WILSON TAKES THE LEAD

Amid Outburst of Hurrahs North Carolina's Favorite Son of Democracy in the 30th Ballot Scores the Lead.

WOODROW WILSON.

NEW JERSEY'S GOVERNOR, WHO HAS BEEN WAGING A FIERCE FIGHT IN THE CONVENTION FLOOR AGAINST THE RYAN-BELMONT-MURPHY-HEARST COALITION, HIS GAIN HAS BEEN STEADY EVER SINCE THE FIRST BALLOT WAS TAKEN.

In a private and lengthy interview held last night between Bryan and Gov. Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts, the latter assured the Commoner that he would not accept the nomination unless the present deadlock were to be prolonged beyond estimation. The New York delegation, with its leader, Francis Murphy, the quick-silver of the Convention Thermometer, moody over the stand taken by Bryan, is not willing to side with their choice.

Convention convened at 11 this morning. Bryan's entrance into Hall causes riot of enthusiasm as Commoner walks to his seat. Before 27th ballot was taken New York delegation, 90 strong was challenged to find out just how each delegate stood, as delegation was instructed to vote under the abolished unit rule.

	Clark	Wilson	Underwood
27th Ballot	469	406 1-2	102
30th Ballot	455	460	121
31st Ballot	446	475	117
32nd Ballot	446	477	119

Foss, Harmon, Bryan, Marshall and the other nominated candidates continue to poll all vote. Ohio gave Underwood 15 votes in 31st ballot. The Reflector did not receive the 28th and 29th ballots but there was practically no change in the standing during those counts.

Wilson passed Clark on the 30th Ballot and pandemonium reigned. Iowa seemed to break to Wilson. Wilson men working strenuously to stampede and opposition to hold forces in line. Looks like general break to New Jersey man may come, but opposition contends he cannot possibly get necessary two-thirds.

LITTLE HOPE THAT NOMINATION WILL BE REACHED EVEN 27TH BALLOT

Champ Clark Hurries to Convention City and Full Day of Consultation With Leaders is Expected to Bear Fruit When Convention Reconvenes To-day

WOODROW WILSON SAYS HE WILL NOT LEAVE SEA GIRT

BALTIMORE, June 30.—Hope of nomination on the 27th ballot for president was practically abandoned by Democratic leaders tonight. When the national convention adjourned for Sunday it was believed that some solution of the long deadlock would result from the conferences between the champions of the three leading candidates, but it developed that the time had not arrived for the withdrawal of either Speaker Clark, Governor Wilson or Representative Underwood. It was not expected that the first ballot tomorrow would differ materially from the 26th.

Campaign managers possibly might have reached some agreement if interest in the deadlock had not been dwarfed by the personal controversy developed between William J. Bryan and Speaker Clark. The visit of Mr. Clark to Baltimore and his arrival too late to attempt vindication of himself before the convention overshadowed everything else as a subject of Sunday gossip.

Party leaders generally took the position, notwithstanding the Missourian's impassioned denial of Mr. Bryan's imputation that he was beholden to Morgan, Belmont and Ryan, that he would be unable to regain the votes he had lost. At the same time many of them thought that sympathy for Mr. Clark and the inevitable link-delegates by reason of the New York of Bryan and Wilson in the minds of the delegates having been the beneficiary of the votes turned away from Clark by the Nebraskan's philippic had injured the chance of Wilson. The situation as seen by leaders not associated intimately in the management of the campaign seemed tonight to be about as follows:

Clark having failed of nomination for 17 ballots after receiving a majority vote probably had reached the crest of his strength.

Wilson although climbing steadily, apparently was bitterly opposed by delegates who rested the general impression that Colonel Bryan had the veto power, although he lacked the votes necessary to control the nomination. These delegates believed that the New Jersey governor would continue to gain even to the point where he had a majority, but that he could not break down the Clark strength which was said to be determined that Bryan should not win though a combination of any kind.

Should Clark and Wilson fall on the two or three ballots it was predicted that there would be a turn to Representative Oscar W. Underwood who had been normal from first to the last.

Commoner's Sidewalk Carried Away

LINCOLN Neb., June 30.—Vandals some time last night, taking advantage of the absence from their Fairview home of William J. Bryan, tore up and hauled away 56 two foot squares of cement sidewalk from what is known as the newspaper's correspondent's wigwam to the home.

The suggestion is facetiously made by Mr. Bryan's friends that the blocks were appropriated as souvenirs. The police have no clue.

MONEY SPEAKING FOR KERN Large Bets Being Made That He Will Win Nomination

Underwood Leaders Are More open Than Ever That Their Man Will Come to the Front.

BALTIMORE, June 30.—Bets of large sums of money were being made at midnight that Gov. Eugene N. Foss of Massachusetts, would be the nominee for President.

These bets were made upon information satisfactory to those who were putting up the money and had a decided influence in booming Foss as the compromise candidate of the convention.

Despite the strength of the Foss talk, it is known that there is a deep undercurrent movement on to have Senator John W. Kern, of Indiana, selected as the dark horse, while friends of Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, are still confident that the Democratic leader in Congress will get the nomination.

If the convention is finally deadlocked, which is an extremely probable outcome of the present situation, it is believed that the candidate will be chosen from Foss, Kern and Underwood.

While Underwood had over 100 votes in the convention he does not enjoy at this time the political advantage of the situation because of that strength. The friends of Foss and Kern believe that their men, not being factors in the present great struggle, have the better advantage of being able to into the convention finally as the candidate of the party and not of any particular group of delegates.

Those who are back of the movement to nominate Foss believe that after Wilson has climbed to the high water mark reached by Clark he will not be able to muster the other votes necessary to give him the two-third required.

A new organization, to be known as the Embroidery Workers International Union of America, has recently been formed and will include every worker employed in the embroidery industry.

WILSON TO HEAD PROGRESSIVES Roosevelt Will Ask Him to Lead If Defeated

If Wilson is Unsuccessful in Baltimore Third Party Leader Will Ask Him to Head the New Party.

DENVER, June 30.—Theodore Roosevelt will offer first place on the progressive ticket to Governor Wilson should the latter not be nominated at Baltimore. With Wilson, as vice-presidential candidate, would be Governor Johnson of California. This program according to Judge Lindsey, was mapped out at the Chicago convention.

"The third party movement hinges upon the outcome of the Baltimore convention," said Judge Lindsey tonight. "My ideal ticket is for Roosevelt to lead, but it may best to select some other candidate, then the ideal ticket would be Wilson and Johnson, with Roosevelt and William Jennings Bryan to support the ticket."

The Colorado Progressive party was incorporated yesterday by Judge Lindsey. A call for mass meetings to elect delegates to a state convention was issued tonight.

Riedsville Man May Have Suicided

RIEDSVILLE, June 30.—M. S. Burch died Friday night at his home on Franklin street under circumstances that led to a coroner's inquest being held last night. It was decided by the jury that Mr. Burch's death was caused by strychnine poison. Dr. T. E. Balsley it is learned, appeared before the jury and stated that there was evidence of suicide. The body was sent to Richmond for burial.

Mr. Burch had for some time held a position in Winston-Salem and had been here only a short time on a visit to his wife. He was married some time ago to Mrs. Mabel Palmer, a daughter of A. L. Palmer, a prominent and influential farmer, residing near Riedsville.

Comment on Current Events

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Those of industry's rank and file, upon the work of whose hands depends the amount of bread which they and their families may consume, have been found to be not overly sensational to their dangers which await them in many of the commercial pursuits of this country.

Therefore, it has developed and upon the bureau of labor of labor, which is the government's own department, to care for the working man. The government's researches along these lines are quite as illuminating as they are instructive.

We of the cleaner handed professions know in a general way that workingmen throughout the country are in more or less monetary anger of their lives. But now the government tells us that there is a far more insidious danger.

This danger lies in the deadly poison which lurk in many industrial processes.

A list of these poisons, at least of one which appears in almost every industrial process, reads like a page from the pharmacopoeia. There is no less than 53 of them that have been discovered and classified by the Bureau of Labor's chemists.

Many of the poisons are commonly known. For instance there are the arsenic compounds to which not only the workers in arsenic mines are subject, but also employees of the factories where glass, colored chalk, etched brass, organic dyestuffs and pyrotechnics are made. In the form of gas or dust, this poison permeates through the respiratory organs and mucous membranes into the stomachs of the workers. A systematic course of medicine is prescribed by the government experts to offset this danger.

Then comes carbon dioxide, encountered in most of the mines, and lime kilns of the country, and caused by the action of the miners lamps and blasting, cyanogen compounds, including prussic acid which is used extensively in the extraction of gold, electroplating and kindred industries, formaldehyde, part of the coal tar coloring processes, hydrochloric acid, which tery and enamel wares as well as in appears in the process of making pot-glass factories, and mercury which appears in mirror making; the manufacture of thermometers and many pharmaceutical products.

The most deadly of the poisons, perhaps, is carbon monoxide, which because it is colorless, and tasteless, creeps upon the unsuspecting victim without warning. There is hardly one chance in a thousand of resuscitating a man who has breathed any considerable quantity of this gas. It is found in many industrial plants, without regard to their products, for it is caused from defective firing and heating arrangements.

But it is against the phosphorous evil that Congress, aided and abetted by the president, has successfully waged war. While phosphorous is found in plants where the substance itself is extracted, it is also one of the principle ingredients used in manufacturing igniting agents, and especially the making of matches.

White phosphorous in the form of vapor, enters the body through the respiratory organs. It also finds its way to the digestive canals through contaminated finger.

The poison attacks the bones of the face principally, and gives rise to an ailment known as Flossy Jaw, which, unless checked often proves fatal, taking the form of blood-poisoning. White and yellow phosphorous, it is also said, exercises a deleterious effect upon morals of the workers in match factories.

Because of this widespread evil, Congress has decided to the utmost limit the use of both white and yellow phosphorous.

The first move against phosphorous was the levying of a tax of two cents for every hundred matches made with the poisonous white phosphorous. The bill provides further that after Jan. 1, 1913, no white phosphorous match shall be allowed to enter the country from abroad, and after a year from that date it shall be unlawful to export any white phosphorous match to other countries. The act, which also makes other provisions legislating against the use of this poison, becomes effective July 1, 1913, except in such of its sections as are to become effective before that date.

President Taft himself sets much store by this act. Time and time again during his Ohio, New Jersey and Maryland campaigns, the chief executive referred to it as one of the principal accomplishments of his campaign, together with the workman's compensation acts, which are designed to insure safety from mechanical accidents, and secure remuneration for injuries to workmen.

It is not though unlikely that the United States together with some of the larger powers of Europe, will meet in international conference to devise means for circumventing the ravages of industrial poisons. As the situation tands no remedy can be applied save the removal of the infected workers entirely from the plants, and this cannot be accomplished at this time without seriously affecting many lines of trade.

COMMUNITY BUILDING

Part I

Community development may be defined as an attempt to control social forces. It is an effort on the part of citizens to improve various phases of the social environment—industrial, economic, political, material and spiritual. It is, in short, an effort to make life better and more prosperous. The thing can be done; it has been done and is being done by scores of towns throughout the United States; and it should be done by all. No object could be more worth while.

But, needless to say, the thing is not easy; the result does not follow on the mere expression of a desire. A great deal of cooperative effort is required and a great deal of determination, patience and foresight. The social environment of a town is a great and mighty thing; it is by all odds the greatest and mightiest thing in the town and is not easily moved or altered. To set about altering it is a task comparable to building an Egyptian pyramid and similar principles of management must prevail.

The first essential thing is a plan a knowledge of what is desirable for the community to set out after and bring about. Does it want to invite new industries? Does it want to establish a building and loan association? Does it want to encourage home buying and oppose the mail order evil? Does it desire improved municipal facilities, such as electric lights, water works, sewerage, car lines, pavements, etc? Does it want to improve the municipal government and clean up politics? Does it want to secure a new railroad station or a branch line? Does it want to beautify the town and improve its public spirit? Does it want to start a commercial club or an organization of boosters? Out of the multifarious variety of things which can be done to develop a community just which and how many does it desire to undertake? This matter should be decided definitely, because there can be no efficient, self determined development unless the participants know what they are working for. Otherwise there will be much well intentioned effort in conflicting directions and the result will be a little better than nothing. One plan that falls somewhat short of perfection is better than half a dozen faultless ones provided there is agreement on the other and conflict among the others.

Having decided on a plan the next step is to choose a body of active workers and put some one in authority. It will not be difficult to find a number of community developers in any town when the prospective of other towns are submitted to their consideration. The commercial and mercantile interests are always willing to entertain a proposition looking toward greater prosperity and will be enthusiastic recruits to the cause. The bankers and professional men will also be inclined to lend a willing ear. The formation of a body of boosters will indeed be the easiest feature of the undertaking. With regard to placing someone in authority the best man should of course be chosen, if possible; but whether he be the best man or not, it is of prime importance that he have full authority. Here again, one moderately capable and conscientious man is more serviceable than several disputatious geniuses. Too many fine and worthy plans come to nought because there is a lack of central authority and each subordinate factor begins to do things his own way, with consequent friction and disruption.

It was assumed in the beginning that the development idea had taken hold of but a comparatively few members of the community—the thinkers and leaders, the enlightened. Few with whom most reforms and progressive movements generally start. They communicated the project to a larger circle as outlined above. The next step is to inform the whole community, man woman and child, of what is about to be undertaken. Tell them about it again and again until they know it as well as the multiplication table and the alphabet. The foundation and buttress and keystone of the whole scheme is popularity. No great community reform can be brought about without the knowledge and cooperation of all.

Editorial of Human Interest

A Conceited Shuffling and Inspid Platform

Any living man who should completely embody in the flesh the qualities of the Republican platform just published from Chicago would show in his face and figure such pusillanimousness of character that he would certainly be added to the number of the unemployed.

It may be too severe to say that this ambiguous and cowardly document reflects the character of the gentleman who presided over the Republican platform committee. Let us rather say that the character of the platform is the character of Mr. Fairbanks—cartooned. It is Fairbanks exaggerated and raised to supernatural degree and flubdub and forcible feebleness.

It is a boastful of the past wholly self satisfied with the present and weak and vacillating in everything has no definite program on any public question. It dismisses every living pressing issue either in silence or with vague terms which mean nothing.

To analyze the contents of this document seems a little like describing the anatomy of a tub of lard. But a few specifications may be attempted.

To begin with the platform is very notable for the things it does not contain. It is of course wholly vacant on the subject of the vast transforming national movement for direct primaries came pretty near putting an everlasting end to the kind of convention that made this platform. All references to direct legislation is also eloquently absent. A tepid article deprecating the ideas that misbehaving judges should never be recalled is buried in a flourish of phrases about the integrity of the courts and so on.

Concerning all the defaults of the Taft administration in such matters as conversation parcels post merchant marine and the enforcement of pure food laws the platform brags but promises nothing. The party has no program.

On the subject of the tariff which could not be avoided the platform is so blind to the dreadful record of the Republican party and so barren of promises of repentance that it first glorifies the present tariff and then admits in a single sentence that some tariff taxes are too high and ought to be reduced; but it makes no promise to reduce them.

Indeed it clearly promises the favored interests that if the Republican party is again entrusted with power nothing will be done to the tariff for at least four years for it demands the continuation of the tariff board. Mr. Taft's excuse for vetoing the tariff reduction bills sent to him by the present Democratic House and Republican Senate—passed in obedience to an overwhelming public sentiment—was that his tariff board which had been at work nearly two years collecting information on which to recommend changes had not at that time reported. The Taft tariff board has since reported and confessed its inability to recommend any definite rates. The Republican platform demands for the continuation of the tariff board is therefore a sufficient definite promise to the privileged interests that their tariff favors shall not be withdrawn or curtailed as long as Mr. Taft is president.

Again the plank on "monopoly and privilege" is a study in art offending everybody by a too abject subservience to a privileged class.

The machine politicians who ruled the Republican convention were so anxious to avoid any lightest suggestion that the great corporate combinations should be legally controlled that they have committed their party to the absurd doctrine that there ought not to be any combinations at all and that every check put upon competition is criminal.

The sincerity or hypocrisies of this is plain. Nothing is plainer than the fact that public service corporations and many other corporations that are not usually called by that name can not possibly be regulated by competition BUT MUST BE REGULATED BY LAW.

But of course the employers of the bosses who will approve the Republican platform know that the Chicago episode however imperfectly worded is full of love and devotion. Not only in its tariff plank but in every line and between the lines it is a faithful promise to the favored interests that the party will do as little as possible to bother them in the future.

The failure of the Republican platform to touch even with the lightest hand certain matters that the people are determined to have and that the interests are trying desperately to keep from them such as the direct election of United Senators and the income tax leaves the high road of politics open to the Democrats at Baltimore.

There can be no question that the new party that Mr. Roosevelt is nursing into life will seize upon these great popular demands. They are strong in the east but in the west they have achieved an overwhelming power.

The Baltimore convention would miss the greatest opportunity that has been offered to the Democratic party in half a century if it failed to commit itself with utter simplicity and clearness to the whole great cause of popular progress.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howara L. Rann.

THE CANDIDATE

THE candidate is a lowly and ingratiating individual who earns his living by running for some office and putting the skids under the present incumbent. He is always fired with zeal during a primary election and is frequently fired with a loud report a few months later with the aid of the Australian ballot. As soon as a man becomes a candidate for anything from justice of the peace up, the neighbors pull out a few tablets of memory and begin to remind each other of the time when he circulated a mult petition and chewed the deceptive clove. Let a man bob up for congress and he will be pursued from one end of the district to another by outlawed shoe bills and the still small voice of the chattel mortgage. The candidate is the original and unspoiled optimist. He is never disturbed by anything except the election returns and flutters about among an unpraisable citizenship accompanied by pale cigars and clarion voice of reformation. Some candidate never know when they have had enough and come up every two years with a new half tone cut and a platform which is guaranteed to cure all the carbuncles on the body politic. Others run once around the track without getting back their entrance fee and then retire hastily to some selected spot where they can commune with their expense account and swear off in language which would choke a fire extinguisher. After a defeated candidate picks himself out from under a pile of scratched ballots and returns home so that the neighbors may view the remains he becomes a desperate character and bolts the ticket with blood shot eyes. Many a man has deserted a 160 acre farm to become a candidate for some county office that destroyed his appetite for work to such an extent that whitening a toothpick left him completely fagged. The father who persuades his son to run for an elective office ought to be prepared to pension him when the voters have got through expressing their opinion of his qualifications.

Press Comment

Greenboro Daily News: It is estimated that more than $5,000,000 was expended by delegates, politicians and visitors in Chicago during the Republican convention. That town should be satisfied.

Rocky Mount Telegram: The question is who shany occupy the centel of the news columns the longer, William Jennings, Saint Therodore, or Evelyn T. At this writing the race is neck and neck.

Greenville (S. C.) Piedmont: From the States which went for Bryan in any of the races for President, he got 23 1-2 votes, while Parker got 250 1-2. From States which went for Cleveland of Bryan in any of their races Bryan got 344 votes, while Parker got 494, for temporary chairman.

Raleigh Evening Times: For the most part of the State who will elect the President this fall voted for Mr. Parker. Mr. Bryan got the wild and woolly States of the northwest who are always going to vote the Democratic ticket if all the fool notions they think of are incorporated in the platform, but who never are there when the votes are counted, Pennsylvania and a few others of that stripe and a few Democratic States like South Carolina and Texas.

Wadesboro Ansonian: Whoever may gather the garlands of victory at Baltimore, no one of the candidates in the campaign for the nomination, has conducted himself with greater dignity or true manliness than Judson Harmon, Ohio's chief executive. His speeches bear the impress of the statesman. There is nothing of the demagogue or place hunter in all his utterances. He may be weak in the shifting schemes of the pettifogger, bet he is doubly strong in his analysis of those great principles of free government for which so many of the patriots of the elder days gave their lives. To all his competitors Governor Harmon has been generous and considerate, and when the party is organized for the contest, he will be found in the battle line doing valiant service for true Democracy.

 Of Arcadie you stood perhaps,
 Through waiting years until
 The woodman's ax rang "taps"
 Then logged in piles
 They put you trough the mill,
 Which swallowed at a gulp,
 Tore, clawed and ground you to a pulp
 And thus far have you sped,
 Evolved but incomplete,
 The presses must be fed;
 Each rumbles upon its bed
 And calls you from the street.

Social and Personal

Farewell! But Whenever You Welcome The Hour
 Farewell! but whenever you welcome the hour
 That awakens the night song of mirth in your power,
 Then think of the friend who once welcomed it, too,
 And forgot his own griefs to be happy with you.
 His griefs may return, no hope may remain
 Of the few that have brightened his pathway with pain
 But he ne'er will forget the short vision that threy
 Its enchantment around him while lingering with you!
 And still on that evening, when pleasure fills up
 To the highest top—sparkle each heart and each cup,
 Where'er my path lies, be it gloomy or bright,
 My soul, happy friends! shall be with you that night—
 Shall join in your revels your sports, and y'ar wiles,
 And return to me beaming all o'er with your smiles;
 Too blissful it tells me that mid the ga' cheer,
 Some kid voice had murmured, "wish he were here!"
 Let me do her worst, there are fellicys of joy
 Bright dreams of the past, which she cannot destroy!
 Which come in the nighttime of sorrow and care
 And bring back the features that joy used to wear.
 Long, long be, my heart with such memories filled!
 Like the vase in which roses have once been distilled;
 You may break, you may ruin the vase is you will,
 But the scent of the roses will hang round it still.—Thomas Moore.

MRS. FICKLEN ENTERTAINS

In Honor of Miss Jeter
 Mrs. E. B. Ficklen entertained last Friday afternoon at a delightful "Porch Party" complimentary to her guest Miss Francis Jeter of Bedford City Va. The hostess and guest of honor met the guests at the steps and showed them to the hall where fruit punch was served by Mesdames E. B. Furgeson and L. C. Skinner. They were then presented score cards by Misses Douglas Arthur and Helen Laughinghouse and ushered to the spacious porch where eight tables were set for games four for "Euchre" and four for "Rook". Sun flowers were much in evidence around the steps, hall, and porch and the punch table was prettily decorated with nasturtiums, the punch bowl almost hidden in a bed of flowers. The table prizes were dainty "boudoir caps" and the cutting for them caused much merriment. The guest of honor's prize was a "boudoir cap" and all of the visiting young ladies were allowed to cut for the visitor's prize, which was also a "boudoir cap". After the presentation of the prizes delicious ices, cakes and mints were served by the hostess who was assisted by Mrs. C. S. Carr and Misses Doris Overton, Minnie Exum Sugg, Helen Laughinghouse and Douglas Arthur. There were present about twenty out of town guests.

There were quite a number of visitors present.

Business Houses to Close For Tuesday's Celebration

We are pleased to hear that our liberal progressive business men are preparing to close their places of business Tuesday from 10:30 to 1 p. m. and join heartily in the celebration at the Training school.
 This is at it should be and our business men are to be commended for it. This school doing a great work. Just think of it. Only four years ago the first ground was broke for the erection of the buildings. Now there are six beautiful buildings on the grounds and over three hundred splendid, earnest women in attendance. The school was first open for students Oct. 5, 1909 and over 1500 students have received instructions. It will make a very pleasant impression upon our visitors to see Greenville taking a deep interest in the celebration and everything pertaining to the school.
 Then, too, the next governor of our state, the next treasurer and the next superintendent of public instruction are to be there and make addresses. These are those who are largely to shape the policy of the state toward the institution for the next four years.
 We are sure we are not mistaken when we say that the patriotic men and women of Pitt and the adjacent sections will be here in great numbers to join in this celebration and to greet the next governor of North Carolina and his distinguished address.

From Woman's View-Point

Cat Moods—When You Have to Tear up the Earth—Forget It When Some One Else Does It.

Did you ever feel as if a real good cry would be the very thing to set you up for the next six months? Did you likewise feel that you could call your own mother, sister, husband or sweetheart, every unkind name that you could find in the dictionary, with a few of your own make up and then wonder why you were such a disagreeable cat?

I know you have, for every woman, unless she is so placid that she is an idiot, has just these times of wanting to tear up the earth, with she were dead and every one else with her.

Now doctors call this condition "nerves". But our good friends with whom we live, dud it "temper". It is in my belief, a combination of the two, brought on by the strenuous life of the American woman, whether she be in business, a housewife, or a social leader.

It is the awful rush and tear that makes us say and do those things for which we are most heartily sorry a minute afterward.

Apparently in the vocabulary of the

And a woman of the moment, there is no such word as "repose" and how much we need it. It isn't laziness, as the active, energetic, ever moving woman dubs it. It isn't even a pose. It is a necessity, that must be cultivated to engender happier domestic relations.

Strange as it may seem, the business man with the strain of money getting and family support, is not as subject to this nervous explosion as his wife in the friction of home life and house government.

This, naturally, to the judicial mind, argues that woman's mental and bodily construction are based on the nervous system to a greater extent than the man, who furnishes the means of maintaining the home. And this is true; therefore let patience exert an influence and reason the condition not as seriously aggravating as it appears on the surface. So when we women act ugly, apparently without reason, our friends may treat us indulgently and when they act the same way, we may take conditions into consideration and be lenient also.

Pension Plan for 12,000

BOSTON, Mass., July 1.—Twelve thousand employes of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company are directly concerned in the old age and disability pension plan which was put into effect by the company today. After 20 year's service an employe may be pensioned for disability at the age of 60 or when five years older may be retired on pension at his own volition. At the age of 70 retirement will be compulsory. The minimum pension is to be $25 a month and the maximum $100 a month. The employes are not called upon to make any contribution to the maintenance of the pension system.

Hotel Clerks Rally in Chicago

CHICAGO, Ill., July 1.—Nearly a thousand individuals distinguished by their diamond studs and pompous appearance were welcomed to Chicago by Mayor Harrison today on the occasion of the opening of the first national convention of the Greeters of America. The organization membership is confined to hotel clerks and represents practically all of the leading hostleries of the United States and Canada. This is the first big convention they have held and it promises to be an unqualified success. Some business is to be attended to, but the delegates will devote the most of the time during the four days stay in Chicago to receptions, automobile and boat rides, luncheons, carbarret and beach parties.

Compensation Act in Force

BOSTON, Mass., July 1.—The workmen's compensation act passed by the recent session of the Massachusetts legislature became operative today. The act provides a fixed scale of compensation for industrial accidents to employes of those employers who accept the measure. If employers do not accept the law they are liable to unlimited damages at common law and in addition, are not allowed, as formerly, to plead in defense that the accident was the effect of neglect by the employe or that it was the result of an act of a fellow servant or that the employe assumed the risk of employment. Employers who accept the law are obliged to insure with a liability company.

THE man who is graduated from West Point must be able to do anything he may be called upon as an officer to order his men to do. A part of the engineering instruction of cadets is the building and repair of bridges, a branch of military science in which the Madero forces in Mexico are being tested as they pursue the Orozco rebels who have burned and wrecked railroad bridges as they retreated. The average cadet acquires skill in the construction of roughly built, but substantial bridges, and such scenes as those depicted in the accompanying photograph are common in the neighborhood of the military academy. The picture shows a detachment of cadets building an emergency bridge.

Kitchen Craft

Lemon Custard
One lemon two eggs one-fourth cup sugar one pint milk, two good table-spoons flour, one teaspoon butter. Take grated rind and juice of lemon and mix with sugar; mix flour with little of milk and stir into this the yolks well beaten; mix this with sugar and lemon and pour mixture in remainder of milk, which should be boiling. Use the whites of eggs beaten with a little sugar for tops of pies.

Cream Pie
One egg, one cup granulated sugar, one-half cup shortening, one cup sweet milk, two teaspoonfuls soda, two and one-half cups sifted flour. After baking and allowing to get cold cut off top of cake and make a cream filling of one-half cup sugar, three-fourths cup milk, yolk of one egg, one table-spoonful cornstarch. When cold put it on cake and replace top of cake. Make three pies.

Crumb Cakes or Pies
Three cups of flour, one cup white sugar, three-fourths of a cup of butter and lard; mix this well together, with your hands. This forms the crumb. Three fourths of a cup of molasses, three fourths of a cup of hot water; into these stir one teaspoonful of soda. This is enough to fill three pie crusts.

Confer on Wage Demand

NEW YORK, July 1.—The committee of managers of Eastern railroads met in conference here today with representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen to discuss the recent demands of that organization for increases in pay. The demand has been made on all the roads east of the Mississippi and north of the Chesapeake and Ohio and including the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada. It is estimated that the granting of the increase demanded by the firemen would add $25,000,000 to the yearly payroll of the eastern railways.

Premier Turns First Sod

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 1.—The first sod of the Pacific Great Britain Railway was turned at North Vancouver today by Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia. The new line is to connect this city with Fort George and eventually it is to be used as the Vancouver connection of the Grand Trunk Pacific.

Advertising

Is the connecting link between the merchant and customer—it is the merchant's salesman.

Goods snugly resting on a shelf are very much like a miser's gold—all right, but in need of circulating...

A Secret has better chance to travel than the goods of a merchant who will not talk about them all the time... The up-to-date merchant looks to advertising like the announcer to his megaphone. Advertising enlarges the circle of merchant's business, the megaphone strengthens the volume of the voice. Both multiply the chances of a hearing. In grand father's time advertising was not thought of. But in grandfather's time competition was slight. Today it is so keen that a merchant must look out else the edge of competition may separate him from his business. Be sure to tell the people what you have, why you have it, and what they can have it for. This is vital to your business. Also when telling the people use a medium that will reach them with your message of intelligence.

Champ Clark and the Dollar

Do Champ Clark's delegates think they were sent to Baltimore to fasten the rule of Thomas F. Ryan upon the Democratic party?

Do they think they were sent there to fasten the rule of August Belmont upon the Democratic party?

Do they think they were sent there to fasten the rule of Charles F. Murphy upon the Democratic party?

Do they think they were sent there to nominate a candidate acceptable to the Tobacco Trust, the Money Trust, the Traction Trust and Tammany?

Do they think they were sent there to shackle the Democratic party to a Ryan-Belmont-Murphy-Hearst coalition?

Some of them are already hearing from home and more of them will hear from home before night. They will discover that Democratic voters still have something to say about Democratic Conventions and Democratic candidates.

The responsibilities for conditions at Baltimore rest primarily upon Champ Clark and his managers. Had all the delegates stood by Mr. Bryan he would have defeated Judge Parker and wrested the convention from Ryan and Murphy. It was the decision of Mr. Bryan by the Clark forces that gave the convention into the hands of Wall street and Tammany corruptionists.

Mr. Clark has betrayed progressive Democracy and played into the hands of its enemies. He posed in the preliminary campaign as a progressive. He secured the indorsement of Mr. Bryan as a progressive. Had it not been for Mr. Bryan's approval of his candidacy it would have made no headway among anti-Wall street Democrats. Yet at the critical moment half of the Clark delegates were thrown to Ryan and Murphy, Clark now appears as the chief political beneficiary of the Ryan-Belmont-Murphy-Hearst deal.

Many of the delegates pledged to Mr. Clark are honestly progressive. Can they long support a candidacy that has been convicted of false pretenses? Can they vote for a candidate who expects to be nominated by the power of Wall street and Tammany Hall.

So far as Champ Clark is concerned, the mask is off, and every delegate knows it. He started as a candidate of progressive Democracy. He has ended as the candidate of Dollar Democracy—the hope and refuge of Dollar Democracy.—New York World.
