wrapped in a piece of cotton cloth a revolver with one empty and several loaded shells, the calibre of which corresponded with the size of the bullet found in Quinn's breast. It was ascertained that the revolver was the property of J. W. Miller, a roomer in the house of the Quinns. Miller testified during the inquest that a day or so before the murder he missed the revolver which he always kept in his bureau drawer. He spoke to Mrs. Quinn about it and she requested him not to say anything about it to her husband. She offered to pay him for the revolver, in case it should not be found again. Mrs. Quinn was arrested on suspicion and after the coroner's jury had given a formal verdict charging her with having shot her husband, she was taken to the Hyde Park police station. Later she was indicted by the grand jury and her case set for next Monday.

The history of Mrs. Quinn, as ascertained by the efforts of the police and as it will be presented at the trial, was replete with tragedy. Mrs. Quinn was formerly Jennie Taylor and it is believed was born in London, Ont. She was a handsome and unusually attractive girl and had many suitors. She entered upon her first recorded matrimonial venture on October 23, 1883, when she married John McDonald, a wealthy resident of London, Ont. After a few years McDonald and his wife removed to Jackson, Mich., where a daughter, Pearl McDonald, was born to them. While living in Jackson, Mrs. McDonald frequently visited her sister, Mrs. Alice Sparks, who was house keeper for Warren Thorpe, a wealthy farmer near Jackson. She met Thorpe, who became quite fascinated by the handsome Mrs. McDonald.

To Open New Railroad.
PITTSBURG, Pa., April 13.—Tomorrow is the date fixed for the opening to traffic of the new connecting line between the Pittsburg and Lake Erie and Western Maryland railroads. The line is eighty-four miles long and has been built at a cost of nearly $25,000,000. The connection with the Western Maryland road is made at Cumberland, Md., and with the Pittsburg and Lake Erie at Dickerson Run, Pa. The new line gives Pittsburg a new outlet to the seaboard and a most direct route between Baltimore and Chicago. It will also open up great coal and timber fields along the Youghiogheny river.

venue. And for every dollar of revenue turned into the United States treasury, it is estimated that Democratic members in congress, who have studied the question from every possible angle that the tariff barons put five into their own pockets in the form of loot. In other words, the tariff gives these-beneficiaries the right to collect five dollars in tribute for every dollar the government collects in revenue.

This condition is alone responsible for the hords of mushroom millionaires in this country. On every hand the people pay tribute.

In the past the tariff barons have urged a tariff for two principle reasons. First, they pretended that they wanted to protect American laboringmen. That this argument, the Republican protectionists listened to with willing ear for the past 16 years, is a farce, pure and simple, has been proven by the Democrats at this session of Congress, chiefly through the various investigations into trust methods. Secondly, the trusts urged that in no other way could revenue to support the government be collected.

Having disposed of the first argument, the Democrats, through the excise-income tax bill, have offered a solution for the other alleged difficulty. The Democratic party believes there is another way to meet the expenses of government, and that that way lies through an income tax. And on the merits of that belief the party is going to ask for national support next November.
