FIRST TAFT SHOT SCORES BULL'S EYE IN WINDY CITY

Elihu Root, Taft Man, Appointed Temporary Chairman of Convention After Weary Hours of Balloting, Gov. Hadley's Motion is Ignored

CHICAGO POLICE HAS TIGHT GRIP IN BIG CONVENTION HALL

"Quorum Manifestly Being Present" Says Rosewater as 15,000 Persons Pack Chicago Coliseum

CHICAGO, June 18.—After a tiresome ballot, which required hours to record, the Taft forces scored their second decisive victory of the day, this afternoon nominating Elihu Root, the candidate, as temporary chairman of the Republican National Convention.

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, June 18.—Governor Hadley's motion to amend the temporary roll was ruled out of order by Chairman Rosewater.

Chairman Rosewater presented the name of Elihu Root for temporary chairman, Committeeman Cochems, of Wisconsin presented the name of Gov. McGovern.

Job Hedges seconded the nomination of Root.

Hedges quoted a complimentary tribute of Roosevelt to Root, causing great amusement.

Dr. Lawrence Groner, of Norfolk, seconded Root's nomination.

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, June 18.—Republican National Convention called to order at exactly 12:02 o'clock today.

roll prepared by the national committee.

I rise to inquire whether then ational committee has framed for this convention a proper temporary roll, said Hadley.

James E. Watson, Taft floor leader, interrupted, saying:

Mr. Chairman, I make the point of order that nothing is in order before this convention until it has been organized.

Both Hadley and Watson were cheered as they stood on each side of the chairman's table facing each other.

I rose to a question of information, answered Governor Hadley, preliminary to making a motion.

Until I had made that motion there was nothing to make a point of order against. I still have the recognition of the Chair.

Again chers broke out.

Hadley Offers Substitute for Temporary Roll.

Governor Hadley then presented his formal motion to take from the temporary roll the Taft delegates and substitute the Roosevelt delegates in certain contested states.

Mr. Watson renewed his point of order before the list was read.

The point of order seems to be well taken, said Rosewater, but if the Governor will address himself to the point of order we will hear him for 20 minutes, not wishing to be arbitrary.

Governor Hadley called to the platform Governor Deneen, of Illinois and former Governor Fort, of New Jersey.

There was a brief consultation and Governor Hadley began his argument. He briefly announced again his motion and the fact that Rosewater had ruled that a point of order against the motion seemed to be well taken.

"Instead of following the illustrious example of our distinguished leader, William McKinley, when he presided and invited full debate and consideration of a point of order, the present chairman has asked for only a brief statement on each side," said Governor Hadley.

Question Authority of Committee.

The mention of McKinley's name evoked no applause.

He went on, "I assert that the question is whether the national committee of the Republican party has the absolute power to form a temporary roll for this convention, which can only be changed by a report from a committee of this convention of whether this convention itself shall say who shall sit in it.

"If it is in the power of 27 men to say who shall sit in this convention, arbitrarily and without appeal, then we have reached the end of representative government in this country."

A round of cheers greeted this attack on the national committee. The delegates listened to Hadley with quiet.

He said, "We know but one government in this country: Government by political party.

"If a political convention can be controlled by a group of men within the party, then have we established political oligarchy; then have we given a few men control over party and convention."

Arrangements Committee at Baltimore Has Agreed That Judge Parker of New York Will Occupy the Chair.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 18.—Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, was strongly indicated today as the choice of the arrangement committee for temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention. Those members of the arrangement committee nowhere agreed that the former presidential candidate was neutral in his attitude toward all candidate for the presidential nomination and that he possessed all the qualifications as a presiding officer.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, said to have brought forward the name of Judge Parker for temporary chairman a few days ago in New York. The arrangement committee meets here Thursday to name the temporary officers of the convention.

CHICAGO, June 18.—For the first time in the history of Republican national conventions no picture of the president hangs in the Coliseum where today 1,078 delegates from the states and territories of the United States met to name a candidate for president and vice president and to formulate a party platform.

Go List Your Taxes.

The local list takers say that folks are coming along very slow to list their taxes and there are less than two weeks more before the time for listing expires. Those who are holding back will do the right thing to come on and list their taxes.

The law is very plain in regard to failure to list taxes within the time prescribed by law. Section 80 of the Machinery Act says in substance that where people fail to list their taxes they shall be charged with double tax on what was listed by them the previous year and in addition to the double tax such person is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be fined not more than $50 or imprisoned not more than thirty days.

Section 96 of the same act says that persons who conceal or remove personal property for the purpose of avoiding taxation, or who shall fail to list the same for taxation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Dr. Hyatt Coming.

H. O. Hyatt will be at Hotel Bertha Monday, July 1st, to treat diseases of the eye.

As the sates began to fill the most marked signs of the grip of police intended to keep upon "the public peace" was given.

The twenty big patrolmen who had been sitting in the front row of delegates' seats stood up and 'bout faced' so as to front upon the arena. Thus far there had not been a ripple of any sort.

The proportion of women present was comparatively small and there is a marked absence of conspicuous millinery and gowns.

A big mahogany gavel and a sounding board were placed near where temporary chairman Rosewater would sit to be resigned presently to whoever the convention might choose as temporary chairman.

After Chairman Rosewater had gained the attention of the great multitude of delegates with the assistance of the reading clerk, he said: "A quorum manifestly being present, the convention will be in order while the Rev. Father Callahan will invoke divine blessing.

Many delegates murmured the Lords prayer with Father Callahan.

As Father Callahan concluded, Chairman Rosewater pounded the table with his big gavel and announced:

"The secretary of the Republican national committee will read the call of this convention."

Secretary Hayward read the call. The moment the call was completed Governor Hadley, of Missouri, the Roosevelt floor leader, was on his feet.

"Mr. Chairman," he called out.

The Chair recognizes Governor Hadley, of Missouri, said Chairman Rosewater.

Mr. Chairman, I rise to a question of information, said Hadley.

The Governor was beckoned to the stage.

James E. Watson, of Indiana, Taft floor leader, followed him.

In the meantime William Barnes, Jr., of New York, was on his feet.

Barnes Not Recognized.

I make a point of order, he shouted, but was not recognized.

Governor Hadley then stated his question which involved the substitution of a roll of delegates prepared by the Roosevelt forces for the temporary the workers and those who helped to finance the gathering.

At this side are grouped 500 seats for newspaper men where every word may be heard distinctly and ticked away to nine million Americans and many time more persons of other lands who will be awaiting the message of the men at the keys.

MUCH SINGING AND SHOUTING

Packed Coliseum Shuts Its Doors In Face of Numberless Party Leaders. Every Corner and Every Door Guarded

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago, Ill., June 18.—Policemen at every corner, at every door and in every aisle were the distinguishing feature of the scene at the Coliseum in the early hours before the doors were opened to ticket holders.

The nervous tension due to general expectation of tumultuous scenes "from the drop of the hat" at the opening of the Republican national convention was very apparent on all sides.

The police were as nervous as anybody else. It was difficult even for people with proper tickets, including newspaper men, to get into the hall. Assistant sergeant at arms, doorkeepers, ushers and other subordinate officials, were so keenly alive to the possibilities that their hands trembled as they took tickets and ushers showed people to their seats with furtive glances about them, as if there were something explosive just under their feet.

Along the front row between the body of delegates' seats and the platform, a solid row of uniformed police as early as 9:30 a. m. sat waiting for nobody knew what.

The band was in its place by 9:30 a. m. By the time the doors were opened at 10 o'clock, tow hours before the convention was to come to order the crowd outside had become dense but the police kept the people moving.

No kind of eloquence, no argument, no plausible story of imperative business on that side of the street was of any avail. Every policeman had to be shown a ticket, the right kind of a ticket, at the right door.

Five minutes later a thin procession of men in plain clothes came in at one of the entrances. Assistant sergeants-at-arms they were, but the police pounced upon them as if they were a hostile army.

Colonel William F. Stone, sergeant-at-arms of the convention, was on tip-toe all morning with solicitude for the maintenance of peace and smooth fulfillment of orders.

The soft click of the secret sounders of the newspaper telegraph operators began to be audible near the platform about ten o'clock; the press section with its upward of 400 seats, was filling up the story of the momentous Republican convention of papers.

It hardly seemed possible that the hall, huge as it looked could hold nearly 14,000 people. Yet that is only a few more than the total—published figures to the contrary notwithstanding—that the Coliseum will hold. The seats, platform, press benches, aisles runways, etc., are figured to hold a total of 13,770 persons. This total includes 11,250 in the body of the hall, 1,990 on the platform, 150 sergeants-at-arms, 500 policemen and 400 messengers, ushers and pages.

At 10:16 the band broke in with "My Country 'Tis of Thee". A few people recognized the tune and stood up with heads bared. A bit later, when after a Sousa march they played "The Star Spangled Banner", many more people caught the air and stood with due decorum until the band finished.

Special Washington Letter

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The junior senator from Nevada, the Hon. George Wingfield!

To the old pals and partners of George Wingfield who bunked with him, froze with him, starved with him, and gambled with him when there was anything to gamble for, in the early days of the Klondyke this will seem a strange distinction and designation as will also the friends and associates who shared his bad luck and his good luck only a little more than a decade ago when he was broke in Nevada.

All of the members of "I-knew-him-when-Club" from Bull Frog to Nome can tell a score of incidents in the life of George Wingfield when a ticket for a plate of "ham and" in any "Dirty Spoon" restaurant meant more to him than the credentials to membership in the United States Senate do now. But it may also be said that probably not one of the thousands who have known Wingfield since he began his career envied him, his fortune, nor will regret his appointment to the United States senate.

George Wingfield, of Tonopah, is the successor of his friend and business partner, the late Senator George S. Nixon in the United States senate, by reason of his appointment by Gov. Tasker L. Oddie of that state. Of all the statesmen, near statesmen, would-be statesmen and others of the nondescript who have held seats in the upper branch of the national legislature there is none to whom George Wingfield can be compared. He is in a class by himself. If ever there was a real soldier of fortune, George Wingfield is that man.

Only 38 years of age, and with only one member of the Senate, Senator Lea of Tennessee—yonger than himself, Sen. Wingfield is one of the wealthiest men in that body, yet a dozen years ago he was obliged to borrow money to get into Tonopah and when he landed there if he had been obliged to pay a week's board in advance at the Merchants Hotel, the Waldorf-Astoria of Tonopah, he could not have done so had his life depended upon it. Today he is worth ten millions, twenty millions or perhaps thirty millions. In fact, it would be difficult to estimate his fortune with any degree of accuracy for it is impossible to determine the value of his immense mining properties.

From Death Valley to Alaska, George Wingfield is known, but outside of those interested in mining properties his reputation has not extended for East. Now that he has become a national character, there will be any number of stories told of him. Some of these will be true, others will be exaggerations, but almost any that may be related will contain some grain of truth. If all of his experiences were recounted they would fill an interesting volume.

When Sen. Nixon, a former telegraph operator and afterwards a banker and man of moderate prosperity but not immense wealthy came to the senate many stories were told of how he made his fortune of millions in mining speculations, but little was said of the fact that it was George Wingfield who enabled him to make that fortune. When Nixon first met Wingfield he was not a man of large means. It was through Wingfield that he made his great wealth.

George Wingfield was a Klondyker in the early days of Alaskan gold mining, but that part of his adventuresome life may be passed by, although it was filled with thrilling experiences, for his career does not begin until he struck Tonopah.

The story they tell out in Tonopah is that one day about twelve years ago George Wingfield, having failed to win a fortune in Alaska, found himself flat broke in Winnemucca, a little Nevada town, on the Union Pacific, about midway between the Utah line and Reno. Only a short time before the little burro of a shiftless prospector had kicked over a ledge of rock near where its owner had camped for then light on the Nevada desert. The wife of the prospector had taken the rock to be assayed and it showed a wonderful prospect. The news of the discovery had spread through the sage bush state in that mysterious way which news of strikes travels in that section and there was a rush for the new camp.

George Wingfield always ready to take a chance, wanted to join the procession, but he had no money. The only thing of value which he possessed was a ring with a huge diamond bought in the days of his epheral prosperity. He took it to the only bank in Winnemucca and throwing it down upon the counter before President George S. Nixon, he asked for a loan of $60. Nixon replied that he was not in the pawn broker business but young Wingfield was so earnest and his appearance so honest that he finally agreed to lend him money enough to get to Tonopah. That act made him George Wingfield's friend, it made him a fortune and it made him a United States senator.

When Wingfield reached Tonopah, a wild camp of a hundred tents he had something like $20. The journey had been made partly by narrow gauge road and partly by mule team. It is said that Wingfield's first experience in Tonopah was to sit in a miner's poker game, where fortune favored him. Next, in company with an old pal from the Klondyke, he set up a roulette table. On the first night of its operation the bank was enriched by some $1500.

That was George Winfield's start on the road to fortune and to the United States Senate. Next, he opened up the Tonopah Club which came to the most famous resort in Nevada. Money rolled into Winfield's till, and it rolled out again. For every prospector who ames along without means was grubstaked by George Winfield. Scores of them went from the Tonopah Club staking claims in all of which Winfield had an interest. Not all of them developed mines but many of them did and it was not long before Winfield was on the high road to fortune.

Winfield made Nixon his partner and shared with him his good fortune. Within two years Winfield was a millionaire; now he is many times a millionaire, the wealthiest man in the state. It was Winfield who always took the chance; it was Nixon whose business judgment prevailed when the chance had been taken. Always ready to take a hand in a game, to ply the wheel, to buck the tiger, or speculate, Winfield in the same spirit decided to take a chance on the United States Senate when Governor Oddie offered him the appointment.

Modest and unassuming, young Winfield makes no vulgar display of his wealth. He knows as well as any man what hard lines are. He is everybody's friend, and hundreds have shared his property. Unquestionable he is the most popular man in Nevada and if he likes the game of politics, it is possible that he can remain in the Senate as long as he wishes. Heretofore, politics have never troubled him, and his political convictions have not been strong, but having been appointed by a Republican Governor to succeed a Republican, he will doubtless, "take a chance" and act with that party.

It is comforting for South Carolinians to reflect that the job has a life-sized man on it, too.

THE SOUTH SHOULD RAISE MORE LIVE STOCK

That the working man must be fed is a subject that few would dispute, and he, the least of all. The land affords corn and the corn produces the animal. The ease of conversion and the fact that the hog is self-supporting for a large part of the year has rather led the South into too much hog and hominy. However, rich and succulent these products are, physicians tell us that a mixed diet is more healthful to the human animal than any exclusive selection, so it is valuable information to know that the quantity of food animals in the country is on the increase. With the natural wild grasses of the South there should be every where the sight of cattle in a thousand hills. Where cattle are pastured in that way, occasionally salted and kept from wondering too far, they come in, in the fall more than half fat and in a splendid condition to add the two months rest and corn ration demanded for market. Surely the South should reap some of the affluence awaiting this industry. The following government figures as to live stock, are interesting:

The live stock receipts at the seven principal western markets, namely, Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Sioux City, as the department of commerce and labor in April, 1912, were greater than those of any April since 1907. Furthermore, the aggregate receipts of live stock at these seven markets during the four months of the present year were greater by far, than during the same four months of any year during the past decade; the receipts of April as well as those of March and February, having however, been somewhat less than those of January which in April, 1912, which include cattle, were unusually large. The receipts calves, hogs, sheep horses and mules, were 3,233,600 head, a gain of over 3 1-2 per cent when compared with 3,123,938 head received in April, 1911 and of nearly 45 per cent when compared with 2,234,907 head received in April, 1910. The total receipts of these markets during the four months of the present year were 15,123,769 head, an increase of 13 1-2 per cent over the receipts during the same period in 1911 and 40 per cent over those in 1910.

The value of the aggregate exports of domestic meat products in April 1912, was $12,732,643. In April, 1911, it was $13,955,514. The value of these exports for the ten months of the present fiscal year, shows a marked increase, namely, 6128,399,112 as compared with $117,320,566 during the same period of the preceding fiscal year.

There is big money in live stock. There is food for thought in the above figures for Southern farmers.

It may be added that cottonseed and corn form a better fattening ration than either above.

All ears are strained toward Chicago.

There is not much in common, excepting separation between the fool and his money.

When we hear a Republican speaking well of Willian J. Bryan, it calls to mind many of the principles they have adopted.

The small boy says what's the use to clean up? he gets dirty again. But he does not want to forego eating for the reason that he will get hungry again.

General Humidity is on to his job in earnest and working over time.

Some business men are so quiet that they are practically dead so far as the public is concerned.

The Reflector is ready with the facilities to help draw trade to Greenville but those who want and need the trade must give their co-operation to get it.

When a prominent local Republican was asked about the slowness of the Chicago convention meeting Tuesday he said both sides were so much afraid of each other that they kept off organization as long as possible.

One of the items coming out from Chicago is that $1,000 each is being offered for votes for Roosevelt. At that rate there may be some flushed pockets with correspondingly diminished bank accounts.

One thing that sticks is that all Roosevelt says about some of them is true, even if he does call them thieves and rascals. At the same time it is not said that he is raising any objection to some of his runners offering bribes for votes.

The state Democratic executive committee will meet in Raleigh on the night of July 1st to elect a chairman and secretary. Mr. Clyde R. Roey, of Shelby, is being prominently mentioned for chairman. He has the qualifications to make a good one.

When there is a good tobacco crop and cotton gets to coming in freely, there is lively business in Greenville for a few months. But what the town needs is factories that will keep money stirring and business booming twelve months in the year.

The Dukes have made many fine gifts to Trinity college and in order that another million may be added to the endowment fund they offer $650,000 more on condition that the alumni and friends of the college raise $200,000 more. It will be raised.

If all the money wasted on fakes was invested in home enterprises, you would see your town more flourishing. There are men who will not put a dollar in anything at home, yet will tumble over themselves to get caught in a fake.

Editorial of Human Interest

By Arthur Brisbane

(In this article Mr. Brisbane refers to a picture which shows several monkeys in wonderful contemplation of a woman. A sight which they enjoy for the first time.—Ed. note.)

THE UNKNOWN Part I

The picture at the top of this page is published because it will fix attention.

Nobody will pass this picture without a pounce of inquiry.

The woman kneels upon the sand, controlling the fire she has created and the monkeys, bewildered and puzzled, look at her, very much as we human beings look at this picture.

We are not as yet so very far from those monkeys, with their wrinkled foreheads and their long arms.

The artist who made this picture calls it "The Unknown".

What ideas were in his mind when he presented the woman surrounded by the monkeys we do not know. And we do not very much care.

We use this picture to call your attention to the fact that the monkey like the man, is filled with wonder, surprise, curiosity and incredulity when he confronts that which is new to him.

Even though the object presented to his sight may be natural, inevitable, the produce of growth, ignorant monkey or ignorant man will say, "No, that cannot be. It is unnatural, I don't believe it."

The monkeys look at the woman with her smooth skin, free from fur and her long hair, and her white face and the eyes that are big and the forehead smooth and straight and the power that shows in the face and the development of the body—and they say: "That cannot be". To them it seems too much like a monkey to be unreal and too much unlike a monkey to be unreal. It is an impossibility, false and absurd.

Readers, as the woman stands among the monkeys so a new idea stands among human beings in general.

Many of us contemplate a new idea as a monkey contemplates a human being.

The human being is ahead of the monkey—although it is, according to scientists, the descendant and the direct result of the monkey.

The new idea, is ahead of human beings, and bewilders them although it is the result of the energies and antecedents of human beings.

Monkeys and men alike are frightened and offended by that which is strange to them—and they want it removed.

If you saw three monkeys and if you could talk the monkey language you would say to them: "Poor little monkeys, why don't you recognize something better than yourselves when you see it? Why don't you go up and talk to this lady and shake hands with her, if she will let you and find out that it is possible for two-legged beings to be infinitely above you and all of your conceptions?"

"Why don't you cast aside your suspicions and doubts and misgivings and call upon this lady and learn from her and those like her what wonderful progress is possible among the two-legged animal tribes?"

We can tell the monkeys how to behave when they see a human being for the first time. But we are less ready when it comes to telling ourselves and other human beings how to behave in the presence of a new idea or a truth.

When Galileo announced the fact that a round earth circled around the sun, a great central globe of fire, humanity was horrified—as these monkeys are horrified when they see the woman.

And those in power compelled Galileo, on his knees, to deny the truth—the truth that he had discovered.

In big things and little things, men with monkey minds have denied, hated and feared what was new.

Poor Columbus was put in jail by ignorance when he had returned from America, rendering the greatest service to human kind.

And old Vanderbilt laughed at the idea of an elevated railroad in New York, saying: "The Americans are pretty big fools, but they will never be such fools as to ride on stilts."

A Practical Work Apron.

All women who have little duties to perform about the house know the advantage of a large apron. Here is one that is intended for use during the morning hours and will be found equally serviceable for the busy housekeeper, artist and home gardener. It covers the entire front of the waist. The skirt flares prettily and as it meets in the back, the whole skirt is protected. Generous sized pockets add greatly to its usefulness and will be appreciated by the wearer. Linen, percale, gingham and holland are all used in the making. Sizes: 24, 28 and 32 inches waist measure. It requires 5 1-8 yards of 36 inch material for the 28 inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

THE TAXPAYER

THE taxpayer is a form of municipal goat, whose diet consists mainly of paying certificates and double assessments. He is consulted every once in a while by a total stranger who has been elected assessor on a reform ticket and allowed to contribute a section of his salary to the waterworks fund. The assessor is a cold blooded individual who assesses everybody alike, except the board of review and a few prominent citizens who dabble in politics in order to purify the Augean stables. In some of our larger cities the taxpayer has been pushed back farther and farther into the suburbs, pursued by sewer assessments and the unrelenting form of the poll tax until he is so far from his place of business that he has to take a sleeper. If it were not for the docile and unfermented taxpayer, this government would have to be put up at public auction and sold to the highest bidder for cash. Yet who ever hears the taxpayer mentioned in poetry or song? Nobody spills any Fourth of July orations over his prostrate form or hangs an enlarged crayon portrait of him on memory's walls. The tax dodger is a person who has become weary of drawing checks for people with whom he does not mingle socially and conceals a few monies and credits in a hair trunk. He is a noxious weed, but has a very rank growth in cities which are about to macadamize the resident district on the installment plan. If a taxpayer is displeased with his assessment he can either move out of the state or go into a clinch with a first mortgage lien, which is a very popular and satisfactory method. After the taxpayer has floated a few bond issues and maintained the city hall patriots in a state of affluence, there isn't much left for the sinking fund but the tariff. This is the most flourishing form of tax we have and allows a large number of happy and contented people to ride around on rubber tires and unearned increment.

This is My Birthday

Charles W. Hotchkiss.

Charles W. Hotchkiss, who has been elected president of the Chicago Utilities Company at a salary said to exceed $50,000 a year was born in the town of Unadilla Forks, N. Y., June 19, 1863 and was educated at West Winfield Academy. He began his career as a railroad man in 1881 as roadman on construction of the New York, West Shore and Buffalo Railroad at Newburg, N. Y., since which time he has been consecutive-assistant chief engineer of the Michigan Central Railroad, chief engineer of the Chicago Junction Railway, chief engineer of the Chicago Transfer and Clearing Company, president of the Indiana Harbor Railroad and general manager of the Chicago Indiana and Southern Railroad and the Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad.

Not Without Parallel

Every political student who has delved into those dusty archives where-in are kept the records that tell of great political battle past and gone must be struck with the similarity of the pro-nomination fight waged by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in this year of our Lord 1912 and that conducted by General Ulysses S. Grant, exactly thirty-two years ago.

Grant's campaign was for the Republican nomination for the third term after a lapse of four years—so is Roosevelt's.

Grant was a soldier of achievement—as is the hero of San Jaun Hill.

Grant's campaign followed a world-girding trip, during which he received the welcome and praise of strange sovereigns and peoples—Roosevelt has but lately returned from his African hunt and a triumphant tour through Europe.

And Grant was the popular idol of the people—a claim made for Colonel Roosevelt by his supporters.

But not alone are the two campaigns similar in these particulars. The construction of the Grant and Roosevelt campaigns has many points in common, for Grant was opposed by Blaine—even as Roosevelt is opposed by Taft.

The fight in the convention hall was one of the bitterest ever fought in the annals of Republican party history.

The convention convened in Chicago on June 20, 1880, with over 10,000 spectators lining in the galleries to watch the battle royal. And for over a week the Blaine and Grant forces battled together before Garfield, a dark horse, won the nomination.

Conklin opened the nominations by presenting the name of Grant and he did it with an imperial grandeur and with a degree of eloquence that was impressive. Had he been as discreet as he was eloquent his speech would have been a perfect exhibition of impressive oratory; but Conklin, inspired by his love of Grant, antagonized the Blaine delegates by his pungent satire of the Blaine cohorts who disregarded their instructions to vote as a unit for Grant.

He referred to Grant as a candidate, without patronage, without emissaries, without committees, without bureaus, without telegraph wires running from his house to this convention hall, or running from his house harmony. Men who meet in life at a Texas fish pond or a revival now and then are not apt to be estranged by the devilish machinations of the outlanders.—Houston Post.

Subway for Venice.

Will you observe that Venice is to have subways? We may congratulate ourselves no doubt that it is not to have electric structures, though the gondola has had to share its moorings with the motor launch. Now will some dramatist kindly rewrite "Othello" in a vein of modernity to harmonize with the subway. Substituting for the smothering in the last act at great divorce court scene, and will a poet please rise to rewrite the gondoliers in power boat rhythm. If the world moves so much literature, for better or worse.—Boston Transcript.

List Your Taxes—Last Call.

To the Taxpayers of Edgecombe County, whether residing in or out of the county, notice is hereby given that all property owned by them, either as principal or trustee, must be listed in the township where situated, on or before Saturday, June 15th, 1912. And thereafter all persons who have failed to list their taxes for any cause, are required to appear before the list taker at such times and places as he may designate in his notices and list their property. After the dates named in the notice posted by the list taker the tax lists will be closed.

Attention is also called to the fact that failure to list will result in your being double taxed and the taxpayer failing to list subjects himself to a misdemeanor.

The same penalty is provided for the citizens of the county liable for poll tax. The penalties prescribed by law will be enforced.

Prince and Princess of Teck Open a London Exposition

THE Princes of Teck derive their chief importance from their alliances with royalty. The title of Duke of Teck, held by the head of the family, was conferred by the king of Wuertemberg upon his first cousin in 1870. That duke married a daughter of the Duke of Cambridge, a first cousin of Queen Victoria, and his daughter, Princess Mary of Teck, is now queen of England. His third son, Prince Alexander, married Princess Alice of Albany, a granddaughter of Queen Victoria. Like other royalties and near royalties, the prince and princess are in demand for such show occasions as the laying of cornerstones and the opening of exhibitions. The accompanying photograph was made when the couple officiated at the recent opening of the Latin-British exposition in London.

FARMERS UNION PLAN SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN

The Farmers' Union has laid plans for a definite and systematic campaign and will prosecute the plan vigorously all over the state. Mr. W. C. Crosby has been appointed state educational agent, this office having recently been created in keeping with the policy of the National Farmers' Union.

A conference was held a few days ago between Dr. H. Q. Alexander, president of the state union; Dr. J. Y. Joyner, state superintendent of public instruction, State Educational Agent W. C. Crosby, W. A. Graham, commissioner of agriculture, and Dr. Hudson and Prof. I. O. Schaub of the state department of agriculture. Business Agent Rives, of Sanford, and Mr. Binves, in charge of the teachers training classes.

These gentlemen conferred as to plans for furthering the education interests to the rural population particularly, the conference having been called at the instance of the Farmers' Union. The statewide importance of the conference is realized when it is reflected how many of these are state officers. A mutual understanding plans for furthering the educational in what it needed in the way of advancing rural education.

The State educational department of the Farmers' Union will devote its attention to the few definite propositions rather than scatter its energies in an indefinite way upon the vast multitude of things that need to be done to improve the country schools. These propositions are stated in a platform prepared by State Educational Agent W. C. Crosby. They are as follows:

1. We will promote the teaching of agriculture and domestic science in the country schools. This will be done not only the theoretical class work, but by fostering the corn club and tomato club, the sewing club and the cooking club.

2. We will strive to secure more adequate supervision of the smaller country schools. This is not intended as a criticism of the big-hearted men who have accomplished so much under the present inadequate system of supervision.

3. We will plead for better pay for our country teachers in order that they may better equip themselves for the work.

4. We will advocate the holding of an annual Farm-Life Institute for county teachers in every county of the state. These may be held in connection with the regular teachers' institutes, or independent of them, or, perhaps, in many counties in lieu of them.

5. We will not rest until we shall have secured for our country schools, our country farm-life institutes, and our A. and M. College institution in practical co-operative marketing and direct distribution of farm products.

6. We hope to secure such changes in our present country farm-life school law, as will better adapt it to existing conditions.

In attempting to put this program in operation, we have no idea of antagonizing any of the agencies that are doing such splendid work for our country people. We ask only to be admitted to the work as a trusted ally.

In conclusion, it shall be our constant aim to help bring country children better opportunities for both general and vocational training to give them not only the things to embellish the mind and above all, the things that will make country life more livable and more remunerative. We appeal to every countryman, be he farmer, teacher or preacher, to help in this the greatest work undertaken by the Farmers' Union.

Patronize a Home Industry

"We do not ask your patronage simply because we manufacture 'at home,' although this is some recommendation to claim your attention.

"We ask your custom because we are proud of our product; because the Buggies that come out of our factory have proved their worth in the past and are proving it at present, and will continue to keep up our standard of excellency in the future.

Reflector Advertisements Pay

A favorable introduction is gained amongst business men through the use of HIGH CLASS STATIONARY. A clear cut letter head or a comprehensible bill printed on excellent paper will excite favorable comment even from a business rival. For over 30 years THE REFLECTOR CO., has furnished business men in Eastern North Carolina with business stationary of the worth while kind. The up-to-dateness of its plant and the experience of the force has made it easy for THE REFLECTOR CO., to please its many patrons, one of its customers being the E. C. T. T. S., the finest institution of its kind in North Carolina. Estimates and suggestions are cheertully submitted. Work quickly and carefully turned out.

"HOME OF THE BEST PRINTING"

We take this means of thanking all of our friends who have been thoughtful enough to compliment us on our "LARGER AND BETTER" DAILY REFLECTOR. The Raleigh Daily Times comments in part: "A paper which shows improvement reflects the development of the country over which it circulates. Every word of which is true." The Greenville Tobacco market will probably sell 14,000,000 pounds of tobacco this year, or 5,000,000 pounds more than last year. This meant a strenuous planting campaign by our farmers. Mr. Merchant, why not begin your selling campaign now? Join THE REFLECTOR'S advertisers. Know that your ad. will be read by 4,500 people, with this number increasing daily.

Combination of the Reversible Disc Cultivator

Horse Hoe and Plain Tooth Harrow
Works all kinds of crops, especially Cotton and Tobacco. Works deep or shallow, throws dirt to or from the Plants.

Goes between the rows,
Works a whole middle every trip.
One small horse pulls it with ease.

A North Carolina invention for North Carolina farmers. The best and most complete cultivator ever made. Has patented expansion-lever and quickly adjusted to suit width of rows. Carries either six or eight Discs as desired. Disc attachments will work on any ordinary cultivators.

We sell them separately if so desired.

Tobacco Flues

135,000 POUNDS MATERIAL

Three and one-half solid cars Tobacco Flue Iron for this season's trade. I will make my flues this season in the Center Brick Warehouse, where I will be glad to fill orders from my old and new friends, the fourth consecutive season.

The demand will be heavy this season and to avoid delay and confusion, I advise all those who are reasonably sure of needing flues to place their orders early, and get their flues before the beginning of curing season.
