One Man Killed In Runaway Engine

Dashes From Raleigh Yards Into Oncoming Passenger Train, Driver Keeps Post And Dies

CARELESSNESS OF FIREMAN THE CAUSE

RALEIGH, N. C., June 4.—Through the carelessness of a negro fireman, a powerful locomotive broke loose from the Seaboard yards this morning, headed north and after running about eight miles crashed headlong into southbound passenger train No. 33, instantly killing Engineer Kirkwood, and slightly injuring several passengers.

It was about 4:05 o'clock this morning that the accident occurred, just before daylight, the regular train being due in Raleigh at 4:30. Two magnificent locomotives are lying besides the track completely demolished and overturned, and the express car is telescoped over the tank from the southbound engine. None of the passenger care left the track and the passengers, except for a rather severe shake-up are injured.

On train No. 33 were Rev. J. E. Cole, superintendent of the Methodist orphanage; Dr. Delia Dixon Carroll and Douglas, son of Mr. H. S. Leard, district passenger agent of the Seaboard Air Line. Mr. Cole, who was returning from Boykins, Va., took the train at Norfolk for Raleigh. He says that when the accident occurred he had no idea that it was a wreck as the shock was not sufficiently severe, and his supposition was that the air brake pipe had broken and the brakes suddenly applied. His train had just come on the main line after being side-tracked at Neuse for the north bound train to pass. Mr. Cole says that his train was not travelling at full speed as it was going up hill and had only a few minutes struck before the runaway locomotive struck it. Passengers immediately got out of the care to investigate. The express messenger, C. E. Hudgins, of Richmond, Va., was hemmed in his car, but was soon extricated with willing hands. He was not badly hurt, being able to walk back to the Pullman where he was induced to lie down.

Sidney Allen Forfeits His Bond

$5,000 WILL NOW REVERT TO CAPTURE MONEY

"Sidna Allen," called District Attorney A. E. Holton yesterday immediately after United States court had convened for the afternoon session and while the district attorney was going over the long docket of cases set for the present term. There was a bit of a twinkle in the sharp eyes as he called the name and the silence which followed was almost oppressive. Every ear had been pricked for the call and every ear, once the call was made, was set that the owner might not escape no detail of a proceedings in which the now famous Virginia outlaw was a principal.

The Greenville Banks will be closed on Wednesday, June 5, from 10:30 until 1:30, on account of commencement exercises at the East Carolina Teachers Training School.

Let All Close.

Again let us remind the business men of Greenville that it would be creditable to them to close their places of business for two hours tomorrow, during the graduating exercises at the Training School. Besides giving all an opportunity to attend, it will show visitors the interest the home people take in the school.

All Elected.

Of course all the candidates for aldermen nominated in the ward primaries Friday night, were elected at the election Monday, but the vote in every ward was very light. Knowing they would be elected anyway, the people took very little interest. Some time the opposition may try to take advantage of such indifference.

BRILLIANT CONCERT AT THE TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL

Prelude to Commencement Exercises Attracts Very Large Crowd of Town People. Soloists Are at Their Best

CLASS DAY EXERCISES AT SIX O'CLOCK TODAY

A volume might be written on the excellence of East Carolina Teachers Training School without the subject being near exhausted. The pride of the home people in it increases day by day and those who come from other sections of the state to see what is here, are filled with equal admiration. Though the school is as yet but three years old, it has already become to be regarded without a superior in the state. And when it comes to commencement occasions, or any public exercises here, people look to them with the assured satisfaction that there will be nothing better anywhere.

This has proven true in the past and it is so in the present third annual commencement. The exercises so far have been such as to reflect highest credit upon the institution and it will be so throughout the remainder of the commencement. The concert by the music department Monday night was a real delight and the large audience showed its appreciation in liberal applause. The program was as follows:

- Piano Quartet—Overture—"Oberon" Weber
- Misses Armstrong Brooks, Pittman and Lancaster
- "The Nightingale's Song" Nevin
- Miss Branch, Soprano
- Piano—"Nocturne" Chopin
- Miss Moore
- "I would that my love" Mendelssohn
- Glee Club
- Piano—"Melodie" Paderewski
- Miss Waters
- "O that we two were Maying" Smith
- Misses Joyner and Meade
- Piano Duo—March from "Tannhauser" Wagner
- Misses Morrill and Walters
- "The Swallows" Cowen

- Miss Meade, Soprano
- Piano—"Evening Star" Wagner
- Miss Morrill
- "The Sandman" (Arranged)
- Glee Club
- "To You" Speaks
- "Sweet and Low" Carey
- Miss Davis, Contralto
- "Caro Mio Ben" Giordiana
- "Si mes vers avalent des ailes" Hahn
- Miss Joyner, Soprano
- Miss Cassidey, Violinist
- Piano Duo—"Invitation to the Dance" Weber
- Misses Morrill and Ross
- "I hear you calling me" Marshall
- "Good-Bye" Tosti
- Miss Joyner

Every number was rendered perfectly and while the instrumental selections were much enjoyed, the songs were even more so. The soloists, Misses Branch, Meade, Davis and Joyner each seemed a favorite with the audience and their singing, as well as that of the glee club was beautiful. The young ladies were showered with well deserved compliments and congratulations at the conclusion of the exercises. A feature that added to the pleasure of the audience was that the printed programs contained the words of all the songs used by which they could follow the singers better both in melody and sentiment.

The class day exercises take place this afternoon, beginning at 6 o'clock and the alumnae dinner will be served at 8 tonight.

Tomorrow morning, beginning at 10:30 o'clock, the graduating exercises will be held, the program being as follows:

DOCTOR WILEY ACCEPTS TRINITY INVITATION

TRINITY COLLEGE, June 3.—The board of trustees of Trinity college met in annual session this afternoon with a large percentage of the membership present. Many matters of importance were discussed, but these will not be announced until Wednesday morning at the graduating exercises when all other announcements for the year will be made. The chief matter of importance before the board that can be given out this evening was the report of President William Preston Few. Considerable time was consumed in discussing the report and the various recommendations made therein.

A letter has been received by Professor R. L. Flowers from the private secretary of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley saying that he will be here without fail to deliver the commencement address at Trinity Wednesday morning. The press reports of last week carried the news that Dr. Wiley was ill with a slight attack of la-grippe and fear was felt here that a possibility of losing the services of the distinguished pure food expert at commencement exercises day after tomorrow.

Dr. P. P. Claxton At E. C. T. T. S.

To the Citizens of Greenville:

Dr. P. P. Claxton, U. S. Commissioner of Education, speaks in our town tomorrow morning at eleven o'clock. I want to ask and urge the citizens to hear the distinguished visitor. Those of us who know him strong man and a splendid speaker. He is the best expounder of the theory of educating all the children at the expense of all the people that I have ever hear. I do not know what his theme will be, but it is hardly probable that he will leave out of his address all of his great speech entitled "The Child and the State," one of his best addresses and the ablest of its kind, of which many of us have any knowledge.

Citizens of Greenville, hear Dr. Claxton. He is a brilliant speaker and a man about whom we are yet destined to hear much. It will be time well spent. It is seldom that the people of a community have such an opportunity and I hope all the people of the town who have any interest in its growth and welfare will hear the great chief of the educational forces of America.

However, serious complications set in later in the day and he was removed to the hospital named and relatives were telegraphed for and arrived at his bedside Friday morning. The remains will be taken to Enfield for burial.

The deceased is survived by a wife and one daughter Mrs. R. C. Dunn, of Enfield. He was 52 years old.

Wake County Claimed by Both Parties

UNDERWOOD AND WILSON FIGHT CLOSE

RALEIGH, N. C., June 4.—Not until the Wake county Democrats meet in convention tomorrow at noon will the question of whether or not Underwood or Wilson has the majority of the delegates in this county be determined, if it is determined then. Mr. W. B. Jones, one of the leaders of the Underwood forces, said today that the Underwood strength would be about 75 per cent. Mr. Albert L. Cox, one of the leaders of the Wilson forces, said that Wilson would have 95 of the 168 delegates. If the Wilson men move to assert their strength, the Underwood followers will show their hand otherwise they will be content, it is asserted, to send a strong delegation to the district and state conventions.

Returns today from Saturday's primaries in Wake county did not materially alter the results obtained late Saturday night. The county board of election met at noon for the purpose of canvassing the returns.

Walter E. Daniel, of Halifax county, led all opponents in his race for Lieutenant governor, beating J. D. Boushall, of Wake, by over 700 votes. Geo. P. Pell, of Winston-Salem, led his opponents in the race for corporation commission, long term, gaining a majority over A. J. Maxwell of approximately 700 votes. E. L. Travis, of Halifax, got about the same number of votes for the short term and secured a majority over all his opponents.

Iowa Prohibitionists will meet in state convention in Cedar Rapids on July 30 to make nominations to fill out the state ticket and adopt a platform.

Public May Be Present In Chicago

Both Forces Are in Favor of Public Hearings, Chairman New Likes the Idea

TAFT AND COL. ESTABLISH THEIR HEADQUARTERS

CHICAGO, June 3.—A letter from President Taft to Chairman Harry S. New, of the sub-committee on arrangements for the Republican national convention suggesting that the meetings of the national committee at which contests are heard be public, was received at the national committee headquarters today.

The president suggests that Mr. New take up with the committee the matter of open hearings and that if the committee finds it possible the deliberations over the contests, 230 of which have already been prepared for submission, be carried on in open sessions.

Chairman New tonight said the suggestion of the president will have great weight with the committee. This, taken in connection with the previous request of Colonel Roosevelt for publicity of the contest arguments, indicates that the doors will probably be thrown open, at least to newspaper men when the committee takes up contested delegates cases Friday morning.

Few members of the national committee had reached Chicago tonight and of those here none would make a prediction as to the action of the committee.

The president's letter was the chief subject of discussion at Republican political headquarters tonight and his declaration for publicity of the hearings is declared by his supporters now here to indicate that the Taft managers believe their contest cases are strongly prepared.

Georgia Politician Is Under Arrest

IS DELEGATE AT LARGE TO CONVENTION

AUGUSTA, Ga., June 3.—Thomas E. Watson, Georgia delegate at large to the Democratic national convention and one time Populist nominee for the presidency, was arrested at his home at Thompson, Ga., today on a federal warrant charging sending obscene literature through the mails.

After stopping as Watson's guest at midday dinner at Thompson, United States Marshal George White escorted the Georgia editor to Augusta this afternoon. A $500 bond was quickly arranged and Friday morning at 11 o'clock fixed for the preliminary hearing, after which Watson returned to his home.

Mr. Watson has signified his intention of acting as his own attorney at the trial. In commenting on the case against him, Mr. Watson declared that the alleged obscene matter he is charged with circulating in connection with his published attacks on the Roman Catholic hierarchy are quotations from a copyrighted book published in Philadelphia. He declares he will fight the case to the finish.

TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1912.

A MAN DOES NOT GET OLD UNTIL HE IS NINETY.

At a meeting of the Medico-Legal society recently, it was stated that a man of fifty ought to have forty good years ahead of him.

As a matter of fact, a man of fifty in the really scientific and civilized days that are to come, will have ninety good years ahead of him.

There was a day—only a few generations back—when the second largest city in France and not a single man or woman past fifty years of age.

Sewerage ran through the open streets into the wheels. The graveyards were on the hills above the villages and the diseases of the dead ran down into the springs.

Plague occasionally killed half of all the people. And regularly it killed them before half their natural life had passed.

Now, a man at fifty is considered young—he was once gray-bearded, waiting for death.

In days to come, and not far off, the man of ninety will be in his prime. Old age will begin long past a hundred. And death will come in the case of the average, well-behaved man, at between 140 and 150 years of age. The exceptional man will live to two hundred—and probably be very tiresome telling of the changes that he has seen in real estate values.

An animal should live at least ten times as long as the time it takes him to reach the age of reproduction.

A horse becomes a father at two years of age and lives to be at least twenty—even to forty.

The animals, on an average, all live at least ten times as long as it takes them to reach the paternal age.

Man becomes a father at the earliest at about fifteen. And according to the simple rule, he ought to live to a hundred and fifty.

Life will be divided up into interesting periods when it reaches its full length.

Youth will last, with its imagination, hopes and romance, to about fifty.

Earnest, hard work will last from fifty to a hundred. From one hundred to a hundred and twenty and twenty-five years of age a man will work intellectually, getting the best results of his observations and experiences.

At a hundred and twenty-five he will become self-indulgent, take life easy, sit up at night examining the stars, wondering where he will go next, reading the latest books traveling around the world occasionally—perhaps once a month when the trip shall take only one day.

The old man of a hundred and forty will become really self-indulgent, work very little, enjoy ten years of pleasure and intellectual excitement—then die and begin all over again on this earth or some other.

And that is not so very far off. This world moves very rapidly.

In the face of the old saying that a dry June never begs bread, it is best not to have much rain this month.

A Muddy Campaign

As far as the presidential primaries are concerned, the Republican campaign is practically closed, and it may be taken for granted that no one regrets it. It has been a nasty mess from start to finish—this was in bitter personalities between President Taft and his former friend, ex-President Roosevelt. As we have frequently remarked, no campaign in our political history was as deplorably bitter as this one. This has not been a campaign of issue, admitting that issues mean something; not was there any great amount of instruction imparted to the dear people, who were daily regaled with sulphurous expression of sentiment from the two candidates.

It is folly to suppose that any portion of the electorate is influenced by personalities in political campaigns, and particular emphasis is laid on this when the office is taken in the presidency. Rather do personal attacks arouse resentment in those who hear them.

So we have come to the conclusion that President Taft would have fared better in the primaries had he stayed in Washington. Instead of allowing himself to be dragged into a yard-heaters' brawl, True the president did not get down into the political mud until Roosevelt had almost tarred and feathered him on the rostrum, but the Lion Hunter was wise enough to stop his mud-slinging after the president had delivered himself of some choice specimens. Such a development was exactly what Roosevelt had desired; if he could present the president of the United States on the same level as himself, he knew that he would have Mr. Taft as a disadvantage. For he (Mr. Taft) had been attracting much sympathy as the victim of a series of fierce onslaughts from Theodore Roosevelt. The latter was quick to see this, for he is a man of keen perception, and he whipped up his attacks until the president could no longer keep silent and retain his self-respect.

We do not believe that the full effects of the extraordinary campaign just closed have yet been observed. The final toll will be taken next November, and while not blessed with prophetic vision, we feel that whether the nominee be Taft or Roosevelt, the Democratic party will reap a rich harvest.—Asheville Citizen.

Theodore Roosevelt, Stand-Patter

Mr. Roosevelt is still the friend of extortionate protection and of the empty market-basket. Observe this gem from his Jersey speech: "In the tariff, for instance, I believe in a protective tariff, but I want to see the benefit of protection get into the pay-envelope. I don't want to see it all stop at the office."

In other words, it is all right to rob the consumer if the manufacturer will give a little more of the loot to his employees. That is the sort of tariff reform that Uncle Joe Cannon and Nelson W. Aldrich are in favor of. That is their excuse for extortionate schedules—to enable "the pay-envelope."

To be sure, if it has not got there now it will never get there. If the manufacturer has not provided he never will provide. But if he does divide a little more liberally with his employees, then the Payne-Aldrich schedules are all right. That is the logic of Mr. Roosevelt's argument. The function of the consumer is to be robbed.

The progressive movement in the republican party began in a demand for tariff revision to reduce the cost of living. It has ended in the third-term candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt, who is as much of a stand-patter as Smoot.—New York World.

Aycock's Name Dragged In.

The Concord Tribune rebukes the governor for bringing into his Winston speech the name of the lamented Aycock to clinch an argument against Senator Simmons:

"The people who know of the friendly and close relations that existed between the late ex-governor Aycock and Senator Simmons were surprised to learn that Gov. Kitchin in his speech at Winston-Salem Tuesday night made the declaration that Governor Aycock would not have been a candidate for the senate but for Senator Simmons' unsatisfactory record. If Governor Aycock ever gave any expression of dissatisfaction over Senator Simmons' record no one ever heard it. In the great speech prepared before his death and published afterward there was not a word of criticism of the senator's record. This fact alone discredits Governor Kitchin's statement. The governor is floundering around in deep water grabbing at every passing straw."

It is little short of an outrage to use that name for political ends.—Charlotte News.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the Democratic national convention at Baltimore this month has decided that the only portraits to be included in the convention hall will be those of Washington, Jefferson and Jackson.
