ALL PARTIES LOOK ALIKE

Howard, Strong Prohibitionist Flays Them all

PROGRESSIVES, "NOT MUCH"

Temporary Chairman of Convention, Howard, Salls Right Into Every Party and Concludes They are The Real Progressives

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 10.—A sensational attack upon President Taft, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and the Republican and Democratic parties in general marked the beginning here today of the eleventh national prohibition convention.

Clinton N. Howard, of Rochester, N. Y., temporary chairman of the convention, made a speech which bristled with denunciation of the boss ridden liquor controlled old parties.

He declared nothing in the way of real reform was to be gained from either of them, or from a third party dominated by Colonel Roosevelt.

"No other President since the foundation of this government," declared Mr. Howard, "has surrendered more abjectly to the liquor interest of this nation than has William Howard Taft. His record is too recent, familiar and odoriferous to require review in this intelligent presence."

Mr. Howard said it would be a criminal waste of time to argue that the liquor traffic could be stamped out through the Republican party by its silent platform, its present and unworthy leadership, his long consistent liquor record and its present monopoly nurtured candidate, who obtained his nomination at the hands of which Theodore Roosevelt declares represents nothing but successful political fraud perpetuated in the interests of political and financial privileges and who more than any of his predecessors has become the wet nurse for the saloon.

"And what better results can be expected from the Democratic party? Not only as little, but less than nothing at all.

Exactly the same influence that poisoned the Republican party at Chicago were in control at Baltimore.

"It may be said in truth that the splendid Woodrow Wilson was not Mr. Murphy's choice, but the campaign banner, decorated with his picture was flung to the breeze in front of Tammany Hall one-half hour after the nomination on the order of Chas. Murphy by long distance telephone and the candidate has since sent his regrets that a prior engagement prevented his presence at the Tammany Fourth of July."

The temporary chairman said that while Governor Wilson was known as "a good man" the prohibitionists are here to elect a good man, but to kill the liquor traffic. McKinley and Harrison were good men in the White House, he added, but they went out of office with the country more saturated with rum than when they went in.

Chairman Jone turned his guns upon Col. Roosevelt.

How about the progressive Roosevelt party, he asked.

We already have two whiskey parties and do not need another. From the standpoint of the prohibitionist by his record, public utterances and confessed personal habits, he is least the desirable of them all.

The speaker predicted that the Prohibition party was certain of ultimate success and informally declaring the convention ready to transact business, urged that all things be done decently and in order.

This is the first national political gathering ever held in Atlantic City. The setting was most appropriate, the convention hall being located at the extreme end of the pier jutting a quarter of a mile out into the water. Open on all four sides the hall was swept by an ocean breeze and as an accompaniment to the proceedings there was the nearby roar of the breakers crashing on the beach.

BOARD OF EXAMINERS PROCEED

Friend of Engineer Schroeder Testified That He Saw Driver of Express Train Under Influence of Liquor Before Leaving

CORNING, N. Y., July 9.—"Intoxicated for hours before he was called upon to drive the train of express cars which ran into the Lackawanna limited here last Thursday and snuffed out forty lives, was the way in which Charles Klapproth of Elmira, in answer to a question put to him by the Coroner, summed up the condition of Engineer William Schroeder, a life long friend, at the Coroner's inquest into the wreck this afternoon.

This answer was made by the witness when asked to describe the condition of his friend at 12:30 o'clock in the morning of July 4. It was the spoken expression of a thought whispered frequently in this city since the wreck.

Klapproth was an unwilling witness against his friend and he did not know that he was to be called on to testify until he was served with a subpoena late this afternoon. He had left his place of business in Elmira at 12:30 a. m., he testified and started home in company with two friends he saw Schroeder coming toward him staggering and appearing intoxicated.

No words were exchanged between the men, Schroeder proceeding toward his home. There he was called to go out on his run two hours later. He did not answer the caller's ring, so the caller entered the house and roused him with difficulty. A second caller had to be sent to get Schroeder out and then he reached the depot after the leaving time of his train, which had been held for him, although it was already running late. He started without testing his engine, it was testified.

At the roundhouse Schroeder insisted he had not been called.

No other witnesses were put on this afternoon to give further testimony as to the condition of Schroeder, but others are to be called and Schroeder himself is to be examined at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning by Chief Inspector Belknap of the Interstate Commerce Commission. If his physical condition permits he will also be a witness at the Coroner's inquest in the afternoon.

The seven members of the train crews which figured in the wreck did and order of business and platform. Thursday will come permanent organization and the adoption of the platform, together with miscellaneous business. Friday will come the nominations for presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

A prohibition parade along the board-walk and the principal streets of the city was a feature this afternoon.

There is decidedly an insurgent sentiment in the convention and sessions are expected to be marked by lively controversy. Questions relating to woman suffrage, the initiative, referendum and recall, and a proposed change in the name of the party, undoubtedly will provoke debate.

Some of the delegates are insisting that the name of the party be changed to progressive and declare that the prohibitionists were the first real progressive in the national political field.

The Prohibition delegates apparently are earlier risers than most members of political conventions, the hour for beginning the daily sessions having been set for 9:30 a. m. instead of noon, as is customary.

J. B. Cranfill of Dallas, Tex., responding to the addresses of welcome on behalf of the convention declared that Governor Woodrow Wilson was the man the prohibitionists would have to defeat if they were to win at the next election. "If we do not win at the polls next November, Governor Wilson will be president of the United States," said Mr. Cranfill.

NOTED ALIENISTS' OPINIONS OF THAW'S MENTAL CONDITION

- D. AUSTIN FLINT—Thaw is a true paragoniac and might commit other homicide if given his liberty.
- DR. CARLOS F. MACDONALD—Thaw is a true paragoniac with homicida tendencies, and would be a public menace if liberated.
- DR. JOHN W. RUSSELL—Thaw is constitutionally inferior and under his former conditions of life might commit another murder.
- DR. WILLIAM WHITE—Thaw is not insane and would do no arm if liberated.
- DR. ADOLPH MEYER—Thaw is not insane and never has been. He is a plain murderer. He should be given his liberty.

Thaw is Sane According to "Lil Artha Johnson" Buys Him a Cafe

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 10.—Dr. William A. White, head of the government insane asylum at Washington, D. C., testified at the Thaw hearing today that Harry K. Thaw could not be released from the Matteawan Assylum, where he has been confined for several years, with safety to himself and society. In the doctor's opinion there is no evidence of unsoundness of mind in Thaw's will, and nothing indicating paranoia in the peculiar codicil. He added that Thaw's killing of Stanford White was not a typical paranoiac murder in that the spectacular features were not planned. Dr. White said that if Thaw could conceal for six years from trained alienists his alleged delusory ideas he is well enough to be discharged.

Questioned by William Travers Jerome as to an expression in Dr. White's book on psychiatry that there is no treatment for paranoia the alienists did not hesitate to say that he had changed his opinion. He said few persons constitutionally inferior ever find their way into an asylum.

Clarence J. Shearen, Thaw's counsel, said he would have his case in Friday, which is taken to mean that counsel will sum up Monday.

An idea of what the proceedings is costing the Thaw family was given today when Dr. White testified that he was receiving $250 a day and expenses. He and two other alienists retained by the Thaws have been here twelve days. They also devoted considerable time to the case before the hearing was opened.

NO RESPITE EXPECTED SOON Intense Heat Continues to Parch the Land

The Weather Bureau Makes No Promise of a Lull of the Heat Wave Sweeping the United States.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—No relief from the torrid weather prevailing over the entire eastern half of the country is expected by the Weather Bureau officials for at least the next day or two.

There have been some thunder storms in various localities, bringing a little temporary relief. The heat wave extends from the Rocky Mountains all the way to the Atlantic Coast in both north and south.

The hundred degree mark was reached yesterday in Nebraska at Omaha and Concordia, the latter place having a temperature of 104.

Elsewhere throughout the affected districts the mercury was in the nineties and higher eighties.

In Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina the temperature was from two to four degrees warmer than on Monday.

One Death in Boston
Boston, July 10.—Boston today had its eighth consecutive day of scorching heat, the temperature having climbed to 96 at noon. Seven cases of prostration were reported. One heat death in Cambridge also was reported.

Over a Score Overcome in Syracuse
Syracuse, N. Y., July 10.—There were two deaths from the heat here last night. More than a score of people modified slightly, but the thermometer still hovered about 90 mark.

$67.00 CUSPIDORS ADORN THE FLOOR

The Cafe de Champion to be Opened in Chicago by Heavyweight Title Holder Promises to be a Hummer.

CHICAGO, July 9.—The Cafe de Champion, catering as its owner emphatically insists, "to de African aristocracy and de fowah and chivalry of de vanquished but aspiring white race," will open tomorrow night at No. 41 West Thirty first street.

John Arthur Johnson, flippantly referred to as "Jack," is the restaurateur. For elegance and taste, its owner says, thea eating houses of the world will be totally eclipsed.

"Ah might modestly, say," said Mr. Johnson, "that ah have travelled some De Cafes ob Paris an' de old inns. ob London knows me well. But all de Mahtans, Rectabs, Moulin Rouges, haunch and skewahs, rolled into one house, couldn't get into de ring with dis little eat emporium ah's startin' heah."

"Jes' look at dem expectation cuspidoaahs," said Mr. John Arthur's manager. "How much do you think that sets Jack back? Just $67.50 aplece. Moah money den some coons kin git in dey lifetime. An den ain't nuffin to what Jack's got foh ouah guests to eat off. All silber none og dat plated sheah."

A portrait of ohnson who admires himself, is framed in $20 gold pieces set with diamonds. Oil paintings of Johnson's father and mother are in the entertainment parlor.

Johnson will not have a grand opening. His manager says it will be too plebeian for such a place as the Cafe de Champion. It is going to be an auspicious inaugural function, if you please.

"When we get things in shipe we will have te swellest place in Chicago, announced Manager Sterrett. "The floors are all mosaic from the front to the rear. The entertainment room will accommodate 500 people. The ceiling and walls in this room are all hand decorated—not a bit of stencil work in the place.

Demand Downward Tariff Revision

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 10.—A demand for immediate downward revision of the tariff probably will be made by the new party of which Colonel Roosevelt is the head.

While the former president would not commit himself today as to the course which he will urge the convention at Chicago to adopt, it was learned from a number of leaders who have tained with him in the last few days that the new party doubtless will declare for immediate revision.

According to the present program, the demand for action will be restricted to those schedules, which, in the opinion of the party heads, are obviously high.

Deathly Malady to be Barred From Uncle Sam's Land by Strictest Watch Over Ports of Ingress. Cuban Capital Worse

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The public health service continues to spread its guard lines against the importation of bubonic plague from Cuba and Porto Rico and is extending repressive measures against the disease there.

From Porto Rico, Surgeon Creel, of the service today reported one new case, a fatal one in the suburbs of San Jaun. From Havana, a quarantine against arrivals from Porto Rico is being established. Dr. R. H. Von Ezzdorf, of the service ordered to Cuba from Mobile today reported his arrival in Havana to cooperate with the Cuban health authorities.

From many cities in the gulf and the Atlantic coast officers of the service report state and local authorities establishing examinations of arrivals from the plague districts, the passage of city ordinances and other measures for the extermination of rats—the carriers of the plague—and campaigns of disinfection of the water fountains.

The customs reforms proposed in the House bill were stricken out and an item of $350,000 for collecting the revenue from customs inserted. Items of $250,000 for seacoast artillery buildings and $50,000 for the Keithley-Overton Railroad, both in the Philippines; $70,000 for additional land at Fort-Sam Houston, Tex.; $50,000 for a steel bridge at Fort Riley, Kas.; and $25,000 for a target range Vancouver barracks, Wash., were inserted.

The House bill was amended so as to continue the office of register and receiver of public moneys for land districts.

The provision in the House bill limiting the Department of Justice in employing attorneys who have just left the government service was stricken out.

Old Floyd Allen Weeps in Court

WYTHEVILLE, Va., July 10.—The prisoner and his father, the old man Floyd Allen, both testified today in the trial of Claude Allen, alleged slayer of Sheriff Webb in the Hillsville court house tragedy. The testimony of the defendant was practically the same as that given in his former trial when he was convicted of killing Judge Masie and given 15 years. He denied being a party to any conspiracy and claimed he shot only in defense of his father.

Floyd Allen denied threats against the life of Commonwealth's Attorney Foster which a former witness had testified he heard him make. During one point in the examination when his son Claude was mentioned the old mountaineer broke down and wept.

In an attempt to weaken the allegation of a conspiracy the defense introduced direct and corroborative evidence that Cabell Strickler approached Floyd Allen while the later was waiting for the verdict in the case that precipitated the shooting, left the old man's pulse and joking asked if it had stopped beating. In Claude Allen's former trial it was testified that the son himself felt his father's pulse.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 10.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States court ere today by creditors of the Perkins Manufacturing company, one of the largest lumber concerns in Georgia. G. E. Toale and John P. Mulherin have been named receivers. It is stated that indorsements by this company of the notes of the Perkins Lumber Co., of Savannah, and agan, Ga., precipitated the present action of bankruptcy.

572 Delegates Will Line Up in Windy City

STATES ELECT AS THEY WISH

Severe Set Back to New Party is Intricate Machinery of Each State. Serious Trouble When Question of Delegates Arises

WASHINGTON, July 9.—The Bull Moose convention called by the supporters of Col. Roosevelt to meet at Chicago on Aug. 5 will be composed of 532 delegates. There will be one for each United States Senator and one for each member of Congress and six delegates from eight states, territories being excluded.

In the Republican convention there were two delegates for each senator and each member of Congress and six delegates for each territory. In the Bull Moose convention the states will be represented as follows:

Method of Choosing Delegates

There being no Roosevelt party as yet, some prominent man or men, will call a meeting at some central point in each state which will elect delegates. In some states, if time permits, the mass meetings may order primaries. The call for the convention establishes no rule for choosing delegates and each state will be expected to select its members under its own laws. The representation is cut down just to one half of the number of delegates in the Republican convention, excluding the territories and the District of Columbia.

After the convention is held and the candidates are nominated, each state will have to put up an electoral ticket, which must be chosen in compliance with the various state laws regulating elections.

In Virginia, for instance, any voter, by sending his name to the Secretary of State accompanied by the names of two men for witnesses, can be a full fledged candidate for elector for Roosevelt or anybody else. In North Carolina he need not go to that trouble; all he has to do is to have tickets printed bearing his name as an elector.

In Kansas an elector must be elected in a primary.

In New York the law requires that

Our Special Washington Letter COMMENT ON CURRENT EVENTS

WASHINGTON, July 5.—“He may not have his unions Nor yet his rights to kick. But when they push him one too hard He'll always pla yoff sick.”
—Song of the Departments.

There is a greater amount of truth in the touching little balad above than the average young-man-in-business of the outside city ca nrealize.

This is the time of year too when the force of the ditty makes itself felt for the government clerk is preparing to swing the only club he has in his possession if his heartless chief does not accede to his demands.

And thi is the demand: Government clerks want to take off their coats.

At this writing tht temperature in and around Washington is tring to make “old faithful” geysers out of respectable thermometers. A few persons are arranging to fry eggs there, but because it is one of the city's traditions. On the streets men are almost coatless. High legislators and public officials are wearing silk or linen suits. But the government clerk sticks to serge and chevrot. The fourteenth assistant secretary may come into his office at any minute. He may see coatless young men around he place. He may feel hurt. Therefore, the government clerk must keep on his coat lest a worse fate befall him.

Nobody knows just why government clerks were ordered to wear their coat in the summer time. Years of living, it would seem, have convinced the officials of the executive department that when the colored ashman removes his coat it is only fair to let the clerks emulate him. But they have never been convinced. Possibly they would not dismiss the government clerk who took off his coat. But is is positively certain that the man in direct charge would make life unpleasant for him.

So through the early days of summer as it has been in years gone by, the government clerk toiled in his coat, protesting at all times that he was not being fairly treated, and waving his club in defiance.

The elderly chiefs of bureaus having lunched well may retire to their private office and lie down for a space of time. They may even tell Henry at the door to keep al callers out and take off their shoes if they desire, as some of them occasionally do. All chief clerks have lounges. A chief clerk in Washington minus a lounge would be like an army officer without gold lace.

But the clerks continue to swelter.

Their remedy? It is simple. You see the government clerk beside his annual leave is allowed a month of sick leave. Theoretically, he must be sick. As a matter of fact he may o may not be. Thus when the weather grows warmer and governments list of temporary absentees swell until by the first of July the casual observer might suppose the nations capital to be one of the most unhealthy places in the world.

They are all ill. After two days absence they will return to their desks wearing a marked coat of sunburn and describing pitifully how they were assaulted by the demon indigestion. Or possibly it may be three days and their stories of heat prostration may be incoherently linked with descriptions of fighting a bass three feet long.

In any city but the national capital and in any line of employment except the federal government, this practice would have been abandoned years ago.

The modern business man would be the first to remove his coat and would plead with his male bookkeeper to do the same. The male bookkeeper would follow this advice and would remain at work until such time as he would be given his vacation.

It seems funny at first that all the retired politicians and army officers of the so-called “desk-soldier” type stick to formalties despite the weather. The government is the government they argue, and he who is serving this grand and glorious republic must deport himself as befits a public servant. So the government clerks suffer and get even with their bosses by taking as much sick leave as they reasonably can without fear or detection.

July usually sees the end of this federal farce. By that time the gouty generals and the acid tempered rear admirals have hid themselves away to some sweet vacation spot. Congress we will assume, has adjourned and society has gone away leaving the city of Wathington with its endless wheels of government in momeary peace.

Then the younger men of the community come into power. The stringent formality of government service is loosened a bit. The check rein is released and the men are told to go ahead and ‘peel’ or not as they please.

If some of the leading government disciplinarians would drift through the war department or the patent office on a sizzling August day they would receive a shock which would destroy the belief in discipline forever. Side by side the government clerks are working, the older men in thei shirt sleeves and the young men frequently without collars. Then the executive branch of the government really looks like an up to date business plant.

NOW TIME TO DISPENSE WITH CHILD LABOR

In its economic aspects, child labor is wasteful, for the energies of childhood should be expended in growth, physical and mental. It resolves itself into the question as to whether the Nation is richer by so many well grown, well trained and educated to the average citizen or by stunted anaemic ignorant men and women and some consequent riches sequestered in some individual pocket book.

"Child labor," declares a bulletin of a national child labor committee, "means racial degeneracy, the perpetuation of poverty, the enlargement of illiteracy, the disintegration of the family, the increase of crime, the lowering of the wage scale and the swelling of the army of the unemployed."

In 4 states—Ohio, Oklahoma, Illinois and Michigan, provision is made by law where the widowed mother who stays in her home and keeps her young children in school is given an allowance out of the public funds.

As Jean Gordon, of New Orleans, puts it, "Certain the mother does as much for the country in rearing her children as the veterans did in killing her sons."

In France the gradual diminution of the birth rate is giving the government much concern. They realize that "ill fares the land, to hast'ning ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Why protect the baby and neglect the child? Is the pitiful solace of a few dollars a just recompense for the lethal toll that handicaps the just claims of the child to health and to physical development.

That machinery has displaced the hand worker, whose trade was the laborious study of years and made the non-mechanical superintendence with in the easy range of a child, is admitted, but should the child be so used?

The figures obtained by the government and lately published show that, especially in the textile and canning trades north and south and in the northern mining districts more of immature labor is used than can be read with entire complacency.

The Atlantic tragedy which made the world stand against the element of superb self abnegation at the supreme moment. Men did their duty as they saw it, to save the women and children. Failing that stern rule of the sea, accident would be the signal for brutal struggle. But on the last analysis their sacrifice was useless to the world unless the salvation of the helpless is to be continued on land.

There is a hardly a community that would not be benefited if some of its citizens would take an expedition to the North Pole and forget to come back.

The mountain resorts are full, the seaside resorts are full, yet there are people left at home to run things and try to find the wherewith to meet the bills.

The Democratic state executive committee selected a good man for chairman in Hon. Charles A. Webb, of Asheville.

According to government statistics we are all worth six cents a head more than last year. But not all of us have got the six cents.

The Republicans may have whereon to place their hopes for a continuance in power, but we fail to see it.

They have launched Mr. Taft's campaign and it will strike an iceberg about the 5t of November.

As might have been expected, Judge Archbald says the charges against him are untrue.

T. R. says "No, siree," no withdrawal for him.

David Prain

Colonel David Prain, one of the most famous of living botanists, was born in Scotland, July 11, 1857 and received his education at the universities of Aberdeen and Edinburgh. For a year or two after his graduation he was demonstrator of anatomy at the University of Aberdeen. In 1884 he entered the Indian medical service and was curator of the Calcutta herbarium from 1887 to 1898. He left the herbarium to become director of the botanical survey of Indiana, and superintendent of the Royal Botanical Garden in Calcutta. Since 1905 Colonel Prain has been director of the Royal Botanic Gardens, New England's historic national park. One of his predecessors in this position was the world famous botanist, Sir Joseph Hooker.

THE SUN OF KNOWLEDGE Part II

Each day, for millions of years, never failing, the beautiful sun has risen upon this continent, or upon the great waste of waters that covered what is a continent today. Each rising of the sun found the earth better, nearer the perfection that is the earth's destiny.

What the sun in the heavens is to this material planet, education, the of knowledge and progress, is to the human mind. Its rising drives away the colds and promises the new and better day.

Education has done for the mind of man what the sun has done for the planet beneath our feet.

Education has driven away the colds of brutality, superstition, ignorance and hatred—some of them at least. And the clouds that remain grow thinner day by day and the light through them grows clearer.

Men in the beginning were as barbarous and vile, comparatively, as was the old earth in the day of dinosaurs and pterodactyls.

Read the history of men, especially the history of their religious beliefs—reflecting men's own vices and virtues—and you see a picture almost too dreadful for contemplation.

In history you can look upon men when they were all cannibals—except a few too feeble and timid to kill and eat their fellows.

You can look upon nations calling themselves civilized as we call ourselves civilized today, and you find those nations believing that they could please their gods by sacrifices of living beings—even of living human beings.

You find the man of power slaughtering helpless slaves and burying them beneath the corner stone of a new house "to bring good luck and propitiate the evil spirits"

And later you found conditions as vile—in fact, since they existed side by side with intelligence and knowledge fairly well developed.

You found in Europe in the Middle Ages and later men possessing the knowledge accumulated by the Greeks and Romans burning one another alive.

You found the heads of different religions, each in the name of a Being who had given up His life for the poor, burning, torturing and cursing all that failed to agree with their view—although they had the same God.

You could see men burned alive because they discovered new truths, you could see them threatened with death because they had dared to announce that the earth was round. You could find human beings pretending to exercise the powers of God—savages in the African jungle with doctors fooling a chief into believing he had swallowed a little alligator, or equally preposterous leaders of religion in Europe of various denominations leading rulers to believe that they could give eternal happiness for a financial consideration or punish with eternal hell and damnation the withholding of that financial consideration.

This was a vile earth in the savage days before our beautiful sun had begun to put it in order. It is bad enough still with its deserts and its swamps, but it shows sign of improvement.

This was a vile earth of ours, before the great and beautiful sun of education had begun to put the human mind in order. It is bad enough still, with its prejudices, its superstition, its hatred, its wars, its billions for battle, its coldness toward the poor.

But it is a better world than it was; the light is breaking; those that have their faces turned toward the sun of knowledge see the clouds disappearing, know that the full day is coming and hope that it is not far off.

Among those that in the old days made and worshipped the gods of their own manufacture or invention, the most dignified perhaps were the sun worshippers. They worshipped the most beautiful thing within the range of their vision.

We do not any longer worship inanimate objects. And those that are intelligent do not worship any limitation of many, any revengeful, repulsive, torturing and hating creature. We are not sun worshippers but we are in a mental sense worshippers of the new sun, the sun of knowledge and education, the sun that will make them men equal, that will put light in the dark places, the sun that is destined in the years to come to answer upon this planet that most beautiful prayer, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven".

"The Most Available Democrat."

Mr. Wilson and Republicans The Springfield Republican, one of the ablest republican daily papers in the country, in discussing the chaotic condition of the republican party, sums up the condition thus:

"There are already three kind of Roosevelt men. First, there are those who are stick closely to the republican party and vote for Taft, and Gov. Hadley of Missouri is their most notable representative. Second, there are the kind who will go straight over to the democrats, attracted by Wilson and they are well represented by Gov. Osborn. Third, there are those who will follow Mr. Roosevelt, with fanatical loyalty, whether he may lead them, and they are best represented by men like pinchot, Mr. Perkins and Mr. Munsey. The simple fact that his former following is thus divided, leaving the 'colonel with but a fraction of his preconvention support, must be admitted to be a very discouraging phase of the situation for the proposed new party; and nothing but Mr. Roosevelt's own determination to be a candidate can now keep the movement for a new party alive.

Far more significant than the attitude of such men, however, is the purpose of the other contingent to line up with Wilson. As direct actionists, they command respect. They know the shortest distance between two points, and they are not afraid to submit to the logic of the situation. If Roosevelt was defeated for the republican nomination by fraud and robbery the best and surest way to rebuke the outrage is to support the democratic candidate, who was nominated after one of the fairest contests, in response to an overwhelming public sentiment. If the Roosevelt movement is primarily against the bosses, as he declares, then Wilson becomes an ideal candidate, inasmuch as no one has ever bossed his and his nomination was brought about in defiance of every boss in the democratic party. Why run off with a new party to rebuke bossism, with Woodrow Wilson in the field?

It is more apparent today than before since the Chicago convention that there is nothing to the new party movement but a personality. If Mr. Roosevelt should decide to make a campaign for the presidency not only against president Taft but against Woodrow Wilson, the only issue he could present worth the country's consideration would be Roosevelt. Those who should support him would stake everything on to man; the party gathered up in his train would disappear like the mist before the morning sun the movement Roosevelt's personality was eliminated from our politics. Such parties are not needed in this country, in fact, they have dangerous qualities while their leaders survive, owing to the devotion of the rank and file to a mere hero instead of to a cause or a great ideal.

In its broader aspects of patriotic service to the Republic and to democratic democracy rather than an imperialistic democracy, the Wilson nomination is being swiftly vindicated by the attraction it has for so many of Mr. Roosevelt's former adherents.—Ex.

Press Comment

Woman's Honesty.

The testimony of Bert H. Franklin in the Darrow trial affords an interesting glimpse of the feminine conscience. When Franklin was cross-examined regarding his alleged employment to bribe McNamara jurors, he said:

"I went home to Mrs. Franklin and told her that if I got off with two years and served my time, which I thought it was my duty to do, she would be taken care of by Mr. Darrow, and her remarks to me at that time was what caused me to change. She said: 'Bert, I admire the stand you are taking and I agree with you on what you have said, but if you bring $1 of dishonest money into my house I will leave you in 24 hours.'"

This is a type of woman who does not figure conspicuously in the news by reasons of a fad or folly, or even a Cause. Yet it is of such women of simple honesty that the majority of the sex is composed. Their notions of right and wrong have remained unclouded by any sophistry of self-interest, and they confirm such by examples as this the general masculine faith in the sensitiveness of the feminine conscience.—New York World.

states get their rights in the republican convention their delegates will be gone home in their underclothes if not in barrels.

Most of the southern delegates would be overindulged if they were given spectators' seat. The only time there is a republican party in the south is when it sends about all its members who are able to travel up north as delegates. We hope it will grow, and it is growing in some states in the south, but the froud of misrepresentation does not encourage it.—Chicago Tribune.

If You Don't Like The Town

If you don't like the kind of town that this town seems to be, If buildings here are tumbled down A way you hate to see, If sometimes isn't up-to-date, Or good as things of old, While other town are simply great (Or so you have been told);

If you would like to see a place That's full of push and snap, A town that hits a faster pace, A town that's on the map; Yes, if away you'd like to know To find it in a jerk, I'll tell you where you ought to go— You ought to go to work.

Regarding Rome.

Rome once upon her seven hills Sent out her troops and spanked the world. Put over lands between the thills, On ev'ry sea her flag unfurled. And I'm for Julius Caesar now. Although that gentleman is dead, Because of such a life he led, That copped the prize in ev'ry row.

J. Caesar put Rome on map. He advertised it near and far; He mixed in ev'ry kind of scrap— At boosting Julius was a star. He talked about it when at home, He bragged about it when away, Until from Britin to Cathay They heard about the town of Rome.

I wish we had some Romans here, The regular, stem-winder kind Who'd whoop it up through all the years And leave the other town behind. I wish we had some Caesar, too, This good old town to advertise Until it grew to twice the size With brotherhood as thick as glue.

Let's get together, you and I; We've got a town that's the while Let's open up amit a cry That other folks can hear a mile. Let's talk about this burg so dear Until it gets so big a thing They'll run excursion trains to bring The folks who want to settle here.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

THE glorious Fourth is a patriotic anniversary which the reform element is now trying to reduce to the proportions of a pink tea. It was produced at great expense by the war of the revolution, at the close of which G. Washington unhooked the British yoke and returned it to George the Third by express, collect. Owing to the tireless and vigilant efforts of people who object to parting with any of their sleep, the modern Fourth bids fair to become about as exciting as a meeting of the W. C. T. U. The old fashioned, double barreled firecracker, which could lift a stout man several feet off the pavement, is no more. No longer is the small boy allowed to spill patriotism out of the mouth of a toy cannon or dedicate freedom's cause anew with his fragments. If a man wants any fireworks at his house, he has to manufacture them on the premises. What has become of the good old Fourth of July celebration when people gathered on the river bank and watched the skyrocket and the Roman candle and went home with patriotic impulses and a stiff neck? If this things keep up, there won't be anything left of the glorious Fourth but a sermon in six chapters, a family reunion and the supine pin wheel. Many a man in this country has forgotten everything else that happened during his childhood except the Fourth of July circus and his first introduction to the paper torpedo and the gunpowder fuse. Nobody objects to a sane Fourth if it isn't so blooming sane that nobody can tell it from the annual meeting of the Old Settler's Association. The boy who has never set off a bunch of firecrackers inside of a tin can or whistled "Yankee Doodle to the accompaniment of a torpedo case has missed something that he'll never get back. There ought to be one day in the year when the boy can make all the noise he wants to, and this is the day. Let him go to it.

To Build-Up Fine Industry The live-stock and dairy industry of North Carolina is now receiving attention and the State Agricultural Department is endeavoring not only to stir greater interest in this matter, but to teach scientific methods, so that better results may be obtained. Special attention just at present is being paid to western North Carolina and there a representative has been to infuse vigorous life into the industry. He reports that he was much gratified with what he found, and he is very optimistic about what will be accomplished in these lines. What is specially needed, he reports, is more scientific methods. Showing the interest and the chance for big benefit he cites the case of one farmer who during the past year sold $8,300 worth of milk from 22 cows and netted fine profit.

It is well for the farmers of North Carolina to pay attention to the dairy and live-stock industry, and they will thereby not only profit themselves but benefit their respective communities. This, along with diversification of crops, will enter the farmers, both of the eastern and western parts of North Carolina, firmly in a commanding position, and as the farms are the very backbone why the State will thus grow even stronger.—Wilmington Dispatch.

Frand Hurts The South That most genial friend of man, Gen. Powell Clayton of Arkansas, member of the republican national committee and crop on the republic, arrives early on the scene of convention activities, "grim and determined," to see to it that the southern states get their rights.

With the best wishes of the world for General Clayton, we trust that he does not succeed. If the southern

Plenty of Room In Professions For Right Men

By Dr. JOHN GRIER HIBBEN, President of Princeton University

I DO not share the general alarm over the so called overcrowding of the professions. I feel, as Daniel Webster put it, that there is ALWAYS ROOM AT THE TOP. The world is continually in search of really able and talented men, and there are not beginning to be enough nowadays to meet the supply.

The trouble arises from the fact that a great many men are simply of MEDIOCRE ABILITY and lack the energy and enterprise necessary to reach the top. In other words, they do not work hard enough and are careless in the preparation for their life work.

GOOD MEN ARE EVERYWHERE IN DEMAND, AND SO FAR FROM THE PROFESSIONS BEING OVERCROWDED THERE IS A LAMENTABLE LACK OF REALLY ACCOMPLISHED MEN.

Social and Personal

Migh Hearted.

Because I built my nest so high,
Must I despair
If a fierce wind, with bitter cry,
Passes the lower branch by,
And mine makes bare?

Because I hung in my pride,
So near he skies,
Higher than other nests abide,
Must I lament if far and wide
It scattered lies?

I shall build and build my nest,
Till safety won.
I hang aloft my new-made nest,
High as of old, and see it rest,
As near the sun.

—Dollie Runford.

GRIMESLAND, N. C., July 8.—The farmers are now busy curing tobacco.

Rev. Mr. Burges filled his regular appointment at Salem Sunday. We invite you all to come out to hear him, for we believe he is one of God's children.

Messrs. Lester Edwards and Snowbird, Ben Buck and Guy, attended the picnic at Epworth Friday.

Miss Bertha Edwards was all smiles Sunday. Guess why? (Something unusual.)

Maggie and Bertha say they certainly did enjoy those cocacolas. We could too, if we had some one to bring them to us.

Mr. Oscar Edward and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday at the home of Mr. J. W. Edwards.

We are sorry that one of our boys got worried Sunday night while at the home of his friend.

We are sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Annie Corbitt. She leaves a number of children and friends to mourn their loss.

We are very glad to learn that we have right here in our midst two beauty specialists. They say that all those who desire to be pretty can be, providing they apply themselves to the directions of their simple treatment. We regret very much that we did not learn of this discovery sooner, for we have observed that something has had a telling effect upon them and by their popularity, we deem it necessary to get their prescription in order to possess that great worldly happiness. We are proud of them and wish to extend to them our heartiest congratulations and many thanks for giving one of our boys a prescription. For further information we refer you to Misses Magie Hudson and Bertha Edwards, who say that they want to see God's people share with them in this great endowment.

From Woman's View-Point

The Tacit Guest—How Many Week-Ends are Harmed—Be Considerate
Into the life of the hospitably inclined has crept the institution known as "week end entertaining". This is a boon to those invited for brief breathing spells from hot city homes of offices.

But sometimes it is a bug bear to the hostess who finds all too late that she has been invited either an uncongenial, an inconsiderate or a tiresome guest or group to make her home theirs for the over Sunday stay that can be so delightful if harmony prevails.

Most of the trouble lies with the guest. No woman who goes to the trouble of asking company, anticipating for it, is likely to spoil her pleasure by any freakishness on her part—especially under her own roof.

But alas! Many a guest so far for gets the ethics of visitation by putting forth little personal prejudices and airing personal views, at variance with the plans laid by the hostess. So before a day has passed the latter wishes that time would speed the parting guest, and never welcome him or her again.

There is a certain well defined duty that should be maintained in the relations of hostess and guest. The latter must remember that unless the house where he or she is entertained is of the palatial variety, with a retinue of servants, that there have been many extra steps taken to make the visit pleasant and more necessarily have to be taken during the day. For company, no matter how easy or congenial, is company and can't be treated exactly like the family.

Perhaps the most unpleasant type of house guest, is the one who assumes the attitude of being one of the family and intrudes on scenes not intended even for intimates. Or through a perverted spirit of helpfulness, a woman often insists upon putting away dishes, linen etc., generally in places where the flurried woman of the house has to hunt all of the following week to locate them.

In visits of this sort the guests should in every way make their desires and tastes accord as far as possible with the plans laid for them. If there are at variance with their preferences, instead of baldly asserting the fact. They can with tact so gracefully get around the situation that the hostess will not have her feelings hurt and will not dream that she has gone on the wrong track in her effort to give her guests a pleasant time.

It should be remembered that there is a debt of courtesy and gratitude due the one who has asked you to her house. She is doing her best to entertain you pleasantly and you should reciprocate by a proper consideration of her efforts. If she falls in one thing—another will compensate, for it would be a crank indeed that could not get a certain amount of pleasure from these week end breathing spells, that country friends offer.

If the entertainment does not come up to the standard of the visitors' wishes or taste, they can stay away next time. But while under a friend's roof let them remember always the duty they owe.

tered upon his seventy-fifth year today. Mr. Wannamaker was born in Philadelphia and has been a life long resident of this city, with the exception of a brief period of his youth when he was a clerk in a store in Indiana.

FADS AND FASHIONS

White is still the proper shade in gloves, but tans are also good form, and the various shades of taupe are growing in popularity.

Scarfs, small capes and short wraps are made of bright colored tafetta. These are popular to wear with the lingerie dresses.

Thin Cantilly lace veils in rose, worked in fine black silk thread, are said to improve the appearance of the complexion.

Charmink hats for little girls are made of beige colored straw. The puffed crowns are of flowered tafetta. A single flower is fastened artistically at the left side.

Petticoats of crepe de chine, pongee and china silk as well as of mesaline and very soft tafetta, are trimmed with pleated flounces that have no underlay.

Pumps and colonial models, with very short vamps that show to advantage the unusually lovely silk stockings of today, are among the most popular models.

Black satin evenin slippers have heels studded with brilliants. Extremely pretty are the black satin models with heels covered with either cloth of gold or silver.

To Make Speech on Gallows

ARKANSAS CITY, Ark., July 11.—Unless Governor Donaghey changes his mind at the eleventh hour and grants a commutation, W. S. Rhea, the young white planter whose case has attracted wide attention, will be hanged tomorrow in the Desha county jail. Rhea continues to maintain that he is not guilty of the crime of which he was convicted and says he will make a speech on the gallows declaring his innocence.

Rhea was convicted at Pine Bluff last October of murder in the first degree, it being charged that he led a mob of negroes who shot and killed Constable Vital Orchard on the night of May 13, 1911, while the officer had in custody Grant Sanders, a negro wanted for murder in Saline county, but who had been working on the plantation managed by Rhea.

Kitchen Craft

An attractive and convenient way to serve a salad to a large family is to arrange it on a large platter.

Make a border of lettuce or celery leaves and set a small bowl or dish in the center. Put crisp lettuce leaves round the bowl, nearly hiding it; then arrange the mixed vegetable or the potato or fish salad in a mound on each side. Sometimes two kinds of vegetable salad are made, says the Portland Express and Advertiser, especially if there is but little of any one kind of cold vegetable on hand; the ends of the platter will then present a contrast of color. Pour mayonnaise, boiled or plain oil dressing into the bowl. Each person can help himself to what he likes and also the amount of dressing his taste prefers.

Following the fashion of individual service, many housekeepers have all salads prepared tastefully in the kitchen on small plates; but if served on a large dish or smaller portion can be taken, which at the family table is worth considering.

Still another, and time honored way is to mix the dressing and salad at the table; to many an added zest is given by this method. Salad is economical, appetizing, the easiest sort of

Hurry, Fret and Worry Curse of Every American

By the Rev. A. EUGENE BARTLETT of Chicago

AMERICANS ARE GOOD WORKERS, BUT VERY POOR WAITERS. They cleared the forests in a quick, wasteful way for their first planting. They did not stop for a careful survey before they laid out the streets in many an eastern city. They simply LET THE COWS LAY OUT THE PATHS and hastily made them afterward into streets.

Because Americans are unwilling to wait for a properly finished product we have many things manufactured with little reference to quality. So many are asking HOW CHEAP RATHER THAN HOW GOOD, that there is always a market for the inferior good sold at bargain prices.

EVERYWHERE THROUGHOUT AMERICA WE SEE THE EVIDENCES OF HURRY, FEVER, FRET. MEN ARE IGNORING NATURAL PROCESSES. THEY ARE TEARING OPEN BUDS TO SEE WHY THE BLOSSOMS ARE SO SLOW IN COMING OUT.

BULL MOOSE PARTY READY

a candidate for elector be nominated by one of the parties in existence or that he get a certain number of signers to a petition asking that he be put on the ticket.

Many Complications

There are endless complications. The voter does not vote directly for Roosevelt, Taft or Wilson, but for electors, under the laws of the several states. The machinery that stands between the candidate of a new born party and the ballot is very complicated in some states.

It will be difficult for Roosevelt to get out his electoral ticket in New York. In some states a simple request to be registered as a candidate for a Roosevelt elector is sufficient to get in the race, but in others an elector must be put on by primary, petition or some other means.

There is no law to compel an elector to vote for any particular candidate. If a Roosevelt elector decides to vote for Taft or Wilson after he is elected there is no law to prevent his doing it. The obligation is a moral one.

Mail Carriers Will Fly

NEW MOTIVE POWER

A New Kind of Fish Story Comes From Pamlico County.

NEWBURN, July 7.—It is a comparatively easy matter for any man with enough patience and perseverance to train any specimen of wild animal to perform some manner of labor and to make itself useful, but it remained for a Pamlico county fisherman to utilize a fish in his business. The following account of the affair was told here yesterday by one of that county's most prominent citizens who vouches for its authenticity.

Several months ago Frank Sauls, fisherman living near Smiths inlet, caught a large shark in his net. He succeeded in getting the fish ashore alive and at once dug a pool into which he placed his catch and where he exhibited it to friends. He owned a light flat bottomed skiff and conceived the idea of attaching the fish to the boat and using it for motive power. Several attempts were made toward this end and till failed until at last the owner of the boat hit upon a plan which he has proved successful so far. He secured a roll of very heavy wire netting with large meshes and built a cage beneath the boats bottom. He then placed the fish in the cage, closed up the front end and prepared for the trial trip.

At last the big fish cut the water into a froth and it looked as though the plan would be a failure. However, Sauls, after several weeks of patient practicing, has learned his "motor" to start only when a sharp ened nail is touched to his back and to stop when a slide is shoved down through the bottom of the craft in front of his face. The craft can be seen at any time by all visiting that place.
