Gov. W. W. Kitchin Addresses Pitt Countians

Candidate for U. S. Senate Makes Strong Plea For Democracy's Sake -- Reviews Party Records

ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE HEARS ABLE SPEAKER

To a crowded court house of attentive Pitt countians, Gov. W. W. Kitchin spoke this afternoon. Shortly after two o'clock Mr. Albion Dunn introduced him to the audience. Mr. Dunn did not invert a long time in the introduction, but his words covered the ground exactly. The applause was loud when Mr. Dunn referred to the governor as the next U. S. senator from North Carolina. Louder and longer was the applause when the governor himself stood up and commenced his speech.

"Ladies and fellow countrymen," began the governor "I have come to make a political speech" and immediately after the words political speech had been uttered he had jumped in to fulfill the promise. A political speech and a very strong one. It cannot be said that Governor Kitchin's speech at Greenville court house was a repetition of his speech at Raleigh, or the one delivered at Greensboro. Inasmuch as the governor had to refer to record and printed matter which he used in the two other speeches alluded to, his speech today may bear a resemblance to the others, yet it was no repetition.

Beginning with the strong fight Democrats had made for the party and following closely upon the country wide victories won by some of the leaders Gov. Kitchin gradually worked to the real issue of his talk. This is no time to put a barrier to the Democratic successes so strenuously won in the last few years. The time is nearing when the party will cover itself with glory in the election of a Democratic president and surely when the party is coming into its natural being, it seems that the time is ripe to eradicate from the party certain factors that whose interpretation of the principles of the great party are lined with the stains of republican principles. High time indeed that records be studied and people be made acquainted with them in order to properly understand who is truly for the party.

Gov. Kitchin asserted that when in his Raleigh speech he referred to Simmons' records, he did it with a complete assurance of what he was doing was for the good of the party and not as a personal attack upon Senator Simmons. He knew however, that Simmons' friends and supporters would interpret it in that manner, but he was fully satisfied that the meaning of his attack upon Simmons' record would never be misunderstood by real democrats. Were Mr. Simmons' records in accordance with the principles of the democrats, would such men as the late Gov. Aycock or Chief Justice Clark, see any justice in displacing the Senior Senator? Would these men of integrity and truly democratic ideas and principles, oppose a man whose conduct in the senate would really earn for him his renomination? While it is true that Senator Simmons was re-elected without hindrance from the men that now oppose him, the records show that Simmons' discrepancies with his party date only from the time of his re-election? While it is true that to "stick to the party" that sent him there is the cause for present opposition. Never a mere political ambition of the present candidates.

Reading from the Records Gov. Kitchin refreshed the memories of his listeners about the number of times Senator Simmons dissented from the party. He read the names of the men with whom he voted. He reminded his audience of his close alliance with Lorimer and Bailey.

Mr. Kitchin referred to his own record during his long public career. He said that the twelve long years he served North Carolina in Congress he had to fight for re-election many times, yet those that were opposing him never found anything on his records that would have guaranteed his losing, or not continuing to deserve that seat he held.

FLASHES FROM OTHER CLIMES

State Wide Spelling "Bee".

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 11.—Probably one of the most unique educational events ever held in this country will be the state spelling contest to be held in this city next Monday, the opening day of the annual convention of the Missouri association of county superintendents. At last year's meeting of the superintendents the decadence of spelling was generally deplored and the idea of a state spelling "bee" was hit upon to stir up interest in this particular branch of study in the public schools. Every county of Missouri is expected to be represented in the contest by one public school pupil, who must not be further advanced than the eighth grade. The representatives already have been selected in county elimination contests. Each participant in the state competition will be given fifty words to spell orally and another fifty to be written. The winner of the state spelling championship will be given $100 in gold. Smaller cash prizes will be given to the pupils who come out second and third in the competitions.

Fairbanks and the Presidency.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 11.—Charles W. Fairbanks, former United States senator and vice president of the United States, reached his sixtieth birthday anniversary today. Recently a rumor has been circulated that friends of Mr. Fairbanks plan to present his name for the Republican presidential nomination in the event of a deadlock between Taft and Roosevelt in the Chicago convention next month. So far as is known Mr. Fairbanks has done nothing to encourage the idea. Since his retirement from the vice presidency he has refrained from any active participation in politics. At the same time the politicians recall the fact that Mr. Fairbanks had a great ambition to head the ticket four years ago and many believed that this ambition would be instantly rekindled if there appeared to be the slightest chance for its fulfillment. But so far as any outward or visible sign appears, Mr. Fairbanks is far more interested just now in the proceedings of the general conference of Methodists, of which denomination he is one of the foremost laymen in the country, than he is in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Exercises at the Graded School

The work of the children in any community is always of interest to their parents and friends, and last night at the graded school interest ran high. Large numbers of people attended the exercises, crowding the small chapel of the school to its utmost capacity, while scores were unable to gain admission.

The recital was short. It was composed of only three numbers as follows:

- Tarantelle Heller
 - Miss Leota Jenkins
 - Polonaise Militaire Chopin
 - Miss Mavis B. Evans
 - Valse de Juliet Guonod-Roff
 - Miss Mary Lucy Dupree
- After the recital part of the programme was over, the visitors were invited to go to the class-rooms and inspect the exhibits. The teachers had made an effort to display such features of the class work as would best indicate what has actually been done this year, and they succeeded well in their efforts. From the beginners' division of the first grade to the work of the graduating class there was displayed drawings, paper-cuttings, copy-books, themes, maps,

Greenville Fans Turn Out To First "Major League" Game

Home Boys Go Down To Defeat After Five Runs To Their Opponents Naught Up to the Fourth, Want Of Practice Did It

My, but what headache fans gathered yesterday at Moye's Ball Park! Our boys had them going fifty miles an hour through the switchback of excitement to finally dump them in the heap of despair as the Kinston "checkers" finished the eighth inning a good two runs on the lead. A rally took place on the ninth and our own "Burt" tried to make things lively, but had no support and Timberlake and Co., (the company being 8 other Greenville boys who feel kinda sore this p. m.) cashed in one to the bad.

Some fielding of indifferent nature won the day for Kinston. Our team is made of better timber BUT it needs to be placed down a little. "Tim's" entreaties to practice were not heard and the result was 11 to 9. Some time Greenville enthusiastic fans may present Gus Forbes with a touring car; right now all he deserves is a toy balloon and a big one at that. For a little one, he might drop. Features in yesterday's game, outside of the poor fielding and worse pegging, were White's work behind the batters, "Tim's" swift steal home from third, a couple of catches in the outfield, one by Murphy and another one by Fleming, the latter a "beaut" picked right off the fence, and another catch by "Tim" out of the line.

T. C. (Ty Cobb) Burt James must have had Teddy's big stick along as he managed to connect every time he faced Kinston's pitcher, starting the merry procession with a double, "Lipsky" the worthy keeper of the number two sack was "there with the goods".

A great crowd turned out to watch the boys "get it", bleacher and grand stand being packed. Many lady rooters made themselves heard, otherwise than by asking for the franchise. Gate receipts amounted to over $48.00.

Game by innings:
1st. Burt James was sent out to make the opening address and before the pitcher knew what he was doing we had a man on second with "Lipsy" at the bat. A good hit and a good catch got him. Forbes singled and "Burt" took his stand on third. Bowling got up and to first filling the bags. White hit the pill for a single bringing home James and Forbes. "Tim" nabbed at first and White at third with Bowling home. Fleming strikes out. 3 for Greenville.

2nd. Fleming reaches first on balls Ragsdale strikes out. James is first with Fleming pegged out. Lipscomb connects and James takes second. (Continued on 3rd page) examination papers, work in arithmetic, spelling, geography, history, algebra, Latin, English, etc. The work was neat and displayed in an attractive manner. It elicited many expressions of commendation and praise for those who saw it.

Next Monday night is the time for the graduating exercises to take place. The address will be made by Attorney General Thos. W. Bickett. Following is the program:

1. Rondo Capriccioso....Mendelssohn
Miss Annie Leonard Tyson
 2. Polonaise in C sharp minor.....
.....Blumenschein
Miss Hattie A. Whitehurst
 3. Annual Address—Hon. Thos. W. Bickett, Attorney General of North Carolina
 4. Polka de Concert....H. M. Bartlett
Miss Gertrude Critcher
 5. Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2...Liszt
Miss Mavis E. Evans
 6. Presentation of Diplomas and Certificates.
- The speaker will be introduced by the chairman of the board of trustees, Mr. F. C. Harding. The diplomas will be presented by another member of the board, Prof. C. W. Wilson.
- The folding doors to two of the class rooms will be opened thereby enlarging the chapel and making it the second largest auditorium in town. The management hopes to seat all or nearly all who attend. The exercises will begin promptly at eight-thirty o'clock.

WHY WOMEN SHOULD VOTE.

Not to Help Women, But to Help Men. Women Will Improve All Governments, Nullify the Bad Men, Multiply the Good Men by Two.

By Arthur Brisbane and reprinted with his permission.

Whether you believe in women suffrage or not, whether you want to see women vote or not, make up your mind to this:

Women are going to vote. They are going to have their say in the laws that rule them and their children. They are going to add morality, benevolence and kindness to man's governing selfishness and nothing will stop it.

There is a time for each important work. This is the time to work and get the vote for women.

You will hear the subject discussed often in this newspaper. You are invited to join in the discussion. We have talked of votes for women often—but that was only the beginning. We shall succeed in this "votes for women" campaign, as we succeeded in the others. By the help of women.

Our purpose is to interest, first of all, the poorer women.

It is easy for the rich and prosperous "lady" to discuss in a distant, indifferent way her future and her rights. She has comfort, luxury and ease now. Her rights do not really worry her very much, except as an added luxury.

Those especially interested, are the poor women—women whose husbands or fathers earn two dollars a day, or five or ten dollars a day perhaps. They are the women that really pay the cost of government today.

Is not our government a trust government? Are not the real taxes in this country imposed by the trusts?

The man with a little house pays a little tax on that house. And he pays to the government a little tax on his tobacco or his beer, if he uses either, another little tax on his woolen suit. But the government doesn't get the real tax. That goes to the trusts. The real tax laid upon the people, without representation in the taxing body, is made by the trusts.

There is Mr. Rockefeller's tax from the Oil Trust. There is the tax from the Sugar Trust and the Meat Trust and all the other trusts.

Who pays those taxes? The women pay them. They spend the household money, and the trusts raise their incomes by taxes in the household.

The women of the poorer families, the wives of men with four or five hundred dollars a year, or of the lucky man with his three or four thousand dollars a year, they pay the cost of our trust government.

The poorer women pay the taxes; the poorer women should be allowed to vote.

There are hundreds of ways of looking at this question of votes for women and no matter how you look at it, if you respect women, if you had a good mother, a good wife, good daughters and sisters, good women around you, you must work in favor of the vote for women.

Suppose a woman holds stock in a railroad. Is she not allowed to vote like any man, as a stockholder in that railroad?

Is not every woman in America a stockholder in this nation. Do not the women of America create the nation? Will there be anything left of the United States a hundred years from now, except the children created by the women living in the United States?

Is not the nation made up of the people and do not the women create the people? Are they not entitled to an opinion, to cast a vote, in the law-making, in the country governing, in the tax imposing?

You will hear women say that they do not want to vote, they are happy as they are, quite contented. And this is said often by some of the best women, the most intelligent in certain directions, excellent morally.

We would ask them to remember that exactly the same thing was said by the black slaves when abolition was suggested. When there was talk of freeing the slaves many of the very best behaved, most worthy among the slaves, said: "We do not want freedom; we do not want abolition; we are satisfied as we are."

But those very good slaves that wanted to remain slaves realize now that any kind of freedom was better than any kind of slavery.

And to the women, well meaning, satisfied, intelligent, but narrow, we would say and we shall often repeat, that while they may think they are contented in their slavery, once they get freedom, once their moral character is expressed in the country's government, they will find the freedom and the rights of the voter infinitely preferable to peaceful, well dressed, silky slavery.

What Greenville people saw at the graded school Friday night was enough to fill them with pride. They have gone on through the year little dreaming of the splendid progress the pupils of the school were making, but they awoke to a realization of this upon viewing the exhibits made by the different grades. It was a marvelous exhibit that called forth many exclamations of surprise and pleasure. Superintendent H. B. Smith and his excellent assistants in the different grades have done a year of fine work in the school.

WITH OTHER EDITORS

Peculiarly Southern

It seems to be a peculiarity of Southern cities to prefer outside exploiters to home talent and it is so in every city of which we have any knowledge. It seems to apply to Greensboro, for the Record takes occasion to refer to a recent incident as a settled fact that a native of any town may work his best under certain conditions, yet make a dismal failure, while a perfect stranger hits the town he does things up to the queens taste. Some time ago a party of two or three Japs came to Greensboro and opened an art store—a handsome display of vases, antiques, etc. An auction was held every afternoon and evening, the rooms being crowded and what these more or less distinguished men did for the people of this community was quite enough, with some to spare. Ladies were present in large numbers. One illustration the way people can be fooled. A pair of vases exactly like those sold regularly at $30, brought $68. Everything was gobbled up along the same lines. Then, having swept the territory clean, the gentlemen departed for other climes. And as soon as this experience is forgotten others will come along and turn the same trick.

We have seen the same trick worked in Wilmington. A stranger can come along and pull money out of the average citizen when he would not listen to a home man on the same or even a better proposition. Of course not all the propositions sprung by outside talent are fakes. Many of them are perfectly legitimate and worthy of consideration. However, the stranger can work it to a finish while the home man will make a very slow progress or none at all.

Wilmington has been talking about publicity for years, and has misspent enough money to have secured an immense amount of it. However, some stranger with a scheme that isn't worth a cent always seems to work it off here, when to our own knowledge meritorious home propositions fall flat. Business men who do not spend a cent to advertise in their home paper seem to be prone to throw their money away in booklets with no assurance of circulation, either at home or abroad and here are conspicuous instances in which neither the merchant nor the city get a particle of benefit from the scheme. The home paper is advertising their city every day, and the business men could help it do it to greater advantages if they would advertise their business and thus aid the paper in presenting at least the business features of the city. In doing it they help their own business primarily, but also advertise the city.

If one had to judge the business enterprise of many cities by looking over the advertisements in their papers he would come to the conclusion that every little business is done in some of them. The local paper ought to be the mirror of every reputable business and manufacturing enterprise in a city, but there are in cities many flourishing establishments which are not known by outsiders to be a feature of their city's commercial and industrial life.—Wilmington Star.

Difference Exemplified.

That is the Texas idea. It is the real Democratic theory, the theory which Governor Harmon favors, the theory that equalizes the burdens of government, which shows no favors, which penalizes no industry and paralyzes no section of the country. It is the doctrine of "Treat all citizens alike," and is in striking contrast with the Wilson doctrine of free raw materials and protected finished products. Here is what Governor Wilson said on the subject in New York last January:

"It is obvious that a frank dealing with schedule K of the tariff with the duties on sugar, on cotton, on iron, and steel would result in no decrease of prosperity at all and be of a material benefit to the great body of workers and consumers. Free raw materials would lower the cost of domestic manufacture, would obviate the necessity for vicious compensating duties and would help domestic manufacturers in foreign markets."

In other words he would discriminate against the producers of the South and West by doubly protecting the manufacturers of the East. Governor Wilson is a "progressive Democrat." The lamented Aycock was just a plain Democrat. Contrast their tariff views and you will see the difference.—Houston Post.

The Tale of Nine Tailors.
Nine tailors worked with all their might,
And here their story we recite,
One made a very handy coat
Which could be turned to win a vote.

One made a mantle which he swore
Was just like that which Lincoln wore.
A uniform was made by one
To fit the build of Washington.

Another made a great coat warm
To hold Napoleon's fateful form.
One made a cape, a duplicate
Of one who said, "I am the state".

One made a mantle which he said
McKinley dropped when life was sped.
One made a tunic quite the same
As that which draped J. Caesar's frame.

One made some breeches to encase
Old Hickory's stout legs with grace
One made a garment from designs
Of Lord Protector Cromwell's lines.

Nine tailors wept, results to scan,
They cried, "We tried to make a man,
But truth compels us all to state
He's just a shifty candidate."
—McLandburge Wilson.

Winterville High School Commencement.

The commencement sermon by Dr. Thos. W. O'Kelley has been reported in a former issue.

On Thursday evening, the exercises by the graduating class were held. The auditorium was taxed to its fullest capacity and every part of the exercise was highly applauded. The graduating class was as follows: Miss Anna McGlohon, Winterville, Miss Elizabeth Adams, Winterville, Mr. G. H. Cox, Winterville, Mr. I. L. Bennett, Regan; Mr. F. W. Carroll, Winterville, Mr. Dixie McGlohon, Greenville, Mr. Dennis McGlohon, Winterville, Mr. Roy C. Causey, Winterville, Mr. Hubert Worthington, Winterville.

On Friday morning at 10 o'clock the exercises by the graduating class were concluded on the campus where the salutatory address was eloquently delivered by Mr. R. C. Causey. Then came the planting of the ivy and the burying of all the objectionable things in their course at Winterville High School even to the "faculty".

At 10:30 the speaker of the day, Rev. W. N. Johnson, of Wake Forest, was most fittingly introduced by Dr. James M. Parrott, of Kinston. Mr. Johnson was at his best, the subject of speech being "Christianity of Modern Times". It would do an injustice to this magnificent address by undertaking to give an outline of it.

Next the certificates were delivered to the graduating class by Hon. J. D. Boushall, of Raleigh. He is a master in that kind of things. All the exercises were attended by record breaking crowds.

The annual debate by the Vance Literary Society took place Friday afternoon, with the query, "Resolved, That labor organizations should be encouraged as a measure of bettering social conditions in the United States." The affirmative was presented by Messrs. M. H. Smith and I. L. Bennett and the negative by Messrs. Z. V. Berry and F. W. Carroll. All of the young men made excellent speeches and it was a fine debate. The judges, Messrs. J. D. Boushall, S. J. Everett and C. C. Pierce, rendered their decision for the negative.

The closing concert took place Friday night in a well selected program that was loudly applauded.

Winterville High School does a work that is unexcelled. The principal, Prof. F. C. Nye and the splendid faculty with him are to be congratulated. The school is certainly gaining in strength and influence.

Resolutions of Respect.

Adopted by Grimesland Lodge, A. F. and A. M.

Whereas, Almighty God, in his divine wisdom has seen fit to call from labor to rest our beloved brother G. W. Cox, Resolved:

That in the death of brother G. W. Cox, our lodge has sustained the loss of a worthy brother and a faithful member. That his family has lost a kind, affectionate, devoted husband.

That we extend to his bereaved family our deepest sympathy in this hour of sad bereavement. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our lodge and a copy be sent to his bereaved family.

To Greenville People.

The success that has met the summer term at the E. C. T. S. is best explained in the letter we print below. This seems to be a record year for the big institution in the hill and already Pres. Wright has more applicants for this summer term than he can accommodate within the school. He appeals to the people of Greenville and the appeal should meet a ready answer.

Letter follows here:
To the People of Greenville:

We have on file for our Summer Term, about sixty applications more than we can accommodate in our dormitories. Most of these are for four weeks. A few of them are men. I hope the people of our town will open the doors of their homes to these teachers as you have so generously done in the past. The school can not make arrangements for these pupils in private homes and boarding houses and become responsible for their bills.

If you will take students for the Summer Term, please give me the following information. (Do not tell it to me over the telephone, but write it.)

How many can you take?
Do you prefer men or women?
What will you charge per week or per month of four weeks?
How many minutes walk is your home from the school?

I would like to have this information by Monday, May 13th. I will send each applicant a list of the places and charges and ask them to write to you direct.
