BUSY TERM FOR CRIMINAL COURT

Many Witnesses Will be in Evidence Throughout the Following Two Weeks. Blind Tiger Cases A-plenty
2 MURDER TRIALS ON THE DOCKET

The April criminal term of Pitt superior court opened this morning with Judge M. H. Justice presiding and Solicitor C. L. Abernathy prosecuting for the state.

The grand jury for the term is composed of the following: C. W. Harvey, foreman, Z. W. Brown, J. M. C. Nelson, William House, A. O. Clark, O. L. Joyner, Charles Aldrich, L. H. Stokes, John E. King, L. S. Barnhill, J. E. Lang, W. A. Bryan, S. F. Nobles, F. O. Stokes, W. J. Kittrell, J. A. Tripp, C. S. Forbes, R. L. Jefferson.

The charge of Judge Justice to the grand jury was an excellent one and listened to with much interest. In a general way he covered main points of law necessary to be called to the attention of the grand jury of inquest and outlined their duties clearly.

In speaking of the deterrent effect the certainty of punishment has upon violators of the law, Judge Justice referred to conditions existing under the present prohibition law. He said that notwithstanding the people of North Carolina said by a majority exceeding forty thousand that liquor should not be sold in the state, there are yet men in the state who want to set the law at naught and sell liquor for gain. Some are foolish enough to say the prohibition law has done no good, but no stronger evidence than the records of the courts is needed to show that the law has done good.

The bad effects of perjury was also pointed out by the judge and he said none but weaklings would dare make this violation against justice. He showed how this evil can be readily detected, especially under careful cross examination of witnesses.

In speaking of lynching, he said suppose there should be such an occurrence in Pitt county, it would in effect be the people of the county advertising to the world that they had no faith in the ability of their fellow citizens who compose the jury to render a just verdict, nor confidence in the court to render justice.

Judge Justice said he understood that Pitt county had a stock law and some people were cutting the fence. Here he told of conditions in his own county. A stock law was established there, at first it made some people mad and the fence was cut. Conditions have righted themselves and today some of those who first opposed the stock law are among its strongest advocates, having seen that it is the best thing for them. He commended this to those in Pitt county who through opposition to the stock-law are showing their anger in lawlessness.

We can refer to only a few things mentioned in the splendid charge. Before closing Judge Justice complimented the people of Pitt county upon having built such a handsome court house and said it should so fill every one with pride as to cause him to do his part toward keeping it beautiful and cleanly.

Hon. H. S. Ward Speaks on Chief Clark's Candidacy

Introduced by Mr. C. C. Daniels of Wilson. Courthouse Filled to Overflowing.

As previously announced Hon. H. S. Ward journeyed today from Washington to address Pitt Countians on the subject of Chief Justice Walter Clark's United States Senatorial candidacy.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. C. C. Daniels of Wilson, who up to the death of Mr. C. B. Aycock had been a warm supporter of the lamented Governor. In introducing the speaker, Mr. Daniel mentioned that after the death of Aycock, he saw only one man in the field able to represent the Democratic party in the Senate and that the man was Clark.

Hon. H. S. Ward began his speech declaring that he was not there to show either Simmon's or Kitchin's record. These gentlemen had done enough along this line to tell the people of the Old North State where and how they had erred. The speaker argued that North Carolina wanted a bigger interpretation of the word Democrat and said that many a good man may call himself a Democrat and yet be as far away from the party as a true Republican is in opposition to a true Democrat. That a man should call himself a Democrat meant very little in these times when any man can have the privilege of appointing himself to a party. The important thing being, from their other point of view to find out if the man was in perfect accordance with the party with which he was affiliated.

The speaker stressed the point that not since 1892 had the Democratic party been in as dangerous a position as just now and that no amount of careful research by the voters would be superfluous in finding out what right did each candidate have to a place in the Senate. Much oil had been already thrown out to quiten the troubled waters of Democracy, but unfortunately the brand used up to now had been of an undesirable kind. (Meaning the standard oil) and that he was in favor of using a further supply of the liquid, but radically changing the brand. For that reason he was here today to speak on behalf of the man who represents the best kind. That man being Chief Justice Walter Clark. Hon. Ward touched lightly several characteristic decisions of the Chief Justice. Decisions that speak in loud words for the respect Judge Clark has for the people of the North State. Decisions that qualify him beyond doubt to the post he is seeking.

The speaker was most eloquent throughout and impressed his audience at every stage of the speech. His brilliant quotations from the Book and their clever linking to present conditions in the world of politics calling forth the applause of his audience. He spoke for nearly an hour and a half and in closing was warmly applauded.

Titanic Inquiry Continued To-day

Director Ismay and Operator Bride Questioned Regarding Disaster.

BRIDE ON VERGE OF COLLAPSE AS HE FINISHED TESTIMONY

NEW YORK, April 20.—With dramatic suddenness the senate investigation of the Titanic disaster came to an end today, as far as the New York hearing was concerned. It will be resumed, however, in Washington on Monday, when J. Bruce Ismay and P. A. S. Franklin, the chief officers of the White Star Line, and more than a score of officers and crew of the sunken vessel will appear before the committee. Incident to the sudden close of the hearing here was the story of Harold S. Bride, the second and only surviving wireless operator of the Titanic. His tale was one of suffering and of death. He told of the final plunge of the vessel to its ocean burial. It's captain's end was also revealed. Captain Smith leaped from the bridge when the waters were closink over the Titanic.

In connection with the transfer of the hearing to Washington it was intimated that the power of the senate of federal territory would be undisputed in getting at the real facts and no question of state's rights could arise to interfere. Throughout the hearing, also, officials of the White Star line had portrayed the dangers of sailors boarding houses in New York as a reason why those detained by the committee should be allowed to sail on the Lapland, which left today.

Throughout the hearing this morning, wireless operator Bride, crippled as a result of his experiences, and seated in an invalid's chair told his story of the last moments of the Titanic. His narrative, drawn from him piecemeal by Senator Smith of Michigan, chairman of the committee, held enthralled the committee and the audience. When his ordeal ended he was almost on the verge of collapse.

McKay-Bennett Recovers 64 Bodies.
ST. JOHNS, N. F., April 21.—Sixty-four bodies have been recovered by the Cable steamer McKay-Bennett, which has been searching the vicinity of the Titanic disaster, according to a report that reached this city tonight.

It is said a number of bodies which were recovered were sunk again, as they were without marks of identification. The names of those identified could not be obtained through the Cape Race wireless station.

The 64 bodies recovered are regarded as identifiable, according to the report. Those that were sunk were presumably in a condition making preservation impossible.

Wells and McFarland.
NEW YORK, April 22.—The ten-round bout between Matt Wells, the English champion and Packey McFarland of Chicago at the new Garden Athletic Club next Friday night, is the big event of the week for local boxing enthusiasts. Efforts to bring Wells and McFarland in the ring have been making for a long time. They have agreed to make 135 pounds at 3 o'clock of the afternoon of the contest. Wells is to get 50 per cent of the gross gate and moving-picture receipts, of which sum McFarland is to receive $10,000 for his share. The fight will be the first pulled off under the auspices of the Garden Athletic Club which has taken a year's lease of Madison Square Garden.

Montana Retail Merchants Meet.
BOEMAN, Mont., April 22.—Several hundred retail merchants from various parts of the state were in attendance when the two day's annual meeting of the Montana Retail Merchants Association was opened here today. The report of President F. M. Lockman, of Minnesota, which was read at the opening meeting, showed a prosperous condition of the association. Several important questions affecting merchants in this state are to be considered at this meeting, with a view of obtaining certain necessary legislation.

T. R. and Wilson Triumph in Oregon

Primaries Favor the New Jersey Governor and Ex-President Roosevelt.

NEVER IN DOUBT AS TO SUCCESS OF REPRESENTATIVES

PORTLAND, Ore., April 20.—The net results of yesterday's Republican and Democratic primaries in Oregon appeared tonight to be as follows:

Theodore Roosevelt is the preference of the Republican party in Oregon for President and indications are that Woodrow Wilson is the Democratic preference. General Felling, of Portland, is the Republican nominee for the senatorial candidacy, but it could not be told tonight whether Dr. Harry Lane, of Portland, or O. P. Coshow, of Roseburg, would be the Democratic nominee.

W. S. Hawley, incumbent in the First Congressional District and A. W. Fafferty, incumbent in the Third District, have received the Republican nomination for representatives in Congress. The Democrats had no candidates in these districts.

In the Second District N. J. Sinnott, of Dallas, probably will be the Republican nominee. No returns have been received to determine who won the Democratic nomination in the Second District.

Big Textile Show in Boston.
BOSTON, Mass., April 22.—The third national exhibition of textile machinery, mill supplies and general textile products under the auspices of the Textile Exhibitors Association opened here today at the Mechanics' building and will remain open through the entire week. Every process of manufacture is shown and a special department is devoted to power machinery and appliances for the generation and transmission of power for mills and factories. The exhibition has attracted textile men from all parts of New England and from many mill centers outside of New England. During the week several important organizations, among them the Master Mechanics Association of America, the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, the American Cotton Manufacturers Association and the Knit Goods Manufacturers, will hold their meetings here.

YOU CAN DRIVE A FINE CAMBRIC NEEDLE THROUGH A COPPER CENT.

By Mr. Artur Brisbane and reprinted with his permission.

If you take a fine cambric needle, the very small kind, much finer than the usual needle and place the needle point on a copper cent, it will seem at first unbelievable that you could possibly drive the cambric needle through the copper cent. But you can do it.

If you held the needle between your thumb and finger, putting the point on the copper cent and hammered the top of the needle with a hammer, of course you would break the needle.

The trick is not done in that way.

A cambric needle, to be driven through a copper cent, needs the right kind of support, the right kind of surroundings.

This is how the trick is done with the needle and copper cent.

You take your cambric needle, and put it lengthwise through the middle of a cork, equal in length to the needle.

Then you put the needle and the cork with the point of the needle downward on the copper cent.

You take an ordinary hammer and you strike a good smart blow on the top of the needle and cork and you will find that you have driven your cambric needle through the copper cent.

Try it; it will be interesting to the children and interesting to you.

After you have tried it, think about it and ask yourself what it means.

It means several things.

First of all and most important, it illustrates to us the value of the right kind of surroundings.

Men argue for years at a time about heredity and environment.

They want to know whether a child depends chiefly on equalities inherited from a father and mother or on the influences that surround the child in youth.

Replies are usually unsatisfactory. When you have a cambric needle, and when you include in its destiny a violent passage through a copper cent, you very soon find out that heredity and environment are both very important.

The heredity of the needle, the mother and father of the needle, you will find in the iron from which it comes and in the process to which that iron was submitted, making it into steel, before the needle was born.

The needle for its strength, the sharpness of its point, the quality of its metal, depends upon the father and mother the steel ingot, the ore in the ground, the flame that melted the ore, etc.

But given the best kind of father and mother in the shape of steel and fire and given even the best kind of an education which means the pointing of the needle, the needle can't do this work, it can't go through the copper cent, unless it has the right surroundings.

It needs to be supported, it needs to be upheld. It needs to be placed right in the world.

When you put the needle in the right surroundings, it will go through the copper cent. If you don't, and if you hit it, you will break the needle, hurt your finger, perhaps knock the point into your eye.

This is how it is with children.

From their fathers and their mothers they get their quality and from thousands of fathers and mothers reaching back of them. And you never can put into the child anything that he didn't have the minute he was born—and perhaps the second he was created.

But you can bring out of him that which he has in him and you must give the right education and surroundings to develop his power.

You can't make a sharp cambric needle out of a piece of lead, try as you will. For that is lead, not steel.

You can't make a great human genius out of a dull child—for that is a dull child, not a genius.

But if you had forty thousand geniuses, you couldn't get much out of them unless you gave them an education—that is the sharpening of the needle. And even with the heredity and the education they couldn't do their best without the right surroundings.

What would Voltaire have amounted to in the Congo if he had been born there? He wouldn't have lived, to begin with, and if he had lived, he probably would have eked out a precarious existence, pretending that he was a rain doctor.

You couldn't have done much with Edison if he had been born among the Esquimaux—he couldn't make an electric system or an electric light out of ice.

Try the trick with the cambric needle and teach your children—and teach yourself—the importance of heredity, education and environment.

Most important to the child is its heredity—its father and mother.

Almost as important as the intellectual and physical qualities of the father and mother is the intensity of their affection and the greatness of their respect for each other.

The mother's respect for the father has a deep influence upon a child and its intellectual power.

When the mother venerates the father of her child she gives to that child a power that no other child possesses.

This you see over and over in history, studying the careers of remarkable children, born of humble mothers and exalted fathers, to whom the mother looked up in reverence.

The greatest painter, with one exception, Leonardo, was the son of an educated man and of an humble peasant woman. The father had other sons by another mother, but no other Leonardo.

The mother of William the Conqueror was the daughter of a tanner. She was washing clothes in a brook when the Duke of Normandy first saw her. Her son took the intelligence of France to England and established a great nation.

The rarest thing in the world is the transmission of a great man's genius to the son of that man.

The son of Filippo Lippi is the only instance in the world of art.

Filippo painted a picture of the Madonna, using as his model a young girl student in a convent. She looked up to him as a rather superior being. She married him and gave him a son as great as his father.

Good health in the mother and good principles, and in the father qualities that earn the mother's respect and permanent affection—those are great-

What It Will Be In Ten Years.

If the people of North Carolina could only have the curtain pulled back and see what we will be in ten years from this time, there would be an optimism that would make every man get busy and put his shoulder to the wheel.

The Charlotte Observer of this morning carries a story of an interview with R. H. Edwards, of the manufacturers' Record, telling of the immense amount of money being spent in the development of water power in the South. Mr. Edwards says:

"The companies organized within the last six months to develop water-powers throughout the south, not including any undertakings in operation prior to six months ago, have an aggregate capital of over $200,000,000, and represent ultimate projected developments of about 1,500,000 horsepower.

"A Georgia company, which is now developing about 100,000 horsepower, has a capitalization of $57,000,000, and controls waterpowers, which when fully improved will aggregate about 400,000 horsepower.

"An Alabama company organized a few weeks ago with $55,000,000 capitalization has been financed by several of the leading banking houses of London, in connection with some strong financial interests in Canada. I understood that the bond issue of this company, $10,000,000, covering the first power-plant to be constructed, put out through Parr's Bank Ltd., of London was largely over-subscribed.

"New York bankers in connection with some big operators in Chicago, brought out, ten days ago, an $18,000,000 issue of securities covering street railway in Nashville and Chattanooga, and waterpower enterprises already completed and some water-power sites to be immediately developed, which was about three times over-subscribed. Pittsburg bankers have just organized a $25,000,000 company to develop waterpowers in West Virginia for the purpose of operating electric railroads in Pennsylvania; while Chicago people, in connection with New York bankers, are at work constructing power plants in southwest Virginia to have an aggregate of 100,000 horsepower to be used very largely in operating coal mines, most of the people to be utilized being in the heart of the Pocahontas coal region.

"The $55,000,000 Alabama company has secured powers capable of generating about 400,000 horsepower. In connection with the work of that company, the American Cyanamid Company, which now has a plant at Niagara, making nitrates from the atmosphere for the manufacture of fertilizers, expects to build a similar plant in North Alabama."

With development of this power must come consequent development of industrial plants. Having become interested in the production of power, these same capitals must naturally become interested in the construction of manufacturing plants to consume and use this power. Again with this cheap power the south must be the center of the nation's manufacture. As the gold minds of the West draw thousands of prospectors, so the development of hydro-electric power will bring to the south thousands of manufacturing plants.

With the largest and most conservative financiers of the world turning their attention to the south and investing their money, it is natural to suppose that they will not stop with this maiden investment.

As we see it, the future of the south is a glorious one, a future that is not dreamed of or thought of by the average man.

We feel that in the wonderful outlook before that Durham will have her share in the progress and development that will take place. We believe that the census of 1920 will give Durham fifty or seventy-five thousand population. We believe that Durham is on the eve of the most wonderful industrial and commercial development she has ever known; we believe Durham will lead the state in this great forward movement, and work of development.

Today we have a great big overgrown town, with few of our people realizing that we have a good sized city. We've got to wake up and look around us to see how we are growing. Good things are coming our way, and let us get ready for them.

est assets in the possession of the new-born child.

But no child was ever born that could not be utterly ruined and destroyed by bad surroundings—and the greater the original power the greater the ruin when it comes.

The child was never born of man and woman that would not have been made a thief planted among thieves, or cannibal living among cannibals.

Very great indeed is the exception in the case of the child born to wealth and the life of a parasite that escapes such deadening influences.

Give your child opportunity before birth by wise marriage and such devoting to the mother as will earn her respect.

And having given the child as good heredity of education, intelligent, affectionate direction—and you will have done your best to add one well-developed atom to a humanity destined one day to be civilized.

A gentleman from another town who reads quite a number of newspapers, was kind enough to say to the editor the other day that in character The Reflector is the cleanest paper that goes to his home. This praise coming from the source it did is greatly appreciated.

scorned to care
That moaning waves' complaining still us there
Against the din of earth's incessant band.

Oh, vast eternity, thou roaring sea,
Which through both day and darkness calleth on—
Oh, noisy time, which babbleth constantly
In earthly clamoring from sun to sun—
What if hushed by ye twain, they silenced be,
If two, together faring, walk as one?
—Ruth McEnery Stuart.

PERSONALS

Mr. S. J. Everett returned Sunday evening from a visit to his father near Oak City.

Mrs. W. F. Clark, of Washington, came up Sunday afternoon to visit Mrs. W. M. Moore.

Mr. Julius Brown spent Sunday in Bethel.

Mr. Powell and little son and Miss Emily Jenkins of Wilson, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jenkins.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Hitch, of Hobbins, spent Sunday here with Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Clark and left this morning.

Miss Evelyn Barnhill came in Sunday evening from Bethel, where she has been for the past week nursing Dr. F. C. James. She will leave this afternoon for Raleigh to resume her studies as trained nurse.

Misses Rena and Stella Vincent, from near Winterville, are visiting Miss Lula Vincent.

Messrs. C. C. Daniels of Wilson, H. S. Ward of Washington, and E. M. Cox of Farmville are visiting attorneys here at court.

Mr. A. M. Rea, of New Bern, came in this morning to be official stenographer at this term of court.

Rain, shine, hail or snow, The Elopement of Ellen comes off tonight at the Training School at 8:30. If Ellen can elope in the rain surely you can come through the rain to see her elope.

The dress rehearsal of The Elopement of Ellen on Saturday evening was exceptionally good. The actors showed real dramatic feeling and the stage was beautiful in each scene. The whole play shows that Miss Muffy, as coach, has put forth her best efforts.

The representatives from the clubs to the city council of Greenville are requested to meet at the court house Wednesday at 5 p. m.

MRS. T. M. MEADE,
Sec. Civic League.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Court week.
"Elopement of Ellen" at the Training school tonight.

Sharon Masonic Lodge meets tonight.
Get yourself ready to take some shares in the next building and loan series.

Come in and pay your subscriptions. The April showers are doing the work for vegetation.

The "set hook" fishermen are catching lots of catfish, some of them very large.

Call by The Reflector office and see those scissors.

The farmers have commenced setting out tobacco plants. The season is fine for it.

The ladies of the Round Table will meet with Mrs. C. T. Munford Tuesday afternoon at 3:30.

District Conference.

The quarterly conference of the Washington district will meet with the Methodist church in Bethel Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. The introductory sermon will be preached at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning by Rev. E. M. Hoyle, of Greenville. The delegates from Jarvis Memorial church to the conference are Messrs. T. J. Jarvis, F. R. Stretch, D. D. Haskett and Charles Cobb.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. A. Mitchell announces the engagement of her daughter, Hazel, to Mr. E. Vernon Ferrell. The wedding will take place in June.

Miss Mitchell is well known in Kinston social circles and is a very attractive and popular member of society. Mr. Ferrell is from Winston-Salem and came to this city early last tobacco season to represent the American Tobacco Company on the local market. He is very favorably known both in this state and Kentucky.—Kinston Free Press.

Mr. Ferrell is a brother of our townsman, Mr. J. W. Ferrell and is well known here.

Shivers Hill School Closed.

The public school at Shivers Hill, near Falkland closed Friday. There were no public exercises, but there was a basket picnic by the neighborhood. Many of the parents and friends were present. The dinner was all that could be desired and fully enjoyed. After dinner the young people indulged in the pleasure of dancing, the music being furnished by a string band.

The school was taught by Misses Lucy and Nannie Moore, who are very popular teachers. The enrollment numbers about fifty. The school building has two rooms and a library. The term of the school is one of the largest in the country and the fund is sometimes supplemented by private subscriptions.

REIDSVILLE.—The city commissioners have placed an order for pipe to be used in the construction of a new pipe line to Haw river, from which the city will be furnished with water. The contract has not been awarded for the construction of the new water plant, but the purchase of the piping was made in order that the work could be more rapidly completed.

A. B. WHITE DIES SUDDENLY.

Well Known Man and Head of Estimable Family Stricken on Street.

Death came suddenly last night to A. B. White, a well known and long time resident of Greensboro and head of one of the city's most estimable families. A disease of the heart was assigned as the cause of the quick summons, the deceased having suffered for several years from this cause. It was announced last night that the funeral service would be held Monday morning from the residence of O. L. Grubbs, Schenck street, a son-in-law of the deceased and at whose home the body now rests.

The news of Mr. White's sudden death spread quickly over the city and to relatives and friends it caused a distinct shock. He was stricken on East Washington street, placed quickly in an ambulance and hurried to the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Grubbs, where medical aid had been summoned. He died a few minutes after being carried to his bed. Members of the family in the city, summoned by telephone arrived after he had breathed his last. A son in Greenville and one in Asheville were notified last night and they will reach here today.

The deceased was about 60 years of age and was a native of Greenville, N. C. In 1875 he married and located in Greensboro, being a conductor on the old Richmond and Danville. A number of years ago he was seriously injured in a wreck at the Yadkin river, though recovered and had since held stationery positions in the local departments of the Southern. He was held in high esteem by both officials and trainman and his bravery was never questioned after the wreck, which came near to costing him his life and left him permanently maimed. As a husband and father he was known to be affectionate, kind and attentive; as a friend loyal and true, and as a man honest, brave and considerate.

Mr. White is survived by a widow and five children, they being: Herbert A. White, of Greenville, N. C.; Norris E. White, Asheville, N. C.; and Hazel M. White, Mrs. J. P. Mine-tree and Mrs. O. L. Grubbs, of Greensboro.—Greensboro News.

Mr. H. A. White left on the early morning Sunday train to be at the funeral of his father. His friends here grieve with him for his loss.

Don't let such a trifle as the weather cheat you out of an evening's entertainment. Pretty stage effects, courting couples and amusing situations are promised at the Training school this evening.

Fertilizing Plant Burns in New Bern

Plant at James City Totally Destroyed by Fire. Damage Estimated at $90,000. Twelve Norfolk Southern Cars are Also Burnt.

NEW BERN, April 22.—A dense pall of smoke still hovers over the ruins of the Virginia-Carolina Fertilizer Company's plant at James City, just across the Trent river from New Bern, which was destroyed by fire at 4 o'clock this morning. That the fire was of incendiary origin there is little doubt. When first discovered by the watchman the smoke was coming through a blow pipe in the boiler room. He hurriedly investigated and found that the flames were confined to a section underneath the big main building. He saw at a glance that it was beyond control of the small fire fighting equipment kept at the mill and at once gave the alarm and began to remove the office fixtures. Twelve freight cars, nine of them loaded with fertilizer, could not be removed and these, together with their contents, were destroyed.

Puts End to Bad Habit.

Things never look bright to one with "the blues" Ten to one the trouble is a sluggish liver, filling the liver with billous poison, that Dr. King's New Life Pills will expel. Try them. Let the joy of feelings end the "blues". Best for stomach, liver and kidneys. 25c. At all druggists.

Somehow a woman never believes a man is a flatterer when he tells her the nice things she has always thought about herself.

ACTUAL STARVATION.

Facts About Indigestion and Its Relief That Should Interest You.

Although indigestion and dyspepsia are so prevalent, most people do not thoroughly understand their cause and cure. There is no reason why most people should not eat anything they desire—if they will only chew it carefully and thoroughly. Many actually starve themselves into sickness through fear of eating every good-looking, good-smelling, and good-tasting food, because it does not agree with them. The best thing to do is to fit yourself to digest any good food.

We believe we can relieve dyspepsia. We are so confident of this fact that we guarantee and promise to supply the medicine free of all cost to every one who will use it, who is not perfectly satisfied with the results which it produces. We exact no promises, and put no one under any obligation whatever. Surely, nothing could be fairer. We are located right here and our reputation should be sufficient assurance of the genuineness of our offer.

We want every one troubled with indigestion or dyspepsia in any form to come to our store and buy a box of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets. Take them before and give them a reasonable trial, according to directions. Then, if not satisfied, come to us and get your money back. They are very pleasant to take; they aid to soothe the irritable stomach, to strengthen and invigorate the digestive organs, and to promote a healthy and natural bowel action, thus leading to perfect and healthy digestion and assimilation.

A 25c. package of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets furnishes 15 days' treatment. In ordinary cases, this is sufficient to produce a cure. In more chronic cases, a longer treatment, of course, is necessary, and depends upon the severity of the trouble. For such cases, we have two larger sizes which sell for 50c. and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies in this community only at our store—The Rexall Store, Moyes' Pharmacy, Greenville, N. C.

Fads and Fancies

NEW YORK, April 22.—Even the most casual observer cannot fail to notice that the Spring season has brought some unmistakable changes in woman's fashions, yet the changes are by no means of a radical nature.

Tailored costumes of a conservative type, for instance, do not show very decided changes of line. A woman may have almost any sort of coat that is most becoming to her and yet not be conspicuously out of style. Generally speaking, however, cutaway lines prevail. Coat fronts sharply cut away from the bust line and revealing chic little waistcoats are favorites with Parisian tailors, but can be successfully worn only by the exceptionally slender women. The cutaway models which are most successful, fasten down to the waist line or little above and are sloped away gradually from there. In this model, too, there is often a waistcoat but it appears above the button line, not below it.

Belted effects are popular in coat suits as in frocks, the belt sometimes encircling the waist, sometimes showing merely in back and front or in the back only. Some soft silk coats actually blouse over the belts. Others are drawn down smoothly, belted in snugly, revealing the waist and hip curves which recent modes so sternly suppressed, and still others fall loose and comparatively straight, their belts being for ornament rather than service.

On the whole, there is more shapeliness, more concession to curves in this season's suit coat than in that of last year, and since frocks also show a tendency to lessen the waist size and admit the existence of a hip curve, it seems likely that a change in corseting is at hand. It will come gradually of course. Women have enjoyed the freedom of the large waist and the uncorseted figure and will be unwilling to give it up. Probably they will never again accept tight lacing in its very strenuous phases, but the modes of this spring both in bodices and skirts are surely blazing a trail to a changed silhouette and the autumn will doubtless bring trimmed waistas, more definite curves and more elaborate skirt draperies. Bedford cords, heavy cord diagonals, whipcords, serges, wool eponges, tweed and various mixtures in light tones are the materials most used for the wool tailored costumes, while for the silk two-piece or three-piece costume taffeta, the dull finished satins, a heavy cord surad of serge, several ribbed silks of bengaline or poplin character and tussor all are available. Many combinations of serge and taffeta and of serge and satin are among the more practical of the three-piece costumes and these materials are combined as much as ever for the one-piece trotting frock. Smart coats and frocks of black taffeta, the upper part of the frock being almost entirely of chiffon or marquisette, promise good summer service. A clever French idea is the braiding of the black silk in biscuit soutache and using for the bodice biscuit chiffon and lace partly veiled by black chiffon.

The biscuit, champagne and kindred shades running down to khaki tones are very successful in all materials from chiffon to tweed and the linen and cotton stuffs in buff and biscuit colorings are particularly attractive. Linens are more than ever popular and he variations upon the one-piece linen frock are numerous. As a rule these frocks are simple and not greatly changed from the models of last season, though the skirts are slightly widened, often by inset, but hardly noticeable plaits.

Linens, like most of the wool tailor suitings, does not lend itself gracefully to the drapery and fulness and the designers have very wisely left the models in these materials to straight lines. Yet even here there are some changes in detail—a longer and more accented waist, a sleeve set into an armhole, or belted effects. Heavy laces trim some of the best looking linens and it is worth noting that they are exceedingly effective imitations of Irish macrame, flet, Cluny, etc., at prices surprisingly moderate.

New York News

NEW YORK, April 22.—There is always something doing in the lower end of Manhattan Island. Even if the stock market is listless and the stock exchange offers no excitement, something else is sure to turn up to furnish at least momentary diversion to the many thousands enlisted in the service of Mammon who daily crowd the narrow streets of the financial district. The building operations on a skyscraper are always more or less interesting and fascinating to the big crowds and there are always two or more in course of erection. Then there are aeroplanes and hydro-aeroplanes which, at different times, do sensational "stunts" in the vicinity of the Battery, offering a welcome spectacle to the gaping multitude crowded in the lower end of the island.

There are other diversions from time to time varied in their character, but always welcome. The latest sensation was supplied by an ambitious former "steepjack," who, craving for exciting sensations, hit upon parachute jumping as an excellent means of providing him not only with the excitement he craved, but also with the notoriety so dear to him. He began with the jump from the top of the statue of Liberty on Bedloe island, but found this too tame, because there were no crowds to cheer him. Next he transferred his activity to the financial district and there he found conditions which appealed to him as ideal and he attempted to jump from several of the finished or unfinished skyscrapers on lower Manhattan, but either the police or the owners of the buildings interfered with his plans. At last he succeeded in making a jump from the 31st floor of the Banker's Trust building on corner of Wall and Nassau streets, landing safely upon the roof of the sub-Treasury building, while the crowd that packed every street in the vicinity cheered him with accolades of his applause-hungry heart.

A scene as gruesome as any depicted by Poe met the eyes of Coroner Hellenstein when he entered an apartment on the second floor of a handsome house on Lenox Ave., to which he had been called by his duty. When he entered the bedroom he was greeted by laughter and incoherent chatter from a young and evidently insane woman who occupied the bed. Sitting on the edge of the bed, with his bowed head supported by his hands and with his elbows resting on his knees, was the form of a man, stiffened in the rigor of death. An examination showed that the man, who proved to be L. G. Parma, a prosperous music teacher who conducted a conservatory on the lower floor of the same house, had been dead for forty-eight hours, silently guarding the young woman.

Should Women Vote.
No one who keeps posted on the great work being done by women in professional and business life, and most important of all, in the American home, can for a moment doubt that they would vote wisely.

If they would only guard the own health as carefully as they do their children's they would accomplish even more.

One woman who knows how necessary it is to stay well is Mrs. Herman of North Birmingham (Ala.). Her daughter, Miss Nona, says in a letter: "We have used Vinol in our family for four years. Whenever my mother gets a bad cold or feels weak and run-down she always uses Vinol and it make her well again. She says Vinol always gives her strength and builds her up."

This delicious cod liver and iron remedy without oil is so certain to cure up chronic coughs and build up weak, rundown, sickly people of all ages, that we sell it under a positive promise to give back your money if Vinol does not satisfy you. Try Vinol. Moyes Pharmacy, Greenville, N. C.
